Revised 2010 Edition

Maulana Muhammad Ali's English translation of the Quran was the first English translation by a Muslim to be available generally, and the first Muslim translation published in the West, in 1917.

It included a comprehensive commentary: discussing meanings of Arabic words, reviewing earlier interpretations, citing authorities wherever he differed with previous views, removing misconceptions about Islam and refuting objections raised by Western criticism.

Later Muslim translators, such as Pickthall, Yusuf Ali, and Muhammad Asad, benefitted greatly from this pioneering work. "Pickthall's work is not very much more than a revision of the Ahmadiyya [M. Ali] version"— The Muslim World, July 1931.

Some of its many reviews:

"To deny the excellence of Maulvi Muhammad Ali's translation, the influence it has exercised and its proselytising utility would be to deny the light of the sun." — Abdul Majid Daryabadi, in Such, Lucknow, India, 1934.

"Among human productions of literary masterpieces, the English translation of the Holy Book by Maulvi Muhammad Ali undoubtedly claims a position of distinction and pre-eminence." — United India and Indian States, 1929.

"... few translations into English have reached such a high standard." — Madras Mail, 1929.

"[I] greatly admire the general arrangement. As for the English rendering, I am impressed ... with the simplicity and precision and the adherence to the text which indicate the reverence due to God's own Word from a true believer." — Mohammad Ali Jauhar, Indian Muslim nationalist leader, 1918.

"Probably no man living has done longer or more valuable service for the cause of Islamic revival than Maulana Muhammad Ali of Lahore." — Marmaduke Pickthall, 1936, reviewing a later work by Maulana Muhammad Ali.

In the present, revised (2010) edition, the Arabic text has not been included. The language of the translation has been updated where necessary, and the notes have been abridged and edited.

Preface

The English translation of the Holy Quran with extensive explanatory footnotes, by Maulana Muhammad Ali (d. 1951), was first published in 1917. It was the first English translation and commentary by a Muslim to be generally available in the world.¹ The 1917 and several subsequent editions were printed in England and distributed from the Muslim mission at the Woking Mosque in England. This work remained the only Muslim English translation for several years. It was widely acclaimed as being an accurate, faithful, and true rendering, one which was desperately needed. It influenced all the major later English translations.

Maulana Muhammad Ali's translation was not merely an academic or literary exercise. It was done to refute the vast mass of misrepresentations of Islam by its Western critics, to convey the faith-reviving and heart-inspiring light of Islam to the world, to show how Islamic teachings are applicable to solving the problems of modern times, and to teach and guide both the Western-educated Muslims and English-speaking new Muslim converts. Towards the end of his life, Maulana Muhammad Ali thoroughly revised his translation and commentary, the revised edition being published in 1951. The translation was made simpler and the commentary was brought up to date with the changed circumstances prevailing after the Second World War.

The language of the translation was solemn and dignified, as befits a Divine scripture, yet it was also plain and easy to understand, aimed at the level of an educated reader having a reasonable standard of English. However, due to changes in the usage and teaching of English in the second half of the twentieth century, such a reader today is much less familiar with certain forms and styles of literary expression used in the translation than was the case with previous generations. To bring the language closer to the general readership, it became necessary to replace some expressions by more modern forms. This has been my aim in producing the present updated version of the translation, while showing reverence to the original work and remaining as close as possible to the language used by Maulana Muhammad Ali.

The factor of greatest assistance during this editing work has been that the Maulana has himself in some places used more modern terms and in other places older styles to translate the same original words. Utilising this, I have been able to select his own phraseology to replace the older expressions. Thus, in the work of updating the translation in various places, I have applied the wording used by him elsewhere if such could be suitably found.

The most noticeable change is the replacement of the second person singular forms, 'thou', 'thee', 'thy', etc. by 'you' and 'your'. In fact, in the Preface to his first edition published in 1917, the Maulana wrote: "I have, however, given up the antiquated thou (except when the Divine Being is addressed)". In that edition he added a marginal column on the left of the translation, in which he indicated whether 'you' in the line of text opposite was the singular 'thou'. In his revised 1951 edition, he removed this margin as unnecessary and used the 'thou' forms within the translation itself. I have reverted to the usage of the 1917 edition, but have employed the convention that whenever 'you' is in the singular the letter y is printed in italics as in: you, your. When God is addressed, which is always in the singular in the Quran, I have also used "You", with capital "Y", instead of "Thou" and "Thee".

The next most prominent change is also a reversion to the first edition, and that is in the use of the negative. In the revised 1951 edition the Maulana has used constructions such as "you know not", "they see not", etc. I have restored the style of his 1917 edition in which these are of the form: "you do not know", "they do not see", etc.

I will illustrate other changes by giving examples. The Maulana has used the words aught and naught in many places in the translation, but in other places exactly the same Arabic text has been translated using anything, nothing, in the least and at all. The particle bal is usually translated by him as nay, but in some places it is translated as rather, but or yet. In some places the more traditional that which (as in that which Allah has revealed) has been used by him but in others the simpler what (as in what Allah has revealed). The word translated as iniquitous is often also rendered as unjust or wrongdoer, the word translated as tarry is sometimes remain or stay, and hosts is sometimes forces or army. In each of these and similar cases I have used the latter words, which are more common, to replace the former, less familiar ones.

The Arabic preposition min is often used to indicate that a person belongs to a certain group, as for example in the translation: “if he is of (min) the truthful” (12:27, 12:51), “he is of (min) the liars” (12:26) or “if thou art of (min) the truthful” (26:31). The same kind of expression is elsewhere translated more simply as in the examples: “if thou art truthful” (26:154, 26:187), “I think him a liar” (28:38). I have substituted the latter style for the former, except if the change would not suit the context. Another type of similar instance is as in constructions such as “of them is he (min-hum man) who believes ... and of them is he who turns away” (4:55). Elsewhere the construction used is: “some of them believed and some of them denied” (2:253). Again, I have replaced the former by the latter.

I have also tried, as far as possible, to make the translation of the same phrase consistent in all its occurrences by using one of the wordings employed for it by the Maulana, if he had used different wording in different places. However, in certain places this has not been done because there was a clear reason for the difference, such as better suiting the context.

In some of those cases in which it was necessary to revise a word or phrase, I could not find a suitable alternative used elsewhere by the Maulana. In those instances, I have used my own judgment to make the revision while restricting myself to the Maulana’s style and language as far as possible.

In a Preface I cannot list and explain every type of revision. Anyone interested in knowing the reason for any particular changes that are not explained here should contact me.

In clarification of certain points, I have consulted not only the 1917 edition of the Maulana's English translation but also his Urdu translation with extensive commentary known as Bayan-ul-Quran. I would also mention that in case of some verses I have compared other English translations of the Quran, old and new, to form a judgment as to the most suitable level of language.

It is clear that Maulana Muhammad Ali produced his translation to the highest standard of literary scholarship and he used words, expressions, phrases and styles that reflect the original Arabic with great precision, perhaps unmatched by any other English translation. In my effort to update its language, and bring it closer to current usage, it was inevitable that in some places its high literary level would be reduced and the new expressions employed be somewhat less precise than those which they replace.

Maulana Muhammad Ali had also produced two editions of his translation without including the Arabic text and with much condensed footnotes, in order to make available a handier book for the general reader.¹ Following the same approach in the present work, the Arabic text has not been included, and the footnote content has been abridged although not nearly by the extent of reduction in the Maulana's two editions. Taking the footnotes from his revised 1951 edition (as also found in its subsequent reprints), I have eliminated the detailed lexical discussion of the range of meaning of words and the explanation of the variety of views about the interpretation of the text. Only the conclusion reached by the Maulana as to the explanation of the verses is retained. Occasionally the abridgment has required some insignificant rephrasing of his original words.

Those who wish to benefit from the Maulana's full, scholarly commentary are referred to the reprints of his 1951 edition.

1. The first such edition was published in 1928, which was reprinted in 1951. A revised version of the same work was published in 1948.

At certain points in the footnotes it was necessary to make some further comment on a text, due mainly to issues and questions that have arisen in recent years. To meet this need I have added my own comments, marked as Editor's Note. These occur within existing footnotes and also as additional footnotes. In three places (21:85, 33:72, 55:33), footnotes have been added based on suggestions made by the late Mr N.A. Faruqi, a leading figure of the Ahmadiyya Anjuman Lahore who was much involved in the Quran translation and publication work of this movement. He had sent me a brief draft of that material.

The introductory notes at the head of the chapters have had to be abridged considerably and therefore they have been re-worded.

As in the two editions produced by the Maulana which do not include the Arabic text, I have laid out the translation in continuous running form, not starting each verse on a new line. However, for ease of reading as well as comprehension I have divided most sections further into paragraphs. Note that the division of the longer chapters of the Quran into sections is only found in certain parts of the Muslim world, such as the Indian subcontinent. The headings given to sections is a feature of our English translations; these are not in the Arabic text of the Quran.

This edition carries an Introduction consisting of a life of the Holy Prophet Muhammad and some information about the Quran, its teachings, and the history of its compilation, all taken from writings of Maulana Muhammad Ali as indicated there.

I cannot bring this Preface to a close without a mention of my association with the publication which I have edited to produce the present work. It was in 1978 that I first carried out a detailed, close reading of the latest reprint of the 1951 edition of the English translation and commentary of the Holy Quran by Maulana Muhammad Ali in order to identify typographical errors and inconsistencies in preparation for the next reprint. The list of corrections and other suggestions that I thus compiled was gone through in detail in Lahore by Mr N.A. Faruqi and Mr Muhammad Ahmad, son of Maulana Muhammad Ali. In 1981 Mr Faruqi referred to this in his obituary of Muhammad Ahmad as follows:

“Muhammad Ahmad’s work in the revision of the seventh edition of the English translation and commentary of the Holy Quran, now under print, was equally painstaking. For that revision, the original spadework done by Dr. Zahid Aziz was the most thorough job I have ever seen. But to collate and give final shape to the suggestions made by Dr. Zahid Aziz and several others, Muhammad Ahmad spent long evenings with me after his office hours.”¹

In 1990 it was proposed to re-typeset the entire work. I made detailed suggestions for a new, improved design and layout which were carefully scrutinised by the Head of the Ahmadiyya Anjuman Lahore, Dr Saeed Ahmad Khan, the Vice-President Mr N.A. Faruqi, and other senior members of the Anjuman. The new edition incorporating these suggestions was published in the USA in 2002. I was in charge of the proof reading of the newly composed text. The index in that edition was also enlarged by me by about 50% from the previous one by Maulana Muhammad Ali. This background has been indicated in the Foreword by Dr Saeed Ahmad Khan and Mr Faruqi, and in the Publisher’s Note written by me, in that edition.²

I have outlined this history to show that my previous experience equipped me somewhat, and inspired me, to carry out the present revision.

I wish to express my thanks to Mr Shaukat Ali, Coordinator of the Ahmadiyya Anjuman Lahore for the Asia and Pacific Region, for pointing out some typographical errors.

The responsibility for all aspects of this revision rests with me, and I crave forgiveness from Allah as well as from the readers of this edition for any flaws in this production.

Introduction

1. Life of the Prophet Muhammad*

Before prophethood

It was in the year 571 C.E. that the Prophet Muhammad was born. He came of the noblest family of Arabia, the Quraish, who were held in the highest esteem, being guardians of the Sacred House at Makkah, the Ka'bah, the spiritual centre of the whole of Arabia. At the time of his birth Arabia was steeped deep in the worst form of idolatry that has ever prevailed in any country. The Ka'bah itself was full of idols, and every household had, in addition, its own idols. Unhewn stones, trees and heaps of sand were also worshipped. In spite of this vast and deep-rooted idolatry, the Arabs were materialistic, "eat and drink" being the tone of most of their poetry. There was practically no faith in the life after death, no feeling of responsibility for one's actions. The Arabs, however, believed in demons, and diseases were attributed to the influence of evil spirits.

Ignorance prevailed among the high as well as the low, so much so that the noblest of men could boast of his ignorance. There was no moral code, and vice was rampant. Sexual relations were loose, obscene poems and songs were recited in public assemblies. There was no punishment for, nor any moral sanction against, illicit sexual relations. Prostitution had nothing dishonourable about it, so that leading men could keep brothels. Women were in the most degraded position, looked upon as a mere chattel. Instead of having any right to inheritance of property, a woman herself formed part of the inheritance, and the heir could dispose of her as he liked. There was no settled government, no law in the land, and might was practically right.

The Arabs belonged to one race and spoke one language, yet they were the most disunited people. Tribe made war on tribe, and family on family, on the most trivial excuse. The strong among them trampled upon the rights of the weak, and the weak could not get their wrongs redressed. The widow and the orphan were quite helpless and slaves were treated most cruelly.

Among this people was born the Prophet Muhammad. His father Abdullah had died before his birth and he lost even his mother Āminah when he was six years old. On the death of his mother, the charge of the child fell to his paternal grandfather, Abdul Muttalib. Barely two years had elapsed, however, when Abdul Muttalib also died. Thus he was eight years old when his guardianship passed to his paternal uncle, Abu Talib.

He came of the noblest family of the Quraish, yet, like most of the rest of his countrymen, he was not taught reading and writing. He tended sheep for some time, but in his youth he was chiefly occupied in trade. It was, however, his high morals that distinguished him from the first from all his compatriots. The Holy Quran, which contains the most trustworthy account of the Prophet's life, says that he was the possessor of "sublime morals" (68:4).

Leading generally a reserved life, he had for friends only those men whose moral greatness was admitted by all. His truthfulness is testified in the clearest words (6:33). His bitterest opponents were challenged to point out a single black spot on his character during the forty years that he had passed among them before he received the Divine call (10:16). It was in his youth that, on account of his pure and unsoiled character and his love for truth and honesty, he won from his compatriots the title of al-Amīn, or the Faithful.

Living in a country in which idol-worship was the basis of the everyday life of the community, Muhammad hated idolatry from his childhood, and the Holy Quran is again our authority for the statement that he never bent his forehead before an idol (109:4). Though he lived in a city in which drinking orgies were only too common, never did a drop of alcohol touch his lips. Even Abu Bakr, the most intimate friend of the Prophet's youth, never tasted alcohol. The society at Makkah found pleasure in gambling, yet never did Muhammad take part in any such pastime. He lived among a people who were addicted to war as they were addicted to drinking, yet he had no liking for either.

Above all, his earlier life was marked by that rare characteristic, rarest of all in Arabia at the time, love of the poor, the orphan, the widow, the weak, the helpless and the slave. Before he had affluence of means, he was one of the members who took an oath to stand by the oppressed and formed themselves into a league as champions of the injured.

A highly-placed widow, Khadijah, hearing of the righteousness of Muhammad, entrusted to him the sole charge of her business. Before long, much profit accrued to her through his honest dealings. These dealings gave evidence of his high morals and it was this circumstance which led Khadijah to make a proposal for marriage. Thus was he married, at the age of twenty-five, to a widow, fifteen years older than himself.* After his marriage, he spent freely for the help of the poor.

To these great qualities was added his anxiety for a fallen humanity. The Quran refers to it repeatedly (9:128, 18:6, 26:3, 35:8). As years went on, the gross idolatry of the Arabs and their evil ways pressed the more heavily on his heart, and he spent hours in solitude in the neighbouring mountains.

Shortly before he reached the age of forty, he began to immerse himself more frequently in solitary meditation. Retiring to a cave known as Hira, he would give himself up to Divine contemplation for days. Meanwhile, he received many visions, which came to fulfilment to the very letter. While thus absorbed in Divine worship in the cave of Hira, the angel Gabriel appeared before him one night, in the month of Ramadan, in the year 609 C.E., with the first revelation (see 96:1–5). This was the first day when the heavy responsibility of prophethood was placed on his shoulders. The right path in the quest of which he had been so long engaged was at last revealed to him. It was made known to him at the same time that the stupendous charge of human reformation was to rest on his shoulders. At first, he was in doubt whether he would be able to perform the great task, but his anxiety soon gave place to absolute faith that truth would ultimately triumph, and he set to work with a strength of will and an inflexibility of purpose which could not be shaken by the severest opposition of the whole of Arabia.

From the very first his message was for all, for the Arab as well as the non-Arab, for the idolaters as well as the Jews, the Christians and the Magi. Nor was it limited to the town of Makkah, for Makkah was the centre to which men and women flocked in thousands every year from all parts of Arabia, and through this assemblage the Prophet's message reached the most distant corners of Arabia. His wife, Khadijah, was the first to believe in him, and she was followed by others who were either his most intimate friends or closely related to him.

His first revelations laid stress on the great power and majesty of the Divine Being and on the inevitability of the judgment. The Quraish mocked at first, treated him contemptuously and called him a madman. In spite of this he went on gaining adherents by twos and threes, until within four years the number reached forty and persecution grew bitter. At first the slaves were tortured. But the fire of persecution once kindled could not be confined. Converts of high birth were made to suffer along with the poorer followers. The Prophet himself did not escape the cruelties of the persecutors. The Muslims could not gather together or say their prayers in a public place. Still the Prophet Muhammad went on gaining new adherents, and his opponents became severer in their persecution, so much so that some of the humbler converts were put to death in a most brutal manner.

treatment of innocent men and women, and in spite of the fact that he would be left alone amongst exasperated opponents, he advised the small band of his followers to betake themselves to a place of safety. Eleven men and women left Makkah in the fifth year of the Prophet's mission, and migrated to Abyssinia. To there they were followed by a deputation of their opponents that petitioned the ruler of Abyssinia for their extradition. The Muslim case was put by their leader before the Christian king. The king was deeply touched by this statement and by a recitation from the Holy Quran, and refused to deliver the Muslims to their enemies. More Muslims went to Abyssinia next year, until the total reached 101, excluding children. The Quraish tried their utmost to check this tide of emigration, but in vain. Soon they became exasperated beyond all measure at the Prophet and the little band of Muslims that remained with him at Makkah. Not being able to prevail upon Abu Talib, the head of the Hashimites (the Prophet's family), to hand the Prophet over to them to end his life, and failing to tempt the Prophet by offering him kingship, wealth and beauty, they at last entered into a league and shut up the Hashimites and the Muslims in a small quarter, where they suffered the utmost privations for three long years, being allowed liberty of action only during the time of pilgrimage. These three years were the years of the hardest suffering for the Muslims, and Islam itself made little progress during this time.

Released at last from this imprisonment, the Prophet, though facing disappointment on all sides, had still as much faith in the triumph of the truth as ever. If Makkah was now quite deaf to his preaching, he would turn elsewhere. He went to Ta'if, another great city of Arabia. Here, however, he found the ground even harder than at Makkah. He was not allowed to stay in Ta'if after ten days, and as he walked back he was pelted with stones. Dripping with blood and not even allowed by his persecutors to take rest, he at last returned to Makkah, a sadder man than when he had left it.

Three years more passed away at Makkah amidst the most trying circumstances. In the meanwhile Islam took root in Madinah and spread fast. As the thirteenth year of his mission drew to a close, some Muslims from Madinah came to perform a pilgrimage and swore allegiance to the Prophet, affirming that if he chose to go to Madinah, they would defend him against his enemies just as they defended their own children and wives. Then it was that the Muslim exodus to Madinah commenced.

The Prophet chose to remain alone amidst an enemy that was growing more and more exasperated, and to see his followers safe at the new centre. This shows the depth of his love and concern for his followers. He was anxious more for their safety than for his own. Within two months, about 150 Muslims left Makkah and there remained only the Prophet with two of his closest friends. His persecutors realised that if a final blow was not struck immediately, the Prophet might escape to Madinah and get beyond their reach. A big conference of all the tribes was held and a final decision taken. A youth from each clan was to be selected, and all these were to fall upon the Prophet at one and the same time, so that no particular clan should be held accountable for the murder.

The Prophet's house was besieged by these youths as soon as it was dark, but, undaunted and having his faith in Divine protection, the Prophet passed through them unnoticed. In the dark of the night, with only one companion, Abu Bakr, he made his way outside Makkah, and a hiding-place was ultimately found in a cave known as Thaur. When morning appeared, the enemy saw the failure of their plan and the whole countryside was scoured. One party reached the very mouth of the cave. Through a crevice, Abu Bakr saw the enemy at the mouth and grew anxious. "Do not grieve, for Allah is with us," said the Prophet. The more helpless he became, the stronger grew his faith in God. After three days the Prophet and his companion started for Madinah.

At Madinah

The Prophet reached Madinah in June 622 C.E. The first thing that he did was to construct a mosque, now famous as the Prophet's Mosque. Here prayers to God were offered five times daily in a free atmosphere for the first time in the history of Islam. He next turned to establishing a brotherhood of the Muslims. Those who had fled from Makkah, called the Muhājirūn (Refugees), had left all their property behind. So, to provide shelter for them, every refugee was bound in a bond of brotherhood with one of the residents of Madinah, called the Anṣār (Helpers). The Prophet also established friendly relations between the various tribes living in Madinah. Among these were three Jewish clans, and a pact was concluded with them as well, according to which Muslims and Jews would live in peace and jointly defend Madinah against an external attack upon it.

The battles

The Quraish now became determined to uproot Islam. The Holy Prophet received an intimation from on High that the sword would be taken up against him and he would have to carry on a war to save Islam from utter annihilation. Temperamentally the Prophet Muhammad was not inclined to war; he had not once handled the sword in actual fighting up to the fifty-fifth year of his age, and this in a country where fighting had become a vocation of the people. The religion which he preached, Islām (meaning peace or submission), was a religion of peace, laying stress on prayer to God and the service of humanity, and he was required to preach this religion; to deliver the message, not to enforce it on others. But war was being forced on him, and it was his duty, he was told in his revelation from God, to defend his oppressed community who had twice fled their homes from the persecutions of a cruel enemy. There was no question of Muslims converting anyone to Islam by force; it was the enemy that wanted to turn back the Muslims by force from Islam (see 2:217).

Small detachments of the Quraish used to go out on marauding expeditions and scour the country right up to the outskirts of Madinah. The situation called for vigilance on the part of the Prophet. Reconnaissance parties were sent out by him to keep an eye on enemy movements and to approach certain tribes to secure their alliance or neutrality. One such party sent out with express orders to gather information about the Quraish movements accidentally killed a member of the Quraish. The usual practice in Arabia in such cases was to demand blood-money. But the Quraish wanted a pretext to rouse the populace against the Muslims, and this murder furnished it. Another pretext was furnished by a Quraish caravan coming from Syria just at this time. Knowing that the Muslims were still very weak, the Quraish thought that 1,000 men would be sufficient to annihilate them, and with this army they marched on Madinah in Ramadan, 2 A.H.

When news of this reached Madinah, the Prophet made hurried preparations to meet them, but could gather only a force of 313 Muslims. The two forces met at Badr, a distance of three days journey from Madinah and ten days from Makkah. The Prophet saw the weakness of his followers and in deep anxiety passed the night praying to God. But the unexpected happened. Almost all the Quraish chiefs, the ringleaders of the campaign against Islam, were slain in action. Seeing their chiefs fall, the rank and file were seized with confusion and took to flight. Seventy fell and an equal number were taken prisoners. There were fourteen casualties on the Muslim side.

The Quraish defeat at Badr was an ignominy which they could not leave unavenged. An army of 3,000 strong, with formidable warriors among them, marched on Madinah next year. The Muslims could muster no more than 700 men, and marched out of Madinah to meet the enemy at the foot of Uhud, only three miles from the city. The Muslims fought desperately and at first gained the upper hand. The Quraish took to flight and the Muslims pursued them, but just at this time the enemy noticed that the Muslim archers had left their rear undefended by vacating a certain position to join in the pursuit. Some of the Quraish wheeled round and attacked the Muslims from behind, while the main Quraish army turned back, and the handful of Muslims, in disorder on account of the pursuit, were thus pressed on both sides. The Prophet, braving the danger of himself becoming the target of the enemy's attack, called out aloud to his men to rally round him. This was a signal to the enemy to direct their attack to this particular point. The Muslims saw this and, cutting their way through the enemy ranks, mustered strongly round the Prophet. In this attempt they sustained serious losses, and the Prophet himself was seriously wounded, but the position of the Muslim army had become secure. Closing their ranks on elevated ground with the mountain protecting their retreat, they again made the enemy feel their strength. The Quraish retired from the field and took their way back to Makkah.

Though the Quraish had this time inflicted severe losses on the Muslims, even this attack on Madinah had proved abortive. So after returning from Uhud, they tried to rouse the Jews and the Bedouin tribes against the Muslims, and in this they were successful. They all combined to deal a crushing blow to Islam. A large army of the Quraish and allied Arab tribes numbering more than 10,000 was gathered in the year 5 A.H., having the support of some Jews of Madinah. The Muslims, unable to meet these forces in the open field, fortified themselves in Madinah by digging a ditch on the side which was unprotected. The Prophet himself participated in digging the ditch like an ordinary labourer. The huge force at last reached Madinah. It was an hour of consternation, anguish and perplexity for the Muslims but their hearts were full of faith.

During a full month of siege, the Muslims stood firm. Arrows and stones came in terrible showers but they could not break through the defence. Attacks were made and repulsed in quick succession. The siege became wearisome to the besieging army, which also began to run short of provisions. The elements of nature ultimately came to the help of the Muslim defence. A storm one night blew down the tents of the besiegers. There was confusion among them and they took to flight during the night, to the great joy and thanksgiving of the Muslims.

The Quraish now lost all hope of being able to crush the Muslims. About a year after this, the Prophet with about 1400 companions (Islam was gaining ground in spite of the wars) undertook a journey to Makkah to perform the lesser pilgrimage. But he found that the Quraish were prepared to offer armed resistance to his entry into Makkah, even though it was simply with the object of performing a religious obligation. He had to stop at about nine miles from the sacred city, at a place called Hudaibiyah.

Emissaries were sent to find a peaceful solution. After a period of great anxiety and tension, a truce was in the end drawn up to last for a period of ten years, with the following conditions among others: (1) The Muslims shall return without performing a pilgrimage, for which they may come back the following year. (2) Should any of the Makkans go over to Madinah, the Muslims shall hand him back to the Makkans, but if any of the Muslims go over to Makkah, the Quraish are under no obligation to return him to the Muslims. (3) The Arab tribes are at liberty to enter into alliance with whichever party they choose.

It can easily be seen what a heavy price the Prophet was willing to pay for the sake of peace; he had agreed not to give shelter to those who were persecuted for accepting Islam, while his own men were free to join the unbelievers and find shelter in Makkah. The moral force drawing people to Islam was so great that while not a single Muslim went back to Makkah where he could find a sure shelter, scores of Makkans embraced Islam, and finding the doors of Madinah closed to them, settled themselves at 'Īs, a place subject neither to the authority of the Prophet, nor to that of the Quraish. Islam was spreading in spite of the sword.

After returning from Hudaibiyah, the Prophet made arrangements to send the message of Islam to all people, Christians as well as Magians, living on the borders of Arabia. He wrote letters to the sovereigns of the neighbouring kingdoms, the Emperor of Rome, Chosroes II of Persia, the king of Egypt, the Negus of Abyssinia and certain Arab chiefs, inviting them to Islam. Of the rulers addressed the Negus accepted Islam; the king of Egypt sent some presents in reply; the Roman Emperor was impressed but his generals were averse; while Chosroes tore up the letter and sent orders to the governor of Yaman to arrest the Prophet. When the governor's soldiers reached Madinah for the execution of the orders, the Prophet told them that Chosroes was himself dead and no more the king of Persia. They went back with this report to the governor of Yaman, and it was found that Chosroes II had actually been murdered by his own son on the very night indicated by the Prophet. This event led to the governor's conversion to Islam, and ultimately to Yaman's throwing off the yoke of Persia.

Conquest of Makkah

The truce of Hudaibiyah had hardly been in force for two years when the Banu Bakr, an ally of the Quraish, attacked the Khuza'a, an ally of the Muslims, with the help of the Quraish. The Prophet thereupon sent word to the Quraish that they should either pay blood money for those slain from among the Khuza'a or dissociate themselves from the Banu Bakr, or, in the last resort, declare the truce of Hudaibiyah to be null and void. The Quraish did not agree to either of the first two proposals, and the result was the annulment of the truce. The Prophet thereupon ordered an attack on Makkah in the closing months of the year 8 A.H. (629 C.E.)

The two years during which the truce remained in force had brought such large numbers over to Islam that the Prophet now marched on Makkah with 10,000 men under his flag. The Makkans were unable to make any preparations to meet the attack. At Marr al-Zahran, a day's journey from Makkah, the Quraish leader, Abu Sufyan, sued for pardon, and though he was the arch-offender who had left no stone unturned to annihilate Islam, free pardon was granted to him by the Prophet.

The conquest of Makkah was practically bloodless. The Quraish were unable to meet this force and the Prophet declared a general amnesty, guaranteeing safety to all those who entered Abu Sufyan's house, or closed the doors of their own houses or entered the sacred precincts of the Ka'bah. Conversion to Islam formed no part of the conditions which guaranteed security of life and property. There were strict orders to the advancing army that there should be no bloodshed. There were only about a score of casualties due to some of the Quraish attacking a party of the Muslim forces.

Makkah having thus been entered, the first thing that the Prophet did was to clear the Ka'bah of the idols. He then addressed the assembled Quraish who had been guilty of the most heinous offences against the Muslims. They were standing before him now as culprits who had persecuted Muslims, inflicted on them the severest tortures, put many of them to death and ultimately expelled them from Makkah. They had not even allowed the Muslims to live a peaceful life at their new home in Madinah, but had attacked that city three times with large forces which they knew the Muslims had no means to meet.

It was these men who were now at the Prophet's mercy, and addressing them, he put to them the question: "What treatment do you expect from me?" They knew al-Amīn of old; they knew he had a generous heart. "You are a noble brother, the son of a noble brother”, was their unhesitating reply. But the treatment the Prophet accorded them exceeded even their own expectations. “This day,” he said in the words of Joseph to his brothers, “there is no reproach against you” (12:92).

They were yet unbelievers, but mark the magnanimity of that great soul who would not even reproach them for their evil deeds, who let them go even without taking a pledge from them for the future. Not only was Makkah conquered, but with it were conquered also the hearts of the bitterest foes of Islam.

They now saw with their own eyes how the combined forces of opposition offered by the whole country had proved an utter failure against the mighty truth which came from the lips of a man who had stood alone in the midst of all opposition. The truth of the cause was now only too clear to them, and men and women came forward spontaneously to embrace the faith. There was not a single instance of conversion by force.

Those that still adhered to the old religion were treated in the same spirit of friendliness as the members of the brotherhood. Even a hostile Western critic of Islam, Sir William Muir, had to admit this in these words: “Although the city had cheerfully accepted his supremacy, all its inhabitants had not yet embraced the new religion, or formally acknowledged his prophetic claim. Perhaps he intended to follow the course he had pursued at Madinah, and leave the conversion of the people to be gradually accomplished without compulsion” (The Life of Mahomet, ch. 25).

The fall of Makkah was a signal to the whole of Arabia. With the sole exception of the battle of Hunain, which had to be undertaken against the Hawazin tribe immediately after the conquest of Makkah, regular warfare between Muslims and non-Muslims in the whole of Arabia now came to an end, and even at Hunain, the unbelieving Makkans fought on the side of the Muslims.

Islam was now free from trouble from within, but the Christian power on the north viewed its strength with a jealous eye, and persistent news as to preparations of the Roman Empire to attack Arabia could not be ignored. Accordingly, an expedition of 30,000 men was led by the Prophet personally to the northern frontier in the year 9 A.H. When he reached Tabūk, however, he found that his march had a restraining effect on the enemy, and there being no hostile force in the field, the Prophet returned without either attacking the Romans or declaring war against them. In fact, the Prophet always observed the Quranic injunction to fight only with those who took up the sword first to fight against the Muslims.

After the return from Tabūk, peace was apparently established in the peninsula, but the Islamic territory was infested with hordes of marauders belonging to the tribes that had entered into agreements with the Muslim state, but had little respect for their treaties: "...those with whom you make an agreement, then they break their agreement every time, and they do not keep their duty" (8:56). These people had become a menace to the security of life and property, and accordingly, towards the end of the year 9 A.H., the Holy Prophet sent Ali to make an important declaration of immunity regarding such agreements at the annual pilgrimage at Makkah, an immunity of Muslims from their obligations towards such people. The declaration describes them as: "...those of the idolaters with whom you made an agreement" (9:1), and makes an exception in favour of those who had not violated their treaties: "except those of the idolaters with whom you made an agreement, then they have not failed you in anything and have not backed up anyone against you; so fulfil their agreement to the end of their term" (9:4). The result was that such tribes surrendered, and a settled condition of peace prevailed throughout the peninsula.

This declaration of immunity towards the violators is sometimes misrepresented as meaning an abrogation of the conditions of war laid down at the beginning: "And fight in the way of Allah against those who fight against you but do not be aggressive" (2:190). As a matter of fact, the condition laid down remained effective to the end. The Prophet's return from Tabūk, without attacking either the Roman territory or the territory of any other tribe, is a clear evidence of this. And even after the declaration of immunity, the Muslims were required to fight only with those who attacked them first: "Will you not fight a people who broke their oaths and aimed at the expulsion of the Messenger, and they attacked you first?" (9:13).

Deputations which had already started coming to the Prophet in 9 A.H. to learn the truth about Islam now became more abundant. People came from all over Arabia and embraced Islam of their own free will. As soon as peace was established, Islam spread rapidly, and the year 10 A.H. witnessed the conversion of the whole of Arabia to Islam, including some Christian tribes. It was not only that idolatry was given up for the purest monotheism; it was a reformation in all spheres of life. The whole course of life of an entire nation was changed — ignorance, superstition and barbarism giving place to the spread of knowledge and to a rational outlook in all aspects of life.

The “farewell” Pilgrimage

At the end of the year 10 A.H., the Prophet set out to perform the pilgrimage to Makkah. As the whole of Arabia was now Muslim, there was not a single idolater in the huge concourse of 124,000 pilgrims assembled at Makkah from all corners of the country. The very spot where the Prophet was only twenty years ago a rejected person, to whose word no one was willing to lend his ear, was now the scene of marvellous devotion to him. Everywhere he saw devoted friends who recognized him both as their temporal as well as their spiritual head — an inspiring manifestation of Divine power to him as well as to those who had assembled there.

It was here, on the day of the assembling of the pilgrims at Mount Arafat, that he received a revelation which sent a thrill of joy through the vast gathering: “This day have I perfected your religion for you and completed My favour to you and chosen for you Islam as a religion” (5:3). The Prophet perceived that the message of the perfection of religion meant his approaching end. Here he delivered his famous sermon to the whole of Arabia through representatives of tribes coming from every quarter:

“O people! Lend an attentive ear to my words, for I do not know whether I shall ever again have the opportunity to meet you here. I apprise you that your lives, your properties and your honour must be as sacred to one another as this sacred day in this sacred month in this sacred town. Let those present take this message to those absent. You are about to meet your Lord Who will call you to account for your deeds...”

“O people! This day Satan has despaired of re-establishing his power in this land of yours. But should you obey him even in what may seem to you a trifling matter, it will be a source of pleasure for him. So you must beware of him in the matter of your faith.

“O my people! You have certain rights over your wives and so have your wives over you... They are the trust of Allah in your hands. So you must treat them with all kindness ... And as regards your slaves, see that you give them to eat of what you yourselves eat and clothe them with what you clothe yourselves.

“O people! Listen to what I say and take it to heart. You must know that every Muslim is the brother of another Muslim. You are all equal, and members of one brotherhood. It is forbidden to any of you to take from his brother save what he should willingly give. Do not do injustice to your people.”

Then the Prophet cried at the top of his voice: O Allah! I have delivered Your message, and the valley resounded with the words: Yes, you certainly have!

A little while after his return to Madinah, the Holy Prophet fell ill. At first he went to the mosque to lead the prayers even during his illness, but later on he became too weak and appointed Abu Bakr to lead the prayers. After about twelve days' illness, he passed away on the 12th of the month of Rabi' -ul-Awwal on a Monday in 11 A.H., corresponding to June 632 C.E., at the age of sixty-three. His last words were: Blessed companionship on High.

The most outstanding characteristic of the life of the Prophet Muhammad is the amazing success which he achieved. The transformation wrought within the short space of less than a quarter of a century is in fact unparalleled in the history of the world. There is not a single reformer who brought about such an entire change in the lives of a whole nation inhabiting such a vast country. None, in fact, found his people at such a depth of degradation as the Prophet found the Arabs, and no one raised them materially, morally and spiritually to the height to which he raised them.

So deep-rooted was their idolatry, so powerful the bonds of their superstitions and their usages that the propagandic efforts of the Jews and the Christians, carried on for hundreds of years one after the other, could not bring about the least change in their condition. The indigenous Arab movement of the Hanifs proved an even greater failure. All these attempts at reform left the Arabs as a nation as ignorant of the principles of religion and morality as they ever were.

Twenty-three years work of the Prophet, however, quite metamorphosed them. Worship of idols and of all objects other than God, whether in heaven or on earth, was now considered to be a disgrace to humanity. The whole nation awakened to a sense of the true dignity of mankind and realized the folly of falling prostrate before things which man was made to rule and before powers which he was required to conquer. Superstition gave place to a rational religion. The Arab was not only cleansed of deep-rooted vice and bare-faced immorality; he was further inspired with a burning desire for the best and noblest deeds in the service of, not country and nation, but, what is far higher than that, humanity. Old customs which involved injustice to the weak and the oppressed were all swept away, and just and reasonable laws took their place. Drunkenness, to which Arabia was addicted from time immemorial, disappeared entirely. The loose relations of the sexes gave place to the highest regard for chastity. The Arab who prided himself on ignorance became the lover of knowledge, drinking deep at every fountain of learning to which he could get access. And greatest of all, from an Arabia, the various elements of which were so constantly at war with each other that the whole country was about to perish, from these jarring and warring elements, the Prophet Muhammad welded together a nation, a united nation full of life and vigour, before whose onward march the greatest kingdoms of the world crumbled as if they were but toys before the reality of the new faith.

No man ever breathed such a new life on such a wide scale — a life affecting all branches of human activity; a transformation of the individual, of the family, of the society, of the nation, of the country, an awakening, material as well as moral, intellectual as well as spiritual. This unparalleled transformation has been acknowledged even by non-Muslim critics of Islam in their writings.

2. The Holy Quran and its Divisions*

The name Al-Qur'ān, the proper name of the Sacred Book of the Muslims, occurs several times in the Book itself (2:185, etc.). The word Qur'ān is an infinitive noun from the root qara'a meaning he read or recited; and the Book is so called because it is or should be read; as a matter of fact, it is the most widely read book in the whole world. It is plainly stated to be a revelation from the Lord of the worlds (26:192), or a revelation from Allah, the Mighty, the Wise (39:1, etc.), and so on. It was sent down to the Prophet Muhammad (47:2), having been revealed to his heart through the Holy Spirit (26:193–194), in the Arabic language (26:195, 43:3). The first revelation came to the Holy Prophet in the month of Ramadan (2:185), on the 25th or 27th night, which is known as Lailat al-Qadr (97:1).

Divisions

The Holy Quran is divided into 114 chapters, each of which is called a sūrah. The word sūrah means literally eminence or high degree, and also any step of a structure, and in the Book itself it is applied to a chapter of the Quran (2:23). The chapters of the Holy Quran are of varying length, the largest comprising fully one twelfth of the entire Book — 286 verses — and the smallest containing only three verses. Each chapter is, however, complete in itself and is, therefore, called a book, and the whole of the Quran is said to contain many books (98:2–3).

Each chapter contains a number of verses, a verse being called an āyah. The word āyah means, originally, an apparent sign or mark and, in this sense, it comes to mean a miracle, but it also signifies a communication or a message from God and is applied as such to a verse of the Holy Quran as well as to a revelation or a law. In certain parts of the Muslim world the longer chapters are marked into sections, each section (known as a rukū') generally dealing with one subject.

For the purposes of recitation, the Holy Quran is divided into 30 parts of equal length, each called a juz', to enable the reciter to complete its recitation in one month. Another division of the Book, traceable to the Prophet himself, is into seven portions, each known as a manzil, to enable the reciter to complete its recitation in seven days. These divisions, however, have nothing to do with the subject-matter of the Quran.

Revealed piecemeal but collected and arranged from the first

The Quran was revealed piecemeal (25:32) during a period of 23 years (609–632 C.E.), the shorter chapters generally, and some of the larger ones, being revealed entire and at one time, while the revelation of the majority of the larger chapters and some of the shorter chapters extended over many years. The practice was that when a chapter was revealed in parts, the Holy Prophet specified, under Divine guidance, the place of the verse revealed, and thus the arrangement of verses in each chapter was entirely his work.

Similarly, later on when a considerable portion had been revealed, the arrangement of the chapters was also the work of the Holy Prophet himself. It is in one of the earliest revelations that the Holy Quran speaks of its collection as well as its revelation as being a part of the Divine scheme: “Surely on Us rests the collecting of it and the reciting of it” (75:17). The collection of the Holy Quran — which means the arrangement of its verses and chapters — was, therefore, a work which was performed by the Holy Prophet himself under Divine guidance, and it is a mistake to think that either Abu Bakr or Uthman was the collector of the Quran, though both of them did important work in connection with the dissemination of the written copies of the sacred text.

Abu Bakr made the first complete written copy, by arranging the manuscripts written in the time of the Holy Prophet, in the order of the oral recitation of the Prophet’s time. Uthman’s work, on the other hand, was only the ordering of copies to be made from the written manuscript of Abu Bakr’s time and the placing of these copies in the various centres of Islamic learning, so that those who wrote the Holy Quran might be able to follow the standard copy. The text of the Holy Quran has thus been safeguarded from all alterations or corruptions in accordance with the Divine promise in one of the earliest revelations: “Surely We have revealed the Reminder, and surely We are its Guardian” (15:9).

Revelations at Makkah and Madinah

Another division of the Holy Book concerns the revelations received at Makkah and those received at Madinah. Of the 23 years over which the revelation of the entire Book is spread, 13 years were passed by the Holy Prophet at Makkah and 10 were passed at Madinah, to which city he had to flee for the safety of his own life and the lives of his followers in the year 622 C.E. Of the entire number of chapters, 93 were revealed at Makkah and 21 were revealed at Madinah, but the 110th chapter, though belonging to the Madinah period, was revealed at Makkah during the well-known Farewell Pilgrimage.

The Madinan chapters, being generally longer, contain really about a third of the entire Quran. In arrangement, the Makkan revelation is intermixed with the Madinan revelation. Thus the Holy Quran opens with a Makkan revelation which is entitled the “Opening”, and is followed by four chapters revealed at Madinah, which take up over one fifth of the whole Book. Then follow alternately Makkan and Madinan revelations.

As regards the dates of the revelation of the various Makkan chapters, it is difficult to assign a particular year to a particular chapter, except in rare cases, but broadly they may be divided into three groups: those revealed in the early Makkan period, i.e., during the first five years; those revealed in the middle Makkan period, i.e., from the sixth to the tenth year; and those revealed during the late Makkan period, i.e., from the 11th year to the Flight (Hijrah). The dates of the Madinan chapters, on the other hand, are tolerably certain and definite, but in this case the difficulty is that the revelation of the longer chapters extended over lengthy periods, and a chapter which undoubtedly belongs to the earliest days at Madinah sometimes contains verses which were revealed in the closing days of the Holy Prophet’s life.

Chronological order

The first five verses of the 96th chapter were undoubtedly the first revelation, and these were equally certainly followed by the first part of the 74th chapter, which again was, in all probability, followed by the first chapter, after which came the first part of the 73rd chapter. Beyond this, it is impossible to give a tolerably certain order. The attempt to give a chronological order of chapters is an undoubted failure, as even the shorter chapters were not revealed entire. For instance, only verses 1 to 5 of chapter 96 were revealed first, verses 6 to 19 coming long afterwards as they refer to events of four years later. In case of chapter 2, its revelation undoubtedly began in 1 or 2 A.H., but it is equally certain that it contains verses which were revealed in 10 A.H. A chronological order of the different chapters is, therefore, an impossibility, and all that we can say with tolerable certainty is that the greater part of a certain chapter was revealed during a certain period.

Makkan and Madinan Revelations intermingled in the final arrangement

In the present arrangement, chapters revealed at Makkah and those revealed at Madinah are intermingled. The reasons underlying this arrangement relate to the chief features which distinguish the Makkan from the Madinan revelations. While the Makkan revelations grounded the Muslims in faith in God, the Madinan revelation was meant to translate the faith into action. It is true that exhortations for good and noble deeds are met with in the Makkan revelations and that faith is still shown in the Madinan revelations to be the foundation on which the structure of deeds should be built, but, in the main, stress is laid in the former on faith in an Omnipresent and Omnipotent God Who requites every good and evil deed, while the latter deals chiefly with what is good and what is evil; in other words, with the details of the law.

Another feature distinguishing the two revelations is that, while the Makkan revelation is generally prophetic, the revelation that came down at Madinah deals with the fulfilment of prophecy. Again, if the Makkan revelation shows how true happiness of mind may be sought in communion with God, the Madinan revelation points out how man's dealing with man may be a source of bliss and comfort to him. Hence, a judicious arrangement of the Holy Quran could be made to rest only on the intermingling of the two revelations.

The Quran claims to be the greatest spiritual force which is ultimately destined to bring the whole of humanity to perfection. It opens thus: "Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds" (1:1), and it ends thus: "Say: I seek refuge with the Lord of mankind" (114:1). The word for 'Lord' here, Rabb, means the Nourisher to perfection.

It calls itself al-Rūh (42:52) or the Spirit which gives life to humanity, and time and again compares itself to the water which gives life to a dead earth (for example, see 41:39). The giving of life to the dead earth is a constant theme of the Quran and it is full of assurances that the dead earth will be raised to life spiritual: "Know that Allah gives life to the earth after its death" (57:17). It calls itself Shifā' or Healing (10:57) to show that it heals all the spiritual diseases of humanity, and al-Nūr or the Light (7:157) which will ultimately dispel all darkness from the surface of the earth. It calls itself al-Ḥaqq or the Truth (17:81) which will ultimately take hold of the minds of people and before which falsehood will vanish, and al-Huda or the Guidance (72:13) which will make people ultimately attain the goal of life.

The Quran claims that it is the only spiritual force which will ultimately conquer the whole world, and that the whole of humanity cannot produce such a spiritually effective force: "And if you are in doubt as to that which We have revealed to Our servant, then produce a chapter like it and call on your helpers besides Allah if you are truthful" (2:23).

Unparalleled transformation wrought by the Quran

In fact, the Holy Quran brought about a transformation unparalleled in the history of the world. It found the Arabs worshippers of idols, stones, trees, heaps of sand, and yet, within less than a quarter of a century, the worship of the One God ruled the whole country. It swept away all superstitions and gave in their place the most rational religion that the world could imagine. It declared man's thirst for knowledge to be insatiable (20:114). The Quran removed deep vices and evil social practices, and inspired its hearers with a burning desire for the best and noblest deeds in the service of humanity. No other faith ever imparted such a new life to its votaries on such a wide scale, a life affecting all branches of human activity. The Quran effected a transformation of humanity from the lowest depths of degradation to the highest pinnacle of civilization within an incredibly short time.

Other unique characteristics

Besides the unparalleled revolution brought about in the world by the Quran, it possesses two other characteristics equally unique — the wealth of ideas and the beauty of style. The effect produced by the Holy Quran was due merely to the greatness and reasonableness of the ideas clothed in the best of forms that appealed to the heart of man. A blaze of light was cast on all the great questions which had hitherto puzzled man. Hence it is, that one of the names by which the Holy Book speaks of itself is al-Burhān, or the Clear Argument, showing that argument was the weapon which it used to conquer the heart of man; and, as it appealed to reason and not to sentiment, its conquests were far-reaching and permanent. It is also called al-Bayān, or the Explanation, indicating that it had removed all obscurities in religious problems. It claimed not only to have perfected religion (5:3), and thus to have stated all religious truths needed for the moral and spiritual advancement of man, but also to have dealt with all objections to its truth: “And they cannot bring you a question, but We have brought you the truth and the best explanation” (25:33).

The style and diction of the Quran have been universally praised. What, however, establishes the Quran’s claim to uniqueness even in the outward form, apart from its subject and the effect produced, is the permanent hold that it has kept on the Arabic language itself, the fact that it remains forever the standard by which the beauty of style and diction may be judged in Arabic literature. No other book in the world can be credited with even the achievement of keeping alive a language for thirteen centuries. The Quran has done this, attaining to the eminence of being the standard of eloquence for so long, and of retaining that position while the nation speaking it emerged from oblivion to become the leader of civilization in the world, leaving its home to settle in far distant lands where Arabic became either the spoken language of the masses or at least their literary language.

3. Relation to Earlier Scriptures

Previous Scriptures recognized

The Holy Quran requires a belief not only in its own truth but also in the truth of previous scriptures delivered to the prophets of different nations of the world. At its commencement, addressing the Holy Prophet, it lays down clearly that Muslims are those:

“who believe in what has been revealed to you (O Prophet) and what was revealed before you...” — 2:4

The universality of what was revealed before is clearly accepted:

“And there is not a people but a warner has gone among them.” — 35:24

“And for every nation there is a messenger.” — 10:47

Lest anyone should be misled by the names of only a few prophets mentioned in the Holy Quran, it is stated:

“And certainly We sent messengers before you (O Prophet) — among them are those We have mentioned to you and among them are those We have not mentioned to you.” — 40:78; see also 4:164

Thus the Holy Quran accepts the truth of the sacred books of the world, and hence it is again and again spoken of as a Book verifying that which is before it. The basis of the relation in which the Holy Quran stands to other scriptures is, therefore, that they are all members of one family; they all have a Divine origin.

Guardian of previous scriptures

The Verifier of the sacred books of the world, however, occupies a unique position among them. The relation in which the Holy Quran stands to earlier scriptures is thus lucidly set forth by the Holy Book itself:

“And We have revealed to you (O Prophet) the Book with the truth, verifying what is (already) before it of the Book and a guardian over it...” —5:48

The Quran is thus not only a verifier of the sacred books of all nations as stated above; it is also a guardian over them. In other words, it guards the original teachings of the prophets of God, for, as elsewhere stated, those teachings had undergone alterations, and only a revelation from God could separate the pure Divine teaching from the mass of error which had grown around it. Of all the scriptures, it has particularly chosen the Gospels to show in what ways erroneous doctrines had almost entirely suppressed the truth preached by a prophet of God.

The Quran as a judge in existing differences

The Holy Quran further claims that it came as a judge to decide the differences between the various religions:

“We certainly sent (messengers) to nations before you (O Prophet), ... and We have not revealed to you the Book except that you may make clear to them what they differ about...” — 16:63–64

The Quran proclaimed that prophets had been raised in every nation, and, therefore, that every nation had received guidance from God, yet nation differed from nation even in the essentials of faith. The position of the Holy Quran was, therefore, essentially that of a judge deciding between these various claimants.

It explains all obscurities

Revelation, according to the Holy Quran, is not only universal but also progressive, and it attains perfection in the Final Revelation. A revelation was granted to each nation according to its requirements, and in each age in accordance with the capacity of the people of that age. As the human brain became more and more developed, more and more light was cast by revelation on matters relating to the unseen, on the existence and attributes of the Divine Being, on the nature of revelation from Him, on the requital of good and evil, on life after death, and on paradise and hell. It is for this reason that the Holy Quran is again and again called a Book “that makes manifest”. It shed complete light on the essentials of the faith and made manifest what had hitherto of necessity remained obscure.

Perfect revelation of Divine Will

The Holy Quran claims that it came as a perfect revelation of Divine will:

“This day have I perfected for you your religion and completed My favour to you and chosen for you Islam as a religion.” — 5:3

The finality of the Quranic revelation is, therefore, based on its perfection. New scriptures were revealed as long as they were needed, but when perfect light was cast on all essentials of religion in the Holy Quran, no prophet was needed after Muhammad.

A correct history

The idea that the Quran has merely borrowed something from the earlier scriptures, especially from the Torah and the Gospels, must be examined in the light of facts. That the Quran deals with the religious topics which are dealt with in those books goes without saying; that it relates the history of some of the prophets whose history is also related in the Bible is also a fact, but to say that it borrows from those books is entirely wrong.

Take first the essentials of religion as they are dealt with in the Holy Quran. Neither the Old nor the New Testament, nor any other sacred book, makes any approach to the grand and noble truths that find expression in the Holy Quran. Take next the histories of the prophets, as they are narrated in the Bible and as they are narrated in the Holy Quran, and you will find that the latter corrects the errors of the former as it does in the matter of religious doctrines. The Bible speaks of many of the prophets of God as committing the most heinous sins; it speaks of Abraham as telling lies and casting away Hagar and her son; it speaks of Lot as committing incest with his own daughters; it speaks of Aaron as making a calf for worship and leading the Israelites to its worship; it speaks of David as committing adultery with Uriah's wife; it speaks of Solomon as worshipping idols; but the Holy Quran accepts none of these statements, definitely rejects most of them and clears these prophets of the false charges against them.

4. Liberal View of Other Religions

Faith in all prophets

There is a general misconception that the Quran preaches intolerance, and that Muhammad preached his faith with the sword in one hand and the Quran in the other. The basic principle of Islam, a faith in all the prophets of the world, is enough to give the lie to this allegation. The great and liberal mind that preached not only love and respect for the founders of the great religions of the world but much more than that, faith in them, could not shrink to the narrowness of intolerance for those very religions. Tolerance is not, in fact, the word that can sufficiently indicate the breadth of the attitude of Islam towards other religions. It preaches equal love for all, equal respect for all, and equal faith in all.

No compulsion in religion

Again, intolerance could not be ascribed to a book which altogether excludes compulsion from the sphere of religion:

“There is no compulsion in religion.” — 2:256

In fact, the Holy Quran is full of statements showing that belief in this or that religion is a person’s own concern, and that he is given the choice of adopting one way or another; that, if he accepts truth, it is for his own good, and that, if he sticks to error, it is to his own detriment. Given below are just two of these quotations:

“The Truth is from your Lord; so whoever wishes, let him believe, and whoever wishes, let him disbelieve.” — 18:29

“Clear proofs have indeed come to you from your Lord; so whoever sees, it is for the good of his own soul; and whoever is blind, it is to its harm. And I am not a keeper over you.” — 6:104

Why fighting was allowed

The Muslims were allowed to fight indeed, but the object was not to compel the unbelievers to accept Islam, for it was against all the broad principles in which they had hitherto been brought up. It was to establish religious freedom, to stop all religious persecution, to protect the houses of worship of all religions, mosques among them. To quote again from the Quran:

“And fight with them until there is no more persecution, and all religions are for Allah.” — 8:39

“And if Allah did not repel some people by others, surely cloisters and churches and synagogues, and mosques in which Allah’s name is much remembered, would have been pulled down.” — 22:40

The Holy Prophet and his companions were subjected to the severest persecution, as Islam began to gain ground at Makkah; over a hundred of them fled to Abyssinia, but persecution grew still more relentless. Ultimately, the Muslims had to take refuge in Madinah, but they were not left alone even there, and the sword was taken up by the enemy to annihilate Islam and the Muslims. The Quran bears express testimony to this:

“Permission (to fight) is given to those on whom war is made, because they are oppressed. And surely Allah is Able to assist them — those who are driven from their homes without a just cause except that they say: Our Lord is Allah.” — 22:39–40

Later, the express condition was laid down:

“And fight in the way of Allah against those who fight against you but do not be aggressive. Surely Allah does not love the aggressors.” — 2:190

The Quran, therefore, allowed fighting only to save a persecuted community from powerful oppressors, and hence the condition was laid down that fighting was to be stopped as soon as persecution ended:

“But if they cease, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. And fight them until there is no persecution...” — 2:192–193

If the enemy offered peace, peace was to be accepted, though the enemy’s intention might be only to deceive the Muslims:

“And if they incline to peace, you (must) incline to it also, and trust in Allah. Surely He is the Hearer, the Knower. And if they intend to deceive you, then surely Allah is sufficient for you.” — 8:61–62

The Holy Prophet made treaties of peace with his enemies; one such treaty brought about the famous truce of Hudaibiyah, the terms of which were not only disadvantageous, but also humiliating to the Muslims. According to the terms of this treaty “if an unbeliever, being converted to Islam, went over to the Muslims, he was to be returned, but if a Muslim went over to the unbelievers, he was not to be given back to the Muslims”. This clause of the treaty cuts at the root of all allegations of the use of force by the Holy Prophet.

It is a mistake to suppose that the condition to fight “against those who fight against you” (2:190) was abrogated at any time. It remained in force to the end. There is not a single direction in the latest revelation on this subject, in ch. 9, The Immunity, that goes against this condition. The opening verse of that chapter speaks expressly of “idolaters with whom you made an agreement”, and then, v. 4, excerpts from its purview “those of the idolaters with whom you made an agreement, then they have not failed you in anything and have not backed up anyone against you”, thus showing clearly that the “immunity” related only to such idolatrous tribes as had first made agreements with the Muslims and then, violating them, killed and persecuted the Muslims wherever they found them, as v. 10 says expressly: “They respect neither ties of relationship nor covenant in the case of a believer”. Further on in ch. 9, the condition of the enemy attacking the Muslims first is plainly repeated: “Will you not fight a people who broke their oaths and aimed at the expulsion of the Messenger, and they attacked you first?” (9:13).

The waging of war on unbelievers to compel them to accept Islam is a myth pure and simple, a thing unknown to the Holy Quran. It was the enemy that waged war on the Muslims to turn them away from their religion, as the Holy Book so clearly asserts: “And they will not cease fighting you until they turn you back from your religion, if they can” (2:217).

It is sometimes asserted that the Quran forbids relations of friendship with the followers of other religions. How could a Book which allows a man to have as his comrade in life a woman following another religion (5:5), say in the same breath that no friendly relations can be had with the followers of other religions? The loving relation of husband and wife is the friendliest of all relations and, when this is expressly permitted, there is not the least reason to suppose that other friendly relations are forbidden. The fact is that, wherever there is prohibition against making friends with other people, it relates only to the people who were at war with the Muslims, and this is plainly stated in the Quran:

“Allah does not forbid you, with regard to those who do not fight you for religion, nor drive you forth from your homes, that you show them kindness and deal with them justly. Surely Allah loves the doers of justice. Allah forbids you only with regard to those who fight you for religion, and drive you forth from your homes and help (others) in your expulsion, that you make friends of them; and whoever makes friends of them, these are the wrongdoers.”

No punishment for apostasy

It is generally thought that the Quran provides a death sentence for those who desert the religion of Islam. Anyone who reads the Quran will see that there is not the least ground for such a supposition. The Quran speaks repeatedly of people going back to unbelief after believing, but never once does it say that they should be killed or punished. For example:

“And whoever of you turns back from his religion, then he dies while an unbeliever — these it is whose deeds are fruitless in this world and the Hereafter.” — 2:217

“Those who disbelieve after their believing, then increase in disbelief, their repentance is not accepted, and these are they that go astray.” — 3:90

On the other hand, the Quran speaks of a plan of the Jews to adopt Islam first and then desert it, thus creating the impression that Islam was not a religion worth having (3:72). Such a scheme could never have entered their heads while living at Madinah, where the Government was Muslim, if apostasy, according to the Quranic law, were punishable with death. The misconception seems to have arisen from the fact that people who, after becoming apostates, joined the enemy, were treated as enemies, or that, where an apostate took the life of a Muslim, he was put to death, not for changing his religion, but for committing murder.

5. The Position of Woman

Spiritually woman raised to the position of man

No other religious book and no other reformer has done even a small fraction of what the Holy Quran or the Prophet Muhammad has done to raise the position of woman. Read the Quran and you find good and righteous women being given the same position as good and righteous men. Both sexes are spoken of in the same terms. The highest favour which God has bestowed upon man is the gift of Divine revelation, and we find women, to whom Divine revelation came, spoken of along with men:

“And We revealed to Moses’ mother, saying: Suckle him; then when you fear for him, cast him into the river and do not fear, nor grieve; surely We shall bring him back to you and make him a messenger (of Ours).” — 28:7

“And when the angels said: O Mary, surely Allah has chosen you and purified you and chosen you above the women of the world.” — 3:42

Further, where the Holy Quran speaks of the great prophets of God, saying: “And mention Abraham in the Book” (19:41), “And mention Moses in the Book” (19:51), and so on, it speaks of a woman in exactly the same terms: “And mention Mary in the Book” (19:16). No other religious book has given such a high spiritual position to woman.

The Quran makes no difference between man and woman in the bestowal of reward for the good he or she does:

“And whoever does good deeds, whether male or female, and is a believer — these will enter the Garden, and they will not be dealt with unjustly in the least.” — 4:124

“Whoever does good, whether male or female, and is a believer, We shall certainly make him live a good life, and We shall certainly give them their reward for the best of what they did.” — 16:97

Also, 33:35, speaking of good women alongside of good men, enumerates every good quality as being possessed by women exactly as it is possessed by men, and ends with the words: “Allah has prepared for them forgiveness and a mighty reward”. With God, therefore, according to the Quran, there is no difference between men and women, and morally and spiritually they can rise to the same eminence.

Woman is the equal of man in rights of property

On the material side, too, we find no difference, except what nature requires for its own ends. A woman can earn, inherit and own property and dispose of it just as a man can, and the Holy Quran is explicit on all these points:

“For men is the benefit of what they earn. And for women is the benefit of what they earn.” — 4:32

“For men is a share of what the parents and the near relatives leave, and for women a share of what the parents and the near relatives leave.” — 4:7

Woman, in Arabia, had no rights of property; in fact, she herself was part of the inheritance, and was taken possession of along with other property. She had no right to the property of her deceased husband or father. The Quran took her from this low position and raised her to a position of perfect freedom as regards her property rights and her right to inheritance, a position which, among other nations, she has only partly attained and that after centuries of hard struggle.

Polygamy

It is, however, asserted that polygamy and the seclusion of women, as enjoined in the Holy Quran, have done more harm to woman than the benefit conferred on her by bestowal of property rights. The fact is that a great misunderstanding exists on these two points. Monogamy is the rule in Islam and polygamy only an exception allowed subject to certain conditions. The following two verses are the only authority for the sanction of polygamy, and let us see how far they carry us:

“And if you fear that you cannot do justice to orphans, marry such women as seem good to you, two, or three, or four; but if you fear that you will not do justice, then marry only one or what your right hands possess. This is more proper that you may not do injustice...” — 4:3

“And they ask you (O Prophet) a decision about women. Say: Allah makes known to you His decision concerning them; and what is recited to you in the Book is concerning widowed women, whom you do not give what is appointed for them, while you are not inclined to marry them...” — 4:127

Now the first of these verses allows polygamy on the express condition that “you cannot do justice to orphans”, and what is meant is made clear by the second verse, which contains a clear reference to the first verse in the words, “what is recited to you in the Book is concerning widowed women”. The Arabs were guilty of a double injustice to widows: they did not give them and their children a share in the inheritance of their husbands, nor were they inclined to marry widows who had children, because the responsibility for the maintenance of the children would in that case devolve upon them. The Quran remedied both these evils; it gave a share of inheritance to the widow with a share also for the orphans, and it commended the taking of such widows in marriage, and allowed polygamy expressly for this purpose. It should, therefore, be clearly understood that monogamy is the rule in Islam and polygamy is allowed only as a remedial measure, for the sake of widows and orphans.

This permission was given at a time when the wars, which were forced on the Muslims, had decimated the men, so that many widows and orphans were left for whom it was necessary to provide.

A provision was made in the form of polygamy so that the widow should find a home and protector and the orphans should have paternal care and affection. Nature will have its course, and allowing illicit sexual relations is the inevitable alternative to a limited polygamy.

Seclusion

As regards the seclusion of women, the Quran never prohibited women from going out of their houses for their needs. In the time of the Prophet, women went regularly to mosques, and said their prayers along with men, standing in a separate row. They also joined their husbands in the labour of the field; they even went with the army to the field of battle, and looked after the wounded, removing them from the field, if necessary, and helped fighting-men in many other ways. They could even fight the enemy in an emergency. No occupation was prohibited to them, and they could do any work they chose. The only restrictions on their liberty are contained in the following verses:

“Say to the believing men that they lower their gaze and restrain their sexual passions. That is purer for them. Surely Allah is Aware of what they do. And say to the believing women that they lower their gaze and restrain their sexual passions and do not display their adornment except what appears of it. And they should wear their head-coverings over their bosoms.” — 24:30–31

Now the real restriction contained in these verses is that both men and women should, when they meet each other, cast down their looks, but there is an additional restriction in the case of women that they should not display their adornment with the exception of “what appears of it”. The exception has been explained as meaning “what is customary and natural to uncover”. That women went to mosques with their faces uncovered is a fact recognized by all, and there is also a saying of the Holy Prophet that, when a woman reaches the age of puberty, she should cover her body except the face and the hands. The majority of the commentators are also of opinion that the exception relates to the face and the hands. Hence, while a display of beauty is forbidden, the restriction does not interfere with the necessary activities of woman. She can do any work that she likes to earn her livelihood, for the Holy Quran says plainly, as already quoted, that women shall have the benefit of what they earn. A limited seclusion and a limited polygamy do not, therefore, interfere with the necessary activities of woman; they are both meant for her protection and as preventives against loose sexual relations, which ultimately undermine society.

6. Purity of the Quranic Text

Among all the religious books of the world, the Holy Quran is the only Book which enjoys the distinction of having a pure text. Every word and letter of the Holy Book, as we have it today, is as it left the lips of the Holy Prophet Muhammad to whom the Book was revealed, and it is for this reason that, through all the centuries since it was revealed and among all the Muslims from East to West, among the numerous contending sects, there is only one Quran. The factors which contributed to this safe preservation of the text are its being reduced to writing under the direction of the Prophet himself and its being committed to memory by a large number of people, at the time of its revelation.

Every portion of the Quran was written as it was revealed — internal evidence

There is a hint as to the use of the pen in the very first revelation that came to the Holy Prophet:

“Read in the name of your Lord Who creates — creates man from a clot (of blood) — read and your Lord is most Generous, Who taught by the pen, taught man what he did not know.” — 96:1–5

In the very first message that the Holy Prophet received from on High, he is told not only to read but also to seek the help of the pen, which was the only means of the preservation of knowledge. It was due to this that from the very first he made arrangements to have every revelation reduced to writing as it came down to him, in addition to having it committed to memory, which he did by reading it out to those around him. Moreover, the Holy Quran itself furnishes abundant evidence that it existed in a written form. It again and again calls itself a kitāb, which means a book, or a writing which is complete in itself.

There are many other references in the Holy Quran showing that its chapters existed in a written form at an early date. Thus:

“Surely it is a bountiful Quran, in a book that is protected, which none touches but the purified ones.” — 56:77–79

Historical evidence as to the writing of the Quran

There are numerous anecdotes showing that when the Holy Prophet received a revelation, it was immediately reduced to writing. The general practice is thus described, by no less a personage than Uthman, the third Caliph whose name is in particular associated with the collection of the Quran and who, being one of the earliest converts to Islam, remained with the Prophet almost since the beginning of his mission:

“It was customary with the Messenger of Allah, when portions of different chapters were being revealed to him, that when any verse was revealed, he called one of those persons who used to write the Quran and said to him, Write these verses in the chapter where such and such verses occur.” — (Abu Dawud, 2:123; Tirmidhi, Abwāb Tafsīr-ul-Qur’ān, on Sūrah 9)

This report mentions, not what the Holy Prophet did on one occasion, but what he always used to do whenever any verse of the Holy Quran was revealed to him.

Every portion committed to memory

Every portion of the Quran was committed to memory as soon as it was revealed. With the Arabs, memory was the safest of repositories. They had learnt all their poems and long genealogies by heart. We learn from numerous reports that whenever a passage was revealed, it was recited by the Holy Prophet to those who happened to be present at the time and many of his followers committed it to memory at once, others again learning it from those who heard it from the mouth of the Prophet. The Companions believed every word of the revelation to proceed from no other than the Divine source, so they secured it in the securest of places, viz., their hearts.

The Holy Prophet himself set an example in frequently reciting the Quran in public as well as in private. It was not only in prayers that long portions of the Holy Book were recited. We have on record instances showing that the Prophet recited the Quran when travelling on the back of a camel (Bukhari, 66:24). He also loved to hear others recite the Quran.

There are many trustworthy reports which show that there were numerous men among the Companions who could recite the whole Quran from memory. Seventy of them were treacherously put to death by a tribe of the unbelievers (Bukhari, 64:30). The fact that such a large number of them were murdered in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet shows that there were hundreds of them among the Companions.

That the arrangement of the verses and chapters of the Holy Quran was effected by the Holy Prophet under the guidance of Divine revelation is shown in the first place by the Holy Quran itself. There we read:

“Surely on Us rests the collecting of it and the reciting of it. So when We recite it, follow its recitation.” — 75:17–18

This is one of the very earliest revelations, showing that the collection of the Holy Quran, that is, its gathering into one whole, with an arrangement of its various parts, was according to the Divine scheme to be brought about by the guidance of Divine revelation.

In another chapter, revealed a little later, we have the following words addressed to the Holy Prophet:

“And those who disbelieve say: Why has not the Quran been revealed to him all at once? It is so that We may strengthen your heart with it and We have arranged it well in arranging.” — 25:32

The Quran itself, therefore, makes it clear that its collection and arrangement were also brought about by Divine revelation.

We meet with the clearest proof in authentic and reliable reports that the Holy Prophet left at his death the complete Quran with the same arrangement of the verses and chapters as we have now in every Arabic Quran. That such a large book, treating so many and such varied subjects, should have been committed to memory and regularly recited in and outside prayers, and taught by one man to another, without there being any settled arrangement of its parts, is a most preposterous proposition.

The practice of the Holy Prophet has already been referred to in a report quoted earlier, in which Uthman tells us: "It was customary with the Messenger of Allah, when portions of different chapters were being revealed to him, that when any verse was revealed, he called one of those persons who used to write the Quran and said to him, Write these verses in the chapter where such and such verses occur." From this it appears that the place and chapter for every verse were pointed out by the Holy Prophet himself.

There is a report in Bukhari (64:12) as follows: "The Holy Prophet said, Whoever reads the last two verses of the chapter entitled Baqarah on any night, they are sufficient for him". This shows that the Holy Prophet himself followed an arrangement which he had made known to his Companions, and they all followed the same arrangement; otherwise, he could not have referred to two verses as the last two verses of a certain chapter. This and numerous other Hadith reports show conclusively that the arrangement of verses in the chapters was the Prophet's own work. That this arrangement was the same as that followed now in the copies of the Holy Quran is shown by the absence of any other arrangement in the whole Muslim world.

Conclusive evidence shows that not only the verses but even the chapters of the Quran were arranged by the Holy Prophet.

Abu Bakr collected original written manuscripts of the Quran

The primary work of the collection of the Holy Quran was done by the Holy Prophet himself under the guidance of Divine revelation.

Such collection was needed only by those who wished to commit the whole of the Quran to memory and it was in reciting the whole that the arrangement of chapters was needed. Hence, though the whole Quran existed in a complete and arranged form in the memories of the Companions, yet there did not exist an authorized collection of it in writing. So long as the recipient of the Divine revelation lived, the whole could not be written in a single volume as at any time a verse might be revealed which it was necessary to place in the middle of a chapter. Such a collection became, however, a necessity after the death of the Holy Prophet. It was also needed to facilitate reference to and circulation of the Holy Word, and to give it a more permanent form than was secured to it in being consigned to memory. Such was the object with which the collection of the Holy Quran was taken in hand by Abu Bakr.

Soon after the death of the Holy Prophet, the Muslims fought a battle at Yamamah, in which many of those who had committed the whole of the Quran to memory lost their lives. Thereupon Umar urged Abu Bakr to give immediate orders for the collection of the Quran, fearing that more of the reciters may be killed in the future. When Abu Bakr was convinced of this course, he sent for Zaid ibn Thabit and said:

So heavy did the task appear to Zaid that at that time he thought: “It would not have been more difficult for me, if I had been asked to remove a mountain”. But at last he was prevailed upon, and began the search (Bukhari, 65.9: 20).

There was nothing to be feared so long as the reciters were safe, but if they perished in battles then it was feared certain portions of the Holy Quran might be lost, because the manuscripts of different chapters and verses had not been up to that time collected in one place. The report shows that the entire Quran was safe in the memories of the reciters, and Umar only desired to make a collection of the Quran in writing in addition to the collection existing in the memories of the reciters.

The object of the collection undertaken by Abu Bakr was to gather together what had been written in the presence of the Holy Prophet. Zaid's collection was meant to secure the original writings, and this was the great difficulty to which Zaid alluded. Zaid was chosen for the task because he had written the greater portion of the revelation at Madinah and was presumed to have all those copies safe in his custody. But the task before him was a very difficult one. He had to search all the original writings and then give them an arrangement in accordance with that of the verses and chapters as followed in the recitation of the entire Quran from memory, in obedience to the directions given by the Holy Prophet. That these writings were safe cannot be doubted. Everything relating to Divine revelation was preserved with the utmost care. But the task was no doubt an arduous one, and required hard labour and diligent search.

Hence also the first direction of Abu Bakr to Zaid was to "search for the Quran and collect it", and it is easy to see that a search had only to be made for writings. If the object of the new collection for which Umar contended were simply to reduce the Quran to writing as recited by those who had committed the whole of it to memory, sufficient accuracy could have been obtained by gathering together a few reciters, and Zaid had only to write out the Holy Quran as dictated by them and approved by the Companions. But Umar's object and Abu Bakr's orders were to gather the original writings which had been written according to the directions of the Holy Prophet himself, and thus to make the accuracy of the text doubly certain.

The most important question with regard to the collection made under the orders of Abu Bakr is: Did it accord in every respect with the Quran as stored and collected in the memories of the Companions, and as repeated and recited, publicly as well as privately, in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet? There is not the least reason to believe that it did not. In the first place, none of the compilers was actuated by any motive to make any change in the text. The earnest desire of all those engaged in the task was to have a complete and faithful collection of what had been revealed to the Holy Prophet. Secondly, the collection began only six months after the death of the Holy Prophet, while almost all of those who had heard the Quran from his lips were still alive. Thirdly, there were many among them who could repeat the whole of the Quran from memory. There were others who knew large portions, and these were kept fresh in memory by constant recitation in and apart from prayers. It was impossible that any variation from the text as prevalent in the time of the Holy Prophet should have found its way into the collection in the presence of such men. Fourthly, there were many transcripts of the revelations current among the Companions. And since every verse was written at the time of its revelation, and copies of it were then made by the Companions, there were ample means of testing the accuracy of the collection of Zaid. Memory and writing thus corroborated the already unimpeachable testimony afforded by each.

Uthman ordered further copies from Abu Bakr's original collection

The collection thus made remained, we are told, in the possession of Abu Bakr, and after his death in that of Umar. After the latter's death, the copy was transferred to the custody of Hafsa, the daughter of Umar, and a widow of the Holy Prophet. Thus the collection made by the orders of Abu Bakr came down to the reign of Uthman without any alteration in its text or arrangement. But some circumstances coming to the notice of Uthman, he deemed it necessary to circulate official copies, transcribed by official scribes, and suppress all those made by private persons, either from the collection of Zaid or from other writings still prevalent among them.

The circumstances which made it necessary are thus described:

“Anas relates that there came to Uthman, Hudhaifah who had been fighting with the people of Syria in the conquest of Armenia and with the people of Iraq in Azarbaijan, and who was alarmed at their variations in the modes of reading, and he said to Uthman: ‘O Commander of the Faithful, stop the people before they differ in the Holy Book as the Jews and the Christians differ in their Scriptures’. So

Uthman sent word to Hafsa asking her to send him the Quran in her possession, so that they might make other copies of it and then send the original copy back to her. Thereupon Hafsa sent the copy to Uthman, and he ordered Zaid ibn Thabit and Abdullah ibn Zubair and Sa'ad ibn al-As and Abdur Rahman ibn Harith ibn Hisham, and they made copies from the original copy. Uthman also said to the three men who belonged to the Quraish (Zaid being a Madinite): 'When you differ with Zaid in anything concerning the Quran, then write it in the language of the Quraish, for it is in their language that it was revealed'. They obeyed these instructions, and when they had made the required number of copies from the original copy, Uthman returned the original to Hafsa and sent to every quarter one of the copies thus made, and ordered all other copies or leaves on which the Quran was written to be burned." (Bukhari, 66:3)

It was only in newly converted countries, where Arabic was not spoken, that these differences were noticed. As to the nature of these differences, it is stated in clear words that they were only differences in modes of reading. But it was feared that, if nothing was done to put a stop to the slight differences existing at that time, they might, after the lapse of a few generations, develop into serious ones.

The report tells us that, when variations of readings were brought to the notice of Uthman, the only action that he took was to obtain the collection made in the time of Abu Bakr, and to have other copies transcribed from it for circulation. Thus copies of the Quran transcribed under his orders were true and faithful copies of the collection of Abu Bakr, which, as we have seen, was in the custody of Hafsa after the death of Umar. Zaid was one of the men who were now called upon to make fresh copies from it. To remove any difference of dialect or variation in the mode of writing certain words that might possibly arise, Uthman gave the orders that the reading of the Quraish should be adopted in preference to any other reading. But the only example of such variation that has been preserved to us in reports is that Zaid read a word as tābūh and the Quraish read it as tābūt, there being a very slight difference as to the manner in which the final letter of the word was to be written, without there being the slightest change in significance; and such importance was given to this trifling difference that the matter was reported to Uthman for decision. Hence we have conclusive testimony in our hands showing that the copies of the Quran made and circulated under the orders of Uthman were exact and faithful copies of the original collection of Zaid made in the time of Abu Bakr. Had there been any difference between the original and the copies made, it would no doubt have come to light in the long reign of Uthman or in that of Ali, when Muslims had been divided into factions, and that copy was still in the possession of Hafsa.

The work of collecting the written manuscripts of the Quran was thus carried out by Abu Bakr after the death of the Holy Prophet, and Uthman did nothing but order the necessary number of copies to be made from Abu Bakr's collection. He acted after consultation with the Companions, securing the services of the most eminent men who were noted for their knowledge of the Quran to carry out and superintend the work of the transcription. The copies made by his orders were recognized as true copies by the whole Muslim world, and these copies have admittedly remained unaltered through the centuries that have since elapsed.

The Holy Book is prefaced with a short Makkan chapter which, in its seven short verses, contains the essence of the whole of the Quran, and teaches a prayer which is admittedly the most beautiful of all prayers taught by any religion, and which sets before man an ideal greater than any other which can be conceived. If the preface is the quintessence of the Quran and places before man the highest ideal, the commencement of the Book is equally logical, for the second chapter opens with a clear statement as to its aims and objects. Chapters 2 to 5 all belong to the Madinan revelation and, occupying as they do over a fifth of the whole Quran, deal in detail with the teachings of Islam, comparing them with the previously existing teachings, particularly Jewish and Christian, which had by that time become the prototypes of error in religion, the former laying too much stress on outward ritual, while utterly neglecting the spirit, and the latter condemning law itself, trusting to faith in Christ alone. The greater part of Islamic law dealing with the individual, home and civic life of man is contained in these four chapters.

These are followed by two of the longest Makkan chapters, 6 and 7, the first of which deals in detail with the doctrine of Divine Unity, and the second with that of prophethood. This latter chapter illustrates the doctrine of prophethood with reference to the histories of some well-known prophets. These two are again followed by two Madinan chapters, which fit in with the context, as they show how opposition to Truth as revealed to the Holy Prophet was dealt with: the first of these — the 8th — deals with their discomfiture in the first struggle in the battle of Badr and the second — the 9th — with their final vanquishment.

Then follows a group of seven Makkan chapters (10th to 16th), the Alif Lām Rā group, dealing with the truth of the Holy Prophet's revelations, internal evidence, evidence from man's nature, from the histories of the previous prophets and from external nature, being produced to establish that truth. Another group of five Makkan chapters follows it, all dealing with the greatness to which Islam was destined to rise, with special reference to Jewish history in ch. 17, to Christian history and doctrine in ch. 18 and ch. 19, to the history of Moses in ch. 20, and to the history of prophets in general and their deliverance in ch. 21. Two more Makkan chapters follow, the 22nd showing that the Prophet's cause must triumph, though the faithful would be required to make great sacrifices for the cause of Truth, and the 23rd showing that the foundation on which the greatness of the Muslim nation rested was moral, not material. A Madinan chapter — the 24th — is then brought in to show how the prophecies of the Makkan revelations were being brought to fulfilment by the establishment of a Muslim kingdom and the dissemination of the spiritual light of Islam. The 25th chapter is again a Makkan revelation, which shows, as its name indicates, that the distinction between truth and falsehood which the Holy Quran was to establish was witnessed in the lives of the Companions of the Holy Prophet.

A group of three more Makkan chapters (26th to 28th), the Ṭā Sīn group, is then introduced, prophesying the ultimate triumph of the Holy Prophet with special reference to the triumph of Moses over a powerful enemy who was bent upon destroying the Israelites. Another group of four Makkan chapters (29th to 32nd), the Alif Lām Mīm group, follows and shows that the state of helplessness and utter weakness in which the Muslims were at the time would soon be changed. A Madinan chapter, the 33rd, is again inserted showing how the combined forces of the enemies of Islam in the Battle of the Allies failed to crush Islam. The utmost simplicity of the Holy Prophet's domestic life is here brought in to show that the attractions of this world, such as wealth or kingdom, had no charm for him, despite the fact that he then ruled Arabia, and that he was to be a model for all nations and for all ages, no prophet being needed after him, and emphasizing that it was only shortsighted critics who found fault with a man who led a life of such unexampled purity and simplicity. A group of six Makkan chapters follows (34th to 39th), showing that the rise and fall of nations are brought about by the good and evil they do, and that nations which rise to greatness can retain their eminent position only if they are not ungrateful for the favours conferred upon them.

The next group of seven Makkan chapters (40 to 46) is known as the Ḥā Mīm group, and it lays stress on the fact that Truth must overcome opposition and that no temporal power with all the material resources at its back can annihilate Truth. This is followed by a group of three Madinan chapters: the 47th, which was revealed in 1 A.H., showing that those who had accepted the truth as revealed to the Holy Prophet, though in great distress, would soon have their condition ameliorated; the 48th, which belongs to 6 A.H., predicting in the clearest words the final triumph of Islam over all the religions of the world; and the last of this group, ch. 49, which was revealed towards the close of the Holy Prophet's life, enjoining on the Muslims the duty of respect for one another.

From the 50th to the 56th, is another group of seven Makkan chapters pointing out the great spiritual awakening which was to be brought about by the Holy Quran. Then comes the last group of Madinan revelations, ten chapters in all, from the 57th to the 66th, which supplement what has already been said in the previous Madinan chapters, the last two of these, the 65th and 66th, being clearly a supplement to the second chapter, al-Baqarah, and dealing with the subject of divorce and temporary separation.

Then follow 48 short Makkan chapters, showing how people and nations can rise to eminence by following the Truth which is revealed in the Holy Quran, and how they suffer loss by rejecting the Truth. The Holy Book ends with a concise but clear declaration of Divine Unity, in chapter 112; the last two chapters show how to seek refuge in Divine protection against all kinds of mischief.

Key

It is sometimes necessary to know whether the words “you” and “your” in the translation (when not referring to God) occur in the singular or plural in the Arabic text. To indicate the singular case in this translation, the initial letter “y” is set in italic font, like this: you. For example, in 2:4 in the words “revealed to you”, the word “you” is in the singular, referring to the Holy Prophet Muhammad, while in 4:140 in the words “revealed to you” the word “you” is plural, referring to all Muslims. Note that whenever God is addressed, it is always in the singular in the Arabic text of the Quran, and in those cases in this translation the letter “y” has been capitalised, as in “You” and “Your”.

Footnotes: Footnote numbering on each page starts afresh from a. In each footnote, the footnote mark (a, b, c, etc.) is followed in parentheses by the number of the verse that it refers to; for example: b (1). When two or more footnotes refer to the same verse, the verse number is followed by a dash and a serial number (-1, -2, etc.); for example: a (3-1) and b (3-2).

Transliteration: Common words are not transliterated, such as Islam, Quran, Allah, Muhammad, Hadith (which would be: Islām, Qur’ān, Allāh, Muḥammad, Ḥadīth). Some names are transliterated only to the extent of placing the ‘bar’ over the letters a, i, or u, to indicate that the vowel is long, as a guide to pronunciation. Full transliteration marks are only used when the exact form of a word or phrase in Arabic needs to be represented, and in all such cases that text is printed in italics. For all words that are not fully transliterated, the full transliteration has provided on the page entitled Transliterated Forms at the end of the Index.

Sections: The marking of sections (each called a rukū’) within the longer chapters of the Quran is only found in certain parts of the Muslim world, such as the Indian subcontinent. The section headings given in this work (following Maulana Muhammad Ali’s original translation) are inserted by the translator, and are not found in the Quran itself.

Introduction

Al-Fātiḥah or The Opening is the quintessence of the whole of the Holy Quran. It formed an essential part of the Muslim prayers from the earliest days of Islam. The chapter is headed by the words Bi-smillāh-ir-Raḥmān-ir-Raḥīm (“In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful”), which also head every other chapter of the Quran except the ninth. The first three verses speak of the four chief Divine attributes, namely, providence, beneficence, mercy and requital, and the last three lay open before the Great Maker the earnest desire of man’s soul to walk in righteousness, without stumbling on either side, while the middle verse is expressive of man’s entire dependence on Allah. These Divine attributes disclose Allah’s all-encompassing beneficence and care, and His unbounded love for all of His creatures, and the ideal to which the soul is made to aspire is the path of righteousness, the path of grace, and the path in which there is no stumbling.

a. The phrase is equivalent to: I seek the assistance of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful. The word Allāh is a proper name applied to the Being Who exists necessarily by Himself, comprising all the attributes of perfection.

Raḥmān (“Beneficent”) and Raḥīm (“Merciful”) both signify tenderness requiring the exercise of beneficence, the former indicating the greatest preponderance of the quality of mercy, and the latter being expressive of a constant repetition and manifestation of the attribute. Ar-Raḥmān is the Beneficent God

Whose love and mercy are manifested in the creation of this world, and ar-Raḥīm is the Merciful God Whose love and mercy are manifested in the state that comes after, in the consequences of people's deeds. Thus the former is expressive of the utmost degree of love and generosity, and includes both the believer and the unbeliever for its objects, while the latter is expressive of unbounded and constant favour and mercy, and relates specially to the believer.

b (1) Rabb ("Lord") is the Author of all existence Who has not only given to the whole creation its means of nourishment but has also beforehand ordained for each a sphere of capacity and within that sphere provided the means by which it continues to attain gradually to its goal of perfection. There is no single word in English carrying the significance of the word Rabb — Nourisher to perfection would be nearest. Thus the very first words of the Quran — Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds — are in consonance with the cosmopolitan nature of the religion of Islam, which requires belief in prophets of all nations.

c (3) The adoption of the word master is to show that Allah can forgive His servants, because He is not a mere king or a mere judge, but more properly a Master. The word yaum ("day") is applied in the Holy Quran to any period of time, from a moment (55:29) to fifty thousand years (70:4), and may therefore indicate an indefinitely small or indefinitely large amount of time. In describing God as Master of the day of Recompense, the Holy Quran lays stress, on the one hand, on the fact that the Divine law of recompense of deeds is working every moment, and thus makes man feel the responsibility of what he does, and gives prominence, on the other, to the quality of forgiveness in Divine nature as God's dealing with man is like that of a Master Who is essentially merciful.

d (4) Here the way is pointed out through which man can attain to real greatness. It is through 'ibādat (service) of God which means obedience combined with complete humility, and through seeking help from God. The idea of 'ibādat in Islam is not a mere declaration of the glory of God, but the imbibing of Divine morals and receiving their impress through humble service to God.

e (5) Hidāyat (guidance) means not only showing the way but also leading one on the right way till one reaches the goal.

f (6) Those upon whom favours are bestowed are the four classes mentioned in 4:69, namely, the prophets, the truthful, the faithful and the righteous. It is in the footsteps of these spiritual leaders of the world that the Muslim aspires to walk, the chief aim of his life thus being not only his own spiritual perfection but to try also for the spiritual perfection of others.

g (7) Muslims are warned here that even after receiving Divine favours they may incur Divine displeasure and go astray from the path which leads to the goal of perfection. The Jews provide an example of a people failing in righteous deeds, failing to carry out the spirit of the doctrine while retaining the doctrine, and the Christians an example of a people corrupting the doctrine itself. The Muslims are thus taught a prayer that they may neither fail in good deeds while retaining the letter of the law, nor corrupt the doctrine, and that they may be kept on the middle path, avoiding either extreme.

Al-Baqarah

The Cow

The name of this chapter is taken from the story in verses 67–71 regarding the slaughter of a cow, cow-worship having taken a hold among the Jews. This chapter deals mainly with the Israelites and their contentions against Islam, and hence much of the legislation, details of which necessarily differ from the Jewish law, is dealt with in this chapter. The last chapter contains a prayer for being guided on the right path (1:5), and here that guidance is afforded in the opening words: “This Book, in which there is no doubt, is a guide” (v. 2).

The chapter deals with: the fundamental principles of Islam, need for Divine revelation, history of the Israelite nation, the replacement of former scriptures by the Quran, the covenant with Abraham, Islamic teachings on various important matters (including fasting, pilgrimage, wars, marriage and divorce), the power of Allah to give life to dead nations, and the need to sacrifice wealth in the cause of Truth. It ends with a prayer for the ultimate triumph of truth. This chapter was revealed at Madinah, mostly in the years 1 and 2 A.H.

Section 1: Fundamental Principles of Islam

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower.^a ²This Book, in which there is no doubt, is a guide to those who keep their duty,^b ³who believe a (1) This verse consists of the letters alif, lām, mīm. The combinations of letters or single letters occurring at the commencement of several chapters of the Quran are, according to the best received opinion, abbreviations standing for words. Translations of the Holy Quran generally leave these abbreviations untranslated. The alif, lām, mīm, occurring here as well as at the commencement of five other chapters, are interpreted by some early authorities as meaning “I, Allah, am the best Knower”, alif standing for ana, lām for Allāh, and mīm for a’lam, being respectively the first, the middle and the last letters of the words for which they stand. Others regard them as contractions for some Divine attribute.

b (2) The application of the word “book” (kitāb) to the Holy Quran occurs in very early revelations, and shows clearly that the Quran was from the first meant to be a complete book that existed not only in the memory of people but also in

in the Unseen^a and keep up prayer and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them,^b 4and who believe in what has been revealed to you and what was revealed before you,^c and of the Hereafter^d they are sure. 5These are on a right course from their Lord and these it is that are successful.

6 Those who disbelieve — to whom it is the same whether you warn them or do not warn them^e — they will not believe. 7Allah has sealed their hearts and their hearing; and there is a covering on their eyes, and for them is a grievous punishment.^f writing. The Quran is here described as affording guidance to those who keep their duty, because the sense of keeping his duty is innate in man. No guidance would benefit those who have no regard for their duty.

a (3-1) The Unseen here stands for Allah, a belief in Whose existence is the cardinal principle of religion.

b (3-2) In Islam prayer assumed a regularity and a form. However, it is not the mere observance of the form that the Quran requires, but the keeping of it in a right state, i.e. being true to the spirit of the prayer. Spending out of what one has been given stands for charity in its broadest sense, or the doing of good to all creatures. This verse lays down the two prime duties which are necessary for spiritual advancement: prayer to God and service to humanity.

c (4-1) Islam requires faith in all the prophets of the world and the recognition of truth in all religions. The words what was revealed before you (O Prophet) include revelations to all the nations of the world, for we are elsewhere told that “there is not a people but a warner has gone among them” (35:24). A Muslim is therefore one who believes in all the prophets of God, sent to any nation, whether their names are mentioned in the Holy Quran or not.

d (4-2) A life after death, according to Islam, implies a state of existence which begins with death, but a complete manifestation of which takes place later, when the fruits of the actions done in this life take their final shape. A belief in God and a belief in the Hereafter, being respectively the first and the last of the fundamental principles of Islam as mentioned here, often stand for a belief in all the fundamental principles of Islam, as in 2:8, 2:62, etc.

e (6) The passage is parenthetical, meaning that disbelievers of a particular type, i.e., those who pay no heed at all to the Holy Prophet’s warning, cannot benefit by his preaching.

f (7) Only those disbelievers are spoken of here who so hardened their hearts as not to pay any heed to the Prophet’s preaching and warning, as clearly indicated in the previous verse; compare 7:179: “They have hearts with which they do not understand, and they have eyes with which they do not see, and they have ears with which they do not hear. They are as cattle.” Allah is here spoken of as having

Section 2: Lip-profession

8 And there are some people who say: We believe in Allah and the Last Day; and they are not believers.^a ⁹They seek to deceive Allah and those who believe, and they deceive only themselves and they do not perceive. ¹⁰In their hearts is a disease, so Allah increased their disease,^b and for them is a painful punishment because they lie. ¹¹And when it is said to them, Do not make mischief in the land, they say: We are only peacemakers. ¹²Now surely they are the mischief-makers, but they do not perceive. ¹³And when it is said to them, Believe as the people believe, they say: Shall we believe as the fools believe? Now surely they are the fools, but they do not know.

14 And when they meet those who believe, they say, We believe; and when they are alone with their devils,^c they say: Surely we are with you, we were only mocking. ¹⁵Allah will pay them back their mockery,^d and He leaves them alone in their inordinacy, blindly wandering on. ¹⁶These are they who buy error for guidance, so their bargain brings no gain, nor are they guided.

17 Their parable is as the parable of one who kindles a fire, but when it illumines all around him, Allah takes away their light, and leaves them in darkness^e — they cannot see. ¹⁸Deaf, dumb,

a (8) Belief in Allah and the Last Day is here equivalent to the profession of Islam. After speaking of the accepters and the rejecters of the Holy Prophet's message, the Quran now speaks of the insincere people who accept the message only with their lips. The persons spoken of in this verse are the hypocrites, who were a source of constant trouble to the Holy Prophet at Madinah.

b (10) In 71:6 Noah is made to say: "But my call has only made them flee the more", though the call was meant to bring them nearer to the truth. The disease here stands for the weakness of their hearts, for they had not the courage to deny Islam openly, and this weakness only became the greater as the cause of Islam became more and more triumphant.

d (15) God will requite them with punishment according to their mockery.

e (17) The kindler of the fire is the Holy Prophet Muhammad, who kindled

(and) blind, so they do not return (to the right way), ¹⁹or like abundant rain from the cloud in which is darkness, and thunder and lightning; they put their fingers into their ears because of the thunder-peal, for fear of death. And Allah encompasses the disbelievers. ²⁰The lightning almost takes away their sight. Whenever it shines on them they walk in it, and when it becomes dark to them they stand still.^a And if Allah had pleased, He would have taken away their hearing and their sight. Surely Allah is Powerful over all things.

21 O people, serve your Lord Who created you and those before you, so that you may guard against evil, ²²Who made the earth a resting-place for you and the heaven a structure,^b and sends down rain from the clouds then brings forth with it fruits for your sustenance; so do not set up rivals to Allah while you know. ²³And if you are in doubt as to that which We have revealed to Our servant, then produce a chapter like it and call on your helpers besides Allah if you are truthful.^c ²⁴But if you do not (do it) — the torch of light. The light of their eyes, which alone could make them take advantage of the light which was lit up by the Prophet, was taken away. The act of taking away the light is attributed to Allah, as the remote cause.

a (20) When difficulties and distresses befell the Muslims — when it became dark — the hypocrites and the weak-hearted stood still. They refused to keep company with the Muslims in the battles which the latter had to fight. When there was a flash of lightning, and a success followed — a success so great that it almost blinded them — they would walk on a little and seem to be keeping company with the Muslims.

b (22) Attention is thus drawn to the oneness of humanity, as if it were a single family living in one resting-place under one roof.

c (23) A similar challenge is contained in 10:38. See also 11:13. In 17:88 the whole of mankind are declared to be unable to produce a book like the Quran. While the Quran is undoubtedly a unique production of Arabic literature, its chief characteristic, in which no other book can claim equality with it, is the wonderful, unparalleled transformation which it accomplished. Its injunctions swept off the most deep-rooted evils and made an ignorant people the foremost torchbearers of knowledge and science, and masters of the greatest empire of the world. Besides, every word of the Quran gives expression to Divine majesty and glory in a manner which is not approached by any other sacred book.

and you can never do (it) — then be on your guard against the fire whose fuel is people and stones;^a it is prepared for the disbelievers.

25 And give good news to those who believe and do good deeds, that for them are Gardens in which rivers flow.^b Whenever they are given a portion of the fruit of these (Gardens), they will say: This is what was given to us before; and they are given the like of it.^c And they will have therein pure companions^d and therein they will abide.

26 Surely Allah does not disdain to set forth any parable — a gnat or anything above that.^e Then as for those who believe, they know that it is the truth from their Lord; and as for those who disbelieve, they say: What is it that Allah means by this parable?

a (24) The reference in “stones” may be to the leaders, called “helpers” in the previous verse, while “people” would stand for the common people.

b (25-1) The description of paradise as given in the Holy Quran is expressly stated to be a parable; see 13:35, 47:15. The righteous are spoken of as having gardens in the next life to show that they have made the seed of faith to grow into extensive gardens, and this is in reference to the vast development of their inner self or of the faculties which God has given them. The rivers represent the good deeds which are necessary to the growth of the seed. The fruits of the life after death are the consequences of the deeds done in this life.

c (25-2) Whenever the faithful are made to taste of a portion of the fruits of their good deeds in the life to come, they will find those fruits much resembling the fruits which they tasted spiritually in this life. The like of it may signify that the fruits of their deeds will be similar to those deeds.

d (25-3) The pure companions may be the believing wives of the faithful, as elsewhere we have: “They and their wives are in shades, reclining on raised couches” (36:56). But more probably these are among the blessings of the heavenly life to which men and women are equally entitled. All the blessings of heavenly life are, according to a saying of the Holy Prophet, “things which no eye has seen and no ear has heard, nor has it entered into the heart of man to conceive of them” (Bukhari, 59:8). The words in which these blessings are depicted in the Holy Quran, therefore, should not be taken literally.

e (26-1) The parables to which reference is contained in these words are the parables speaking of the weakness of the false deities; see 29:41, 22:73. The gnat is mentioned here because among the Arabs it is a proverbially weak creature, so that to express the utmost degree of weakness they say, weaker than the gnat.

Many He leaves in error by it^a and many He leads aright by it. And He leaves in error by it only the transgressors, ²⁷who break the covenant of Allah after its confirmation and cut apart what Allah has ordered to be joined,^b and make mischief in the land. These it is that are the losers.

28 How can you deny Allah and you were without life and He gave you life? Again, He will cause you to die and again bring you to life, then you shall be brought back to Him.^c 29He it is Who created for you all that is in the earth. And He directed Himself to the heaven,^d so He made them complete seven heavens;^e and He is Knower of all things.

Section 4: Greatness of Mankind and Need for Revelation

30 And when your Lord said to the angels,^f I am going to place a ruler in the earth,^g they said: Will You place in it such as a (26-2) Allah guides people by sending His messengers, and therefore He could not be spoken of as leading them astray. When ascribed to God, the word aḍalla used here means He pronounced him to be erring or He left him in error.

b (27) The covenant of Allah is the evidence of His Unity to which human nature bears witness. The confirmation of this covenant is brought about by sending prophets. Cutting off what Allah has ordered to be joined is the disregard of others' rights.

c (28) The first part of the verse contains an argument of the existence of God Who gave life to man, and the second states that death on this earth is not the end of life but the beginning of another, an eternal and a far higher life.

d (29-1) The earth was made after the heavens; see 79:30.

e (29-2) The word sab'a, which signifies the number seven, is also used as meaning seven or more, several or many. In 65:12 it is affirmed that as there are seven heavens so there is a like number of earths, and the seven heavens are called the seven ways in 23:17, and in this sense the orbit of a planet may be called its heaven. The seven heavens may also be taken to apply to the whole starry creation and the reference may in this case be to the magnitudes of the stars.

f (30-1) Allah's saying to the angels is really the expression of an intention which is to be brought into execution. It is not a conversation, or a consultation with the angels; it is an expression of the Divine will to those intermediary beings who are entrusted by the Divine Being with its execution. The existence of such intermediaries has been recognized by the righteous in all ages and all countries.

g (30-2) This shows the high place that man was destined to hold in the whole make mischief in it and shed blood? And we celebrate Your praise and extol Your holiness. He said: Surely I know what you do not know.^a ³¹And He taught Adam^b all the names,^c then presented them to the angels; He said: Tell Me the names of those if you are right. ³²They said: Glory be to You! we have no knowledge but what You have taught us. Surely You are the Knowing, the Wise. ³³He said: O Adam, inform them of their names. So when he informed them of their names, He said: Did I not say to you that I know what is unseen in the heavens and the earth? And I know what you manifest and what you hide.^d

34 And when We said to the angels, Be submissive to Adam, they submitted,^e but not Iblīs. He refused and was proud, and he

of creation. What is stated here is an allegorical description of the preference of man above the whole of the creation on this earth, and then of the election of those righteous servants of Allah from among men themselves who lead others into the right path. One view is that the word “ruler” (khalīfa) here refers to the whole of mankind, which is corroborated by the Quran itself in 6:165.

a (30-3) Being entrusted with such great powers, man could use them rightly or wrongly. The whole history of mankind is briefly written in this one verse. Man is the greatest killer on this earth but he also turns the gifts of God to the best use. To God was known the brighter side of this picture; hence the words, I know what you do not know.

b (31-1) Nowhere in the Holy Quran is it affirmed that Adam was the first man or that there was no creation before him. Great Muslim theologians have held that there were many Adams — thousands of Adams — before the great ancestor of mankind known by this name. Adam, therefore, though it may also be the name of a particular man, stands for mankind generally.

c (31-2) Teaching Adam the names signifies the vast capability of man and the superiority of his knowledge to that of the angels. Or, the reference may be to the faculty of speech, which is the real source of the excellence of man above the whole of creation.

d (33) “What you hide” refers to those great qualities in man which preponderate the evil in him, and which remain hidden until they are made manifest through the Divine gift of knowledge. The immense capability of man for progress remains hidden, while the evil of shedding blood is manifested in a very primary stage in his growth.

e (34-1) Adam throughout this section stands for man generally; so submission is to man generally. Man has a superiority over the angels on account of his great gift of knowledge of things, the angels being the controlling powers of

was one of the disbelievers.^a ³⁵And We said: O Adam, dwell you and your wife in the garden, and eat from it a plentiful (food) wherever you wish,^b and do not approach this tree or you would be from among the unjust.^c ³⁶But the devil made them slip from it, and caused them to depart from the state in which they were.^d And We said: Go forth, some of you are enemies of others.^e And there is for you in the earth an abode and a provision for a time.

the forces of nature. By his knowledge man could harness the forces of nature and exercise control over them; in other words, the angels submitted to him.

a (34-2) Iblīs and Satan (Arabic: shaiṭān) refer to one and the same being. The word Iblīs is used when the evil one's evil is limited to himself, and Satan, when his evil affects others besides himself. The angels' submission meant that man could control the forces of nature by his knowledge of things. But he himself was a part of nature, and he could not conquer his own evil desires. The conquest of self needed yet another act of Divine mercy, the sending of Divine Revelation. Note that Iblīs was not one of the angels.

b (35-1) The garden spoken of in this verse was on this earth, as it was on the earth that man was placed. It was certainly not the paradise to which people go after death, and from which they will never be expelled (15:48). The placing in the garden signifies leading a life of ease and comfort, as is shown by the words that follow: "Eat from it a plentiful food wherever you wish". These may also be translated as: Eat from it wherever you wish, having abundance of all things.

c (35-2) It was the tree of the spiritual death of man, the tree of evil. Compare 14:24–26, where a good word is likened to "a good tree, whose root is firm and whose branches are high, yielding its fruit in every season", and an evil word is likened to "an evil tree pulled up from the earth's surface; it has no stability". The order to eat from the earth a plentiful food but not to approach evil is really a description of what pure human nature is. Man is entitled to all the benefits of nature to maintain the body so long as he does not forget his soul.

d (36-1) The words mean that the devil made them commit a fault unintentionally. The result was that they were made to depart from the happy condition in which they were. The Quran contradicts the Bible: it was not the serpent that misled Eve, nor did Eve mislead Adam. The devil cast an evil suggestion into the minds of both Adam and Eve, as he casts evil suggestions into the mind of every son and daughter of Adam and Eve.

e (36-2) The new condition in which man finds himself by submitting to his low desires is the condition of the mutual enmity of one to the other, the tyranny of man to man being undoubtedly the greatest evil which man can commit. The use of the words "some of you are enemies of others" shows clearly that this address is to all mankind.

37 Then Adam received (revealed) words from his Lord, and He turned to him (mercifully). Surely He is Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful.^a 38We said: Go forth from this (state) all. Surely a guidance from Me will come to you, then whoever follows My guidance, no fear shall come upon them, nor shall they grieve.^b 39And (as to) those who disbelieve in and reject Our messages, they are the companions of the Fire; in it they will abide.^c

Section 5: Israelite Prophecies fulfilled in the Quran

40 O Children of Israel, call to mind My favour which I bestowed on you and be faithful to (your) covenant with Me, I shall fulfil (My) covenant with you; and Me, Me alone, should you fear.^d 41And believe in what I have revealed, verifying what a (37) Man is found too weak to overcome the evil suggestions of the devil or the evil inclinations in him, however strong he may be to conquer the forces of nature. So God comes to his help and reveals Himself to him. He sends down revelation which, strengthening his faith in God, gives him the strength to overcome the devil and reject his suggestions.

b (38) This is a statement of a general law that Divine Revelation will be granted to the whole of humanity and prophets will appear everywhere from time to time, and by following the guidance sent by God through His prophets people will attain to a state of perfection in which “no fear shall come upon them, nor shall they grieve”. Those who truly follow the Divine Revelation shall have no fear of the devil misleading them, nor shall they grieve at wasting the opportunity given them in this life.

c (39) The people spoken of in this verse are those who not only disbelieve but also exert their utmost to oppose revealed truth and uproot it. They keep company with evil in this life, so the fire becomes their companion in the next to purge them of the evil consequences of their evil deeds. Their hearts burn with evil passions in this life, and it is this very fire that assumes a palpable shape in the next. Note that the word khālidūn (“abide”) signifies simply abiding, which may be for a long time, and does not necessarily convey the idea of perpetuity.

d (40) After speaking of the need of Divine Revelation, the Quran now speaks of a nation to whom this favour was granted, among whom many prophets were raised and who were also made rulers in the earth (see 5:20). The Jewish people who are addressed here are generally mentioned as Children of Israel, Israel being the other name of Jacob, son of Isaac, son of Abraham. For the covenants spoken of here, see Deuteronomy 26:17–19. The covenant included the acceptance of the revelation to the promised prophet of Deut. 18:18.

is (already) with you, and do not be the first to deny it; nor take a small price for My messages;^a and keep your duty to Me, Me alone. ⁴²And do not mix up truth with falsehood, nor hide the truth while you know. ⁴³And keep up prayer and give the due charity^b and bow down with those who bow down. ⁴⁴Do you tell people to be good and neglect your own souls while you read the Book? Have you then no sense? ⁴⁵And seek assistance through patience and prayer, and this is hard except for the humble ones, ⁴⁶who know that they will meet their Lord and that to Him they will return.

Section 6: Divine Favours on Israel

47 O Children of Israel, call to mind My favour which I bestowed on you and that I made you excel the nations.^c ⁴⁸And guard yourselves against a day when no soul will avail another in the least, neither will intercession be accepted on its behalf,^d nor will compensation be taken from it, nor will they be helped.

49 And when We delivered you from Pharaoh's people, who subjected you to severe torment, killing your sons and sparing a (41) The verification referred to here is clearly the fulfilment of the promise contained in Deuteronomy 18:15–18: “The Lord your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren. Him you shall hear...”. No prophet ever claimed to have come in fulfilment of this prophecy except the Holy Prophet Muhammad. The religious leaders rejected the truth which the Holy Prophet brought, fearing to lose their high position as leaders. They thus sacrificed truth to the inducements of this life, and took “a small price” for it.

b (43) These are the two fundamental principles of religion: worship of God through prayer to Him, and service of humanity or helping the poor.

c (47) By “the nations” are meant the people contemporaneous with the Israelites in their days of triumph, or large masses of people. Numerous prophets were raised among them, and they were made to rule in the earth, and these are the favours of which Moses also reminds them (5:20).

d (48) The Islamic doctrine that the prophets and the righteous will intercede for sinners on the day of Judgment really means that if they took as their model a righteous servant of God and did their best to follow him, this will shelter them from their own weaknesses. See further 2:255 footnote 1 and 4:85 footnote.

your women, and in this there was a great trial from your Lord. ⁵⁰And when We parted the sea for you, so We saved you and drowned the people of Pharaoh while you saw.^a ⁵¹And when We appointed a time of forty nights with Moses, then you took the calf (for a god) after him, and you were unjust.^b ⁵²Then We pardoned you after that so that you might give thanks.

53 And when We gave Moses the Book and the criterion^c that you might walk aright. ⁵⁴And when Moses said to his people: My people, you have surely wronged yourselves by taking the calf (for a god), so turn to your Creator (penitently), and kill your passions.^d That is best for you with your Creator. So He turned to you (mercifully). Surely He is the Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful.

55 And when you said: Moses, we will not believe in you till we see Allah manifestly, so the punishment overtook you while you looked on.^e ⁵⁶Then We raised you up after your stupor that you might give thanks. ⁵⁷And We made the clouds to give shade a (50) The Quran does not say how the Israelites were made to pass through the sea or in what manner the parting of the sea was brought about. One explanation is that the Israelites passed when the sea receded on account of the ebb, and the Egyptians were drowned because the tide was on at the time, and in their zeal to overtake the Israelites they did not care for it.

b (51) While the making of the calf is attributed to Aaron in the Bible, the Holy Quran declares that prophet to be innocent in the matter.

c (53) Furqān ('criterion', 'distinction') is anything that makes a distinction between truth and falsity, and hence it signifies a proof or demonstration and also aid or victory. In the sense of distinction, the furqān given to Moses was Pharaoh's drowning in the sea and the deliverance of the Israelites. In the case of the Holy Prophet the battle of Badr afforded the furqān or distinction, and hence the battle of Badr is called yaum al-furqān or the day of distinction in 8:41.

d (54) The Holy Quran rejects the Bible story of the Israelites being killed as a punishment for calf-worship. They were pardoned and were told simply to repent, and God accepted their repentance as clearly stated here. Therefore anfusa-kum does not mean here your people, but your desires or your passions. No prophet ever taught that a man can be killed for the worship of an object other than God.

over you and We sent to you manna and quails. Eat of the good things that We have given you. And they did Us no harm, but they wronged their own souls.

58 And when We said: Enter this city, then eat from it a plentiful (food) wherever you wish, and enter the gate submissively, and make petition for forgiveness. We will forgive you your wrongs and increase the reward of those who do good (to others). 59But those who were unjust changed the word which had been spoken to them, for another saying,^a so We sent upon the wrongdoers a pestilence from heaven because they transgressed.^b

60 And when Moses prayed for water for his people, We said: March on to the rock with your staff.^c So twelve springs flowed from it. Each tribe knew their drinking-place. Eat and drink of the provisions of Allah, and do not act corruptly, making mischief in the land. 61And when you said: Moses, we cannot endure one food, so pray your Lord on our behalf to bring forth for us out of what the earth grows, of its herbs and its cucumbers and its garlic and its lentils and its onions.^d He said: Would you exchange what

b (59-2) When a punishment overtakes a people as a consequence of their wicked deeds it is spoken of as coming from heaven, the significance probably being that it cannot be averted. The pestilence spoken of here is referred to in the Bible in Numbers 25:8–9, according to which 24,000 men died of the plague.

c (60) The words may mean strike the rock with your staff or march on to the mountain with your staff or your community. The story that Moses carried a stone with him and that twelve springs flowed from it whenever, placing it in the wilderness, he struck it with his staff, has no foundation in the words of the Holy Quran or any saying of the Holy Prophet. What the words of the Quran signify is either that Moses was commanded by God to strike a particular rock with his staff from which water flowed forth miraculously, or to march on to a mountain from which springs flowed.

d (61-1) The Israelites were required to live a hard life which would make them fit for conquering the Holy Land; this was better for them. But they wanted to live a life of ease and to have all kinds of food which they could get only by settling in towns and tilling the land.

is better for what is worse? Enter a city, so you will have what you ask for. And degradation and humiliation were stamped upon them, and they incurred Allah's wrath.^a That was so because they disbelieved in the messages of Allah and would kill the prophets unjustly. That was so because they disobeyed and exceeded the limits.

Section 8: Israelites' Degeneration

62 Surely those who believe, and those who are Jews, and the Christians, and the Sabians,^b whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day and does good, they have their reward with their Lord, and there is no fear for them, nor shall they grieve.^c

63 And when We made a covenant with you and raised the mountain above you:^d Hold on firmly what We have given you, and bear in mind what is in it, so that you may guard against evil. ⁶⁴Then after that you turned back; and if it had not been for the grace of Allah and His mercy on you, you would certainly have a (61-2) The verse speaks of the ultimate condition to which the Israelites were reduced when they persisted in setting at naught the Divine commandments and indulged in immoral and depraved practices.

b (62-1) The commentators hold different opinions regarding Sabians, most of them agreeing that they are representatives of a religion between Judaism and Christianity, based on the doctrine of unity, but also maintaining worship of angels.

c (62-2) This verse strikes at the root of the idea of a favoured nation whose members alone may be entitled to salvation. The subject is introduced here to show that even the Jews, despite their transgressions which had made them deserving of Divine wrath, were entitled to a goodly reward if they believed and did good deeds. The statement made here is that salvation cannot be attained by mere lip-profession by any people, not even by the Muslims, unless they adhere to a true belief and do good deeds. The existence of good people in other religions is not denied by the Holy Quran, but perfect peace, or the state of absolute contentment which is indicated by freedom from fear and grief, is obtainable only in Islam, because it alone is the religion of absolute submission to the Divine Being.

d (63) There is nothing in the words of the Quran to support the baseless story that the mountain was suspended in the air over the heads of the Israelites to frighten them into submission. The use of the word raf' ("raised") is in accordance with the Arabic idiom, for it signifies the making high or lofty of a building.

been among the losers. ⁶⁵And indeed you know those among you who violated the Sabbath,^a so We said to them: Be (as) apes, despised and hated.^b ⁶⁶So We made them an example to those who witnessed it and those who came after it and an admonition to those who guard against evil.

67 And when Moses said to his people: Allah commands you to sacrifice a cow.^c They said: Do you ridicule us? He said: I seek refuge with Allah from being one of the ignorant. ⁶⁸They said: Call on your Lord for our sake to make it plain to us what she is. (Moses) said: He says, Surely she is a cow neither advanced in age nor too young, of middle age between these (two); so do what you are commanded. ⁶⁹They said: Call on your Lord for our sake to make it clear to us what her colour is. (Moses) said: He says, She is a yellow cow; her colour is intensely yellow delighting the onlookers. ⁷⁰They said: Call on your Lord for our sake to make it clear to us what she is, for surely to us cows are all alike, and if Allah please we shall surely be guided aright. ⁷¹(Moses) said: He says: She is a cow not made submissive to plough the land, nor does she water the crops, sound, without a blemish in her. They said: Now you have brought the truth. So they slaughtered her, though they were not inclined to do (it).

a (65-1) There is no Sabbath among the Muslims because in Islam no particular day is set apart for Divine worship. On the other hand, the Muslim is required to pray in the very midst of his everyday work, and even the Jumu'ah (Friday) prayers are no exception, for the Quran expressly allows the doing of work both before and after the Jumu'ah prayers.

b (65-2) An early commentator, Mujahid, gives the following explanation: "They were not transformed or metamorphosed; it is only a parable which Allah has set forth for them, the like of what He has set forth in likening them to asses (62:5), i.e., their hearts were transformed, not that they were metamorphosed into apes."

c (67) As the Israelites held the cow in great honour, and even worshipped it, as is clear from their worship of the golden calf, they were ordered to slaughter such cows as were usually let loose to wander and worshipped as sacred objects, the aim being to root out cow-worship from among them.

Section 9: They grow in Hard-heartedness

72 And when you (almost) killed a man,^a then you disagreed about it. And Allah was to bring forth what you were going to hide.^b ⁷³So We said: Strike him with it partially. Thus Allah brings the dead to life,^c and He shows you His signs that you may understand. ⁷⁴Then your hearts hardened after that, so that they were like rocks, rather worse in hardness. And surely there are some rocks from which streams burst forth; and there are some of them which split apart so water flows from them; and there are some of them which fall down for the fear of Allah.^d And Allah is not heedless of what you do.

75 Do you then hope that they would believe in you, and some of them indeed used to hear the word of Allah, then altered it after they had understood it, and they know (this).^e ⁷⁶And when they meet those who believe they say, We believe, and when they are apart with one another they say: Do you talk to them of what Allah has disclosed to you that they may contend with you by this before your Lord? Do you not understand? ⁷⁷Do they not know a (72-1) This incident refers to Jesus, as it was with respect to his death that disagreement took place and many doubted his death. Compare the incidents narrated here with the same incidents as narrated in 4:153–157. The words you killed are used because the Jews asserted that they had killed him, and because metaphorically a person may be said to have been killed when he is made to appear as if he were dead.

b (72-2) The Jews wanted to kill Jesus, but God ordained that he should not die. This was the bringing forth of what they were going to hide.

c (73) The act of murder was not completed in the case of Jesus, as the Gospels show, for after he was taken down from the cross his legs were not broken, as in the case of the thieves. This was really a case of giving life to the dead, for Jesus Christ was dead to all appearance. Those actually dead do not return to life in this world; see 21:95, 23:100 and 39:42.

d (74) Even hardened hearts would receive life — even more, they would give life to others, be a source of spiritual life for others as water and streams are sources of life in the physical world.

e (75) That the Israelites did not preserve their sacred books in their purity is a constant charge laid by the Holy Quran against the Jews. In fact, the alteration and corruption of the various books of the Bible is now proved beyond all doubt.

that Allah knows what they keep secret and what they make known? ⁷⁸And some of them are illiterate; they do not know the Book except (from) hearsay, and they only conjecture.^a

79 Woe, then, to those who write the Book with their hands then say, This is from Allah; so that they may take for it a small price. So woe to them for what their hands write and woe to them for what they earn. ⁸⁰And they say: Fire will not touch us but for a few days. Say: Have you received a promise from Allah? Then Allah will not fail to perform His promise. Or do you speak against Allah what you do not know? ⁸¹Indeed, whoever earns evil and his sins beset him on every side, those are the companions of the Fire; in it they abide.^b ⁸²And those who believe and do good deeds, these are the owners of the Garden; in it they abide.^c a (78) The Jewish masses had no access to their own sacred books which were known only to their learned men, and therefore their religious ideas were based only on stories which they knew from hearsay. The same is to a very large extent true of the Muslims of our day. In the early days of Islam, every individual Muslim, man as well as woman, sought light direct from the Quran. Not so the Muslims in this age who depend entirely on their learned men. They do read the Quran but look upon mere recitation as a meritorious deed without trying to learn what it says, and then act upon it.

b (81) The inmates of the Fire are here stated to be those who earn evil, and find themselves beset on every side by their evil deeds. These are the people who give themselves up to evil, and who therefore ultimately find themselves in the power of evil, which even in this life, but more palpably in the life after death, assumes the form of a burning fire. It should be noted that the one who struggles against evil, however long that struggle may take, to overcome an evil inclination, is not the one who earns evil, because the earnest struggle in which the fighter against evil hates and detests evil, and seeks to overcome it, always ends in a victory for the good and noble qualities in human beings.

c (82) The doers of good are called aṣḥāb al-Jannah or owners of the Garden. The word aṣḥāb is plural of ṣāḥib which means a companion or an owner. I have translated aṣḥāb an-nār as companions of the Fire but aṣḥāb al-Jannah as owners of the Garden, because while the inmates of the Fire will be taken out of it after being purged of the evil, of paradise it is said that it is “a gift never to be cut off” (11:108), and that those in it will never be ejected from it (15:48).

Section 10: Their Covenant and its Violation

83 And when We made a covenant with the Children of Israel:^a You shall serve none but Allah. And do good to (your) parents, and to the near of kin and to orphans and the needy, and speak good (words) to (all) people,^b and keep up prayer and give the due charity.^c Then you turned back except a few of you, and you are averse. ⁸⁴And when We made a covenant with you: You shall not shed your blood, nor turn your people out of your cities; then you promised and you bear witness.^d ⁸⁵Yet you it is who would kill your people and turn some of you out of their homes, backing each other up against them unlawfully and exceeding the limits. And if they should come to you as captives you would ransom them, whereas their turning out itself was unlawful for you. Do you then believe in a part of the Book and disbelieve in the other?^e What then is the reward of such among you as do this but

b (83-2) The word qaul (speaking) is used to express all kinds of deeds, and hence the speaking of good words to all stands for kind dealing with all.

c (83-3) Prayer and zakāt ("due charity") as enjoined on the Israelites differed from the Islamic prayer and zakāt in details. The directions regarding tithes among the Israelites are contained in Deuteronomy 14:28–29.

d (84) The previous verse speaks of a covenant with the Children of Israel while this one speaks of a covenant with you. The reference here is to the important treaty of mutual obligation in writing which the Holy Prophet entered into with the Jews when he settled at Madinah. By this treaty the Muslims and the Jews were bound not only not to turn their hands against each other but also to defend one another against a common enemy.

e (85) The reference is to the terms of the original treaty under which the Jews were bound to ransom the Muslims if they were made captives by an enemy. They did not openly repudiate the treaty but intrigued with the enemy to turn the Muslims out of Madinah. The reference in believing in a part of the book and disbelieving in the other is to this conduct of the Jews. Most commentators, however, understand that the reference here is to the alliance which the two Jewish tribes, Quraizah and Nadir, living side by side at Madinah, had made with Aus and Khazraj, the two rival tribes of Madinah respectively. When the latter fought against each other, their allies took part in the fighting, and thus one Jewish tribe slaughtered and imprisoned the other and laid waste their habitations, disgrace in the life of this world, and on the day of Resurrection they shall be sent back to the most grievous punishment. And Allah is not heedless of what you do. ⁸⁶These are they who buy the life of this world for the Hereafter, so their punishment shall not be lightened, nor shall they be helped.

Section 11: They reject the Prophet

87 And We indeed gave Moses the Book and We sent messengers after him one after another; and We gave Jesus, son of Mary, clear arguments and strengthened him with the Holy Spirit.^a Is it then that whenever a messenger came to you with what your souls did not desire, you were arrogant? And some you rejected and others you would kill. ⁸⁸And they say: Our hearts are securely covered.^b No, Allah has cursed them on account of their unbelief;^c so it is little that they believe. ⁸⁹And when a Book from Allah came to them verifying what they (already) have, and before this they used to pray for victory against those who disbelieved^d — but afterwards collected subscriptions for the release of the Jewish prisoners, on the ground that the law commanded them to redeem the prisoners and they fought against their co-religionists for the honour of their allies.

a (87) Generally the epithet “son of Mary” is added to Jesus’ name to show that he was a mortal like other prophets of God. The long chain of prophets that came after Moses ended in Jesus, Moses being the first and Jesus the last prophet of the Israelite dispensation. The idea of the Holy Ghost as met with in Christian religious literature is quite different from and opposed to the Jewish conception of the Holy Spirit which Islam accepts. The Holy Spirit is the angel which brought revelation: “The Holy Spirit has revealed it (i.e. the Quran) from your Lord” (16:102). Jesus’ being strengthened with the Holy Spirit only means that he was granted Divine revelation like other prophets before him.

b (88-1) The meaning is either that they said that their hearts were so full of knowledge already that they stood in no need of any further knowledge, or that their hearts were covered from hearing and accepting what the Prophet said.

c (88-2) The allegation of the Israelites was that, being descendants of prophets, their hearts were the repositories of knowledge, and being already, as it were, full of knowledge, they did not stand in need of more. They are told that it was really their disbelief which became the cause of their estrangement from the good which the Holy Prophet had brought.

d (89) The Jews expected that when the Prophet spoken of in Deuteronomy

but when that which they recognized came to them, they disbelieved in it; so Allah's curse is on the disbelievers. ⁹⁰Evil is what they sell their souls for — that they should deny what Allah has revealed, out of envy that Allah should send down of His grace on whomsoever of His servants He pleases; so they incur wrath upon wrath. And there is a humiliating punishment for the disbelievers.

91 And when it is said to them, Believe in what Allah has revealed, they say: We believe in what was revealed to us. And they deny what is besides that, while it is the Truth verifying what they (already) have.^a Say: Why then did you kill Allah's prophets before (this) if you were believers?^b ⁹²And Moses indeed came to you with clear arguments, then you took the calf (for a god) in his absence and you were wrongdoers. ⁹³And when We made a covenant with you and raised the mountain above you: Take hold of what We have given you with firmness and obey. They said: We hear and disobey.^c And they were made to imbibe (the love of) the calf into their hearts on account of their disbelief. Say: Evil is what your faith bids you if you are believers.

94 Say: If the abode of the Hereafter with Allah is specially for you to the exclusion of the (other) people, then invoke death if you are truthful. ⁹⁵And they will never invoke it on account of what their hands have already done, and Allah knows the wrongdoers. ⁹⁶And you will certainly find them the greediest of people for life, (greedier) even than those who set up partners (with Allah). One of them loves to be granted a life of a thousand years, and his being granted a long life will in no way remove him a (91-1) They asserted that they could accept only a revelation granted to an Israelite. The reply to this is that the revelation of the Holy Prophet is the truth verifying what is contained in their own scriptures.

b (91-2) They tried to kill even Israelite prophets, which shows that it was their hard-heartedness which prevented them from accepting the truth, whether that truth was revealed through an Israelite or a non-Israelite prophet.

c (93) They did not utter these words with their tongues, but it is an expression of their condition.

further off from the punishment. And Allah is Seer of what they do.

Section 12: Their Enmity to the Prophet

97 Say: Whoever is an enemy to Gabriel ^a — for surely he revealed it to your heart by Allah’s command, verifying what is (already) before it and a guidance and glad tidings for the believers. 98Whoever is an enemy to Allah and His angels and His messengers and Gabriel and Michael, then surely Allah is an enemy to disbelievers. ^b

99 And We indeed have revealed to you clear messages, and none disbelieve in them except the transgressors. 100Is it that whenever they make a covenant, some of them cast it aside? No, most of them have no faith. 101And when a messenger from Allah came to them verifying what they (already) have, some of those who were given the Book threw the Book of Allah behind their backs as if they knew nothing. ^c

102 And they follow what the devils fabricated against the kingdom of Solomon. ^d And Solomon did not disbelieve, but the devils disbelieved, teaching people enchantment. ^e And it was not a (97) The Jews looked upon Gabriel as their enemy because he was considered to be an avenging angel who brought down Divine punishment upon the guilty. But in the Bible, as in the Holy Quran, Gabriel is mentioned as delivering Divine messages to men, as in Daniel 8:16 and in Luke 1:19 and 26.

b (98) Man’s enmity to Allah signifies opposition to His commandments, and Allah’s enmity to man signifies the recompense for his opposition. Note that Allah is here said to be an enemy to those disbelievers only who first make themselves enemies to His prophets, and hence also to the Divine Being Himself.

c (101) The covenant referred to in v. 100 as being cast aside, and the throwing of the Book behind their backs, both refer to the Israelites paying no heed to the prophecy of Deuteronomy 18:18, which was verified by the advent of the Holy Prophet.

d (102-1) According to an interpretation accepted by all commentators, by the devils here are meant human devils, or devils in the form of people.

e (102-2) The Arabic word sihr (“enchantment”) signifies ‘the producing of what is false in the form of truth’, and ‘embellishment by falsification and deceit’.

revealed to the two angels in Babel — Hārūt and Mārūt. Nor did they teach (it to) anyone, so that they should have said, We are only a trial, so do not disbelieve. But they learn from these two (sources) that by which they make a distinction between a man and his wife. And they cannot hurt with it anyone except with Allah's permission. And they learn that which harms them and does not benefit them. And certainly they know that he who buys it has no share of good in the Hereafter.^a And surely evil is the price for which they have sold their souls; if only they knew! ¹⁰³And if they had believed and kept their duty, reward from Allah would certainly have been better; if only they knew!

104 O you who believe, do not say Rā'i-nā and say Unzur-nā, and listen. And for the disbelievers there is a painful punishment.^b ¹⁰⁵Neither those who disbelieve from among the People of the Book, nor the idolaters, like that any good should be sent down to you from your Lord. And Allah chooses whom He pleases for His mercy; and Allah is the Lord of mighty grace. ¹⁰⁶Whatever message We abrogate or cause to be forgotten, We bring one better than it or one like it.^c Do you not know that Allah is Powerful over a (102-3) What the Quran says here is that the Jews, instead of following the word of God, followed certain evil crafts which they falsely attributed to Solomon and to two angels at Babel (Hārūt and Mārūt). Solomon is declared free of any such sinfulness attributed to him, and the story of the two angels is declared to be a fabrication. But the Jews are blamed for learning from these two sources, i.e., by their fabrications against Solomon and the story of the two angels, things by which they made a distinction between a man and his wife. These words refer to secret gatherings of the nature of masonic societies, for it is in freemasonry and in no other religious society of the world that women are totally excluded. The words, they cannot hurt with it anyone except with Allah's permission, show that by this craft they intended to inflict some injury on the Holy Prophet.

b (104) Rā'i-nā is equivalent to listen to us, but with a slight change of accent it becomes ra'ina, which means he is foolish. The word unzur-nā, which means wait for us or grant us a little delay, is suggested instead, because it cannot be distorted. Morally the injunction is worthy of the highest regard, as it disapproves of the use of words bearing a sinister meaning.

c (106) The objection of the Jews was: Why was another revelation sent all things? ¹⁰⁷Do you not know that Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth, and that besides Allah you have not any friend or helper? ¹⁰⁸Rather you wish to put questions to your Messenger, as Moses was questioned before. And whoever adopts disbelief instead of faith he indeed has lost the right direction of the way. ¹⁰⁹Many of the People of the Book wish that they could turn you back into disbelievers after you have believed, out of envy from themselves, after truth has become clear to them. But pardon and forgive, till Allah bring about His command.^a Surely Allah is Powerful over all things.

110 And keep up prayer and give the due charity. And whatever good you send on ahead for yourselves, you will find it with Allah. Surely Allah is Seer of what you do. ¹¹¹And they say: None shall enter the Garden except he who is a Jew, or the Christians.^b These are their vain desires. Say: Bring your proof if you are truthful. ¹¹²No, whoever submits himself entirely to Allah and he is the doer of good (to others), he has his reward from his Lord, and there is no fear for such nor shall they grieve.^c down to Muhammad, and why was a law containing new commandments promulgated? The answer is that if one law (i.e. the Jewish law) was abrogated, one better than it was given through the Holy Prophet. The doctrine that some of the Quranic verses were abrogated by others, though a generally accepted view, is due to a misconception of the words of this verse and is based simply on conjecture. There are no discrepancies in the Quran, and it is want of reflection on it that is responsible for the theory of abrogation.

b (111) What is said here may be expanded thus: The Jews say that none shall enter the Garden except a Jew and the Christians say that none shall enter the Garden except the Christians. Both degraded religion to a belief in a set of doctrines, and leading a life of righteousness was not considered as of the essence of religion.

c (112) Their assertions that only the Jews and the Christians will be saved are groundless. It is entire submission to God and the doing of good to His creatures that is the true source of salvation, and that is what 'Islam' means according to the Holy Quran. The name Islam is derived from aslama, meaning 'submission' or 'entering into peace'. See also 3:19 footnote.

Section 14: Perfect Guidance is only in Islam

113 And the Jews say, The Christians follow nothing (good), and the Christians say, The Jews follow nothing (good), while they recite the (same) Book. Even thus say those who have no knowledge, like what they say.^a So Allah will judge between them on the day of Resurrection in that in which they differ.

114 And who is more unjust than he who prevents (people) from the mosques of Allah, from His name being remembered in them, and strives to ruin them? (As for) these, it was not proper for them to enter them except in fear. For them is disgrace in this world, and theirs is a grievous punishment in the Hereafter.^b ¹¹⁵And Allah's is the East and the West, so whichever way you turn, there is Allah's purpose.^c Surely Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing.

116 And they say: Allah has taken to Himself a son — glory be to Him! Rather, whatever is in the heavens and the earth is His. All are obedient to Him.^d ¹¹⁷Wonderful Originator of the heavens

a (113) The Jews and the Christians are here blamed for denying all good in each other like ignorant people, despite both being followers of one Book, by which is here meant the Old Testament, which both accepted. As against this, the Quran accepts that there is partial truth in all religions.

b (114) The idolatrous Quraish had turned the Muslims out of the Sacred Mosque at Makkah and the Jews and the Christians were now helping them to annihilate the small Muslim community in Madinah, which practically meant the laying waste of the Sacred Mosque itself. The word mosques is used here because the Sacred Mosque was to be the centre of all the mosques of the world. This generalization further shows that the fate of all those who prevented Muslims from worshipping Allah in mosques is predicted here, and the fate of the opponents of the Holy Prophet bears ample testimony to the truth of this prediction.

c (115) These words point clearly to the Divine promise that all obstacles in the path of the Muslims will be removed and victory will follow their footsteps.

d (116) The phrase “glory be to Him” (subhāna-hū) is always used to declare the freedom of the Divine Being from all imperfections, and is always mentioned in connection with the Christian doctrine that God has a son to show that to attribute a son to the Divine Being is to attribute an imperfection to Him, which is met with in human beings. The doctrine of sonship is mentioned here as being opposed to the religion which requires entire submission to Divine and the earth! And when He decrees an affair, He only says to it, Be, and it is.^a ¹¹⁸And those who have no knowledge say: Why does not Allah speak to us or a sign come to us?^b Even thus said those before them, like what they say. Their hearts are all alike. Indeed We have made the messages clear for a people who are sure. ¹¹⁹Surely We have sent you with the Truth as a bearer of good news and as a warner, and you will not be called upon to answer for the companions of the flaming Fire.

120 And the Jews will not be pleased with you, nor the Christians, unless you follow their religion. Say: Surely Allah's guidance — that is the (perfect) guidance. And if you follow their desires after the knowledge that has come to you, you shall have from Allah no friend, nor helper. ¹²¹Those to whom We have given the Book follow it as it ought to be followed.^c These believe in it. And whoever disbelieves in it, these it is that are the losers.

Section 15: Covenant with Abraham

122 O Children of Israel, call to mind My favour which I bestowed on you and that I made you excel the nations.^d ¹²³And be

a (117) This is the oft-recurring phrase in which Allah's act of the creation and annihilation of things is spoken of in the Holy Quran. It is not meant by this that there is no gradual process in the creation of things. It is, in fact, an answer to those who think that the creation of things by God is dependent on the previous existence of matter and soul and the adaptability of their attributes. The argument given here in the word "Originator" (badi') is that man, who stands in need of matter to make things, also stands in need of a pattern after which to make them, but God stands in need of neither.

b (118) The answer to both these demands is contained in v. 119, for as a bearer of good news the Holy Prophet told them that if they purified themselves by walking in his footsteps, Allah would speak to them, and as a warner he informed them of the coming wrath (the sign which they often demanded) if they persisted in their evil ways.

d (122) The Israelites are three times told in the Holy Quran (see earlier 2:40 and 2:47) that God had made them a great nation but that it was by their own evil on your guard against a day when no soul will avail another in the least, neither will any compensation be accepted from it, nor will intercession benefit it, nor will they be helped.

124 And when his Lord tried Abraham with certain commands he fulfilled them. He said: Surely I will make you a leader of people. (Abraham) said: And of my offspring? My covenant does not include the wrongdoers, said He.^a ¹²⁵And when We made the House a resort for people and a (place of) security,^b and (saying): Take the Place of Abraham for a place of prayer.^c And We deeds and forsaking the ways of righteousness that they were proving themselves unworthy of that greatness. Here they are being addressed the third time and reminded of the covenant which was made with Abraham, the great patriarch in whom the Israelites and the Ishmaelites met.

a (124) Abraham was made spiritual leader of people because he was found perfect in fulfilling the Divine commandments. As a spiritual leader of three great nations of the world, that patriarch occupies a unique position. Having discussed at length that a prophet from the Ishmaelites had come in accordance with the prophecies of the Israelite prophets, the Holy Quran now proceeds to show that even the covenant with their great ancestor Abraham necessitated the appearance of a prophet in Arabia. The second part of the verse states that the spiritual leadership of the world was still with Abraham's descendants. The covenant was made, not with Israel but with Abraham, and that therefore the seed of Ishmael and Isaac were equally to be blessed. In fact, as stated further on in 2:125, the covenant was made with both Abraham and Ishmael. The Jewish and Christian contention that the covenant made with Ishmael was simply of a temporal nature is groundless.

b (125-1) Al-Bait or The House is the famous house known by this name to this day, the Ka'bah. It is also known as Bait Allah or the House of Allah, and is the same as the Bethel of the Bible. History bears out these three distinguishing characteristics of the Ka'bah. It exists from the remotest antiquity, it was visited annually by people from the most distant corners of Arabia, and its sacredness was respected by the whole of Arabia.

c (125-2) The Ka'bah, the spiritual centre of Islam, was connected with the name of Abraham, and pointed reference to this is made in the mention of Maqām Ibrāhīm or the Place of Abraham. It is true that a particular place, a small building supported by six pillars about eight feet high, situated in the Ka'bah, is known by this name, and is incontrovertible evidence of Abraham's connection with Arabia and its spiritual centre. But here really Maqām Ibrāhīm stands for the House itself. The injunction to take the Place of Abraham for a place of prayer means that the Ka'bah shall be the Central Mosque of the Muslims. It is called the Place commanded Abraham and Ishmael,^a saying: Purify My House for those who visit (it) and those who abide (in it) for devotion and those who bow down (and) those who prostrate themselves. ¹²⁶And when Abraham said: My Lord, make this a secure town and provide its people with fruits, such of them as believe in Allah and the Last Day. He said: And whoever disbelieves, I shall grant him enjoyment for a short while, then I shall drive him to the punishment of the Fire. And it is an evil destination.^b

127 And when Abraham and Ishmael raised the foundations of the House:^c Our Lord, accept from us; surely You are the Hearing, the Knowing. ¹²⁸Our Lord, and make us both submissive to You, and (raise) from our offspring, a nation submissive to You,^d and show us our ways of devotion and turn to us (mercifully); surely You are the Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful. ¹²⁹Our Lord, and raise up in them a Messenger from among them who shall recite to them Your messages and teach them the Book of Abraham because it was Abraham who purified it of the idols and it was Abraham who rebuilt The House as stated further on.

a (125-3) Ishmael's connection with Arabia is established by the Bible itself, for Kedar (son of Ishmael, Genesis 25:13) stands throughout the writings of the Old Testament for Arabia (Psalms 120:5, Isaiah 42:11 and 60:7). The Arab tradition representing Abraham as coming with Hagar and Ishmael to the place where now Makkah is, is quite independent of the Bible statement, and the facts recorded in the Quran are borne out fully by Arab tradition and the Bible.

b (126) Abraham, when settling Hagar and Ishmael near the Sacred House, which was already there, laid the foundations of the city of Makkah there. While Abraham prayed for provisions of life for the righteous only, God's acceptance of the prayer included the wicked of that city as well (see 28:57).

c (127) Abraham and Ishmael rebuilt the Ka'bah, which was already there; see 14:37.

d (128) The word translated as submissive is Muslim in the original. A Muslim is so called because he surrenders himself to the will of God or because he is secure from the slavery of the devil or because he enters into peace. Though all prophets were Muslims but only the followers of the Prophet Muhammad are known as a Muslim nation. At the time when these verses were revealed, there existed only a few Muslims in Madinah, and reference to a Muslim nation was still prophetic.

and the Wisdom, and purify them. Surely You are the Mighty, the Wise.^a

130 And who forsakes the religion of Abraham but he who makes a fool of himself. And certainly We made him pure in this world, and in the Hereafter he is surely among the righteous. ¹³¹When his Lord said to him, Submit, he said: I submit myself to the Lord of the worlds. ¹³²And the same did Abraham command his sons, and (so did) Jacob: My sons, surely Allah has chosen for you (this) religion, so do not die except as submitting ones. ¹³³Or were you witnesses when death visited Jacob, when he said to his sons: What will you serve after me? They said: We shall serve your God and the God of your fathers, Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac, one God only, and to Him do we submit. ¹³⁴Those are a people that have passed away; for them is what they earned and for you what you earn; and you will not be asked of what they did.

135 And they say: Be Jews or Christians, you will be on the right course. Say: Rather, (we follow) the religion of Abraham, the upright one,^b and he was not of those who set up partners (with Allah). ¹³⁶Say: We believe in Allah and (in) what has been revealed to us, and (in) what was revealed to Abraham, and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes, and (in) what was given to Moses and Jesus, and (in) what was given to the prophets from their Lord; we make no distinction between any of them and a (129) The Messenger had appeared but the great task of teaching the Book and the Wisdom to the progeny of Ishmael, the Arabs, and the still greater task of purifying them of evil, had yet to be performed, and its mention at this time was therefore prophetic. The more one ponders on the unique transformation brought about by the Holy Prophet in Arabia, and through Arabia in the world, the more one's head bows before the grandeur of this prophecy.

b (135) The word ḥanīf or "upright" is often mentioned in connection with the name of Abraham and the Holy Prophet, and his followers are also enjoined to be ḥanīf. Muslims are enjoined to remain firm in the right state, and thus to be the true representatives of the Abrahamic faith in the world. It is for this reason that the word ḥanīf is used here in opposition to the attitude of both the Jews and the Christians.

to Him we submit.^a ¹³⁷So if they believe as you believe, they are indeed on the right course; and if they turn back, then they are only in opposition. But Allah will be sufficient for you against them; and He is the Hearing, the Knowing. ¹³⁸(We take) Allah's colour, and who is better than Allah at colouring, and we are His worshippers.^b ¹³⁹Say: Do you dispute with us about Allah, and He is our Lord and your Lord, and for us are our deeds and for you your deeds;^c and we are sincere to Him? ¹⁴⁰Or do you say that Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes were Jews or Christians? Say: Do you know better or Allah?^d And who is more unjust than he who conceals a testimony that he has from Allah? And Allah is not heedless of what you do. ¹⁴¹Those are a people that have passed away; and for them is what they earned a (136) This shows the cosmopolitan nature of a Muslim's belief. Not only is belief in the great prophets of Israel an article of faith with a Muslim, but the words what was given to the prophets from their Lord make the Muslim conception of belief in prophets as wide as the world. And it should be noted that this broad conception was promulgated at a time when the Jews and the Christians were exerting themselves to the utmost against the new faith.

b (138) The religion of Islam is called Allah's colour because God is uppermost in a Muslim's ideas, and because his views are as broad as humanity. This particular word has also been adopted here as a hint to Christians that baptism of water does not effect any change in a person. It is the baptism of the broad principle of faith, accepting the prophets of all nations, that brings about change in the mentality of man. It is through this baptism that the new birth is received, because it opens the mind for the reception of all truth, and inspires it with love and reverence for all good people.

c (139) A Muslim's conception of Allah is very broad. It includes all that is best in all other religions, but is free from the limitations they put. Therefore no one who is true to his religion can dispute the Muslim conception of the Divine Being. Moreover, every religion of the world limits the spiritual sustenance of God to one nation or one country. Not so Islam, which says that the truth was revealed to every nation. Every nation thus accepts partial truth, only that part of the truth which was revealed to it, but Islam accepts the whole truth.

d (140) The Jewish claim was that only acceptance of the Jewish law could save man, and the Christians claimed that none could be saved unless he accepted the atonement of Jesus. They are told that their ancestors who were prophets were the followers of neither the one nor the other. Islam was, in fact, a reversion to the simple faith of sincerity, the faith of Abraham and his immediate followers and descendants.

and for you what you earn; and you will not be asked concerning what they did.

Part 2

142 The fools among the people will say: What has turned them from their qiblah which they had? Say: The East and the West belong only to Allah; He guides whom He pleases to the right path.^a ¹⁴³And thus We have made you an exalted nation^b that you may be the bearers of witness to the people and (that) the Messenger may be a bearer of witness to you.^c And We did not make that which you would have to be the qiblah^d but that We

a (142) Qiblah means the direction or point towards which one turns his face. In its religious usage it means the direction towards which a person turns his face when saying his prayers, and the qiblah is thus the Spiritual Centre of a people. The change here referred to is the change which took place at Madinah about sixteen months after the Prophet's flight to that city. While the Holy Prophet was at Makkah among the idolaters, he used to pray with his face to the Holy Temple at Jerusalem, but when he came to Madinah, where the Jewish element was strong and powerful, he was directed by Divine Revelation to turn his face to the Ka'bah as his qiblah. If Abraham's seed was to be blessed in Ishmael's progeny, it was necessary that the new Spiritual Centre should be the house purified by Abraham and Ishmael, the First House appointed for mankind, the temple at Jerusalem being only the spiritual centre of the Israelites.

b (143-1) The word wasat ("exalted") signifies the middle part of anything; and therefore, as being removed from either extreme, it signifies the best part of a thing. The commentators explain wasat as meaning equitable and exalted. By making the Ka'bah their qiblah, Allah had made it known that they were the people, the Muslim nation, for whom Abraham had prayed (v. 128), and therefore they were the inheritors of all those Divine blessings which had been promised to the seed of Abraham.

c (143-2) The bearers of witness are the persons who carry knowledge to others, bearing testimony to its truth in their own persons. Some commentators explain the word shahid ("bearer of witness") as meaning a purifier. But it also means an Imam or a leader, and the significance is that just as the Prophet delivered the message of truth to the Muslims and was their purifier and leader, the role of the Muslim community was to deliver the message of truth to the whole of humanity and to be its purifiers and leaders.

d (143-3) The words "that which you would have to be the qiblah" mean on which you had firmly set your heart that it should be your qiblah. It thus appears that the Prophet longed that the Ka'bah should be his qiblah, yet he did not take might distinguish him who follows the Messenger from him who turns back upon his heels. And it was indeed a hard test except for those whom Allah has guided. Nor was Allah going to make your faith to be fruitless. Surely Allah is Compassionate, Merciful, to the people. ¹⁴⁴Indeed We see the turning of your face to heaven, so We shall surely make you master of the qiblah which you like;^a turn then your face towards the Sacred Mosque. And wherever you are, turn your faces towards it. And those who have been given the Book certainly know that it is the truth from their Lord.^b And Allah is not heedless of what they do.

145 And even if you should bring to those who have been given the Book every sign they would not follow your qiblah, nor can you be a follower of their qiblah, neither are they the followers of each other's qiblah.^c And if you should follow their desires after the knowledge that has come to you, then you would indeed be from among the wrongdoers. ¹⁴⁶Those whom We have given the Book recognize him as they recognize their sons,^d but some of any step until he had received the Divine Revelation. If his revelations had been the outcome of his own desires he would not have waited for sixteen months for a revelation from on high to change the qiblah.

a (144-1) The Holy Prophet is here told that the Ka'bah will not remain an idol temple, as he will soon be master of it, and idolatry will forever be swept off from the new Spiritual Centre of the world.

b (144-2) The truth of the Prophet was manifest so far as the Jews and the Christians were concerned. There was a clear prophecy for the appearance of a Prophet who was to be the like of Moses; see Deut. 18:15-18. They also knew that God had promised to bless Ishmael, but that no prophet had up to this time appeared from among the Ishmaelites. They also knew that Ishmael was left in Arabia, and they identified his son, Kedar, with the Arabs. Isaiah 21:13 speaks in clear words of a prophecy about "Arabia" and of the Prophet's Flight. The Bait Allah (Ka'bah) was the only Beit-el that the world knew.

c (145) Every sign of the Prophet's truth had been given to them already but their hearts were so hardened that they did not pay any attention to the clearest signs. But they were not agreed even among themselves. Although the Jews and Christians both looked to the temple at Jerusalem as their central temple, they were not agreed upon it as their qiblah or Spiritual Centre.

d (146) All the prophets of Abraham's seed had hitherto appeared among the Children of Israel, and hence as they know their sons is equivalent to as they

them surely conceal the truth while they know. ¹⁴⁷The truth is from your Lord, so do not be from among the doubters.^a

148 And everyone has a goal to which he turns (himself), so vie with one another in good works.^b Wherever you are, Allah will bring you all together. Surely Allah is Powerful over all things. ¹⁴⁹And from whatsoever place you come forth, turn your face towards the Sacred Mosque.^c And surely it is the truth from your know the Israelite prophets, the significance being that the Israelites or the Jews recognized the Prophet who appeared among the Children of Ishmael, as they recognized the prophets who appeared among the Children of Israel.

b (148) In making the Ka'bah the Spiritual Centre the Muslims are told that their goal, as a nation, is to lead the world on to the greatest good. Their race is not a race for material benefits, riches or power, but a race for the attainment of good and for the spread of good. Hence they must vie with one another in doing good. In the words that follow — wherever you are, Allah will bring you all together — they are told that they will be spread far and wide in the world, yet their goal must be one. The outward unity of the qiblah stands for their unity of purpose, and it forms the basis on which rests the brotherhood of Islam; hence the saying of the Prophet: "Do not call those who follow your qiblah unbelievers".

c (149) The Ka'bah has never been supposed by any Muslim to possess any Divine attribute. The Muslims honour the Ka'bah because it is their Spiritual Centre; they do not worship it. It should also be borne in mind that the famous Black Stone was not one of the Arab idols, nor can the kissing of it in performing the pilgrimage be looked upon as a remnant of idolatry. That Stone stands only as a monument: "The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone" (Psalms, 118:22). Ishmael was looked upon as rejected, and the covenant was considered to have been made with the children of Isaac, yet it was that rejected stone, for which the Black Stone at the Ka'bah stands as a monument, that was to become "the chief cornerstone". Jesus Christ made this clear in the parable of the husbandmen, when he plainly told the Israelites that the vineyard (i.e., the kingdom of God) would be taken away from them and given to "other husbandmen", i.e. to a non-Israelite people, giving indication of that people in the words: "Have you never read in the Scriptures, The stone which the builders rejected has become the chief cornerstone?" (Matthew, 21:42). And he added: "The kingdom of God will be taken from you and given to a nation bearing the fruits of it" (Matthew, 21:43), thus showing that he was referring to a rejected nation which was to become the corner-stone of the Divine kingdom.

Lord. And Allah is not heedless of what you do. ¹⁵⁰And from whatsoever place you come forth, turn your face towards the Sacred Mosque. And wherever you are, turn your faces towards it, so that people may have no plea against you except such of them as are unjust — so do not fear them and fear Me — and that I may complete My favour to you and that you may go aright.^a ¹⁵¹Even as We have sent among you a Messenger from among you, who recites to you Our messages and purifies you and teaches you the Book and the Wisdom and teaches you what you did not know.^b ¹⁵²Therefore glorify Me, I will make you eminent,^c and give thanks to Me and do not be ungrateful to Me.

153 O you who believe, seek assistance through patience and prayer; surely Allah is with the patient. ¹⁵⁴And do not speak of those who are slain in Allah's way as dead. Rather, (they are) alive, but you do not perceive.^d ¹⁵⁵And We shall certainly try you a (150) By completing of favour is meant the bestowing of spiritual favours on the Muslims. In the next verse they are told that they have been raised to carry the Divine message to other people and to purify them and teach them the Book and the Wisdom. If that message was not conveyed to other people they had a plea against the Muslims that they had not conveyed the Truth to them. The turning of the face to the Sacred Mosque is thus equivalent to proclaiming the Truth which had its origin in the Ka'bah to the whole world. The Ka'bah was the house rebuilt by Abraham and Ishmael, and with prophethood now being transferred to the descendants of Ishmael, the Spiritual Centre had necessarily to be changed. The Ka'bah was moreover the first Spiritual Centre of the world (3:96), and it was in the fitness of things that it should be the last Spiritual Centre of the whole world.

b (151) The reference is to Abraham's prayer in v. 129. The functions of the Promised Prophet there are exactly the same as here.

c (152) These words may be translated either as remember Me I will remember you or as glorify Me I will make you eminent, for the word dhikr carries either significance, remembrance or honouring. Adopting either significance, what is stated here is that if the Muslims keep God in the forefront of their programme, they will be made great as a nation.

d (154) The sacrifice of life which must be undertaken in the cause of Truth is hinted at in this passage. The words rendered literally as in Allah's way or in with something of fear and hunger and loss of property and lives and fruits. And give good news to the patient,^a 156who, when a misfortune befalls them, say: Surely we are Allah's, and to Him we shall return.^b 157Those are they on whom are blessings and mercy from their Lord; and those are the followers of the right course.

158 The Safa and the Marwah are truly among the signs of Allah;^c so whoever makes a pilgrimage to the House or pays a visit (to it), there is no blame on him if he goes round them. And whoever does good spontaneously — surely Allah is Bountiful in rewarding, Knowing. 159Those who conceal the clear proofs and the guidance that We revealed after We have made it clear in the Book for people, these it is whom Allah curses, and those who

the cause of Allah, frequently occurring in the Holy Quran, signify the cause of Truth. A Christian translator's comment that the words in the way of Allah mean "war undertaken against unbelievers for the propagation of Islam" is baseless. Carrying the message of Islam to non-Muslims is indeed the duty of a Muslim, and anyone engaged in this work is undoubtedly working in the way of Allah, but that a Muslim was required to carry the message of God at the point of the sword is no more than a myth.

a (155) The Muslims had already made great sacrifices in the cause of Allah. They had left their homes, their near and dear ones and everything they had, behind them at Makkah, and had come to Madinah empty-handed, but they were now told that they would have to make more sacrifices yet. They would have to face fear and hunger and all kinds of losses, even death itself. If they bore all these sufferings with steadfastness, they would have a great future, of which the good news is given to them beforehand. Those who have sacrificed their lives in the cause of Truth gain the life eternal, while the dead are really those who are dead in ignorance.

b (156) This is the true expression of a Muslim's resignation under trials: We are Allah's and to Him we shall return. He resigns himself to the will of God so thoroughly that no trial or misfortune can disturb the course of his life, which has a much higher goal before it than mere comfort.

c (158) The Safa and the Marwah are two mountains near Makkah. They were the scene of Hagar's running to and fro in quest of water when left alone with Ishmael in the wilderness. These two mountains now serve as two monuments of the reward which patience brought, and it is as a memorial to Hagar's patience that they are now gone round by the pilgrims.

curse, curse them (too).^a ¹⁶⁰Except those who repent and amend and make manifest (the truth), these it is to whom I turn (mercifully); and I am the Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful. ¹⁶¹Those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers, these it is on whom is the curse of Allah and the angels and people, of all (of them):^b ¹⁶²abiding in it; their punishment shall not be lightened nor shall they be given respite. ¹⁶³And your God is one God; there is no God but He! He is the Beneficent, the Merciful.^c

164 In the creation of the heavens and the earth, and the alternation of night and day, and the ships that run in the sea with that which benefits mankind, and the water that Allah sends down from the sky, then gives life with it to the earth after its death and spreads in it all (kinds of) animals, and the changing of the winds and the clouds made subservient between heaven and earth, there are surely signs for a people who understand.^d ¹⁶⁵Yet there are some people who take for themselves objects of worship besides a (159) As against those who willingly endure all kinds of sufferings in the cause of truth, the Quran now speaks of people who hide the truth, i.e., they neither act according to it, nor do they carry the message to others. These words convey a warning to the Muslims.

b (161) This verse continues the subject-matter of v. 159, the disbelievers spoken of here being those who hide the truth. The curse of God stands for their estrangement from God, the curse of the angels signifies their loss of all incentive to good and noble deeds, and the curse of people signifies their subjugation to other people.

c (163) The mention of Divine Unity is to show that it was for this object that the trials and privations spoken of in this section were to be undergone. The ultimate triumph of Divine Unity is spoken of in the next section.

d (164) The unity of God is declared by the whole of nature, and being such a clear doctrine, must no doubt at last prevail over idolatry and polytheism of every kind. Not only did Arabia witness the truth of this at the time of the Holy Prophet, but even today we see that, as man is freed from the trammels of prejudice, he realizes the truth of Divine Unity more and more. The uniformity that is clearly observed in the diversity of nature is constantly appealed to in the Quran as a sign of the Unity of the Maker.

Allah,^a whom they love as they should love Allah. And those who believe are stronger in (their) love for Allah.^b And if only the wrongdoers had seen, when they see the punishment, that power is wholly Allah's, and that Allah is Severe in punishing! ¹⁶⁶When those who were followed renounce those who followed (them), and they see the punishment and their ties are cut apart. ¹⁶⁷And those who followed will say: If only we could return, we would renounce them as they have renounced us. Thus will Allah show them their deeds to be intense regret to them, and they will not escape from the Fire.^c a (165-1) The objects of worship here referred to may include idols, but the reference is apparently to the leaders who lead their followers into evil. This is made plain by the verses that follow, where "those who were followed", i.e. the leaders, renounce those who followed them.

168 O people, eat the lawful and good things from what is in the earth, and do not follow the footsteps of the devil. Surely he is an open enemy to you.^d ¹⁶⁹He commands you only (to commit) evil and indecency, and that you speak against Allah what you do not know.

b (165-2) While Allah's love for His creatures is the ever-recurring theme expressed in the Quran, the believer's love for Allah, or absolute submission to the Divine Being, is here declared to be stronger than all other ties of love and friendship, including that which unites a man to his idols or other false deities.

c (167) The mutual renouncement of the leaders and their followers takes place sometimes in this very life. It should also be noted that it is the intense regret for the evil deeds done, here described as being the Fire, from which there is no escape.

d (168) The fundamental principle of faith, Divine Unity, having been discussed, certain secondary rules and regulations are now considered, and among these the subject of prohibited foods is introduced first with a twofold object. Firstly, only lawful and good things should be eaten. Lawful things are not only those which the law has not declared to be forbidden, but even unforbidden things become unlawful if they are acquired unlawfully, by theft, cheating, etc. Secondly, by adding the injunction do not follow the footsteps of the devil, the Quran recognizes some sort of relation between the physical and the spiritual conditions of man.

170 And when it is said to them, Follow what Allah has revealed, they say: But we follow that (path) upon which we found our fathers. What! Even though their fathers had no sense at all, nor did they follow the right way. ¹⁷¹And the parable of those who disbelieve is as the parable of one who calls out to that which hears no more than a call and a cry. Deaf, dumb, blind, so they have no sense.^a ¹⁷²O you who believe, eat of the good things that We have provided you with, and give thanks to Allah if He it is Whom you serve.^b ¹⁷³He has forbidden you only what dies of itself, and blood, and the flesh of swine,^c and that on which any other name than that of Allah has been invoked.^d Then whoever is driven by necessity, not desiring, nor exceeding the limit, no sin is upon him. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

174 Those who conceal anything of the Book that Allah has revealed and take for it a small price, they eat nothing but fire into their bellies,^e and Allah will not speak to them on the day of a (171) The Prophet is likened to the crier who calls out, but the disbelievers are deaf to reason, and are like cattle which only hear the cry of the driver, but do not understand the meaning of what he says. This is in accordance with what is said in the previous verse.

b (172) The injunction to eat of the good things is directed against the use of things which are injurious to health, though they may not be forbidden by law.

c (173-1) The Jews held the swine in great detestation, and the mention of the animal in the Gospels shows that Jesus Christ held it in equal abhorrence, which proves that he too regarded the animal as impure. Neither does he appear to have broken the Jewish law in this respect.

d (173-2) The words that over which any other name than that of Allah has been invoked are said by commentators to refer to animals slaughtered by the worshippers of idols, which they used to slaughter as offerings to their idols or to those over which the name of an idol is invoked at the time of its slaughter. But the statement made in the Quran is general, and the invocation of any name other than that of Allah makes the animal slaughtered unlawful.

e (174) The prohibition to eat certain impure or injurious foods is followed by a warning against the eating of fire. Caution is always given lest too much stress should be laid upon the outward ceremonial of the law. Even more dangerous than the prohibited foods is the eating of fire, which means the concealing of what is revealed in the Book. The concealment in this case means not acting upon the teaching of the Book. The Muslims are warned of the danger of being strict in external acts of purity while neglecting internal purity.

Resurrection, nor will He purify them; and for them is a painful punishment. ¹⁷⁵Those are they who buy error for guidance and punishment for forgiveness; how bold they are to challenge the Fire! ¹⁷⁶That is because Allah has revealed the Book with truth. And surely those who disagree about the Book go far in opposition.^a

Section 22: Retaliation and Bequests

177 It is not righteousness that you turn your faces towards the East and the West,^b but righteous is the one who believes in Allah, and the Last Day, and the angels^c and the Book and the a (176) By those who disagree about the Book are meant people who accept one part of the Divine Revelation and reject the other, as the Jews and the Christians did, the Book in this case standing for the whole of the Divine Revelation which is accepted by the Muslims only. Or, the Book stands for the Quran, and their disagreement means their rejection of it.

b (177-1) A warning is given to the Muslims that they should not fall into the error into which the previous people fell, who sacrificed the spirit of religion for the outward ceremonial. The essence of religion is faith in God and benevolence towards people. The turning of the face to the East and the West refers to the outward act of facing a certain direction when saying prayers. This, though necessary, should not be taken as the real object of prayer, which is in fact meant to enable one to hold communion with the Divine Being and to imbue oneself with Divine morals as explained further on.

c (177-2) A belief in angels is one of the basic principles of Islam. This belief is accepted generally in all monotheistic religions. As in the case of all other principles of faith, Islam has pointed out a certain significance underlying the belief in angels. There are two attractions placed in humans — the attraction to good or to rise up to higher spheres of virtue, and the attraction to evil or to stoop down to a kind of low, bestial life. If we respond to the attraction for good we are following the angel or the Holy Spirit, and if we respond to the attraction for evil we are following the devil. Our belief in angels carries, therefore, the significance that whenever we feel a tendency to do good we should at once obey that call. It does not simply mean that we should admit that there are angels. This is clear from the fact that not only are we not required to believe in devils, whose existence is as certain as that of the angels, but we are plainly told that we should disbelieve in the devils (2:256). As a disbelief in the devil means that we should repel the attraction for evil, so a belief in angels means that we should follow the inviter to good.

prophets,^a and gives away wealth out of love for Him^b to the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the traveller and to those who ask and to set slaves free^c and keeps up prayer and gives the due charity; and the performers of their promise when they make a promise,^d and the patient in distress and affliction and in the time of conflict. These are they who are truthful; and these are they who keep their duty.

178 O you who believe, retaliation is prescribed for you in the matter of the slain: the free for the free, and the slave for the slave, and the female for the female.^e But if remission is made to one by his (aggrieved) brother, prosecution (for blood-money) should be according to usage, and payment to him in a good manner.^f This is an alleviation from your Lord and a mercy. Whoever exceeds the limit after this, will have a painful punishment.¹⁷⁹ And there is life for you in retaliation, you people of understanding, that you may guard yourselves.

a (177-3) The Book stands for Divine Revelation in general or the scriptures of all the prophets.

b (177-4) The love of Allah is here, as in many other places in the Quran, stated to be the true incentive to all deeds of righteousness.

c (177-5) The basis was thus laid down for the abolition of slavery.

d (177-6) The performance of promise on the part of individuals as well as of nations is one of the first essentials of the welfare of humanity, and hence the stress laid upon it by the Quran. Faithlessness to treaties and pledges on the part of nations has wrought the greatest havoc on humanity. Just as no society can prosper until its individual members are true to their mutual agreements and promises to each other, so humanity at large can never have peace unless the nations are true to their agreements.

e (178-1) The Jewish law of retaliation is greatly modified in Islam, being limited only to cases of murder, while among the Jews it extended to all cases of grievous hurt. The words retaliation is prescribed for you in the matter of the slain mean that the murderer should be put to death. The pre-Islamic Arabs used in certain cases to insist, when the person killed was of noble descent, upon the execution of others besides the murderer. The Quran abolished this custom.

f (178-2) There may be circumstances which alleviate the guilt. In such cases the murderer may be made to pay a fine to the relatives of the murdered person. Such money is called diyyat or blood-money. A comparison with 4:92 makes it clear that when homicide is not intentional, blood-money may be paid.

180 It is prescribed for you, when death approaches one of you, if he leaves behind wealth for parents and near relatives, to make a bequest in a kindly manner; it is incumbent upon the dutiful.^a 181 Then whoever changes it after he has heard it, the sin of it is only upon those who change it. Surely Allah is Hearing, Knowing. 182 But if one fears a wrong or a sinful course on the part of the testator, and effects an agreement between the parties, there is no blame on him. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

183 O you who believe, fasting is prescribed for you, as it was prescribed for those before you, so that you may guard against evil.^b 184 For a certain number of days. But whoever among you is sick or on a journey, (he shall fast) a (like) number of other days. And those who find it extremely hard may effect redemption by feeding a poor one.^c So whoever does good spontaneously, it is better for him; and that you fast is better for you if you know.

a (180) Some commentators hold the opinion that the direction here, to make a bequest, is abrogated by 4:11 which fixes the shares of the heirs of the deceased person. However, that verse clearly recognizes the validity of any bequest that may have been made. In practice, however, traced to the Prophet himself, the right to make a will has been subject to the condition that not more than a third of the property shall be bequeathed, and that those who take as heirs shall not be entitled to take under the bequest. Hence, this verse really speaks of bequests made for charitable purposes and not of bequests to heirs.

b (183) Fasting is a religious institution almost as universal as prayer, and in Islam it is one of the five fundamental practical ordinances. "Fasting has in all ages and among all nations been an exercise much in use in times of mourning, sorrow and affliction" (Cruden's Bible Concordance). But Islam has introduced quite a new meaning into the institution of fasting. It becomes an institution for the improvement of the moral and spiritual condition of man. This is plainly stated in the concluding words: so that you may guard against evil. The object is that man may learn how he can shun evil, and hence fasting in Islam does not mean simply abstaining from food, but from every kind of evil. Abstention from food is only a step to make a person realize that if he can, in obedience to Divine injunctions, abstain from that which is otherwise lawful, how much more necessary is it to abstain from the evil ways which are forbidden by God.

c (184) The first two classes exempted are: (a) those who are sick and (b) those journeying. Both are required to fast afterwards when sickness or 185 The month of Ramadan^a is that in which the Quran was revealed,^b a guidance to people and clear proofs of the guidance and the Criterion.^c So whoever of you is present in the month, he shall fast in it, and whoever is sick or on a journey, (he shall fast) a (like) number of other days. Allah desires ease for you, and He does not desire hardship for you, and (He desires) that you should complete the number and that you should exalt the greatness of Allah for having guided you and that you may give thanks.

186 And when My servants ask you concerning Me, surely I am near. I answer the prayer of the supplicant when he calls on Me, so they should hear My call and believe in Me that they may walk in the right way.^d journey ends. What is sickness or journey every person can determine for himself. Someone who needs a medicine or is unable to bear the hardship of hunger or thirst should not fast. In journeying again, whether one can easily fast or not is the determining factor. The third exception is in the case of those who find it extremely difficult to bear the hardship of fasting. Such people may effect a redemption by giving food daily to a poor person. This exception covers the case of pregnant women, women who are breast feeding infants, old people who cannot bear fasting; also such sick people whose sickness is prolonged and such people whose journey extends over the whole year.

a (185-1) The revelation of the Quran commenced in the month of Ramadan, the ninth month of the Arabian year; hence, the month of Ramadan is particularly spoken of as being the month in which the Quran was revealed.

b (185-2) Elsewhere we are told that it was revealed on the Lailat al-Qadr or the Night of Majesty (97:1), a well-known night in the month of Ramadan, being the 25th or 27th or 29th night of that month. By the revelation of the Quran in the month of Ramadan is therefore meant the commencement of its revelation. The month of Ramadan is thus a memorial of the revelation of the Quran.

c (185-3) Firstly, the Quran is a “guidance” for all people, and therefore it contains teachings suitable and sufficient for all people in all countries and ages. Secondly, it contains “clear proofs” to demonstrate the truth of what it asserts. Thirdly, it contains arguments which afford a “criterion” (Arabic: furqān), separating truth from falsehood.

d (186) This verse speaks of the nearness of God to man and of the acceptance of his prayers to show that fasting is a spiritual exercise and it brings about spiritual awakening in man. Fasting undoubtedly awakens a living consciousness of the existence of God in the mind. This is the idea underlying the words: “When My servants ask you concerning Me”. A real and earnest search for God is raised

187 It is made lawful for you to have intercourse with your wives on the night of the fast. They are an apparel for you and you are an apparel for them.^a Allah knows that you acted unjustly to yourselves, so He turned to you in mercy and removed (the burden) from you.^b So now be in contact with them and seek what Allah has ordained for you, and eat and drink until the whiteness of the day becomes distinct from the blackness of the night at dawn, then complete the fast till nightfall,^c and do not touch them while you keep to the mosques.^d These are the limits of Allah, so do not go near them. Thus does Allah make clear His messages for people that they may keep their duty. 188 And do not swallow up your property among yourselves by false means, nor seek to gain access thereby to the judges, so that you may swallow up a part of the property of (other) people wrongfully while you know.^e in the mind through fasting. “I am near” is the reply to that inner search. And then follow the words: “I answer the prayer of the supplicant when he calls on Me”. God is near, but that consciousness only raises the further desire to get nearer and nearer to Him. For that man calls on God; he prays to Him to draw him closer and closer to Himself. And he is told that God accepts this prayer.

a (187-1) First, the sex instinct is classed with hunger and thirst. It is a natural desire and one could not live without satisfying it. And then in these words — your wives are an apparel for you and you are an apparel for them — we are told that while satisfying a natural desire, the relation of husband and wife has higher ends in view. They serve as a garment for each other, i.e., they are a means of protection, comfort and even embellishment for each other, and the weakness of one is made up by the strength of the other.

b (187-2) Muslims at first thought that it was illegal to have intercourse with their wives even at night, on the days during which they kept fasts. These words made it clear that this was permitted during the nights of fasting as the satisfaction of hunger and thirst was permitted.

c (187-3) In countries where the days are sometimes very long, the time of fasting may be measured in accordance with the length of an ordinary day, or where practicable postpone the fasts to shorter days of about normal length.

d (187-4) Those people are meant who cut themselves off from all worldly connections during the last ten days of Ramadan, passing day and night in the mosques. This practice, known as I'tikāf, is voluntary and not obligatory.

e (188) The command to abstain from illegally taking other people's property is a fitting sequel to the injunction relating to fasting, for by fasting a person abstains from using what he has a legal right to, simply in obedience to Divine

Section 24: Fighting in Defence

189 They ask you about the new moons. Say: They are times appointed for people, and (for) the pilgrimage.^a And it is not righteousness that you enter houses by their backs, but he is righteous who keeps his duty. And go into houses by their doors;^b and keep your duty to Allah, that you may be successful.

190 And fight in the way of Allah against those who fight against you but do not be aggressive. Surely Allah does not love the aggressors.^c 191 And kill them wherever you find them,^d and drive them out from where they drove you out, and persecution is worse than slaughter.^e And do not fight with them at the Sacred commandments. Fasting, in fact, enables one to control his passions, and the more the passions are mastered, the less the greed for illegal acquisition.

a (189-1) The reference in “new moons” is in particular to the four months of the year which the Arabs observed as sacred (the 11th, 12th, 1st and 7th). All hostilities ceased and peace was established throughout the land; thus trade was carried on without molestation. The pilgrimage to Makkah was also performed during these months.

b (189-2) Entering by the back indicates turning aside from the right course, while entering by the doors signifies sticking to the right course. This also refers to a superstitious custom of pre-Islamic Arabs, whereby when one of them failed to attain his objective he would not enter his house by the door but by the back.

c (190) This is one of the earliest revelations permitting Muslims to fight. It is remarkable that fighting in the way of Allah is here expressly limited to fighting in defence. Muslims were required to fight in the way of Allah, but they could fight only against those who waged war on them. Exactly the same limitation is placed on what was in all probability the first revelation permitting fighting: “Permission (to fight) is given to those on whom war is made because they are oppressed” (22:39). Muslims were allowed to take up the sword only as a measure of self-defence. The enemies of Islam, being unable to suppress Islam by persecution, and seeing that Islam was now safe at Madinah and gaining strength, took up the sword to annihilate it. No course was left for the Muslims but either to be swept off the face of the earth or take up the sword in defence against an enemy which was immensely stronger.

d (191-1) The words kill them refer to those with whom fighting is enjoined in the previous verse, who waged war upon the Muslims.

e (191-2) The word translated as “persecution” is fitna. Ibn Umar explained the word fitna when he said: “And there were very few Muslims [in the beginning], so a man used to be persecuted on account of his religion: they either

Mosque until they fight with you in it; so if they fight you (in it), kill them. Such is the recompense of the disbelievers. ¹⁹²But if they cease, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^a ¹⁹³And fight them until there is no persecution, and religion is only for Allah.^b But if they cease, then there should be no hostility except against the oppressors. ¹⁹⁴The sacred month for the sacred month, and retaliation (is allowed) in sacred things.^c Whoever then acts aggressively against you, inflict injury on him according to the injury he has inflicted on you and keep your duty to Allah, and know that Allah is with those who keep their duty. ¹⁹⁵And spend in the way of Allah and do not cast yourselves to destruction with your own hands and do good (to others). Surely Allah loves the doers of good.

196 And accomplish the pilgrimage and the visit for Allah. But if you are prevented, (send) whatever offering is easy to obtain; and do not shave your heads until the offering reaches its destination. Then whoever among you is sick or has an ailment of the head, (he may effect) a compensation by fasting or (giving in) charity or sacrificing. And when you are secure, whoever profits by combining the visit with the pilgrimage (should take) whatever offering is easy to obtain. But he who cannot find (an offering) should fast for three days during the pilgrimage and for seven days murdered him or subjected him to tortures until Islam became predominant, then there was no fitna” (Bukhari, 65.2:30).

a (192) Note the clemency of the Islamic fighting injunctions. Muslims were to sheathe their swords if the enemy desisted from fighting.

b (193) When persecution ceases, and people are not forced to accept or renounce a religion, then there should be no more fighting. If they cease persecution, Muslims are at once to stop fighting against them, and hostilities are not to be continued against any except the aggressors.

c (194) This is similar to what is said in v. 191 regarding the Sacred Mosque. The pre-Islamic Arabs observed four months in the year as sacred, in which hostilities ceased and peace was established throughout the land. If the opponents violated the sacred months by attacking the Muslims first in those months, the Muslims were permitted to fight against them in the sacred months. And generally retaliation within the limits of the original act of aggression is permitted in the case of all sacred objects.

when you return. These are ten (days) complete. This is for him whose family is not present in the Sacred Mosque. And keep your duty to Allah, and know that Allah is Severe in retribution.^a

Section 25: The Pilgrimage

197 The months of the pilgrimage are well known; so whoever determines to perform pilgrimage in them, there shall be no immodest speech, nor abusing, nor altercation in the pilgrimage. And whatever good you do, Allah knows it.^b And make provision for yourselves, the best provision being to keep one's duty. And keep your duty to Me, you people of understanding.¹⁹⁸ It is no sin for you that you seek the bounty of your Lord.^c So when you press on from Arafat,^d remember Allah near the Holy

a (196) The two subjects of war and pilgrimage are linked because Muslims were free at Madinah to perform all the religious ordinances required by Islam, but they were not free to perform the pilgrimage, their Spiritual Centre, Makkah, being in the possession of their enemies who were at war with them. The "visit" or 'umrah may be performed at any time, whilst the "pilgrimage" or hajj can only be performed at a particular time of the year. The pilgrimage represents the last stage in the progress of the spiritual pilgrim. The first requirement of the pilgrimage, ihrām, represents the severance of all worldly connections for the love of God. All costly dresses in which the inner self is so often mistaken for the outward appearance, are cast off, and the pilgrim has only two seamless wrappers to cover himself. The other important requirement is making circuits round the Ka'bah, called tawāf, and running between the Safa and the Marwah, called sa'y, and both these are external manifestations of that fire of Divine love which has been kindled within the heart, so that like the true lover, the pilgrim makes circuits round the house of his beloved One.

b (197) The pilgrimage represents the final stage of spiritual progress, and hence the pilgrim is told not to speak words which should be a source of annoyance to anybody. Perfect love of God requires perfect peace with fellow beings; hence no offence should be caused to anyone. The doing of good to others is recommended instead in the words whatever good you do, Allah knows it.

c (198-1) Seeking the bounty of the Lord here stands for trading. What is meant is that there is no harm in seeking an increase of wealth by trading in Makkah in the pilgrimage season.

d (198-2) 'Arafāt is the place where the pilgrims assemble on the 9th of the month of Dhu-l-Hijjah, towards the close of the pilgrimage. Here the vast gathering from all countries and nations clad in one dress, with one utterance, labbaika

Monument,^a and remember Him as He has guided you, though before that you were certainly in error. ¹⁹⁹Then hasten on from where the people hasten on, and ask the forgiveness of Allah.^b Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

200 And when you have performed your devotions, extol Allah as you extolled your fathers, rather a stronger extolling.^c But there are some people who say: Our Lord, give us (good) in the world. And for such there is no portion in the Hereafter. ²⁰¹And there are some among them who say: Our Lord, grant us good in this world and good in the Hereafter, and save us from the punishment of the Fire.^d ²⁰²For those there is a portion on account of what they have earned. And Allah is Swift in reckoning. ²⁰³And remember Allah during the appointed days. Then whoever hastens off in two days, it is no sin for him; and whoever stays behind, it is no sin for him, for one who keeps his duty.^e And keep your duty to Allah, and know that you will be gathered together to Him.

Allāh-umma labbaika (here I am, O Allah, in Your Presence), declares the glory of God. The word 'Arafāt' is derived from 'arafa', meaning he knew, or acquainted himself with, a thing, and there is undoubtedly a reference in this name to the fact that here people feel truly the august Divine presence.

a (198-3) This is the place known as Muzdalafah, or the ground bordering on it, where the pilgrims stop for the night after their return from Arafat on the evening of the 9th Dhu-l-Hijjah.

b (199) The Quraish and the Kananah used to stay at Muzdalafah, thinking it beneath their dignity to join other pilgrims in going to the plain of Arafat. As all distinctions were levelled by Islam, they were told to consider themselves on a par with others

c (200) In pre-Islamic times people used to boast among themselves of the greatness of their fathers after they had performed the pilgrimage. The Quran forbade people to boast of the greatness of their fathers, and told them to celebrate the praise of Allah instead.

d (201) This is the true Muslim's prayer. As he is taught to pray for both the good of this life and that of the next, so he should exert himself to attain good in this life as well as in the Hereafter.

e (203) The appointed days are the three days following the day of Sacrifice, and are called the days of Tashrīq. Ordinarily pilgrims leave on the afternoon of the last day of Tashrīq days, but they are allowed to leave on the evening of the second day.

204 And among people is he whose speech about the life of this world pleases you, and he calls Allah to witness as to what is in his heart, yet he is the most violent of adversaries. ²⁰⁵And when he holds authority, he makes effort in the land to cause mischief in it and destroy crops and offspring; and Allah does not love mischief. ²⁰⁶And when it is said to him, Be careful of your duty to Allah, pride carries him off to sin — so hell is sufficient for him. And certainly evil is the resting-place.^a ²⁰⁷And among people is he who sells himself to seek the pleasure of Allah. And Allah is Compassionate to the servants.

208 O you who believe, enter into complete peace and do not follow the footsteps of the devil. Surely he is your open enemy. ²⁰⁹But if you slip after clear arguments have come to you, then know that Allah is Mighty, Wise. ²¹⁰They only wait that Allah should come to them in the shadows of the clouds with angels, and the matter has (already) been decided. And to Allah are (all) matters returned.^b

Section 26: Trials and Tribulations

211 Ask the Children of Israel how many a clear sign We gave them! And whoever changes the favour of Allah after it has come to him, then surely Allah is Severe in retribution.^c ²¹²The life of this world is made to seem attractive to those who disbelieve, and they mock those who believe. And those who keep their duty will be above them on the day of Resurrection. And Allah gives to whom He pleases without measure.

a (206) Mihād (“resting-place”) means a cradle, and also what a man has prepared for himself. Hell is a thing which a man prepares for himself; and for a new spiritual growth in the Hereafter in the case of those who retarded that growth in this world, it serves the same purpose as the cradle for a child. Elsewhere hell is called an umm or mother (101:9).

b (210) The coming of Allah stands for the coming of the threatened punishment for those who wanted to annihilate Islam. The matter has already been decided, because it was repeatedly made clear in the earliest revelations that all opposition to Islam would perish.

c (211) The favour of Allah is the Quran and its change implies its rejection.

213 Mankind is a single nation.^a So Allah raised prophets as bearers of good news and as warners, and He revealed with them the Book with truth, that it might judge between people in that in which they differed.^b And none but the very people who were given it differed about it after clear arguments had come to them, envying one another.^c So Allah has guided by His will those who believe to the truth about which they differed.^d And Allah guides whom He pleases to the right path. ²¹⁴Or do you think that you will enter the Garden, while there has not yet come upon you the like of what befell those who have passed away before you. Distress and affliction befell them and they were shaken violently, so that the Messenger and those who believed with him said: When will the help of Allah come? Now surely the help of Allah is near!^e a (213-1) The oneness of humanity is a truth on which the Quran lays the greatest stress. They are sometimes told that they have all been “created of a single being” (4:1); again that they are all descended from the same parents (49:13); still again that they are as it were dwellers in one home, having the same earth as a resting-place and the same heaven as a canopy (2:22). Hence also the conclusion that prophets were raised among all nations which is conveyed in the words that follow.

b (213-2) As all people are a single nation (umma), God, too, has been revealing Himself to all. This Law of Divine Revelation has, we are told, found expression through prophets, to every one of whom a revealed Book was given to show them the right way.

c (213-3) The universal law expressed here is that corruption followed guidance. As time passed on, the very people to whom the Book was given so that they might follow it, went against it. Thus, though a prophet had been raised in every nation, yet every nation had forsaken the right way. Differences again arose which necessitated the advent of another prophet. Hence it was necessary to raise a prophet who should show the right way to all nations, and this is what is stated in the words that follow.

d (213-4) Allah’s guiding those who believe refers to the raising of the Prophet Muhammad, through whom Muslims were guided to the right path, to the truth, regarding which differences had arisen among all people. If a prophet was needed by every nation to settle its own differences, one was surely now needed to settle the differences of the various nations. Thus among the different national religions of the world, Islam occupies the position of an international religion.

215 They ask you as to what they should spend. Say: Whatever wealth you spend, it is for the parents and the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the traveller. And whatever good you do, Allah surely is Knower of it.

216 Fighting is ordained for you, though it is disliked by you; and it may be that you dislike a thing while it is good for you, and it may be that you love a thing while it is harmful for you; and Allah knows while you do not know.^a

Section 27: Miscellaneous Questions

217 They ask you about fighting in the sacred month. Say: Fighting in it is a grave (offence). And hindering (people) from Allah's way and denying Him and the Sacred Mosque and turning its people out of it, are still graver with Allah; and persecution is graver than slaughter. And they will not cease fighting you until they turn you back from your religion, if they can.^b And whoever of you turns back from his religion, then he dies while an unbeliever — these it is whose deeds are fruitless in this world and the Hereafter.^c And they are the companions of the Fire: in it they and is an indication of the Prophet's own unequalled endurance and faith. It refers not only to the great trials and hardships which Muslims had already suffered at Makkah and the privations which they had to undergo in their exile, but more particularly to the hardships which were yet in store for them, and which they could clearly see in the massing of all forces that could be used to annihilate them.

a (216) Muslims were too weak to carry on the struggle against the mighty forces that were bent upon their destruction, and they disliked the war. A picture of distresses and afflictions to which the few converts to Islam were subjected is drawn in v. 214. They were few in numbers, poor, exiled, and distressed, yet it became inevitable that they should fight in self-defence or they would be destroyed. It was their utter weakness and the enormous disparity of numbers that made them dislike the fighting.

b (217-1) The unbelievers took up the sword to force the Muslims back into unbelief and they were determined to carry on the war until they gained this end. Note the words they will not cease fighting you until they turn you back from your religion, if they can, which disprove the false allegation that the Muslims started war to convert the unbelievers by force.

c (217-2) The persons spoken of here are the apostates. A wrong impression exists that those who apostatize from Islam are to be put to death. This is entirely will abide. ²¹⁸Those who believed and those who fled (their homes) and strove hard in Allah's way — these surely hope for the mercy of Allah. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

219 They ask you about intoxicants ^a and games of chance. Say: In both of them is a great sin and (some) advantage for people, and their sin is greater than their advantage. ^b And they ask you as to what they should spend. Say: What you can spare. Thus does Allah make clear to you the messages that you may ponder ²²⁰on this world and the Hereafter. And they ask you concerning the orphans. ^c Say: To set right their affairs is good; and if you mix with them, they are your brethren. ^d And Allah knows him who untrue. What is stated here is that the opponents of Islam exerted themselves to their utmost to turn back the Muslims from their faith by their cruel persecutions, and therefore if a Muslim actually went back to unbelief he would be a loser in this life as well as in the next, because the desertion of Islam would not only deprive him of spiritual advantages, but also of the physical advantages which must accrue to the Muslims through the ultimate triumph of Islam. Neither here nor anywhere else in the Quran is there even a hint at the infliction of capital or any other punishment on the apostate. In the matter of religion, the Quran gives perfect freedom to all to adopt whatever religion they like: "And say: The Truth is from your Lord; so whoever wishes, let him believe, and whoever wishes, let him disbelieve" (18:29).

a (219-1) The word khamr used here includes all intoxicating substances. The prohibition spoken of here as regards both intoxicating liquors and games of chance is made plainer in 5:90. The prohibition of intoxicants in connection with the mention of war shows that Islam wanted to inspire true courage into its followers and disliked the reckless daring which a man shows under the influence of intoxicating liquors and which has so often led to atrocities in wars. The constant fighting of Arab tribes, one against the other, had made the habit of drink second nature to the Arab. Intoxicating liquors were the chief feature of their feasts, and the habit of drink was not considered an evil, nor had there ever been a temperance movement among them. Yet one word of the Holy Quran was sufficient to blot out all traces of it from among a whole nation.

b (219-2) Intoxicants and gambling are both declared in 5:91 as causing "enmity and hatred among you", and a society the members of which are imbued with feelings of hatred and enmity towards each other could never prosper.

c (220-1) From the earliest, the revelations of the Quran always speak of the orphans, the needy, and the slaves in the kindest words, and lay special stress on helping and feeding them. See 90:11–16 and other places.

d (220-2) Orphans are not to be treated as a separate class, and they should makes mischief from him who sets (affairs) right. And if Allah pleased, He would have made matters difficult for you. Surely Allah is Mighty, Wise.

221 And do not marry female idolaters until they believe; and certainly a believing maid is better than a female idolater even though she please you. Nor marry (believing women) to idolaters until they believe, and certainly a believing slave is better than an idolater, even though he please you. These invite to the Fire and Allah invites to the Garden and to forgiveness by His will and He makes clear His messages to people that they may be mindful.

Section 28: Divorce

222 And they ask you about menstruation.^a Say: It is harmful;^b so keep aloof from women during menstrual discharge and do not approach them (for intercourse) until they are clean. But when they have cleansed themselves, go to them as Allah has commanded you. Surely Allah loves those who turn much (to Him), and He loves those who purify themselves. ²²³Your wives are a tilth for you, so go to your tilth when you like, and send (good deeds) beforehand for yourselves; and have regard for your duty to Allah and know that you will meet Him.^c And give good news to the believers.

a (222-1) Just as war made many children orphans, it made many women widows, but questions relating to widowhood and divorce being somewhat analogous, the two questions are treated together here and further on.

b (222-2) The word used (adh-an) signifies anything that causes a slight harm. It is not, however, the menstrual discharge that is called harmful here but having sexual relations while the woman is in that condition. The Jewish law contains a similar prohibition in Leviticus 18:19 and 20:18, though Jewish practice rendered it necessary that the separation between husband and wife should be complete. In Islam, it is limited to the cessation of sexual intercourse as the answer here shows.

c (223) This verse shows that the real object of marital relations is not simply the satisfaction of sexual desires. (Editor's Note: The comparison of women to the land that is tilled is to show that it is through them that the crop of

224 And do not make Allah by your oaths a hindrance to your doing good and keeping your duty and making peace between people.^a And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ²²⁵Allah will not call you to account for what is vain in your oaths, but He will call you to account for what your hearts have earned.^b And Allah is Forgiving, Forbearing. ²²⁶Those who swear that they will not have sexual relations with their wives should wait four months;^c then if they go back, Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ²²⁷And if they resolve on a divorce,^d Allah is surely Hearing, Knowing. ²²⁸Divorced women the next generation of human beings grows and develops, both physically and in character. Men are also told here to do some act of moral goodness before approaching their wives sexually, and to have regard for duty to God which stands for having regard for one's duties towards others as required by God. Thus the husband is required to be mindful also of moral duty and responsibility in the matter of sexual relations with his wife, so that it should not be merely an occasion for him to gratify his lust selfishly with no regard for moral goodness or the rights of his wife.)

a (224) This verse refers to the pre-Islamic Arab custom of īla', a way of temporarily putting off the wife which was effected by an oath in Allah's name not to have sexual relations with her. The result of this was that the husband considered himself free from all marital obligations. The first step to bring about a reform in the relations of husband and wife was that this practice was abolished. It is in reference to this that the taking of oaths against the doing of good to others is prohibited. The fulfilment of marital obligations is thus referred to as the doing of good and observance of duty and making peace between people. But the subject is generalized and the taking of all oaths to forbid oneself the doing of good or fulfilment of obligations is prohibited. See also 66:2 footnote.

b (225) By vain oaths are meant unintentional or thoughtless oaths in ordinary conversation, and by what the hearts have earned is meant an oath intentionally taken.

c (226) īla' signifies an oath by a man that he shall not approach his wife. In pre-Islamic times the Arabs used to take such oaths frequently, and as the period of suspension was not limited, the wife was compelled sometimes to pass her whole life having neither the position of a wife nor that of a divorced woman free to marry elsewhere. The Quran declares that if the husband does not reassert conjugal relations within four months, the wife shall be divorced. Cases in which husbands desert wives, having neither conjugal relations with them nor divorcing them, must be dealt with practically as amounting to īla', so that after four months the wife should be free if she wants a divorce.

d (227) The Islamic law of divorce is elastic and does not strictly limit the causes of divorce. Divorce is allowed if sufficient reason exists, but the right is to should keep themselves in waiting for three courses.^a And it is not lawful for them to conceal what Allah has created in their wombs, if they believe in Allah and the Last Day. And their husbands have a better right to take them back in the meanwhile if they wish for reconciliation.^b And women have rights similar to those against them in a just manner,^c and men are a degree above them.^d And Allah is Mighty, Wise.

229 Divorce may be (pronounced) twice;^e then keep (them) in good fellowship or let (them) go with kindness.^f And it is not lawful be exercised under exceptional circumstances. A wife can claim a divorce according to the Islamic law, which was not a right conferred on her by Jewish and Christian laws on divorce as formulated in Deuteronomy and Matthew.

a (228-1) The period of waiting, or 'iddat, forms the first condition in the Islamic law of divorce. But for cases in which marriage is not consummated, no period of waiting is necessary; see 33:49.

b (228-2) These words give a clear right to the parties to effect a reconciliation and re-establish conjugal relations within the period of waiting. No special procedure is necessary for this but both the divorce and the reconciliation must take place in the presence of witnesses. If, however, the 'iddat is over and no reconciliation has been effected, the relation of husband and wife can be re-established by remarriage, which right is given to the parties by v. 232.

c (228-3) The rights of women against their husbands are here stated to be similar to those which the husbands have against their wives. The change in this respect was really a revolutionizing one, for the Arabs hitherto regarded women as mere property. Women were now declared to have rights similar to those which were exercised against them. The equality of the rights of women with those of men was never previously recognized by any nation or any reformer.

d (228-4) The statement that "men are a degree above them" does not nullify the rights asserted in the previous passage. The words are added simply to show that the husband is the head of the household.

e (229-1) The divorce spoken of here is the revocable divorce of v. 228, after which a reconciliation may be effected in the waiting period. Islam allows a revocable divorce on two occasions only, so that the period of waiting in each of these two cases might serve as a period of temporary separation during which conjugal relations could be re-established. Remarriage of the same parties is allowed after the lapse of the waiting period.

f (229-2) The husband must make his choice after the second divorce either to retain the wife permanently or to bring about a final separation. The object of a for you to take any part of what you have given them,^a unless both fear that they cannot keep within the limits of Allah. Then if you fear that they cannot keep within the limits of Allah, there is no blame on them for what she gives up to become free thereby.^b These are the limits of Allah, so do not exceed them; and whoever exceeds the limits of Allah, these are the wrongdoers.

230 So if he divorces her (the third time),^c she shall not be lawful to him afterwards until she marries another husband. If he divorces her, there is no blame on them both if they return to each other (by marriage), if they think that they can keep within the limits of Allah.^d And these are the limits of Allah which He makes clear for a people who know.

true marriage union is indicated in the simple words keep them in good fellowship. If good fellowship is entirely absent the only remedy is to let the woman go with kindness.

a (229-3) The full payment of the dowry to the wife by the husband is another condition relating to the Islamic law of divorce. (This is the nuptial gift the husband owes the wife, as agreed between them at the time of marriage.)

b (229-4) These words give the wife a right to claim a divorce. Islam gives the wife the right to claim a divorce even on grounds of disliking her husband, if she is willing to forgo the whole or part of her dowry (i.e., nuptial gift from the husband). The words unless both fear that they cannot keep within the limits of Allah mean their inability to perform towards each other their marital obligations and to maintain good fellowship. The words if you fear refer to the properly constituted authorities and this shows that the authorities can interfere in the matter.

c (230-1) The words refer to the “letting go with kindness” of the previous verse, and hence by divorce here is meant the irrevocable divorce pronounced a third time, i.e., after there has been a divorce and a restitution of conjugal rights twice.

d (230-2) When the wife has been divorced twice, after each of which reconciliation has been effected and has failed, the third divorce becomes irrevocable. It is not simply by repeating the pronouncement of divorce three times that the third pronouncement becomes irrevocable. A divorce should actually have taken place twice, followed each time by reconciliation, then and only then the third divorce becomes irrevocable. It would, in fact, be very rare. After the third irrevocable divorce, the husband cannot remarry the divorced wife until she has been married elsewhere and divorced; but it must be a genuine marriage and a genuine divorce.

231 And when you divorce women and they reach their prescribed time, then retain them with kindness or let them go with kindness and do not retain them for injury so that you exceed the limits.^a And whoever does this, he indeed wrongs his own soul. And do not take Allah's messages for a mockery,^b and remember Allah's favour to you, and what He has revealed to you of the Book and the Wisdom, instructing you by it. And keep your duty to Allah, and know that Allah is the Knower of all things.

232 And when you divorce women and they end their term, do not prevent them from marrying their husbands if they agree among themselves in a lawful manner. With this is instructed he among you who believes in Allah and the Last Day. This is more virtuous for you and purer. And Allah knows while you do not know.^c ²³³And mothers shall suckle their children for two whole years,^d for him who desires to complete the time of suckling. And their maintenance and their clothing must be borne by the father a (231-1) If the husband is proved to give injury to the wife, he cannot retain her, and she can claim a divorce. Injury to the wife may be of a general nature or one given with the object of compelling her to remit her dowry to obtain a divorce. It is for the judge to see that the husband is not taking undue advantage of his position. On the other hand, the husband is enjoined to show liberality to the divorced wife, and the judge would no doubt see that the injunctions of the Quran were observed. It is made clear in 4:35 that decision in matters of divorce rests with the judges appointed, not with the husband or the wife.

b (231-2) The injunctions relating to the kind treatment of women must not be taken lightly, we are told here. Retaining women to cause them injury has already been declared to be a transgression and emphasis is now laid on the proper observance of these injunctions by stating that these are most serious matters relating to the welfare of society as a whole.

c (232) As already stated, when a divorce is pronounced, the conjugal relations can be re-established within the period of waiting. Here it is stated that if the period of waiting has elapsed, even then the former husband can remarry the divorced wife. The decision to re-marry is determined solely by mutual agreement between the former husband and wife, on terms of equality with one another.

according to usage. No soul shall be burdened beyond its capacity. Neither shall a mother be made to suffer harm on account of her child, nor a father on account of his child; and a similar duty (devolves) on the (father's) heir. But if both desire weaning by mutual consent and counsel, there is no blame on them. And if you wish to engage a wet-nurse for your children, there is no blame on you so long as you pay what you promised according to usage. And keep your duty to Allah and know that Allah is Seer of what you do.

234 And (as for) those of you who die and leave wives behind, such women should keep themselves in waiting for four months and ten days;^a when they reach their term, there is no blame on you for what they do for themselves in a lawful manner.^b And Allah is Aware of what you do. ²³⁵And there is no blame on you concerning what you speak indirectly in the asking of (such) women in marriage or keep (the proposal) concealed within your minds. Allah knows that you will have them in your minds, but do not give them a promise in secret unless you speak in a lawful manner. And do not confirm the marriage tie until the prescribed period reaches its end. And know that Allah knows what is in your minds, so beware of Him; and know that Allah is Forgiving, Forbearing.

236 There is no blame on you if you divorce women while yet you have not touched them, nor appointed for them a portion. And provide for them, the wealthy according to his means and the restricted one according to his means, a provision according to usage. (This is) a duty on the doers of good.^c ²³⁷And if you divorce

a (234-1) The period of waiting in the case of a widow is four months and ten days. But in case a divorced woman or a widow is pregnant, the period of waiting is extended to the time of delivery (65:4).

b (234-2) The meaning is that the widow may look out for a husband and remarry. (Editor's Note: The words "what they do for themselves in a lawful manner" place decisions about the widow's remarriage entirely in her hands.)

c (236) The "portion" is the dowry due from the husband, so that even when

them before you have touched them and you have appointed for them a portion, (pay) half of what you have appointed unless they forgo or he forgoes in whose hand is the marriage tie.^a And it is nearer to dutifulness that you forgo. Nor neglect the giving of free gifts between you. Surely Allah is Seer of what you do.

238 Guard the prayers and the most excellent prayer, and stand up truly obedient to Allah.^b ²³⁹But if you are in danger (say your prayers) on foot or on horseback. And when you are secure, remember Allah as He has taught you what you did not know.

240 And those of you who die and leave wives behind, should make a bequest in favour of their wives of maintenance for a year without turning (them) out.^c Then if they themselves go away, there is no blame on you for what they do of lawful deeds concerning themselves. And Allah is Mighty, Wise. ²⁴¹And for divorced women, provision (must be made) in kindness.^d This is incumbent no dowry has been agreed upon, and marriage has not been consummated, liberality must be shown to the divorced wife, and some provision should be made for her, even though the husband may be in difficult circumstances.

a (237) The husband is the person in whose hand is the marriage tie. His forgoing his due is equivalent to not claiming the half of the dowry which he is entitled to by this verse. Note that forgoing on the part of husbands is here stated to be the more commendable course.

b (238) There are several opinions regarding what is meant by the term translated above as “the most excellent prayer”. Most probably it does not refer to any particular prayer and means simply attending to prayer in the most excellent form. The guarding of prayers is not simply the observance of the outward form; it is both the form and the spirit to which attention is drawn. Prayers are to be said at stated times and a particular method is to be observed, but this does not mean that the Islamic prayer is devoid of spirit. The external form is needed to bring the inner faculty into exercise. As regards the spirit of prayer, attention is called to it again and again in the Quran. Elsewhere we are told: “Prayer keeps (one) away from indecency and evil” (29:45). In fact, the Quran condemns prayers which are devoid of spirit (107:4–6).

c (240) What the widow obtains under this verse is in addition to the share of the deceased husband’s property which she inherits under 4:11. It is plainly stated in 4:12 that anything to be paid under a will shall have precedence of the division of the property into shares under that verse.

d (241) This provision is in addition to the dowry which must be paid to on those who have regard for duty. ²⁴²Allah thus makes clear to you His messages that you may understand.

Section 32: Fighting in the Cause of Truth

243 Have you not considered those who went forth from their homes, and they were thousands, for fear of death. Then Allah said to them, Die. Then He gave them life.^a Surely Allah is gracious to people, but most people are not grateful. ²⁴⁴And fight in the way of Allah,^b and know that Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ²⁴⁵Who is it that will offer to Allah a goodly gift, so He multiplies it to him manifold? And Allah receives and amplifies,^c and to Him you shall be returned.

246 Have you not thought of the leaders of the Children of Israel after Moses? When they said to a prophet of theirs: Raise up for us a king, that we may fight in the way of Allah.^d He said: May it not be that you will not fight if fighting is ordained for you? They said: And what reason have we that we should not fight in Allah's way and we have indeed been deprived of our homes and our children? But when fighting was ordained for them, they them. Just as in the previous verse the widow is given an additional benefit, here a provision in addition to her dowry is recommended for divorced woman. This shows how liberal are the injunctions of the Quran regarding women.

a (243) The thousands referred to are the Israelites who left Egypt with Moses. They left Egypt for fear of death, for death would surely have been their fate if they had not emigrated. The next incident in their history referred to here is the Divine commandment to them to "die". This is more fully stated in 5:21–26. Moses told them to enter the Holy Land "which Allah has ordained for you," but they refused and were made to wander about in the wilderness for forty years, so that that generation perished. This is also shown by their history as given in the Old Testament. It is also meant as a warning for Muslims, who are told that if they followed the footsteps of the Israelites, death must be their fate.

b (244) See 2:190; fighting in Allah's way is equivalent to fighting in defence of faith.

c (245) Allah receives and amplifies means that Allah receives the gift that is offered to Him and then amplifies it; in other words, any sacrifice made in the cause of Truth is amply rewarded by Allah.

d (246) The prophet alluded to is Samuel. See 1 Samuel 8:19–20.

turned back, except a few of them. And Allah is Knower of the wrongdoers. ²⁴⁷And their prophet said to them: Allah has raised Saul to be a king over you. They said: How can he have kingdom over us while we have a greater right to kingdom than he, and he has not been granted abundance of wealth? He said: Surely Allah has chosen him above you, and has increased him abundantly in knowledge and physique. And Allah grants His kingdom to whom He pleases. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing. ²⁴⁸And their prophet said to them: Surely the sign of his kingdom is that there shall come to you the heart in which there is tranquillity from your Lord and the best of what the followers of Moses and the followers of Aaron have left,^a the angels bearing it.^b Surely in this there is a sign for you if you are believers.

249 So when Saul set out with the forces, he said: Surely Allah will try you with a river. Whoever drinks from it, he is not of me, and whoever does not taste it, he is surely of me, except he who takes a handful with his hand. But they drank of it except a few of them. So when he had crossed it, he and those who believed with him, they said: We have today no power against Goliath and his forces. Those who were sure that they would meet their Lord said: How often has a small group overcome a numerous army by Allah's permission! And Allah is with the steadfast. ²⁵⁰And when they went out against Goliath and his forces, they said: Our Lord, pour out patience on us and make our steps firm a (248-1) The word tābūt means a chest or a box, but also signifies the heart. Tranquillity from the Lord is not a thing which is placed in boxes, but the heart is its real repository. On five other occasions the coming down of sakīnah, or tranquillity, is mentioned in the Quran, and every time it is the heart of the Prophet or the faithful that is the recipient of it. The coming of "the heart in which there is tranquillity" means the change which came over Saul when he was made king: "So it was, when he had turned his back to go from Samuel, that God gave him another heart" (1 Samuel 10:9). The best of what the true followers of Moses and Aaron left are spiritual blessings, the highest being Divine inspiration.

b (248-2) The meaning is that the tranquillity and inspiration were borne by the angels into the heart of Saul.

and help us against the disbelieving people. ²⁵¹So they put them to flight by Allah's permission. And David killed Goliath, and Allah gave him kingdom and wisdom, and taught him of what He pleased. And if it were not for Allah's repelling some people by others, the earth would certainly be in a state of disorder; but Allah is full of grace to the worlds. ²⁵²These are the messages of Allah — We recite them to you with truth; and surely you are one of the messengers.

253 We have made some of these messengers to excel others.^a Among them are they to whom Allah spoke, and some of them He exalted by (many) degrees of rank.^b And We gave clear arguments to Jesus son of Mary, and strengthened him with the Holy Spirit. And if Allah had pleased, those after them would not have fought with one another after clear arguments had come to them, but they disagreed; so some of them believed and some of them denied. And if Allah had pleased they would not have fought with one another, but Allah does what He intends.

254 O you who believe, spend (on good works) out of what We have given you before the day comes in which there is no bargaining, nor friendship, nor intercession. And the disbelievers — they are the wrongdoers.

255 Allah — there is no god but He, the Ever-living, the Self-subsisting by Whom all subsist. Slumber does not overtake Him, nor sleep. To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. Who is he that can intercede with Him but by His permission? ^c He knows what is before them and what is a (253-1) This also refers to the excellence of the Prophet Muhammad over all other prophets.

b (253-2) Allah spoke to all, but there were some who were exalted above others by many degrees.

c (255-1) Islam does not recognize the concept that man stands in need of any mediator to reconcile him with God, as in the sense of the Christian doctrine. The Prophet is the model for his people and in this sense he is called a shafī' or behind them. And they encompass nothing of His knowledge except what He pleases. His knowledge extends over the heavens and the earth, and the preservation of them both does not tire Him. And He is the Most High, the Great.^a 256 There is no compulsion in religion^b — the right way is indeed clearly distinct from error. So whoever disbelieves in the devil and believes in Allah, he indeed lays hold on the firmest handle which shall never break. And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ²⁵⁷Allah is the Friend of those who believe — He brings them out of darkness into light. And those who disbelieve, their friends are the devils who take them out of light into darkness. They are the companions of the Fire; in it they abide.

Section 35: How Dead Nations are raised to Life

258 Have you not thought of him who disputed with Abraham about his Lord, because Allah had given him kingdom?^c When Abraham said, My Lord is He Who gives life and causes to die, he said: I give life and cause death.^d Abraham said: Surely Allah causes an intercessor. Those who take him for their model are not all equally gifted, nor have all equal occasion for spiritual progress, though they exert themselves to their utmost. So Divine mercy takes them by the hand and amends are made for their shortcomings through the intercession of the Prophet. It is in this sense that Islam recognizes the doctrine of intercession in the life after death.

a (255-2) This is a very well-known verse which goes under the name of āyat al-kursī, or the verse of knowledge, because it deals with the all-comprehensive knowledge of Allah.

b (256) To all the allegations that the Holy Prophet preached Islam by the sword, this verse is a sufficient answer. Being assured of success, Muslims are told that when they hold power in their hands their guiding principle should be that there should be no compulsion in the matter of religion. The claim that this passage was directed only to the early converts and that it was abrogated later on is utterly baseless.

c (258-1) The words “because Allah had given him kingdom” refer to Abraham. This is corroborated by 4:54. The Muslims are here told that just as a promise is given to them that they will be raised to great eminence, which is equivalent to raising the dead to life, a similar promise was given to Abraham, that promise being in fact the basis of the present promise to the Prophet.

d (258-2) As the discussion arose out of the promise given to Abraham that the sun to rise from the East, so you make it rise from the West.^a Thus he who disbelieved was baffled. And Allah does not guide the unjust people.

259 Or like him who passed by a town, and it had fallen in upon its roofs. He said: When will Allah give it life after its death? So Allah caused him to die for a hundred years, then raised him. He said: How long have you remained? He said: I have remained a day, or part of a day. He said: No, you have remained a hundred years; but look at your food and drink — years have not passed over it! And look at your donkey! That We may make you a sign to people. And look at the bones, how We set them together then clothe them with flesh. So when it became clear to him, he said: I know that Allah is Powerful over all things.^b

260 And when Abraham said, My Lord, show me how You give life to the dead, He said: Do you not believe? He said: Yes, but that my heart may be at ease. He said: Then take four birds, then tame them to incline to you, then place on every mountain a part of them, then call them, they will come to you flying; and know that Allah is Mighty, Wise.^c his descendants would be made a great nation, it is clear that the reference here is to the life and death of nations.

a (258-3) The disputant belonged to a race of sun-worshippers, and therefore if he could give life and cause death, he could control even his deity, the sun, and should be able to make it rise from the opposite direction.

b (259) This refers to Ezekiel's vision as related in Ezekiel, ch. 37. The town is Jerusalem. The prophet dying for a hundred years is also an incident of the vision, standing symbolically for the death of the Jewish nation or the desolation of Jerusalem for almost a hundred years after Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar in 599 B.C. The bones were a symbol of the fallen condition of the house of Israel. The food and drink of the prophet not showing any influence of years, and his donkey still standing by, proves that the hundred years' death was only a vision. The vision made him a symbol of the whole Jewish nation, and his symbolic death for a hundred years represented the sorrows and afflictions of Israel for a similar period, after which they were once more to be restored to life.

c (260) This is a sequel to v. 258, which speaks of the manifestation of Allah's power in the life and death of nations. In Genesis 15:8 Abraham is made to say, after receiving a promise of the land of Canaan: "Lord God, whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it?" The Quranic parallel to this is: "My Lord, show me

Section 36: Spending Money in the Cause of Truth

261 The parable of those who spend their wealth in the way of Allah is as the parable of a grain growing seven ears, in every ear a hundred grains.^a And Allah multiplies (further) for whom He pleases. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing. ²⁶²Those who spend their wealth in the way of Allah, then do not follow up what they have spent with reproach or injury, their reward is with their Lord, and they shall have no fear nor shall they grieve.^b ²⁶³A kind word with forgiveness is better than charity followed by injury. And Allah is Self-sufficient, Forbearing.

264 O you who believe, do not make your charity worthless by reproach and injury, like him who spends his wealth to be seen by people and does not believe in Allah and the Last Day.^c So his parable is as the parable of a smooth rock with earth upon it, then heavy rain falls upon it, so it leaves it bare! They are not able to gain anything of what they earn. And Allah does not guide the disbelieving people.^d ²⁶⁵And the parable of those who spend their

how You give life to the dead.” He believed in the Divine promise, but how would it be fulfilled? The answer to Abraham’s how as given in the Quran is a perfectly intelligible parable. If he should take four birds and tame them, they would obey his call and fly to him even from distant mountains. The words “place a part (juz’) of them” can only mean one each of the four birds. The story of cutting the birds into pieces, in connection with this verse, is not traceable to any reliable authority, nor do these words occur here. (Editor’s Note: To revive a dead people with spiritual truth, from which they are running away like birds, they have to be tamed as one tames birds so that instead of being repelled away from the truth they are attracted towards it even from a great distance.)

a (261) The expenditure of money must be accompanied with hard labour, as a seed cast on the ground unaccompanied by any labour would not grow.

b (262) Gifts, whether given in the cause of national or individual suffering, must not be accompanied by any interested motives; hence the donor is forbidden even to mention them afterwards.

c (264-1) This conveys a very strong disapproval of giving charity to be seen by people, making it utterly hateful in the sight of true believers.

d (264-2) The concluding words of the parable show that the efforts of the disbelievers to deal a death-blow to Islam are meant here. They were spending their money to retard the advancement of Islam, but their efforts would be fruitless.

wealth to seek Allah's pleasure and for the strengthening of their souls is as the parable of a garden on elevated ground, upon which heavy rain falls, so it brings forth its fruit twofold; but if heavy rain does not fall on it, light rain (is sufficient).^a And Allah is Seer of what you do. ²⁶⁶Does one of you like to have a garden of palms and vines with streams flowing in it — he has in it all kinds of fruits — and old age has overtaken him and he has weak offspring, when a whirlwind with fire in it strikes it so it becomes blasted. Thus Allah makes the messages clear to you that you may reflect.

Section 37: Spending in the Cause of Truth

267 O you who believe, spend (on good works) out of the good things that you earn and out of what We bring forth for you from the earth, and do not aim at the bad to spend from it, while you would not take it yourselves unless you turned a blind eye to it.^b And know that Allah is Self-sufficient, Praiseworthy. ²⁶⁸The devil threatens you with poverty and commands you to be miserly, and Allah promises you forgiveness from Himself and abundance. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing; ²⁶⁹He grants wisdom to whom He pleases. And whoever is granted wisdom, he indeed is given a great good. And none are mindful but those who have understanding. ²⁷⁰And whatever you spend in charity or (whatever) vow you vow, Allah surely knows it. And the wrongdoers shall have no helpers.

271 If you manifest charity, how excellent it is! And if you hide it and give it to the poor, it is good for you.^c And it will do a (265) This is the parable of the believers who will reap the fruits of the sacrifices they make.

b (267) Muslims are here enjoined to support the cause of Truth by spending good things, things which they love, and not to even think of giving bad things, things which they themselves would not accept from others. Elsewhere it is said: "You cannot attain to righteousness unless you spend out of what you love" (3:92).

c (271) The manifesting of charity or giving charity openly is quite different from giving "to be seen by people", for which see v. 264. By the giving of charity away with some of your evil deeds; and Allah is Aware of what you do. ²⁷²Their guidance is not your duty, but Allah guides whom He pleases. And whatever good thing you spend, it is to your good. And you do not spend but to seek Allah's pleasure. And whatever good thing you spend, it will be paid back to you in full, and you will not be wronged.^a 273 (Charity is) for the poor who are confined in the way of Allah,^b they cannot go about in the land; the ignorant man thinks them to be rich on account of (their) abstaining (from begging). You can recognize them by their mark — they do not beg of people demandingly.^c And whatever good thing you spend, surely Allah is Knower of it.

Section 38: Usury prohibited

274 Those who spend their wealth by night and day, privately and publicly, their reward is with their Lord; and they have no fear, nor shall they grieve. ²⁷⁵Those who swallow usury cannot arise except as he arises whom the devil prostrates by (his) touch.^d openly is meant the giving of subscriptions for the advancement of national or public welfare. The rule laid down here enjoins public as well as private acts of charity, mentioning public charity first, as that is of greatest importance.

a (272) Muslims did not fight to bring the disbelievers into the fold of Islam; for that, the Prophet is told here in plain words, was not his responsibility. It was for the good of their people, for their defence, that the Muslims were required to raise subscriptions. Hence what they spent was for Allah's pleasure, because it was in the cause of truth. They are assured that for these deeds of sacrifice they will be fully rewarded. As regards private charity, Muslim charity was exercised not only for the welfare of their own people but also for that of non-Muslims. Islam did not allow difference of religion to be a hindrance in giving charity.

b (273-1) "Confined in the way of Allah" included those who had to fight in defence of Islam but had no means of livelihood, those who could not go forth to trade because of insecurity, and those who were wounded in the fighting.

c (273-2) Those who abstain from begging deserve to be assisted by private acts of charity.

d (275-1) Ribā means an addition over and above the principal sum that is lent and includes usury as well as interest. Just as charity is the broad basis of human sympathy, usury annihilates all sympathetic affection and leads to the

That is because they say, Trading is only like usury. And Allah has allowed trading and forbidden usury.^a To whomsoever then the exhortation has come from his Lord, and he refrains, he shall have what has already passed. And his affair is in the hands of Allah. And whoever returns (to it) — these are the companions of the Fire: in it they will abide. ²⁷⁶Allah will blot out usury, and He causes charity to prosper.^b And Allah does not love any ungrateful sinner. ²⁷⁷Those who believe and do good deeds and keep up prayer and give the due charity — their reward is with their Lord; and they have no fear, nor shall they grieve.

278 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah and relinquish what remains (due) from usury, if you are believers. ²⁷⁹But if you do not, then be apprised of war from Allah and His Messenger;^c and if you repent, then you shall have your capital.

extreme of miserliness. Islam refused to allow the rich to grow richer by reducing the poor to still greater poverty, which is the real aim of usury. Usury causes man to be obsessed by love of wealth and selfishness; and this is, in fact, what is meant by the devil prostrating a devourer of usury. It may also be mentioned that while Islam enjoins acts of sacrifice to carry on the struggle for national existence, it prohibits usurious dealings which are the basis of modern warfare. All wars are now carried on with the help of loans, interest on which ultimately is a source of ruin to both the conquerors and the conquered. A just war, a war in self-defence, would always lead a community to acts of sacrifice to which they would be impelled in the interest of their own existence.

a (275-2) In trade the capitalist takes the risk of loss along with the hope of profit, but in lending money on usury the whole of the loss is suffered by the one who uses his labour, while the capitalist may count upon his profit even in the case of loss in the actual concern. Hence trading is quite different from usury.

b (276) Usury is here condemned, while charitable deeds are commended as being the real source of the prosperity of a nation or of humanity in general. It is a prophetic reference to the general tendency in the growth of civilization to lessening rates of interest, so much so that usurious dealings, in the proper sense of the word, are becoming almost extinct, while the tendency for public charity or personal sacrifice in the interests of a community, or even humanity in general, is gaining ground.

c (279) Going directly against the commandments of Allah is here described as a war with Allah and His Messenger. The money received as bank interest may be spent in the cause of Allah and His Messenger or for the propagation of Islam.

Wrong not, and you shall not be wronged. ²⁸⁰And if (the debtor) is in difficulty, let there be postponement till (he is in) ease. And that you forgo it as charity is better for you, if only you knew.^a ²⁸¹And guard yourselves against a day in which you will be returned to Allah. Then every soul will be paid in full what it has earned, and they will not be wronged.

282 O you who believe, when you contract a debt for a fixed time, write it down.^b And let a scribe write it down between you with fairness; nor should the scribe refuse to write as Allah has taught him, so let him write. And let him who owes the debt dictate, and he should observe his duty to Allah, his Lord, and not diminish anything from it. But if he who owes the debt is unsound in understanding or weak, or (if) he is not able to dictate himself, let his guardian dictate with fairness.^c And call to witness from among your men two witnesses; but if there are not two men, then one man and two women^d from among those whom you choose to a (280) This indicates the kind of sympathy Islam demands. The poor man is not to be prosecuted and thrown into prison, and payment of debt must be postponed till the debtor is able to pay, or, better still, the whole may be remitted as charity.

b (282-1) If Islam enjoins charity and prohibits usury, it also requires that the greatest precautions must be taken for safeguarding property rights. The Arabs were quite an illiterate people, among whom writing was very rare. Even then they were required to put down all their transactions, great or small, in writing, except in hand-to-hand dealings.

c (282-2) A guardian may be appointed for one who is not able to manage his own property because he is a minor or his understanding is not sound on account of age or any other reason.

d (282-3) As women did not take much part in business, and might be unfamiliar with the transaction, two women are required instead of one man. (Editor's Note: It is quite unwarranted to presume from this advice that the evidence of two women equals the evidence of one man. According to 24:6-9 if a husband accuses his wife of adultery which she denies and he is the sole witness, her testimony is treated as of equal value to his. In 5:106 and 65:2 it is required to be witnesses, so that if one of the two commits error, the one may remind the other.^a And the witnesses must not refuse when they are summoned. And do not be averse to writing it whether it is small or large along with the time of its falling due. This is more equitable in the sight of Allah and makes testimony surer and the best way to keep away from doubts. But when it is ready merchandise which you give and take among yourselves from hand to hand, there is no blame on you in not writing it down. And have witnesses when you sell to one another. And let no harm be done to the scribe or to the witnesses.^b And if you do (it), then surely it is a transgression on your part. And keep your duty to Allah. And Allah teaches you. And Allah is Knower of all things.

283 And if you are on a journey and you cannot find a scribe, a security may be taken into possession.^c But if one of you trusts another, then he who is trusted should deliver his trust, and let him keep his duty to Allah, his Lord. And do not conceal testimony. And whoever conceals it, his heart is surely sinful. And Allah is Knower of what you do.

have “two just ones” as witnesses and not specifically men. There are a number of reports in Hadith showing that the Holy Prophet Muhammad gave full weight to the testimony of a woman.)

a (282-4) The personal pronoun humā may refer either to the testimony of the two witnesses or the two women. Reminding here stands for making up the deficiency of the other’s memory. The Holy Quran does not say that no case should be decided except on the testimony of two witnesses, but requires ordinarily the calling of two witnesses at the time of the transaction, so that the deficiency of one may be rectified by the other. Cases may be decided on circumstantial evidence as well, which is sometimes stronger than the evidence of witnesses. The Quran itself speaks of Joseph’s innocence being established on circumstantial evidence (12:26–27).

b (282-5) The scribe and the witnesses must not be made to suffer loss in their own business. In other words, their convenience must be kept in view, and they should be paid.

c (283) This does not mean that a security cannot be taken in any other case. Security may be taken when the lender does not trust the debtor. Also, advantage can be derived by the lender from the property which has been given into his possession as a security for the debt.

Section 40: Muslims shall be made Victorious

284 To Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And whether you manifest what is in your minds or hide it, Allah will call you to account according to it.^a So He forgives whom He pleases and punishes whom He pleases. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

285 The Messenger believes in what has been revealed to him from his Lord, and (so do) the believers. They all believe in Allah and His angels and His Books and His messengers. We make no distinction between any of His messengers.^b And they say: We hear and obey; our Lord, Your forgiveness (do we crave), and to You is the eventual course.

286 Allah does not impose on any soul a duty beyond its ability. To its benefit is what (good) it earns, and to its detriment is what (evil) it works. Our Lord, do not punish us if we forget or make a mistake. Our Lord, do not lay on us a burden as You did lay on those before us. Our Lord, do not impose on us (afflictions) which we have not the strength to bear. And pardon us! And grant us protection! And have mercy on us! You are our Patron, so grant us victory over the disbelieving people.^c a (284) This verse does not signify “Allah will call you to account for it” but that He “will call you to account according to it”; so that he who hides (i.e. keeps under control) his evil inclinations and he who manifests (i.e. gives vent to them) shall not be dealt with in the same manner, but according to their deserts. Almost the same statement is contained in 3:29, where it is said: “Say: Whether you hide what is in your hearts or manifest it, Allah knows it”. Evil thoughts are not unpunishable, but evil inclinations which a man keeps suppressed, and which therefore gradually disappear, cannot be included in the category of evil thoughts; it is these that are meant here.

b (285) The breadth of the Muslim faith, which has been dealt with on several occasions in this chapter, is again mentioned in reference to the triumph of the Muslims; for even if the Muslims were triumphant, their religion could not triumph over other religions unless established on very broad principles which should commend themselves to all. The triumph of the Muslim religion would be due to the excellence and breadth of its principles. Hence, even in these days of Muslim political decadence, Islam is making spiritual conquests.

c (286) As a preliminary to the prayer for victory over the disbelieving people, there is one set of three petitions in the first part of the verse and another set of three petitions in the second part. The first three petitions made to God are do not punish us, do not lay on us the burden of sins, do not impose on us afflictions which we have not the strength to bear. Corresponding to these three petitions respectively are the three petitions in the second part, pardon us, grant us protection, have mercy on us. Thus corresponding to the desire to be saved from punishment is the petition that God may pardon His servant whatever faults he has committed; corresponding to the desire that one may not be burdened with sins is the petition that one may be granted protection from the commission of sins; and corresponding to the desire to be saved from afflictions which one has not the strength to bear is the petition for the mercy of God.

It is noteworthy that if Muslims are taught to pray for victory over disbelievers, as here, they are at the same time taught to be humble and forgiving.

Āl ‘Imrān The Family of Amran

The name of this chapter is taken from the mention of ‘Imrān in v. 33, who is Amran of the Bible, the father of Moses and Aaron. It deals with the departure of prophethood from the Mosaic dispensation. It opens with a rule of interpretation for Divine books, which is that any allegorical statement must be interpreted so as not to contradict the clear principles laid down by Divine revelation. This is a preliminary to a discussion of Christian doctrines, which are based on wrong interpretations of certain allegorical statements. The chapter then deals with: the last Divine elect of the Israelites, including Jesus, after whom the spiritual kingdom was granted to the Muslims, religious controversy with the Jews and Christians, and their opposition to Islam, testimony to the truth of Islam in previous scriptures, the need for Muslim unity, the need for Muslims to show perseverance in suffering as in the battle of Uhud, and how they will triumph in the end after their struggles. Almost the entire chapter was revealed in 3 A.H.

Section 1: Rule of Interpretation

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower,^a 2Allah, (there is) no god but He, the Ever-living, the Self-subsisting, by Whom all subsist.^b 3He has revealed to you the Book with truth,^c verifying what is (already) before it, and He revealed the Torah and the Gospel^d

b (2) As this chapter controverts Christian doctrines, it fittingly opens with two attributes of the Divine Being, the Ever-living and the Self-subsisting, which refute the doctrine of the divinity of Jesus Christ. The statement that there is no god but He contains an ideal expression of the religion of Islam in four words.

c (3-1) “With truth” signifies that the Quran was revealed suitably to the requirements of wisdom and justice, and to the exigencies of the case; in other words, it was revealed at a time when revelation was sorely needed by humanity.

d (3-2) Taurāt is the name given to the books of Moses, or the Pentateuch, and hence its correct rendering is the Hebrew word Torah. The Taurāt does not signify the Old Testament, because the latter is the name of the whole collection

⁴before, a guidance for the people,^a and He sent the Criterion.^b Those who disbelieve in the messages of Allah — for them is a severe punishment. And Allah is Mighty, the Lord of retribution.^c ⁵Surely nothing in the earth or in the heaven is hidden from Allah.
⁶He it is Who shapes you in the wombs as He pleases. There is no god but He, the Mighty, the Wise.

⁷ He it is Who has revealed the Book to you; some of its verses are decisive — they are the basis of the Book — and others are allegorical.^d Then those in whose hearts is perversity follow the part of it which is allegorical, seeking to mislead, and seeking to give it (their own) interpretation.^e And none knows its interpretation of the books of the Israelite prophets. The word Injīl (Gospel) does not signify the New Testament but the revelation granted to Jesus.

a (4-1) The Torah and the Gospel were undoubtedly a guidance before the Quran; but even as they now exist, they afford guidance in many respects with a mixture of error, and contain numerous prophecies fulfilled in the advent of Prophet Muhammad.

b (4-2) See 2:53 and 2:185 footnote 3. The Quran is here mentioned by the name Furqān or that which distinguishes between truth and falsehood, and provides a criterion, because it was sent to separate the truth in previous revelation from the falsehood which had found its way into it. As the Furqān, or the criterion of truth, in the case of the Holy Prophet was also provided by the battle of Badr, this event is referred to in v. 13 as a prelude to the actual controversy.

d (7-1) The Quran establishes certain principles in clear words which are to be taken as the basis, while there are statements made in allegorical words or susceptible to different meanings, the interpretation of which must be in consonance with the other parts and the spirit of the Book. When a certain principle is laid down in unmistakable words, any statement carrying a doubtful significance, or one which is apparently opposed to that principle, must be interpreted subject to the principle enunciated. The subject is appropriately dealt with here as a prelude to a controversy with the Christians, who attribute divinity to Jesus on the basis of certain ambiguous words or allegorical statements, without heeding the fundamental principles established by the earlier prophets.

e (7-2) These are people who do not care to seek the real interpretation which can only be found by referring to the principles laid down elsewhere but give an interpretation to an ambiguous verse alone, without considering it in conjunction with other similar verses or the principles laid down elsewhere.

except Allah, and those firmly rooted in knowledge. They say: We believe in it, it is all from our Lord.^a And none are mindful except those who have understanding. ⁸Our Lord, do not make our hearts to deviate after You have guided us and grant us mercy from Yourself; surely You are the most liberal Giver. ⁹Our Lord, surely You are the Gatherer of people on a day about which there is no doubt. Surely Allah will not fail in (His) promise.

Section 2: Unity of God as Basis of all Religions

10 Those who disbelieve, neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against Allah. And they will be fuel for fire — ¹¹as was the case of the people of Pharaoh, and those before them! They rejected Our messages, so Allah destroyed them on account of their sins. And Allah is Severe in retribution. ¹²Say to those who disbelieve: You will be defeated, and driven together to hell; and evil is the resting-place.^b ¹³Indeed there was a sign for you in the two armies (which) met together in encounter — one party fighting in the way of Allah and the other disbelieving, whom they saw twice as many as themselves with the sight of the eye.^c And Allah strengthens with His aid whom He pleases. There is surely a lesson in this for those who have eyes.

a (7-3) The words it is all from our Lord signify that there is no disagreement between the various portions of the Holy Book. Hence the rule of interpretation which they follow is that they refer passages which are susceptible to various interpretations to those whose meaning is obvious or to similar passages, and subject particular statements to general principles.

c (13) The reference here is to the battle of Badr. The actual strength of the two parties was: Quraish about 1000, Muslims 313. The Muslims saw the disbelievers to be twice as many as themselves, and therefore they appeared fewer in their eyes as compared with their actual numbers. The battle of Badr is here stated to be a sign of the truth of the Holy Prophet, not only because of the prophecies of victory contained in the Quran, but also because of the clear prophecy in the Bible in the book of Isaiah, 21:13–17. It speaks of future events in the land of Arabia, which clearly came to pass in the emigration of the Muslims to Madinah and the defeat, one year later, of the army of the Quraish.

14 The love of desires is made attractive to people — of women and sons and hoarded treasures of gold and silver and well-bred horses and cattle and crop produce. This is the provision of the life of this world. And Allah — with Him is the good goal (of life). ¹⁵Say: Shall I tell you of what is better than these? For those who guard against evil are Gardens with their Lord, in which rivers flow, to abide in them, and pure companions and Allah's goodly pleasure.^a And Allah is Seer of the servants. ¹⁶Those who say: Our Lord, we believe, so forgive our sins and save us from the punishment of the fire. ¹⁷The patient and the truthful and the obedient and those who spend (on good works) and those who ask Divine protection in the morning times.^b

18 Allah bears witness that there is no god but He, and (so do) the angels and those possessed of knowledge, maintaining justice.^c There is no god but He, the Mighty, the Wise. ¹⁹Surely the (true) religion with Allah is Islam.^d And those who were given the Book a (15) For the companions in paradise see 2:25 footnote 3. Among the blessings of paradise is Allah's goodly pleasure, which is elsewhere said to be the greatest of all the blessings of paradise (9:72). The addition of this word here shows that the blessings of paradise are spiritual.

b (17) Seeking of Divine protection (istighfār) is really a prayer to attain to sinlessness. The righteous servants of God are here spoken of as possessing the great qualifications of steadfastness, truthfulness, obedience to God, spending in Allah's way, and finally as resorting to istighfār or Divine protection, which shows that it is one of the highest stages to which the spiritual pilgrim aspires.

c (18) Allah bears witness to His Unity through nature, which is His handiwork, and also by His word made known through revelation. The angels bear witness by their working within man, whose nature bears testimony to Divine Unity. Those who have a true knowledge of the holy scriptures of any religion also bear testimony to the great truth of the Unity of Allah. The Unity of Allah is, in fact, the common principle which is recognized by all religions.

The words maintaining justice most likely qualify those possessed of knowledge, the meaning being that every possessor of knowledge, to whatever religion he may belong, bears witness to the grand truth of Divine Unity if he maintains justice in bearing witness.

d (19) The meaning is that the principle of submission to God, thereby entering into peace, has always been the true religion. According to the Holy Quran, Islām was the religion of all the prophets. The Israelite prophets who followed differed only after knowledge had come to them, out of envy among themselves. And whoever disbelieves in the messages of Allah — Allah indeed is Quick at reckoning. ²⁰But if they dispute with you say: I submit myself entirely to Allah and (so does) he who follows me. And say to those who have been given the Book and the Unlearned (people):^a Do you submit yourselves? If they submit, then indeed they follow the right way; and if they turn back, your duty is only to deliver the message. And Allah is Seer of the servants.

21 Those who disbelieve in the messages of Allah and would kill the prophets unjustly and kill those among people who command (the doing of) justice, announce to them a painful punishment. ²²Those are they whose deeds will be fruitless in this world and the Hereafter, and they will have no helpers. ²³Have you not seen those who are given a portion of the Book?^b They are invited to the Book of Allah that it may decide between them, then some of them turn back and they withdraw.^c ²⁴This is because they say: The Fire shall not touch us but for a few days; and what they forge deceives them regarding their religion. ²⁵Then how will it be when We gather them together on a day about which there is no doubt. And every soul shall be fully paid what it has earned, and they shall not be wronged?

26 Say: O Allah, Owner of the Kingdom, You give the kingdom to whom You please, and take away the kingdom from whom Moses are spoken of as the prophets who submitted themselves (to Allah) (5:44). It is also the natural religion of man, as in 30:30 it is described as being “the nature made by Allah in which He has created mankind”.

b (23-1) The Jews are spoken of as being given only a portion of the Book, because much of it had already been lost. Moreover, the Torah was not a complete law.

c (23-2) The reference here is to the broad principles of religion regarding which the Jews and the Christians differed. The Book of Allah is the Holy Quran which gave a decision in the differences between them.

You please, and You exalt whom You please and degrade whom You please. In Your hand is the good. Surely You are Powerful over all things. ²⁷You make the night to pass into the day and You make the day to pass into the night; and You bring forth the living from the dead and You bring forth the dead from the living; and You give sustenance to whom You please without measure.^a 28 The believers should not take the disbelievers as allies rather than believers.^b And whoever does this has no connection with Allah — except that you guard yourselves against them,^c guarding carefully. And Allah cautions you against His retribution. And to Allah is the eventual coming. ²⁹Say: Whether you hide what is in your hearts or manifest it, Allah knows it. And He knows whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And Allah is Powerful over all things. ³⁰On the day when every soul will find present whatever good it has done, and whatever evil it has done, it will wish that between it and that (evil) there were a long distance. And Allah cautions you against His retribution. And Allah is Compassionate to the servants.

a (27) Verses 26–27 refer to the fact that kingdom and honour shall be given now to another nation, whose night shall be made to pass into a day of triumph. The Jews had already been warned by Jesus that “the kingdom of God will be taken from you and given to a nation bearing the fruits of it” (Matthew, 21:43). A living nation of Muslims was brought forth from among the dead Arabs, and the living nation of Israelites was represented now by a people who were spiritually dead.

b (28-1) The Muslims, being in a state of war with the disbelievers, were forbidden to look to their enemies to guard their interests or for help of any kind. The clear statement made in 60:8–9 settles the point beyond all doubt: “Allah does not forbid you, with regard to those who do not fight you for religion, nor drive you forth from your homes, that you show them kindness and deal with them justly. ... Allah forbids you only with regard to those who fight you for religion, and drive you forth from your homes and help (others) in your expulsion, that you make friends of them”.

c (28-2) The meaning is: Do not look to them for guarding your interests, rather guard yourselves against them.

Section 4: Last Members of a Chosen Race

31 Say: If you love Allah, follow me: Allah will love you,^a and grant you protection from your sins. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ³²Say: Obey Allah and the Messenger; but if they turn back, Allah surely does not love the disbelievers.

33 Truly Allah chose Adam and Noah and the descendants of Abraham and the descendants of Amran above the nations,^b ³⁴offspring, one of the other. And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ³⁵When a woman of Amran^c said: My Lord, I vow to You what is in my womb, to be devoted (to Your service), so accept (it) from me; surely You, only You, are the Hearing, the Knowing. ³⁶So when she gave birth to it, she said: My Lord, I have given birth to a female — and Allah knew best what she had given birth to — and the male is not like the female,^d and I have named it Mary, and I commend her and her offspring into Your protection from the accursed devil.^e

b (33) Here begins the story of Jesus Christ, the central figure of the Christian religion, and as a preliminary we are told that if Jesus was chosen by God so were his great ancestors, Adam and Noah. The descendants of Abraham and Amran are then spoken of as having been chosen above the nations. For the choice of the descendants of Abraham, see 2:124 footnote. They are divided into two branches, the Israelites and the Ishmaelites. The former are here spoken of as the descendants of 'Imrān, who is the same as Amran of the Bible. The descendants of Amran are Moses and Aaron. Moses became the founder of the Israelite law and Aaron the head of the Israelite priesthood. The last of this race were John and Jesus. Their parents, Zacharias and Mary, are first spoken of here.

c (35) Imra'at means a woman and also a wife. I take imra'at 'Imrān as meaning a woman of the family of Amran rather than wife of Amran because the name of a great ancestor is frequently used to indicate the nation which has sprung from him. According to tradition, however, 'Imrān was the name of Mary's father, and therefore the words imra'at 'Imrān may mean the wife of Amran.

d (36-1) She had vowed the child to be devoted to the service of the Temple, but a female could not do the priestly work.

e (36-2) Mary's mother while praying for Mary prays also for her offspring, because, while dedicating her daughter to the Temple, she entertained the hope that Mary would eventually become a wife and mother.

37 So her Lord accepted her with a goodly acceptance and made her grow up a goodly growing, and gave her into the charge of Zacharias. Whenever Zacharias entered the sanctuary to (see) her, he found food with her. He said: Mary, from where does this come to you? She said: It is from Allah. Surely Allah gives to whom He pleases without measure.^a 38 There did Zacharias pray to his Lord. He said: My Lord, grant me from Yourself goodly offspring; surely You are the Hearer of prayer. 39 So the angels called to him as he stood praying in the sanctuary: Allah gives you the good news of John,^b verifying a word from Allah,^c and honourable and chaste and a prophet from among the good ones. 40 He said: My Lord, how can I have a son when old age has already come upon me, and my wife is barren? He said: Even thus does Allah do what He pleases. 41 He said: My Lord, appoint a sign for me. Said He: Your sign is that you do not speak to people for three days except by signs. And remember your Lord much and glorify (Him) in the evening and early morning.

Section 5: Birth of Jesus and his Ministry

42 And when the angels said: O Mary, surely Allah has chosen you and purified you and chosen you above the women of the world. 43 O Mary, be obedient to your Lord and humble yourself and bow down with those who bow.^d 44 This is among the tidings of things

a (37) Mary's reply, that she got sustenance from Allah, is the reply of every devout person who believes that Allah is the sustainer of all, and that therefore all provision or sustenance comes from Him. Mary being attached to the Temple, the worshippers would naturally bring gifts to her, and as it was through Divine grace that she received these gifts she said that it was Allah Who gave her these things.

b (39-1) The Arabic word for John is Yahyā, this name indicating that he would not die in sin like his other relations.

c (39-2) The promise given to Zacharias was a word from Allah, and John was the verifier of that word, because his birth brought about the fulfilment of the prophecy. A word from Allah, therefore, stands for a Divine prophecy; see also 6:34 and 10:64.

d (43) After speaking of Mary's birth and her growing up, the Quran now speaks of her election just as the righteous before her were elected. Evidently this refers to a time when she had grown up to the age of puberty and left the temple.

unseen which We reveal to you. And you were not with them when they cast their pens (to decide) which of them should have Mary in his charge, and you were not with them when they contended with one another.^a

45 When the angels said: O Mary, surely Allah gives you good news with a word from Him^b (of one) whose name is the Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary,^c worthy of regard in this world and the Hereafter, and one of those who are drawn near (to Allah),⁴⁶and he will speak to the people when in the cradle and when of old age, and (he will be) one of the good ones.^d ⁴⁷She said: My Lord, how can I have a son and man has not yet touched me? He said: Even so; Allah creates what He pleases. When He decrees a matter, He only says to it, Be, and it is.^e a (44) This verse cannot refer back to Mary's history as a child in the temple, as some think. The Quran has described her history in the natural order: her conception (v. 35), birth (v. 36), being dedicated to and residing in the temple (v. 37), and her election at the age of discretion (v. 42 and 43). Therefore this particular incident refers to her espousal. The casting of lots and the contention as to who should have her in his charge means her charge as a wife.

c (45-2) The Quran makes no mention at all of Mary's husband, but nor does it at all mention Moses' father when relating the circumstances of Moses' birth. The mere fact, therefore, that there is no mention of Jesus' father is not sufficient to show that Jesus had no father. Moreover, of his two parents Joseph and Mary, Mary was undoubtedly much more well-known than Joseph.

d (46) Speaking "when in the cradle and when of old age" cannot be considered as miracles, as the latter is undoubtedly not. The good news conveyed consists in the fact that the child announced will be a healthy child and shall not die in childhood. It would thus appear that, according to the Holy Quran, Jesus did not die at thirty-three years of age, but lived to a sufficiently old age.

e (47) She is told in reply to her question that the child will be born because God would bring about the circumstances which result in the birth of a child. The words do not show that she would conceive out of the ordinary course of nature, for there is no doubt that Mary had other children, which no one supposes to have been conceived out of the ordinary course of nature. Nor do the words that follow prove anything beyond the simple fact that Mary must give birth to a son in accordance with the prophecy. The whole of creation is brought about, we are told again and again, by the Divine word "Be" (see 2:117), yet no one supposes that creation is not brought about according to the laws of nature.

48 And He will teach him the Book and the Wisdom and the Torah and the Gospel, ⁴⁹and (make him) a messenger to the Children of Israel (saying): I have come to you with a sign from your Lord, that I determine for you out of dust (a thing) like the form of a bird, then I breathe into it and it becomes a bird with Allah's permission,^a and I heal the blind and the leprous,^b and bring the dead to life^c with Allah's permission; and I inform you of what you should eat and what you should store in your houses.^d Surely there is a sign in this for you, if you are believers. ⁵⁰And (I have come) verifying what is (already) before me of the Torah, and I allow you part of what was forbidden to you;^e and I have come to you with a sign from your Lord, so keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ⁵¹Surely Allah is my Lord and your Lord, so serve Him. This is the right path.

a (49-1) As Jesus spoke in parables, this passage must be taken allegorically. What is meant is that Jesus, by breathing a spirit into mortals, will make them rise above those who are bent low upon the earth, and the apostles of Jesus, who were all men of humble origin (which is referred to in the word dust in the parable), left everything for the master's sake and went into the world by his command to preach the truth. Here was mere dust having the form of a bird, which the messenger of God converted into high-soaring birds by breathing truth into them.

b (49-2) The Quran gives an explanation of the healing of the sick when, speaking of itself, it says that it is "a healing for what is in the hearts" (10:57), i.e. for spiritual diseases. A prophet's healing is spiritual, not healing of physical diseases. The Quran speaks of the blind and the deaf frequently, but it never means those who do not possess the senses of seeing and hearing.

c (49-3) The Quran says plainly that those who die are not sent back to this world; see 39:42 and 23:100. But the use of the word mautā, i.e. the dead, and of their being raised to life, is frequent in the Quran in a spiritual sense: "Is he who was dead, then We raised him to life ... like him whose likeness is that of one in darkness" (6:122). And again: "O you who believe, respond to Allah and His Messenger, when He calls you to that which gives you life" (8:24). The prophets are raised only for quickening to life those who are spiritually dead, and it is to this quickening through Jesus that the Quran refers here.

d (49-4) Jesus laid special stress on not having any care "for the morrow", and advised a rich man when he came to him to sell all he had. He would have them lay up treasures in heaven. The verse refers to this aspect of his teaching.

e (50) The law of Moses was upheld by the Israelite prophets, but amended from time to time. These changes are particularly marked out in Jesus' teaching.

52 But when Jesus perceived disbelief on their part, he said: Who will be my helpers in Allah's way? The disciples said: We are Allah's helpers, we believe in Allah, and (ask you to) bear witness that we are submitting ones. ⁵³Our Lord, we believe in what You have revealed and we follow the messenger, so write us down with those who bear witness. ⁵⁴And (the Jews) planned and Allah (also) planned. And Allah is the Best of planners.^a

Section 6: Jesus cleared of False Charges

55 When Allah said: O Jesus, I will cause you to die^b and exalt you in My presence^c and clear you of those who disbelieve^d and make those who follow you above those who disbelieve to the day of Resurrection.^e Then to Me is your return, so I shall decide between you in that in which you differ.^f ⁵⁶Then as to those who disbelieve, I shall punish them with severe punishment in this world a (54) The word makr used here is the equivalent of the word plan, the good or evil nature of the plan being dependent on the doer's intention. The Jews planned to put Jesus to death by crucifixion, and Allah made a plan to frustrate their plans; and Allah's plan was successful, i.e. he was saved from death on the cross, for which see 3:55 and 4:157.

b (55-1) Ibn Abbas says that the words used here, mutawaffi-ka, mean mumitu-ka, i.e. I will cause you to die (see Bukhari, 65.5:12). These words are used to show that the Jewish plans to cause Jesus' death on the cross would be frustrated and that he would afterwards die a natural death; see 4:157.

c (55-2) The word raf' signifies raising or elevating, and also exalting or making honourable. When the raf' of a human being to Allah is spoken of in the religious literature of Islam, it is always in the sense of exaltation. The exaltation of Jesus is mentioned here as a reply to the Jews, whose object was to make him die an accursed and ignominious death on the cross.

d (55-3) This signifies clearing Jesus of the false charges relating to the alleged illegitimacy of his birth, and so on, charges of which Jesus was cleared by the Quran.

e (55-4) This is the fourth promise made to Jesus in this verse, that those who follow Jesus shall be made dominant over his rejectors till the day of Judgment. Its truth is witnessed to this day in the dominance of the Christians over the Jews.

f (55-5) Differences of belief are dealt with in the life after death, while the worst of transgressions in deeds are punished even in this life.

and the Hereafter, and they will have no helpers. ⁵⁷And as to those who believe and do good deeds, He will pay them fully their rewards. And Allah does not love the unjust.

58 This We recite to you of the messages and the Reminder full of wisdom. ⁵⁹The likeness of Jesus with Allah is truly as the likeness of Adam. He created him from dust, then said to him, Be, and he was.^a ⁶⁰(This is) the truth from your Lord, so do not be one of the disputers. ⁶¹Whoever then disputes with you in this matter after the knowledge that has come to you, say: Come! Let us call our sons and your sons and our women and your women and our people and your people, then let us be earnest in prayer, and invoke the curse of Allah on the liars.^b ⁶²Surely this is the true account, and there is no god but Allah. And Allah, He surely is the Mighty, the Wise. ⁶³But if they turn away, then surely Allah knows the mischief-makers.

Section 7: Controversy with Jews and Christians

64 Say: O People of the Book, come to an equitable word between us and you, that we shall serve none but Allah and that we shall not set up any partner with Him, and that some of us shall

a (59) Adam stands for man generally, because all human beings are created from dust (see 18:37, 22:5 and 30:20). All that is meant is that Jesus is no more than a mortal, and that it is an error to take him for God. If Adam is taken as a proper name, the meaning would be that just as Adam was created from dust and then chosen by Allah, so was Jesus created from dust, and his election was similar to the election of Adam, the command “Be” referring to the election of a righteous servant of Allah. In either case there is no reference to Jesus being brought into existence without the agency of a male parent.

b (61) The persons addressed in particular in this verse are the members of the Christian deputation from Najrān that came in 10 A.H. to see the Prophet Muhammad. The deputation was lodged by the Holy Prophet in his mosque. Thus did he set an unparalleled example of freedom of religious belief and practice. After the Holy Prophet gave them arguments showing that Jesus was not God, and finding them still insisting on their false belief, they were invited as a last resort to pray earnestly that the curse of Allah might overtake the party that insisted on falsehood. After some deliberation they decided against it and told the Prophet that they had decided not to pray against him as suggested. Thereupon they were given a pledge by which they were free to practise their religion.

not take others for lords besides Allah. But if they turn away, then say: Bear witness, we are Muslims.^a ⁶⁵O People of the Book, why do you dispute about Abraham, when the Torah and the Gospel were not revealed till after him? Do you not understand? ⁶⁶Look! You are they who disputed about that of which you had knowledge; why then do you dispute about that of which you have no knowledge? And Allah knows while you do not know.^b ⁶⁷Abraham was not a Jew nor a Christian, but he was (an) upright (man), a Muslim; and he was not of those who set up partners (with Allah). ⁶⁸The nearest of people to Abraham are surely those who follow him and this Prophet and those who believe. And Allah is the Friend of the believers.

69 Some of the People of the Book desire that they should lead you astray; and they lead astray only themselves, but they do not perceive. ⁷⁰O People of the Book, why do you disbelieve in the messages of Allah while you witness (their truth)? ⁷¹O People of the Book, why do you mix the truth with falsehood, and hide the truth while you know?

Section 8: Machinations to discredit Islam

72 And a group of the People of the Book say: Affirm belief in what has been revealed to those who believe, in the first part of a (64) In this verse the Jews and the Christians are called upon to accept the broad principles of the faith of Abraham, which were also the basic principles of the faith of Islam. The words some of us shall not take others for lords is to the practice prevailing then both among Jews and Christians, and at present among Muslims too, to treat religious leaders as if invested with Divine powers. The basic doctrines of Islam are the greatest common measure of the truth contained in different religions of the world. The doctrine of Unity as taught by Islam affords an illustration. All higher religions start on the basis of Divine Unity but then each religious system has its peculiarities unknown to all others. Islam alone is free from all these additions to the basic doctrine, and it preaches Unity in its simplest form. There are no idols, no gods, no incarnations of the Divine Being, no sons of God, and finally no priests or clerics to be followed blindly.

b (66) The Jews invited people to a belief in the Torah and the Christians to a belief in the Gospel, but both these had lost the purity of the faith of Abraham which was pure monotheism, unmixed with either Jewish priesthood or Christian doctrine of sonship.

the day, and disbelieve in the latter part of it, perhaps they may turn back.^a ⁷³And do not believe except in him who follows your religion.^b Say: True guidance — Allah’s guidance — is that one may be given the like of what you were given; or they would prevail on you in argument before your Lord.^c Say: Grace is surely in Allah’s hand. He gives it to whom He pleases. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing. ⁷⁴He specially chooses for His mercy whom He pleases. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace.^d

75 And among the People of the Book is he who, if you entrust him with a heap of wealth, would pay it back to you; and among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, would not pay it back to you, unless you kept on demanding it. This is because they say there is no blame on us in the matter of the unlearned people and they forge a lie against Allah while they know.^e ⁷⁶No, whoever fulfils his promise and keeps his duty — then Allah surely loves the dutiful. ⁷⁷Those who take a small price for the covenant of Allah and their own oaths — they have no portion in the Hereafter, and Allah will not speak to them, nor will

a (72) This has two different significances. One is that they should affirm belief in the earlier part of the revelation, while denying the latter portion, as some modern critics do, thus creating doubts as to the sincerity of the Prophet. The other is that they should affirm a belief in the truth of Islam in the morning and deny it in the evening, creating the impression that the religion of Islam was a false religion. The fact that a group of Jews, in Madinah under Muslim rule, could conceive this plan is a clear proof that apostates in Islam were not put to death.

b (73-1) Editor’s Note: This is the statement of the Jews continued from v. 72, that they should not believe in any prophet who did not follow their religion.

c (73-2) The contention of the Jews not to believe in any prophet who did not follow the law of Moses is met with the reply that a revelation must be given to another prophet like the revelation that had been given to Moses, for the Divine promise to Moses was that God would raise up a prophet like him from among the “brethren” of the Israelites (Deuteronomy, 18:18). In this argument the Muslims are said to prevail over their opponents.

d (74) Allah’s choosing for His mercy stands here for His choice of a prophet.

e (75) They considered themselves free from all responsibility towards the Arabs, despite any agreement they might have made with them. They are, however, told that God never allowed dishonesty against any people.

He look upon them on the day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, and for them is a painful punishment.

78 And certainly there are some of them who lie about the Book that you may consider it to be (a part) of the Book while it is not (a part) of the Book; and they say, It is from Allah, while it is not from Allah; and they forge a lie against Allah while they know. ⁷⁹It is not for a mortal that Allah should give him the Book and the judgment and the prophethood, then he should tell people: Be my servants besides Allah's; but (he would say): Be worshippers of the Lord because you teach the Book and because you study (it); ⁸⁰nor would he command you to take the angels and the prophets for lords.^a Would he command you to disbelieve after you submit?

Section 9: Covenant of the Prophets

81 And when Allah made a covenant through the prophets: Certainly what I have given you of Book and Wisdom — then a Messenger comes to you verifying what is (already) with you, you shall believe in him, and you shall aid him. He said: Do you affirm and accept My compact in this (matter)? They said: We do affirm. He said: Then bear witness, and I (too) am a bearer of witness with you.^b ⁸²Whoever then turns back after this, these are the transgressors. ⁸³Do they then seek other than Allah's religion? And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth,

^a (80) Thus according to the Quran no prophet — Jesus included — ever taught his followers to take him as God. Even the current Gospels do not attribute any such teaching to Jesus. The angels are mentioned because the pagan Arabs worshipped the angels.

^b (81) The covenant was made through the prophets with their people. Both Moses and Jesus specially laid an obligation on their people to accept the prophet about whom they prophesied (see, for instance, Deuteronomy 18:18 and John 16:13). In fact, all the prophets of the world foretold the advent of the Prophet Muhammad. The covenant was made through each prophet separately as he appeared in the world. And just as all the prophets foretold the advent of the Prophet Muhammad and laid an obligation upon their people to accept him, so the Prophet Muhammad also taught his followers to believe in all the prophets that had appeared among different people in different ages, and this is stated in v. 84.

willingly or unwillingly, and to Him they will be returned.^a

84 Say: We believe in Allah and (in) what is revealed to us, and (in) what was revealed to Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes, and (in) what was given to Moses and Jesus and to the prophets from their Lord; we make no distinction between any of them, and to Him we submit. ⁸⁵And whoever seeks a religion other than Islam, it will not be accepted from him, and in the Hereafter he will be one of the losers.^b

86 How shall Allah guide a people who disbelieved after their believing, and (after) they had borne witness that the Messenger was true, and clear arguments had come to them? And Allah does not guide the unjust people.^c ⁸⁷As for these, their reward is that on them is the curse of Allah and the angels and of people, all together — ⁸⁸abiding in it. Their punishment shall not be lightened, nor shall they be given respite — ⁸⁹except those who repent after that and amend, for surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ⁹⁰Those who disbelieve after their believing, then increase in disbelief, their repentance is not accepted, and these are they that go astray. ⁹¹Those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers, the earth full of gold will not be accepted from anyone of them, though he should offer it as ransom. These it is for whom is a painful punishment, and they shall have no helpers.

a (83) Compare 13:15, 22:18, etc., where it is said that all those who are in the heavens and the earth make submission to Allah. The verse, in fact, shows that Islam, or the rule of submission to Divine law, is a law which is seen working throughout nature, and this is an argument of the truth of the religion of Islam.

b (85) The cosmopolitan nature of the religion of Islam having been clearly set forth in the previous verse, it is now stated that anyone who refused to accept such principles would unfailingly lose in the end. A Muslim accepts the whole truth, the truth as revealed to any prophet anywhere in the world, the truth as revealed to all mankind.

c (86) The persons meant are those who believed in the former prophets and disbelieved in the Holy Prophet Muhammad. Having clear signs of the Prophet's truth with them, and professing a belief in the prophets who had foretold the advent of the last of the prophets, they still disbelieved in him.

Section 10: Ever-living Testimony to Truth of Islam

92 You cannot attain to righteousness unless you spend (on good works) out of what you love.^a And what you spend, Allah surely knows it. ⁹³All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, before the Torah was revealed, except what Israel forbade himself. Say: Bring the Torah and read it, if you are truthful.^b ⁹⁴So whoever forges a lie against Allah after this, these are the wrongdoers.

95 Say: Allah speaks the truth; so follow the religion of Abraham, the upright one. And he was not one of those who set up partners (with Allah). ⁹⁶Certainly the first house appointed for mankind is the one at Bakkah,^c blessed and a guidance for the nations.^d ⁹⁷In it are clear signs: (It is) the Place of Abraham; and whoever enters it is safe; and pilgrimage to the House is a duty which people owe to Allah — whoever can find a way to it.^e And a (92) The connection with the last verse is clear. No wealth will buy redemption for a person if he has wasted his opportunity here, and to make the best of that opportunity a person must spend here what he loves most.

b (93) The Jews objected to the Muslims making use of certain foods which the law of Moses did not allow. An answer is given here that such foods were lawful for Abraham and his descendants, and Islam agreed in principle with the religion of Abraham. By all food is meant all food made lawful for Muslims.

c (96-1) Bakkah is the same as Makkah (Mecca). The Temple at Jerusalem was erected long after Abraham, while the Holy House at Makkah was there even before Abraham, and was, in fact, the first House on earth for the worship of the Divine Being.

d (96-2) The word mubārak, rendered as blessed, signifies the continuance forever of the blessings which a thing possesses. Thus Makkah is not only the first spiritual centre for mankind but also the ultimate spiritual centre for the whole of humanity.

e (97) There are three signs or prophecies here with regard to the future of Makkah. The first sign is that it is the Place of Abraham and hence the first prophecy is that the doctrine of the Unity of God will be proclaimed to the whole world from this centre. The second sign is that Makkah will always be secure, i.e., it shall not fall into the hands of an enemy who should destroy it. Thus its security is assured both physically and spiritually. The third prophecy is that a pilgrimage to the Sacred House shall continue to be made forever, and no power in the world shall ever be able to put a stop to it. The most striking fact about these prophecies is that they were all announced at a time when the Prophet and his followers had

98 Say: O People of the Book, why do you disbelieve in the messages of Allah? And Allah is a witness of what you do. 99 Say: O People of the Book, why do you hinder those who believe from the way of Allah, seeking (to make) it crooked, while you are witnesses? And Allah is not heedless of what you do. 100 O you who believe, if you obey some of those who have been given the Book, they will turn you back as disbelievers after your belief. 101 And how can you disbelieve while to you are recited the messages of Allah, and among you is His Messenger? And whoever holds fast to Allah, he indeed is guided to a right path.

Section 11: Muslims exhorted to remain United

102 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah, as it ought to be kept, and do not die except as Muslims.^a 103 And hold fast by the covenant of Allah^b all together and do not be disunited. And remember Allah's favour to you when you were enemies, then He united your hearts so by His favour you became brethren. And you were on the brink of a pit of fire, then He saved you from it.^c Thus Allah makes clear to you His messages that you may be guided. 104 And from among you there should be a community who invite apparently been driven away forever from the Sacred Place, when that place was in the exclusive possession of an enemy who did not allow the Muslims to visit it, and when the small Muslim community was in danger of being utterly destroyed by that powerful enemy at any moment.

a (102) The Muslims are exhorted, first to be individually conscious of the duty they owe to God (v. 102), and then to remain united in carrying the message of Islam to the whole world (v. 103). Every Muslim must live a life of true submission to God, so that when death comes to him it should find him a Muslim. As v. 104 shows, the Muslim's great duty, to which attention is called here, is the carrying of the message of Islam to others.

b (103-1) By the covenant of Allah is meant the Quran, a significance supported by sayings of the Holy Prophet. All Muslims, we are here told, should be united in holding fast to the Quran and carrying its message to other people.

c (103-2) Before the advent of the Holy Prophet, the Arabs were in a state of continual internecine warfare which threatened to devastate the whole country. He brought about the impossible of uniting all these factions.

to good and enjoin the right and forbid the wrong. And these are they who are successful.^a ¹⁰⁵And do not be like those who became divided and disagreed after clear arguments had come to them. And for them is a grievous punishment.

106 On the day when (some) faces will brighten and (some) faces will darken.^b Then as to those whose faces are darkened: Did you disbelieve after your belief? So taste the punishment because you disbelieved. ¹⁰⁷And as to those whose faces are brightened, they shall be in Allah's mercy. In it they shall abide. ¹⁰⁸These are the messages of Allah which We recite to you with truth. And Allah desires no injustice to (His) creatures. ¹⁰⁹And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And to Allah are all affairs returned.

110 You are the best nation raised up for mankind: you enjoin good and forbid evil and you believe in Allah.^c And if the People of the Book had believed, it would have been better for them. Some of them are believers but most of them are transgressors. ¹¹¹They will not harm you except a slight hurt. And if they fight you, they will turn (their) backs to you. Then they will not be helped. ¹¹²Degradation will be their lot wherever they are found, a (104) This verse and 9:122 both direct Muslims to have always among them a missionary group, whose only object should be the propagation of Islam and rightly directing their own people. This is the most neglected injunction of the Quran in our day. Muslims have arrangements for all other things but have no arrangements for inviting people to the great truth revealed in the Quran.

b (106) By faces brightening is meant their being expressive of joy, and by their darkening is meant their being expressive of regret. (Editor's Note: Physical colour of skin, white or black, is not meant here; compare 16:58: "And when the birth of a daughter is announced to one of them, his face becomes dark".)

c (110) The excellence of the Muslim people lies in their enjoining good and forbidding evil and in their great faith in Allah. If they lose these characteristics, they lose their excellence as well. Their excellence was no doubt due to the excellence of that Great Teacher who thoroughly purified them of the worst vices and made perfect the light within them.

except under a covenant with Allah and a covenant with people,^a and they shall incur the wrath of Allah, and humiliation will be made to cling to them. This is because they disbelieved in the messages of Allah and killed the prophets unjustly. This is because they disobeyed and exceeded the limits. ¹¹³They are not all alike. Of the People of the Book some are upright — they recite Allah’s messages in the night-time and they adore (Him). ¹¹⁴They believe in Allah and the Last Day, and they enjoin good and forbid evil and hasten in (doing) good deeds. And those are among the righteous. ¹¹⁵And whatever good they do, they will not be denied it. And Allah knows those who keep their duty.^b a (112) The Jews had already been subjected to disgrace before the appearance of the Prophet. But with the advent of Islam they could better their condition either by accepting the covenant of Allah, by which is meant the acceptance of Islam, or by making a compact of security with such people as could give them protection. This remains true to this day.

b (115) These verses speak of the good among the Jews and the Christians. The Quran does not deny that there is good in others, its own eminence lying in the fact that it makes man attain the highest degree of perfection in goodness. Thus the description of the upright among the followers of the Book concludes with the words: whatever good they do, they will not be denied it.

c (118) As the context shows, these people made war on the Muslims and wished to cause them loss. Hence Muslims could not be friendly with them.

d (119) This verse clearly indicates the difficulties which the Muslims had in

(in) the whole of it. And when they meet you they say, We believe, and when they are alone, they bite (their) finger tips in rage against you. Say: Die in your rage. Surely Allah is Knower of what is in the hearts. ¹²⁰If good befalls you, it grieves them, and if an evil afflicts you, they rejoice at it. And if you are patient and keep your duty, their struggle will not injure you in any way. Surely Allah encompasses what they do.

121 And when you went forth early in the morning from your family, to assign to the believers their positions for the battle.^a And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ¹²²When two parties from among you thought of showing cowardice, and Allah was the Guardian of them both. And in Allah should the believers trust. ¹²³And Allah certainly helped you at Badr when you were weak. So keep your duty to Allah that you may give thanks.

124 When you said to the believers: Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should help you with three thousand angels sent down? ^b ¹²⁵Indeed, if you are steadfast and keep your duty, and establishing friendly and loving relations with non-Muslims. The Muslims would offer friendship, but the other party was always on the look-out for some opportunity to inflict loss on them.

a (121) Much of the rest of this chapter is devoted to the events of the battle of Uhud. In 3 A.H. the Quraish marched against Madinah. The Prophet at first intended to stay within the town, but afterwards marched into the open field with a thousand men, one-third of whom, under the leadership of Abdullah ibn Ubayy, the hypocrite leader, left him and returned to Madinah. The enemy were first completely routed, but fifty Muslim archers, who were placed in a strong position to cut off the retreat of the enemy, made a mistake, and in order to join in the pursuit left their position. The enemy fell back upon the Muslims who were now in disorder and had lost their naturally fortified position, and after inflicting some loss upon them, left the field secure from the pursuit of the Muslim force. It was not a victory for the Quraish, who thought it safe to go back when they found the Muslims involved in their own troubles. They could not take a single prisoner of war, nor had they the courage to attack Madinah, which they did two years later with a very strong force.

b (124) The promise of the coming of angels is fully explained in the 8th chapter in connection with the battle of Badr. As here, it is first stated there that they come upon you in a headlong manner, your Lord will assist you with five thousand of havoc-making angels.^a ¹²⁶And Allah made it only as good news for you, and that your hearts might be at ease by it. And help comes only from Allah, the Mighty, the Wise, ¹²⁷that He may cut off a part of those who disbelieve or humble them so that they should return in failure.^b ¹²⁸You have no concern in the matter whether He turns to them (mercifully) or punishes them; surely they are wrongdoers.^c ¹²⁹And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. He forgives whom He pleases and punishes whom He pleases. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

Section 14: What Success meant for Muslims

130 O you who believe, do not devour usury, doubling and redoubling, and keep your duty to Allah, that you may be successful. ¹³¹And guard yourselves against the fire which has been the promise was given only “as good news, and that your hearts might be at ease by it” (8:10). Then it is made further clear there that the believers were strengthened and made firm while terror was cast into the hearts of their enemy. This was the result of the action of the angels upon the hearts.

a (125) The assistance of the angels stated in this verse refers to a third occasion, when the enemy came “in a headlong manner”, all the tribes uniting with the Quraish to crush the Muslims. This happened in the battle of Ahzāb, or the Allies, when the Quraish, numbering about five thousand, with the help of allied forces, the total strength being more than ten thousand, suddenly attacked Madinah. The dispersal of such a large army when the Muslims were only about fourteen hundred was no doubt due to Divine help, sent through angelic hosts.

b (127) Although the object of the disbelievers was to extirpate the Muslims by war, God’s aim was not to destroy all the disbelievers by defeat but to cut off their ringleaders and chiefs. The word translated as “a part”, ṭaraf, also means the leading men. When the leaders of mischief were cut off, the rest would be disappointed of attaining the object of extirpating Islam, and persecution would cease.

c (128) As a mortal the Prophet might have sometimes desired a severe punishment for his enemies; but he is told that it was not his concern, for Allah might as well forgive them, even though they deserved punishment. The all-comprehensiveness of the Divine mercy expressed in this verse is unapproached in sacred literature.

prepared for the disbelievers.^a ¹³²And obey Allah and the Messenger, that you may be shown mercy.

133 And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden, as wide as the heavens and the earth; it is prepared for those who keep their duty: ¹³⁴Those who spend in ease as well as in adversity and those who restrain (their) anger and pardon people. And Allah loves the doers of good (to others).^b ¹³⁵And those who, when they commit an indecency or wrong their souls, remember Allah and ask forgiveness for their sins. And who forgives sins but Allah? And they do not persist knowingly in what they do. ¹³⁶Their reward is protection from their Lord, and Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them. And excellent is the reward of the workers!

137 Indeed there have been examples before you; so travel in the earth and see what was the end of the deniers. ¹³⁸This is a clear statement for mankind, and a guidance and an admonition to those who would keep their duty. ¹³⁹And do not be weak-hearted, nor grieve, and you will have the upper hand if you are believers. ¹⁴⁰If a wound has afflicted you, a wound like it has also afflicted the (disbelieving) people. And We bring these days to people by turns, that Allah may know ^c those who believe and (He may) take witnesses from among you. And Allah does not love the wrongdoers, ¹⁴¹and that He may purge those who believe and deprive the disbelievers of blessings. ¹⁴²Do you think that you will enter the Garden while Allah has not yet known those from among you who strive hard (nor) known the steadfast? ¹⁴³And certainly you desired death before you met it. So indeed you have seen it now as you look.^d b (134) Restraining of anger, pardoning, and doing good to others, besides being great moral qualities, strengthen the bond of union which is so necessary for success. The verse has on many occasions inspired Muslims with the noblest thoughts of toleration and charitableness.

c (140) Allah knows all that is seen or unseen. The knowing here and the not knowing in v. 142 refer to the knowledge of the event actually having taken place.

d (143) This refers to the desire of those who insisted that they should meet the enemy in the open field, while the Holy Prophet's own desire was that the Muslims should defend themselves within Madinah.

Section 15: Sufferings to be met with Perseverance

144 And Muhammad is but a messenger — messengers have already passed away before him. If then he dies or is killed, will you turn back upon your heels? ^a And he who turns back upon his heels will do no harm at all to Allah. And Allah will reward the grateful. ¹⁴⁵And no soul can die but with Allah's permission — the term is fixed. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him of it, and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him of it. And We shall reward the grateful.

146 And how many a prophet has fought, with whom were many worshippers of the Lord. So they did not lose heart on account of what befell them in Allah's way, nor did they weaken, nor did they disgrace themselves. And Allah loves the steadfast. ¹⁴⁷And their cry was only that they said: Our Lord, grant us protection from our sins and our extravagance in our affair, and make firm our feet and grant us victory over the disbelieving people. ¹⁴⁸So Allah gave them the reward of the world and a good reward of the Hereafter. And Allah loves the doers of good (to others).

149 O you who believe, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will make you turn back upon your heels, so you will turn back losers. ^b ¹⁵⁰Rather, Allah is your Patron, and He is the Best of a (144) The Prophet received severe wounds in the battle of Uhud; there was even a rumour that he was killed. Even if the Prophet were killed, Islam was so far superior to all forms of faith that the Muslims could not give up Islam. This verse served another important purpose at the death of the Prophet. Some of the Companions thought that he was not dead. Abu Bakr went in, and seeing that life had departed, ascended the pulpit and read this verse, which had a magical effect upon his hearers, all of them being convinced that the Prophet had passed away, as all prophets had passed away before him. The prophets were but mortals, and their span of mortal life must no doubt terminate like that of other mortals. This verse affords a conclusive proof that Jesus was also dead; otherwise Abu Bakr's argument could not have silenced the doubters of the Prophet's death.

b (149) The war was carried on only with the object of making the Muslims renounce their religion, and hence they could not think of accepting the disbelievers as their rulers.

the helpers. ¹⁵¹We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve ^a because they set up partners with Allah for which He has sent down no authority, and their abode is the Fire. And evil is the abode of the wrongdoers.

152 And Allah certainly made good His promise to you when you slew them by His permission, until you became weak-hearted and disputed about the affair and disobeyed after He had shown you what you loved. Some of you desired this world, and some of you desired the Hereafter. ^b Then He turned you away from them that He might try you; and He has indeed pardoned you. ^c And Allah is Gracious to the believers. ¹⁵³When you went away far, and paid no heed to anyone, and the Messenger was calling you in your rear. ^d So He gave you (another) grief for (your) first grief that you might not grieve at what escaped you, nor (at) what befell you. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

a (151) The Muslims were less than one-fourth of their opponents, being at the same time not so well equipped as their foes, and in spite of the disorder into which the Muslim forces had fallen, the enemy had to flee, leaving the Muslims in the field, not even making a show of attacking Madinah, which was quite defenceless. This clearly shows that they were terror-stricken.

b (152-1) The weak-heartedness of a part of the archers who were placed in an important position to cut off the enemy's retreat consisted in their disobeying the clear orders of the Prophet: "If you see us overcoming the enemy do not leave your position, and if you see the enemy overcoming us, do not leave your position". But they fell a prey to the love of the world and left their position to get a share in the booty when they saw the enemy fleeing before the Muslim onrush.

c (152-2) The enemy, who was being pursued, turned against the pursuers on seeing the important position of the archers vacated, and the result was that the Muslims who were now in disorder on account of the pursuit found themselves helpless against the enemy who turned back on them, and some of them who were cut off from the main body took to flight. However, God pardoned them as their flight was the result of circumstances which were beyond their control.

d (153) It refers to the Prophet's call, at whom the Muslims now saw that the attack of the enemy was directed. So they did not grieve for losing an opportunity of pursuing the enemy, but for the dangerous position in which they saw the Prophet.

154 Then after grief He sent down security on you, slumber overcoming a group of you,^a while (there was) another group whom their own minds had made anxious — they entertained about Allah thoughts of ignorance quite unjustly.^b They said: Have we any hand in the affair? Say: The affair is wholly (in the hands) of Allah. They hide within themselves what they would not reveal to you. They say: If we had any hand in the affair, we would not have been slain here.^c Say: Had you remained in your houses, those for whom slaughter was ordained would have gone forth to the places where they would be slain.^d And (this happened) that Allah might test what was in your minds and that He might purge what was in your hearts. And Allah is Knower of what is in the minds. ¹⁵⁵Those of you who turned back on the day when the two armies met, only the devil sought to cause them to make a slip on account of some deeds they had done, and certainly Allah has pardoned them. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Forbearing.^e

b (154-2) These were the disaffected who took no part in fighting. They now gave vent to their hidden rancour against the Muslims. The evil thoughts which the hypocrites entertained about Allah were that Allah had not helped the Muslims.

c (154-3) The hypocrites sided with the minority whose counsel was that the Muslims should not fight the enemy in the open field and should remain besieged in Madinah. The majority was, however, in favour of going out and meeting the enemy where it had encamped. The Prophet decided that the majority vote must be accepted. The hypocrites now argued that the disaster would not have befallen the Muslims if their advice as to remaining within the town had been accepted. They took no part in fighting but they spoke of the loss of the Muslims as their own loss.

d (154-4) They are given the reply that even if the Muslims had defended themselves by remaining in Madinah, those who laid down their lives in the field of Uhud would have laid them down in Madinah as well.

e (155) The persons spoken of here are those who were unable to join the main Muslim army and fled to Madinah, or in some other direction. It was a slip on their part, not intentional disobedience, and God granted them a free pardon.

Section 17: Battle of Uhud afforded a Distinction

156 O you who believe, do not be like those who disbelieve and say of their brethren when they travel in the earth or engage in fighting: If they had been with us, they would not have died, or been killed;^a that Allah may make it a regret in their hearts. And Allah gives life and causes death. And Allah is Seer of what you do. ¹⁵⁷And if you are killed in Allah's way or you die, surely Allah's protection and (His) mercy are better than what they amass. ¹⁵⁸And if you die or you are killed, to Allah you are gathered.

159 Thus it is by Allah's mercy that you are gentle to them. And if you had been rough, hard-hearted, they would certainly have dispersed from around you.^b So pardon them and ask protection for them, and consult them in (important) matters.^c But when you have determined, put your trust in Allah.^d Surely Allah loves those who trust (in Him). ¹⁶⁰If Allah helps you, there is none that can overcome you; and if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in Allah should the believers put their trust.

161 And it is not for a prophet to act dishonestly. And whoever acts dishonestly will bring his dishonesty on the day of a (156) By "their brethren" are meant their relatives who were sincere in professing Islam, and who had to lay down their lives in defence of their faith.

b (159-1) The Quran calls attention to the Prophet's gentle dealing with those around him when speaking of his experience in the field of battle as a general, a capacity which required him to be very strict in punishing any delinquency. He was the ablest general in leading his men, yet his gentle manners and his forbearance in dealing with his friends as well as foes stand in remarkable contrast with his capacity as a commander in the field of battle. After the Uhud trouble he did not speak even a harsh word to those who were guilty of disobeying his orders.

c (159-2) It was the majority decision to meet the enemy in the open field that had brought about the present trouble, but just at this juncture Divine revelation affirmed the principle of adhering to decision by counsel.

d (159-3) Trusting in Allah does not imply inaction. Everything necessary is to be done. A course of action must be determined and then in pursuing that course trust must be placed in Allah. The consequences must then be accepted.

Resurrection. Then shall every soul be paid back fully what it has earned, and they will not be wronged. ¹⁶²Is then he who follows the pleasure of Allah like him who incurs Allah's displeasure, and his abode is hell? And it is an evil destination. ¹⁶³There are grades with Allah. And Allah is Seer of what they do.

164 Certainly Allah conferred a favour on the believers when He raised among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His messages and purifying them, and teaching them the Book and the Wisdom, although before that they were surely in manifest error. ¹⁶⁵What! When a misfortune befell you, and you had inflicted twice as much, you say: From where is this? Say: It is from yourselves. Surely Allah is Powerful over all things. ¹⁶⁶And what befell you on the day when the two armies met was by Allah's permission, that He might know the believers, ¹⁶⁷and that He might know the hypocrites. And it was said to them: Come, fight in Allah's way, or defend yourselves.^a They said: If we knew fighting, we would have followed you. They were on that day nearer to disbelief than to belief; they say with their mouths what is not in their hearts. And Allah best knows what they conceal. ¹⁶⁸Those who said of their brethren whilst they (themselves) held back: If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed. Say: Avert death from yourselves, if you are truthful.

169 And do not think of those who are killed in Allah's way as dead. Rather, they are alive being provided sustenance from their Lord, ¹⁷⁰rejoicing in what Allah has given them out of His grace, and they rejoice for the sake of those who, (being left) behind them, have not yet joined them, that they have no fear, nor shall they grieve. ¹⁷¹They rejoice for Allah's favour and (His) grace, and that Allah does not waste the reward of the believers.

^a (167) The words show clearly that, in the language of the Quran, fighting in Allah's way carries the significance of fighting in self-defence.

Section 18: Uhud no gain to the Enemy

172 Those who responded to the call of Allah and the Messenger after the misfortune had befallen them — for such among them who do good and keep their duty is a great reward. ¹⁷³Those to whom people said: Surely men have gathered against you, so fear them; but this increased their faith, and they said: Allah is sufficient for us and He is an excellent Guardian. ¹⁷⁴So they returned with favour from Allah and (His) grace; no evil touched them, and they followed the pleasure of Allah. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace. ¹⁷⁵It is the devil who only frightens his friends, but do not fear them, and fear Me, if you are believers.

176 And do not let those grieve you who run into disbelief hastily; surely they can do no harm to Allah. Allah does not intend to assign them any portion in the Hereafter; and for them is a grievous punishment. ¹⁷⁷Those who buy disbelief at the price of faith can do no harm to Allah, and for them is a painful punishment. ¹⁷⁸And those who disbelieve should not think that our granting them respite is good for themselves. We grant them respite only that they may add to their sins; and for them is a humiliating punishment. ¹⁷⁹Allah will not leave the believers in the condition in which you are until He separates the evil from the good. Nor is Allah going to make you acquainted with the unseen, but Allah chooses of His messengers whom He pleases. So believe in Allah and His messengers. And if you believe and keep your duty, you will have a great reward.

180 And those who are miserly in spending what Allah has granted them out of His grace should not think that it is good for them. Rather, it is evil for them. They shall have a collar of their miserliness on their necks on the day of Resurrection.^a And Allah's is the heritage of the heavens and the earth. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

^a (180) The same idea in more general terms, as to the effect of deeds being bound to the neck, is expressed in 17:13. Every person carries the effect of his deeds with him in this life, but on the day of Resurrection that effect will become clearly visible.

Section 19: Carpings of the People of the Book

181 Allah has certainly heard the saying of those who said: Allah is poor and we are rich. We shall record what they say, and their killing the prophets unjustly, and We shall say: Taste the punishment of burning.^a 182This is for what your own hands have sent ahead, and because Allah is not in the least unjust to the servants. 183Those who say: Allah has enjoined us that we should not believe in any messenger until he brings us an offering which is consumed by fire.^b Say: Indeed messengers came to you before me with clear arguments and with what you demand. Why then did you try to kill them, if you are truthful?^c 184But if they reject you, so indeed were rejected before you messengers who came with clear arguments and scriptures and the illuminating Book. 185Every soul must taste of death. And you will be paid your reward fully only on the day of Resurrection. Then whoever is removed far from the Fire and is made to enter the Garden, he indeed attains the object. And the life of this world is nothing but a provision of vanities.

186 You will certainly be tried in your property and your persons. And you will certainly hear from those who have been given the Book before you and from the idolaters much abuse. And if you are patient and keep your duty, surely this is an affair of great resolution.^d 187And when Allah took a covenant from a (181) The Jews ridiculed the poverty of the Muslims and their borrowings from the Jewish money-lenders. They also ridiculed the raising of funds for the defence of the faith by subscriptions. See also 5:64.

b (183-1) They were referring to the burnt offerings of the Mosaic law.

c (183-2) The critics are told that they even sought to kill those prophets who followed the Mosaic law, who came "with what you demand".

d (186) This verse speaks of the future, in fact the distant future. The abuses which have been heaped on Islam in the past two centuries are without a parallel in the whole history of religion. The scurrilous language of Western publications, political as well as Christian, and the vituperations of their imitators elsewhere have exceeded all moral bounds. But Muslims are taught in this verse to bear all such abuse only with patience. (Editor's Note: Hence it is not at all required or even allowed in Islam that Muslims should respond by killing or physically attacking those who were given the Book: You shall explain it to people and shall not hide it. But they threw it behind their backs and took a small price for it. And evil is what they buy. ¹⁸⁸Do not think that those who exult in what they have done, and love to be praised for what they have not done — do not think them to be safe from the punishment; and for them is a painful punishment. ¹⁸⁹And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

190 In the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day, there are surely signs for those who have understanding, ¹⁹¹those who remember Allah, standing and sitting and (lying) on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth: Our Lord, You have not created this in vain! Glory be to You! Save us from the punishment of the Fire.^a ¹⁹²Our Lord, whomsoever You make enter the Fire, him You indeed bring to disgrace. And there will be no helpers for the wrongdoers. ¹⁹³Our Lord, surely we have heard a Crier calling to the faith, saying: Believe in your Lord. So we do believe. Our Lord, grant us protection from our sins and remove our evils and make us die with the righteous. ¹⁹⁴Our Lord, grant us what You have promised us by Your messengers and do not disgrace us on the day of Resurrection. Surely You never fail in (Your) promise!

195 So their Lord accepted their prayer, (saying): I will not let the work of any worker among you to be lost, whether male or those who vilify Islam and its Holy Prophet. See also 20:130, 33:48, 73:10, 4:140 and 6:68 which lead to the same conclusion.)

a (191) This chapter, like the one before it, ends with a prayer for the victory of Faith over disbelief and a prediction for its ultimate triumph. Verses 190–191 describe true believers on the one hand as remembering God in the midst of all worldly pursuits, standing and sitting and lying on their sides, being thus fully conscious of the Divine presence in all conditions; and, on the other, they set out for the conquest of nature with the full consciousness that nothing has been created in vain and that a purpose underlies the whole of creation. This is the grand object which Islam sets before its followers, to conquer self by remembrance of God and to conquer nature by pursuit of knowledge.

female; each of you is as the other. So those who fled and were driven forth from their homes and persecuted in My way and who fought and were slain,^a I shall truly remove their evil and make them enter Gardens in which rivers flow — a reward from Allah. And with Allah is the best reward. ¹⁹⁶Do not let control in the land, of those who disbelieve, deceive you. ¹⁹⁷A brief enjoyment! Then their abode is hell. And evil is the resting-place. ¹⁹⁸But those who keep their duty to their Lord, for them are Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide therein; an entertainment from Allah. And what Allah has in store for the righteous is best.

199 And among the People of the Book are those who believe in Allah and (in) what has been revealed to you and (in) what has been revealed to them, humbling themselves before Allah — they do not take a small price for the messages of Allah. These it is that have their reward with their Lord. Surely Allah is Swift to take account! ²⁰⁰O you who believe, be steadfast and try to excel in steadfastness and guard (the frontiers). And keep your duty to Allah that you may be successful.^b a (195) Editor's Note: This shows that Muslims were first made to flee, were driven from their homes, and were persecuted for worshipping the One God, by their enemies, and it was then that they fought in battles in which they were slain. And they fought only after war was made upon them; see 22:39–40, 2:190.

b (200) While victory is predicted for the Muslims, they are required to be humble in the hour of triumph, as at the close of the last chapter. The three qualities spoken of here, namely, steadfastness or endurance, trying to excel in steadfastness, and guarding, carry a temporal as well as a spiritual significance. They require, on the one hand, showing endurance in wars, excelling the enemy in endurance and to remain in readiness on the frontiers of the Muslim territory to meet the enemy, and, on the other, remaining steadfast in keeping away from evil and in keeping to obedience to God, trying to excel each other in the quality of endurance and to remain on guard against the temptations of the devil.

Al-Nisā'

Women

This chapter deals chiefly with the rights of women. The battle of Uhud, dealt with in the last chapter, had left a large number of orphans and widows among the Muslims, and this chapter opens with the subject of duties towards them followed by rights of women generally. During the battle of Uhud the hypocrites had deserted the Muslims, and this chapter then deals with the subject of hypocrisy. Following the battle of Uhud had come the final rupture with the Jews as they had sided with the enemy, and the chapter towards its end speaks of their transgressions against the Israelite prophets and their allegations against Jesus. This chapter was mainly revealed in 4 A.H.

Section 1: Duties of Guardians to Orphans

1 O people, keep your duty to your Lord, Who created you from a single being and created its mate of the same (kind),^a and spread from these two many men and women.^b And keep your duty to Allah, by Whom you demand one of another (your rights), and (to) the ties of relationship. Surely Allah is ever a Watcher over you.

a (1-1) How the first man was created is not stated either in the Quran or in the Hadith, nor is the Bible statement accepted that Eve was created from a rib of Adam. Muslims do not accept that man was created six thousand years ago. There are traditions stating that there were many Adams, even hundreds of thousands of Adams, before our Adam. Nor do Muslims accept that our world is the only world in this universe; one Imam is reported as saying that in God's universe there are twelve thousand systems each bigger than our solar system. The words "Who created you from a single being and created its mate of the same" only declare the unity of the human race and the equality of the male and the female. Elsewhere we are told that for all of you wives are created from yourselves: "And Allah has made wives for you from among yourselves" (16:72).

b (1-2) "Many men and women" spring from married pairs. The verse does not necessarily refer to any parent pair of the whole of mankind. It reminds people of the strength of the ties of relationship, an idea mentioned in what follows.

2 And give to orphans their property, and do not substitute worthless (things) for (their) good (ones), nor devour their property (adding) to your own property. This is surely a great sin.^a 3And if you fear that you cannot do justice to orphans, marry such women as seem good to you, two, or three, or four;^b but if you fear that you will not do justice, then (marry) only one or what your right hands possess.^c This is more proper that you may not do injustice. 4And give women their dowries as a free gift. But if they of themselves are pleased to give you a portion from it, consume it with enjoyment and pleasure.^d a (2) The care of the orphan was one of the earliest injunctions that Islam gave, and the Prophet had always shown a deep anxiety for the welfare of the poor and the orphans; see 2:220 and 90:15–16. The subject is here introduced in detail because of the number of orphans having been greatly increased by the war.

b (3-1) This passage permits polygamy under certain circumstances; it does not prescribe it, nor even permit it unconditionally. This chapter was revealed to guide the Muslims under the conditions which followed the battle of Uhud, and the last chapter deals with that battle. Now in that battle 70 men out of 700 Muslims had been killed, and this had greatly decreased the number of males. The number was likely to diminish further still in the battles which had yet to be fought. Thus many orphans would be left in the charge of widows, who would find it difficult to procure the necessary means of support. Hence in the first verse of this chapter Muslims are enjoined to respect ties of relationship. As they all came from a single ancestor, a breadth is introduced into the idea of relationship. In the second verse the care of orphans is particularly stressed. In the third verse we are told that if they could not do justice to the orphans, they might marry the widows, whose children would thus become their own children; and as the number of women was now much greater than the number of men, they were permitted to marry even two or three or four women. The Holy Prophet's own action in marrying widows corroborates this statement. Marriage with orphan girls is also sanctioned in this passage, for there were the same difficulties in their case as in the case of widows, and the words are general. See also 4:127. It is not only the preponderance of females over males that necessitates polygamy in certain cases, but there is a variety of other circumstances, not only for the moral but also for the physical welfare of society.

c (3-2) By what your right hands possess are meant the females who were taken prisoners in war. The Quran sanctions marriage with them in this verse. As for the conditions of that marriage, see 4:25.

d (4) It is obligatory in Islam that a "dowry" or nuptial gift should be given by the husband to the wife at the time of marriage, whether she is a free woman,

5 And do not make over your property, which Allah has made a (means of) support for you,^a to the weak of understanding, and maintain them out of it, and clothe them and give them a good education.^b 6 And test the orphans until they reach the age of marriage.^c Then if you find in them maturity of intellect, make over to them their property, and do not consume it extravagantly and hastily against their growing up. And whoever is rich, let him abstain, and whoever is poor let him consume reasonably.^d And when you make over to them their property, call witnesses in their presence. And Allah is enough as a Reckoner.

7 For men is a share of what the parents and the near relatives leave, and for women a share of what the parents and the near an orphan girl, or a prisoner of war. So every woman begins her married life as the owner of some property, and thus marriage is the means of raising her status. The practice has, however, become more or less general to recognize dowry as a debt which the husband owes to the wife and which she can claim when she likes.

a (5-1) By your property is meant the property of the orphans which is under your control as guardians. This verse requires guardianship in the case of all who are weak of understanding, whether minors or not. While on the one hand the Quran lays stress on the transitoriness of this life, on the other it teaches that wealth is not a thing to be despised or wasted, because it is the means of support.

b (5-2) The words “give them a good education” are generally rendered as meaning “speak to them good words”, but the word qaul (speak) is used to express all kinds of deeds. After referring to the maintenance and clothing of the orphans in a befitting manner, the Quran now calls attention to another great need of theirs which is education. From the first revelation, Islam laid stress on knowledge, read and write (96:1-5) being its very first message, and the Prophet spoke of the acquisition of knowledge as being as great a need of humanity as the acquisition of wealth. It is the education of orphans that the Quran refers to here, and the next verse which enjoins guardians to “test” their wards makes it clear.

c (6-1) These words show further that the guardian is not only responsible for the education of the wards but he is also required to examine them and see what progress they have made. According to Abu Hanifah, majority is attained at eighteen years, but if maturity of intellect is not attained at eighteen, the limit may be extended. These words, moreover, show that marriage should be performed at an age after a person has attained majority, not before it, for the age of marriage is spoken of as being the age of attaining majority.

d (6-2) These words allow payment of reasonable wages to the manager of a ward’s estate out of the ward’s property if the manager is not a rich man.

⁸And when relatives ^b and the orphans and the needy are present at the division, give them out of it and speak to them kind words.
⁹And let those fear who, if they should leave behind them weakly offspring, would fear on their account; so let them observe their duty to Allah and let them speak right words. ¹⁰Those who swallow the property of the orphans unjustly, they swallow only fire into their bellies. And they will burn in blazing fire.

Section 2: Law of Inheritance

11 Allah commands you concerning your children: for the male is the equal of the portion of two females; but if there are more than two females, two-thirds of what the deceased leaves is theirs; and if there is one, for her is the half.^c And as for his parents, for each of them is the sixth of what he leaves, if he has a child; but if he has no child and (only) his two parents inherit him, for his mother is the third; but if he has brothers, for his mother is the sixth, after (payment of) a bequest he may have bequeathed or a debt.^d Your parents and your children, you do not know which of them is the nearer to you in benefit. This is an ordinance from Allah. Surely Allah is ever Knowing, Wise.

a (7) Among the Arabs, women and children had no share in inheritance. Islam introduced a great reform. The principle laid down here is the basis of the Muslim law of inheritance. Children and near relatives, or failing these, distant relatives, whether males or females, are the lawful heirs, and the whole of the property does not go to the eldest son. This is in accordance with the broad principles of democracy and the brotherhood of man which Islam seeks to establish.

b (8) That is, distant relatives who for any reason are not entitled to inherit.

c (11-1) By females are here meant the female children. When daughters are the sole heirs they are entitled to a share of two-thirds of the inheritance if there are two or more of them (the words “more than two” include the case of two daughters). If there is only one daughter she is entitled to a half.

d (11-2) The parents first take their respective shares, and the residue goes to the children, if there are any, failing which, the share of the parents is increased. But in case the deceased has brothers, the mother receives the same share as she would have received if the deceased had children. In all cases the payment of bequests and debts takes precedence of the shares of the heirs.

12 And yours is half of what your wives leave if they have no child; but if they have a child, your share is a fourth of what they leave after (payment of) any bequest they may have bequeathed or a debt; and theirs is the fourth of what you leave if you have no child, but if you have a child, their share is the eighth of what you leave after (payment of) a bequest you may have bequeathed or a debt.^a And if a man or a woman, having no children, leaves property to be inherited and he (or she) has a brother or a sister,^b then for each of them is the sixth; but if they are more than that, they shall be sharers in the third after (payment of) a bequest that may have been bequeathed or a debt not injuring (others).^c This is an ordinance from Allah, and Allah is Knowing, Forbearing.

13 These are Allah's limits. And whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, He will admit him to Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them. And this is the mighty achievement. 14 And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger and goes beyond His limits, He will make him enter fire to abide in it, and for him is a humiliating punishment.

Section 3: Treatment of Women

15 And as for those of your women who are guilty of an indecency, call to witness against them four (witnesses) from among you; so if they bear witness, confine them to the houses until death takes them away or Allah opens a way for them.^d a (12-1) The husband or the wife (and surviving parents) take their fixed shares first, and the residue goes to the children. The two-thirds share for two or more daughters can only be given when there are neither parents, nor husband or wife; otherwise they take the residue, as in the case of sons or sons and daughters.

b (12-2) This is the case where the deceased has no children but has parents, and therefore the brothers and sisters are not the only heirs and their share is only one-sixth. See 4:176 for one who leaves neither children nor parents, and therefore the brothers and the sisters take the whole of the inheritance.

c (12-3) The words not injuring others mean that debts and bequests shall not prejudice the rights of the legal heirs.

d (15) The word "indecency" here signifies immoral conduct short of illicit sexual intercourse, the punishment for which is given in 24:2. Women guilty of ¹⁶And as for the two of you who are guilty of it, give them both a slight punishment; then if they repent and amend, turn aside from them.^a Surely Allah is ever Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful.

17 Repentance with Allah is only for those who do evil in ignorance, then turn (to Allah) soon, so these it is to whom Allah turns (mercifully). And Allah is ever Knowing, Wise. ¹⁸And repentance is not for those who go on doing evil deeds, until when death comes to one of them, he says: Now I repent; nor (for) those who die while they are disbelievers. For such We have prepared a painful punishment.^b

19 O you who believe, it is not lawful for you to take women as heritage against (their) will.^c Nor should you cause them hardship by taking part of what you have given them, unless they are guilty of manifest indecency.^d And treat them kindly. Then if you immoral conduct are curtailed of their liberty. If they mend their ways, or being unmarried they get married, a way is opened for them by Allah, and they regain their liberty.

a (16) The crime spoken of in this verse is the same as that in the previous verse. The committers are two, and though the masculine gender is used, it does not imply that they are both necessarily males. Slight punishment has been explained as meaning reproving with the tongue.

b (18) Repentance, according to the Quran, implies an actual change in the course of one's life, not the mere utterance of words. In fact, the law stated here shows how repentance does away with sins. When the very course of a person's life is changed in respect of a particular sin, the tendency to that sin is uprooted. But those who continue doing evil until death cannot obtain the benefit of repentance, because there is no time left for them to improve themselves.

c (19-1) Among the pre-Islamic Arabs, when a man died his elder son or other relations had a right to possess his widow or widows, marrying them themselves if they wished, without settling a dowry on them, marrying them to others, or prohibiting them from marriage altogether. This is abolished by these words.

d (19-2) This passage remedies another evil. Some husbands who were dissatisfied with their wives gave them trouble in order to force them to claim a divorce and remit the dowry (i.e., the legally-due nuptial gift from the husband to the wife). This is disallowed. If the judge finds that the fault lies actually with the husband, he will not allow the dowry to be remitted in his favour. It can only be taken back if the woman is guilty of immoral conduct. In such cases, when the fault is with the woman, she may be required to return it wholly or in part.

hate them, it may be that you dislike a thing while Allah has placed abundant good in it. ²⁰And if you wish to have (one) wife in the place of another and you have given one of them a heap of gold, take nothing from it. Would you take it by slandering (her) and (doing her) manifest wrong?^a ²¹And how can you take it when you have been intimate with each other and they have taken from you a strong covenant?^b

22 And do not marry women whom your fathers married, except what has already passed. This surely is indecent and hateful; and it is an evil way.

Section 4: What Women may be taken in Marriage

23 Forbidden to you are your mothers, and your daughters, and your sisters, and your paternal aunts, and your maternal aunts, and brother's daughters and sister's daughters, and your mothers that have suckled you, and your foster-sisters, and mothers of your wives, and your stepdaughters who are in your guardianship (born) of your wives with whom you have had sexual relations — but if you have not had sexual relations with them, there is no blame on you — and the wives of your sons who are of your own loins; and that you should have two sisters together, except what has already passed. Surely Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful, 24 And all married women except those whom your right hands possess (are forbidden);^c (this is) Allah's ordinance to you.

a (20) Another social evil was that a husband, wanting to marry another woman instead, would accuse his wife of adultery or other gross immorality, thus compelling her to obtain a divorce by paying a large sum of money.

b (21) Marriage is here called a covenant or agreement between the husband and the wife. As there can be no agreement unless both parties give their consent to it, marriage in Islam can only be entered into with the free consent of the husband and wife.

c (24-1) It is thus forbidden to a man to marry a woman who is already married. An exception is made, however, regarding those whom your right hands possess. This expression may here mean those whom you have lawfully taken in marriage, and the meaning would be that all free women are prohibited to you except those whom you have lawfully married. Generally by this expression in the

And lawful for you are (all women) besides those, provided that you seek (them) with your property, taking (them) in marriage, not committing fornication. Then as to those whom you profit by (by marrying), give them their dowries as appointed. And there is no blame on you about what you mutually agree after what is appointed (of dowry).^a Surely Allah is ever Knowing, Wise.

25 And whoever among you cannot afford to marry free believing women, (let him marry) such of your believing maidens as your right hands possess. And Allah knows best your faith — you are (sprung) the one from the other. So marry them with the permission of their masters, and give them their dowries justly, they being chaste, not fornicating, nor taking lovers in secret; then if they are guilty of adultery when they are taken in marriage, they shall suffer half the punishment for free married women. This is for him among you who fears falling into evil. And that you abstain is better for you. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^b

26 Allah desires to explain to you, and to guide you into the ways of those before you, and to turn to you (mercifully). And Allah is Knowing, Wise. ²⁷And Allah desires to turn to you (mercifully). And those who follow (their) lusts desire that you should deviate (with) a great deviation. ²⁸Allah desires to make a (24-2) The husband and the wife are free to increase or decrease the amount of dowry fixed at the time of marriage by agreement among themselves.

Quran are meant those who are taken prisoners in war. It sometimes happened that such prisoners became converts to Islam, and therefore they could not be sent back. Such women it was lawful to take in marriage, even though they might not have been divorced formally by their former husbands.

b (25) There is no verse in the Quran or any instance in the Holy Prophet's life sanctioning what is called concubinage. Whenever the establishment of conjugal relations with slave-girls or women prisoners of war is mentioned, their taking in marriage is clearly laid down as a condition as in v. 3, v. 24, and this verse. Here marriage with such women is allowed under the following conditions: (1) they should be Muslims; (2) a man has not the means to marry a free woman, and (3) he fears to fall into evil.

29 O you who believe, do not swallow up your property among yourselves by false means except that it be trading by your mutual consent.^b And do not kill your people.^c Surely Allah is ever Merciful to you.³⁰ And whoever does this aggressively and unjustly, We shall soon cast him into fire. And this is ever easy for Allah.³¹ If you shun the great things which you are forbidden, We shall do away with your evil (inclinations)^d and make you enter an honourable place of entering.

32 And do not hanker after what Allah has given some of you above others. For men is the benefit of what they earn. And for women is the benefit of what they earn. And ask Allah of His grace. Surely Allah is ever Knower of all things.³³ And to everyone We have appointed heirs of whatever parents and near relatives leave. And as to those with whom your right hands have ratified agreements, give them their due. Surely Allah is ever Witness over all things.^e a (28) In Islam all principles of right action are stated with such completeness, devoid of unnecessary details, that the real burden of man is much lighter than in any other religion. It, moreover, points out the right way for man's freedom from the bondage of sin, and thus reduces his burden by saving him from falling into evil ways. Man being "created weak" refers to Allah's great mercy in having shown him the truth and guidance, because he could not chalk out a way for himself which was free from error.

b (29-1) All illegal methods of acquiring property are forbidden. Only the seeking of gain from one another by trading by mutual consent is allowed. The passage is particularly directed to guard women's right to property, because it was women's and orphans' property that was generally swallowed up unjustly.

c (29-2) This forbids the killing of anfusa-kum, which means your people or yourselves. In the first case, the significance is that life must also be protected; in the second case, it is an injunction against suicide which according to the law of Islam is a grave sin. (Editor's Note: This injunction also forbids sending "your people" on suicide missions to their certain death.)

d (31) If a person avoids committing sins, the evil inclinations within him die also. Division of sins into kabīra (major) and ṣaghīra (minor) is baseless.

e (33) In pre-Islamic days, people entered into covenants with one another, by which they undertook to defend and inherit one another. Such inheritance was abolished by this verse, and the words give them their due mean the rendering of assistance in general.

Section 6: Disagreement between Husband and Wife

34 Men are the maintainers of women, with what Allah has given some of them above others and with what they spend out of their wealth. So the good women are obedient (to Allah),^a guarding the unseen as Allah has guarded.^b And (as to) those on whose part you fear desertion, admonish them, and leave them alone in the beds^c and turn them away (from wrongdoing).^d So if they obey

b (34-2) This refers to their guarding the husband's rights. The two qualifications of a good wife as given here are her obedience to God and chastity.

c (34-3) The word translated here as desertion, when used about a woman in connection with her husband, means her rising against her husband. This is explained by the commentators in a number of ways; for example, her leaving the husband's place and taking up an abode which he does not like or that the wife resisted her husband and hated him and deserted him. The remedy for her correction is that she is to be admonished, but if she persists in the wrong course, her bed is to be separated, i.e. a cessation of sexual relations.

d (34-4) Editor's Note: The words translated as "turn them away" use the term ḍarb, and have often been translated as "beat them". Maulana Muhammad Ali rendered them as "chastise them" and explained that very slight chastisement was allowed only in extreme cases, which should not leave an impression, and further that this permission is meant only for the crass type of people in society among whom such chastisement is acceptable. However, as he pointed out in his footnotes on verses 2:60 and 2:73, the verb ḍarb signifies "all kinds of actions except a few"; and apart from striking it is used to mean, for example, marching on, setting forth a parable, and likening. In these other senses it is commonly used in the Quran. It is used in 43:5 as meaning to turn (something) away: "Shall We then turn away the Reminder from you...?", which is how Maulana Muhammad Ali and many other translators have rendered this verse. This sense seems to be applicable here. Thus the meaning here would be that by admonishing and, if necessary, breaking off sexual relations, the husband should turn the wife away from her wrong course, or it may mean that if these measures fail he should turn her away from himself, i.e. divorce her. It may be added that the Quran clearly forbids a man from causing injury to his wife. In its rules for divorce, husbands are told about their wives: "retain them with kindness or let them go with kindness and do not retain them for injury" (2:231), "retain them with kindness or part from them with kindness ... do not injure them in order to impose hardship upon them" (65:2, 6). In fact, only a few verses prior to v. 34 above, in v. 19, husbands have been instructed as follows about their wives: "Nor should you cause them

35 And if you fear a breach between the two, appoint an arbiter from his people and an arbiter from her people. If they both desire agreement, Allah will effect harmony between them. Surely Allah is ever Knowing, Aware.^a

36 And serve Allah, and do not set up any partner with Him, and be good to the parents and to the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the neighbour of (your) kin and the alien neighbour,^b and the companion in a journey and the traveller and those whom your right hands possess.^c Surely Allah does not love such as are proud, boastful, ³⁷who are miserly and tell people to be miserly and hide what Allah has given them out of His grace. And We have prepared for the disbelievers a humiliating punishment

a (35) This verse lays down the procedure for divorce. It is not for the husband to put away his wife; it is the business of the judge to decide the case. He is required to appoint two arbiters, one belonging to the wife's family and the other to the husband's. These two arbiters will find out the facts, but their objective must be to effect a reconciliation between the parties. If all hopes of reconciliation fail, a divorce is allowed, but the final decision for divorce rests with the judge who is legally entitled to pronounce a divorce. Cases were decided in accordance with these directions in the early days of Islam.

b (36-1) The neighbour of kin may mean a neighbour who is a relative or a Muslim neighbour, and the alien neighbour is either a neighbour not related or a neighbour of an alien religion. Thus the charity of Islam is not limited to one's own people or one's own co-religionists, but is extended to others also. (Editor's Note: The companion in a journey or the traveller, mentioned after neighbours, could belong to any people or any religion. Indeed, the parents, near of kin, orphans and needy mentioned at the beginning could also be non-Muslims and it would be a Muslim's duty to do good to them regardless of their religion.)

c (36-2) By those whom your right hands possess are meant all those with whose care you are entrusted, so that it includes even animals over which one has control. While dealing with the rights of women, the Quran generalizes the law of doing good to others, so much so that it requires goodness to be extended even to a fellow-traveller. If even companions whose company is so short-lived are to be treated generously, how generous must a man be to her who is the companion of his whole life!

— ³⁸and those who spend their wealth to be seen by people and do not believe in Allah nor in the Last Day. And as for him whose companion is the devil, an evil companion is he!

39 And what (harm) would it do them if they believe in Allah and the Last Day and spend (on good works) out of what Allah has given them? And Allah is ever Knower of them. ⁴⁰Surely Allah does not wrong (anyone even by) the weight of an atom; and if it is a good deed, He multiplies it and gives from Himself a great reward.^a 41 But how will it be when We bring from every people a witness and bring you as a witness against these? ^b ⁴²On that day will those who disbelieved and disobeyed the Messenger desire that the earth were levelled with them. And they can hide no fact from Allah.

Section 7: Purification of the Soul

43 O you who believe, do not go near prayer when you are intoxicated till you know what you say,^c nor after sexual intercourse — except you are merely passing by^d — until you have bathed. And if you are sick, or on a journey, or one of you has

b (41) The prophet sent to a people is frequently spoken of as being a witness in respect of them, and by these are here meant the followers of the Holy Prophet Muhammad. It appears that the people spoken of here are Muslims who disobey the Prophet, and hence the Prophet's anxiety for the later generations of his followers. This is made clear in the verse that follows in the words those who disbelieved and disobeyed the Messenger. Disobedience amounts to disbelief in practice.

c (43-1) The prohibition against praying when intoxicated was a step towards the total prohibition of drink, for the necessity of going to prayer five times a day would leave little opportunity for indulgence in drink. The verse also makes it clear that one must know the meaning of what one says when praying to God.

d (43-2) Going near prayer may signify going into mosques, and the meaning in that case would be unless you pass (through the mosques) as by a way.

come from the toilet, or you have had (sexual) contact with women,^a and you cannot find water, then resort to pure earth and wipe your faces and your hands (with it).^b Surely Allah is ever Pardoning, Forgiving.

44 Do you not see those to whom a portion of the Book was given? They buy error and desire to make you go astray from the (right) way. ⁴⁵And Allah best knows your enemies. And Allah is sufficient as a Friend and Allah is sufficient as a Helper.

46 Some of those who are Jews alter words from their places ^c and say, We have heard and we disobey; and (say), Hear without being made to hear, and (say), Rā'ī-nā, distorting with their tongues and slandering religion. And if they had said, We hear and we obey, and listen, and unẓur-nā, it would have been better for them and more upright;^d but Allah has cursed them on account of their disbelief, so they do not believe except a little. ⁴⁷O you who have been given the Book, believe in what We have revealed, verifying what you (already) have,^e before We destroy the leaders and turn them on their backs, or curse them as We cursed the Sabbath-breakers. And the command of Allah is ever executed.

48 Surely Allah does not forgive that a partner should be set up with Him, and forgives all besides that to whom He pleases. And whoever sets up a partner with Allah, he devises indeed a a (43-3) Literally, “you have touched women”, which is a euphemism for sexual intercourse. Many of the fine phrases used in the Quran to express this delicate relation were unknown to the Arabs.

b (43-4) Tayammum means striking both hands on pure earth, or anything containing pure dust, and then passing the hands over the face and the backs of the hands. When water is not found, or is likely to do harm, tayammum suffices instead of ablution before prayer.

c (46-1) The corruption of the previous books is constantly referred to in the Quran, and, as the words clearly show, it implies a corruption of the text as well as a false rendering of it.

e (47) The verification referred to here and elsewhere implies only a verification of the general principles and the prophecies contained in the earlier books.

great sin.^a ⁴⁹Have you not seen those who attribute purity to themselves? ^b Rather, Allah purifies whom He pleases, and they will not be dealt with unjustly in the least. ⁵⁰See how they forge lies against Allah! And sufficient is this as a manifest sin.

Section 8: Kingdom granted to Abraham's Descendants

51 Have you not seen those to whom a portion of the Book was given? They believe in sorcery and diviners ^c and say of those who disbelieve: These are better guided in the path than those who believe. ⁵²Those are they whom Allah has cursed. And whomever Allah curses, you will not find a helper for him. ⁵³Or have they a share in the kingdom? But then they would not give to people even the speck on a date-stone.^d ⁵⁴Or do they envy the people for what Allah has given them of His grace? But indeed We have given to Abraham's children the Book and the Wisdom, and We have given them a grand kingdom.^e ⁵⁵So some of them believe in a (48) Shirk or setting up partners with Allah is spoken of as the gravest sin. Wrong belief in false deities lowers the dignity of man. Man is made to rule nature itself and all creatures, but when he lowers himself before creatures lower than himself, he sets at naught the very purpose of his creation. It should be noted that shirk or setting up gods with God also includes blind obedience rendered to leaders; see 9:31 and also the next footnote. It should also be noted that if a person guilty of shirk repents of it before his death then all his sins including shirk are forgiven because he gives a new turn to his life. Even those who die while guilty of shirk will, after suffering the consequences of their deeds in the after life, be received into the mercy of God.

b (49) These are the priests, doctors of law and monks who demanded blind obedience from their followers, and include such ulama, shaiikhs and pirs among the Muslims as well.

c (51) These words seem to refer to the general debasement of the Jews, who believed in all kinds of enchantment, divination, and sorcery, and had long bidden farewell in practice to the pure monotheism of Moses.

d (53) This shows that a temporal or worldly kingdom cannot be granted to a nation which would not deal liberally with others.

e (54) By the people are meant the Arabs. The promised kingdom was still in Abraham's seed, but was now transferred from the descendants of Israel to those of Ishmael, in accordance with the covenant made with Abraham.

him, and some of them turn away from him.^a And Hell is sufficient to burn.

56 Those who disbelieve in Our Messages, We shall make them enter Fire. As often as their skins are burned, We shall change them for other skins, that they may taste the punishment. Surely Allah is ever Mighty, Wise. ⁵⁷And those who believe and do good deeds, We shall make them enter Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them forever. They will have therein pure companions and We shall make them enter a pleasant shade.

58 Surely Allah commands you to make over trusts to those worthy of them, and that when you judge between people, you judge with justice.^b Surely Allah instructs you with what is excellent. Surely Allah is ever Hearing, Seeing. ⁵⁹O you who believe, obey Allah and obey the Messenger and those in authority from among you; then if you quarrel about anything, refer it to Allah and the Messenger, if you believe in Allah and the Last Day.^c This is best and more suitable to (achieve) the end.

Section 9: The Prophet must be obeyed

60 Have you not seen those who assert that they believe in what has been revealed to you and what was revealed before you? They desire to seek the judgment of the devil, though they have a (55) By "him" is meant the Holy Prophet Muhammad, who was now the true exponent of Abraham's religion.

b (58) Muslims, having been granted worldly rule, are here told to entrust the affairs of State to people who are worthy of this responsibility, while the authorities and judges so entrusted are required to judge with justice.

c (59) This verse lays down three important rules in matters relating to the welfare of the Muslim community and to affairs of State. These are obedience to God and His Messenger in the first place; secondly, obedience to those in authority from among the Muslims; and thirdly, referring matters to God and His Messenger in cases of dispute with those in authority. God and His Messenger are thus the final authority. It is especially in matters religious that differences would arise, in which case it would be necessary to refer the matter to God and His Messenger; in other words to the Quran and Hadith. In case of Muslims living under non-Muslim authority, Islam requires them to abide by the laws of the land.

been commanded to deny him. And the devil desires to lead them far astray. ⁶¹And when it is said to them, Come to what Allah has revealed and to the Messenger, you see the hypocrites turning away from you with aversion. ⁶²But how is it that when a misfortune befalls them on account of what their hands have already done, they come to you swearing by Allah: We desired nothing but good and concord? ⁶³These are they, the secrets of whose hearts Allah knows; so turn aside from them and admonish them and speak to them effective words concerning themselves.

64 And We sent no messenger but that he should be obeyed by Allah's command. And if they had, when they wronged themselves, come to you and asked forgiveness of Allah, and the Messenger had (also) asked forgiveness for them, they would have found Allah Oft-returning (to mercy), merciful. ⁶⁵But no, by your Lord! they do not believe until they make you a judge of what is in dispute between them, then find no reluctance in their hearts as to what you decide and submit with full submission. ⁶⁶And if We had ordained for them: Lay down your lives or go forth from your homes, they would not have done it except a few of them.^a And if they had done what they are exhorted to do, it would certainly have been better for them and more strengthening, ⁶⁷and then We would certainly have given them from Ourselves a great reward, ⁶⁸and We would certainly have guided them in the right path.

69 And whoever obeys Allah and the Messenger, they are with those upon whom Allah has bestowed favours from among the prophets and the truthful and the faithful and the righteous, and a goodly company are they!^b a (66) The Companions of the Holy Prophet had to lay down their lives in defence of their faith, and had to leave their homes for the sake of their religion. But the hypocrites at Madinah were too weak of heart to undergo such hardships. They were only required to contribute to the struggle which was being carried on for national defence and to obey the Prophet's orders which was a far easier task, but they did not do even this.

b (69) Those upon whom Allah has bestowed favours are spoken of as belonging to four classes: (1) the prophets; (2) the truthful — those who are true in their sayings and their belief, and confirm their truth by their deeds or acting; (3) the faithful — those who bear witness to the truth both by words and deeds,

Section 10: Believers must defend Themselves

71 O you who believe, take your precautions, then go forth in detachments or go forth in a body. ⁷²And among you is he who would hang back. Then if a misfortune befalls you, he says: Allah indeed bestowed a favour on me as I was not present with them. ⁷³And if bounty from Allah comes to you, he would cry, as if there were no friendship between you and him: If only I had been with them, then I should have achieved a mighty success! ⁷⁴So let those fight in the way of Allah who sell this world's life for the Hereafter. And whoever fights in the way of Allah, whether he is killed or is victorious, We shall grant him a mighty reward.

75 And what reason have you not to fight in the way of Allah, and of the weak among the men and the women and the children, who say: Our Lord, take us out of this town, whose people are oppressors, and grant us from Yourself a friend, and grant us from Yourself a helper!^a ⁷⁶Those who believe fight in the way of Allah, and those who disbelieve fight in the way of the devil. So fight against the friends of the devil; surely the struggle of the devil is ever weak.

and one slain in defence of his religion is included because he too gives evidence of the truth of religion by laying down his life; (4) the righteous or those who stick to the right course in all their deeds, come what may. Those who obey Allah and the Messenger are here told that they are with the perfect ones who belong to these four classes. Thus this verse promises to those who have not attained to perfection the company, in the life to come, of those who have attained to perfection when the former have done their best to obey God and His Messenger. It may be added that no one can become a prophet by obeying the Holy Prophet. If this were true, not only would all the truthful and the faithful and the righteous be prophets, because they perfectly obeyed Allah and His Messenger, but even all those who tried to follow them would also be prophets which is absurd.

a (75) This explains what is meant by fighting in the way of Allah. While most of the believers who had the means had escaped from Makkah, there remained those who were weak and unable to undertake a journey. These were still persecuted and oppressed at Makkah. Fighting to deliver them from the persecution of their oppressors was really fighting in the way of Allah.

77 Have you not seen those to whom it was said: Withhold your hands, and keep up prayer and give the due charity. But when fighting is prescribed for them, then some of them fear men as they ought to fear Allah, or with a greater fear, and say: Our Lord, why have You ordained fighting for us? Would You not grant us respite for a little while?^a Say: The enjoyment of this world is short, and the Hereafter is better for him who keeps his duty. And you will not be dealt with unjustly in the least. ⁷⁸Wherever you are, death will overtake you, though you are in towers, raised high. And if good befalls them, they say: This is from Allah; and if a misfortune befalls them, they say: This is from you. Say: All is from Allah. But what is the matter with these people that they make no effort to understand anything? ⁷⁹Whatever good befalls you (O man), it is from Allah, and whatever misfortune befalls you, it is from yourself.^b And We have sent you (O Prophet) to mankind as a Messenger. And Allah is sufficient as a witness.

80 Whoever obeys the Messenger, he indeed obeys Allah. And whoever turns away, We have not sent you as a keeper over them. ⁸¹And they say: Obedience. But when they go out from your presence, a group of them plan by night doing otherwise than what you say. And Allah writes down what they plan by night, so turn aside from them and trust in Allah. And Allah is sufficient as having charge of affairs. ⁸²Will they not then meditate on the Quran?

a (77) Had there been any hope of plunder to animate the ranks of Muslims, those who loved this world most, who are here called the hypocrites, would have been foremost in fighting; but as they knew that they were fighting against odds, they considered acting on this order as equivalent to courting death, and requested to be granted a respite until they died a natural death.

b (79) Good and evil, or benefits and misfortunes, proceed from Allah; but while He sends benefits from Himself, i.e. out of His beneficence, no evil or misfortune afflicts a man unless his own hands have called for it. The previous verse states that the hypocrites attributed their misfortunes to the Prophet; they are told, in the words "All is from Allah", that misfortunes were sent by Allah. This verse tells them that, though sent by Allah, the immediate cause of these misfortunes was to be found in their own doings.

And if it were from any other than Allah, they would have found in it many a discrepancy.^a ⁸³But if any news of security or fear comes to them, they spread it about. And if they had referred it to the Messenger and to those in authority among them, those of them who can search out knowledge of it would have known it. And if it were not for the grace of Allah upon you and His mercy, you would certainly have followed the devil except a few. ⁸⁴Fight then in Allah's way — you are not responsible except for yourself; and urge on the believers. It may be that Allah will restrain the fighting of those who disbelieve. And Allah is stronger in prowess and stronger to give exemplary punishment.^b

85 Whoever intercedes in a good cause has a share of it, and whoever intercedes in an evil cause has a portion of it. And Allah is ever Keeper over all things.^c ⁸⁶And when you are greeted with a greeting, greet with one better than it, or return it.^d Surely Allah a (82) The Quran was not written out and given on one occasion, but it continued to be delivered in small portions during twenty-three years under the most varying circumstances. But what is striking throughout the entire revelation is that it keeps up one and the same strain — absolute submission to Allah, entire trust in Him, perfect confidence of future success, a liberal view of humanity, an attitude of charity towards all nations and religions, and goodness to all alike. The spirit of the revelations to the solitary, persecuted, and rejected preacher of Makkah does not differ in these and a hundred other particulars from the spirit of the revelations to the sole temporal and spiritual monarch of Arabia.

b (84) The primary duty to defend Islam lay on the Holy Prophet alone, as against all the forces of Arabia. This shows that he never put any trust in the prowess of his followers, and his confidence was based solely on Divine help.

c (85) The meaning is that he who joins himself to another and assists him, and becomes to him as one of a pair or an intercessor in doing good or evil, and thus aids him and strengthens him, partakes with him the benefit or the harm of it. Interceding here also implies that one institutes for another a way of good or a way of evil which the other imitates, and thus becomes to him as one of a pair. The connection is clear; the Prophet made himself an example of good for others to imitate or to aid him. For the meaning of intercession see 2:255 footnote 1.

d (86) A greeting is a prayer for the good of another; tahiyah, the word used for it here, meaning originally a prayer for one's long life. The minimum requirement is that a greeting must be returned in the same words. What is really aimed at is that a Muslim should always wish good for, or do good to, his brother, and the other is required to do greater good in return.

ever takes account of all things. ⁸⁷Allah, there is no god but He — He will certainly gather you together on the day of Resurrection, there is no doubt in it. And who is more true in word than Allah?

Section 12: How to deal with the Hypocrites

88 Why should you, then, be two parties in relation to the hypocrites while Allah has made them return (to disbelief) for what they have earned? Do you desire to guide him whom Allah leaves in error? And whomsoever Allah leaves in error you cannot find a way for him. ⁸⁹They long that you should disbelieve as they have disbelieved so that you might be on the same level; so do not take from among them friends until they flee (their homes) in Allah's way. Then if they turn back (to hostility), seize them and kill them wherever you find them, and take no friend nor helper from among them, ⁹⁰except those who join a people between whom and you there is an alliance, or who come to you, their hearts shrinking from fighting you or fighting their own people. And if Allah had pleased, He would have given them power over you, so that they would have fought you. So if they withdraw from you and do not fight you and offer you peace, then Allah allows you no way against them.^a ⁹¹You will find others who desire to be secure from you and secure from their own people. Whenever they are made to return to hostility, they are plunged into it. So if they do not withdraw from you, nor offer you peace and restrain their hands, then seize them and kill them wherever you find them.^b And against these We have given you a clear authority.

a (90) This shows clearly that even waverers were not to be killed or fought against if they refrained from fighting, though they may have gone over to disbelief after accepting Islam. The persons referred to in this verse were disbelievers and not Muslims. Note also that we have here the clear injunction that if any people offered peace, they were not to be fought against.

b (91) Editor's Note: The meaning of the words "then seize them and kill them wherever you find them" is clearly shown by the preceding text: "So if they do not withdraw from you, nor offer you peace and restrain their hands". Those enemies are meant who themselves attacked the Muslims first. The words "kill them wherever you find them" also occur in 2:190–191, preceded by: "And fight in the way of Allah against those who fight against you but do not be aggressive".

92 And a believer would not kill a believer except by mistake.^a And he who kills a believer by mistake should free a believing slave, and blood-money should be paid to his people unless they forgo it as charity. But if he is from a tribe hostile to you and he is a believer, the freeing of a believing slave (is sufficient). And if he is from a tribe between whom and you there is a covenant, the blood-money should be paid to his people along with the freeing of a believing slave; but he who has not the means should fast for two months successively: a penance from Allah. And Allah is ever Knowing, Wise. ⁹³And whoever kills a believer intentionally, his punishment is hell, abiding in it; and Allah is furious with him and He has cursed him and prepared for him a grievous punishment.^b

94 O you who believe, when you go forth (to fight) in Allah's way, make investigation, and do not say to anyone who offers you salutation, You are not a believer, seeking the good of this world's life.^c But with Allah there are abundant gains. You too were such before, then Allah conferred a benefit on you; so make investigation. Surely Allah is ever Aware of what you do. ⁹⁵Those who hold back from among the believers, not disabled by injury, and those who strive hard in Allah's way with their property and their

a (92) The man who killed a believer intentionally could not be a believer. Disbelievers often made use of ruses, professing belief in Islam and thus tempting Muslims to go over to them as religious teachers, and afterwards murdering them.

b (93) The commentators are agreed that this verse speaks of a disbeliever who murders a believer. In fact, the word intentionally stands here for murdering a man because he is a believer, as this was what the disbelievers often did.

c (94) The original word for salutation is salām (meaning peace). The first word of the Muslim salutation stands therefore for the Muslim salutation. The Muslims were surrounded by enemies on all sides, yet they were told not to presume that every Arab tribe belonged to the enemy camp but were to make an investigation first. Even when a man belonging to an enemy tribe offered the Muslim salutation, to show that he was a Muslim, he was to be taken as a brother Muslim and could not be dealt with as an enemy. Incidentally, it lays down the principle that no Muslim can be called a kāfir, not even the man whose claim to Islam is borne out only by offering the Muslim salutation.

persons, are not equal. Allah has made those who strive with their property and their persons to excel those who hold back by a (high) degree. And to each Allah has promised good. And Allah has granted to those who strive above those who hold back a mighty reward — ⁹⁶(high) degrees from Him and protection and mercy. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

Section 14: Muslims who remained with the Enemy

97 (As for) those whom the angels cause to die while they are unjust to themselves, (the angels) will say: What were you doing? They will say: We were weak in the earth. (The angels) will say: Was not Allah's earth spacious, so that you could have migrated in it? So these it is whose refuge is hell — and it is an evil destination.^a ⁹⁸Except the weak from among the men and the women and the children who do not have the means, nor can they find a way (to escape); ⁹⁹so these, it may be that Allah will pardon them. And Allah is ever Pardoning, Forgiving. ¹⁰⁰And whoever flees in Allah's way, he will find in the earth many a place of escape and abundant resources. And whoever goes forth from his home fleeing to Allah and His Messenger, then death overtakes him, his reward is indeed with Allah. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

Section 15: Prayer when Fighting

101 And when you journey in the earth, there is no blame on you if you shorten the prayer, if you fear that those who disbelieve will give you trouble.^b Surely the disbelievers are an open enemy to you. ¹⁰²And when you are among them and lead the prayer for a (97) By those who were unjust to themselves are meant persons who were convinced of the truth of Islam, but chose to remain among the disbelievers, who did not allow them to give expression to their beliefs, despite having the means to join the Muslims and avow Islam openly.

b (101) The prayer service on a journey is shorter than the ordinary prayer service in the zuhr (midday), ‘aṣr (afternoon) and ‘ishā (night) prayers but the shortening of prayer as mentioned in this verse is quite different from the ordinary shorter service of the journey, and its details are given in the next verse.

them, let a group of them stand up with you, and let them take their arms. Then when they have performed their prostration, let them go to your rear, and let another group who have not prayed come forward and pray with you, and let them take their precautions and their arms. Those who disbelieve long that you may neglect your arms and your baggage, that they may attack you with a sudden united attack. And there is no blame on you, if you are inconvenienced on account of rain or if you are sick, to put away your arms; and take your precautions. Surely Allah has prepared a humiliating punishment for the disbelievers.^a ¹⁰³So when you have finished the prayer, remember Allah standing and sitting and reclining. But when you are secure (from danger) keep up (regular) prayer. Prayer indeed has been enjoined on the believers at fixed times.^b ¹⁰⁴And do not be weak-hearted in pursuit of the enemy. If you suffer they (too) suffer as you suffer, and you hope from Allah what they do not hope. And Allah is ever Knowing, Wise.

105 Surely We have revealed the Book to you with truth that you may judge between people by means of what Allah has taught you. And do not be one pleading the cause of the dishonest,^c a (102) This verse and the previous one show the importance of prayer and of offering prayer in congregation in Islam, which could not be neglected even on the field of battle.

b (103) The hours of prayer were fixed by the Prophet under Divine guidance, and the observance of the hours of prayer is an essential part of the due observance of prayer. It is this feature of the Islamic prayer which makes it a unique force in the unification of the human race.

c (105) The occasion of the revelation of these verses was a dispute between a Muslim and a Jew, in which judgment was given by the Prophet against the Muslim. It was a time when every Muslim hand was sorely needed for the defence of Islam, and a verdict against a man supported by his whole tribe meant the loss of that tribe. But such considerations did not carry any weight with the Prophet. Thus these verses lay down the broad principle that dishonesty must be punished, and the balance of justice must be held equal between Muslims and non-Muslims and between friends and foes.

¹⁰⁶and ask the forgiveness of Allah.^a Surely Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁰⁷And do not contend on behalf of those who act unfaithfully to their souls. Surely Allah does not love him who is treacherous, sinful: ¹⁰⁸They seek to hide from people and they cannot hide from Allah, and He is with them when they counsel by night matters which do not please Him. And Allah ever encompasses what they do.^b ¹⁰⁹Look! You are they who may contend on their behalf in this world's life, but who will contend with Allah on their behalf on the day of Resurrection, or who will have charge of their affairs?

110 And whoever does evil or wrongs his soul, then asks forgiveness of Allah, will find Allah Forgiving, Merciful. ¹¹¹And whoever commits a sin, commits it only against himself. And Allah is ever Knowing, Wise. ¹¹²And whoever commits a fault or a sin, then accuses of it one innocent, he indeed takes upon himself the burden of a slander and a manifest sin.

113 And if it were not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy, a group of them had certainly aimed to ruin you. And they ruin only themselves, and they cannot harm you in any way. And Allah has revealed to you the Book and the Wisdom, and taught you what you did not know, and Allah's grace on you is very great. ¹¹⁴There is no good in most of their secret counsels except (in) him who enjoins charity or goodness or reconciliation between people. And whoever does this, seeking Allah's pleasure, We shall give him a mighty reward. ¹¹⁵And whoever acts hostilely to the Messenger after guidance has become manifest to him and follows other than the way of the believers, We turn him to that to a (106) The injunction in this as well as the previous verse is meant for every Muslim who is called upon to act as a judge. He must be strictly just as between his own people and aliens, and must further ask the protection of Allah from being guilty of an act of injustice, even unknowingly.

b (108) Those who supported the guilty man are condemned here as hypocrites. The same subject is continued in the verses that follow.

which he (himself) turns and make him enter hell; and it is an evil destination.^a

Section 18: Idolatry condemned

116 Surely Allah does not forgive setting up partners with Him, and He forgives all besides this to whom He pleases. And whoever sets up a partner with Allah, he indeed goes far astray. ¹¹⁷Besides Him they call on nothing but female divinities^b and they call on nothing but a rebellious devil, ¹¹⁸whom Allah has cursed. And he said: Certainly I will take of Your servants an appointed portion; ¹¹⁹and certainly I will lead them astray and excite in them vain desires and bid them so that they will slit the ears of the cattle,^c and bid them so that they will alter Allah's creation.^d And whoever takes the devil for a friend, forsaking Allah, he indeed suffers a manifest loss. ¹²⁰He promises them and excites vain desires in them. And the devil promises them only to deceive. ¹²¹These — their refuge is hell, and they will find no way of escape from it.

122 And those who believe and do good, We shall make them enter Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them forever. It is a (115) This verse clearly speaks of the hypocrites, who followed a way other than the way of the believers. Only a distortion of the words could make them signify that it was a sin to differ with the majority of the Muslims on any question of religion.

b (117) The word translated here as “female divinities” can signify inanimate things, such as trees and stones and wood, which they worshipped, as well as idols because they named the idols as females.

c (119-1) The practice of slitting or cutting off the ear of certain animals was a prevalent form of polytheism in Arabia, for such an animal was looked upon as devoted to certain idols.

d (119-2) A comparison with 30:30 will show clearly that by Allah's creation is here meant the religion of Allah, the natural religion of man. By the devil's changing the creation of Allah is therefore meant the changing of the natural religion of man which requires obedience to Allah and His laws. Some commentators understand by changing the creation of Allah the using of His created things for an object other than that for which they were created, and worshipping objects such as the sun, etc., which were really created to be subservient to man.

Allah's promise, in truth. And who is more truthful in word than Allah? ¹²³It will not be in accordance with your vain desires nor the vain desires of the People of the Book. Whoever does evil, will be recompensed for it and will not find for himself besides Allah a friend or a helper.^a ¹²⁴And whoever does good deeds, whether male or female, and is a believer — these will enter the Garden, and they will not be dealt with unjustly in the least. ¹²⁵And who is better in religion than he who submits himself entirely to Allah while doing good (to others) and follows the faith of Abraham, the upright one? And Allah took Abraham for a friend. ¹²⁶And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And Allah ever encompasses all things.

127 And they ask you a decision about women. Say: Allah makes known to you His decision concerning them; and what is recited to you in the Book is concerning widowed women, whom you do not give what is appointed for them, while you are not inclined to marry them, nor to the weak among children, and that you should deal justly with orphans. And whatever good you do, Allah is surely ever Knower of it.^b ¹²⁸And if a woman fears

b (127) It is stated here that a decision regarding the doing of good to women, to weak children and to orphans has already been given (see 4:1–10). The words “and what is recited to you in the Book is concerning widowed women, whom you do not give what is appointed for them while you are not inclined to marry them” refer to 4:3. The meaning is that the order given in 4:3 in the words “if you fear that you cannot do justice to orphans marry such women as seem good to you” relates to orphans of the women (or to widows) whom their share in inheritance was denied, both their share and the share of their orphan children, nor were people inclined to marry them owing to the burden which they brought with them in the shape of their children. So the permission was given that they may marry such women, even up to four. Widows and their orphaned children used to receive no share of inheritance. The Quran brought about a great change: it required the giving of inheritance both to women and their orphaned children, and it also recommended that such women should be taken in marriage.

ill-usage from her husband or desertion, there is no blame on the two of them if they effect a reconciliation between them. And reconciliation is better. And greed is met with in (people's) minds. And if you do good (to others) and keep your duty, surely Allah is ever Aware of what you do. ¹²⁹And you cannot do justice between wives, even though you wish (it), but do not be disinclined (from one) with total disinclination, so that you leave her in suspense. And if you are reconciled and keep your duty, surely Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful. ¹³⁰And if they separate, Allah will render them both free from want out of His ampleness. And Allah is ever Ample-giving, Wise.

131 And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And certainly We charged those who were given the Book before you, and (We also charge) you, to keep your duty to Allah. And if you disbelieve, surely to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And Allah is ever Self-sufficient, Praiseworthy. ¹³²And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And Allah is sufficient as having charge of affairs. ¹³³If He please, He will take you away, O people, and bring others. And Allah is ever Powerful to do that. ¹³⁴Whoever desires the reward of this world — then with Allah is the reward of this world and the Hereafter. And Allah is ever Hearing, Seeing.

135 O you who believe, be maintainers of justice, bearers of witness for Allah, even if it is against your own selves or (your) parents or near relatives — whether he is rich or poor, Allah has a better right over them both.^a So do not follow (your) low desires, that you deviate. And if you distort (the truth) or turn away (from it), surely Allah is ever Aware of what you do.

^a (135) “Allah has a better right over them” means that they should be dealt with justly. Thus, neither ties of kinship and love nor considerations of fear, favour, or compassion should make one swerve a hair's breadth from the truth.

136 O you who believe, believe in Allah and His Messenger and the Book which He has revealed to His Messenger and the Book which He revealed before. And whoever disbelieves in Allah and His angels and His Books and His messengers and the Last Day, he indeed strays far away. ¹³⁷Those who believe then disbelieve, again believe and again disbelieve, then increase in disbelief, Allah will never forgive them nor guide them in the (right) way.^a ¹³⁸Give news to the hypocrites that for them is a painful punishment — ¹³⁹those who take disbelievers for friends rather than believers. Do they seek for might from them? Might surely belongs wholly to Allah.

140 And indeed He has revealed to you in the Book that when you hear Allah's messages disbelieved in and mocked at, do not sit with them until they enter into some other discourse, for then indeed you would be like them.^b Surely Allah will gather together the hypocrites and the disbelievers all in hell — ¹⁴¹those who wait (for misfortunes) for you. Then if you have a victory from Allah they say: Were we not with you? And if there is a chance for the disbelievers, they say: Did we not prevail over you and defend you from the believers? So Allah will judge between you on the day of Resurrection. And Allah will by no means give the disbelievers a way against the believers.

142 The hypocrites seek to deceive Allah, and He will pay them back their deceit. And when they stand up for prayer, they stand up sluggishly — they do it only to be seen by people and a (137) Allah's not guiding them is the consequence of their own actions. They wavered first but in the end became firm in disbelief.

b (140) See 6:68 which was revealed at Makkah. Muslims are told to leave the assembly where truth is derided. Criticism is quite a different thing and a Muslim should always be ready to meet any criticism of his religion. (Editor's Note: Thus the response when faced with mere ridicule of Islam is to withdraw, temporarily, from that company of people and rejoin them later when they stop their mocking. It is therefore entirely wrong to believe that Muslims are required to attack physically, still less kill, those who deride their religion.)

they remember Allah but little, ¹⁴³wavering between that (and this) — (belonging) neither to these nor to those.^a And whomsoever Allah leaves in error, you will not find a way for him. ¹⁴⁴O you who believe, do not take the disbelievers for friends instead of the believers. Do you desire to give Allah a manifest proof against yourselves? ¹⁴⁵The hypocrites are surely in the lowest depths of the Fire, and you will find no helper for them, ¹⁴⁶except those who repent and amend and hold fast to Allah and are sincere in their obedience to Allah — these are with the believers. And Allah will soon grant the believers a mighty reward. ¹⁴⁷Why should Allah punish you if you are grateful and believe? And Allah is ever Multiplier of rewards,^b Knowing.

148 Allah does not love the public utterance of hurtful speech, except by one who has been wronged.^c And Allah is ever Hearing, Knowing. ¹⁴⁹If you do good openly or keep it secret or pardon an evil, Allah surely is ever Pardoning, Powerful.^d

150 Those who disbelieve in Allah and His messengers and desire to make a distinction between Allah and His messengers and say: We believe in some and disbelieve in others; and desire to take a course in between — ¹⁵¹these are truly disbelievers; and We have prepared for the disbelievers a humiliating punishment. ¹⁵²And those who believe in Allah and His messengers and make no distinction between any of them, to them He will grant their rewards. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.^e a (143) The reference in “that and this” is to belief and disbelief.

b (147) The word shākir, usually meaning thankful, when used as an attribute of the Divine Being signifies One Who multiplies rewards to His servants.

c (148) The use of defamatory speech of every kind regarding others is strictly forbidden, but justification for it may exist in case a person has in some way been wronged.

d (149) If you pardon the evil which anyone has done to you, Allah will pardon your evils, and grant you even good reward; He is not only Pardoning, but also Powerful to grant good reward.

e (152) To make distinction between Allah and His messengers means to believe in one and not in the other. Islam requires the acceptance of all prophets who were raised for the regeneration of mankind, and hence a denial of any one of

Section 22: Transgressions of the Jews

153 The People of the Book ask you to bring down to them a Book from heaven; indeed they demanded of Moses a greater thing than that, for they said: Show us Allah manifestly. So destructive punishment overtook them on account of their wrongdoing. Then they took the calf (for a god), after clear signs had come to them, but We pardoned this. And We gave Moses clear authority. ¹⁵⁴And We raised the mountain above them at their covenant. And We said to them: Enter the gate submissively. And We said to them: Do not violate the Sabbath; and We took from them a firm covenant.

155 Then for their breaking their covenant and their disbelief in the messages of Allah and their killing the prophets unjustly and their saying, Our hearts are securely covered; no, Allah has sealed them on account of their disbelief, so they do not believe but a little;^a ¹⁵⁶and for their disbelief and for their uttering against Mary a grievous slander;^b ¹⁵⁷and for their saying: We have killed the Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary, the messenger of Allah, and they did not kill him, nor did they cause his death on the cross,^c but he

a (155) The incidents referred to in verses 153–155 have been mentioned in detail in 2:51–71; see the footnotes there.

b (156) The slander referred to was that Mary was guilty of fornication.

c (157-1) The words used here do not negative that Jesus was nailed to the cross; they negate his having expired on the cross as a result of being nailed to it. That Jesus died a natural death is plainly stated in 5:117. The Gospels contain clear testimony showing that Jesus Christ escaped death on the cross. For example, Jesus remained on the cross for a few hours only (Mark 15:25, John 19:14) but death by crucifixion was always slow. When the side of Jesus was pierced, blood rushed out and this was a certain sign of life (John 19:34). Jesus was not buried but was given into the charge of a wealthy disciple of his, who lavished care on him and put him in a spacious tomb hewn in the side of a rock (Mark 15:46). When the tomb was seen on the third day, the stone was found to have been removed from its mouth (Mark 16:4), which would not have been the case if there had been a supernatural rising. Jesus Christ prayed the whole night before his arrest to be saved from the accursed death on the cross, and he also asked his disciples to pray for him. He seems to have even received a promise from God to

was made to appear to them as such.^a And certainly those who differ concerning it are in doubt about it. They have no knowledge about it, but only follow a conjecture, and they did not kill him for certain; ¹⁵⁸rather, Allah exalted him in His presence.^b And Allah is ever Mighty, Wise. ¹⁵⁹And there is none of the People of the Book but will believe in this before his death; and on the day of Resurrection he will be a witness against them.^c

160 So for the wrongdoing of the Jews, We forbade them the good things which had been made lawful for them, and for their hindering many (people) from Allah's way. ¹⁶¹And for their taking usury — though indeed they were forbidden it — and their devouring the property of people falsely. And We have prepared for the disbelievers from among them a painful punishment. ¹⁶²But the firm in knowledge among them and the believers believe in

be saved, and it was to this promise that he referred when he cried out on the cross: "My God, my God, why have You forsaken me?" The statements made in the Quran corroborate the testimony found in the Gospels. Jesus did not die on the cross, nor was he killed as were the two thieves who were crucified with him, but to people he appeared as if he were dead.

a (157-2) These words may bear two interpretations: he was made to be like it to them or the matter was made dubious to them. The story that someone else was made to resemble Jesus is not borne out by the words of the Quran, which could only mean, if an object were mentioned, that Jesus was made to resemble someone, not that someone was made to resemble Jesus.

b (158) For "exaltation" see 3:55 footnote 2. Being exalted in the Divine presence was opposed to being killed on the cross. Deuteronomy 21:23 explains this, for there we have, he who is hanged is accursed of God. If Jesus had died on the cross he would have been accursed; hence the statement made here — he was not killed on the cross and accursed but he was exalted in the Divine presence.

c (159) Both Jews and Christians necessarily believe in the death of Jesus on the cross, while according to the Quran they have really no sure knowledge of it. The belief of the Jews is that since Jesus died on the cross he was accursed of God, and hence he cannot be a prophet. Following quite a different line of argument, Christians believe that Jesus died on the cross and was accursed, but that unless Jesus were accursed he could not take away the sins of those that believe in him. Hence the belief of both Jews and Christians is that Jesus died on the cross, and the meaning of the verse is clear, i.e., every Jew and Christian, despite having no sure knowledge at all, must believe before his death that Jesus died on the cross.

what has been revealed to you and what was revealed before you, and those who keep up prayer and give the due charity and the believers in Allah and the Last Day — these it is to whom We shall give a mighty reward.

Section 23: Previous Revelation and the Quran

163 Surely We have revealed to you as We revealed to Noah and the prophets after him, and We revealed to Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the tribes, and Jesus and Job and Jonah and Aaron and Solomon, and We gave to David a scripture. ¹⁶⁴And (We sent) messengers We have mentioned to you before and messengers We have not mentioned to you. And to Moses Allah addressed His word, speaking (to him) — ¹⁶⁵messengers, bearers of good news ^a and warners, so that the people may have no plea against Allah after the (coming of) messengers. And Allah is ever Mighty, Wise. ¹⁶⁶But Allah bears witness by what He has revealed to you that He has revealed it with His knowledge, and the angels (also) bear witness. And Allah is sufficient as a witness.

167 Those who disbelieve and hinder (others) from Allah's way, they indeed have gone astray, straying far. ¹⁶⁸Those who disbelieve and act unjustly, Allah will never forgive them, nor guide them to a path, ¹⁶⁹except the path of hell, to abide in it for a long time. And that is easy to Allah.

170 O mankind, the Messenger has indeed come to you with truth from your Lord, so believe, it is better for you. And if you disbelieve, then surely to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth. And Allah is ever Knowing, Wise. ¹⁷¹O People of the Book, do not exaggerate in the matter of your religion nor speak anything about Allah but the truth. The Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary, is only a messenger of Allah and His word^b which He

^a (165) The good news which these messengers brought relates as much to the peace and happiness which is granted to the righteous as to the advent of one who, coming at the end, should unite the qualifications of all the prophets in his own person, and accordingly make the nations of the earth as one nation.

^b (171-1) Kalima, or word, is here equivalent to prophecy, in which sense it communicated to Mary and a mercy from Him.^a So believe in Allah and His messengers. And do not say, Three.^b Refrain (from it), it is better for you. Allah is only one God. Far be it from His glory to have a son. To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And sufficient is Allah as having charge of affairs.

Section 24: Prophethood of Jesus

172 The Messiah does not disdain to be a servant of Allah, nor do the angels who are near to Him. And whoever disdains His service and is proud, He will gather them all together to Himself. ¹⁷³Then as for those who believe and do good, He will pay them fully their rewards and give them more out of His grace. And as for those who disdain and are proud, He will punish them with a painful punishment, and they will find for themselves besides Allah no friend nor helper.

174 O people, manifest proof has indeed come to you from your Lord and We have sent down to you a clear light. ¹⁷⁵Then as for those who believe in Allah and hold fast by Him, He will admit them to His mercy and grace, and guide them to Himself on a right path.

176 They ask you for a decision. Say: Allah gives you a decision concerning the person who has neither parents nor children.

is frequently used in the Quran. Jesus is called a prophecy because he was born in accordance with a prophecy from God.

a (171-2) Rūh also means mercy, as translated here. It also signifies inspiration or Divine revelation, and if this significance is adopted it would be an explanation of the foregoing words, i.e. His prophecy which He communicated to Mary. Even if we take spirit to be the meaning of the word rūh, it does not take Jesus beyond the limits of mortality, because according to the Quran the spirit of God is breathed into every human being (32:9). Moreover, the words used here can only mean a spirit from Him and not the spirit from Him.

b (171-3) The doctrine of Trinity is plainly rejected here. There are not three persons in Godhead, but only one: Allah is only one God. The Quran nowhere says that the Christian Trinity is formed of Jesus, Mary, and God, although it no doubt refers to the Roman Catholic doctrine of the worship of Mary in 5:116.

If a man dies (and) he has no son and he has a sister, hers is half of what he leaves, and he shall be her heir if she has no son. But if there are two (sisters), they shall have two-thirds of what he leaves. And if there are (both) brothers and sisters, then for the male is the like of the portion of two females. Allah makes clear to you, in case you go astray. And Allah is Knower of all things.^a a (176) The rule given here supplements the law of inheritance as given at the commencement of this chapter. Here there are neither children nor parents and therefore the whole of the inheritance goes to the brothers and the sisters. Reversion to the law of inheritance just after speaking of Jesus has perhaps a deeper meaning. It is a fact that no prophet appeared among the Israelites after Jesus, and therefore his death really left Israel without a spiritual head who should rise to the eminence of prophethood. The spiritual kingdom which was promised to Abraham, and which hitherto remained in the house of Israel, was now taken from the Israelites and made over to the brother nation, the Ishmaelites. This would also explain the words addressed to Moses: "The Lord your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren" (Deuteronomy, 18:15).

Al-Mā'idah

Food

The name of this chapter refers to the demand for food, or physical sustenance, by the followers of Jesus and the granting of Jesus' prayer for his earlier and later followers (verses 112–115). Not only physical food, but God sent down for them spiritual food in the form of the Quran, which “perfected” religion (v. 3). The chapter deals with the deviation of the Jews and Christians from the truth and their hostility towards Islam. It contains directions for Muslims on several points and warns them to avoid the errors into which previous nations fell. It ends with a refutation of the doctrine of Jesus' divinity and gives hope of the deliverance of his followers from this wrong belief. This chapter was mainly revealed in 5–7 A.H. However, v. 3, speaking of the perfection of religion in Islam, was revealed during the Holy Prophet's last pilgrimage to Makkah in 10 A.H.

Section 1: Perfection of Religion in Islam

1 O you who believe, fulfil the obligations.^a The cattle quadrupeds are allowed to you except what is recited to you, not violating the prohibition against game when you are on the pilgrimage.^b Surely Allah orders what He pleases.

2 O you who believe, do not violate the signs of Allah,^c nor the a (1-1) Respect for all covenants, contracts, agreements and treaties, all of which are included in the significance of the word 'uqūd, and also of all Divine ordinances, is the very first necessity of social relations. The word includes the covenants imposed by God as well as the mutual agreements made by people. Thus respect for law, religious as well as temporal, is taught here.

b (1-2) The prohibition against killing game during pilgrimage is mentioned in connection with the security of the Ka'bah in verses 94–96, so that even wild animals are secure during this time.

c (2-1) The term sha'ā'ir Allāh signifies all duties imposed by God on people. Rites and ceremonies in connection with the pilgrimage and places where these ceremonies are performed are also known by this name.

Sacred Month, nor the offerings, nor the victims with garlands,^a nor those repairing to the Sacred House seeking the grace and pleasure of their Lord. And when you are free from pilgrimage obligations, then hunt. And do not let hatred of a people — because they hindered you from the Sacred Mosque — incite you to transgress.^b And help one another in righteousness and piety, and do not help one another in sin and aggression, and keep your duty to Allah.^c Surely Allah is Severe in retribution.

3 Forbidden to you is what dies of itself, and blood, and flesh of swine, and that on which any other name than that of Allah has been invoked, and the strangled (animal), and that beaten to death, and that killed by a fall, and that killed by goring with the horn, and what wild beasts have eaten — except what you slaughter;^d and what is sacrificed on stones set up (for idols),^e and (it is forbidden) that you seek to divide by arrows;^f that is a transgression. This day have those who disbelieve despaired of your religion, so do not fear them, and fear Me. This day have I perfected for you your religion and completed My favour to you and chosen for you a (2-2) Hady or “offering” means what is driven (to Makkah). Qalā'id or “victims with garlands” means necklaces or what is put upon the neck of an animal that is brought as an offering to Makkah for sacrifice. Only camels are made to wear garlands, while hady includes all kinds of animals brought as offering.

b (2-3) The principle laid down here requires from Muslims equal treatment for all nations, for those whom we hate as well as for those whom we love. Only this principle of Islam can serve as the basis for an international code for the modern world and an international law.

c (2-4) Editor's Note: Muslims ought only to cooperate with one another in matters of goodness, and are forbidden to help each other in wrongdoing against others. This injunction prohibits the evils of blind patriotism and unconditional support for one's own people even when they commit injustices against others.

d (3-1) The meaning is that if an animal partly eaten by wild beasts is found while yet alive, and is slaughtered in the proper manner, its flesh is allowed.

e (3-2) Certain stones were set up around the Ka'bah, over or near which it was customary for the idolaters to kill animals as offerings to certain idols.

f (3-3) This prohibits dividing the flesh of slaughtered animals by means of certain arrows with which the idolatrous Arabs played a game of chance.

Islam as a religion.^a But whoever is compelled by hunger, not inclining wilfully to sin, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

4 They ask you as to what is allowed them. Say: The good things are allowed to you, and what you have taught the beasts and birds of prey, training them to hunt — you teach them of what Allah has taught you; so eat of what they catch for you and mention the name of Allah over it; and keep your duty to Allah.^b Surely Allah is Swift in reckoning. 5This day (all) good things are made lawful for you. And the food of those who have been given the Book is lawful for you and your food is lawful for them.^c And so are the chaste from among the believing women and the chaste from among those who have been given the Book before you, when you give them their dowries, taking (them) in marriage, not fornicating nor taking them for lovers in secret.^d And whoever a (3-4) This verse was revealed towards the close of the Holy Prophet's life, and it is held by all authorities that no precept was revealed after this. It is a clear testimony to the perfection of religion in Islam, no such claim being made by any other book or religion. Just before the Holy Prophet Muhammad, Jesus had said: "I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. However, when he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will guide you into all truth" (John, 16:12-13). The Prophet Muhammad was thus the last of the prophets, because religion being perfected, no prophet was needed after him.

b (4) Game killed by means of beasts and birds of prey taught to hunt is allowed. When the beast or the bird is sent after the prey, the name of Allah should be mentioned. Game killed by an arrow or by a shot is allowed, subject to the same condition. If the game is not killed before it falls into the hands of the hunter, it should be slaughtered; if it is already killed, it is lawful in that condition.

c (5-1) Thus animals slaughtered by the Jews or the Christians are allowed when slaughtered in the name of God. However, any food which is clearly prohibited cannot become lawful because it is offered by a Jew or a Christian.

d (5-2) In Islam intermarriages with idol-worshippers are totally prohibited (2:221), but in the case of a people whose religion is based on a revealed book, in which category fall almost all the nations of the world, the taking of their women in marriage is expressly allowed. The giving away of Muslim women in marriage to followers of other religions is not, however, expressly mentioned, and practice from the earliest times is against it. (Editor's Note: A Jewish or Christian woman marrying a Muslim man would enter a household where her prophets and scriptures are believed in; while in the converse case a Muslim woman would be entering a household where the Prophet Muhammad and the Quran are not denies faith, his work indeed is fruitless; and in the Hereafter he is among the losers.

6 O you who believe, when you rise up for prayer, wash your faces, and your hands up to the elbows, and wipe your heads, and (wash) your feet up to the ankles. And if you are under an obligation,^a then wash (your body). And if you are sick, or on a journey, or one of you has come from the toilet, or you have had (sexual) contact with women, and you cannot find water, then resort to pure earth and wipe your faces and your hands with it. Allah does not desire to place a burden on you but He wishes to purify you, and that He may complete His favour on you, so that you may give thanks.

7 And remember Allah's favour on you and His covenant with which He bound you when you said: We have heard and we obey. And keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Knower of what is in the hearts.

8 O you who believe, be upright for Allah, bearers of witness with justice; and do not let hatred of a people incite you not to act equitably. Be just; that is nearer to observance of duty. And keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Aware of what you do. ⁹Allah has promised to those who believe and do good deeds: For them is forgiveness and a mighty reward. ¹⁰And those who disbelieve and reject Our messages, such are the companions of the flaming fire.

11 O you who believe, remember Allah's favour on you when a people had determined to stretch out their hands against you, but He withheld their hands from you; and keep your duty to Allah. And on Allah let the believers rely.^b believed in. Also note that this verse allows a Muslim man to marry a woman of the People of the Book only under the condition that the two of them follow the same code of sexual morality as would apply if both of them were Muslims.)

b (11) The enemies of Islam tried to take away the life of the Holy Prophet and to exterminate the Muslims on occasions too numerous to mention.

Section 3: Christian Violation of the Covenant

12 And certainly Allah made a covenant with the Children of Israel, and We raised up among them twelve chieftains.^a And Allah said: Surely I am with you. If you keep up prayer and give the due charity and believe in My messengers and assist them and offer to Allah a goodly gift, I will certainly cover your evil deeds, and make you enter Gardens in which rivers flow. But whoever among you disbelieves after that, he indeed strays from the right way. ¹³But on account of their breaking their covenant We cursed them and hardened their hearts. They alter words from their places and neglect a portion of what they were reminded of. And you will always discover treachery in them excepting a few of them — so pardon them and forgive. Surely Allah loves those who do good (to others). ¹⁴And with those who say, We are Christians, We made a covenant,^b but they neglected a portion of what they were reminded of, so We stirred up enmity and hatred among them to the day of Resurrection.^c And Allah will soon inform them of what they did.

15 O People of the Book, indeed Our Messenger has come to you, making clear to you much of what you concealed of the Book and passing over much.^d Indeed, there has come to you from Allah,

b (14-1) The covenant, made through Jesus, was to accept the Prophet when he appeared. Jesus told his followers: “I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. However, when he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will guide you into all truth; for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak” (John 16:12–13).

c (14-2) The prophecy that there shall always be hatred and enmity between the various Christian peoples has proved true in all ages, and never more clearly than in modern times with the World Wars in Europe.

d (15-1) There were many truths which the Jews and the Christians had lost, their scriptures not having remained free from corruption, and many which were in their books but which they did not act upon. Those which were of permanent value were revealed in the Quran, but others — referred to in passing over much — that only suited the requirements of the earlier times were not now needed.

a Light and a clear Book,^a ¹⁶by which Allah guides such as follow His pleasure into the ways of peace, and brings them out of darkness into light by His will, and guides them to the right path.

17 They indeed disbelieve who say: Surely, Allah — He is the Messiah, son of Mary. Say: Who then could control anything as against Allah when He wished to destroy the Messiah, son of Mary, and his mother and all those on the earth?^b And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them. He creates what He pleases. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

18 And the Jews and the Christians say: We are the sons of Allah and His beloved ones.^c Say: Why does He then punish you for your sins? Rather, you are mortals from among those whom He has created. He forgives whom He pleases and punishes whom He pleases.^d And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, and to Him is the eventual coming. ¹⁹O People of the Book, indeed Our Messenger has come to you explaining to you after a cessation of the messengers,^e in case you say: No bearer of good news came to us nor a warner. So indeed a bearer of good news and a warner has come to you. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

b (17) The meaning is that Jesus and Mary, and all those who were then on the earth, tasted equally of death; hence Jesus was a mortal and not God.

c (18-1) In the Gospels it is said: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God" (Matthew, 5:9). The Christians think they are the people spoken of here. The Jews considered themselves as the favourite nation, because they thought they were the only nation chosen by God for the gift of Divine revelation, to the exclusion of all other nations of the world.

d (18-2) It is in accordance with Divine laws that forgiveness and punishment are exercised, and the alleged atonement of Jesus brought no change in this.

e (19) Several centuries had elapsed since the appearance of any prophet in any country when the great Arabian Prophet made his appearance. No nation in the world claims the appearance of any messenger in it between the advent of Jesus Christ and that of the Holy Prophet Muhammad. The world was, as it were, preparing itself for the advent of the greatest of all prophets, who was to be a messenger to all the nations of the world.

Section 4: Israelites' Violation of the Covenant

20 And when Moses said to his people: My people, remember the favour of Allah to you when He raised prophets among you and made you kings and gave you what He did not give to any other of the nations.^a 21My people, enter the Holy Land which Allah has ordained for you and do not turn your backs, for then you will turn back losers. 22They said: Moses, in it are a powerful people, and we shall not enter it until they go out from it; if they go out from it, then surely we will enter. 23Two men of those who feared, on whom Allah had bestowed a favour, said: Enter upon them by the gate, for when you enter it you will surely be victorious; and put your trust in Allah, if you are believers.^b 24They said: Moses, we will never enter it so long as they are in it; go therefore you and your Lord, and fight; surely here we sit. 25He said: My Lord, I have control of none but my own self and my brother; so distinguish between us and the transgressing people. 26He said: It will surely be forbidden to them for forty years — they will wander about in the land.^c So do not grieve for the transgressing people.

Section 5: Cain and Abel

27 And relate to them with truth the story of the two sons of Adam, when they offered an offering, but it was accepted from one of them and was not accepted from the other.^d He said: I will certainly kill you. (The other) said: Allah accepts only from the dutiful. 28If you stretch out your hand against me to kill me I shall

a (20) The reference need not be to the earlier history of the Israelites, but to their history as dating from the time of Moses, for the advent of Moses had brought about an entire change both in their spiritual and political status.

c (26) See Numbers 14:23. The forty years spoken of here represent the life of that generation.

d (27) The reference is apparently to the story of Cain and Abel. Compare Genesis 4:3–12. But the story may be taken allegorically, where the Israelites may be taken for the aggressive and sinful brother and the Ishmaelites, as represented by the Holy Prophet, for the righteous one.

not stretch out my hand against you to kill you. Surely I fear Allah, the Lord of the worlds: ²⁹I would rather that you should bear the sin against me and your own sin,^a thus you would be one of the companions of the Fire; and that is the recompense of the unjust. ³⁰At length his mind made it easy for him to kill his brother, so he killed him; then he became one of the losers. ³¹Then Allah sent a crow scratching the ground to show him how to cover the dead body of his brother. He said: Woe is me! Am I not able to be as this crow and cover the dead body of my brother? So he became regretful.

32 For this reason We prescribed for the Children of Israel that whoever kills a person, unless it is for manslaughter or for mischief in the land, it is as though he had killed all mankind.^b And whoever saves a life, it is as though he had saved the lives of all mankind. And certainly Our messengers came to them with clear arguments, but even after that many of them commit excesses in the land. ³³The only punishment of those who wage war against Allah and His Messenger and strive to make mischief in the land^c is that they should be murdered, or crucified, or their hands and their feet should be cut off on opposite sides, or they should be a (29) The words “the sin against me” are literally “my sin” but here mean the sin committed against me, i.e. the sin of murder. By “your sin” is meant his previous sin on account of which his offering was not accepted. The righteous brother tells the wicked one that even after knowing that he intended to kill him he would not be the first to raise his hand against him and kill him, but he would rather that the guilty one should go on adding to his sins.

c (33-1) This has generally been accepted as referring to armed robbers and murderers who cause disorder and loss of life and property in a settled state of society, and not to those who actually wage war. The punishment to be inflicted in any particular case would depend upon the circumstances of the case, as well as the time and place where the crime was committed. (Editor’s Note: Some recent commentators suggest that these words do not convey commands to apply these punishments as legal penalties, but describe the natural consequences that occur in society as a result of the actions of the perpetrators of such crimes.)

imprisoned.^a This shall be a disgrace for them in this world, and in the Hereafter they shall have a grievous punishment, ³⁴except those who repent before you overpower them; so know that Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

Section 6: Punishment of Offenders

35 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah, and seek means of nearness to Him, and strive hard in His way that you may be successful. ³⁶Those who disbelieve, even if they had all that is in the earth, and as much as it again, to ransom themselves with it from the punishment of the day of Resurrection, it would not be accepted from them; and theirs is a painful punishment. ³⁷They would desire to come forth from the Fire, and they will not come forth from it, and theirs is a lasting punishment.

38 And (as for) the man and the woman addicted to theft, cut off their hands as a penalty for what they have earned — an exemplary punishment from Allah. And Allah is Mighty, Wise.^b ³⁹But whoever repents after his wrongdoing and reforms, Allah will turn to him (mercifully). Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ⁴⁰Do you not know that Allah is He to Whom belongs the kingdom of the heavens and the earth? He punishes whom He pleases, a (33-2) These words literally mean they should be banished from the earth, but are mostly accepted as meaning imprisonment. Deportation is also included if we take “earth” as meaning a particular country.

b (38) The cutting off of hands may be taken metaphorically or literally. If taken metaphorically, it would simply mean restraining the thief by imprisonment or otherwise. If taken literally, it must be emphasized that it is the maximum punishment, and whether it is inflicted would depend on the circumstances of the case. This punishment is called exemplary, and exemplary punishment could only be inflicted where the crime is very serious or the offender is a habitual criminal. The next verse shows that the punishment of cutting off the hand is only for a criminal who does not reform, i.e. for the habitual offender. Moreover, what is required is repentance and reform. To give a man a chance to reform it is necessary that he should be given freedom of action before the more serious punishment is inflicted. I translate the word al-sāriq as meaning one addicted to theft, not only for the reasons given above but also because an explanatory reading of this word is al-sarriq, which is a noun of intensiveness, from the same root.

and forgives whom He pleases. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

41 O Messenger, do not let those grieve you who hasten to disbelief, from among those who say with their mouths, We believe, and their hearts do not believe, and from among those who are Jews — they are listeners for the sake of a lie, listeners for another people who have not come to you.^a They alter words after they are put in their (proper) places, saying: If you are given this, take it, and if you are not given this, be cautious. And he for whom Allah intends temptation, you control nothing for him against Allah. Those are they whose hearts Allah does not intend to purify. For them is disgrace in this world, and for them a grievous punishment in the Hereafter. ⁴²Listeners for the sake of a lie, devourers of forbidden things, so if they come to you, judge between them or turn away from them. And if you turn away from them, they cannot harm you at all. And if you judge, judge between them with equity. Surely Allah loves the equitable.^b ⁴³And how do they make you a judge and they have the Torah in which is Allah's judgment? Yet they turn away after that! And these are not believers.

Section 7: The Quran and Previous Scriptures

a (41) The meaning is that they listen, but their object is only to invent lies and to give false reports to people who have not come to the Holy Prophet.

b (42) By the agreement drawn up between the various nationalities of Madinah on the advent of the Holy Prophet there (see 2:84 footnote), all disputes were to be referred to the Holy Prophet, but the Jews had by this time become so inimical to the Prophet that he is allowed to refuse to judge between them. In case he judged between them, he is still told to judge with equity. To be equitable, despite their severe enmity, shows that the Prophet had reached the highest point of moral rectitude to which man can attain.

c (44-1) Verses 44–47 do not provide evidence of the purity of the text of the Bible as we have it. That the Torah was a Divine revelation containing light and guidance has never been denied. What is denied is that that light and guidance were kept intact throughout the ages. It is further denied that these two books were meant for the whole world and for all ages.

By it did the prophets who submitted themselves (to Allah) judge for the Jews, and the rabbis and the doctors of law, because they were required to guard the Book of Allah,^a and they were witnesses of it. So do not fear the people and fear Me, and do not take a small price for My messages. And whoever does not judge by what Allah has revealed, those are the disbelievers.^b 45 And We prescribed to them in it that life is for life, and eye for eye, and nose for nose, and ear for ear, and tooth for tooth, and for wounds retaliation. But whoever forgoes it, it shall be an expiation for him.^c And whoever does not judge by what Allah has revealed, those are the wrongdoers.

46 And We sent after them in their footsteps Jesus, son of Mary, verifying what was (already) before him of the Torah; and We gave him the Gospel containing guidance and light, and verifying what was before it of the Torah, and a guidance and an admonition for the dutiful.^d 47 And let the People of the Gospel judge by what Allah has revealed in it. And whoever does not judge by what Allah has revealed, those are the transgressors.

a (44-2) They were required to guard the Book of God but nonetheless alterations were made in it as stated in 2:75 and 2:79.

b (44-3) By judging is not meant only the judging of civil or criminal cases, but judging in all matters of religion, so that those who did not judge the revelation of the Holy Prophet by what was revealed in the Torah were disbelievers. The adoption of the words what Allah has revealed instead of the Torah is significant. It shows that the whole of the Torah as existing then was not looked upon by the Quran as being the Divine revelation.

c (45) If a man forgoes his right to an act of reprisal against his brother, this shall be an expiation for any wrong he may have done.

d (46) The description of the Gospel as containing light and guidance conveys the same significance as the similar statement regarding the Torah in v. 44. In addition it is stated that the Gospel verified the Torah despite the fact that it introduces many new doctrines in place of those given in the Mosaic law. This clearly shows that by verification is meant only corroboration of the general principles and broad doctrines of the faith, such as the unity of God and equitable dealing with people, or the declaration by one prophet of the truth of a previous prophet, as the declaration of the truth of Moses by Jesus and of both by the Holy Prophet. It is in this sense that the Quran is spoken of as verifying the Torah and the Gospel.

48 And We have revealed to you the Book with the truth, verifying what is (already) before it of the Book and a guardian over it,^a so judge between them by what Allah has revealed, and do not follow their low desires, (turning away) from the truth that has come to you. For everyone of you We appointed a law and a way.^b And if Allah had pleased He would have made you a single people, but that He might try you in what He gave you.^c So vie with one another in good works. To Allah you will all return, so He will inform you of that in which you differed;⁴⁹ and that you should judge between them by what Allah has revealed, and do not follow their low desires, and be cautious of them that they do not seduce you from part of what Allah has revealed to you. Then if they turn away, know that Allah desires to afflict them for some of their sins. And surely many of the people are transgressors.⁵⁰ Is it then the judgment of ignorance that they desire? And who is better than Allah to judge for a people who are sure?

a (48-1) Being a guardian over all previous revelation shows that whatever was of permanent value in the previous scriptures has been preserved in the Quran. The previous books contained a light and guidance for the people for whom they were meant, and they were commanded to judge by those books, but the Quran is now the Book which judges all truth, wherever it may have been.

b (48-2) The appointment of a law and a way for everyone refers to the giving of different laws to different nations in accordance with their requirements before the revelation of the Quran, which fulfilled the requirements of all nations and all ages. Thus the Quran here recognizes the principle to which it refers frequently, that prophets were raised among every people, for which see particularly 10:47, 13:7 and 35:24.

c (48-3) One significance is that man is placed above the whole of creation in that he has been granted discretionary powers. Hence, people follow different ways, adopting different sects. If man had not been granted these powers, all humans would have been a single people, but then man's better qualities would not have been manifested. The words may, however, also mean "if Allah pleases He will make you a single people", referring to the ultimate destiny of the human race. In fact all people are now growing to the consciousness that they are all but one nation. (Editor's Note: These words, along with what follows in this verse, also indicate that all religions, though they are different, set before their adherents the same goal of doing good works, and therefore the followers of each religion should try to excel followers of other religions, or vie with them, in the doing of good works. That is how God tries adherents of every religion in this life.)

51 O you who believe, do not take the Jews and the Christians for friends. They are friends of each other. And whoever among you takes them for friends he is indeed one of them. Surely Allah does not guide the unjust people.^a ⁵²But you see those in whose hearts is a disease, hastening towards them, saying: We fear that a calamity may befall us.^b Maybe Allah will bring the victory or a commandment from Himself,^c so they will regret what they hid in their souls. ⁵³And those who believe will say: Are these they who swore by Allah with their most forcible oaths that they were surely with you? Their deeds will be fruitless, so they will be losers.

54 O you who believe, if anyone of you should turn back from his religion, then Allah will bring a people whom He loves and who love Him, humble towards the believers, mighty against the disbelievers, striving hard in Allah's way and not fearing the censure of any censurer.^d This is Allah's grace — He gives it to whom He pleases. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing.

a (51) All non-believers, whatever their own differences, had made common cause against Islam; this is what is meant by their being friends of each other. Muslims are warned that they should not expect help or friendship from any party of them, whether Jews, Christians, or idolaters. It would have been weakness of faith in the ultimate triumph of Islam if, from fear of a powerful enemy, they had sought help and friendship here and there among a hostile people, as the next verse shows. See 60:7–9 which make it clear that the prohibition against friendly relations with the disbelievers was only temporary, to be operative only so long as the war continued. Those verses settle conclusively that friendly relations between Muslims and non-Muslims, as such, are not prohibited.

b (52-1) By hastening towards them is meant hastening to make friendship with them or seeking their help, fearing a Muslim reverse.

c (52-2) Bringing about a commandment refers to the establishment of the rule of Islam, by which is meant the dominance of Islam, there being a further reference to the spiritual conquests of Islam in v. 54.

d (54) Muslims were severely persecuted while at Makkah and their troubles at Madinah increased manifold owing to the presence of warring tribes on all sides. Yet they faced all these hardships with the greatest perseverance, and cases of apostasy were rare.

⁵⁵Only Allah is your Friend and His Messenger and those who believe, those who keep up prayer and give the due charity, and they bow down. ⁵⁶And whoever takes Allah and His Messenger and those who believe for friend — surely the party of Allah, they shall triumph.

Section 9: Those who mock

57 O you who believe, do not take for friends those who take your religion as a mockery and a sport, from among those who were given the Book before you and the disbelievers; and keep your duty to Allah if you are believers.^a ⁵⁸And when you call to prayer they take it as a mockery and a sport. That is because they are a people who do not understand.

59 Say: O People of the Book, do you find fault with us for only that we believe in Allah and in what has been revealed to us and what was revealed before, while most of you are transgressors? ⁶⁰Say: Shall I inform you of those worse than this in retribution from Allah? They are those whom Allah has cursed and upon whom He brought His wrath and of whom He made apes and swine, and who serve the devil. These are in a worse plight and further astray from the straight path. ⁶¹And when they come to you, they say, We believe, and surely they come in unbelief and they go forth in it. And Allah knows best what they conceal. ⁶²And you see many of them hastening to (commit) sin and transgression, and their devouring unlawful gain. Certainly evil is what they do. ⁶³Why do not the rabbis and the doctors of law prohibit them from their sinful utterances and their devouring unlawful gain? Certainly evil are the works they do.^b a (57) Muslims were prohibited from having friendly relations with those who mocked their religion and their Prophet. Friendship with such people would indeed have led to a similar bent of mind. (Editor's Note: This again makes clear that friendship is only disallowed with disbelievers when they behave in a hostile way towards Islam. Muslims are nowhere required to attack physically or punish those who mock their religion, but only withdraw friendship temporarily.)

b (63) Editor's Note: It is for their committing of evil deeds, the sins prohibited in their own scriptures, that the Jews are here condemned. Verses 65 and 66

64 And the Jews say: The hand of Allah is tied up. Their own hands are fettered and they are cursed for what they say. No, both His hands are spread out.^a He disburses as He pleases. And what has been revealed to you from your Lord will certainly make many of them increase in inordinacy and disbelief. And We have cast among them enmity and hatred till the day of Resurrection.^b Whenever they kindle a fire for war Allah puts it out, and they strive to make mischief in the land. And Allah does not love the mischief-makers. ⁶⁵And if the People of the Book had believed and kept their duty We would certainly have removed from them their evils, and made them enter gardens of bliss. ⁶⁶And if they had observed the Torah and the Gospel and what is revealed to them from their Lord, they would certainly have eaten from above them and from beneath their feet. Some of them keep to the moderate course; but most of them — evil is what they do.^c make it clear that Jews and Christians should not have violated the good teachings of their own scriptures and that there were some of them who did not.

a (64-1) Muslims as a community were mostly poor people who accepted the truth. Jews on the other hand carried on business and were rich, hence they taunted Muslims, saying that Allah's hand was fettered. See also 3:181. The words "both His hands are spread out" indicate that God will enrich Muslims materially as well as spiritually.

b (64-2) The casting of enmity among them may relate to the enmity between the Jews and the Christians, because both are again and again referred to in this chapter. (Editor's Note: That enmity has existed throughout their history, culminating in the atrocities against the Jews in Europe in the 20th century.)

c (66) If they had observed the Torah and the Gospel which contained clear prophecies of the Prophet's advent, they would have believed in the revelation of the Quran as well. The eating from above is in reference to spiritual blessings and eating from beneath their feet signifies the earthly provisions; i.e., they would have had abundance of both. The attitude of liberality adopted by Islam towards even its most implacable foes is remarkable. Despite their strong enmity to Islam, some Jews and Christians are described as keeping to the moderate course. (Editor's Note: It may also be meant that if Jews and Christians had acted on the moral teachings of their respective scriptures they would at least have not opposed the Prophet Muhammad, still less tried to destroy Islam.)

67 O Messenger, deliver what has been revealed to you from your Lord; and if you do not, you have not delivered His message. And Allah will protect you from people. Surely Allah does not guide the disbelieving people.^a 68 Say: O People of the Book, you follow no good till you observe the Torah and the Gospel and what is revealed to you from your Lord. And surely what has been revealed to you from your Lord will make many of them increase in inordinacy and disbelief; so do not grieve for the disbelieving people. ⁶⁹Surely those who believe and those who are Jews and the Sabians and the Christians — whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day and does good — they shall have no fear nor shall they grieve.

70 Certainly We made a covenant with the Children of Israel and We sent to them messengers. Whenever a messenger came to them with what their souls did not desire, some (of them) they called liars and some they (even) sought to kill. ⁷¹And they thought that there would be no affliction,^b so they became blind and deaf; then Allah turned to them (mercifully) but many of them (again) became blind and deaf.^c And Allah is Seer of what they do.

a (67) The promise is given here that the Holy Prophet will remain under Divine protection as against the innumerable dangers that threatened him from all quarters and the numerous plots against his life. But it also refers to the Prophet's spiritual protection. God protects prophets by creating them pure from every sin in their very nature, keeping them firm in trials, sending down tranquillity upon them and protecting their hearts against evil.

b (71-1) Although they had been repeatedly warned of the afflictions which would befall them, they still thought that, being a favoured nation, they would not suffer punishment for their evil deeds. They had been subjected to great sufferings at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonian rulers who followed him, large numbers having been slain and the rest taken prisoners. And again they suffered at the hands of Titus. See v. 78 where this affliction is spoken of as coming after David and Jesus.

c (71-2) Allah's turning mercifully to them signifies the advent of Jesus, and their becoming blind and deaf a second time refers to their rejection of him.

72 Certainly they disbelieve who say: Allah, He is the Messiah, son of Mary. And the Messiah said: O Children of Israel, serve Allah, my Lord and your Lord.^a Surely whoever sets up partners with Allah, Allah has forbidden to him the Garden and his abode is the Fire. And for the wrongdoers there will be no helpers. ⁷³Certainly they disbelieve who say: Allah is the third of the three.^b And there is no God but One God. And if they do not refrain from what they say, a painful punishment will surely befall such of them as disbelieve.^c ⁷⁴Will they not then turn to Allah and ask His forgiveness? And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

75 The Messiah, son of Mary, was only a messenger — messengers had indeed passed away before him. And his mother was a truthful woman. They both used to eat food.^d See how We make the messages clear to them, then see how they are turned away (from truth)! ⁷⁶Say: Do you serve besides Allah that which controls for you neither harm nor benefit? And Allah — He is the Hearing, the Knowing. ⁷⁷Say: O People of the Book, do not exaggerate in the matter of your religion unjustly, nor follow the a (72) “You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him only you shall serve” (Matthew, 4:10).

b (73-1) The well-known Christian doctrine of the Trinity is here plainly referred to. It should be noted that the name of Mary is never mentioned in connection with the doctrine of the Trinity. But as the Christians, especially the Roman Catholics, invested Mary with Divine character, as being the mother of God, the Quran often mentions her along with Jesus as being an ordinary mortal.

c (73-2) The doctrine of the Atonement has slowly and gradually made the Christian world forget God altogether, and material advancement and the acquisition of worldly power has become their only concern. They first sought to subjugate the whole world, and, having done that, they are now seeking to overpower each other. Their mutual hatred and enmity as a punishment for their violation of the covenant of God has been already clearly spoken of in v. 14, and again in v. 64, as also in an earlier revelation: “And on that day We shall let some of them surge against others” (18:99).

d (75) Feeling hungry and partaking of food shows that both Jesus and his mother were ordinary mortals. Every living thing needs food; it is only the Supreme Being Who has no need of it. As Jesus is clearly spoken of as eating food while alive, he could not remain alive without food, and this verse thus negatives the allegation that Jesus is still alive.

low desires of people who went astray before and led many astray, and went astray from the right path.^a

78 Those who disbelieved from among the Children of Israel were cursed by the tongue of David and Jesus, son of Mary. This was because they disobeyed and exceeded the limits.^b ⁷⁹They did not forbid one another the hateful things they did. Evil indeed was what they did. ⁸⁰You see many of them befriending those who disbelieve. Certainly evil is what their souls send ahead for them, so that Allah is displeased with them, and in punishment will they abide. ⁸¹And if they believed in Allah and the Prophet^c and what is revealed to him, they would not take them for friends, but most of them are transgressors. ⁸²You will certainly find the most violent of people in enmity against the believers to be the Jews and the idolaters; and you will find the nearest in friendship to the believers to be those who say, We are Christians. That is because a (77) The exaggeration spoken of here refers to the Christian doctrine raising a mortal to the dignity of Godhead. The Christians are here told that in making this doctrine the basis of their religion they have only followed an erroneous doctrine preached by people before them. Recent criticism has shown that the Christians have only followed previous idolatrous nations in ascribing a son to God. This subject has been fully discussed in The Sources of Christianity by the late Khwaja Kamal-ud-Din.

b (78) After Moses, David and Jesus, who represent the highest achievement of Israelite prophethood in temporal and spiritual glory, spoke of the advent of the Holy Prophet in unmistakable terms. The curse is used here in its original sense of being removed further off from Divine mercy. Both prophets had warned the Jews that their transgressions called for Divine punishment which should soon overtake them if they did not mend their ways. The time of both was followed by a great affliction overtaking the Jews, in the respective depredations of the Babylonian kings and the destruction wrought by Titus.

c (81) By al-Nabī or the Prophet in the Quran is always meant the Holy Prophet Muhammad, and he is often spoken of and addressed as al-Nabī or al-Rasūl, the Prophet or the Messenger. In fact, he is referred to as the Prophet or that Prophet in earlier prophecy as well (John 1:21,25). The Jews professed belief in the Unity of God, yet they made a common cause with the idolatrous Quraish to uproot Islam which was a religion of pure monotheism.

83 And when they hear what has been revealed to the Messenger you see their eyes overflow with tears because of the truth they recognize. They say: Our Lord, we believe, so write us down with the witnesses.^b 84And what (reason) have we that we should not believe in Allah and in the Truth that has come to us, while we earnestly desire that our Lord should make us enter with the righteous people? 85So Allah rewarded them for what they said, with Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them. And that is the reward of the doers of good. 86And those who disbelieve and reject Our messages, such are the companions of the flaming fire.

Section 12: Warning of Sins of Previous People

87 O you who believe, do not forbid the good things which Allah has made lawful for you, nor exceed the limits. Surely Allah a (82) The Christians were nearer to Islam than the Jews, not only because the Muslims accepted Jesus as a prophet of God, but because there were still among them many people who feared and worshipped God. In the Holy Prophet's own time, the Negus, Christian Emperor of Abyssinia, accepted Islam; Heraclius, the Byzantine ruler, was favourably disposed towards it; and even the Christian deputation of Najran towards the end of the Prophet's life was impressed with the Prophet's arguments. But the words here are more of a prophetic nature. In the early history of Islam, Christians in Egypt, North Africa, Syria, Persia and other countries, accepted Islam in very large numbers and at present, too, when Islam is being presented to the West, the Christians are receiving the message with an open heart.

b (83) This refers to the Christians who believed. An important such personage was the Negus of Abyssinia, in whose dominions the Muslims found shelter in the early days of the Prophet's mission, when compelled to flee from Makkah on account of the severe persecutions of the Quraish. When the portion of the chapter of the Quran entitled 'Mary' dealing with Jesus Christ was read out to him, the words so impressed him that he wept and said that Jesus was not one whit more than the Quran described him to be. That he subsequently became a true convert to Islam is clearly shown by a funeral service having been held for him by the Holy Prophet when news of his death reached Madinah.

does not love those who exceed the limits.^a ⁸⁸And eat of the lawful and good (things) that Allah has given you, and keep your duty to Allah, in Whom you believe. ⁸⁹Allah will not call you to account for what is vain in your oaths, but He will call you to account for the making of deliberate oaths; so its expiation^b is the feeding of ten poor persons with the average (food) you feed your families with, or their clothing, or the freeing of a slave. But whoever does not find (means) should fast for three days. This is the expiation of your oaths when you swear. And keep your oaths. Thus does Allah make clear to you His messages that you may give thanks.

90 O you who believe, intoxicants and games of chance and (sacrificing to) stones set up and (dividing by) arrows^c are only an uncleanness, the devil's work; so shun it that you may succeed.^d ⁹¹The devil desires only to create enmity and hatred among you by means of intoxicants and games of chance, and to keep you back from the remembrance of Allah and from prayer. Will you then keep back?^e ⁹²And obey Allah and obey the Messenger and a (87) Muslims are told on the one hand not to follow the self-imposed restrictions of Christian monks and priests, and at the same time they are warned against depriving themselves of Divine blessings by falling into evil habits.

b (89) The oaths referred to are in relation to vows, etc., by which one forbids oneself what is otherwise lawful. The injunction at the end of this verse, keep your oaths, also shows that oaths cannot be violated generally, and therefore expiation is only allowed in the case of oaths by which a person deprives himself of some lawful thing or of an occasion of virtue, as in 2:226.

c (90-1) For "stones set up" and "dividing by arrows" see 5:3 footnotes 2 and 3.

d (90-2) This verse totally prohibits all intoxicants and games of chance; and besides, by classing them with sacrifices to stones set up for idols and dividing by arrows, subjects them to the prohibition of 5:3. It is related that when this verse was revealed a crier proclaimed in the streets of Madinah that wine was prohibited, and in response to this every jar of wine in a Muslim house was emptied, so that wine flowed in the streets (Bukhari, 46:20). Never in the history of the world was such a deep-rooted evil as drink so suddenly yet so completely eradicated.

e (91) Only one very clear reason is here given why intoxicants and games of chance are forbidden. Elsewhere it is clearly stated that in intoxicants and games of chance there is a great sin (2:219).

be cautious. But if you turn back then know that the duty of Our Messenger is only to deliver the message clearly. ⁹³On those who believe and do good there is no blame for what they eat,^a when they keep their duty and believe and do good deeds, then keep their duty and believe, then keep their duty and do good (to others). And Allah loves the doers of good.

94 O you who believe, Allah will certainly try you in respect of some game which your hands and your lances can reach, that Allah may know who fears Him in secret. Whoever exceeds the limit after this, for him is a painful punishment. ⁹⁵O you who believe, do not kill game while you are on pilgrimage.^b And whoever among you kills it intentionally, the compensation of it is the like of what he killed, from the cattle, as two just persons among you judge, as an offering to be brought to the Ka‘bah, or the expiation of it is the feeding of the poor or equivalent of it in fasting, that he may taste the unwholesome result of his deed. Allah pardons what happened in the past. And whoever returns (to it), Allah will punish him. And Allah is Mighty, Lord of retribution. ⁹⁶Lawful to you is the game of the sea and its food,^c a provision for you and for the travellers, and the game of the land is forbidden to you so long as you are on pilgrimage, and keep your duty to Allah, to Whom you shall be gathered.

a (93) The verse speaks of those who died before the prohibition came. But even if it is taken generally, it would not justify doing what is unlawful, because one who believes, does good deeds, and keeps his duty will not approach any prohibited thing. In three times mentioning belief and regard for duty, the reference is to the threefold duty of man, viz., to Allah, to himself, and to others.

b (95) The prohibition to kill game when on pilgrimage, mentioned in verses 94–96, is a token of respect for the security of the Ka‘bah (see v. 97), in addition to being a measure necessary for the safety of life in such a large gathering.

c (96) By the game of the sea is meant all water game, whether sea, river, pond, or lake. The food of the sea is here distinguished from its game, and means what is found having been left by the sea or river on dry land, without needing to be caught.

97 Allah has made the Ka'bah, the Sacred House,^a a means of support for the people,^b and the sacred month and the offerings and the victims with garlands. That is that you may know that Allah knows whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, and that Allah is Knower of all things. 98 Know that Allah is Severe in retribution and that Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. 99 The duty of the Messenger is only to deliver the message. And Allah knows what you do openly and what you hide. 100 Say: The bad and the good are not equal, though the abundance of the bad may make you wonder. So keep your duty to Allah, you people of understanding, that you may succeed.

101 O you who believe, do not ask about things which, if made known to you, would give you trouble; and if you ask about them when the Quran is being revealed, they will be made known to you. Allah pardons this; and Allah is Forgiving, Forbearing.^c 102 A people before you indeed asked such questions, then became disbelievers in them.

a (97-1) The word Ka'bah comes from the root meaning it swelled or became prominent, and it is so called because of its prominence, or it is a prophetic name showing that it shall forever have eminence in the world. Al-Bait al-Harām (The Sacred or Inviolable House), used here, is also one of its names, and among the Arabs it was known as Bait Allāh, or the House of Allah.

b (97-2) This is a prophetic announcement that the Ka'bah will forever remain a support or stay for mankind, where pilgrims will flock from all parts of the world. The words "That is that you may know that Allah knows whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth" indicate that the fulfilment of this prophecy in all future ages will be a sign of the great knowledge of Allah, Who pronounced it at a time when the Ka'bah was hardly known beyond the borders of Arabia; see 3:97.

c (101) Islam prohibited questions relating to details on many points which would require this or that practice to be made obligatory, and much was left to individual will or the circumstances of the time and place. The exercise of judgment occupies a very important place in Islam and this gives ample scope to different nations and communities to frame laws for themselves to meet new and changed situations. The Holy Prophet also discouraged questions on details in which a Muslim could choose a way for himself.

103 Allah has not ordained a baḥīrah or a sā'ibah or a waṣīlah or a ḥāmī, but those who disbelieve fabricate a lie against Allah.^a And most of them do not understand. ¹⁰⁴And when it is said to them, Come to what Allah has revealed and to the Messenger, they say: Sufficient for us is that on which we found our fathers. What! even though their fathers knew nothing and had no guidance! ¹⁰⁵O you who believe, take care of your souls — he who goes astray cannot harm you when you are on the right way. To Allah you will all return, so He will inform you of what you did.

106 O you who believe, call to witness between you, when death draws near to one of you, at the time of making the will, two just persons from among you, or two others from among others than you,^b if you are travelling in the land and the calamity of death befalls you. You should detain them after the prayer. Then if you doubt (them), they shall both swear by Allah (saying): We will not take for it a price even for a relative, nor will we hide the testimony of Allah,^c for then certainly we shall be sinners. ¹⁰⁷If it is discovered that they are guilty of a sin, two others shall stand up in their place from among those against whom the first two have been guilty of a sin; so they shall swear by Allah: Certainly our testimony is truer than the testimony of those two, and we have not exceeded the limit, for then surely we should be unjust. ¹⁰⁸Thus it is more probable that they will give true testimony or fear that other oaths will be taken after their oaths. And keep your duty to Allah and listen. And Allah does not guide the transgressing people.

a (103) The liberation of certain animals in honour of idols was a practice among the Arabs, and as Islam uprooted every vestige of idolatry, this practice is condemned here. The terms baḥīrah, sā'ibah, waṣīlah and ḥāmī referred to various types of camels and goat.

b (106-1) The words “others than you” show that the evidence of the followers of other religions is admissible according to the Quran, who may be chosen as witnesses by Muslims.

c (106-2) “The testimony of Allah” stands for the testimony which Allah has enjoined to be borne uprightly.

Section 15: Christian Love of the Material Life

109 On the day when Allah will gather together the messengers and say: What was the response you received? They will say: We have no knowledge. Surely You are the great Knower of the unseen.^a 110When Allah will say: O Jesus, son of Mary, remember My favour to you and to your mother, when I strengthened you with the Holy Spirit; you spoke to people in the cradle and in old age, and when I taught you the Book and the Wisdom and the Torah and the Gospel, and when you determined out of dust (a thing) like the form of a bird by My permission, then you breathed into it and it became a bird by My permission; and you healed the blind and the leprosy by My permission; and when you raised the dead by My permission; and when I withheld the Children of Israel from you when you came to them with clear arguments — but those of them who disbelieved said: This is nothing but clear enchantment.^b

111 And when I revealed to the disciples, saying, Believe in Me and My messenger, they said: We believe, and (ask You to) bear witness that we are submitting ones. 112When the disciples said: Jesus, son of Mary, is your Lord able to send down food^c to us from heaven? He said: Keep your duty to Allah if you are believers. 113They said: We desire to eat of it, and that our hearts should be satisfied, and that we may know that you have indeed spoken truth to us, and that we may be witnesses of it. 114Jesus, son of Mary, said: O Allah, our Lord, send down to us food from

b (110) For being strengthened with the Holy Spirit, see 2:87 footnote; for speaking in the cradle and in old age, see 3:46 footnote; for the miracles spoken of here, see 3:49 footnotes; for the withholding of the Israelites, see 3:54–55 footnotes.

c (112) The word mā'idah, also the title of this chapter, means both a table with food on it and food. It also means knowledge, because knowledge is the nourishment for hearts, as food is the nourishment for bodies.

heaven which should be to us an ever-recurring happiness^a to the first of us and the last of us, and a sign from You, and give us sustenance and You are the Best of the sustainers.^b 115 Allah said: Surely I will send it down to you, but whoever disbelieves afterwards from among you, I will punish him with a punishment with which I will not punish anyone among the nations.^c

Section 16: False Doctrines introduced after Jesus' Death

116 And when Allah will say: O Jesus, son of Mary, did you say to people, Take me and my mother for two gods besides Allah?^d He will say: Glory be to You! It was not for me to say

b (114-2) This passage seems to refer to the well-known prayer for daily bread, which Jesus appears to have included in the famous Lord's prayer on account of the earthly inclinations of his disciples. The food of the earth has no doubt been granted in abundance to Christians, but this has deprived them of the heavenly food. The Muslim's prayer in the opening chapter of the Quran craves not for bread but for the right path. The form of the prayer here, that it should be an ever-recurring happiness, shows clearly that the prayer was not for a table laden with provisions, as is generally supposed. As to its being sent down from heaven, it should be borne in mind that, in the language of the Quran, everything is with God and is sent down to people; see 15:21.

c (115) The terrible calamities which the two World Wars brought to humanity, and especially to the Christian nations, are unprecedented in human history. The calamities which have befallen the world today are due to the mad race for bread and for the wealth of this world. The neglect of the higher values of life and running blindly after material comforts has already brought to the world a ruin which it has never witnessed before.

d (116) From this description of Mary being taken for a god by Christians, some critics of the Quran conclude that it has mistakenly considered the Trinity to consist of the three persons — God, Jesus and Mary. However, the doctrine of the Trinity is not mentioned here, while the divinity of Mary is not mentioned where the Quran speaks of the Trinity. See 4:171 footnote 3 and 5:73 footnote 1. As to Mary being taken for a god, the catechism of the Roman Church includes the following doctrines: "That she is truly the mother of God, and the second Eve, by whose means we have received blessing and life; that she is the mother of Pity and very specially our advocate; that her images are of the utmost utility" (Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th ed., vol. 17, p. 813).

what I had no right to (say). If I had said it, You would indeed have known it. You know what is in my mind, and I do not know what is in Your mind. Surely You are the great Knower of the unseen. ¹¹⁷I said to them nothing but what You commanded me: Serve Allah, my Lord and your Lord; and I was a witness of them so long as I was among them, but when You caused me to die You were the Watcher over them. And You are Witness of all things.^a ¹¹⁸If You punish them, surely they are Your servants; and if You protect them, surely You are the Mighty, the Wise.^b ¹¹⁹Allah will say: This is a day when their truth will profit the truthful ones. For them are Gardens in which rivers flow, abiding therein forever. Allah is well pleased with them and they are well pleased with Allah. That is the mighty achievement. ¹²⁰Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and whatever is in them; and He is Powerful over all things.

a (117) This verse is a conclusive proof that Jesus died a natural death, and is not now alive in heaven. Here Jesus says that so long as he was among his followers he was a witness of their condition, and he did not find them holding the belief in his divinity. The logical conclusion of this statement is that the false doctrine of his divinity was introduced into the Christian faith after his death, after “You caused me to die”; see further 3:55 footnote 1. A saying of the Holy Prophet is recorded in which the Holy Prophet speaks concerning himself in the very words which are here put into the mouth of Jesus. He said that he would be shown on the day of Resurrection some of his followers who had gone against his teachings, and “I would say what the righteous servant said: I was a witness of them so long as I was among them, but when You caused me to die, You were the Watcher over them” (Bukhari, 60:8).

b (118) The words taghfir la-hum (protect them or forgive them) refer to their final protection which will be granted to the Christian nations through acceptance of Islam. If the forgiveness of sins was meant, the Divine attributes referred to would have been those speaking of forgiveness and mercy, as the Forgiving, the Merciful. Instead of that the attributes referred to are the Mighty, the Wise, which generally indicate that some great purpose would be achieved and a transformation would be brought about.

Al-An'ām

Cattle

The name of this chapter refers to certain superstitious and idolatrous practices of the pre-Islamic Arabs (v. 142–144) which were to be abolished to establish the doctrine of Divine Unity. The chapter deals with this doctrine at length, presents evidence to prove its truth and declares its ultimate triumph over idolatry and all other kinds of polytheism. This chapter was revealed at Makkah in the last year of the phase of the Holy Prophet's life there.

Section 1: Ultimate Triumph of Divine Unity

1 Praise be to Allah, Who created the heavens and the earth, and made darkness and light. Yet those who disbelieve set up equals to their Lord.^a 2He it is Who created you from dust, then He decreed a term. And there is a term named with Him; still you doubt.^b 3And He is Allah in the heavens and in the earth. He knows your secret (thoughts) and your open (words), and He knows what you earn.^c a (1) The words that Allah is the Maker of darkness and light are directed against the dualistic doctrine of the Magian religion, which holds light and darkness to be two co-eternal principles. The religion of Islam is the purest monotheism, and thus it holds that the ultimate cause of all things is the Great Maker of the heavens and the earth. Pure monotheism holds out before mankind the bright hope that, as goodness is inherent in the Divine Being, it is also the goal to which the creation moves on; while dualism considers the prevalence of evil to be necessary.

b (2) The first term is that of life and the second the Resurrection. All humans are here said to be created from clay, which means, in the case of Adam as well as human beings generally, that the earth is the original source, and dust the first stage, of life.

c (3) Life in Resurrection, spoken of in the previous verse, is here stated to be the result of man's own actions, which, whether done secretly or openly, are known to God. It is out of what you earn that He shapes a new life for you.

4 And no message comes to them of the messages of their Lord but they turn away from it. ⁵So they rejected the truth when it came to them, but soon will come to them the news of what they mocked. ⁶Do they not see how many a generation We destroyed before them, whom We had established in the earth as We have not established you, and We sent clouds pouring abundant rain on them, and We made rivers flow beneath them? Then We destroyed them for their sins, and raised up after them another generation.

7 And if We had sent down to you a writing on paper, then they had touched it with their hands, those who disbelieve would have said: This is nothing but clear enchantment. ^a ⁸And they say: Why has not an angel been sent down to him? And if We send down an angel, the matter would be decided and then they would not be given respite. ^b ⁹And if We had made him an angel, We would certainly have made him a man, and (thus) made confused to them what they confuse. ^c ¹⁰And messengers before you were indeed mocked, but that which they derided befell those of them who scoffed. ^d a (7) If truth had been sent down to man in the physical form of a book, and had not been revealed to the mind of man, it could not bring about a transformation in the minds of human beings. But even if it had taken a physical shape, they would have called it an enchantment, and still rejected it.

b (8) They wanted to see the spiritual reality of the angel in a physical form. The presence of angels was felt by the righteous in the transformation which they worked in their hearts but the hearts of the wicked were impervious to all good, and hence the only form in which the angels could make their presence felt to them was by punishing them for their evil deeds. Hence the coming of the angels to the guilty is always spoken of in the Quran as being synonymous with the infliction of the punishment with which they were threatened. Compare 2:210 and v. 158 of this chapter.

c (9) If an angel were made a messenger to mankind, he would doubtless appear in the form of a man as the physical eye cannot see angels. Thus there would still be the same confusion in their minds as when a human being was entrusted with the Divine message. Moreover only a human being could serve as a model for people.

d (10) They ridiculed the idea of the Prophet and the believers being triumphant. Truth had always triumphed, they are told, and it would triumph even now.

Section 2: Greatness of Divine Mercy

11 Say: Travel in the land, then see what was the end of the rejectors. ¹²Say: To whom belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth? Say: To Allah. He has ordained mercy on Himself.^a He will certainly gather you on the day of Resurrection — there is no doubt about it. Those who have lost their souls, they will not believe. ¹³And to Him belongs whatever dwells in the night and the day. And He is the Hearing, the Knowing.

14 Say: Shall I take for a friend other than Allah, the Originator of the heavens and the earth, and He feeds and is not fed? Say: I am commanded to be the first of those who submit. And do not be of those who set up partners (with Allah). ¹⁵Say: Surely I fear, if I disobey my Lord, the punishment of a grievous day. ¹⁶He from whom it is averted on that day, Allah indeed has had mercy on him. And this is a manifest achievement. ¹⁷And if Allah touch you with affliction, there is none to remove it but He. And if He touch you with good, He is Powerful over all things.^b ¹⁸And He is the Supreme, above His servants. And He is the Wise, the Aware.

19 Say: What thing is of most weight in testimony? Say: Allah is witness between you and me. And this Quran has been revealed to me that with it I may warn you and whomsoever it reaches.^c Do you really bear witness that there are other gods with Allah? Say: I do not bear witness. Say: He is only One God, and surely I am innocent of what you set up (with Him). ²⁰Those whom We have given the Book recognize him as they recognize their sons.^d Those who have lost their souls, they will not believe.

a (12) The words He has ordained mercy on Himself imply that mercy is in fact His very nature. The evidence of Divine mercy is manifest in the physical world: He has created all things for the benefit of man. Would He not deal equally mercifully with man in his spiritual needs and send a revelation to guide him?

b (17) The meaning is: Allah, being All-powerful, will bring good to you.

c (19) The Holy Prophet was thus a warner, not for the Arabs only, but for all people whom the Quran may reach, i.e. for the whole world.

d (20) For as they recognize their sons, see 2:146 and footnote.

Section 3: Polytheists' Witness against themselves

21 And who is more unjust than one who forges a lie about Allah, or calls His messages a lie? Surely the wrongdoers will not be successful. ²²And on the day We gather them all together, then We shall say to those who set up partners (with Allah): Where are your associate-gods whom you asserted? ²³Then their excuse would be nothing but that they would say: By Allah, our Lord! we did not set up partners. ²⁴See how they lie against their own souls, and what they forged shall fail them! ²⁵And some of them listen to you and We have cast veils over their hearts so that they do not understand it and a deafness into their ears. And (even) if they see every sign they will not believe in it.^a So much so that when they come to you they only dispute with you — those who disbelieve say: This is nothing but stories of the ancients.

26 And they forbid (others) from it, and they keep away from it; and they ruin none but their own souls while they do not perceive. ²⁷And if you could see when they are made to stand before the Fire, and say: If only we were sent back, we would not reject the messages of our Lord but would be from among the believers. ²⁸No, what they concealed before will become manifest to them. And if they were sent back, they would certainly go back to what they are forbidden, and surely they are liars.^b ²⁹And they say: There is nothing but our life of this world and we shall not be raised again. ³⁰And if you could see when they are made to stand before their Lord! He will say: Is not this the truth? They will say: Certainly, by our Lord! He will say: Taste then the punishment because you disbelieved.

a (25) Veils were cast over their hearts because they would not believe even if they saw all the signs. As the words that follow show, they came to the Prophet, not for the purpose of listening to and pondering over what he said, but to dispute with him. The veils were due to their own actions; see 2:10 and footnote.

b (28) The evil consequences of their deeds were hidden in this life, but they will become manifest in the life after death. And since, if they were sent back, the evil consequences of evil deeds would again be hidden from the physical eye they would revert to evil deeds.

Section 4: Rejection of the Truth

31 They are losers indeed who reject the meeting with Allah, until when the hour comes upon them suddenly,^a they will say: O our grief for our neglecting it! And they bear their burdens on their backs. Now surely evil is what they bear! ³²And this world's life is but an idle sport and play. And certainly the abode of the Hereafter is better for those who keep their duty. Do you not then understand? ³³We know indeed that what they say grieves you, for surely they do not call you a liar, but the wrongdoers deny the messages of Allah.^b ³⁴And messengers indeed were rejected before you, but they were patient when rejected and persecuted, until Our help came to them. And there is none to change the words of Allah.^c And there has already come to you some information about the messengers. ³⁵And if their turning away is hard on you, then, if you can, seek an opening into the earth or a ladder to heaven, to bring them a sign!^d And if Allah pleased, He would certainly have gathered them all to guidance, so do not be from among the ignorant. ³⁶Only those accept who listen. And (as for) the dead, Allah will raise them, then to Him they will be returned.^e

b (33) The Holy Prophet was known among them as al-Amīn, i.e., the Faithful or the Truthful one. His worst enemies at the height of their enmity admitted that he had never told a lie. It was after he received the Divine revelation that he was called a liar, and hence it was really a denial of the Divine revelation, not a denial as to the Prophet's truthfulness.

c (34) The context shows that by the words of Allah here are meant the prophecies foretelling the triumph of Truth and the overthrow of all opposition.

d (35) By sign is meant a sign that should bring all to guidance. Their doom was pronounced, and that word must be fulfilled, as affirmed in the previous verse; but the demand of the people to be overawed into an immediate submission to the Prophet by a sign was not in accordance with the Divine Law.

e (36) Those addressed by the Holy Prophet are here divided into two classes: (1) those who listen: they accept him and become believers; (2) those who are spiritually dead and pay no heed to his warning. Even the latter are not to be despaired of, for Allah will raise them too to spiritual life. Their being returned to Allah stands here for their ultimate acceptance of the Truth.

37 And they say: Why has not a sign been sent down to him from his Lord? Say: Surely Allah is Able to send down a sign, but most of them do not know.^a 38 And there is no animal in the earth, nor a bird that flies on its two wings, but (they are) communities like yourselves. We have not neglected anything in the Book. Then to their Lord will they be gathered.^b 39 And those who reject Our messages are deaf and dumb, in darkness. Whom Allah pleases He leaves in error. And whom He pleases He places on the right way. 40 Say: See, if the punishment of Allah overtake you or the hour come upon you, will you call on others than Allah, if you are truthful? 41 No, Him you call upon, so He removes that for which you pray, if He pleases, and you forget what you set up as partners (with Him).

42 And indeed We sent (messengers) to nations before you then We seized them with distress and affliction that they might humble themselves. 43 Yet why did they not, when Our punishment came to them, humble themselves? But their hearts hardened and the devil made all that they did seem good to them. 44 Then, when they neglected what they had been admonished with, We opened for them the gates of all things.^c Until, when they rejoiced in what they were given, We seized them suddenly; then they were in

b (38) Other creatures are all provided for by Allah as human beings are, so far as physical needs are concerned. But man's nature aspires to something higher, and it is to satisfy that spiritual craving that prophets are sent. This verse, moreover, points, as it were, to two classes of people — those who, like beasts, are wholly bent on earth and cannot rise, and those who rise like birds, soaring upward to the higher spiritual regions. The concluding words of the verse — then to their Lord will they be gathered — are in reference to mankind and, as compared with other animals, point to the Higher life, the life eternal in God. There is no mention here or anywhere else in the Quran of the lower animals being raised to a new life for Judgment.

utter despair! ⁴⁵So the roots of the people who did wrong were cut off. And praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds.^a 46 Say: Have you considered that if Allah should take away your hearing and your sight and seal your hearts, who is the god besides Allah that can bring it to you? See how We repeat the messages yet they turn away! ⁴⁷Say: See, if the punishment of Allah should overtake you suddenly or openly, will any be destroyed but the wrongdoing people? ⁴⁸And We do not send messengers but as bearers of good news and warners; then whoever believes and acts aright, they shall have no fear, nor shall they grieve. ⁴⁹And as for those who reject Our messages, punishment will afflict them because they transgressed. ⁵⁰Say: I do not say to you, I have with me the treasures of Allah, nor do I know the unseen, nor do I say to you that I am an angel; I follow only what is revealed to me. Say: Are the blind and the seeing alike? Do you not then reflect?^b

51 And warn with it those who fear that they will be gathered to their Lord — there is no protector for them, nor any intercessor besides Him — so that they may keep their duty. ⁵²And do not drive away those who call upon their Lord, morning and evening, desiring only His pleasure. Neither are you accountable for them at all, nor are they accountable for you at all, that you should drive them away and thus be one of the wrongdoers.^c ⁵³And thus do We

b (50) Appearing among a superstitious and ignorant people, the Holy Prophet could have claimed any supernatural powers for himself. But he told them plainly that he was a man who had no treasures, nor did he lay claim as a man to know the secrets of the future, nor did he profess to be any more than a mortal. Allah had revealed His will to him, and he faithfully followed and translated into practice everything that he received from on High. And as he himself was, so he wanted others to be. The unique greatness of the Prophet lies in the fact that he never tried to put himself before people as superhuman.

c (52) This verse was revealed when some leading Quraish expressed their

try some of them by others so that they say: Are these they upon whom Allah has conferred benefit from among us? ^a Does not Allah best know the grateful? ⁵⁴And when those who believe in Our messages come to you, say: Peace be on you, your Lord has ordained mercy on Himself, (so) that if anyone of you does evil in ignorance, then turns after that and acts aright, then He is Forgiving, Merciful. ⁵⁵And thus do We make distinct the messages so that the way of the guilty may become clear.

Section 7: Divine Judgment

56 Say: I am forbidden to serve those whom you call upon besides Allah. Say: I do not follow your low desires, for then indeed I should go astray and should not be of the guided ones. ⁵⁷Say: Surely I have manifest proof from my Lord and you call it a lie. I do not have with me (the power to bring) what you seek to hasten. The judgment is only Allah's. He relates the truth and He is the Best of deciders. ⁵⁸Say: If I had with me (the power to bring) what you seek to hasten, the matter would have certainly been decided between you and me. And Allah best knows the wrongdoers.

59 And with Him are the treasures of the unseen — none knows them but He. And He knows what is in the land and the sea. And no leaf falls but He knows it, nor is there a grain in the darkness of the earth, nor anything green or dry, but (it is all) in a clear book. ^b ⁶⁰And He it is Who takes your souls at night, and He willingness to accept the Prophet if the poorer Muslims were not allowed to remain in his company at the time. The poor and the rich are here brought to the same level; they have equal claims to learn and practise the truth. Truth is equally accessible to all. To the religion of Islam, no aristocracy is known. Before the Great Master the differences of rank, wealth and colour sink into insignificance, and therefore before Allah's Messenger, as before Allah Himself, they must all stand upon one level. Everyone is answerable for what he does is the golden principle preached by Islam.

a (53) The simple and decisive answer given above no doubt wounded the pride of the wealthy Quraish, who were required to sit along with the poor slaves whom they never treated as human beings, and thus they were tried.

b (59) The clear book is the great law of cause and effect. The falling of the knows what you earn by day, then He raises you up in it that an appointed term may be fulfilled. Then to Him is your return, then He will inform you of what you did.

61 And He is the Supreme above His servants, and He sends keepers over you; until when death comes to one of you, Our messengers cause him to die, and they are not remiss. 62Then are they sent back to Allah, their Master, the True one. Now surely His is the judgment and He is swiftest in taking account.

63 Say: Who is it that delivers you from the calamities of the land and the sea? (When) you call upon Him, in humility and in secret: If He deliver us from this, we will certainly be of the grateful ones. 64Say: Allah delivers you from this and from every distress, yet you set up partners (with Him). 65Say: He has the power to send on you a punishment from above you or from beneath your feet, or to throw you into confusion, (making you) of different factions, and make some of you taste the violence of others. See how We repeat the messages that they may understand!^a leaf indicates that its power to draw nourishment has come to an end; thus do individuals and nations fall. The grain in the darkness of the earth stands for the mission of the Prophet, for that grain was destined to sprout forth, growing into a tree of exceptional proportions. The “green” indicates those people that prosper and the “dry” those that must fall off.

a (65) The three forms of punishment were witnessed by the Holy Prophet’s opponents later on. A punishment from above took the form of a storm during the well-known battle of the Allies, when an army between ten and twenty thousand strong took to flight on account of a great storm; a punishment from beneath took the form of a drought which brought great affliction upon the people of Makkah for seven years; while they were made to taste the violence at the hands of the Muslims in the battles which they themselves started and which brought about the final disruption of the power of the Quraish. Applied to the modern West, the punishment from above and punishment from below are, respectively, the tyranny of the bourgeois and the tyranny of the proletariat. The capitalists first tyrannized labour and then communism wreaked vengeance on the capitalists. To these two punishments is now added a third. The whole world is divided into parties which aim at each other’s destruction and the violence of man against man has reached a 66 And your people call it a lie and it is the Truth. Say: I am not put in charge of you. ⁶⁷For every prophecy is a term, and you will soon come to know (it).^a 68And when you see those who talk nonsense about Our messages, withdraw from them until they enter into some other discourse. And if the devil cause you to forget, then do not sit after recollection with the unjust people. 69And those who keep their duty are not accountable for them at all but (theirs) is only to remind; perhaps they may guard against evil.

70 And leave those who take their religion for a play and an idle sport, and whom this world's life has deceived, and remind (people) with this (message) in case a soul be destroyed for what it has earned. It has besides Allah no friend nor intercessor, and though it offer every compensation, it will not be accepted from it. Those are they who are destroyed for what they earn. For them is a drink of boiling water and a painful punishment, because they disbelieved.

Section 9: Abraham's Argument for Divine Unity

71 Say: Shall we call, besides Allah, on that which does not benefit us nor harm us, and shall we be turned back on our heels after Allah has guided us? Like one whom the devils cause to follow his low desires, in bewilderment in the earth — he has companions who call him to the right way (saying), Come to us. Say: Surely the guidance of Allah, that is the (true) guidance. And we are commanded to submit to the Lord of the worlds, ⁷²and that you should keep up prayer and keep your duty to Him. And He it is to Whom you shall be gathered. ⁷³And He it is Who created the peak unthought of by the world. Whole cities with their millions of residents are turned into graves in the twinkling of an eye, and this wholesale destruction of man by man is considered as the greatest feat of material civilization.

a (67) The prophecy of the vanquishment of the powerful opponents of Islam is declared with even greater emphasis than in the earlier stage of the Prophet's mission, despite the apparent triumph of opposition to his cause which had succeeded in scattering the few people who accepted Islam.

heavens and the earth with truth. And when He says, Be, it is.^a His word is the truth and His is the kingdom on the day when the trumpet is blown.^b The Knower of the unseen and the seen; and He is the Wise, the Aware.

74 And when Abraham said to his sire, Āzar:^c Do you take idols for gods? Surely I see you and your people in manifest error. 75 And thus did We show Abraham the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and that he might have certainty.^d 76 So when the night overshadowed him, he saw a star. He said: Is this my Lord?^e So when it set, he said: I do not love the setting ones. 77 Then when he saw the moon rising, he said: Is this my Lord? So when it set, a (73-1) These words are generally used when the bringing about of a great change — a change which seems to be impossible to people — is meant.

b (73-2) The reference may be either to the Resurrection when human beings will be raised to be brought to judgment, or the great spiritual resurrection which was to be brought about through the Holy Prophet when the whole of Arabia was destined to receive a new life, the life spiritual, or perhaps to the still greater spiritual resurrection when the whole of humanity was destined to receive a new life through the triumph of Islam.

c (74) Whether Āzar was the father of Abraham, or his grandfather or uncle, is a much disputed point. The word ab means a father as well as an ancestor, and in 2:133 it is applied to an uncle because there Ishmael is spoken of as an ab of Jacob. Abraham's father (wālid) is indicated in 14:41 to be a believer, while the sire (ab) is elsewhere mentioned as having stuck to idolatry till his death (9:114). Hence I prefer sire as the significance of the word.

d (75) Showing Abraham the kingdom of the heavens and the earth signifies granting him an insight into the Divine laws of nature working in the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. This insight had convinced him that Allah was the real controller of the universe, while the sun, the moon, the stars and other heavenly bodies, were only His creation and subject to His laws.

e (76) These words, which literally mean this is my Lord, do not contain Abraham's conviction. The words are either uttered by way of surprise or, as translated here, the phrase may be interrogatory, expressing disapproval. It should be borne in mind that Abraham never worshipped idols or the heavenly bodies like his people. He has already been spoken of in v. 74 as denouncing the idol-worship of his people, and in v. 75 as possessing certainty of faith in One God. Further on, we find it clearly stated in v. 83 that what is related here was an argument by which Abraham tried to convince his people that they worshipped false deities, which were themselves subject to Divine laws.

he said: If my Lord had not guided me, I should certainly be of the people who are in error. ⁷⁸Then when he saw the sun rising, he said: Is this my Lord? Is this the greatest? So when it set, he said: My people, I am clear of what you set up (with Allah). ⁷⁹Surely I have turned myself, being upright, wholly to Him Who originated the heavens and the earth, and I am not of those who set up partners (with Allah).

80 And his people disputed with him. He said: Do you dispute with me respecting Allah and He has guided me indeed? And I do not fear in any way those that you set up with Him, unless my Lord please. My Lord comprehends all things in His knowledge. Will you not then be mindful? ⁸¹And how should I fear what you have set up (with Him), while you do not fear to set up partners with Allah for which He has sent down to you no authority? Which then of the two parties is surer of security, if you know? ⁸²Those who believe and do not mix up their faith with wrongdoing — for them is security and they go aright.

Section 10: Prophets among Abraham's Descendants

83 And this was Our argument which We gave to Abraham against his people. We exalt in degrees whom We please. Surely your Lord is Wise, Knowing. ⁸⁴And We gave him Isaac and Jacob. Each did We guide; and Noah did We guide before, and of his descendants, David and Solomon and Job and Joseph and Moses and Aaron. And thus do We reward those who do good (to others), ⁸⁵and Zacharias and John and Jesus and Elias; each one (of them) was of the righteous, ⁸⁶and Ishmael and Elisha and Jonah and Lot; and each one (of them) We made to excel the people; ⁸⁷and some of their fathers and their descendants and their brethren. And We chose them and guided them to the right way.

88 This is Allah's guidance with which He guides whom He pleases of His servants. And if they had set up partners (with Him), all that they did would have been fruitless. ⁸⁹These are they to whom We gave the Book and authority and prophecy.^a Therefore if these disbelieve in it, We have indeed entrusted it to a people who are not disbelievers in it. ⁹⁰These are they whom Allah guided, so follow their guidance. Say: I do not ask you for any reward for it. It is nothing but a Reminder for the nations.^b

Section 11: Truth of Divine Revelation

91 And they do not honour Allah with the honour due to Him, when they say: Allah has not revealed anything to a mortal.^c Say: Who revealed the Book which Moses brought, a light and a guidance to people — you make it into (scattered) papers,^d which you a (89) Each one of the prophets was given three things. The first was the Kitāb, the Book, or the Divine revelation which the prophet was granted to guide people aright. The second is called ḥukm, which means authority to judge. This shows that every prophet received authority directly from God, and it was by Divine authority that he judged his people. The third is nubuwwat, which means prophethood or the gift of prophecy. The Book contains directions for guidance of the people and nubuwwat is the prophetic part which is meant to strengthen faith. Thus the Holy Prophet Muhammad was granted the gift of prophecy long before he was granted the Book which began with the words, Read in the name of your Lord (96:1). Further there is a vast number of his prophecies which are contained in the Hadith and which do not form a part of the Book, the Quran.

b (90) The Prophet is told to follow the guidance of all the earlier prophets because his message was for all the nations to whom previous prophets had separately come. Hence the Quran is called a Reminder, showing that it was meant for all the nations, to whom it was a reminder of what they had received before. The Prophet is, in fact, here told that he was now the representative of all the prophets that had gone before him, and therefore possessed all the excellences which were granted to those prophets separately.

c (91-1) The words Allah has not revealed anything to a mortal may mean a total denial of God revealing Himself to man or simply a denial of revelation to the Holy Prophet. The Jews and the Christians are told in this verse that the same God Who revealed a book to Moses, containing a clear prophecy of a prophet like him, has now in fulfilment of that prophecy sent the like of Moses. Their only answer to that clear prophecy was that they would not mention it or talk of it at all — and you conceal much. The deniers of Divine revelation are also told, more generally, that the proof of revelation was in the knowledge which it gave — you are taught what neither you nor your fathers knew.

show and you conceal much? And you are taught what neither you nor your fathers knew. Say: Allah. Then leave them sporting in their idle talk. ⁹²And this is a Blessed Book We have revealed, verifying what is (already) before it, and that you may warn the mother-town ^a and those around it. And those who believe in the Hereafter believe in it, and they keep a guard over their prayers.

93 And who is more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah, or says, Revelation has been granted to me, while nothing has been revealed to him; and he who says: I can reveal the like of what Allah has revealed? ^b And if you could see when the wrongdoers are in the agonies of death and the angels stretch forth their hands, (saying): Yield up your souls. This day you are awarded a punishment of disgrace because you spoke against Allah other than truth, and (because) you scorned His messages. ⁹⁴And certainly you have come to Us one by one as We created you at first, and you have left behind your backs what We gave you. And We do not see with you your intercessors about whom you asserted that they were (Allah's) partners in respect to you. Certainly the ties between you are now cut off and what you asserted has failed you.

95 Surely Allah causes the grain and the date-stone to germinate. He brings forth the living from the dead and He is the bringer forth of the dead from the living. That is Allah. How are you then turned away (from truth)! ^c ⁹⁶He is the Cleaver of the daybreak;

a (92) Umm al-Qurā or the mother of the towns is the title by which Makkah is known. The reason is not only that it was both the political and the spiritual centre of Arabia, but also because it was destined to be the universal spiritual centre — the real mother of the whole world.

b (93) These words declare the Holy Prophet free of having forged a lie against Allah. The claim "I can reveal the like of what Allah has revealed" are the words of those who refuse to believe in the truth of Divine revelation.

c (95) The preaching of the Holy Prophet is likened to the sowing of the seed which, though to all appearance it is lost in the earth, soon springs forth into a large tree. The bringing forth the living from the dead is the bringing forth a living and He has made the night for rest, and the sun and the moon for reckoning. That is the measuring of the Mighty, the Knowing.^a 97And He it is Who has made the stars for you that you might follow the right way by them in the darkness of the land and the sea. Indeed We have made plain the signs for a people who know.^b 98And He it is Who has brought you into being from a single soul, then there is (for you) an abode and a repository.^c Indeed We have made plain the signs for a people who understand.

99 And He it is Who sends down water from the clouds, then We bring forth with it buds of all (plants), then We bring forth from it green (foliage), from which We produce clustered grain; and of the date-palm, of the sheaths of it, come forth clusters (of dates) within reach; and gardens of grapes and the olive and the pomegranate, alike and unlike. Look at the fruit of it when it bears fruit and the ripening of it. Surely there are signs in this for a people who believe! 100And they regard the jinn to be partners with Allah,^d and He created them, and they falsely attribute to Him sons and daughters without knowledge. Glory be to Him, and supremely exalted is He above what they ascribe (to Him)!

people from the spiritually dead Arabs, and the bringing forth the dead from the living alludes to the spiritual death of those who had been previously granted spiritual life through Divine revelation.

a (96) The darkness prevailing in the earth would soon be dispelled, and would give place to light, even as, with the break of the morning, darkness gives place to light.

b (97) The Holy Prophet is likened to the sun, and those who receive light from him and transmit it to others are likened to the stars. The analogy is that He Who makes light to guide you physically could not have neglected your spiritual guidance.

c (98) The abode may indicate this life and the repository the grave.

d (100) The reference is either to the dualistic doctrine of the Magi, who thought that while Allah was the creator of good, the devil was the creator of evil, or to the Arab belief that the jinn had a hand in the transaction of their affairs, or in bringing them good fortune or ill luck.

Section 13: Gradual Progress

101 Wonderful Originator of the heavens and the earth! How could He have a son when He has no consort? And He created everything, and He is the Knower of all things.^a 102That is Allah, your Lord. There is no god but He, the Creator of all things; therefore serve Him, and He has charge of all things. 103Vision cannot comprehend Him, and He comprehends (all) vision; and He is the Knower of subtleties, the Aware.^b

104 Clear proofs have indeed come to you from your Lord; so whoever sees, it is for the good of his own soul; and whoever is blind, it is to its harm. And I am not a keeper over you. 105And thus do We repeat the messages, and that they may say, You have studied; and that We may make it clear to a people who know. 106Follow what is revealed to you from your Lord — there is no god but He; and turn away from those who set up partners (with Allah). 107And if Allah had pleased, they would not have set up others (with Him). And We have not appointed you a keeper over them, and you are not in charge of them.

108 And do not abuse those whom they call upon besides Allah, in case, exceeding the limits, they abuse Allah through ignorance.^c Thus to every people have We made their deeds seem good; then to their Lord is their return so He will inform them of what they did. 109And they swear their strongest oaths by Allah that if a sign comes to them they would certainly believe in it. Say: Signs are with Allah. And what should make you know that when they come they do not believe?^d 110And We turn their hearts a (101) This verse and those that follow describe the transcendental Unity of the Divine Being. To attribute a son to Him is to acknowledge that He had a consort; otherwise the word son will have to be taken simply as a metaphor.

b (103) The physical vision of man, working as it does only within narrow limits and being able only to see bodies, cannot comprehend the Infinite One. He is the all-pervading Spirit, and can be seen only with the spiritual eye.

c (108) Here Muslims are forbidden to abuse even the idols of other people, though their worship is condemned in the strongest terms.

d (109) Many signs of the Holy Prophet's truth had appeared while he was and their sights, just as they did not believe in it the first time; and We leave them in their inordinacy, blindly wandering on.^a

111 And even if We send down to them the angels and the dead speak to them and We bring together all things before them, they would not believe unless Allah please, but most of them are ignorant.^b ¹¹²And thus did We make for every prophet an enemy, the devils from among the people and the jinn, some of them inspiring others with gilded speech to deceive (them).^c And if your Lord pleased, they would not do it, so leave them alone with what they forge — ¹¹³And that the hearts of those who do not believe in the Hereafter may incline to it, and that they may be pleased with it, and that they may earn what they are earning.

114 Shall I then seek a judge other than Allah, when He it is Who has sent down to you the Book fully explained. And those still at Makkah, but they still went on demanding signs. The reply, “signs are with Allah”, means that the sign which they demanded would be shown and that Allah had the power to show all kinds of signs. But even then they would not believe. The first sign of the overthrow of the power of the Quraish appeared in the battle of Badr, but they did not believe even then.

a (110) The turning of their hearts and sights is Allah's leaving them in their inordinacy, as explained by the verse itself. And even this is due to their own action in rejecting the truth. When an attitude of enmity is assumed towards the truth, the heart becomes estranged from it, and this growing estrangement is termed the turning away of the heart from it.

b (111) There are always some people who turn a deaf ear to every argument, and it is of such leaders of evil that this verse speaks; see next verse. The coming of the angels stands for the execution of the decree of their punishment. The speaking of the dead refers either to the raising of the spiritually dead to life (see v. 122), or to the evidence of those who had passed away before the Prophet, being given through their writings. And lastly, by the bringing together of all things is meant the bringing together of things relating to their punishment. The meaning is that some of the opponents are so blind that the clearest of signs or proofs would not convince them.

whom We have given the Book know that it is revealed by your Lord with truth, so do not be one of the disputers. ¹¹⁵And the word of your Lord has been accomplished truly and justly. There is none who can change His words; and He is the Hearer, the Knower.^a ¹¹⁶And if you obey most of those in the earth, they will lead you astray from Allah's way. They follow nothing but conjecture, and they only lie. ¹¹⁷Surely your Lord — He knows best who goes astray from His way, and He knows best the guided ones.

118 Eat, then, of that on which Allah's name has been mentioned, if you are believers in His messages.^b ¹¹⁹And what reason have you that you should not eat of that on which Allah's name is mentioned, when He has already made plain to you what He has forbidden to you — except what you are compelled to.^c And surely many lead (people) astray by their low desires through ignorance. Surely your Lord — He best knows the transgressors. ¹²⁰And avoid open sins and secret ones. Surely they who earn sin will be rewarded for what they have earned.^d ¹²¹And do not eat of that on which Allah's name has not been mentioned, and that is surely a transgression.^e And certainly the devils inspire their friends

b (118) The establishment of the doctrine of Divine Unity, which is the object of this chapter, required the abolition of all idolatrous practices, among which was the practice of slaughtering animals in the names of idols. It is allowed to Muslims to slaughter animals for food, but Allah's name must be mentioned when the animal is slaughtered. This is also a reminder to man that this act of the taking of a life, even though it is the life of an animal, is made lawful only by Divine permission, for the attainment of a necessary purpose.

c (119) The reference in these words is to what is said in an earlier revelation; see 16:115. The same subject is again referred to in 6:145, as also in 2:173 and in greater detail in 5:3, both of these being revelations at Madinah.

d (120) The Muslim is here commanded to consider open and secret sins to be equally hateful. In fact there are very few people who commit open sins as compared with those who are guilty of secret sins.

e (121) These words are explained by the majority as containing only a prohibition against the eating of that which is slaughtered in the name of others than Allah.

to contend with you; and if you obey them, you will surely be those who set up partners (with Allah).

Section 15: The Chief Opponents

122 Is he who was dead, then We raised him to life and made for him a light by which he walks among the people, like him whose likeness is that of one in darkness from which he cannot come forth? ^a Thus their doings are made to seem good to the disbelievers. ¹²³And thus have We made in every town the leaders of its guilty ones, that they may make plans in it. And they plan only against themselves, and they do not perceive. ¹²⁴And when a message comes to them they say: We will not believe till we are given the like of what Allah's messengers are given. Allah best knows where to place His message. Humiliation from Allah and severe punishment will surely befall the guilty for their planning.

125 So whomsoever Allah intends to guide, He expands his breast for Islam, and whomsoever He intends to leave in error, He makes his breast close (and) narrow as though he were ascending upwards. Thus does Allah lay uncleanness on those who do not believe. ^b ¹²⁶And this is the path of your Lord, (a) straight (path). Indeed We have made the messages clear for a people who are mindful. ¹²⁷Theirs is the abode of peace with their Lord, and He is their Friend because of what they do.

128 And on the day when He will gather them all together: O assembly of jinn, ^c you took away a great part of the people. And a (122) These words explain what is meant by the raising of the dead to life through the prophets. Through the Quran the dead were raised to life and given a light by which they showed the way to others. The concluding words of the verse show that, despite witnessing this great transformation, the leaders of mischief went on opposing the Truth as if it were a good deed.

b (125) The concluding words of the verse show that uncleanness of the heart, which makes a person's breast close and narrow, as though he were ascending upwards, is the result of a man's own disbelief and rejection of the truth.

c (128-1) The word jinn is derived from janna, meaning he covered or concealed or hid or protected. The class of beings that goes under this name stands in the Quran for the spirits of evil or the beings that invite man to evil, as opposed their friends from among the people will say: Our Lord, some of us profited by others and we have reached our appointed term which You appointed for us. He will say: The Fire is your abode — you shall abide in it, except as Allah please.^a Surely your Lord is Wise, Knowing. ¹²⁹And thus do We make some of the wrongdoers to befriend others on account of what they earn.

130 O community of jinn and people, did not messengers come to you from among you, relating to you My messages and warning you of the meeting of this day of yours?^b They will say: We bear witness against ourselves. And this world's life deceived them, and they will bear witness against themselves that they were disbelievers. ¹³¹This is because your Lord would not destroy towns unjustly while their people are negligent.^c ¹³²And for all are degrees according to their doings. And your Lord is not heedless of what they do. ¹³³And your Lord is the Self-sufficient One, the Lord of mercy. If He please, He may remove you, and make whom to the angels, who invite him to good, both being alike invisible to the human eye. But there is a wider use of the word in Arabic literature as well as in the Quran. One signification of the word is explained under 72:1. But the word is also applied in the Quran to powerful leaders who, through their importance and detachment from the masses, do not mix freely with them, so they remain distant or “hidden from their eyes”. Verses 129–131 show that by the jinn here are meant the human leaders of evil.

a (128-2) The words except as Allah please indicate that those in hell shall after all be delivered from it.

b (130) By calling the jinn and people a single community, the Quran has made it clear that the jinn and the people spoken of here are not two different classes of beings. Again, the jinn and the people are told that messengers had come to them from among them, i.e. from among jinn and people. But as the only messengers spoken of in the Quran and other reliable histories of prophets are those who belong to mankind, it follows that the jinn spoken of here belong to mankind, and not to any other class of creation.

c (131) That is, while the reminder and the warning had not yet come to them. Or, the words mean that it is not for negligence that nations are destroyed; it is only when they become wrongdoers and spread mischief in the world that they are overtaken by punishment in this life.

He pleases successors after you, just as He raised you up from the offspring of other people. ¹³⁴Surely what you are promised will come to pass, and you cannot escape (it). ¹³⁵Say: My people, act according to your ability, I too am acting; so you will soon come to know for whom is the (good) end of the abode. Surely the wrongdoers will not succeed.

136 And they set apart a portion for Allah out of what He has created of crops and cattle, and say: This is for Allah — so they assert — and this for our associate-gods. Then that which is for their associate-gods does not reach Allah, and that which is for Allah reaches their associate-gods. Evil is what they judge.^a ¹³⁷And thus their associate-gods have made it seem good to many idolaters the killing of their children, that they may cause them to perish and obscure for them their religion.^b And if Allah had pleased, they would not have done it, so leave them alone with what they forge.

138 And they say: Such and such cattle and crops are prohibited — none shall eat them except such as we please — so they assert — and cattle whose backs are forbidden, and cattle on which they would not mention Allah's name^c — forging a lie against Him. He will recompense them for what they forge. ¹³⁹And they say: What is in the wombs of such and such cattle is reserved for our males, and forbidden to our wives, and if it be a (136) It was a custom among the Arab idolaters to set apart certain portions of the produce of their fields and their cattle, one portion for Allah and another portion for the idols. The portion for idols was always applied to their use, but the portion set apart for Allah, though ordinarily spent to feed the poor and the needy, was in certain cases diverted to the use of the idols. The portion for the idols was handed over to the priests.

b (137) This refers to the practice of killing or burying alive the female children, and also to the human sacrifices to idols, as they sometimes vowed that, if they had a number of sons, they would sacrifice one of them to an idol. By introducing these superstitious and evil customs they were making confused and obscure the true religion — the religion of the service of One God.

c (138) That is, such as were sacrificed in the name of idols. All these along with what is said in the next two verses are denounced as being idolatrous practices.

stillborn, they are partners in it. He will reward them for their (false) attribution. Surely He is Wise, Knowing. ¹⁴⁰They are losers indeed who kill their children foolishly without knowledge, and forbid what Allah has provided for them, forging a lie against Allah. They indeed go astray, and are not guided.

Section 17: Idolaters' Self-imposed Prohibitions

141 And He it is Who produces gardens, trellised and untrellised, and palms and seed-produce of which the fruits are of various sorts, and olives and pomegranates like and unlike. Eat of its fruit when it bears fruit, and pay the due of it on the day of its reaping, and do not be extravagant. Surely He does not love the extravagant; ¹⁴²and of the cattle (He has created) some for burden and some for slaughter. Eat of what Allah has given you and do not follow the footsteps of the devil. Surely he is your open enemy — ¹⁴³eight in pairs — of the sheep two and of the goats two. Say: Has He forbidden the two males or the two females or what the wombs of the two females contain? Inform me with knowledge, if you are truthful;^a ¹⁴⁴and of the camels two and of the cows two. Say: Has He forbidden the two males or the two females or what the wombs of the two females contain? Or were you witnesses when Allah enjoined you this? Who is then more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah to lead people astray without knowledge? Surely Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

145 Say: I do not find in what is revealed to me anything forbidden for an eater to eat of, except if it is what dies of itself, or blood poured forth, or flesh of swine — for that surely is unclean — or what is a transgression, other than the name of Allah having been invoked on it.^b But whoever is driven by necessity, not desiring a (143) The Arabs considered those animals which were otherwise lawful for them to be unlawful in particular cases. These practices, which were all superstitious, resulting from idol-worship, are here condemned.

b (145) The reason for the prohibition of what dies of itself and blood and nor exceeding the limit, then surely your Lord is Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁴⁶And to those who are Jews We forbade every animal having claws, and We forbade them the fat of oxen and sheep, except such as was on their backs or the entrails or what was mixed with bones. This was a punishment We gave them on account of their rebellion, and We are surely Truthful. ¹⁴⁷But if they reject you, then say: Your Lord is the Lord of all-encompassing mercy; and His punishment cannot be averted from the guilty people.^a 148 Those who set up partners (with Allah) say: If Allah pleased we would not have set up partners (with Him) nor our fathers, nor would we have made anything unlawful. Thus did those before them reject (the truth) until they tasted Our punishment. Say: Have you any knowledge so you would bring it forth to us? You only follow a conjecture and you only tell lies. ¹⁴⁹Say: Then Allah's is the conclusive argument; so if He had pleased, He would have guided you all.^b ¹⁵⁰Say: Bring your witnesses who bear witness that Allah forbade this. If they bear witness, then do not bear witness with them. And do not follow the low desires of a (147) The all-encompassing mercy of Allah is mentioned even in speaking of those who rejected the Holy Prophet. It was because of the mercy of Allah that the disbelievers were not destroyed immediately; but as punishing the "guilty" is in itself a mercy towards the weak and the oppressed, they are warned that they will not escape punishment if they persist in their evil ways.

b (149) The previous verse records the statement of the disbelievers: "If Allah pleased we would not have set up partners with Him". The reply is that Allah reveals His will through His chosen messengers, so bring forth any Divine revelation that you possess sanctioning idolatry. The argument is here carried on further. Allah does not mislead people, but, in fact, He sends His prophets to guide them into the right path. His pleasure is therefore that everyone should walk in the right path and serve only one Master. That is the conclusive argument against the false assertion of the idolaters. The guidance of Allah is, moreover, brought through prophets, and people are never compelled to accept the right way; much less could they be compelled to follow the wrong course. Man was created with a will free within certain limits to act as he pleases.

those who reject Our messages and those who do not believe in the Hereafter, and they make (others) equal with their Lord.

Section 19: Guiding Rules of Life

151 Say: Come! I will recite what your Lord has forbidden to you: Set up no partner with Him, and do good to parents, nor kill your children for (fear of) poverty — We provide for you and for them, nor go near to indecencies, open or secret, nor kill the soul which Allah has made sacred except in the course of justice. This He enjoins upon you that you may understand. ¹⁵²And do not approach the property of the orphan except in the best manner,^a until he attains his maturity. And give full measure and weight with equity — We do not impose on any soul a duty beyond its ability. And when you speak, be just, even (against) a relative.^b And fulfil Allah's covenant. This He enjoins on you that you may be mindful; ¹⁵³and (know) that this is My path, the right one, so follow it, and do not follow (other) ways, for they will lead you away from His way. This He enjoins on you that you may keep your duty. ¹⁵⁴Again, We gave the Book to Moses to complete (Our blessings) on him who would do good, and making plain all things^c and a guidance and a mercy, so that they might believe in the meeting with their Lord.

Section 20: The Goal for the Faithful

155 And this is a Book We have revealed, full of blessings; so follow it and keep your duty that mercy may be shown to you, ¹⁵⁶in case you say that the Book was revealed only to two parties

a (152-1) That is, unless you do it with the object of improving it or making it profitable. Wages of the guardian may be paid from it, for which see 4:6.

b (152-2) Islam requires a person to be so upright as not to be led away by the ties of relationship. Truth is not to be sacrificed to any interest but every interest must be sacrificed to truth.

c (154) By all things are meant all those things needed for the guidance of the Israelites.

before us and we were truly unaware of what they read,^a ¹⁵⁷or, you say: If the Book had been revealed to us, we would have been better guided than they. So indeed clear proof has come to you from your Lord, and guidance and mercy. Who is then more unjust than he who rejects Allah's messages and turns away from them? We reward those who turn away from Our messages with an evil punishment because they turned away.

158 They only wait that the angels should come to them, or that your Lord should come,^b or that some of the signs of your Lord should come. On the day when some of the signs of your Lord come, its faith will not benefit a soul which did not believe before, nor earned good through its faith.^c Say: Wait; we too are waiting. ¹⁵⁹As for those who split up their religion and became sects, you have no concern with them. Their affair is only with Allah, then He will inform them of what they did. ¹⁶⁰Whoever brings a good deed will have tenfold like it, and whoever brings an evil deed, will be recompensed only with the like of it, and they shall not be wronged.^d a (156) As in Arabia there lived only the Jews and the Christians besides the idolaters, the Arabs spoke of only two parties to whom the Book was given.

b (158-1) For a similar expression see 2:210. Also v. 111 and note. Similar words occur also in 16:33: "They only wait that the angels should come to them or that your Lord's command should come to pass". Here the words are that your Lord should come. Thus the coming of the Lord carries the same significance as the coming to pass of His command, or the execution of His decree, i.e. the final doom of the opponents. The coming of the angels stands for the smaller visitations or distresses the opponents witnessed in the battles which they fought to annihilate Islam, in which the coming of angels is spoken of; see 3:125-126, 8:9.

c (158-2) The only time when faith does not benefit a soul is the approach of death, and hence I am of opinion that by "some of the signs of your Lord" are meant clear signs of approach of death. A person's death is in one sense also his resurrection: "Whoever dies, his resurrection comes to pass" (Mishkāt, 26:6).

d (160) No other sacred book gives such prominence to the quality of mercy in the Divine Being. While evil must have its evil consequence, it is only its like, but virtue brings a tenfold reward. According to a saying of the Holy Prophet, evil is pardoned or recompensed with its like, while good brings from a tenfold to a seven-hundredfold reward (Bukhari, 81:33). Thus the verse mentions only the maximum punishment of evil and the minimum reward of good.

161 Say: As for me, my Lord has guided me to the right path — a right religion, the faith of Abraham, the upright one, and he was not of those who set up partners (with Allah). ¹⁶²Say: My prayer and my sacrifice and my life and my death are surely for Allah, the Lord of the worlds — ¹⁶³no partner has He. And this am I commanded, and I am the first of those who submit.^a ¹⁶⁴Say: Shall I seek a Lord other than Allah, while He is the Lord of all things? And no soul earns (evil) but against itself. Nor does a bearer of burden bear another's burden.^b Then to your Lord is your return, so He will inform you of that in which you differed. ¹⁶⁵And He it is Who has made you successors in the land and exalted some of you in rank above others, that He may try you by what He has given you. Surely your Lord is Quick in retribution, and He is surely the Forgiving, the Merciful.^c a (163) The idea of entire submission to the Divine Being conveyed in the word Islām finds its perfect manifestation in the Holy Prophet, who is the first of the Muslims. Above even the noblest object that a person can set for himself stands the love of the Divine Being. It is the highest goal of human life, and every Muslim is taught to set that goal before himself.

b (164) In these words the Christian doctrine of atonement is rejected by the Quran. Elsewhere we have: "That no bearer of burden bears another's burden, and that man can have nothing but what he strives for" (53:38–39). Every person who is born is called a bearer of burden, not because he is a sinner, but because he starts life with certain responsibilities of his own.

c (165) With the highest goal of life before them, Muslims are now told that they were going to be made rulers in the land. Their exaltation above others, however, was not due to their wealth or to their political power but simply to the fact that they submitted themselves to God, that their prayers and their sacrifices were not for their nation or their country but for God, Who was the Rabb, the Nourisher to perfection, of the whole of humanity. Hence they were a people who had the betterment of the whole of humanity in view. But even they are told, in the concluding words of the verse, that if they fall off and follow evil ways they will be required, though the forgiveness and mercy of the Divine Being will ultimately take them by the hand.

Al-A‘rāf

The Elevated Places

The title of this chapter is taken from the mention of The Elevated Places (v. 46) on which stand the perfect righteous servants of Allah. The main theme of this chapter is the truth of Divine revelation. It illustrates this by referring to the histories of several prophets, warning that the opponents of the Holy Prophet would meet the same fate as the opponents of the earlier prophets if they did not mend their ways. The chapter goes on to relate the history of Moses, as the Prophet Muhammad appeared in the likeness of Moses according to prophecies in the Torah. Towards the end, it gives the essence of the last and present chapter. This chapter was revealed at Makkah, just prior to the Emigration of the Holy Prophet.

Section 1: Opponents' Doom

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower, the Truthful.^a 2A Book revealed to you — so let there be no worry in your heart concerning it^b — that you may warn with it, and a Reminder to the believers.^c 3Follow what has been revealed to you from your Lord and do not follow besides Him any guardians; little mindful are you!

4 And how many a town have We destroyed! So Our punishment came to it by night or while they slept at midday. 5Yet their

a (1) Of the four letters alif, lām, mīm, and ṣād, the first three are the same as at the commencement of ch. 2, for which see 2:1 footnote; while ṣād stands for Ṣādiq, meaning Truthful, Whose promise would not fail.

b (2-1) This parenthetical passage is introduced to console the Holy Prophet, who at this time was encountering the greatest opposition and was surrounded by difficulties on all sides.

c (2-2) The Quran is called a reminder because, being in consonance with human nature, it is a reminder of what is imprinted on human nature. It may, however, have the alternative meaning of honour or eminence, for which see 2:152.

cry, when Our punishment came to them, was nothing but that they said: Surely we were wrongdoers. ⁶Then certainly We shall question those to whom messengers were sent, and We shall question the messengers,^a ⁷then surely We shall recount to them with knowledge, and We are never absent.

8 And the judging on that day will be just; so as for those whose good deeds are heavy, they are the successful. ⁹And as for those whose good deeds are light, those are they who ruined their souls because they disbelieved in Our messages. ¹⁰And certainly We established you in the earth and made in it means of livelihood for you; little thanks you give!

Section 2: The Devil's Opposition to Man

11 And We indeed created you, then We fashioned you, then We said to the angels: Be submissive to Adam.^b So they submitted, but not Iblīs; he was not of those who submitted. ¹²He said: What hindered you from submitting when I commanded you? He said: I am better than he; You have created me of fire, while him You did create of dust.^c ¹³He said: Then get forth from this (state), for it is not for you to behave proudly in it. Go forth, a (6) Those to whom messengers were sent will be questioned as to how they treated the messengers, and the latter as to how they were received.

b (11) That what is stated here of Adam is true of all mankind is made clear by the opening words of this verse. Human beings are created first, then fashioned, then the order is given to the angels to make submission to Adam, who in this sense typifies a human being. Thus the angels are really required to make submission to every human being.

c (12) Not only is Adam created from dust, but all human beings are spoken of as being similarly created; see 3:59 footnote, and see also 18:37, 22:5 and 30:20. As a contrast to man's creation from dust, the devil claims to have been created from fire. There may be a reference here to the nature of the temperaments of the two classes, human beings and devils. The Quran says elsewhere: "Man is created of haste" (21:37), which means that he is hasty. In like manner the devil's creation of fire may mean that he is made of a fiery temperament, while the perfect man is humble and meek, being created of dust, which stands for humility and meekness. Elsewhere it is stated that the jinn were created of fire (15:27), and also that Iblīs was one of the jinn (18:50).

therefore, surely you are a degraded one. ¹⁴He said: Grant me respite till the day when they are raised.^a ¹⁵He said: Surely you are granted respite.

16 He said: As You have judged me to be in error, I will certainly lie in wait for them in Your straight path, ¹⁷then I shall certainly come upon them from in front of them and from behind them, and from their right and from their left; and You will not find most of them thankful. ¹⁸He said: Get out of it, despised, driven away. Whoever of them will follow you, I will certainly fill hell with you all.

19 And (We said): O Adam, dwell you and your wife in the garden, and eat from wherever you wish, but do not go near this tree or you would be from among the unjust. ²⁰But the devil made an evil suggestion to them that he might make manifest to them their shame that had been hidden from them,^b and he said: Your Lord has only forbidden you this tree that you may not become angels or become immortals. ²¹And he swore to them both: Surely I am a sincere adviser to you — ²²thus he caused them to fall by deceit. So when they had tasted of the tree, their shame became manifest to them, and they both began to cover themselves with the leaves of the garden.^c And their Lord called to them: Did I not forbid you that tree, and say to you that the devil is surely your open enemy? ²³They said: Our Lord, we have wronged ourselves;

a (14) The devil's grip continues only so long as man is not spiritually raised to life. The raising here stands for the spiritual resurrection of man. If the final Resurrection is meant, the significance would be that the devil would mislead man so long as man lives on this earth.

c (22) The covering with the leaves of the garden is the desire to make up by human effort any fault that may have been committed. The clothing that guards against evil, which is spoken of in v. 26 as being the best clothing, explains the meaning of covering here. Divine revelation points out to man the true way, enabling him to cover himself or guard himself against evil. And, further, the statement in v. 27, pulling off from them both their clothing that he might show them their shame shows that covering with the leaves of the garden is an allegorical statement; see v. 27 footnote 1.

and if You do not forgive us and have mercy on us, we shall certainly be from among the losers. ²⁴He said: Go forth — some of you are enemies of others. And there is for you in the earth an abode and a provision for a time. ²⁵He said: In it shall you live, and in it shall you die, and from it shall you be raised.

26 O children of Adam, We have indeed sent down to you clothing to cover your shame and (clothing) for beauty; and clothing that guards against evil — that is the best.^a This is of the messages of Allah that they may be mindful. ²⁷O children of Adam, do not let the devil seduce you, as he expelled your parents from the garden, pulling off from them both their clothing that he might show them their shame.^b He surely sees you, he as well as his company, from where you do not see them. Surely We have made the devils to be the friends of those who do not believe.^c

28 And when they commit an indecency they say: We found our fathers doing this, and Allah has commanded us to do it. Say: Surely Allah does not command indecency. Do you say of Allah what you do not know? ²⁹Say: My Lord commands (the doing of) justice. And set upright your faces at every time of prayer and call on Him, being sincere to Him in obedience. As He brought you a (26) Clothing at first simply served to cover shame; with further progress people sought to embellish their persons with it; but there is yet a third kind of clothing, says the Quran, which is the best, and that is the clothing of piety, literally the clothing that guards one against evil. It indicates a further step in the progress of man, for virtue is an embellishment of the mind, and when man has seen the good of embellishing his person, he will soon be aware of the necessity of embellishing his mind.

b (27-1) That the clothing for the body is not meant here is clear from the fact that all men and women are warned against a similar attack of the devil. As to the clothing of which Adam was divested, there remains no doubt, when it is seen that the devil tries to divest every child of Adam of the same clothing: it is the clothing that guards against evil.

c (27-2) It is because they do not believe in the Truth that the devils are made their friends. Those who sever their connection with the Source of purity must fall into impurity.

into being, so shall you return. ³⁰Some has He guided, and others — error is justly their due.^a Surely they took the devils for friends instead of Allah, and they think that they are rightly guided. ³¹O children of Adam, attend to your adornment at every time of prayer, and eat and drink and do not be extravagant; surely He does not love the extravagant.^b

Section 4: Messengers sent for Uplift of Humanity

32 Say: Who has forbidden the adornment of Allah,^c which He has brought forth for His servants, and the good provisions? Say: These are for the believers in the life of this world, purely (theirs) on the day of Resurrection.^d Thus do We make the messages clear for a people who know. ³³Say: My Lord forbids only indecencies, such of them as are apparent and such as are concealed, and sin and unjust rebellion, and that you set up with Allah partners for which He has sent down no authority, and that you say of Allah what you do not know.

34 And every nation has a term; so when its term comes they cannot postpone it an hour, nor can they bring it forward. ³⁵O children of Adam, if messengers come to you from among you relating to you My messages, then whoever guards against evil and acts aright — they shall have no fear, nor shall they grieve.

a (30) Error is justly their due because they have taken the devils for their friends. Whoever continues to follow the devil must surely remain in error.

b (31) Attending to one's adornment carries a double significance here. It requires adorning oneself physically, i.e. being clean and clothed appropriately for prayer, especially for the Friday and 'Id gatherings. But what is specially aimed at is adornment in a spiritual sense. A Muslim must attend to inner beautification, for prayer is really meant as an aid to the beauty of the soul. He must come to prayer with a heart free from all impurities and full of the highest aspirations and noblest sentiments.

c (32-1) By the adornment of Allah is meant the adornment which Allah has made lawful for people to avail themselves of.

d (32-2) In the life of this world the believer and the disbeliever equally benefit by the good things, but in the life after death all good shall be exclusively for those who have accepted and acted on the right principles.

³⁶And those who reject Our messages and turn away from them haughtily — these are the companions of the Fire; they shall abide in it.

37 Who is then more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah or rejects His messages? These — their portion of the Book shall reach them;^a until when Our messengers come to them causing them to die, they say: Where are those you used to call upon besides Allah? They would say: They are gone away from us. And they shall bear witness against themselves that they were disbelievers. ³⁸He will say: Enter into the Fire among the nations of jinn and people that have passed away before you. Every time a nation enters, it curses its sister;^b until when they all follow one another into it, the last of them will say with regard to the first of them:^c Our Lord, these led us astray, so give them a double punishment of the Fire. He will say: Each one has double but you do not know.^d ³⁹And the first of them will say to the last of them: You have no preference over us, so taste the punishment for what you earned.

Section 5: Those who accept the Message

40 Those who reject Our messages and turn away from them haughtily, the doors of heaven will not be opened for them, nor will they enter the Garden until the camel pass through the eye of the needle. And thus do We reward the guilty. ⁴¹They shall have a a (37) That is, the punishment promised in the Book will overtake them.

b (38-1) By the sister nation is meant the nation which resembles it in its deeds.

c (38-2) By the last and the first are meant here the common people and the leaders, because, though the words would bear both interpretations, i.e. the last and the first in time or the last and the first in position, the latter significance is corroborated by similar expressions in several other places, such as 2:166, 14:21, 34:31–33, 40:47, etc.

d (38-3) The common people would desire that the leaders should suffer a double torment, for their own sins as well as for having misled others. They are told that if the leaders were guilty of misleading them, they themselves deserved a double punishment for having blindly followed the leaders.

bed of hell and over them coverings (of it). And thus do We recompense the wrongdoers. ⁴²And as for those who believe and do good — We do not impose on any soul a duty beyond its scope — they are the owners of the Garden; in it they abide. ⁴³And We shall remove whatever of bitterness is in their hearts — rivers flow beneath them. And they say: All praise is due to Allah, Who guided us to this! And we would not have found the way if Allah had not guided us. Certainly the messengers of our Lord brought the truth. And it will be cried out to them: This is the Garden which you are made to inherit for what you did.

44 And the owners of the Garden call out to the companions of the Fire: We have found what our Lord promised us to be true; have you, too, found what your Lord promised to be true? They will say: Yes. Then a crier will cry out among them: The curse of Allah is on the wrongdoers, ⁴⁵who hinder (people) from Allah's way and seek to make it crooked,^a and they are disbelievers in the Hereafter. ⁴⁶And between them is a veil.^b And on the Elevated Places are men who know all by their marks.^c And they call out to the owners of the Garden: Peace be on you! They have not yet entered it, though they hope.^d ⁴⁷And when their eyes are turned towards the companions of the Fire, they say: Our Lord, do not place us with the unjust people.^e

b (46-1) The veil which here separates the wicked from the righteous and on account of which the former fail to see the bliss which the latter enjoy will assume a perceptible form in the next life. Thus it is not distance that separates heaven from hell but only a veil, and they hear and even see one another.

c (46-2) The men spoken of here as being on the elevated places (the title of this chapter, Al-A'rāf) are the same righteous servants of Allah who are distinctly mentioned in 56:10-11: "And the foremost are the foremost — these are drawn near to Allah". Besides this, the prophets are again and again spoken of as a class by themselves, being witnesses over their people.

d (46-3) They are, as it were, standing at the door of the Garden, ready to enter it.

e (47) Thus do pray those who hope to enter paradise.

Section 6: Helplessness of Opponents

48 And the owners of the Elevated Places call out to men whom they recognize by their marks, saying: Of no avail were to you your amassings^a and your arrogance. 49Are these they about whom you swore that Allah would not bestow mercy on them? Enter the Garden; you have no fear, nor shall you grieve. 50And the companions of the Fire call out to the owners of the Garden: Pour on us some water or some of what Allah has provided for you. They say: Surely Allah has forbidden them both to the disbelievers, 51who take their religion for an idle sport and a play, and this world's life deceives them. So this day We shall forsake them, as they neglected the meeting of this day of theirs, and as they denied Our messages.

52 And certainly We have brought them a Book which We make clear with knowledge, a guidance and a mercy for a people who believe. 53Do they wait only for its final sequel?^b On the day when its final sequel comes, those who neglected it before will say: Indeed the messengers of our Lord brought the truth. Are there any intercessors on our behalf so that they should intercede for us? Or could we be sent back so that we should do (deeds) other than those which we did? Indeed they have lost their souls, and what they forged has failed them.

Section 7: The Righteous will prosper

54 Surely your Lord is Allah, Who created the heavens and the earth in six periods,^c and He is established on the Throne a (48) The word used may mean either your amassing worldly wealth, or it may mean your multitude or strength in numbers.

b (53) By final sequel is meant the ultimate state of the perfect manifestation of truth by the fulfilment of the prophecies, the end or the ultimate consequence.

c (54-1) The word yaum means not only day but also a period, whatever period it may be. The six periods of time in which the heavens and the earth are created refer in fact to the six stages in which they have grown to their present condition. In the case of the earth these six stages are detailed in 41:9-10.

of Power.^a He makes the night cover the day, which it pursues incessantly. And (He created) the sun and the moon and the stars, made subservient by His command. Surely His is the creation and the command. Blessed is Allah, the Lord of the worlds!^b 55Call on your Lord humbly and in secret. Surely He does not love the transgressors. 56And do not make mischief in the earth after its reformation, and call on Him, fearing and hoping. Surely the mercy of Allah is near to the doers of good.^c

57 And He it is Who sends forth the winds bearing good news before His mercy;^d till, when they bear a laden cloud, We drive it to a dead land, then We send down water on it, then bring forth thereby fruits of all kinds. Thus do We bring forth the dead that you may be mindful.^e 58And the good land — its vegetation comes a (54-2) The true significance of the word 'arsh' is power or control of the creation. It is not a physical throne for sitting on. The phrase "He is established on the Throne of Power ('arsh)" is used in the Quran here and on six other occasions, viz., in 10:3, 13:2, 20:5, 25:59, 32:4 and 57:4. It is invariably used after mentioning the creation of the heavens and the earth and in relation to the Divine control of His creation and the law and order to which the universe is made to submit by its great Author, as shown by the words that follow here, His is the creation and the command. The meaning is that after creating the universe, God has not left it to run its course independently of Him, but He it is Whose command holds sway and Who regulates the affairs as He has planned them.

b (54-3) In the words Rabb al-'alamīn ("Lord of the worlds") there is also a deeper reference to the spiritual evolution of man which is being worked out under the Divine plan, and the 'arsh' is mentioned specially in this connection, as man's perfection does not consist in the working of the material laws which prevail in the universe but in the spiritual laws which are needed for his perfection. In 40:15 the Lord of the 'arsh' is clearly stated to be the Sender of revelation to man to bring about his spiritual perfection. In 40:7 it is added: "Those who bear the 'arsh' and those around it celebrate the praise of their Lord and believe in Him and ask protection for those who believe". The bearers of the 'arsh' or the Throne of Power are, in fact, the bearers of the Divine message.

c (56) The feeling which should be entertained towards Allah should be a combination of fear and hope, of awe as well as love, because the fear of His displeasure ennobles the mind no less than the hope of His mercy.

e (57-2) The bringing forth of the spiritually dead to life through the revelation of the Quran is always likened to the bringing of the dead earth to life by rain.

forth (abundantly) by the permission of its Lord. And that which is inferior — (its vegetation) comes forth but scantily. Thus do We repeat the messages for a people who give thanks.^a

Section 8: Noah

59 Certainly We sent Noah to his people,^b so he said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. Indeed I fear for you the punishment of a grievous day. ⁶⁰The chiefs of his people said: Surely we see you in clear error. ⁶¹He said: My people, there is no error in me, but I am a messenger from the Lord of the worlds. ⁶²I deliver to you the messages of my Lord, and I offer you good advice, and I know from Allah what you do not know. ⁶³Do you wonder that a reminder has come to you from your Lord through a man from among you, that he may warn you and that you may guard against evil, and that mercy may be shown to you?

64 But they called him a liar, so We delivered him and those with him in the ark, and We drowned those who rejected Our messages. Surely they were a blind people!^c a (58) Revelation is here likened to the rain and the good or bad nature of man to good or inferior land. If some people do not benefit by the revelation, it is just as some lands do not benefit by rain.

b (59) Having warned the opponents of the evil consequences of their opposition to the Holy Prophet, several illustrations are now given from sacred history, showing how those people were dealt with who refused to listen to the voice of the warners. The object is not to narrate history as such, but to bring out common characteristics of the histories of different nations, to mention incidents which contain prophetic allusion to the Holy Prophet's life and to illustrate the general warnings made regarding the ultimate consequences of the rejection of Truth. The Quran relates the broad facts that every prophet preached Divine Unity, every prophet laid stress on the doing of good, every prophet was received with severe opposition, and that every prophet ultimately succeeded in establishing the truth.

c (64) See further 11:37–48 and 23:27–29. The Quran does not support the idea of a world deluge, for it states here that Noah was sent only to his people, not to all nations. Only the people to whom Noah was sent called him a liar, and only those were drowned who rejected the message of Allah delivered through Noah.

65 And to Ād (We sent) their brother Hūd.^a He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. Will you not then guard against evil? 66The chiefs of those who disbelieved from among his people said: Certainly we see you in folly, and we certainly think you to be a liar. 67He said: My people, there is no folly in me, but I am a messenger of the Lord of the worlds. 68I deliver to you the messages of my Lord and I am a faithful adviser to you. 69Do you wonder that a reminder has come to you from your Lord through a man from among you that he may warn you? And remember when He made you successors after Noah's people and increased you in excellence of make.^b So remember the bounties of Allah, that you may be successful. 70They said: Have you come to us that we may serve Allah alone, and give up what our fathers used to serve? Then bring us what you threaten us with, if you are truthful. 71He said: Indeed uncleanness and wrath from your Lord have come upon you. Do you dispute with me about names which you and your fathers have named? ^c Allah has not sent any authority for them. So wait; I too am waiting along with you.

72 So We delivered him and those with him by mercy from Us, and We cut off the roots of those who rejected Our messages and were not believers.^d a (65) Ād was the grandson of Aram (mentioned in 89:7), who was a grandson of Noah, and the tribe of Ād spoken of here is called the first Ād (53:50), as distinguished from the tribe of Thamūd, which is called the second Ād. This tribe lived in the desert of al-Aḥqāf (46:21) which is marked on the maps of Arabia and extends from Oman to Hadramaut.

The male member of a tribe is generally spoken of as their brother, as here Hūd is called. The prophet Hūd is the Eber of the Bible, because Hūd is said to be the grandson of Arphaxad, the grandson of Noah. Compare Genesis 10:24 for Eber's genealogy.

b (69) By making them khulafā' or successors is meant that they were made a ruling nation and possessors of a vast kingdom.

c (71) The reference here is to their deities.

d (72) They were destroyed by a storm (69:7).

Section 10: Sālih and Lot

73 And to Thamūd (We sent) their brother Sālih.^a He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. Clear proof has indeed come to you from your Lord. This is Allah's she-camel — a sign for you — so leave her alone to pasture in Allah's earth, and do her no harm or a painful punishment will afflict you.^b 74And remember when He made you successors after Ād and settled you in the land — you make mansions on its plains and carve out houses in the mountains. So remember Allah's bounties and do not act corruptly in the land, making mischief. 75The arrogant chiefs of his people said to those who were weak, to those who believed from among them: Do you know that Sālih is one sent by his Lord? They said: Surely we are believers in that with which he has been sent. 76Those who were arrogant said: Surely we are disbelievers in what you believe.

77 Then they hamstrung the she-camel and revolted against their Lord's commandment, and said: Sālih, bring us what you threaten us with, if you are one of the messengers. 78So the earthquake seized them, and they were motionless bodies in their abodes. 79So he turned away from them and said: My people, indeed I delivered to you the message of my Lord and gave you good advice, but you do not love good advisers.^c a (73-1) Ād and Thamūd, though two nearly related tribes, were separated both as regards time and place. Thamūd is known after a grandson of Aram, the grandson of Noah. Historical traces of it are met with in Ptolemy. The tribe flourished more than two hundred years after Ād, and occupied the territory known as al-Hijr (15:80), and the plain known by the name of Wādi-l-Qurā, which forms the southern boundary of Syria and the northern one of Arabia. Sālih was a descendant in the sixth generation after Thamūd.

80 And (We sent) Lot,^d when he said to his people: Do you

b (73-2) It is called Allah's she-camel because it was given as a sign from Allah. It was an ordinary she-camel, which was given as a sign to a people. Their slaying of it was a sign that they would neither accept the truth, nor cease persecuting Sālih and his followers.

c (79) This evidently refers to the survivors from the great disaster.

d (80) Lot is one of those prophets who have been maligned in the Bible. He commit foul deeds which no one in the world did before you? ⁸¹Surely you come to males with lust instead of females. Indeed, you are a people exceeding bounds. ⁸²And the answer of his people was only that they said: Turn them out of your town; surely they are a people who aspire to purity! ⁸³So We delivered him and his followers, except his wife — she was among those who remained behind. ⁸⁴And We rained upon them a rain.^a See, then, what was the end of the guilty!

85 And to Midian (We sent) their brother Shuaib.^b He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. Clear proof indeed has come to you from your Lord, so give full measure and weight and do not diminish to people their things,^c nor make mischief in the land after its reform. This is better for you, if you are believers. ⁸⁶Nor lie in wait on every road, threatening and turning away from Allah's way him who believes in Him and seeking to make it crooked. And remember when you were few, then He multiplied you, and see what was the end of the mischief-makers! ⁸⁷And if there are some of you who believe in what I am sent with, and others who do not believe, then wait patiently till Allah judges between us; and He is the Best of judges.

88 The arrogant chiefs of his people said: We will certainly turn you out, Shuaib, and those who believe with you from our town, or you shall come back to our religion. He said: Even though we dislike (it)? ⁸⁹Indeed we should have forged a lie against Allah, was considered a righteous servant by Abraham (Genesis, 18:23), but a little further on in the same book we are told that Lot was guilty of incestuous intercourse with his daughters. The record there has evidently been manipulated.

a (84) The punishment which overtook the people of Lot is frequently called rain, while in 11:82 and 15:74 stones are said to have been rained down upon them. See also 54:34. It was a volcanic eruption combined with an earthquake.

b (85-1) Shuaib was a descendant of Abraham in the fifth generation. It is generally supposed to be another name for Jethro of the Bible (Exodus, 3:1).

c (85-2) The injunction do not diminish to people their things stands for not depriving or defrauding people of their rights.

if we go back to your religion after Allah has delivered us from it. And it is not for us to go back to it, unless Allah our Lord please. Our Lord comprehends all things in His knowledge. In Allah do we trust. Our Lord, decide between us and our people with truth, and You are the Best of deciders. ⁹⁰And the chiefs of his people, who disbelieved, said: If you follow Shuaib, you are surely losers.

91 So the earthquake overtook them, and they were motionless bodies in their homes — ⁹²Those who called Shuaib a liar were as though they had never dwelt there — those who called Shuaib a liar, they were the losers. ⁹³So he turned away from them and said: My people, indeed I delivered to you the messages of my Lord and I gave you good advice; how, then, should I be sorry for a disbelieving people?

94 And We did not send a prophet to a town but We seized its people with distress and affliction that they might humble themselves.^a ⁹⁵Then We changed the evil for good, till they became affluent and said: Distress and happiness did indeed touch our fathers. So We took them by surprise while they did not perceive. ⁹⁶And if the people of the towns had believed and kept their duty, We would certainly have opened for them blessings from the heavens and the earth. But they rejected, so We seized them for what they earned. ⁹⁷Are the people of the towns, then, secure from Our punishment coming to them by night while they sleep? ⁹⁸Or, are the people of the towns secure from Our punishment coming to them in the morning while they play? ^b ⁹⁹Are they secure from Allah's plan? But none feels secure from Allah's plan except the people who perish.

a (94) That the histories of the nations are meant as a warning to all opponents of truth is evident. It is also plain that even afflictions and distress sent on a people are meant for their spiritual betterment, that they might humble themselves.

b (98) The playing may be taken either literally or it may indicate the worldly engagements in which they were occupied to the utter neglect of higher aspirations.

Section 13: Moses sent to Pharaoh with Signs

100 Is it not clear to those who inherit the earth after its (former) residents that, if We please, We would afflict them for their sins, and seal their hearts so they would not hear? ¹⁰¹Such were the towns some of whose news We have related to you. And certainly their messengers came to them with clear arguments, but they would not believe what they had rejected before. Thus does Allah seal the hearts of the disbelievers. ¹⁰²And We did not find in most of them (faithfulness to) covenant; and We found most of them to be transgressors.

103 Then, after them, We sent Moses ^a with Our messages to Pharaoh and his chiefs, but they disbelieved them. See, then, what was the end of the mischief-makers! ¹⁰⁴And Moses said: O Pharaoh, surely I am a messenger from the Lord of the worlds, ¹⁰⁵worthy of not saying anything about Allah except the truth. I have come to you indeed with clear proof from your Lord, so let the Children of Israel go with me. ¹⁰⁶He said: If you have come with a sign, produce it, if you are truthful. ¹⁰⁷So he threw down his staff, then lo! it was an obvious snake. ¹⁰⁸And he drew forth his hand, and lo! it was white to the onlookers. ^b a (103) The history of Moses is here taken up in detail. The Holy Prophet Muhammad had more in common with Moses than with any other prophet, and he is called the like of Moses in the Mosaic prophecies.

b (108) It is nowhere stated that whenever Moses threw down his rod it turned into a snake. Only on two occasions the rod is stated to have turned into a snake: (1) when Moses held communion with God before going to Pharaoh; (2) when he first came before Pharaoh, or when Pharaoh summoned the enchanters to his help. On the first of these occasions the rod was seen turning into a snake by Moses alone, when he was in a state of vision — the state in which a prophet is temporarily transported to a spiritual sphere. On the latter occasion others besides Moses witnessed the change, but it is a fact that the effect of inspired vision is sometimes so strong that others besides the seer partake in it.

Whatever their real nature, these miracles of Moses were not mere play. The great truth underlying the rod or staff turning into a snake was that the followers of Moses, as represented by his rod, would prevail over their enemies; and the significance underlying the whitening of Moses' hand was that his arguments would shine forth with clearness.

Section 14: Pharaoh summons Enchanters

109 The chiefs of Pharaoh's people said: Surely this is a skilful enchanter! ¹¹⁰He intends to turn you out of your land. (Pharaoh said:) What do you advise? ¹¹¹They said: Put him off and his brother, and send heralds into the cities, ¹¹²to bring to you every skilful enchanter.

113 And the enchanters came to Pharaoh, saying: We must surely have a reward if we prevail. ¹¹⁴He said: Yes, and you shall certainly be among those who are near (to me).

115 They said: Moses, will you throw, or shall we (be the first to) throw? ¹¹⁶He said: You throw. So when they threw, they deceived the people's eyes and overawed them, and they produced a mighty enchantment. ¹¹⁷And We revealed to Moses: Throw down your staff. Then lo! it swallowed up their lies. ¹¹⁸So the truth was established, and what they did became null. ¹¹⁹There they were defeated, and they went back humiliated.

120 And the enchanters fell down prostrate — ¹²¹They said: We believe in the Lord of the worlds, ¹²²the Lord of Moses and Aaron. ¹²³Pharaoh said: You believe in Him before I give you permission! Surely this is a plot which you have plotted in the city, to turn out of it its people, but you shall know! ¹²⁴I shall certainly cut off your hands and your feet on opposite sides, then I shall crucify you all together! ¹²⁵They said: Surely to our Lord do we return. ¹²⁶And you take revenge on us only because we believed in the messages of our Lord when they came to us. Our Lord, pour out on us patience and cause us to die in submission (to You)! ^a a (126) The Bible does not speak of the magicians as believing in the Divine mission of Moses when they were vanquished, but according to Rabbinical literature, some Egyptians accompanied Moses when he departed from Egypt. It should be noted that the magicians could not have believed unless they had heard the arguments of Moses as to the existence of God and as to a life after death in which they now believed so staunchly that they were ready to sacrifice their very lives for their faith. It shows that Moses had explained the essential religious truths to the whole gathering before he showed the signs.

127 And the chiefs of Pharaoh's people said: Will you leave Moses and his people to make mischief in the land and forsake you and your gods? He said: We will kill their sons and spare their women, and surely we are dominant over them. ¹²⁸Moses said to his people: Ask help from Allah and be patient. Surely the land is Allah's — He gives it for an inheritance to such of His servants as He pleases. And the end is for those who keep their duty. ¹²⁹They said: We were persecuted before you came to us and since you have come to us. He said: It may be that your Lord will destroy your enemy and make you rulers in the land, then He will see how you act.^a

130 And certainly We overtook Pharaoh's people with droughts and shortage of fruits that they might be mindful. ¹³¹But when good befell them they said: This is due to us. And when evil afflicted them, they attributed it to the ill-luck of Moses and those with him. Surely their evil fortune is only from Allah, but most of them do not know.^b ¹³²And they said: Whatever sign you may bring us to charm us with it — we shall not believe in you. ¹³³So We sent upon them widespread death, and the locusts and the lice and the frogs and the blood — clear signs. But they behaved haughtily and they were a guilty people.

134 And when the plague fell upon them, they said: Moses, pray for us to your Lord as He has made promise with you. If you remove the plague from us, we will certainly believe in you and will let the Children of Israel go with you. ¹³⁵But when We removed the plague from them till a term which they should attain, a (129) By the land is meant the Promised Land, for it was there that Moses was taking them. Their being made rulers in the land was conditional upon their doing good; this is suggested in the concluding words of the verse.

b (131) Their evil fortune is from Allah means that the misfortunes which they were made to suffer were brought about by Allah as a result of their own evil deeds.

lo! they broke (their promise).^a ¹³⁶So We exacted retribution from them and drowned them in the sea, because they rejected Our signs and were heedless of them. ¹³⁷And We made the people who were considered weak to inherit the eastern lands and the western ones which We had blessed. And the good word of your Lord was fulfilled in the Children of Israel — because of their patience.^b And We destroyed what Pharaoh and his people had produced and what they had built.

138 And We took the Children of Israel across the sea. Then they came to a people who were devoted to their idols. They said: Moses, make for us a god as they have gods.^c He said: Surely you are an ignorant people! ¹³⁹(As to) these, what they are engaged in shall be destroyed and what they do is futile. ¹⁴⁰He said: Shall I seek for you a god other than Allah, while He has made you excel (all) created things?^d ¹⁴¹And when We delivered you from Pharaoh's people, who subjected you to severe torment, killing your sons and sparing your women. And in it there was a great trial from your Lord.

142 And We appointed for Moses thirty nights, and completed them with ten, so the appointed time of his Lord was complete a (135) A reference to Exodus, ch. 8–11, will show that Pharaoh again and again broke his promise to let the Children of Israel go — promises which he made on condition that a certain affliction should be removed.

b (137) The land that was blessed is none other than the Holy Land, for which a Divine promise was given to Abraham. The good word referred to here is that contained in Genesis 17:8. The eastern and the western lands might signify the eastern and the western tracts of the Holy Land, or the lands on the eastern and western sides of the Jordan.

c (138) The Israelites undoubtedly came across idolatrous nations in their wanderings. They themselves had idolatrous leanings: "...the people gathered together to Aaron, and said to him, Come, make us gods that shall go before us" (Exodus, 32:1). Many other anecdotes show a similar tendency to idol-worship.

d (140) Moses' argument against idolatry is the one to which the Quran repeatedly calls attention, namely, that man, being as it were the lord of creation under God, and excelling the whole of creation, should not take objects lower than himself as his gods.

forty nights. And Moses said to his brother Aaron: Take my place among my people, and act well and do not follow the way of the mischief-makers. ¹⁴³And when Moses came at Our appointed time and his Lord spoke to him, he said: My Lord, show me (Yourself) so that I may look at You. He said: You cannot see Me, but look at the mountain; if it remains firm in its place, then will you see Me. So when his Lord manifested His glory to the mountain, He made it crumble and Moses fell down fainting.^a Then when he recovered, he said: Glory be to You! I turn to You, and I am the first of the believers. ¹⁴⁴He said: O Moses, surely I have chosen you above the people by My messages and My words. So take hold of what I give you and be of the grateful ones.

145 And We ordained for him in the tablets admonition of every kind and clear explanation of all things.^b So take hold of these (teachings) with firmness and command your people to take hold of the best of these. I shall show you the abode of the transgressors.^c ¹⁴⁶I shall turn away from My messages those who are unjustly proud in the earth. And if they see every sign, they will not believe in it; and if they see the way of rectitude, they do not take it for a way; and if they see the way of error, they take it for a way. This is because they reject Our messages and are heedless of them. ¹⁴⁷And those who reject Our messages and the meeting of a (143) The words You cannot see Me negative the seeing of the Divine Being with the physical eye. Moses' request seems to have been based on the elders' demand spoken of in 2:55. I venture, however, another explanation. What Moses wanted to see was the great manifestation of Divine glory which was reserved for the Holy Prophet Muhammad. In fact, both Moses and Jesus were not equal to the task which was reserved for the Prophet Muhammad. Jesus said that he could not teach his followers all things, but that when the Comforter made his appearance he would guide them into all truth. That Moses was unequal to the Holy Prophet's task was clearly demonstrated by his falling down in a swoon when he beheld the Great Manifestation.

b (145-1) The words admonition of every kind and explanation of all things cannot be taken generally, but are limited by the requirements of the time in which Moses appeared.

c (145-2) The meaning is that a time will come to the Israelites when they will become transgressors, i.e. they will not keep the Divine commandments.

the Hereafter — their deeds are fruitless. Can they be rewarded except for what they do?

Section 18: Israelites worship a Calf

148 And Moses' people made of their ornaments a calf after him — a (lifeless) body, having a lowing sound.^a Could they not see that it did not speak to them, nor guided them in the way? They took it (for worship) and they were unjust. ¹⁴⁹And when they repented and saw that they had gone astray, they said: If our Lord have not mercy on us and forgive us, we shall certainly be losers.^b

150 And when Moses returned to his people, angry, grieved, he said: Evil is what you have done after me! Did you hasten on the judgment of your Lord? And he threw down the tablets and seized his brother by the head, dragging him towards him. (Aaron) said: Son of my mother, the people reckoned me weak and had almost killed me. So do not make the enemies to rejoice over me and do not count me among the unjust people. ¹⁵¹(Moses) said: My Lord, forgive me and my brother, and admit us to Your mercy, and You are the most Merciful of those who show mercy.^c a (148) The word jasad means a body, as well as red or intensely yellow. The former meaning indicates that the calf was a mere lifeless body, yet it was so made that it gave a lowing sound like that of a calf. The other meaning also provides a true description of the calf as it was made of gold ornaments.

Section 19: The Torah and the Prophet's Advent

152 Those who took the calf (for a god) — wrath from their Lord, and disgrace in this world's life, will surely come upon them.

b (149) The Israelites' repentance, though mentioned first, was subsequent to Moses' return (2:54). The order here connects the repentance with the sin.

c (151) Aaron's excuse and Moses' acceptance of it show clearly that Aaron was quite innocent, having had a share neither in making the calf nor in worshipping it. The Bible account, which makes a righteous prophet of God guilty of the most heinous crime, must be rejected as untrue. That forgiveness was not sought for any fault in connection with calf-worship is clear from the fact that Moses joins himself with Aaron in the prayer given in this verse. Forgiveness here, as frequently elsewhere in the Quran, is equivalent to the Divine protection which everyone should seek against the shortcomings of human nature.

And thus do We recompense those who invent lies. ¹⁵³And those who do evil deeds, then repent after that and believe — your Lord after that is surely Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁵⁴And when Moses' anger calmed down, he took up the tablets; and in the writing thereof was guidance and mercy for those who fear their Lord.

155 And Moses chose of his people seventy men for Our appointment.^a So when the earthquake struck them, he said: My Lord, if You had pleased, You would have destroyed them before and myself (too). Will You destroy us for what the foolish among us have done? It is only Your trial. You cause to perish by it whom You please and guide whom You please. You are our Protector, so forgive us and have mercy on us, and You are the Best of those who forgive. ¹⁵⁶And ordain for us good in this world's life and in the Hereafter, for surely we turn to You. He said: I afflict with My punishment whom I please, and My mercy encompasses all things.^b So I ordain it for those who keep their duty and give the due charity, and those who believe in Our messages — ¹⁵⁷those who follow the Messenger-Prophet, the Ummī,^c whom they find mentioned in the Torah and the Gospel.^d He enjoins

a (155) Exodus 24:1 speaks of Moses having taken up seventy elders of Israel along with him, though they were forbidden to “come near the Lord”, and on this occasion Moses was in the mountain forty days and forty nights (Exodus, 24:18). Although the Bible also speaks of Moses as going to the mountain for forty days and forty nights after the incident of the calf-worship (Exodus, 34:28), the Quran refers only to the first occasion.

b (156) No attribute of God receives such prominence in the Quran as the attribute of mercy — My mercy encompasses all things. Even punishment is a phase of Divine mercy because it seeks to correct the evil-doers.

c (157-1) Ummī means one who neither writes nor reads a writing. Hence the Arabs are called an ummī people, and the Ummī Prophet is either the prophet of the ummī people (i.e. the Arabs) because he was like them, or he was so called because he himself did not know reading and writing. But according to some, the prophet is called Ummī because he came from the Umm al-Qurā, i.e. Makkah, which is the Metropolis of Arabia.

d (157-2) There are many prophecies regarding the advent of the Holy Prophet in the Bible. The Torah and the Gospel are specially mentioned here because Moses and Jesus were respectively the first and the last of the Israelite prophets. Deuteronomy 18:15–18 speaks very clearly of the raising of a prophet, who shall them good and forbids them evil, and makes lawful to them the good things and prohibits for them impure things, and removes from them their burden and the shackles which were on them. So those who believe in him and honour him and help him, and follow the light which has been sent down with him — these are the successful.

Section 20: Divine Favours on Israelites

158 Say: O mankind, surely I am the Messenger of Allah to you all, of Him Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth.^a There is no god but He; He gives life and causes death. So believe in Allah and His Messenger, the Ummī Prophet who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may be guided aright.

159 And of Moses' people is a party who guide with truth and with it they do justice.^b 160 And We divided them into twelve tribes, as nations. And We revealed to Moses when his people asked him for water: March on to the rock with your staff; so out flowed from it twelve springs. Each tribe knew its drinking-place. And We made the clouds to give shade over them and We sent to them manna and quails. Eat of the good things We have given be the like of Moses, from among the brethren of the Israelites, i.e. the Ishmaelites or the Arabs, while Deuteronomy 33:2 speaks of the shining forth of the manifestation of the Lord, i.e. his coming in full glory "from Mount Paran". The Gospel is full of prophecies of the advent of the Holy Prophet; Matthew 21:33–44, Mark 12:1–11, Luke 20:9–18, where the Lord of the vineyard comes after the son (i.e. Jesus) is maltreated, and Matthew 13:31–32, John 1:21, John 14:16, John 14:26 all contain such prophecies.

a (158) As against the various prophets spoken of in this chapter, every one of whom was sent to his people, the Prophet Muhammad is here spoken of as having been sent to all people, to the whole of mankind. Thus the appearance of the Prophet Muhammad was a turning point in the history of humanity. The day of the national prophet was over and a new era had dawned in which the whole of humanity was ultimately to be united under one spiritual head. The idea of nationality had to give place to the broader idea of one humanity, and the basis of it was laid by the Quran.

b (159) Thus the Quran recognizes that there were good people among the Jews. See also v. 168.

you. And they did not do Us any harm, but they wronged their own souls.

161 And when it was said to them: Dwell in this town and eat from it wherever you wish, and make petition for forgiveness, and enter the gate submissively, We shall forgive you your wrongs. We shall give more to the doers of good. ¹⁶²But those who were unjust among them changed it for a word other than that which they were told, so We sent upon them a pestilence from heaven for their wrongdoing.^a

Section 21: Israelites' Transgressions

163 And ask them about the town which stood by the sea. When they violated the Sabbath, when their fish came to them on their Sabbath day on the surface, and when it was not their Sabbath they did not come to them. Thus did We try them because they transgressed.^b ¹⁶⁴And when some of them said: Why do you preach to a people whom Allah would destroy or whom He would punish with a severe punishment? They said: To be free from blame before your Lord, and that perhaps they may guard against evil. ¹⁶⁵So when they neglected what they had been reminded of, We delivered those who forbade evil and We overtook those who were wrongdoers with an evil punishment because they transgressed.

166 So when they revoltingly persisted in what they had been forbidden, We said to them: Be (as) apes, despised and hated. ¹⁶⁷And when your Lord declared that He would send against them to the day of Resurrection those who would subject them to severe torment. Surely your Lord is Quick in retribution; and surely He is Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁶⁸And We divided them in the earth into

b (163) The city referred to here is generally recognized as being Ela, which was situated on the Red Sea. The incident alluded to is mentioned as an instance of the Jewish violation of the Sabbath. The fish appeared on the surface of the water on the Sabbath because they had a sense of security on that day. This was a temptation for the people to break the law.

169 Then after them came an evil generation who inherited the Book, taking the frail goods of this low life and saying: It will be forgiven us. And if (more) such good came to them, they would take it (too).^a Was not a promise taken from them in the Book that they would not speak anything about Allah but the truth? And they study what is in it. And the abode of the Hereafter is better for those who keep their duty. Do you not then understand? ¹⁷⁰And as for those who hold fast by the Book and keep up prayer — surely We do not waste the reward of the reformers. ¹⁷¹And when We shook the mountain over them as if it were a covering, and they thought that it was going to fall down upon them: Hold on firmly what We have given you, and bear in mind what is in it, so that you may guard against evil.^b

Section 22: Evidence of Divine Impress on Man's Nature

172 And when your Lord brought forth from the children of Adam, from their loins, their descendants, and made them bear witness about themselves: Am I not your Lord? They said: Yes, we bear witness.^c In case you should say on the day of Resurrection: We were unaware of this, ¹⁷³or you should say: Only our fathers a (169) First they commit a crime for the frail goods of this life, saying that they will be forgiven; then persist in their evil course and when a similar occasion arises, they again return to the old crimes. There is no repentance.

b (171) The stories built upon these simple words by some commentators must be rejected. The words simply relate the experience of the elders of Israel when they stood at the foot of the mountain, which rose above them. There was a severe earthquake, which is referred to in v. 155, causing them to think that the mountain would fall down upon them.

c (172) The verse does not mention the bringing forth of descendants from Adam, but from the children of Adam, and this seems clearly to refer to every human being as he comes into existence. The evidence is, therefore, given by human nature itself. It is, in fact, the same evidence which is elsewhere spoken of as being afforded by human nature as in "the nature made by Allah in which He has created mankind" (30:30).

set up partners (with Allah) before (us), and we were (their) descendants after them. Will You destroy us for what liars did? ¹⁷⁴And thus do We make the messages clear, and that perhaps they may return.

175 And recite to them the news of him to whom We give Our messages, but he withdraws himself from them, so the devil follows him up, and he is of those who perish.^a ¹⁷⁶And if We had pleased, We would have exalted him thereby; but he clings to the earth and follows his low desire.^b His parable is as the parable of the dog — if you drive him away, he lolls out his tongue, and if you leave him alone, he lolls out his tongue. Such is the parable of the people who reject Our messages. So relate the narrative that they may reflect. ¹⁷⁷Evil is the likeness of the people who reject Our messages and wrong their own souls. ¹⁷⁸He whom Allah guides is on the right way; and he whom He leaves in error — they are the losers.

179 And certainly We have created for hell many of the jinn and the people — they have hearts with which they do not understand, and they have eyes with which they do not see, and they have ears with which they do not hear.^c They are as cattle; rather, they are more astray. These are the heedless ones. ¹⁸⁰And Allah's are the best names, so call on Him thereby^d and leave alone those a (175) This verse speaks generally of everyone to whom guidance is brought but he turns aside from it. This view is corroborated by what is stated at the conclusion of the parable in v. 176, such is the parable of the people who reject Our messages.

b (176) Earth here stands for all that is earthly, for things material. The people spoken of here are those who do not care for the higher values of life.

c (179) Many people and jinn are created for hell, but they are none other than the heedless ones who do not care for what is said. Allah has not created them differently from others, but they themselves do not use the faculties which Allah has granted them.

d (180-1) By the best names are meant names expressing the most excellent attributes of the Divine Being. By calling on Him thereby is meant that man should always keep the Divine attributes before his mind, endeavouring to possess those attributes.

who violate the sanctity of His names.^a They will be recompensed for what they do. ¹⁸¹And of those whom We have created is a community who guide with the truth and with it they do justice.

Section 23: The Coming of the Doom

182 And those who reject Our messages — We lead them (to destruction) step by step from where they do not know. ¹⁸³And I grant them respite. Surely My scheme is effective.^b ¹⁸⁴Do they not reflect (that) there is no madness in their companion? He is only a plain warner. ¹⁸⁵Do they not consider the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and what things Allah has created, and that it may be that their doom has drawn near? In what announcement after this will they then believe? ¹⁸⁶Whomsoever Allah leaves in error, there is no guide for him. And He leaves them alone in their inordinacy, blindly wandering on.

187 They ask you about the Hour,^c when will it take place? Say: Its knowledge is with my Lord only. None but He will manifest it at its time. It is momentous in the heavens and the earth. It will not come to you but suddenly. They ask you as if you could find out about it (by effort). Say: Its knowledge is with Allah only, but most people do not know. ¹⁸⁸Say: I do not control benefit nor harm for myself except as Allah please. And if I had known the unseen, I should have much of good, and no evil would touch me. I am but a warner and the giver of good news to a people who believe.^d a (180-2) Violation of the sanctity of His names is of two kinds: firstly, giving Him an improper or inaccurate attribute; and secondly, to interpret His attributes in a manner which does not befit Him.

b (183) The word kaid (scheme), in relation to God, indicates skill in the management or ordering of affairs.

c (187) That is, the Hour with which they are threatened as being the hour of their doom. The word sa'ah or the hour is used in the Quran to indicate both the doom of the guilty in this life and the time when a perfect manifestation of rewards and punishments will take place in the Hereafter.

d (188) The simplicity and nobility of this statement as indicating the mission of a prophet is unsurpassed. He gives glad news of triumph to those who

189 He it is Who created you from a single soul, and of the same did He make his mate, that he might find comfort in her. So when he covers her she bears a light burden, then moves about with it. Then when it grows heavy, they both call upon Allah, their Lord: If You give us a good one, we shall certainly be grateful. ¹⁹⁰But when He gives them a good one, they set up with Him partners in what He has given them. ^aSupremely exalted is Allah above what they set up as partners (with Him). ¹⁹¹Do they set up (with Him) that which has not created anything, while they are themselves created? ¹⁹²And they cannot give them help, nor can they help themselves.

193 And if you invite them to guidance, they will not follow you. It is the same to you whether you invite them or you are silent. ^b¹⁹⁴Those whom you call on besides Allah are slaves like yourselves; so call on them, then let them answer you, if you are truthful. ¹⁹⁵Do they have feet with which they walk, or do they have hands with which they hold, or do they have eyes with which they see, or do they have ears with which they hear? Say: Call upon your associate-gods then plot against me and give me no respite. ¹⁹⁶Surely my Friend is Allah, Who revealed the Book, and He befriends the righteous. ¹⁹⁷And those whom you call upon besides Him are not able to help you, nor can they help themselves.

198 And if you invite them to guidance, they do not hear; and you see them looking towards you, yet they do not see. ¹⁹⁹Take to forgiveness and enjoy good and turn away from the ignorant.

believe, warns the evil-doers of the evil consequences of their deeds in this life as well as in the next, but he does not claim the possession of Divine powers.

a (190) This describes the condition of man in general and refers to the evidence of his nature, for when in distress he always turns to Allah, but when in ease he goes after other gods or his own low desires.

b (193) Invitation to Truth must be extended to all, though some may not benefit by it. The meaning is further clarified in verses 198–199.

203 And when you do not bring them a sign, they say: Why do you not demand it? Say: I follow only what is revealed to me from my Lord. These are clear proofs from your Lord and a guidance and a mercy for a people who believe. ²⁰⁴And when the Quran is recited, listen to it and remain silent, that mercy may be shown to you. ²⁰⁵And remember your Lord within yourself humbly and fearing, and in a voice not loud, in the morning and the evening, and do not be one of the heedless. ²⁰⁶Surely those who are with your Lord are not too proud to serve Him, and they glorify Him and prostrate themselves before Him.

a (200) The devil in this case, as frequently in the Quran, stands for the devilish enemies who spread all kinds of false reports concerning the Holy Prophet, against which he is told to seek refuge in Allah.

b (201) The visitation of the devil means the happening of any grievous incident or the coming of an affliction from the hands of the devil, or the wicked acting in opposition to the righteous. Being endowed with insight, they see their way out of the affliction. The devil's visitation may also signify anger which blinds a man, and those who guard against evil are not blinded by it.

c (202) That is, the brethren of the devils, or the devil's human associates.

Al-Anfāl

Voluntary Gifts

This chapter deals with the battle of Badr, the first battle which the Muslims had to fight, and it goes under the name of Anfāl, literally voluntary gifts, because the Muslim State had at the time no treasury, nor any arsenal, nor an army and voluntary gifts were therefore called for. It was not only this battle but all the succeeding battles which Muslims had to fight were carried on only by voluntary gifts. Success in this battle, against all odds, provided proof of the truth of the Holy Prophet's mission and thus this chapter occurs after a discussion of prophethood in the last chapter. Most of this chapter was revealed in 2 A.H., while the concluding verses of sections 7 and 8 were revealed around the time of the conquest of Makkah in 8 A.H.

Section 1: The Battle of Badr — Muslims go forth

1 They ask you about voluntary gifts. Say: Voluntary gifts are for Allah and the Messenger.^a So keep your duty to Allah and set aright your differences, and obey Allah and His Messenger, if you are believers. ²They only are believers whose hearts are full of fear when Allah is mentioned, and when His messages are recited to them they increase them in faith, and in their Lord do they trust, ³those who keep up prayer and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them. ⁴These are the believers truly. For them are with their Lord exalted grades and protection and an honourable sustenance.

a (1) There is much difference of opinion among the commentators as to what is meant by anfāl here. The most generally received opinion is that it means property acquired during the war. I take the word anfāl as carrying here its literal significance of voluntary gifts for the advancement of the cause of Islam, such voluntary gifts being most needed at a time when the very life of Islam was threatened. Indeed there is no better justification for a war than that it is carried on by the voluntary gifts of those whose life is in danger. It is the only war that is really carried on by the people in self-defence.

5 Even as your Lord caused you to go forth from your house with truth, though some of the believers were surely averse,^a 6disputing with you about the truth after it had become clear — as if they were being driven to death while they saw (it). 7And when Allah promised you one of the two parties that it should be yours, and you loved that the one not armed should be yours,^b and Allah desired to establish the Truth by His words,^c and to cut off the root of the disbelievers — 8that He might cause the Truth to triumph and bring falsehood to failure, though the guilty disliked.

9 When you sought the aid of your Lord, so He answered you: I will assist you with a thousand of the angels following one another. 10And Allah gave it only as good news, and that your hearts a (5) The circumstances of the battle of Badr have been misunderstood. It is alleged that the Holy Prophet had made preparations for attacking an unarmed caravan of the Quraish on its way back from Syria to Makkah, when Abu Sufyan, the caravan leader, sent word to Makkah and obtained an escort of nearly a thousand men. If the Holy Prophet had desired to plunder the caravan when it approached Madinah, he would have done so long before Abu Sufyan could obtain assistance from Makkah, as Madinah was thirteen days' journey from Makkah. Badr lies at a distance of three days' journey from Madinah. The enemy had marched forth for ten days and the Muslims only for three days when the two forces encountered each other at Badr, which shows clearly that the Muslims had turned out to take the defensive against an invading force. It is clearly stated here that some of the believers were averse to fighting. They could not have been averse if they had to encounter only an unarmed caravan. It is said in the next verse that they went forth as if they were being driven to death. They knew that they were going to meet an enemy treble in numbers and much more powerful and efficient.

b (7-1) The two parties referred to were the unarmed caravan of the Quraish going to Makkah and the armed force of the Quraish that was on its way to Madinah. Naturally, some of the Muslims desired that their encounter should take place with the unarmed Quraish caravan.

c (7-2) By His words is meant here the fulfilment of His words, because the Holy Prophet had declared at Makkah long before that an encounter would take place between the Muslims and the Quraish, in which the former would be victorious. The Holy Prophet himself repeated one of these prophecies aloud in the field when he prayed on the day of Badr: "Soon shall the armies be routed, and they will show their backs" (54:45).

11 When He made slumber fall on you as a security from Him, and sent down upon you water from the clouds that He might purify you with it,^b and take away from you the uncleanness of the devil, and that He might fortify your hearts and make firm (your) feet by it.^c 12When your Lord revealed to the angels: I am with you, so make firm those who believe. I will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve. So strike above the necks and strike every finger-tip of them.^d 13This is because they opposed Allah and His Messenger. And whoever opposes Allah and His Messenger — then surely Allah is Severe in retribution. 14This — taste it, and (know) that for the disbelievers is the punishment of the Fire.

a (10) See 3:124 footnote. It is nowhere stated in the Quran that the angels actually fought, but here, as in 3:126, we are told that the angels were sent down to bear good news of victory and to ease the hearts of the Muslims. Here, however, we are further told that, as a result of the coming of the angels, calm fell upon the Muslims, their hearts being strengthened and their footsteps being steadied (v. 11), and that while the believers were thus made firm, terror was cast into the hearts of the disbelievers (v. 12). Hence it is that the number of angels corresponds with the strength of the enemy force in each case.

b (11-1) Compare 25:25, which is a prophecy about the events of this remarkable battle: “And on the day when the heaven bursts apart with clouds, and the angels are sent down, as they are sent”. The rainfall brought many advantages to the Muslims, for which see the next footnote.

c (11-2) Before the rain fell the Muslim position was very weak. The enemy had the command of the water and the Muslims were in a low and sandy place. Therefore there were some who had misgivings, which, as is said here, were due to the devil’s uncleanness. The enemy having taken possession of the drinking-water, the Muslims feared being troubled by thirst, which is called the devil of the desert. The rain strengthened the position of the Muslims and consequently comforted their hearts. This was a purification, for after the rainfall they all became certain of Divine help and so of their triumph over the enemy.

d (12) The two phrases, strike above the necks and strike the finger-tips, respectively signify the killing of the enemy and disabling him so as to render him unfit for taking further part in fighting.

15 O you who believe, when you meet those who disbelieve marching for war, do not turn your backs to them. ¹⁶And whoever turns his back to them on that day — unless manoeuvring for battle or turning to join a company — he indeed incurs Allah's wrath and his refuge is hell. And an evil destination it is. ¹⁷So you did not kill them but Allah killed them, and you (O Prophet) did not strike when you struck (the enemy), but Allah struck (him),^a and that He might confer upon the believers a benefit from Himself.^b Surely Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ¹⁸This^c — and (know) that Allah will weaken the struggle of the disbelievers. ¹⁹If you sought a judgment, the judgment has indeed come to you; and if you cease (fighting), it is better for you. And if you return (to fighting), We (too) shall return and your forces will not avail you at all, though they may be many; and (know) that Allah is with the believers.

Section 3: The Way to Success

20 O you who believe, obey Allah and His Messenger and do not turn away from Him while you hear. ²¹And do not be like those who say, We hear; and they do not hear. ²²Surely the vilest of beasts, in Allah's sight, are the deaf, the dumb, who do a (17-1) Ramā carries a number of significances, including throwing, flinging, assailing and striking. It is used in connection with fighting, and therefore striking is its equivalent here. The first part of the verse about killing refers to the Muslims generally, the address being in the plural; and the second part, being in the singular, is understood as referring to the Holy Prophet. The Muslims killed the enemy, but it is affirmed that really they did not kill, but it was Allah Who killed them; the meaning apparently being that Allah's hand was working in the battle. The same applies to the other passage relating to the striking of the enemy by the Holy Prophet. Whether the Prophet actually threw a handful of pebbles at the enemy, which discomfited the latter, is a different question. It was Allah's hand that killed them, and it was His hand that struck them and ultimately put them to rout.

b (17-2) The benefit spoken of here is a victory which strengthened the foundations of Islam, and dealt a death-blow to the evil designs of those who were determined to exterminate it, as is plainly stated in the next verse.

not understand.^a ²³And if Allah had known any good in them, He would have made them hear. And if He makes them hear, they would turn away while they are averse.

24 O you who believe, respond to Allah and His Messenger, when he calls you to that which gives you life.^b And know that Allah comes in between a man and his heart,^c and that to Him you will be gathered. ²⁵And guard yourselves against an affliction which may not strike those of you exclusively who are wrongdoers; and know that Allah is Severe in retribution.^d

26 And remember when you were few, considered weak in the land, fearing if people should carry you off by force, He sheltered you and strengthened you with His help, and gave you good things that you might give thanks. ²⁷O you who believe, do not be unfaithful to Allah and the Messenger, nor be unfaithful to your trusts, while you know. ²⁸And know that your wealth and your children are a temptation, and that Allah is He with Whom there is a mighty reward.

29 O you who believe, if you keep your duty to Allah, He will grant you a distinction and do away with your evils and protect you. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace. ³⁰And when those

b (24-1) Faith or submission to Allah is life, and disbelief is death. By the expression that which gives you life some understand the Quran, others take it to mean jihad, or exertion in the cause of truth. Evidently it is faith.

c (24-2) By heart is meant the desires of the heart. The Divine intervention is the cutting off of those desires. The faithful are enjoined to be quick in responding to the call of the Holy Prophet, and not to indulge in worldly desires, for these may soon be cut off. Or, the meaning is that they must respond to the call of the Holy Prophet in case, having deprived themselves of one occasion of doing good, the heart should be hardened, and, as a punishment for the first rejection, Allah may so turn it that it may not turn to good at all.

d (25) This refers to afflictions that are of such a widespread nature as to overtake even others, in addition to those for whom they are primarily intended.

who disbelieved devised plans against you that they might confine you or kill you or drive you away — and they devised plans and Allah, too, had arranged a plan; and Allah is the Best of planners.^a ³¹And when Our messages are recited to them, they say: We have heard. If we wished, we could say the like of it; this is nothing but the stories of the ancients.^b

32 And when they said: O Allah, if this is indeed the truth from You, then rain down on us stones from heaven or inflict on us a painful punishment. ³³And Allah would not punish them while you were among them; nor would Allah punish them while they seek forgiveness.^c ³⁴And what excuse have they that Allah should not punish them while they hinder (people) from the Sacred Mosque and they are not its (true) guardians? Its guardians are only those who keep their duty, but most of them do not know.^d ³⁵And their prayer at the House is nothing but whistling and clapping of hands.^e Taste, then, the punishment, because you disbelieved.

36 Surely those who disbelieve spend their wealth to hinder (people) from the way of Allah. So they will go on spending it, then it will be to them a regret, then they will be overcome. And those who disbelieve will be gathered together to hell, ³⁷that Allah a (30) The reference is to the final plans of the Quraish when, the Companions having emigrated to Madinah, the Prophet was left alone at Makkah. The Divine plan was that the disbelievers should see the downfall of their power at the hands of the Prophet.

b (31) That this was an empty boast is confirmed by the fact that, although the Quran repeatedly challenged them to produce anything like it, they could not produce even the like of its shortest chapter.

c (33) The punishment was to overtake them when the Holy Prophet was no more among them, i.e. after his flight from Makkah. But even then the punishment might be averted if they asked for forgiveness.

d (34) The words contain a prophecy not only as to the deprivation of the disbelieving Quraish of the guardianship of the Ka'bah, but also as to the passing of the guardianship into the hands of the Muslims.

e (35) In fact the House was not used by them for offering prayers to God but for sacrilegious talk and gossiping.

may separate the wicked from the good, and put the wicked upon one another, then heap them together, then cast them into hell. These indeed are the losers.

Section 5: Badr as Sign of the Prophet's Truth

38 Say to those who disbelieve, if they cease (fighting), what is past will be forgiven them; and if they return (to it), then the example of those of old has already gone.^a ³⁹And fight them until there is no more persecution, and all religions are for Allah. But if they cease, then surely Allah is Seer of what they do.^b ⁴⁰And if they turn back, then know that Allah is your Patron. Most excellent the Patron and most excellent the Helper!

41 And know that whatever you acquire in war, a fifth of it is for Allah and for the Messenger and for the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the traveller,^c if you believe in Allah a (38) They had gone away from Badr quite discomfited, and they were told that, if they ceased fighting, they would be forgiven. Otherwise, they could read their own doom in the doom of those with whom Allah had dealt previously in similar circumstances.

b (39) That is, if they cease fighting and put an end to their mischief, God's decree of punishment will not be executed. The state of religious liberty which Islam aimed at is put tersely in the two opening statements — there is no more persecution and all religions are for Allah, everyone being at liberty to hold any belief he likes.

c (41-1) The one-fifth spoken of here is to be divided again into five parts, the Prophet, the near of kin, the orphans, the poor, and the traveller being equal sharers. The near of kin included all individuals belonging to the tribes of Bani Hashim and Bani Abdul Muttalib, to whom zakāt money was not allowed. The poor among them were thus paid from this source of income. As to the Holy Prophet's twenty-fifth, it was also used for the benefit of the Muslims. The remaining four-fifths of the acquisitions were divided among those who took part in the battle, as they were not otherwise paid for their services, but there is no order to this effect in the Quran itself. This arrangement was simply an exigency. War was forced on Muslims all of a sudden when the State had not yet been properly formed; there was no army at all, nor a treasury from which to pay it; and just as they were required to carry on war on the basis of voluntary gifts, so they were allowed a share in the war acquisitions. If the State pays its soldiers as it pays its civil servants, the war acquisitions would all go to the State treasury.

and in what We revealed to Our servant, on the day of Distinction, the day on which the two forces met.^a And Allah is Powerful over all things.

42 When you were on the nearer side (of the valley) and they were on the farther side, while the caravan was in a lower place than you.^b And if you had tried to make a mutual appointment, you would certainly have broken away from the appointment, but^c — in order that Allah might bring about a matter which had to be done;^d that he who perished by clear argument might perish, and he who lived by clear argument might live.^e And surely Allah is Hearing, Knowing: ⁴³When Allah showed them to you in your dream as few^f — and if He had shown them to you as many, you (O Muslims) would certainly have become weak-hearted and you would have disputed about the matter, but Allah saved (you). Surely He is Knower of what is in the hearts. ⁴⁴And when He showed them to you, when you met, as few in your eyes, and He made you to appear few in their eyes, in order that Allah might bring about a matter which had to be done.^g And to Allah are all affairs returned.

b (42-1) The Muslims were on the side nearer to Madinah, the main army of the Quraish was on the side which was farther from Madinah, while the caravan was in a lower place, i.e. towards the sea-coast, and farther away from Madinah, on its way to Makkah.

c (42-2) There is a break here, the meaning being but an encounter was brought about without an appointment. The Muslims were so weak that they could not think of making an appointment with the enemy — they would have broken away from the appointment.

d (42-3) The matter referred to is the defeat of the opponents of Islam.

e (42-4) The disbelievers had seen clear arguments of the Holy Prophet's truth, yet they rejected him and had thus perished in a spiritual sense; they were now vanquished in the battle and thus perished temporally.

f (43) The Holy Prophet's seeing them few in a vision must be interpreted as signifying their actual weakness, despite their great number.

g (44) Here we are told that they were also shown to be few to the Muslims when the two armies met. See 3:13 and footnote.

Section 6: Success does not depend on Numbers

45 O you who believe, when you meet an army, be firm, and remember Allah much, that you may be successful. ⁴⁶And obey Allah and His Messenger and do not dispute with one another so that you get weak-hearted and your power departs; and be steadfast. Surely Allah is with the steadfast.

47 And do not be like those who came forth from their homes exultingly and to be seen by people, and they hinder (people) from the way of Allah.^a And Allah encompasses what they do. ⁴⁸And when the devil made their works seem good to them, and said: No man can overcome you this day, and I am your protector. But when the two armies came in sight of one another, he turned upon his heels, and said: Surely I am clear of you, I see what you do not see; surely I fear Allah.^b And Allah is Severe in retribution.

49 And when the hypocrites and those in whose hearts is a disease said: Their religion has deluded them. And whoever trusts in Allah, then surely Allah is Mighty, Wise. ⁵⁰And if you could see when the angels cause to die those who disbelieve, striking their faces and their backs, and (saying): Taste the punishment of burning. ⁵¹This is for what your hands have sent ahead, and because Allah is not in the least unjust to the servants — ⁵²in the manner of the people of Pharaoh and those before them, they disbelieved in Allah's messages, so Allah punished them for their sins. Surely Allah is Strong, Severe in retribution. ⁵³This is because Allah never changes a favour which He has conferred upon a people until they change their own condition — and because Allah is Hearing, Knowing — ⁵⁴in the manner of the people of Pharaoh, and those before them. They rejected the messages of their Lord, a (47) This clearly refers to the army of the Quraish which had marched forth in great exultation to destroy Madinah.

b (48) The person referred to here as the devil is said to have been Surāqa ibn Mālik who gave the Quraish promise of help. However, what is stated here may only be the devil's suggestion to the Quraish leaders.

so We destroyed them for their sins. And We drowned Pharaoh's people and they were all wrongdoers.

55 Surely the vilest of beasts in Allah's sight are those who disbelieve, then they would not believe — ⁵⁶those with whom you make an agreement, then they break their agreement every time, and they do not keep their duty.^a ⁵⁷So if you overtake them in war, scatter by them those who are behind them, that they may be mindful.^b ⁵⁸And if you fear treachery on the part of a people, throw back to them (their treaty) on terms of equality. Surely Allah does not love the treacherous.^c

Section 8: Peace to be secured by Strength

59 And those who disbelieve should not think that they can outstrip (Us). Surely they cannot escape. ⁶⁰And make ready for them whatever force you can and horses tied at the frontier, to frighten thereby the enemy of Allah and your enemy and others besides them, whom you do not know — Allah knows them.^d And whatever you spend in Allah's way, it will be paid back to you fully and you will not be wronged.

a (56) It shows how the opponents of Islam disregarded their responsibility and violated their agreements. The use of the words every time shows clearly that the Muslims never hesitated in making a new agreement when one was violated, but the disbelievers did not even then respect their agreements; hence, as a last resort, Muslims were allowed to repudiate unrespected agreements (v. 58).

b (57) That is, an exemplary punishment should be inflicted on them, so that a stop might be put to further fighting and bloodshed.

c (58) If the other party does not remain faithful to the agreement of peace, Muslims may also repudiate it. The word fear does not indicate that a mere apprehension, unsupported by any action on the other side's part, is sufficient for repudiation. Read it along with v. 62, and the meaning is clear.

d (60) Muslims had won a victory at Badr, though they were not even well-equipped and had made no preparation for the war. But they are told that they must in future keep themselves well prepared and avail themselves of all sources of strength, so that the enemy should by their very preparedness assume a peaceful attitude. It was evident that the weakness of the Muslims was a temptation for their opponents to attack them.

61 And if they incline to peace, you (must) incline to it also, and trust in Allah. Surely He is the Hearer, the Knower. ⁶²And if they intend to deceive you, then surely Allah is sufficient for you.^a He it is Who strengthened you with His help and with the believers, ⁶³and He has united their hearts. If you had spent all that is in the earth, you could not have united their hearts, but Allah united them. Surely He is Mighty, Wise. ⁶⁴O Prophet, Allah is sufficient for you and those who follow you from the believers.

65 O Prophet, urge the believers to fight.^b If there are of you twenty steadfast, they shall overcome two hundred; and if there are of you a hundred, they shall overcome a thousand of those who disbelieve, because they are a people who do not understand.^c ⁶⁶Now Allah has lightened your burden and He knows that there is weakness in you. So if there are of you a hundred steadfast, they shall overcome two hundred; and if there are of you a thousand, they shall overcome two thousand by Allah's permission. And Allah is with the steadfast.^d a (62) The deceit is in relation to what has been said in the previous verse, the meaning being that if they intend to deceive you under the cloak of peace, even in such a case peace is to be accepted.

b (65-1) It should be noted that the war to which Muslims were to be urged was the defensive war which they had to fight to save themselves and to protect the religion of Islam. The sword had been taken up against them; see 2:190, 2:217, 22:39, etc.

c (65-2) There is a clear prophecy here that, despite their fewer numbers, Muslims shall be victorious. After the battle of Badr came the battle of Uhud, in which Muslims were less than 1 to 4 against the enemy; this was followed by the battle of the Ahzāb, in which they were 1 to 10, yet the enemy was routed.

d (66) The statements in verses 65 and 66 relate to two different states of the Muslims. At the time of the battle of Badr there was no Muslim army in existence. They had very few arms, and they had never been trained. This is referred to in the words: He knows that there is weakness in you. So the Muslim forces as then constituted could at most be a match for double their numbers. But a time did come when they were a match for ten times their numbers. So both the statements in the Quran proved true.

67 It is not fit for a prophet to take captives unless he has fought and triumphed in the land. You desire the frail goods of this world, while Allah desires (for you) the Hereafter.^a And Allah is Mighty, Wise. ⁶⁸If an ordinance from Allah had not gone before,^b surely a great punishment would have befallen you for what you were going to do. ⁶⁹Eat then of the lawful and good (things) which you have acquired in war, and keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

70 O Prophet, say to those of the captives who are in your hands: If Allah knows anything good in your hearts, He will give you better than what has been taken from you, and will forgive you. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ⁷¹And if they intend to be treacherous to you, so indeed they have been treacherous to Allah before, but He gave (you) mastery over them. And Allah is Knowing, Wise.

72 Surely those who believed and fled (their homes) and struggled hard in Allah's way with their wealth and their lives, and those who gave shelter and helped — these are friends of a (67) The commentators are of opinion that this verse and the next refer to releasing the prisoners of war taken at Badr after taking ransom from them, which act, it is said, is here disapproved. But various considerations show that these verses refer to some other incidents. The reference is to the desire — not to an action already completed — of a party of the Muslims referred to in v. 7, and you loved that the one not armed should be yours. Some Muslims desired to attack and capture the unarmed caravan, but depredations like these, though committed by disbelievers upon Muslims, were not fit for a prophet. He must fight a hard fight in his defence first and then, if he overcomes the enemy, he may take prisoners. Thus this injunction also declares slavery to be illegal, and allows only the retaining of those who are taken prisoners in war. The frail goods of this world appropriately refer to the caravan and its merchandise, while the addition of the concluding words in v. 69, eat then of the lawful and good things which you have acquired in war, shows that the ransom received on account of the prisoners is among the lawful and good things.

b (68) That ordinance from Allah was to bring about an encounter with the main army of the Quraish at Badr. It is referred to in v. 7 and v. 42.

one another. And those who believed and did not flee, you are not responsible for their protection until they flee. And if they seek help from you in the matter of religion, it is your duty to help (them) except against a people between whom and you there is a treaty.^a And Allah is Seer of what you do. ⁷³And those who disbelieve are friends of one another. If you do not do it, there will be persecution in the land and great mischief.^b ⁷⁴And those who believed and fled and struggled hard in Allah's way, and those who gave shelter and helped — these are the believers truly. For them is forgiveness and an honourable provision. ⁷⁵And those who believed afterwards and fled and struggled hard along with you, they are of you. And the relatives are nearer to one another in the ordinance of Allah.^c Surely Allah is Knower of all things.

a (72) Those who believed, and, having been persecuted, fled from their homes, i.e. the Muhājirīn, formed a community at Madinah along with those who gave them shelter and helped them, i.e. the Anṣār. But there were those who chose to remain in their homes. The Muslim community at Madinah could not undertake to guard the interests of such persons, and this is what is meant by saying, you are not responsible for their protection. But if they seek help in the matter of religion, it is incumbent on the Muslim community to give them help, unless there exists a treaty of alliance with the people against whom such help is sought.

b (73) If you do not help your brethren in the matter of religion, the disbelievers will become more daring in their persecutions and in causing mischief and disorder in the land.

c (75) When even strangers who have accepted Islam and fled from their homes become “of you”, those who have in addition ties of relationship, possess every title to have their interests guarded by the Muslim community.

Chapter 9

Al-Barā'at

Immunity

The name of this chapter (which is also called Al-Taubah or Repentance) refers to the declaration in its opening verses that Muslims were now not subject to their agreements with certain idolatrous Arab tribes who had been constantly breaking them (verses 7–13). The chapter thus first deals with the subject of agreements with them as depending on their adherence to them, and goes on to prophesy the triumph of Islam in Arabia and later in the world. It then refers to the expedition to Tabūk by Muslims undertaken at great sacrifice, and deals with the subject of those who excused themselves and the hypocrites. At the end, Muslims are reminded of the importance of the propagation of Islam and contributing towards it, which was the real object of Islam. This chapter was revealed in 9 A.H. This is the only chapter of the Quran not opening with Bismillāh, “In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful”, as it is, in a sense, a continuation of the last chapter.

Section 1: Declaration of Immunity

1 A declaration of immunity from Allah and His Messenger to those of the idolaters with whom you made an agreement.^a ²So go about in the land for four months and know that you cannot escape Allah and that Allah will disgrace the disbelievers. ³And an announcement from Allah and His Messenger to the people on the day of the greater pilgrimage that Allah is free from liability to the idolaters, and so is His Messenger.^b So if you repent, it will be a (1) This is a declaration of immunity from obligations with such of the idolatrous tribes of Arabia as had repeatedly broken their agreements with the Muslims. They broke their agreements again and again (8:56), yet the Muslims were enjoined to accept peace if the disbelievers consented to it, even after repeated violations (8:61). But this state of things could not continue long, for it was soon found that it was impossible to trust such neighbours. This repudiation of agreements took place on a large scale when the Muslims were absent on the Tabūk expedition.

b (3) The first thirteen verses of this chapter were publicly proclaimed by Ali on the occasion of the pilgrimage in 9 A.H.

better for you; and if you turn away, then know that you will not escape Allah. And announce painful punishment to those who disbelieve — ⁴except those of the idolaters with whom you made an agreement, then they have not failed you in anything and have not backed up anyone against you; so fulfil their agreement to the end of their term. Surely Allah loves those who keep their duty.^a

5 So when the sacred months have passed, kill the idolaters, wherever you find them, and take them captive and besiege them and lie in wait for them in every ambush.^b But if they repent and keep up prayer and give the due charity, leave their way free.^c Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. 6And if anyone of the idolaters seek your protection, protect him till he hears the word of Allah, then convey him to his place of safety. This is because they are a people who do not know.^d a (4) The exception given here makes it clear that the Muslims were not fighting with the idolaters on account of their religion, but on account of their having been untrue to their agreements.

b (5-1) The clear exception of the last verse shows that by the idolaters here are meant, not all idolaters or polytheists wherever they may be found in the world, not even all idolaters of Arabia, but only those idolatrous tribes of Arabia assembled at the pilgrimage who had first made agreements with the Muslims and then violated them. The order to kill them and to make them prisoners and to besiege them and ambush them amounts clearly to an order to fight against them, as it is in war only that all these actions are made lawful. (Editor's Note: The expression “kill them wherever you find them” has also been used in 2:190–191, where it is also declared clearly: “And fight in the way of Allah against those who fight against you but do not be aggressive”. Thus “wherever you find them” means wherever you find those who are engaged in fighting against you, after they have been the first to attack you.)

c (5-2) The whole verse relates to certain idolatrous Arab tribes who had broken their engagements with the Muslims, and who had now been apprised of a similar repudiation by the Muslims. They had so often broken their word that they could no more be trusted. Yet, if they joined the brotherhood of Islam, and there was an absolute change in their condition, the punishment which they otherwise deserved could be remitted. It was a case of forgiving a guilty people who had repented. Nothing could be further from the truth than the allegation that this offers to the disbelievers the alternative of either being killed or accepting Islam.

d (6) This verse leaves no doubt that the Holy Prophet was never ordered by God to kill anyone on account of his religion. Any idolater seeking the protection

Section 2: Reasons for the Immunity

7 How can there be an agreement for the idolaters with Allah and with His Messenger, except those with whom you made an agreement at the Sacred Mosque? So as long as they are true to you, be true to them. Surely Allah loves those who keep their duty.^a 8How (can it be)? And if they prevail against you, they respect neither ties of relationship nor covenant in your case. They would please you with their mouths while their hearts refuse; and most of them are transgressors.

9 They have taken a small price for the messages of Allah, so they hinder (people) from His way. Surely evil is what they do. 10They respect neither ties of relationship nor covenant in the case of a believer. And these are they who go beyond the limits.^b 11But if they repent and keep up prayer and give the due charity, they are your brethren in faith. And We make the messages clear for a people who know. 12And if they break their oaths after their agreement and revile your religion, then fight the leaders of disbelief — surely their oaths are nothing — so that they may cease.^c

13 Will you not fight a people who broke their oaths and aimed at the expulsion of the Messenger, and they attacked you first?^d Do you fear them? But Allah has more right that you should fear Him, if you are believers. 14Fight them; Allah will punish of the Muslims in order to learn about Islam was to be granted safe conduct to return home in case he did not think it fit to embrace Islam.

a (7) So long as the idolaters were true to their agreements, Muslims were required to be true to them. Just as in the case of war, Muslims were not allowed to fight until the enemy had first attacked, so, in the case of repudiation of agreements, it was the enemy who first repudiated the agreement.

b (10) Note the repeated assertions of the Quran that the disbelievers were not to be fought against for their disbelief but for their being first in starting war or repudiating agreements.

c (12) Those leaders of disbelief are to be fought against who break their oaths after their agreements.

d (13) Editor's Note: This again makes clear that Muslims are only required to fight those who attacked them first.

them at your hands and bring them to disgrace, and assist you against them and relieve the hearts of a believing people, ¹⁵and remove the rage of their hearts. And Allah turns (mercifully) to whom He pleases. And Allah is Knowing, Wise. ¹⁶Do you think that you would be left alone while Allah has not yet known those of you who struggle hard and do not take anyone as an intimate friend besides Allah and His Messenger and the believers? And Allah is Aware of what you do.

Section 3: Idolaters' Service of the Sacred House

17 The idolaters have no right to maintain the mosques of Allah, while bearing witness to disbelief against themselves.^a These it is whose deeds are fruitless; and in the Fire will they abide. ¹⁸Only he can maintain the mosques of Allah who believes in Allah and the Last Day, and keeps up prayer and gives the due charity and fears none but Allah. So these it is who may be of the guided ones. ¹⁹Do you hold the giving of drink to the pilgrims and the maintenance of the Sacred Mosque equal to (the service of) one who believes in Allah and the Last Day and strives hard in Allah's way? They are not equal in the sight of Allah. And Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people. ²⁰Those who believed and fled (their homes), and strove hard in Allah's way with their wealth and their lives, are much higher in rank with Allah. And it is these that shall triumph. ²¹Their Lord gives them good news of mercy and pleasure, from Himself, and Gardens in which lasting blessings will be theirs, ²²abiding in them forever. Surely Allah has a mighty reward with Him.

23 O you who believe, do not take your fathers and your brothers for friends if they love disbelief above faith. And whoever of you takes them for friends, such are the wrongdoers. ²⁴Say: If your fathers and your sons and your brethren and your wives and your kinsfolk and the wealth you have acquired, and trade whose dullness you fear, and dwellings you love, are dearer to you than Allah and His Messenger and striving in His way, then wait till Allah brings His command to pass. And Allah does not guide the transgressing people.^a

^a (17) By the mosques of Allah is meant particularly the Sacred Mosque at Makkah, as being the centre of all the mosques of the world. This is made clear in v. 19. It had long remained in the hands of the idolaters, who visited and repaired it, having placed a large number of idols within it. With the conquest of Makkah the Sacred Mosque was denuded of all idols, and was now as pure an emblem of monotheism as in the time of Abraham. Hence the idol-worshippers had nothing to do with it now.

Section 4: Islam made Triumphant in Arabia

25 Certainly Allah helped you in many battlefields, and on the day of Hunain, when your great numbers made you proud, but they availed you nothing, and the earth with all its vastness was narrowed for you, then you turned back retreating.^b ²⁶Then Allah sent down His calm upon His Messenger and upon the believers, and sent armies which you did not see, and punished those who disbelieved. And such is the reward of the disbelievers. ²⁷Then will Allah, after this, turn mercifully to whom He pleases. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

28 O you who believe, the idolaters are surely unclean,^c so a (24) A true Muslim may have wealth, may carry on trade, may have magnificent houses, but these should not be dearer to him than Allah and exertion in His path. He should be ready to sacrifice all these interests for a higher purpose, before which all these sink into insignificance. The Quran does not require one actually to hate riches, but rather not to be obsessed by wealth to the neglect of one's higher duties. The acquisition of wealth is not harmful so long as it is not made the real aim of life, but has its proper place as the means to an end.

b (25) The battle of Hunain, fought in 8 A.H. in the valley of Hunain, about three miles from Makkah, differed from the other battles in that the Muslims here outnumbered the enemy. However, the archers of the enemy were good marksmen, and had occupied strong positions in the mountain passes. The Muslim army contained some men from Makkah still adhering to idolatry. Unfortunately this was the advance party of the army, and, unable to face the archers, they retreated causing disorder to the whole army. The Holy Prophet, however, led the assault, at first alone, in face of the archers, but was soon joined by others and a victory was obtained, as the next verse shows.

c (28-1) Because they indulged in evil practices and went naked round the Ka'bah. Compare 5:90, where idols are declared to be unclean.

they shall not approach the Sacred Mosque after this year of theirs.^a And if you fear poverty, then Allah will enrich you out of His grace, if He please.^b Surely Allah is Knowing, Wise. ²⁹Fight those who do not believe in Allah, nor in the Last Day, nor forbid what Allah and His Messenger have forbidden, nor follow the Religion of Truth, out of those who have been given the Book, until they pay the tax in acknowledgement of superiority and they are in a state of subjection.^c b (28-3) The importance of Makkah as a commercial centre lay in the fact that the whole of Arabia repaired to it in the season of the pilgrimage, and there carried out important commercial transactions. The prohibition referred to in the first part of the verse could have been easily foreseen as affecting the commerce, and consequently the prosperity of Makkah, but worldly or business considerations never interfered with the carrying out of the moral reforms of Islam.

c (29) The great Christian power, the Roman Empire, had just mobilized its forces for the subjection of the new religion, and the Tabūk expedition took place, which is dealt with further on in this chapter. As the object of this Christian power was simply the subjection of the Muslims, their final defeat by the Muslims is spoken of as subjection. It was not in any way the object of the Quran to bring the Christians into subjection. On the other hand, the Christians first moved themselves to bring Muslim Arabia under subjection. The jizyah or tax spoken of here is, according to Lane's Lexicon, the tax that is taken from the free non-Muslim subjects of the Muslim Government whereby they ratify the compact that ensures them protection.

The permission to fight given to Muslims is subject to the condition that the enemy should first take up the sword (2:190). The Holy Prophet never overstepped this limit, nor did his followers. He fought against the Arabs when they took up the sword to destroy the Muslims, and he led an expedition against the Christians when the Roman Empire first mobilized its forces with the object of subjugating the Muslims. When he found that the enemy had not yet taken the initiative, he did not attack the Roman Empire, but returned without fighting. Later on, however, the Roman Empire, like the Persians, fomented trouble against the newly established Muslim Kingdom, as a result of which both these empires came into conflict with the Muslims and, despite the fact that both the Persians and the Romans were very powerful nations with unlimited resources and strong military organizations, and that they both tried at the same time to subjugate Islam, the result was what is predicted here in clear words — they were both reduced to a state of subjection by an insignificant nation like the Arabs.

30 And the Jews say: Ezra is the son of Allah;^a and the Christians say: The Messiah is the son of Allah. These are the words of their mouths. They imitate the saying of those who disbelieved before.^b Allah's curse be on them! How they are turned away (from truth)! ³¹They take their doctors of law and their monks for lords besides Allah,^c and (also) the Messiah, son of Mary. And they were enjoined that they should serve one God only — there is no god but He. Glory be to Him from what they set up as partners (with Him)!

32 They desire to put out the light of Allah with their mouths, but Allah will allow nothing except the perfection of His light, though the disbelievers are averse.^d ³³He it is Who has sent His Messenger with the guidance and the Religion of Truth that He may make it prevail over all religions, though those who set up partners (with Allah) are averse.^e a (30-1) It has been shown by Muslim historians that there was a sect among the Jews who raised Ezra to the dignity of godhead or son of God. The Quran never blames the Jewish nation as a whole for entertaining this belief. However, the word son in case of Ezra may have been used here freely as meaning a special favourite, in the same way as elsewhere the Quran says of the Jews and the Christians that they call themselves the sons of Allah and His beloved ones (5:18).

b (30-2) We are here told that the Christian doctrine that Jesus Christ was the son of God was borrowed from earlier pagan people. Recent research has established the fact beyond all doubt. In fact, when St. Paul saw that the Jews would on no account accept Jesus Christ as a messenger of God, he introduced the pagan doctrine of sonship of God into the Christian religion, so that it might become more acceptable to the pagans.

c (31) This does not mean that they took them actually for gods; the meaning is that they followed them blindly in what they enjoined and what they forbade, attaching to them a Divine dignity. Muslims who accord a similar position to their ulama, spiritual leaders or saints are guilty of the same error.

d (32) This is a prophecy of the ultimate triumph of Islam in face of severe opposition. All opposition to truth, whether based on force or propaganda, is here compared with putting out the Divine light by blowing with the mouth to show that all such attempts would prove futile. The Divine light will be made perfect, by which is meant the triumph of Islam, as the next verse states clearly.

e (33) The prophecy of the ultimate triumph of Islam in the whole world is 34 O you who believe, surely many of the doctors of law and monks eat away people's property falsely, and hinder (them) from Allah's way. And those who hoard up gold and silver and do not spend it in Allah's way — announce to them a painful punishment, ³⁵on the day when it will be heated in the Fire of hell, then their foreheads and their sides and their backs will be branded with it: This is what you hoarded up for yourselves, so taste what you used to hoard.^a

36 Surely the number of months with Allah is twelve months by Allah's ordinance, since the day when He created the heavens and the earth — of these four are sacred. That is the right religion; so do not wrong yourselves in regard to them.^b And fight the idolaters all together as they fight you all together.^c And know that Allah is with those who keep their duty. ³⁷Postponing (of the sacred month) is only an addition in disbelief, by which those who disbelieve are led astray. They allow it one year and forbid it (another) year, that they may agree in the number (of months) repeated three times in the Quran, in exactly the same words — here and in 48:28 and 61:9. In Arabia itself, Islam became triumphant in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet. After his death, the first century of the Muslim era saw vast Christian communities swelling the ranks of Islam, in Egypt, North Africa, Asia Minor, Persia and Central Asia. More amazing was the fact that Islam, coming in contact with other great religions, with Zoroastrianism in Persia, with Buddhism and Hinduism in India and Afghanistan, and with Confucianism in China, conquered the hearts of the followers of every religion and they accepted the message of Truth in vast numbers. And the final manifestation of this great prophecy is foreshadowed in the gradual acceptance of the principles of Islam in the whole world today, despite the fact that the political power of Islam is at its lowest ebb.

a (35) The punishment of an evil is spoken of throughout the Quran as similar to the evil. Even in this world, a man feels a torment similar to the nature of the evil in which he indulges. Being branded with the hoarded wealth is thus a fit description of the punishment of the hoarders.

b (36-1) The allusion here is to the Arab practice of postponing the pilgrimage to a month other than that in which it fell, for which see the next verse.

c (36-2) Fighting was prohibited in the sacred months (2:217). Excepting this, the Muslims were told to fight with the idolaters as the idolaters fought with them, i.e. since all idolaters united in fighting with the Muslims, the latter, too, should unite in fighting with them.

which Allah has made sacred, and thus make lawful what Allah has forbidden.^a The evil of their doings is made to seem good to them. And Allah does not guide the disbelieving people.

Section 6: The Tabūk Expedition

38 O you who believe, what (excuse) have you that when it is said to you, Go forth in Allah's way, you should incline heavily to earth? Are you contented with this world's life instead of the Hereafter? The provision of this world's life is but little as compared with the Hereafter.^b ³⁹If you do not go forth, He will punish you with a painful punishment, and bring in your place a people other than you, and you can do Him no harm.^c And Allah is Powerful over all things.

40 If you do not help him, Allah certainly helped him when those who disbelieved expelled him — he being the second of the two; when they were both in the cave, when he said to his companion: Do not grieve, surely Allah is with us.^d So Allah sent a (37) The reference here is to the practice of postponing observance of the sacred month, thus allowing an ordinary month to be observed as sacred and a sacred month to be treated as ordinary. This practice interfered with the security of life which was guaranteed in the sacred months, and is, therefore, denounced.

b (38) This refers to the expedition of Tabūk, which was undertaken in the middle of 9 A.H. owing to the threatening attitude of the Roman Empire. There were many hindrances to the raising of an army sufficient to meet the strong forces of the Roman Empire, the main ones being: a great drought, the length of the journey to Syria, the ripening of the fruits which were now ready to be gathered, the heat, and the organization and power of the Roman army. In spite of all these difficulties 30,000 men gathered round the Holy Prophet's banner.

c (39) The reference here and in what follows is to certain men, who, while professing belief, hesitated to accept the Holy Prophet's call to get ready for the expedition.

d (40) This refers to the Holy Prophet's flight from Makkah, when he was forced to hide himself in a cave called Thaur, about three miles from Makkah, with only one companion, Abu Bakr, "the second of the two". The believers are told that Allah saved the Prophet from the hands of his enemies when he had just one companion amidst a whole nation of enemies, and that Allah would help him now.

down His tranquillity on him and strengthened him with forces which you did not see, and made lowest the word of those who disbelieved. And the word of Allah, that is the uppermost. And Allah is Mighty, Wise.

41 Go forth, light and heavy,^a and strive hard in Allah's way with your wealth and your lives. This is better for you, if you know. 42If it had been a near gain and a short journey, they would certainly have followed you, but the hard journey was too long for them.^b And they will swear by Allah: If we had been able, we would have gone forth with you. They cause their own souls to perish; and Allah knows that they are liars.

43 Allah pardon you!^c Why did you permit them until those who spoke the truth had become apparent to you and you had known the liars? 44Those who believe in Allah and the Last Day do not ask permission from you (to stay away) from striving hard with their wealth and their persons. And Allah is Knower of those who keep their duty. 45They alone ask permission from you who do not believe in Allah and the Last Day, and their hearts are in doubt, so in their doubt they waver. 46And if they had intended to go forth, they would certainly have provided equipment for it; but Allah did not like their going forth. So He withheld them, and it was said: Hold back with those who hold back. 47If they had gone a (41) That is, whether it is easy or difficult for you to proceed or whether you are sufficiently armed or not.

b (42) Tabūk was midway between Madinah and Damascus. The Arabs were accustomed to fighting near home; hence, the distance was one of the chief considerations which held back those who were insincere.

c (43) This expression does not convey the significance of pardon of sins; it is rather the equivalent of Allah bless you! or may Allah set your affairs aright! In previous battles, too, the hypocrites always stayed away, offering one excuse or another. But the Divine purpose in this last expedition of the Holy Prophet was to bring about a clear distinction, and to clean the Muslim society of the hypocritical element thoroughly. Such a distinction was really brought about later on as verses 83–84 point out.

forth with you, they would have added to you nothing but trouble, and would have hurried to and fro among you seeking (to sow) dissension among you. And among you there are those who would listen to them. And Allah well knows the wrongdoers. ⁴⁸Certainly they sought (to sow) dissension before, and they devised plots against you till the Truth came, and Allah's command prevailed, though they did not like (it).

49 And among them is he who says: Excuse me and do not try me. Surely into trial have they already fallen, and truly hell encompasses the disbelievers. ⁵⁰If good befalls you, it grieves them; and if hardship afflicts you, they say: Indeed we had taken care of our affair before. And they turn away rejoicing. ⁵¹Say: Nothing will afflict us except what Allah has ordained for us. He is our Patron; and on Allah let the believers rely. ⁵²Say: Do you await for us but one of two most excellent things?^a And we await for you that Allah will afflict you with punishment from Himself or by our hands. So wait; we too are waiting with you.^b

53 Say: Spend willingly or unwillingly, it will not be accepted from you. Surely you are a transgressing people. ⁵⁴And nothing hinders their contributions being accepted from them, except that they disbelieve in Allah and in His Messenger and they do not come to prayer except as lazy people, nor do they spend (on good works) but reluctantly. ⁵⁵Do not, then, let their wealth nor their children excite your admiration. Allah only wishes to punish them by means of these in this world's life and (that) their souls may depart while they are disbelievers.^c ⁵⁶And they swear by Allah that a (52-1) The two most excellent things are: the laying down of life in the cause of Truth, or being sharer in the ultimate triumph of Truth.

b (52-2) The only punishment that the hypocrites received from the hands of the Muslims was that they were named and asked to leave the mosque. Otherwise their liberty was not interfered with. See also the next verse.

c (55) The hypocrites experienced earthly torture about their property and children for two reasons: (1) because, avowing their belief in Islam, they had to take some share in its defensive expeditions and thus spend part of their property, unwillingly though it was, in the cause of Islam; (2) the children of many of them were true believers, and they knew that after their death their property and their they are truly of you. And they are not of you, but they are a people who are afraid. ⁵⁷If they could find a refuge or caves or a place to enter, they would certainly have turned to it, running away in all haste.

58 And some of them blame you in the matter of the (distribution of) charity. So if they are given out of it, they are pleased, and if they are not given out of it, lo! they are enraged. ⁵⁹And (better it would be) if they were content with what Allah and His Messenger gave them, and had said: Allah is sufficient for us, Allah will soon give us (more) out of His grace and His Messenger too — surely to Allah we make petition.

60 (The due) charity^a is only for the poor and the needy, and those employed to administer it, and those whose hearts are made to incline (to truth), and (to free) the captives, and those in debt, and in the way of Allah and for the traveller — an ordinance from Allah.^b And Allah is Knowing, Wise.

children were to become a source of strength to the very religion which they tried to extirpate.

a (60-1) The word ṣadaqāt, used here for charity, refers in this verse to the obligatory charity called zakāt, and not to voluntary alms which is its common meaning. This is shown by the concluding words of the verse, which call it an ordinance from Allah.

b (60-2) The verse defines the objects for which the zakāt or due charity may be spent. Eight heads of expenditure are recognized. There are the poor, or those in difficult circumstances. Then there are the needy, by which are meant people who need some help to enable them to earn their living; poor students and craftsmen or business men without sufficient means are included in this category. Thirdly, there are the collectors of zakāt and other people employed to administer the funds. This shows that the institution was meant for raising a public fund, whose management should entirely be in the hands of a public body. In the fourth class are people whose hearts are made to incline to Truth — carrying the message of Truth to them needs funds, and there are also people who may need help if they accept the Truth. The fifth head relates to the freeing of the prisoners of war. Islam thus laid down a permanent basis for the abolition of slavery. The sixth class is that of debtors — people who incur debts for right purposes. Squanderers of wealth are, however, not included in this category. The seventh head is 61 And some of them molest the Prophet and say, He is (all) ear.^a Say: A hearer of good for you — he believes in Allah and believes the faithful, and is a mercy for those of you who believe. And those who molest the Messenger of Allah, for them is a painful punishment. ⁶²They swear by Allah to you to please you; and Allah — as well as His Messenger — has a greater right that they should please Him, if they are believers.^b ⁶³Do they not know that whoever opposes Allah and His Messenger, for him is the Fire of hell to abide in it? That is the grievous disgrace.

64 The hypocrites fear that a chapter may be sent down concerning them, telling them plainly of what is in their hearts. Say: Go on mocking, surely Allah will bring to light what you fear. ⁶⁵And if you ask them, they would certainly say: We were only talking idly and sporting. Say: Was it Allah and His messages and His Messenger that you mocked? ⁶⁶Make no excuse, you disbelieved after your believing. If We pardon some of you, We shall punish others because they are guilty.^c

67 The hypocrites, men and women, are all alike. They enjoin evil and forbid good and withhold their hands. They have forsaken Allah, so He has forsaken them. Surely the hypocrites are the transgressors. ⁶⁸Allah promises the hypocrites, men and women, and the disbelievers the Fire of hell to abide in it. It is enough in general words “in the way of Allah”. This would include those fighting in defence of faith and the community, or those engaged in propagating Islamic truths, but the words may be taken generally and include every charitable purpose. The eighth head is that of travellers, people who are stranded in a country, to whatever religion or nation they may belong.

a (61) The hypocrites made various derogatory remarks concerning the Holy Prophet, saying among other things, that he was a man who believed everything that he heard, and they were therefore sure that they would make him believe their hypocritical professions.

b (62) Though Allah and His Messenger are both mentioned together, the duty of the faithful is here said to be to please Him, i.e. Allah alone.

c (66) History shows that most of the hypocrites ultimately repented and sincerely joined the ranks of the faithful.

for them. And Allah curses them, and for them is a lasting punishment. ⁶⁹Like those before you — they were stronger than you in power and had more wealth and children. So they enjoyed their portion; thus have you enjoyed your portion as those before you enjoyed their portion, and you indulge in idle talk as they did. These are they whose deeds are fruitless in this world and the Hereafter, and these are they who are the losers.

70 Has not the story reached them of those before them — of the people of Noah and Ād and Thamūd, and the people of Abraham and the dwellers of Midian and the overthrown cities? Their messengers came to them with clear arguments. So Allah did not wrong them but they wronged themselves.

71 And the believers, men and women, are friends of one another. They enjoin good and forbid evil and keep up prayer and give the due charity, and obey Allah and His Messenger. As for these, Allah will have mercy on them. Surely Allah is Mighty, Wise. ⁷²Allah has promised to the believers, men and women, Gardens, in which rivers flow, to abide in them, and goodly dwellings in Gardens of perpetual abode. And greatest of all is Allah's goodly pleasure. That is the mighty achievement.

73 O Prophet, strive hard against the disbelievers and the hypocrites and be firm against them.^a And their abode is hell, and evil is the destination. ⁷⁴They swear by Allah that they said nothing. And certainly they did speak the word of disbelief, and disbelieved after their Islam, and they aimed (to do) what they could not attain.^a And they sought revenge only because Allah — as well as His Messenger — had enriched them out of His grace.^b So if they repent, it will be good for them; and if they turn away, Allah will punish them with a painful punishment in this world and the Hereafter; and they shall have in the earth neither a friend nor a helper.

^a (73) Jihād signifies striving hard. It is in a secondary sense that the word signifies fighting, and it is repeatedly used in the Quran in its primary significance. It is a fact that those who professed Islam insincerely were never fought against by the Muslims — as on this occasion and on the occasion of the battle of Uhud. The Holy Prophet is commanded here to carry on a jihad against disbelievers as well as hypocrites. Hence the only significance that can be attached to these words is that he must continue to exert himself hard in preaching both to the disbelievers and the hypocrites.

75 And some of them made a covenant with Allah: If He give us out of His grace, we will certainly give in charity and be of the righteous. ⁷⁶But when He gave them out of His grace, they became miserly with it and they turned away and they are averse. ⁷⁷So He repaid them with hypocrisy in their hearts till the day when they meet Him, because they broke their promise with Allah and because they lied. ⁷⁸Do they not know that Allah knows their hidden thoughts and their secret counsels, and that Allah is the great Knower of the unseen things?

79 Those who taunt the free givers of charity among the believers as well as those who cannot find anything (to give) but with their hard labour — they scoff at them. Allah will pay them back their mockery; and for them is a painful punishment.^c ⁸⁰Ask forgiveness for them or do not ask forgiveness for them. Even if you ask forgiveness for them seventy times, Allah will not forgive them. This is because they disbelieve in Allah and His Messenger. And Allah does not guide the transgressing people.^d a (74-1) They did their best to put an end to the life of the Holy Prophet and bring about the extirpation of Islam.

b (74-2) The advent of the Muslims in Madinah had enriched its inhabitants. Was it not, then, a matter for wonder that those men who had gained by Islam should turn against their very benefactors?

c (79) When subscriptions were raised for the expedition to Tabūk, the wealthier members of the Muslim community gave large donations, while the poorer ones, the labourers, also paid their mite out of their hard earnings. The hypocrites taunted both, the former as making a show of their wealth, the latter as bringing in their small subscriptions only to be counted among the subscribers.

d (80) Spiritual relations with the hypocrites were henceforth cut off. The mention of seventy may not indicate the specific number here. When Abdullah ibn Ubayy, the recognized leader of the hypocrites, died, the Holy Prophet was asked

81 Those who were left behind were glad on account of their remaining behind Allah's Messenger, and they disliked to strive in Allah's way with their property and their persons, and said: Do not go forth in the heat. Say: The Fire of hell is fiercer in heat. If only they could understand! ⁸²Then let them laugh a little and weep much — a recompense for what they earned. ⁸³So if Allah bring you back to some of them, then they ask your permission to go forth, say: Never shall you go forth with me and never shall you fight an enemy with me. You chose to sit (at home) the first time, so sit (now) with those who remain behind.^a

84 And never offer prayer for anyone of them who dies, nor stand by his grave. Surely they disbelieved in Allah and His Messenger and they died in transgression.^b ⁸⁵And do not let their

to conduct the burial service. The Holy Prophet got up, but Umar objected on the ground that Abdullah was a hypocrite, and referred to his hostile attitude throughout his life. The Holy Prophet replied that Allah had given him a choice (referring to the words of this verse: Ask forgiveness for them or do not ask forgiveness for them), and that he would ask forgiveness for him for over seventy times, so that forgiveness could be extended to the dead man. Then he offered prayers for him. Verse 84 is said to have been revealed then to stop the offering of prayers for those who were known to be hypocrites (Bukhari, 23:84).

The incident shows how kind and forgiving the Holy Prophet was to his severest enemies. Abdullah ibn Ubayy was the man who had led the hypocrite movement against him, and thus was not only one of his worst enemies, but a most dangerous one, because he was aware of all the movements of the Muslims and deceived them at the most critical moments. Yet the Holy Prophet forgave him entirely.

a (83) This is the only punishment given to the hypocrites, namely, that they were not allowed to take part in future expeditions against the enemies of the Muslims. It is also related that from one of them the Holy Prophet and the three Caliphs who followed him refused to accept the zakāt. These were the only disadvantages, if it is right to call them so, which the hypocrites suffered. They were not looked upon as members of the Muslim community, but as citizens they enjoyed all the rights of other citizens.

b (84) The Prophet is now told that, though they professed Islam outwardly, they were disbelievers at heart, and the burial service, which was only for Muslims, should not be extended to them. But it was through Divine revelation that the Prophet learnt that they were really disbelievers. It is, further, clear from these wealth and their children excite your admiration. Allah only intends to punish them thereby in this world, and (that) their souls may depart while they are disbelievers.

86 And when a chapter is revealed, saying, Believe in Allah and strive hard along with His Messenger, the wealthy among them ask permission of you and say: Leave us (behind), that we may be with those who sit (at home). ⁸⁷They prefer to be with those who remain behind, and their hearts are sealed so they do not understand. ⁸⁸But the Messenger and those who believe with him strive hard with their property and their persons. And these it is for whom are the good things and these it is who are successful. ⁸⁹Allah has prepared for them Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide therein. That is the mighty achievement.

90 And the defaulters from among the dwellers of the desert came that permission might be given to them, and they sat (at home) who lied to Allah and His Messenger. A painful punishment will afflict those of them who disbelieve. ⁹¹No blame lies on the weak, nor on the sick, nor on those who can find nothing to spend, if they are sincere to Allah and His Messenger. There is no way (to blame) against the doers of good. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful — ⁹²nor on those to whom, when they came to you that you should carry them, you said: I cannot find anything on which to carry you.^a They went back, their eyes overflowing with tears of grief that they could not find anything to spend. ⁹³The way (to blame) is only against those who ask permission of you, though they are rich. They have chosen to be with those who remained behind; and Allah has sealed their hearts, so they do not know.

words that those who were known to be hypocrites were not fought against but lived to die a natural death. There is not a single case on record of any one of them having been put to death. Standing by the grave refers to the Holy Prophet's practice of praying for the deceased standing by his grave after the burial.

^a (92) What they wanted in order to join the expedition, and what the Holy Prophet could not find for them, were beasts on which they should be carried, along with their provisions and necessaries. See also 19:27 footnote 1.

94 They will make excuses to you when you return to them. Say: Make no excuse, we shall not believe you; Allah has informed us of matters relating to you. And Allah and His Messenger will now see your actions, then you will be brought back to the Knower of the unseen and the seen, then He will inform you of what you did.^a 95They will swear by Allah to you, when you return to them, so that you may leave them alone. So leave them alone.^b Surely they are unclean and their refuge is hell — a recompense for what they earned. 96They will swear to you that you may be pleased with them. But if you are pleased with them, yet surely Allah is not pleased with the transgressing people.

97 The dwellers of the desert are hardest in disbelief and hypocrisy, and most disposed not to know the limits of what Allah has revealed to His Messenger. And Allah is Knowing, Wise. 98And some of the dwellers of the desert take what they spend to be a fine,^c and they wait for an evil turn of fortune for you. On them is the evil turn. And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. 99And some of the dwellers of the desert believe in Allah and the Last Day, and consider what they spend and the prayers of the Messenger as bringing them nearer to Allah. Surely they bring them nearer (to Allah); Allah will admit them into His mercy. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

100 And the foremost, the first of the Emigrants and the Helpers, and those who followed them in goodness^d — Allah is well a (94) Evidently these verses were revealed when the Holy Prophet was away from Madinah, and the statements made in them are therefore prophetic, being exactly fulfilled on his return.

b (95) On his return from Tabūk, the Holy Prophet forbade Muslims to have any relations with the hypocrites.

c (98) The hypocrites had to contribute something for the sake of appearance; they also paid the zakāt so that they might be treated as Muslims.

d (100) In the history of Islam, the word ‘Emigrants’ (muhājirīn) came to signify all those Companions of the Holy Prophet who, having embraced Islam at pleased with them and they are well pleased with Him, and He has prepared for them Gardens in which rivers flow, abiding therein forever. That is the mighty achievement. ¹⁰¹And some of the dwellers of the desert around you are hypocrites; and some of the people of Madinah (also) — they persist in hypocrisy. You do not know them; We know them.^a We will punish them twice,^b then they will be turned back to a severe punishment.

102 And others have acknowledged their faults — they mixed a good deed with another that was evil. It may be that Allah will turn to them (mercifully). Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^c ¹⁰³Take charity out of their property — you would cleanse them and purify them thereby — and pray for them. Surely your prayer is a relief to them. And Allah is Hearing, Knowing.^d ¹⁰⁴Do they not know that Allah is He Who accepts repentance from His servants and takes the charity, and that Allah — He is the Oft-returning (to mercy), the Merciful? ¹⁰⁵And say, Work; so Allah will see your work and (so will) His Messenger and the believers. And you will be brought back to the Knower of the unseen and the seen, then He will inform you of what you did. ¹⁰⁶And others are Makkah, had to flee from their homes either to Abyssinia (present day Ethiopia) or to Madinah. The latter flight, including nearly all the Muslims of Makkah, is known as the Hijra or Flight, and the Muslim era dates from it. The word ‘Helpers’ (Anṣār) signifies the Muslims of Madinah who, having accepted Islam before the Flight, gave shelter to those who fled from Makkah. By “those who followed them in goodness” are meant the Muslims who came after the Companions and followed their good deeds.

a (101-1) The insincerity of the heart could not be known to a mortal — it is known only to Allah.

b (101-2) The hypocrites were punished twice in this life. They had to take part in all contributions for the defence of the Muslim community and had to pay the zakāt, all this against their conviction and unwillingly. After having suffered all this torment for the sake of being reckoned Muslims, they were ultimately separated from the Muslims, and this exposure to public shame was no doubt a great punishment for them.

c (102) According to different reports, the number of these men varied from three to ten. They were sincere and acknowledged their fault.

d (103) Because they showed sincerity in confessing their faults, they were dealt with leniently. Their charity was not to be rejected.

made to await Allah's command, whether He will punish them or turn to them (mercifully). And Allah is Knowing, Wise.^a 107 And those who built a mosque to cause harm (to Islam) and (to help) disbelief, and to cause disunion among the believers, and a refuge for him who made war against Allah and His Messenger before. And they will certainly swear: We desired nothing but good. And Allah bears witness that they are certainly liars.^b ¹⁰⁸Never stand in it. Certainly a mosque founded on observance of duty from the first day is more deserving that you should stand in it. In it are men who love to purify themselves. And Allah loves those who purify themselves.^c ¹⁰⁹Is he, then, who lays his foundation on duty to Allah and (His) good pleasure better, or he who lays his foundation on the edge of a cracking hollowed bank, so it broke down with him into the Fire of hell? And Allah does not guide the unjust people. ¹¹⁰The building which they have built will ever continue to be a source of disquiet in their hearts, unless their hearts be torn to pieces.^d And Allah is Knowing, Wise.

Section 14: The Faithful

111 Surely Allah has bought from the believers their persons and their property — theirs (in return) is the Garden. They fight in Allah's way, so they kill and are killed. It is a promise which is a (106) This is generally supposed to refer to three of the believers who held back from the expedition (Bukhari, 64:81).

b (107) Some hypocrites built a mosque at the instigation of Abu Āmir, with the object of causing harm to that mosque. Abu Āmir, who after fighting against the Holy Prophet for a long time, had fled to Syria after the battle of Hunain, had written to his friends at Madinah that he was coming with a formidable army to crush the Prophet, and that they should build a mosque for him. But Abu Āmir died in Syria, and the founders desired the Holy Prophet to give it a blessing by his presence, which he was forbidden to do by Divine revelation, and the mosque was demolished.

c (108) The words are general and every mosque raised for the service of Allah may be included in this description.

d (110) Their hearts could be torn to pieces by severe regret or by sincere repentance.

binding on Him in the Torah and the Gospel and the Quran.^a And who is more faithful to his promise than Allah? Rejoice therefore in your bargain which you have made. And that is the mighty achievement. ¹¹²They who turn (to Allah), who serve (Him), who praise (Him), who fast, who bow down, who prostrate themselves, who enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil, and who keep the limits of Allah — and give good news to the believers.

113 It is not for the Prophet and those who believe to ask forgiveness for those who set up partners (with Allah), even though they should be near relatives, after it has become clear to them that they are companions of the flaming fire.^b ¹¹⁴And Abraham's a (111) The promise binding on Allah is that Allah will grant the believers His blessings, if they exert themselves with their persons and their property in His way. The Gospels give the same promise: "If you want to be perfect", said Jesus to a wealthy man, "go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me" (Matthew, 19:21). To Peter he said: "everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life" (Matthew, 19:29). Moses' teaching contains similar promises. For instance, the promise of "a land flowing with milk and honey" is made conditional on "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength" (Deuteronomy, 6:3-5), which is the same as exerting oneself to the utmost in the way of God with one's person and property.

It should be borne in mind that the words, they fight in Allah's way, so they kill and are killed, are not a part of the promise, but are expressive of the condition of the Companions, and show that they were true to their promise. The promise to spend one's person and property may be carried out in various ways under different circumstances, and the Companions of the Holy Prophet were as true to this promise during the thirteen years at Makkah as during the ten years at Madinah.

b (113) This verse does not prohibit praying for the forgiveness of the disbelievers in general, but only such disbelievers about whom it became clear that they were doomed to the Fire. When the Holy Prophet was asked to pray for the destruction of a people who were fighting against him, he prayed thus: "My Lord, forgive them because they do not know". So long as a man is alive, however hard he may be in his disbelief, it is not forbidden to pray for his forgiveness or guidance. But when he is dead, God will deal with him as He pleases, and He is the most Merciful of all merciful ones. According to a hadith, after all intercessions have taken place, the most Merciful of all will take a handful — and the handful with God is as vast as the heavens and the earth (39:67) — out of hell and throw asking forgiveness for his sire was only owing to a promise which he had made to him; but when it became clear to him that he was an enemy of Allah, he dissociated himself from him. Surely Abraham was tender-hearted, forbearing. ¹¹⁵And it is not (attributable to) Allah that He should lead a people astray after He has guided them, so far so that He makes clear to them what they should guard against.^a Surely Allah is Knower of all things. ¹¹⁶Surely Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. He gives life and causes death. And besides Allah you have no friend nor helper.

117 Certainly Allah has turned in mercy to the Prophet and the Emigrants and the Helpers who followed him in the hour of hardship, after the hearts of a group of them were about to deviate; then He turned to them in mercy.^b Surely to them He is Compassionate, Merciful; ¹¹⁸and (He turned in mercy) to the three who were left behind; until the earth, vast as it is, became narrow to them and their souls were also narrowed to them; and they knew that there was no refuge from Allah but in Him. Then He turned to them in mercy that they might turn (to Him). Surely Allah — He is the Oft-returning to mercy, the Merciful.^c them into the river of Life, and these would be the people who never did any good (Bukhari, 98:24). But under this verse the burial service, which is a prayer for forgiveness, is held only for Muslims, and not for those who die in disbelief.

a (115) This verse establishes in clear words that Allah never leads a people astray; and how could He lead astray, says the Quran, when He it is Who gives them guidance, and makes clear to them the evils they should guard against?

b (117) Taubah on the part of Allah means His turning to His servant and changing one state to another which is higher than it. Allah's turning mercifully is in relation to the Prophet and those sincere believers who are plainly stated to have followed the Prophet in the hour of difficulty. The group whose hearts were about to deviate is referred to in the next verse.

c (118) These were three men from among the Anṣār, referred to in v. 106. The words were left behind may mean left behind with respect to the commandment of Allah concerning them, as v. 106 speaks of them as being "made to await Allah's command". They remained cut off from all relations with the Muslims for fifty days. Ka'b ibn Mālik, one of the three men, was a man of importance, and when he received a letter from the king of Ghassān, offering him a position under him if he deserted the Prophet, he burned the letter, showing his contempt for the offer, and gave no reply.

Section 15: What the Faithful should do

119 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah and be with the truthful. ¹²⁰It was not proper for the people of Madinah and those round about them of the dwellers of the desert to remain behind the Messenger of Allah, nor to prefer their own lives to his life.^a That is because neither thirst nor fatigue nor hunger afflicts them in Allah's way, nor do they tread a path which enrages the disbelievers, nor do they cause any harm to an enemy, but a good work is written down for them on account of it. Surely Allah does not waste the reward of the doers of good; ¹²¹nor do they spend anything, small or great, nor do they traverse a valley but it is written down for them, that Allah may reward them for the best of what they did.

122 And the believers should not go forth all together. Why, then, does not a group from every party from among them go forth that they may apply themselves to obtain understanding in religion, and that they may warn their people when they come back to them, that they may be cautious?^b

Section 16: The Prophet's Great Anxiety

123 O you who believe, fight those of the disbelievers who are near to you and let them find firmness in you.^c And know that Allah is with those who keep their duty. ¹²⁴And whenever a chapter is revealed, there are some of them who say: Which of you has it strengthened in faith? So as for those who believe, it strengthens a (120) The meaning is that they should neither desire rest for themselves, nor comfort, nor protection, in preference to the Prophet; in other words, they should accompany him in difficulty and distress.

b (122) In the midst of the ordinances relating to fighting, the Quran introduces the subject of the preparation of a missionary force, thus showing that this was the greatest necessity of Islam. It was only by means of a missionary effort that truth could be spread, and the ultimate object was not to be lost sight of, even when the community was engaged in a life-and-death struggle against overwhelming forces of the enemy.

c (123) Because it was those who were near who persecuted the Muslims. The object was to stop persecution. Muslims must be firm and not yield to them.

them in faith and they rejoice. ¹²⁵And as for those in whose hearts is a disease, it adds uncleanness to their uncleanness, and they die while they are disbelievers.^a ¹²⁶Do they not see that they are tried once or twice in every year, yet they do not repent, nor do they become mindful.^b ¹²⁷And whenever a chapter is revealed, they look at one another: Does anyone see you? Then they turn away. Allah has turned away their hearts because they are a people who do not understand.

128 Certainly a Messenger has come to you from among yourselves; very painful for him is your falling into distress, most concerned (he is) for you, to the believers (he is) compassionate, merciful.^c ¹²⁹But if they turn away, say: Allah is sufficient for me — there is no god but He. On Him do I rely, and He is the Lord of the mighty Throne.

a (125) The uncleanness of their hearts increased with new revelation, because it increased them in stubbornness, and their hearts were more and more hardened against truth. See also 71:6 footnote.

b (126) These trials consisted of the expeditions which the Muslims had to undertake every now and then, and in which the hypocrites were distinguished from the true believers.

c (128) This is the true picture of the heart which grieved, not for his followers alone, not for one nation or country, but for all humanity. He grieves for the burdens of all, and he is most concerned for the welfare of all. The whole of humanity is meant here because the concluding words refer additionally to the believers. There is a special relation he bears to those who follow him; to them he is, in addition, compassionate and merciful.

Yūnus

Jonah

This chapter makes a brief reference to the Prophet Jonah (v. 98), which gives it its title, to indicate that as the people of Jonah benefited by his warning, so would the Arabs ultimately believe in the Prophet Muhammad. While this chapter asserts the truth of revelation, it also lays stress on the merciful dealing of God with mankind. It tells us that He does not send punishment quickly and that evidence of His mercy is also found in nature. It also refers to the histories of Noah and Moses. This chapter was revealed during the last four years of the Makkan period of the Holy Prophet's life.

Section 1: Truth of Revelation

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Seer.^a These are the verses of the Book, full of wisdom.^b ²Is it a wonder to the people that We have revealed to a man from among themselves: Warn the people and give good news to those who believe that for them is advancement in excellence^c with their Lord? The disbelievers say: This is surely an obvious enchanter.

3 Surely your Lord is Allah, Who created the heavens and the earth in six periods, and He is established on the Throne of Power

a (1-1) Alif, lām, rā are the three letters which stand at the head of this chapter and chapters 11, 12, 14 and 15, while chapter 13 has alif, lām, mīm, rā. The abbreviation is of the same form as alif, lām, mīm (see 2:1 footnote), except that rā stands for Rā'i, meaning the Seer, or arā, meaning I see.

Chapters 10 to 16 all belong to the last four years of the Holy Prophet's life at Makkah, and deal with the truth of prophethood with more or less reference to the histories of the earlier prophets, four of them being named after a prophet.

b (1-2) The Book, i.e. the Quran, is called ḥakīm, meaning wise or full of wisdom, because it possesses the quality which discriminates between truth and falsehood and right and wrong, and because it is free from all unsoundness.

c (2) The words "advancement in excellence" may also be translated as a footing of firmness.

regulating the Affair.^a There is no intercessor except after His permission. This is Allah, your Lord, therefore serve Him. Will you not be mindful? ⁴To Him is your return, of all (of you). It is the promise of Allah (made) in truth. Surely He produces the first creation, then He reproduces it, that He may reward with equity those who believe and do good. And as for those who disbelieve, for them is a drink of hot water and a painful punishment because they disbelieved.

5 He it is Who made the sun a shining brightness, and the moon a light,^b and ordained for it stages that you might know the computation of years and the reckoning. Allah did not create this but with truth. He makes the signs clear for a people who know. ⁶Surely in the alternation of the night and the day, and what Allah has created in the heavens and the earth, there are signs for a people who keep their duty.^c

7 Those who do not expect the meeting with Us, and are pleased with this world's life and are satisfied with it, and those who are heedless of Our messages — ⁸these, their abode is the Fire because of what they earned. ⁹Those who believe and do good, their Lord guides them by their faith;^d rivers will flow beneath them in Gardens of bliss. ¹⁰Their cry therein will be, Glory be to You, O Allah! and their greeting, Peace! And the last of their cry will be: Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds!^e a (3) For creation in six periods and the Throne of Power, see footnotes under 7:54. In regulating the Affair, there is a further reference to the spiritual evolution of man, as stated more clearly elsewhere: "He orders (or regulates) the Affair from the heaven to the earth" (32:5). For intercession, see 2:255 footnote 1.

c (6) The whole of creation is, despite its variety, subject to one law, and clearly bears witness to the unity of its Maker. And just as the visible universe is subject to law, there is also a law working in the spiritual world.

d (9) The light of faith, which is even in this life a guiding principle of man's actions, will assume a more palpable form in the life after death. Compare 57:12, where it is called the light running, or gleaming, before them.

e (10) This is the Muslim paradise, and this description is sufficient to belie

Section 2: Punishment of Rejection

11 And if Allah were to hasten for people the (consequences of) evil, as they would hasten on the good, their doom would certainly have been decreed for them. But We leave those alone, who have no hope of meeting with Us, in their inordinacy, blindly wandering on.^a 12And when affliction touches man, he calls on Us, whether lying on his side or sitting or standing; but, when We remove his affliction from him, he passes on as though he had never called on Us on account of an affliction that touched him. Thus what they do is made to seem good to the extravagant. 13And certainly We destroyed generations before you when they did wrong, and their messengers came to them with clear arguments, yet they would not believe. Thus do We recompense the guilty people. 14Then We made you rulers in the land after them, so that We might see how you act.

15 And when Our clear messages are recited to them, those who have no hope of meeting with Us say: Bring a Quran other than this or change it.^b Say: It is not for me to change it of my own accord. I follow only what is revealed to me. Indeed I fear, if I disobey my Lord, the punishment of a terrible day.^c 16Say: If Allah had desired, I would not have recited it to you, nor would He have made it known to you. I have lived among you a lifetime before it. Do you not then understand?^d 17Who is then more unjust than he

a (11) People desire and pray for good things to be hastened on to them, and they are hastened on, but in His merciful dealing God does not hasten on the consequences of evil, so that people may repent and escape those consequences.

b (15-1) They desire a revelation which should not condemn their evil ways and their idol-worship, nor contain any threats of their coming doom.

c (15-2) These words show how true the Holy Prophet himself was to revelation, translating every one of its precepts into practice.

d (16) The Holy Prophet's truthfulness and honesty before he received the Divine revelation were undisputed, and he had earned such renown for these qualities that he was known as al-Amīn, i.e. the Faithful one, or the Truthful one. If, as they admitted, he had never told a lie in his lifetime, even for the sake of a personal advantage, how could he, now that he had passed the age of youth, speak falsely, and that to his own detriment? He was not the gainer, but a sufferer thereby, who forges a lie against Allah or calls His messages a lie? Surely the guilty never succeed.

18 And they serve besides Allah that which can neither harm them nor benefit them, and they say: These are our intercessors with Allah. Say: Would you inform Allah of what He does not know in the heavens and the earth? Glory be to Him, and supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)!
19 And (all) people are but a single nation, then they disagree. And if a word had not already gone forth from your Lord, the matter would have certainly been decided between them regarding that in which they disagree.^a 20 And they say: Why is not a sign sent to him from his Lord? Say: The unseen is only for Allah, so wait; I too am waiting along with you.^b

Section 3: Merciful Dealing

21 And when We make people taste of mercy after an affliction touches them, lo! they devise plans against Our messages. Say: Allah is quicker to plan. Surely Our messengers write down what you plan. 22 He it is Who makes you travel by land and sea; until, when you are in the ships, and they sail on with them in a pleasant breeze, and they rejoice at it, a violent wind overtakes them and waves surge in on them from all sides, and they think they are surrounded. Then they pray to Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience: If You deliver us from this, we will certainly on account of the persecution which his preaching had brought about for him. Moreover, a man who had so long refrained from showing any interest in their lives and their modes of worship, and had all but lived the silent life of a recluse among them, could not, of his own accord, be imagined to have suddenly changed the course of his life.

a (19) The word that had gone forth is referred to in many places: “And they say: When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful? Say: Maybe something of what you seek to hasten has drawn near to you” (27:71–72). And again: “Say: You have the appointment of a day which you cannot postpone by an hour, nor bring it forward” (34:30).

b (20) It is clear from the context that their demand is for the punishment with which they are threatened, because they would recognize no other sign; they are told to wait for the sign which would undoubtedly come.

be from among the grateful ones. ²³But when He delivers them, lo! they are unjustly rebellious in the earth. O people, your rebellion is against yourselves — a provision (only) of this world's life. Then to Us is your return, so We shall inform you of what you did.

24 The likeness of this world's life is only as water which We send down from the clouds, then the vegetation of the earth, of which people and cattle eat, grows luxuriantly thereby; until when the earth puts on its golden attire and it becomes adorned, and its people think that they are masters of it, Our command comes to it, by night or by day, so We render it as reaped seed-produce, as though it had not flourished yesterday. Thus do We make clear the messages for a people who reflect.

25 And Allah invites to the abode of peace, and guides whom He pleases to the right path.^a ²⁶For those who do good is good (reward) and more (than this).^b Neither darkness nor disgrace will cover their faces. These are the owners of the Garden; in it they will abide. ²⁷And those who earn evil, the punishment of an evil is the like of it, and humiliation will cover them — they will have none to protect them from Allah — as if their faces had been covered with slices of the dense darkness of night. These are the companions of the Fire; in it they will abide.

28 And on the day when We gather them all together, then We shall say to those who set up partners (with Allah): Stay where you are, you and your associate-gods. Then We shall separate them from one another, and their associate-gods will say: It was not us that you served. ²⁹So Allah is sufficient as a witness between a (25) This is another description of the Muslim paradise, which is called dar al-salām, or the abode of peace. The word salām in dar al-salām is from the same root as Islām. Islam, in fact, makes even this world an abode of peace for a true Muslim; he makes his peace with his Lord, and he lives at peace with his fellow beings. The peace of the next life is, in fact, a continuation of the peace of mind which a Muslim finds in this very life.

b (26) Throughout the Quran the reward of virtue is spoken of as being much more than actual recompense, while evil is either spoken of as being forgiven or as being punished only with a like punishment. See 42:25–26 and 6:160.

us and you that we were quite unaware of your serving (us).³⁰ There will every soul become acquainted with what it did before, and they will be brought back to Allah, their true Patron, and what they devised will escape from them.

Section 4: Uniqueness of Divine Gifts

31 Say: Who gives you sustenance from the heaven and the earth, or who controls the hearing and the sight, and who brings forth the living from the dead, and brings forth the dead from the living? And who regulates the affair? They will say: Allah. Say then: Will you not then guard against evil? ³²Such then is Allah, your true Lord. And what is there after the truth but error? How then are you turned away (from truth)! ³³Thus does the word of your Lord prove true against those who transgress that they do not believe.^a 34 Say: Is there anyone among your associate-gods who produces the first creation, then reproduces it? Say: Allah produces the first creation, then He reproduces it. How are you then turned away (from truth)! ³⁵Say: Is there any of your associate-gods who guides to the Truth? Say: Allah guides to the Truth. Is He then Who guides to the Truth more worthy to be followed, or he who cannot find the way unless he is guided? What is the matter with you? How do you judge? ³⁶And most of them follow only conjecture. Surely conjecture will not avail at all against the Truth. Truly Allah is Knower of what they do.

37 And this Quran is not such as could be forged by those besides Allah, but it is a verification of what is before it and a clear explanation of the Book, there is no doubt in it, from the Lord of the worlds.^b ³⁸Or say they: He has forged it? Say: Then bring a

^b (37) The Quran explains in clear words many of the most important principles of religion which are left ambiguous or obscure in the previous books. For instance, the Bible is obscure on the important principle of resurrection or life after death. Similarly the attributes of the Divine Being are not explained in clear chapter like it, and call upon whom you can besides Allah, if you are truthful. ³⁹But they reject that whose knowledge they cannot encompass and whose final sequel has not yet come to them.^a Even thus did those before them reject; then see what was the end of the wrongdoers. ⁴⁰And some of them believe in it, and some of them do not believe in it. And your Lord best knows the mischief-makers.

Section 5: The Guilty and their Punishment

41 And if they reject you, say: My work is for me and your work for you. You are clear of what I do and I am clear of what you do. ⁴²And some of them listen to you. But can you make the deaf to hear, though they will not understand? ⁴³And some of them look at you. But can you show the way to the blind, though they will not see?^b ⁴⁴Surely Allah does not wrong people in the least, but people wrong themselves.

45 And on the day when He will gather them, as though they had not stayed but an hour of the day, they will recognize one another. They perish indeed who reject the meeting with Allah, and they do not follow the right way. ⁴⁶And if We show you something of what We promise them, or cause you to die (before that), yet to Us is their return, and Allah is Witness to what they do.^c ⁴⁷And for every nation there is a messenger. So when their messenger comes, the matter is decided between them with justice, and they are not wronged.^d words and the result is the doctrine of the divinity of Jesus Christ. The Quran fully explains all such points and finally settles all these questions.

b (43) Compare 7:179: “They have hearts with which they do not understand, and they have eyes with which they do not see, and they have ears with which they do not hear.”

c (46) The significance of the words “to Us is their return” is that those who are warned will be dealt with by Allah as they deserve, and the warning will prove true. It is no concern of theirs whether the Prophet lives to punish them with his own hands or that punishment is executed by Allah in some other way.

d (47) Compare 35:24: “And there is not a people but a warner has gone 48 And they say: When will this promise be fulfilled, if you are truthful? ⁴⁹Say: I do not control for myself any harm, or any benefit, except what Allah pleases.^a Every nation has a term. When their term comes, they cannot postpone it an hour, nor bring it forward.^b ⁵⁰Say: Do you see if His punishment comes to you by night or by day? ^c What (part) of it would the guilty hasten? ⁵¹And when it comes to pass, will you believe in it? What! now! and you hastened it on. ⁵²Then will it be said to those who were unjust: Taste abiding punishment; you are not recompensed except for what you earned. ⁵³And they ask you: Is that true? Say: Yes, by my Lord! it is surely the Truth, and you will not escape.

Section 6: Mercy takes Precedence over Punishment

54 And if every soul that has done wrong had all that is in the earth, it would offer it for ransom. And they will manifest regret when they see the punishment. And it will be decided between them with justice, and they will not be wronged. ⁵⁵Now surely whatever is in the heavens and the earth is Allah's. Now surely Allah's promise is true, but most of them do not know. ⁵⁶He gives life and causes death, and to Him you will be returned.

57 O people, an admonition has indeed come to you from your Lord and a healing for what is in the hearts; and a guidance among them". Humanity will always be under the deepest obligation to the Holy Prophet for this broad humanitarian principle. By "between them" must be understood the messenger and those who charge him with falsehood.

a (49-1) These are not the words which a pretender would utter but are those of an honest man who, without assuming any personal pretensions, preaches truth in all sincerity. The Holy Prophet is repeatedly made to disclaim any control of good and evil, so that he offers no low temptation to his followers. Truth must be accepted for its own sake, not for any hope of worldly gain or fear of worldly loss.

b (49-2) The verse does not teach fatalism. It lays down a truth which no historian can deny. To every nation, as to every individual, is granted a term of life, and nations live and die like individuals.

c (50) The coming of the doom by night or by day signifies its coming at a time when people are engaged in their revelries or occupied with their business transactions, so as to be utterly inattentive to the real values of life.

and a mercy for the believers.^a ⁵⁸Say: In the grace of Allah and in His mercy, in that they should rejoice. It is better than what they hoard. ⁵⁹Say: Do you see the sustenance that Allah has sent down for you, then you make (a part) of it unlawful and (a part) lawful. Say: Has Allah commanded you or do you forge a lie against Allah?^b ⁶⁰And what do those think who forge lies against Allah of the day of Resurrection? Surely Allah is Bountiful to people, but most of them do not give thanks.

Section 7: Good News for the Faithful

61 And you are not (engaged) in any matter nor you recite concerning it any portion of the Quran, and you do no work, but We are witness of you when you are engaged in it. And not the weight of an atom in the earth or in the heaven is hidden from your Lord, nor anything less than that nor greater, but it is (all) in a clear book.^c a (57) They demanded punishment again and again, but they are told that Allah has sent to them that in which they will find a healing and a guidance and a mercy for them, viz. the Quran. Compare 29:51, where, in answer to a demand for a sign which should destroy them, the disbelievers are told: "Is it not enough for them that We have revealed to you (O Prophet) the Book which is recited to them? Surely there is mercy in this and a reminder for a people who believe".

b (59) Just as Allah gave them the means of their physical sustenance, He has also sent His grace and mercy for their spiritual welfare through revelation. Yet they deprive themselves of the spiritual sustenance as if it were unlawful. Or the reference may be to their declaring certain things to be unlawful for them out of reverence for their idols.

c (61) The clear book mentioned here is not, of course, a collection of written or printed sheets bound together. It is the book of the Divine law which makes every deed, good or evil, great or small, bring its recompense.

d (62) The friends of Allah are those who help the Divine cause and invite people to faith in God. They attain to that spiritual height where fear and grief are unknown. There is also a prophecy of the ultimate triumph of Truth, for when a man attains his object, all his fear is gone and he no more grieves for the sacrifices he has made.

⁶⁴For them is good news ^a in this world's life and in the Hereafter. There is no changing the words of Allah.^b That is the mighty achievement.

65 And do not let their speech grieve you. Surely might belongs wholly to Allah. He is the Hearer, the Knower. ⁶⁶Now, surely, whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth is Allah's. And what do follow those who call on associate-gods besides Allah? They follow nothing but conjecture, and they only lie. ⁶⁷He it is Who made for you the night that you might rest therein and the day giving light. Surely there are signs in this for a people who hear. ⁶⁸They say: Allah has taken a son (to Himself). Glory be to Him! He is the Self-sufficient. His is what is in the heavens and what is in the earth. You have no authority for this. Do you say against Allah what you do not know? ⁶⁹Say: Those who forge a lie against Allah will not succeed. ⁷⁰A little enjoyment in this world, then to Us is their return, then We shall make them taste severe punishment because they disbelieved.

Section 8: Noah and Moses

71 And recite to them the story of Noah, when he said to his people: My people, if my staying (here) and my reminding (you) by the messages of Allah is hard on you, on Allah do I rely; so decide upon your course of action and (gather) your associates. Then do not let your course of action be dubious to you, so have it a (64-1) The Holy Prophet said: "There has remained nothing of prophethood except mubashsharāt." Asked what is meant by mubashsharāt, he replied, "Good visions" (Bukhari, 92:5). Elsewhere good visions are said to be a part of prophethood (Bukhari, 92:4), which shows that, as the prophets were informed of the triumph of Truth, so will their followers be given this good news in their visions. The upholders of the Divine cause, we are told, will not only be successful, they will also receive the good news of their ultimate triumph in good visions.

b (64-2) The words of Allah here signify the prophecies. It is the prophecy of the good reward for the faithful that is mentioned immediately before these words, and the meaning of there being no change is that the prophetic word must be fulfilled; compare similar words used in 6:34, 6:115 and 18:27.

executed against me and give me no respite.^a ⁷²But if you turn back, I ask for no reward from you. My reward is only with Allah, and I am commanded to be of those who submit.

73 But they rejected him, so We delivered him and those with him in the ark, and We made them rulers and drowned those who rejected Our messages. See, then, what was the end of those who were warned. ⁷⁴Then after him We sent messengers to their people. They came to them with clear arguments, but they would not believe what they had rejected before. Thus do We seal the hearts of those who exceed the limits.^b

75 Then after them We sent Moses and Aaron to Pharaoh and his chiefs with Our signs, but they were arrogant, and they were a guilty people. ⁷⁶So when the truth came to them from Us, they said: This is surely clear enchantment! ⁷⁷Moses said: Do you say (this) of the truth when it has come to you? Is it enchantment? And the enchanters never succeed. ⁷⁸They said: Have you come to us to turn us away from what we found our fathers following, and (that) greatness in the land may be for you two? And we are not going to believe in you.

79 And Pharaoh said: Bring to me every skilful enchanter. ⁸⁰So when the enchanters came, Moses said to them: Throw down what you are going to throw. ⁸¹So when they had thrown down, Moses said: What you have brought is deception. Surely Allah will make it null. Surely Allah does not allow the work of mischief-makers to thrive. ⁸²And Allah will establish the truth by His words, though the guilty dislike (it).

a (71) The challenge of Noah to his opponents was, in fact, being reproduced now as a challenge to the opponents of the Holy Prophet. And these opponents did, in fact, decide upon their course of action in their great council hall, perhaps a year or two later, and surrounded the Prophet's house in accordance with that decision. But the Prophet escaped unnoticed from among them and they were unable to lay their hands on him.

b (74) They do not ponder over the truth, but, having rejected once, go on opposing its progress without reflecting on it. This condition is described as the sealing of the heart, because the heart ceases to reflect.

Section 9: End of Opposition to Moses

83 But, on account of the fear of Pharaoh and their chiefs persecuting them, none believed in Moses except a few of his people.^a And Pharaoh was truly high-handed in the land; and surely he was one committing excesses. 84And Moses said: My people, if you believe in Allah, then rely on Him if you submit (to Him). 85They said: On Allah we rely; our Lord, do not make us a trial for the unjust people. 86And deliver us by Your mercy from the disbelieving people.

87 And We revealed to Moses and his brother: Take for your people houses to abide in Egypt and make your houses places of worship^b and keep up prayer. And give good news to the believers. 88And Moses said: Our Lord, surely You have given Pharaoh and his chiefs finery and riches in this world's life, our Lord, that they may lead (people) astray from Your way.^c Our Lord, destroy their riches and harden their hearts, so that they do not believe till they see the painful punishment.^d 89He said: Your prayer is accepted; so continue in the right way and do not follow the path of those who do not know.

90 And We brought the Children of Israel across the sea. Then Pharaoh and his armies followed them for oppression and tyranny, till, when drowning overtook him, he said: I believe that there is no god but He in Whom the Children of Israel believe, and I am of those who submit.^e 91What! Now! And indeed before (this) you a (83) The Israelites believed in Moses as the verses that follow show. By his people, therefore, are meant Pharaoh's wife (66:11) and a believer (40:28).

b (87) The qiblah is that facing which one prays, and therefore it indicates a place of worship. The Israelites were obliged to pray in their houses because they did not enjoy full religious liberty in Egypt and had no public places of worship.

c (88-1) The significance is not that God had granted them riches to mislead people, but that this was the end for which they used their riches.

d (88-2) Pharaoh and his people did not care for either arguments or signs. Moses therefore now prays for their punishment.

e (90) In the agonies of death, even pronounced atheists have sometimes recognized the existence of God.

disobeyed and you were a mischief-maker! ⁹²But this day We shall save you in your body that you may be a sign to those after you. And surely most of the people are heedless of Our signs.^a

Section 10: Those who heed Warning will Benefit

93 And certainly We lodged the Children of Israel in a goodly abode and provided them with good things. Then they did not differ till the knowledge came to them.^b Surely your Lord will judge between them on the day of Resurrection in that in which they differed. ⁹⁴But if you are in doubt as to what We have revealed to you, ask those who read the Book before you.^c Certainly the Truth has come to you from your Lord, so do not be one of the doubters, ⁹⁵nor be of those who reject the messages of Allah, (for) then you will be from among the losers. ⁹⁶Surely those against whom the word of your Lord has proved true will not believe, ⁹⁷though every sign should come to them, till they see the painful punishment.

a (92) That the body was really cast ashore, though the Bible does not mention it, is clear from the fact that the body of Rameses II, who is regarded as the Pharaoh of Moses, has been discovered as preserved among the mummies in Egypt. This is another instance of the insufficiency of the Bible narrative and of the truth of the Quranic statement where it supplements the Bible. The discovery now made could not have been known to the Holy Prophet; it was not known to any person in the world till very recently.

b (93) This may be a prophetic announcement as to the Jewish attitude towards the Prophet Muhammad later on when he fled to Madinah.

c (94) The person addressed in the Quran in the singular form is not always the Prophet but often the reader, as here. Nor do the words revealed to you (in the singular) show that the Prophet is meant, for the Quran is in many places spoken of as being revealed to all the people (see 2:136, 21:10). Verse 104 makes it clear that the reader is addressed: "Say: O people, if you are in doubt as to my religion". Throughout the Quran the Holy Prophet appears as having the greatest certainty about the word which was revealed to him, so much so that he never entertained the slightest doubt about the truth of the promises of future success and triumph. In the very next verse the words are, nor be of those who reject the messages of Allah, which shows clearly that it is the Prophet's opponents who are addressed here. The words "ask those who read the Book before you" mean: ask them whether previous revelation does not contain clear prophecies of the advent of such a Prophet.

98 And why was there not a town which believed, so that their belief should have benefited them, but the people of Jonah? When they believed, We removed from them the punishment of disgrace in this world's life, and We gave them provision for a while.^a 99And if your Lord had pleased, all those who are in the earth would have believed, all of them. Will you then force people till they are believers?^b 100And it is not for any soul to believe except by Allah's permission. And He casts uncleanness on those who will not understand.^c

101 Say: Look at what is in the heavens and the earth! And signs and warners do not avail a people who do not believe. 102What do they wait for, then, but the like of the days of those who passed away before them? Say: Wait then; I too am waiting along with you. 103Then We deliver Our messengers and those who believe — even so (now); it is binding on Us to deliver the believers.

104 Say: O people, if you are in doubt as to my religion, (know that) I do not serve those whom you serve besides Allah, but I serve Allah, Who causes you to die; and I am commanded to be one of the believers, 105and that you set yourself for the religion, a (98) Jonah bears a resemblance to the Holy Prophet in that his people benefited by the warning, as did the Arabs by the warning of the Prophet, though after much opposition. Jonah is thus the type of a prophet whose people were dealt with mercifully.

b (99) Compare 2:256: "There is no compulsion in religion". The reference is to the great zeal of the Holy Prophet and his over-exerting himself in preaching the Truth: "Then perhaps you will kill yourself with grief, sorrowing after them, if they do not believe in this announcement" (18:6). (Editor's Note: The Quran tells us here that it is in the natural order of things that while some people believe, others do not, and no human being can or should apply compulsion to others in this regard.)

c (100) Those who refuse to understand the truth will find uncleanness cast on them. The word rijs ("uncleanness") also means punishment, and the meaning, in that case, is that those who care not for the warning must receive the punishment.

being upright; and do not be of those who set up partners (with Allah). ¹⁰⁶Nor call besides Allah on that which can neither benefit you nor harm you; for if you do, you shall then be of the unjust. ¹⁰⁷And if Allah afflicts you with harm, there is none to remove it but He; and if He intends good to you, there is none to repel His grace. He brings it to whom He pleases of His servants. And He is the Forgiving, the Merciful.

108 Say: O people, the Truth has indeed come to you from your Lord; so whoever goes aright, goes aright only for the good of his own soul; and whoever goes astray, goes astray only to its detriment. And I am not a custodian over you. ¹⁰⁹And follow what is revealed to you and be patient till Allah give judgment, and He is the Best of the judges.

Hūd

The history of the Prophet Hūd is referred to in this chapter. While the last chapter dealt mostly with abstract questions relating to the truth of revelation, this chapter illustrates the truth of those questions by referring to the histories of former prophets. Thus it deals with the histories of Noah, Hūd, Sālih, Abraham, Lot and Shuaib. A cruel and persecuting enemy is warned of the fate that befell previous people. This chapter was revealed during the last four years of the period of the Holy Prophet's life at Makkah.

Section 1: A Warning

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Seer. A Book, whose verses are characterized by wisdom, then they are made plain, from One Wise, Aware: ²that you should serve none but Allah. Surely I am to you from Him a warner and a giver of good news. ³And ask forgiveness of your Lord, then turn to Him. He will provide you with a goodly provision to an appointed term, and will bestow His grace on every one endowed with grace.^a And if you turn away, I fear for you the punishment of a great day. ⁴To Allah is your return, and He is Powerful over all things. ⁵Now surely they cover up their breasts to conceal (their enmity) from Him. Now surely, when they put their garments as a covering,^b He knows what they hide and what they make public. Surely He is Knower of what is in the breasts.

6 And there is no animal in the earth but on Allah is the sustenance of it, and He knows its abode and its repository. All is in a a (3) One endowed with grace here is the possessor of spiritual blessings in addition to the material benefits spoken of in the preceding words.

b (5) This expression indicates their trying not to see or hear, or holding back from lending an ear, or it is an allusion to their running away.

clear record. ⁷And He it is Who created the heavens and the earth in six periods; and His Throne of Power is ever on water ^a that He might manifest (the good qualities in) you, whoever of you is best in deeds. ^b And if you say, You shall surely be raised up after death, those who disbelieve say: This is nothing but clear deceit. ⁸And if We delay for them the punishment for a stated period, they will certainly say: What prevents it? Now surely on the day when it will come to them, it will not be averted from them, and what they mocked at will beset them.

9 And if We make man taste mercy from Us, then withdraw it from him, he is surely despairing, ungrateful. ¹⁰And if We make him taste a favour after distress has afflicted him, he says: The evils are gone away from me. Certainly he is exultant, boastful, ¹¹except those who are patient and do good. For them is forgiveness and a great reward.

12 Then, may it be that you will give up part of what is revealed to you and your heart will be distressed by it, because they say: Why has not a treasure been sent down for him or an angel come with him? ^c You are only a warner. And Allah is in a (7-1) For the meaning of 'arsh' or Throne of Power see 7:54 footnote 2. The great power of God which is manifested in the creation of man is connected with water because physical life grows out of water. Similarly, spiritual life grows out of revelation, which is so often compared with rain or water. God's great power has thus been made manifest through water, and hence with the creation of the heavens and the earth is mentioned the fact that God's Throne of Power is ever on the waters. The words that follow make it clearer still.

b (7-2) The object of the creation of man and all that has been brought into existence is that the great qualities with which man is endowed should be manifested. But that manifestation, we are told in the words that follow, takes place not in this life but in the life after death.

c (12) This passage does not signify that the Prophet intended to give up any part of the revelation; on the other hand, it is a strong statement indicating that he could not do it. It is a peculiar use of the word la'alla ("maybe"). When it is intended to show a person's remoteness from a thing, it is said: Maybe he has power to do such a thing.

charge of all things. ¹³Or, say they: He has forged it. Say: Then bring ten forged chapters like it, and call upon whom you can besides Allah, if you are truthful.^a ¹⁴But if they do not answer you, then know that it is revealed by Allah's knowledge, and that there is no God but He. Will you then submit?^b

15 Whoever desires this world's life and its finery — We repay them their deeds in it, and they are not made to suffer loss in it. ¹⁶These are they for whom there is nothing but Fire in the Hereafter. And what they work in it is fruitless and their deeds are futile.^c ¹⁷Is he then (like these) who has with him clear proof from his Lord, and a witness from Him recites it, and before it (is) the Book of Moses, a guide and a mercy? These believe in it. And whoever of the parties disbelieves in it, the Fire is his promised place. So do not be in doubt about it. Surely it is the truth from your Lord, but most people do not believe.^d a (13) See also 2:23 and footnote. This challenge is contained in four different chapters of the Quran. The earliest in point of revelation is 17:88: "Say: If people and jinn should combine together to bring the like of this Quran, they could not bring the like of it, though some of them were aiders of others." Then in the verse above, the demand is reduced to ten chapters. Lastly in 10:38 and 2:23 they are challenged to produce a single chapter like the Quran. Another point worth noting is that, while in 17:88 people and jinn are challenged, in 2:23 the word shuhadā', which means helpers, leaders or their great or learned men, is substituted for jinn, thus showing that jinn in 17:88 are only human beings.

b (14) If the false gods or the leaders do not answer their devotees when they call on them to assist them in producing a like of the Quran, then at least no doubt should be left in their minds that the Quran is not the work of the Prophet, but a revelation from the Divine Being.

c (16) That is, their deeds will not result in any good to them.

d (17) He who has with him clear proof from his Lord applies to every believer in the truth of the Quran; the words these believe in it, occurring further on, make this clear. The witness from Allah, who recites it, is the Holy Prophet, who is called a witness elsewhere, as being an exemplar for the believers. Besides being a clear proof in itself, the Quran has a further evidence of its truth in the book of Moses, which is, therefore, called a guide and a mercy, because it contains clear prophecies of the truth of the Prophet. The meaning of the whole passage is: He who, being a believer in the truth of the Quran, has clear proof from his Lord, and who has an exemplar for him in the person of the Holy Prophet, and has additional testimony of his truth in the book of Moses, is not like

18 And who is more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah? These will be brought before their Lord, and the witnesses will say:^a These are they who lied against their Lord. Now surely the curse of Allah is on the wrongdoers, ¹⁹who hinder (people) from the path of Allah and desire to make it crooked. And they are disbelievers in the Hereafter. ²⁰These will not escape in the earth,^b nor do they have guardians besides Allah. The punishment will be doubled for them. They could not bear to hear,^c and they did not see. ²¹These are they who have lost their souls, and what they forged is gone from them. ²²Truly in the Hereafter they are the greatest losers.

23 Surely those who believe and do good and humble themselves before their Lord, these are the owners of the Garden; in it they will abide. ²⁴The likeness of the two parties is as the blind and the deaf, and the seer and the hearer. Are they equal in condition? Will you not then be mindful?

Section 3: History of Noah

25 And certainly We sent Noah to his people (saying): Surely I am a plain warner to you, ²⁶to serve none but Allah. Indeed I fear for you the punishment of a painful day. ²⁷But the chiefs of his people who disbelieved said: We do not see you but (as) a mortal like us, nor do we see that any follow you but those who are the lowest of us at first thought. Nor do we see in you any superiority over us; no, we think you to be liars.

28 He said: My people, do you see if I have with me clear proof from my Lord, and He has granted me mercy from Himself him who loves this world and cares not for the Truth. The latter statement, being included in the previous verses, is omitted here.

a (18) The witnesses are according to some the angels; according to others, the prophets — and this is corroborated by 4:41; according to still others the believers.

b (20-1) They would not escape the punishment, if Allah intended to punish them in this world.

c (20-2) They could not bear even to hear what the Prophet said.

and it has been made obscure to you? Can we compel you to (accept) it while you dislike it? ²⁹And, my people, I do not ask you for wealth (in return) for it. My reward is only with Allah, and I am not going to drive away those who believe. Surely they will meet their Lord, but I see you a people who are ignorant. ³⁰And, my people, who will help me against Allah, if I drive them away? Will you not then be mindful? ³¹And I do not say to you that I have the treasures of Allah, nor do I know the unseen, nor do I say that I am an angel. Nor do I say about those whom your eyes scorn that Allah will not grant them (any) good — Allah knows best what is in their souls — for then indeed I should be of the wrongdoers.

32 They said: Noah, indeed you have disputed with us and prolonged dispute with us, so bring upon us what you threaten us with, if you are truthful. ³³He said: Only Allah will bring it on you, if He please, and you will not escape; ³⁴and my advice will not benefit you, if I intend to give you good advice, if Allah intends to destroy you. He is your Lord; and to Him you will be brought back.

35 Or do they say: He has forged it? Say: If I have forged it, on me is my guilt; and I am free of what you are guilty of.^a

Section 4: History of Noah

36 And it was revealed to Noah: None of your people will believe except those who have already believed, so do not grieve at what they do; ³⁷and make the ark under Our eyes and Our revelation, and do not speak to Me on behalf of those who are unjust. Surely they will be drowned.

38 And he began to make the ark. And whenever the chiefs of his people passed by him, they laughed at him. He said: If you

^a (35) The change shows positively that the disbelievers of Makkah are meant, and the reference is to their calling the Quran a forgery. This shows that the histories of the prophets are referred to in the Quran as a warning for the Holy Prophet's opponents.

laugh at us, surely we, too, laugh at you as you laugh (at us).^a ³⁹So you shall know who it is on whom will come a punishment which will disgrace him, and on whom a lasting punishment will fall.

40 At length when Our command came and water gushed forth from the valley,^b We said: Carry in it two of all things, a pair,^c and your own family — except those against whom the word has already gone forth — and those who believe. And only a few believed with him. ⁴¹And he said: Embark in it, in the name of Allah be its sailing and its anchoring. Surely my Lord is Forgiving, Merciful. ⁴²And it moved on with them amid waves like mountains.^d And Noah called out to his son, who was apart: My son, embark with us and do not be with the disbelievers. ⁴³He said: I will take refuge on a mountain that will save me from the water.

a (38) The laughing of the righteous at the wicked is not to be taken literally. You laugh at a thing to show your contempt for it; just as the disbelieving people showed their contempt for the making of the ark, the believer in Divine promise shows his contempt for their opposition and their plans to destroy him.

b (40-1) Fār al-tannūr has often been translated as the oven poured forth water or the oven boiled or the earth's surface boiled up. But the meaning of fāra which suits the context here, is not of boiling, but of water spouting forth, and that of tannūr applicable here is not oven but a place where the water of a valley collects.

c (40-2) By all things are meant all things needed by Noah, and not all things existing in the world, which was too extensive for Noah to travel over.

d (42) The Quran does not support the story that the deluge covered the whole surface of the earth. On the other hand, it repeatedly speaks of Noah as having been sent to his people, i.e. to a single tribe, and according to the Divine law the punishment must have overtaken his people, who not only rejected the truth, but also sought to destroy Noah and his followers. The mention of the water flowing from the valley also shows that it was only a tract of land that was deluged, and not the entire earth. The taking in of a pair of all things does not mean that Noah had travelled over the whole earth and taken a pair of every living animal wherever it could be found. The order is clearly to take in pairs of all those things that he considered necessary for himself and those who were with him in the ark. The Bible narrative, which speaks of God “bringing floodwaters on the earth, to destroy from under heaven all flesh in which is the breath of life,” (Genesis, 6:17), and then makes Noah collect and lodge in an ark a pair of each of the thousands of animals and birds, cannot be accepted.

He said: There is none safe today from Allah's command, but he on whom He has mercy. And a wave intervened between them, so he was among the drowned.

44 And it was said: O earth, swallow your water, and O cloud, clear away. And the water was made to subside, and the affair was decided, and it rested on the Jūdī,^a and it was said: Away with the wrongdoing people! ⁴⁵And Noah cried to his Lord and said: My Lord, surely my son is of my family, and Your promise is true, and You are the most just of the judges. ⁴⁶He said: O Noah, he is not of your family; he is (an embodiment of) unrighteous conduct.^b So do not ask of Me that of which you have no knowledge. I admonish you so you may not be of the ignorant ones. ⁴⁷He said: My Lord, I seek refuge in You from asking of You that of which I have no knowledge. And unless You forgive me and have mercy on me, I shall be among the losers. ⁴⁸It was said: O Noah, descend with peace from Us and blessing on you and on nations (springing) from those with you. And there are nations whom We afford provisions, then a painful punishment from Us afflicts them.

49 These are announcements relating to the unseen which We reveal to you; you did not know them — (neither) you nor your people — before this. So be patient. Surely the (good) end is for the dutiful.^c a (44) The Greek name of this mountain is said to be Gordyoei, being one of those mountains which divide Armenia on the south from Mesopotamia (Iraq).

b (46) When it is meant to speak of a person as the very embodiment of a certain quality, he is designated not as the possessor of that quality, but as that quality itself. In 2:177 it is said, literally, righteousness is the one who believes, the meaning being that such a person is the embodiment of righteousness.

c (49) The announcement relating to the unseen is the fate of the opponents of the Holy Prophet as read in Noah's history. The words that follow — be patient — are a clear indication, for patient waiting was needed for the fate of the Prophet's opponents, not for anything relating to Noah's history.

50 And to Ād (We sent) their brother Hūd.^a He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. You are only fabricators. ⁵¹My people, I ask of you no reward for it. My reward is only with Him Who created me. Do you not then understand? ⁵²And, my people, ask forgiveness of your Lord, then turn to Him, He will send on you clouds pouring down abundance of rain and add strength to your strength, and do not turn back, guilty.

53 They said: Hūd, you have brought us no clear argument, and we are not going to desert our gods for your word, and we are not believers in you. ⁵⁴We say nothing but that some of our gods have struck you with evil. He said: Surely I call Allah to witness, and you should bear witness too, that I am innocent of what you set up (with Allah) ⁵⁵besides Him. So scheme against me all together, then give me no respite. ⁵⁶Surely I put my trust in Allah, my Lord and your Lord. There is no living creature but He grasps it by its forelock. Surely my Lord is on the right path.^b ⁵⁷But if you turn away, then indeed I have delivered to you the message with which I am sent to you. And my Lord will bring another people in your place, and you cannot do Him any harm. Surely my Lord is the Preserver of all things.

58 And when Our commandment came to pass, We delivered Hūd and those who believed with him with mercy from Us; and We delivered them from a hard punishment. ⁵⁹And such were Ād. They denied the messages of their Lord, and disobeyed His messengers and followed the bidding of every insolent opposer (of truth). ⁶⁰And they were overtaken by a curse in this world and on the day of Resurrection. Now surely Ād disbelieved in their Lord. Now surely, away with Ād, the people of Hūd!

Section 6: History of Sālih

61 And to Thamūd (We sent) their brother Sālih.^a He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. He brought you forth from the earth and made you dwell in it, so ask forgiveness of Him, then turn to Him. Surely my Lord is near, answering. ⁶²They said: Sālih, you were among us a centre of (our) hopes before this. Do you forbid us to worship what our fathers worshipped? And surely we are in grave doubt about that to which you call us. ⁶³He said: My people, do you see if I have clear proof from my Lord and He has granted me mercy from Himself — who will then help me against Allah, if I disobey Him? So you would add to me nothing but perdition. ⁶⁴And, my people, this is Allah's she-camel, a sign for you, so leave her to pasture on Allah's earth and do her no harm, or a punishment will soon come upon you.^b ⁶⁵But they hamstrung her, so he said: Enjoy yourselves in your houses for three days. That is a promise not to be belied.

66 So when Our commandment came to pass, We saved Sālih and those who believed with him by mercy from Us from the disgrace of that day. Surely your Lord — He is the Strong, the Mighty. ⁶⁷And the cry overtook those who did wrong,^c so they were motionless bodies in their abodes, ⁶⁸as though they had never dwelt in them. Now surely Thamūd disbelieved in their Lord. So away with Thamūd!

Section 7: Abraham and Lot

69 And certainly Our messengers came to Abraham with good news.^d They said: 'Peace!' 'Peace!', said he. And he made no delay

c (67) It was an earthquake. See 7:78.

d (69) Whether they were angels or men, is not made clear here or anywhere else in the Quran. But as they did not partake of food, and the fact that they brought to Abraham news of a son and of the destruction of Lot's people, they are generally looked upon as angels who appeared in the similitude of men.

in bringing a roasted calf. ⁷⁰But when he saw that their hands did not reach to it, he mistrusted them and conceived fear of them. They said: Do not fear; we have been sent to Lot's people.

71 And his wife was standing (by), so she wondered.^a Then We gave her the good news of Isaac, and beyond Isaac, of Jacob.^b ⁷²She said: O wonder!^c Shall I bear a son when I am an extremely old woman, and this my husband an extremely old man? This is a wonderful thing indeed! ⁷³They said: Do you wonder at Allah's commandment? The mercy of Allah and His blessings be on you, people of the house!^d Surely He is Praised, Glorious.

74 So when fear departed from Abraham and good news came to him, he began to plead with Us for Lot's people. ⁷⁵Surely Abraham was forbearing, tender-hearted, oft-returning (to Allah). ⁷⁶O Abraham, cease from this. Surely the decree of your Lord has gone forth and a punishment must come to them which cannot be averted.

77 And when Our messengers came to Lot, he was grieved for them, and he was unable to protect them, and said: This is a distressful day!

78 And his people came to him, (as if) driven on towards him, and they were used to the doing of evil deeds before. He said: My a (71-1) It is made clear in 51:24–34 that the news of the birth of a son was given to Abraham first. This explains Sarah's wonder. It was after receiving the good news of the birth of a son that Abraham was informed of the destruction of Lot's people. The statement made further on that Sarah was given the good news of the birth of a son is by way of reassurance on her expression of wonder, and to give the further news of a son's son, Jacob.

b (71-2) Compare Genesis 18:10–12. The mention of a son's son (Jacob) was to show that that son should have progeny. The word warā' ("beyond") also means a son's son. Elsewhere Jacob is expressly called nāfilah (21:72) which means a grandson.

c (71) The original words yā wailatā, while used to express grief and sorrow, are also used to express wonder.

d (73) Ahl al-bait ("people of the house") includes the wife of a person; in fact, it is Abraham's wife who is primarily addressed here. The same phrase in the case of the Holy Prophet (33:33) includes his wives as well as his children.

people, these are my daughters — they are purer for you; so guard against (the punishment of) Allah and do not disgrace me about my guests. Is there not among you any right-minded man? ^a ⁷⁹They said: Certainly you know that we have no claim on your daughters, and you know what we desire. ⁸⁰He said: If only I had the power to repel you! — rather I shall have recourse to a strong support. ^b

81 They said: Lot, we are the messengers of your Lord. They shall not reach you. So travel with your people for a part of the night — and let none of you turn back — except your wife. Surely whatsoever befalls them shall befall her. Surely their appointed time is the morning. Is not the morning near? ⁸²So when Our decree came to pass, We turned them upside down, and rained on them stones, as decreed, one after another, ^c ⁸³marked (for punishment) with your Lord. And it is not far off from the wrongdoers. ^d a (78) Lot, it appears from Genesis 19:9, was a stranger in the city, and the messengers being strangers, the townsmen would not allow him to keep them. Lot offered his daughters as hostages so that he might be allowed to keep his guests with him, for according to 15:70 he had not permission to allow any stranger to come under his roof. Another view is that Lot offered his daughters for marriage, as thus he would not be a stranger among them but would be one of them. Some commentators have suggested that Lot did not point to his real daughters, but to women of the tribe, because a prophet would speak of the women of his tribe as his daughters, and in that case he did no more than point to the natural relation of man and woman. The answer of his people seems, however, to relate to his daughters.

b (80) Allah is the strong support to Whom the righteous have recourse when they are in trouble. The particle au signifies or, as well as rather.

c (82) It was a severe earthquake, which so utterly demolished the cities as to turn them upside down. In 15:73 it is called a rumbling that precedes an earthquake; see 7:84. The raining down of stones might have been the result of a volcanic eruption which was accompanied by an earthquake.

d (83) The concluding words indicate a reversion to the subject of the punishment of the opponents of the Holy Prophet. It refers to the punishment.

Section 8: History of Shuaib

84 And to Midian (We sent) their brother Shuaib. He said: My people, serve Allah, you have no god other than Him. And do not give short measure and weight. I see you in prosperity, and I fear for you the punishment of an all-encompassing day. ⁸⁵And, my people, give full measure and weight justly, and do not defraud people of their things, nor act corruptly in the land, making mischief. ⁸⁶What remains with Allah is better for you, if you are believers.^a And I am not a keeper over you.

87 They said: Shuaib, does your prayer enjoin you that we should give up what our fathers worshipped or that we should not do what we please with regard to our property? So you are the one who is the forbearing, the right-directing!

88 He said: My people, do you see if I have a clear proof from my Lord and He has given me a goodly sustenance from Himself? And I do not desire to act in opposition to you, in what I forbid you. I desire nothing but reform, so far as I am able. And with none but Allah is the direction of my affair to a right issue. In Him I trust and to Him I turn. ⁸⁹And, my people, do not let opposition to me make you guilty so that there may befall you the like of what befell the people of Noah, or the people of Hūd, or the people of Sālih. Nor are the people of Lot far off from you. ⁹⁰And ask forgiveness of your Lord, then turn to Him. Surely my Lord is Merciful, Loving-kind.

91 They said: Shuaib, we do not understand much of what you say and surely we see you to be weak among us. And if it were not for your family, we would surely stone you, and you are not strong against us. ⁹²He said: My people, is my family more esteemed by you than Allah? And you neglect Him as a thing cast behind your backs! Surely my Lord encompasses what you do. ⁹³And, my a (86) Baqiyyat Allāh would properly signify that part of man's doing which remains with Allah, i.e., the righteous or good works, of which the recompense remains, the word conveying the same significance as baqiyyāt in 18:46 and 19:76. But it may also mean what Allah leaves to you after you have paid the dues of others.

people, act according to your ability, I too am acting. You will soon know upon whom will come the punishment, that will disgrace him, and who is a liar. And watch, surely I too am watching with you.

94 And when Our decree came to pass, We delivered Shuaib and those who believed with him by mercy from Us. And the cry overtook those who did wrong, so they were motionless bodies in their abodes, ⁹⁵as though they had never dwelt in them. So away with Midian, just as Thamūd perished!

Section 9: The Wrongdoers and the Righteous

96 And certainly We sent Moses with Our signs and a clear authority, ⁹⁷to Pharaoh and his chiefs, but they followed the bidding of Pharaoh; and Pharaoh's bidding was not right-directing. ⁹⁸He will lead his people on the day of Resurrection, and bring them down to the Fire. And evil the place to which they are brought! ⁹⁹And they are followed by a curse in this (world), and on the day of Resurrection. Evil the gift which shall be given!

100 This is an account of the towns which We relate to you. Of them are some that stand and (others) mown down. ¹⁰¹And We did not wrong them but they wronged themselves. And their gods whom they called upon besides Allah did not avail them in the least when the decree of your Lord came to pass. And they added to them nothing but ruin. ¹⁰²And such is the punishment of your Lord, when He punishes the towns while they are wrongdoers. Surely His punishment is painful, severe. ¹⁰³Surely there is a sign in this for him who fears the punishment of the Hereafter. That is a day on which people will be gathered together, and that is a day to be witnessed. ¹⁰⁴And We do not delay it but for an appointed term.

105 On the day when it comes, no soul will speak except by His permission; so (some) of them will be unhappy and (others) happy. ¹⁰⁶Then as for those who are unhappy, they will be in the Fire; for them there will be in it sighing and groaning —

¹⁰⁷abiding in it so long as the heavens and the earth endure, except as your Lord please. Surely your Lord is Doer of what He intends.^a ¹⁰⁸And as for those who are made happy, they will be in the Garden abiding in it so long as the heavens and the earth endure, except as your Lord please — a gift never to be cut off.^b

109 So do not be in doubt as to what these (people) worship. They worship only as their fathers worshipped before. And surely We shall pay them in full their due undiminished.

Section 10: Believers are comforted

110 And indeed We gave Moses the Book, but differences arose concerning it. And if a word had not already gone forth from your Lord, judgment would have been given between them. And they are surely in a disquieting doubt about it. ¹¹¹And your Lord will surely pay back to all their deeds in full. He indeed is Aware of what they do.

112 Continue, then, in the right way as you are commanded, as also (should) those who turn (to Allah) with you. And do not be a (107) This limitation on the duration of abiding in hell — except as your Lord please — is given here and in 6:128, showing clearly that the punishment of hell is not everlasting. The next verse states that those in paradise will abide there as long as the heavens and the earth endure, “except as your Lord please”, but this statement is immediately followed by another: A gift never to be cut off. This shows that in fact there is no limitation upon the eternity of paradise, and the words except as your Lord please have been used, in the case of paradise, only to express the unbounded power of the Divine Being and the fact that it is due to God’s pleasure that they are there. In the case of hell, however, the words except as your Lord please are followed by a statement which corroborates the limitation thus placed, for, Fa“āl or Doer, as an attribute of God, indicates that He does even those things which seem impossible to others.

Three times in the Quran (4:169, 33:65, 72:23) abiding in hell for abad is mentioned, which is generally considered as meaning forever. However, abad signifies a long time as well as time without end. The Quran makes clear in 78:23 that a long time is meant as it states there that the disbelievers will remain in hell for aḥqāb, i.e. long years.

b (108) In accordance with what is said here, that heavenly life is a gift never to be cut off, we have in 15:48: “Nor will they be ejected from there”.

inordinate (O people). Surely He is Seer of what you do. ¹¹³And do not incline to those who do wrong, so that the fire touch you; and you have no protectors besides Allah, then you would not be helped.^a ¹¹⁴And keep up prayer at the two ends of the day and in the first hours of the night.^b Surely good deeds take away evil deeds. This is a reminder for the mindful. ¹¹⁵And be patient, for surely Allah does not waste the reward of the doers of good.

116 Why were there not, then, among the generations before you, those possessing understanding who forbade mischief in the earth except a few among them whom We delivered? And the unjust pursued the enjoyment of plenty, and they were guilty. ¹¹⁷And your Lord would not destroy towns unjustly, while their people acted well.^c ¹¹⁸And if your Lord pleased, He would have made people a single nation.^d And they do not cease to differ, ¹¹⁹except those on whom your Lord has mercy; and for this did He create them. And the word of your Lord is fulfilled: I will certainly fill hell with jinn and people, all together.^e

b (114) The times of prayer are clearly indicated here. Of the two ends of the day, the first is the fajr, or the prayer before sunrise, and the second includes the zuhr, or the early afternoon, and the 'aṣr, or the later afternoon, prayers. In the first hours of the night we have the maghrib, or the after sunset prayer, and the 'ishā', or the prayer before going to bed. The two afternoon prayers and the two after sunset prayers, which are spoken of together, may under exceptional circumstances be said together in each case.

c (117) God does not destroy people unjustly. He destroys them only when they act corruptly and make mischief in the world. He would not destroy them if they act well, whatever their beliefs. Most of the commentators take the word zulm (injustice in the word “unjustly”) here as meaning shirk or setting up partners with God, and the meaning becomes that God would not destroy people, even though they were guilty of shirk, provided they acted well. The translation in this case would be: your Lord would not destroy towns for wrong beliefs, while their people acted well.

d (118) God does not force people to one particular belief. He has given them the choice to accept or reject the truth.

e (119) Here it is clearly stated that Allah created all human beings to have 120 And all We relate to you from the account of the messengers is to strengthen your heart with it. And in this has come to you the truth and an admonition and a reminder for the believers. ¹²¹And say to those who do not believe: Act according to your power, surely we too are acting; ¹²²and wait, surely we too are waiting. ¹²³And Allah's is the unseen in the heavens and the earth, and to Him the whole affair will be returned. So serve Him and put your trust in Him. And your Lord is not heedless of what you do.

mercy on them. By His mercy He guides some to the right path, while to others, who go over to evil and make themselves deserving of hell, mercy will come only after suffering. It is by their own hands that they get into distress and difficulty, while Allah has mercy on them in extricating them from it.

The filling of hell with jinn and people would be because they went against the ways which Allah had mercifully shown to them. Therefore they must pass through another ordeal, so that they may be purged of evil and made fit for spiritual progress.

Joseph

This entire chapter gives a continuous account of the history of Joseph. At the beginning and the end it indicates that the purpose is to foretell the ultimate triumph of the Holy Prophet Muhammad and the final submission of those who were plotting against his life. It is also prophesied here that the mutual dealings of the Holy Prophet and his enemies would be similar to the dealings of Joseph and his brothers: they would persecute him but he would forgive them when they would ultimately come before him in submission. This chapter was revealed during the last four years of the period of the Holy Prophet's life at Makkah.

Section 1: Joseph's Vision

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Seer. These are the verses of the Book that makes manifest. ²Surely We have revealed it — an Arabic Quran — that you may understand. ³We narrate to you the best of narratives,^a in that We have revealed to you this Quran, though before this you were of those who are unaware.^b

4 When Joseph said to his father: My father, I saw eleven stars and the sun and the moon — I saw them making submission to me. ⁵He said: My son, do not relate your dream to your

a (3-1) It is called the best narrative because it is the best picture of the dealing of the Quraish with the Holy Prophet, and the Prophet's dealing with them. It was in the very words of Joseph to his brothers — there is no reproach against you this day (v. 92) — that the Holy Prophet forgave the people of Makkah all the atrocities they had committed against him.

b (3-2) The Holy Prophet's "unawareness" relates to his own future, of which this chapter gives a clear indication in the incidents of Joseph's life, viz. that he was to be expelled from his home but that his countrymen would ultimately come to him in submission, asking pardon for their faults. But "unawareness" here may also refer to all those things that are related in the Quran, because the Prophet knew nothing of them before revelation.

brothers, in case they devise a plan against you. The devil indeed is an open enemy to man. ⁶And thus will your Lord choose you and teach you the interpretation of sayings, and make His favour complete to you and to the Children of Jacob, as He made it complete before to your fathers, Abraham and Isaac. Surely your Lord is Knowing, Wise.

7 Surely in Joseph and his brothers there are signs for the inquirers.^a ⁸When they said: Certainly Joseph and his brother^b are dearer to our father than we, though we are a (strong) company. Surely our father is in clear error — ⁹Kill Joseph or banish him to some (other) land, so that your father's regard may be exclusively for you, and after that you may be a righteous people.^c ¹⁰A speaker among them said: Do not kill Joseph, but, if you are going to do anything, cast him down to the bottom of the well. Some of the travellers may pick him up.

11 They said: Our father, why do you not trust us with Joseph, and surely we are his sincere well-wishers? ¹²Send him with us tomorrow that he may enjoy himself and play, and we shall surely guard him well. ¹³He said: Indeed it grieves me that you should take him away and I fear that the wolf may eat him while you are careless of him. ¹⁴They said: If the wolf should eat him while we are so many, we should then certainly be losers.

15 So when they took him away and agreed to put him down at the bottom of the pit, We revealed to him: You will certainly a (7) By inquirers are meant people who inquired about the Holy Prophet, who was at this time being persecuted most severely by the people of Makkah. They are told in plain words that the story of the Prophet and his opponents was the story of Joseph and his brothers.

c (9) The conspiracy of the Quraish against the Holy Prophet is referred to in the Quran in the words: "And when those who disbelieved devised plans against you that they might confine you or kill you or drive you away" (8:30).

inform them of this affair of theirs while they do not realize.^a ¹⁶And they came to their father at nightfall, weeping. ¹⁷They said: Our father, we went off racing with one another and left Joseph by our goods, so the wolf ate him. And you will not believe us, though we are truthful. ¹⁸And they came with false blood on his shirt. He said: Indeed, your souls have made it a light matter for you. So patience is best. And Allah is He Whose help is sought against what you describe.^b

19 And travellers came, and they sent their water-drawer and he let down his bucket. He said: Good news! This is a youth. And they concealed him as an article of merchandise, and Allah knew what they did. ²⁰And they sold him for a small price, a few pieces of silver, and they showed no desire for him.

Section 3: Joseph's Firmness under Temptation

21 And the Egyptian who bought him said to his wife: Make his stay honourable. Maybe he will be useful to us, or we may adopt him as a son. And thus We established Joseph in the land, and that We might teach him the interpretation of sayings. And Allah has full control over His affair, but most people do not know. ²²And when he attained his maturity, We gave him wisdom and knowledge. And thus do We reward the doers of good.

23 And she in whose house he was, sought to seduce him, and bolted the doors and said: Come. He said: Allah forbid! Surely my Lord made good my abode. The wrongdoers never prosper. ²⁴And certainly she desired him, and he would have desired her if he had not seen the clear evidence of his Lord. Thus (it was) that We

a (15) The essential difference between the version of this story given in the Bible and the version in the Quran is that while the Bible narrates it as a simple story, the Quran preserves in it the spiritual element.

b (18) The Quran represents Jacob as doubting from the very first the sincerity of Joseph's brothers, but not so the Bible. Again, according to the Quran, Joseph relates his vision to his father, who is at once apprehensive of the envy of his brothers, if they are apprised of it; but according to the Bible, Jacob himself rebuked Joseph for his dream. Besides several discrepancies, the Bible narrative represents Jacob as an ordinary man, while the Quran represents him as a prophet.

might turn away from him evil and indecency. Surely he was one of Our chosen servants.^a 25 And they raced with one another to the door, and she tore his shirt from behind, and they met her husband at the door. She said: What is the penalty for one who intends evil to your wife, except imprisonment or a painful punishment? ²⁶He said: She sought to seduce me. And a witness of her own family bore witness: If his shirt is torn in front, she speaks the truth and he is a liar. ²⁷And if his shirt is torn from behind, she tells a lie and he is truthful. ²⁸So when he saw his shirt torn from behind, he said: Surely it is an intrigue of you women. Your intrigue is indeed great!^b ²⁹Joseph, turn aside from this. And (my wife), ask forgiveness for your sin. Surely you are one of the sinful.

Section 4: Joseph is imprisoned

30 And women in the city said: The chief's wife seeks to seduce her slave. He has indeed affected her deeply with (his) love. Truly we see her in clear error. ³¹So when she heard of their scheming,^c she sent for them and prepared for them a feast, and gave each of them a knife, and said (to Joseph): Come out to them. So when they saw him, they thought him great, and cut their hands (in amazement), and said: Holy Allah! This is not a mortal! This is but a noble angel.^d ³²She said: This is he about whom you blamed me. And certainly I sought to seduce him, but he was firm in self-

a (24) This does not show that Joseph had any desire for her, but that the temptation was so strong that, if he had not been strengthened by great faith in God, he would have fallen a prey to mortal weakness.

b (28) The vindication of Joseph's character on this occasion, and the production of the evidence of the shirt, are not related in the Bible. The next section proves that Joseph was not cast into prison for being guilty of having committed an outrage against his master's wife.

c (31-1) Some think that she knew that certain women had circulated the news with the object of getting a chance to see Joseph.

d (31-2) The Egyptians were a superstitious and polytheistic people, and anything strange, or any human being about whom they witnessed anything wonderful, was considered by them to be a god.

restraint. And if he does not do what I order him, he shall certainly be imprisoned, and he shall certainly be degraded.

33 He said: My Lord, the prison is dearer to me than that to which they invite me. And if You do not turn away their intrigue from me, I shall yearn towards them and be one of the ignorant. ³⁴So his Lord accepted his prayer and turned away their intrigue from him. Surely He is the Hearer, the Knower. ³⁵Then it occurred to them after they had seen the signs that they should imprison him for a while.^a

Section 5: Joseph's Preaching in Prison

36 And two youths entered the prison with him. One of them said: I saw myself pressing wine. And the other said: I saw myself carrying bread on my head, from which birds were eating. Inform us of its interpretation; surely we see you to be from among the doers of good.^b

37 He said: The food with which you are fed shall not come to you, but I shall inform you of its interpretation before it comes to you. This is from what my Lord has taught me. Surely I have forsaken the religion of a people who do not believe in Allah, and are deniers of the Hereafter. ³⁸And I follow the religion of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac and Jacob. It does not befit us to set up any partner with Allah. This is by Allah's grace upon us and on mankind, but most people do not give thanks. ³⁹My two fellow-prisoners, are various lords better or Allah the One, the Supreme? ⁴⁰You do not serve besides Him but names which you have named, you and your fathers — Allah has sent down no authority for them. Judgment is only Allah's. He has commanded that you

^a (35) There is nothing to show that Joseph was cast into prison on a charge of having committed an outrage on that woman. As he was proved guiltless of that charge, it is very likely that some other accusation was brought against him; and more probably an autocratic ruler needed no excuse for putting an innocent man into prison. By signs must be understood the signs of Joseph's innocence.

serve none but Him. This is the right religion, but most people do not know.

41 My two fellow-prisoners, as for one of you, he will serve wine for his lord to drink; and as for the other, he will be crucified, so that birds will eat from his head. The matter is decreed concerning which you inquired. 42And he said to him whom he knew would be delivered of the two: Remember me with your lord. But the devil caused him to forget mentioning (it) to his lord, so he remained in the prison a few years.

Section 6: The King's Vision interpreted by Joseph

43 And the king said: I have seen seven fat cows which seven lean ones devoured, and seven green ears and (seven) others dry. Chiefs, explain to me my dream, if you can interpret the dream. 44They said: Confused dreams, and we do not know the interpretation of dreams. 45And of the two, he who had found deliverance and remembered after a long time said: I will inform you of its interpretation, so send me.

46 Joseph, truthful one, explain to us seven fat cows which seven lean ones devoured, and seven green ears and (seven) others dry, that I may go back to the people so that they may know. 47He said: You shall sow for seven years as usual, then what you reap, leave it in its ear, except a little which you eat. 48Then after that will come seven years of hardship, which will eat away all you have beforehand stored for them, except a little which you have preserved. 49Then after that will come a year in which people will have rain and in which they will press (grapes).

Section 7: Joseph cleared of the Charges

50 And the king said: Bring him to me. So when the messenger came to him, he said: Go back to your lord and ask him, what is the case of the women who cut their hands? Surely my Lord knows their intrigue.

51 (The king) said: What was your business when you sought to seduce Joseph? They said: Holy Allah! We knew of no evil on his part. The chief's wife said: Now has the truth come out. I sought to seduce him and he is surely truthful.

52 (Joseph said:) This is that he might know that I have not been unfaithful to him in secret, and that Allah does not guide the plan of the unfaithful.^a 53And I do not call myself sinless; surely (man's) self is apt to command evil, except those on whom my Lord has mercy. Surely my Lord is Forgiving, Merciful.^b

54 And the king said: Bring him to me, I will choose him for myself. So when he talked with him, he said: Surely you are in our presence today dignified, trusted. 55He said: Place me (in authority) over the treasures of the land; surely I am a good keeper, knowing well.

56 And thus did We give to Joseph power in the land — he had mastery in it wherever he liked. We bestow Our mercy on whom We please, and We do not waste the reward of the doers of good. 57And certainly the reward of the Hereafter is better for those who believe and guard against evil.

Section 8: Joseph helps his Brothers

58 And Joseph's brothers came and went in to (see) him, and he knew them, while they did not recognize him. 59And when he furnished them with their provision, he said: Bring me a brother of yours from your father. Do you not see that I give full measure and that I am the best of hosts? 60But if you do not bring him to me, you shall have no measure (of corn) from me, nor shall you come near me. 61They said: We shall try to make his father yield about him, and we are sure to do (it). 62And he said to his servants: Put their money into their bags that they may recognize it when they go back to their family, so that they may come back.

a (52) These are the words of Joseph, who explains his conduct in preferring to remain in prison until his innocence was established.

b (53) When a man addressed Jesus as good master, he said: "Why do you call me good? No one is good but One, that is, God" (Mark 10:18). The righteous never attribute any good to themselves, but attribute all good to the Great Source of goodness — God. Man's self is here called ammārah, i.e. one apt to command evil. It is the lowest stage in spiritual growth. See also 75:2 and 89:30.

63 So when they returned to their father, they said: Our father, the measure is withheld from us, so send with us our brother that we may get the measure, and we will surely guard him. ⁶⁴He said: Can I trust you with him, except as I trusted you with his brother before? So Allah is the Best Keeper, and He is the most Merciful of those who show mercy.

65 And when they opened their goods, they found their money returned to them. They said: Our father, what (more) can we desire? This is our property returned to us, and we shall bring corn for our family and guard our brother, and have in addition the measure of a camel-load. This is an easy measure. ⁶⁶He said: I will by no means send him with you, until you give me a firm promise in Allah's name that you will bring him back to me, unless you are completely surrounded. And when they gave him their promise, he said: Allah is Guardian over what we say. ⁶⁷And he said: My sons, do not enter by one gate but enter by different gates.^a And I cannot avail you against (the decree of) Allah at all. Judgment is only Allah's. On Him I rely, and on Him let the reliant rely.

68 And when they entered as their father had instructed them, it did not avail them against Allah at all, but (it was only) a desire in the soul of Jacob, which he satisfied. And surely he was possessed of knowledge, because We had given him knowledge, but most people do not know.^b

Section 9: The Youngest Brother

69 And when they came to Joseph, he lodged his brother with himself, saying: I am your brother, so do not grieve at what they do. ⁷⁰Then when he furnished them with their provision, (someone) a (67) Jacob, it seems, had come to know by Divine revelation that Joseph was there, and therefore he ordered them to enter by different gates so that Joseph might find his brother. The next verse makes it clear when it says: And surely he was possessed of knowledge because We had given him knowledge.

b (68) The Bible narrative represents Jacob as being quite ignorant in the matter.

placed the drinking-cup in his brother's bag.^a Then a crier cried out:^b O caravan, you are surely thieves! ⁷¹They said, turning towards them: What is it that you miss? ⁷²They said: We miss the king's drinking-cup, and he who brings it shall have a camel-load, and I am responsible for it. ⁷³They said: By Allah! You know for certain that we have not come to make mischief in the land, and we are not thieves. ⁷⁴They said: But what is the penalty for this, if you are liars? ⁷⁵They said: The penalty for this — the person in whose bag it is found, he himself is the penalty for it. Thus do we punish the wrongdoers.

76 So he began with their sacks before the sack of his brother, then he brought it out from his brother's sack. Thus did We plan for the sake of Joseph. He could not take his brother under the king's law, unless Allah pleased.^c We raise in degree whom We please. And above everyone possessed of knowledge is the All-Knowing One. ⁷⁷They said: If he steal, a brother of his did indeed steal before.^d But Joseph kept it secret in his mind, and did not a (70-1) Though the Bible narrative ascribes the placing of the cup to Joseph, the Quran does not say so. It may have been one of Joseph's own brothers who did this act so that Benjamin might also be removed from Jacob, who loved him most after Joseph. There is a clear hint to this possibility in v. 77, where Joseph accuses them of having done some guilty deed: "You are in an evil condition", and a still clearer hint in v. 89, where Joseph says: "Do you know how you treated Joseph and his brother, when you were ignorant?"

b (70-2) It is a mistake to suppose that the crier was the very person who had placed the cup there. As v. 72 makes it clear, it was the king's drinking-cup; in other words it was not Joseph's personal property, but the property of the king, or government property. It is clear that the men who provided corn were different from those who had charge of the king's property.

c (76) This makes it clear that this was not Joseph's plan, but a Divine plan. In other words, the circumstances were made to assist Joseph to keep his brother with him. Joseph's desire, no doubt, was to retain his brother Benjamin while the others returned; but he was unable to do so under the laws of Egypt, as stated here. This shows that one living under an alien government should abide by the laws of that government.

d (77) The brothers of Joseph made a false statement against Joseph to cast a veil over their own evil deeds. If Benjamin, they said, was a thief, so was his brother Joseph, as if they meant to say that this evil trait of character was due to the mother, Rachel (probably referring to the incident in Genesis, 31:19).

disclose it to them. He said: You are in an evil condition, and Allah knows best what you state. ⁷⁸They said: O chief, he has a father, a very old man, so take one of us in his place. Surely we see you to be one of the doers of good. ⁷⁹He said: Allah forbid that we should seize other than him with whom we found our property, for then surely we should be unjust!

Section 10: Joseph discloses his Identity

80 So when they despaired of (persuading) him, they conferred together privately. The eldest of them said: Do you not know that your father took from you a promise in Allah's name, and how you fell short of your duty about Joseph before? So I shall not leave this land, until my father permits me or Allah decides for me; and He is the Best of the judges. ⁸¹Go back to your father and say: Our father, your son committed theft. And we bear witness only to what we know, and we could not keep watch over the unseen. ⁸²And ask the town where we were, and the caravan with which we proceeded. And surely we are truthful.

83 (Jacob) said: No, your souls have contrived an affair for you, so patience is best. Maybe Allah will bring them together to me. Surely He is the Knowing, the Wise. ⁸⁴And he turned away from them, and said: My sorrow for Joseph! And his eyes were filled ^a (with tears) on account of the grief, then he repressed (grief). ⁸⁵They said: By Allah! You will not cease remembering Joseph till you are a prey to disease or you perish. ⁸⁶He said: I complain of my grief and sorrow only to Allah, and I know from Allah what you do not know. ^b ⁸⁷My sons, go and inquire about Joseph and his brother, and do not despair of Allah's mercy.^c a (84) The word used can carry the meaning of being filled. Even if we accept the ordinary significance, his eyes were whitened, the meaning is that they were whitened with tears, which naturally came at the mention of Joseph.

b (86) This shows clearly that Jacob knew by Divine revelation that Joseph was alive.

c (87) Here the Quran again differs from the Bible and shows that Jacob was so certain of Joseph being alive because of the knowledge he received from God, that he sent his sons a third time to Egypt to ascertain about Joseph. It appears that he had an inkling also that Joseph was in Egypt.

Surely none despairs of Allah's mercy except the disbelieving people.

88 So when they came to him, they said: O chief, distress has afflicted us and our family, and we have brought little money, so give us full measure and be charitable to us. Surely Allah rewards the charitable. ⁸⁹He said: Do you know how you treated Joseph and his brother, when you were ignorant? ⁹⁰They said: Are you indeed Joseph? He said: I am Joseph and this is my brother; Allah has indeed been gracious to us. Surely he who keeps his duty and is patient — Allah never wastes the reward of the doers of good. ⁹¹They said: By Allah! Allah has indeed chosen you over us, and we were certainly sinners. ⁹²He said: There is no reproach against you this day.^a Allah may forgive you, and He is the most Merciful of those who show mercy. ⁹³Take this shirt of mine and cast it before my father's face — he will come to know.^b And bring to me all your family.

Section 11: Jacob goes to Egypt

94 And when the caravan left (Egypt), their father said: Surely I scent (the power of) Joseph, if you do not call me weak of mind.^c ⁹⁵They said: By Allah! you are surely in your old error.

96 Then when the bearer of good news came, he cast it before a (92) It is related that the Holy Prophet took hold of the two sides of the gate of the Ka'bah on the day of the conquest of Makkah and said to the Quraish: How do you think I should treat you? They said: We hope for good, a noble brother and the son of a noble brother. Then he said: I say as my brother Joseph said: "There is no reproach against you this day".

b (93) The Quran does not say anywhere that Jacob had become blind. The shirt was sent as being a reminder of the torn shirt of Joseph, which Joseph's brothers had brought to Jacob (v. 18).

c (94) When the caravan in which were Joseph's brothers departed from Egypt, Jacob again received assurance from on high about Joseph, so he said to those around him that he scented the power of Joseph. Jacob knew that Joseph was alive and of this he informed his sons again and again, but he now told them further that he had received an assurance from God that Joseph occupied a high position.

his face so he became certain. He said: Did I not say to you that I know from Allah what you do not know? ⁹⁷They said: Our father, ask forgiveness of our sins for us, surely we are sinners. ⁹⁸He said: I shall ask forgiveness for you of my Lord. Surely He is the Forgiving, the Merciful.

99 Then when they came to Joseph, he lodged his parents with himself and said: Enter Egypt in safety, if Allah please. ¹⁰⁰And he raised his parents on the throne,^a and they fell prostrate for his sake.^b And he said: My father, this is the significance of my earlier vision — my Lord has made it true. And He was indeed kind to me, when He brought me forth from the prison, and brought you from the desert after the devil had sown dissensions between me and my brothers. Surely my Lord is Benignant to whom He pleases. Truly He is the Knowing, the Wise. ¹⁰¹My Lord, You have given me kingdom and taught me something of the interpretation of sayings. Originator of the heavens and the earth, You are my Friend in this world and the Hereafter. Make me die in submission and join me with the righteous.

102 This is from the announcements relating to the unseen (which) We reveal to you, and you were not with them when they resolved upon their affair, and they were devising plans.^c ¹⁰³And most people do not believe, though you desire it eagerly. ¹⁰⁴And you ask them no reward for it. It is nothing but a Reminder for the nations.

a (100-1) The meaning may be that he placed them in a good position.

b (100-2) Seeing the highly dignified position to which Joseph had been raised in Egypt, they all fell prostrate before God as a mark of thanksgiving.

c (102) Throughout the Quran the “announcements relating to the unseen”, as here, signify not the ancient histories of past prophets, but a repetition of those histories in the life of the Holy Prophet Muhammad. Thus from this verse onwards the subject is changed to the Holy Prophet’s opponents. The reference in “when they resolved upon their affair, and they were devising plans” is to the resolution of the Quraish and their plans against the Prophet, for which see 8:30. The Quran does not relate stories for the sake of giving information of the past, but for the lessons which they afford for the future guidance of man.

Section 12: A Lesson for the Prophet's Opponents

105 And how many a sign in the heavens and the earth do they pass by, yet they turn away from it! ¹⁰⁶And most of them do not believe in Allah without setting up partners (with Him). ¹⁰⁷Do they then feel secure from the coming to them of an all-encompassing punishment from Allah or from the coming to them of the hour suddenly, while they do not perceive?

108 Say: This is my way; I call to Allah, with certain knowledge — I and those who follow me. And glory be to Allah! and I am not of those who set up partners (with Allah). ¹⁰⁹And We did not send before you any but men, from the people of the towns, to whom We sent revelation. Have they not then travelled in the land and seen what was the end of those before them? And certainly the abode of the Hereafter is best for those who keep their duty. Do you not then understand? ¹¹⁰Until, when the messengers despaired and (the people) thought that they were told a lie,^a Our help came to them, and whom We pleased was delivered. And Our punishment is not averted from the guilty people. ¹¹¹In their histories there is certainly a lesson for those who have understanding. It is not a narrative which could be forged, but a verification of what is before it, and a distinct explanation of all things, and a guide and a mercy to a people who believe.

a (110) “They” refers to the people, not messengers. The messengers warn their people, but the latter are so stubborn that the messengers at length despair of their people. The people, on the other hand, think that what the prophets had told them about the coming of the punishment was a lie. Then it is that the promised help for the prophets comes and the punishment with which the evildoers are threatened overtakes them. That the prophets never despair of Divine assistance coming to them, in accordance with Divine promise, is clear from what has already been said in v. 87 (see also 15:56 and 29:23).

Thunder

This chapter is named Thunder from the analogy of rain which is often likened to revelation in the Quran. As rain is accompanied by thunder and lightening, so is revelation accompanied by warning of punishment, although its real purpose is mercy. The chapter points to signs in physical nature to the truth of revelation and deals with the demand from the disbelievers to see the sign of punishment befalling them. It then tells them about the Divine laws which govern reward and punishment, and explains that the real miracles were the spiritual life that the Quran awakened in people and the transformation it would bring in the world despite facing great mountains of obstacles. This chapter was revealed during the last four years of the period of the Holy Prophet's life at Makkah.

Section 1: Truth of Revelation

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower, the Seer.^a These are verses of the Book. And what is revealed to you from your Lord is the Truth, but most people do not believe. 2 Allah is He Who raised the heavens without any pillars that you can see, and He is established on the Throne of Power, and He made the sun and the moon subservient (to you). Each one runs to an appointed term.^b He regulates the affair, making clear the messages that you may be certain of the meeting with your Lord.

3 And He it is Who spread the earth, and made in it firm mountains and rivers. And of all fruits He has made in it pairs,

b (2) All heavenly bodies are raised high without any pillars that man can see. Those pillars are the laws of gravitation. All heavenly bodies, we are further told, run their course to an appointed term; they have a beginning and an end, as all things on earth have a beginning and an end.

two (of every kind). He makes the night cover the day. Surely there are signs in this for a people who reflect. ⁴And in the earth are tracts side by side, and gardens of vines, and corn, and palm-trees growing from one root and distinct roots — they are watered with one water; and We make some of them to excel others in fruit. Surely there are signs in this for a people who understand.^a

5 And if you wonder, then wondrous is their saying: When we are dust, shall we then be raised in a new creation? These are they who disbelieve in their Lord, and these have chains on their necks,^b and they are the companions of the Fire; in it they will abide. ⁶And they ask you to hasten on the evil before the good, and indeed there have been exemplary punishments before them. And surely your Lord is full of forgiveness for mankind despite their wrongdoing. And surely your Lord is Severe in retribution.^c ⁷And those who disbelieve say: Why has not a sign been sent down to him from his Lord? You are only a warner and for every people a guide.^d

Section 2: Fall and Rise of Nations

8 Allah knows what every female bears, and what the wombs

a (4) Unity in diversity is observable in the whole of nature, which is a sure sign of the Unity of the great Author of all existence. Besides this, as there is a difference in the produce of different tracts, though they are subject to the same laws of nature, even so are the hearts of people in relation to the growth of the seed of virtue, which is sown by revelation.

b (5) The chains spoken of here are the chains which keep them constrained to evil usages and corrupt practices.

c (6) The opponents of the Holy Prophet are told that the Merciful God would deal with them not according to their wrongdoings, but according to His vast and comprehensive forgiveness. But when evil outsteps all bounds, His very mercy, which must be exercised towards His righteous servants, requires that the wrongdoers should not be left without punishment.

d (7) The words for every people a guide refer to the Holy Prophet. He was a warner indeed; he warned the evildoers of the evil consequences of their evil deeds, but he was ultimately to be a guide for every people, to lead them out of their evil ways and to set them on the right path.

fall short of completing and what they grow.^a And everything with Him has a measure. ⁹The Knower of the unseen and the seen, the Great, the Most High. ¹⁰Alike (to Him) among you is he who conceals the word and he who speaks openly, and he who hides himself by night and (who) goes forth by day.^b ¹¹For him are (angels) guarding the consequences (of his deeds), before him and behind him, who guard him by Allah's command.^c Surely Allah does not change the condition of a people, until they change their own condition. And when Allah intends harm to a people, there is no averting it, and besides Him they have no protector.

12 He it is Who shows you lightning causing fear and hope and (Who) brings up the heavy cloud. ¹³And thunder celebrates His praise, and the angels too for awe of Him. And He sends thunderbolts and strikes with them whom He pleases, yet they dispute concerning Allah, and He is Mighty in prowess.

14 To Him is due the true prayer. And those to whom they pray besides Him give them no answer, but (they are) like one who stretches forth his two hands towards water that it may reach his mouth, but it will not reach it. And the prayer of the disbelievers is only wasted. ¹⁵And whoever is in the heavens and the earth makes submission to Allah only, willingly and unwillingly, and their shadows, too, morning and evening.

16 Say: Who is the Lord of the heavens and the earth? Say: Allah. Say: Do you then take besides Him, guardians who control a (8) The physical law of nature is spoken of here with a deeper reference to the spiritual law, according to which some receive a new birth through the Prophet and others do not. The subject is made clearer in the verses that follow.

b (10) A general law is given expression to here, with a deeper reference to the secret and open counsels against the Holy Prophet and to enemies seeking his life by day and by night.

c (11) While the statement is no doubt general and refers to the guardian angels referred to in 6:61, there is a deeper allusion to the Divine protection specially granted to the Holy Prophet against the numerous enemies among whom he lived day and night. The angels guard the consequences of the deeds of man, and are therefore spoken of here as guarding him, i.e., guarding whatever he does, by Allah's command.

no benefit or harm even for themselves? Say: Are the blind and the seeing alike? Or, are darkness and light equal? Or, have they set up with Allah partners who have created creation like His, so that what is created became confused to them? Say: Allah is the Creator of all things, and He is the One, the Supreme.

17 He sends down water from the clouds, then watercourses flow according to their measure, and the torrent bears along the swelling foam. And a scum like it arises from what they melt in the fire for the sake of making ornaments or tools.^a Thus does Allah compare truth and falsehood. Then as for the scum, it passes away as a worthless thing; and as for that which benefits people, it remains behind in the earth. Thus does Allah set forth parables.^b

18For those who respond to their Lord is good. And as for those who do not respond to Him, even if they had all that is in the earth and as much again, they would certainly offer it for a ransom. As for those, theirs is an evil reckoning and their abode is hell; and evil is the resting-place.

Section 3: Good and Evil bring their own Reward

19 Is he who knows that what is revealed to you from your Lord is the truth, like him who is blind? Only those who have understanding are mindful — ²⁰those who fulfil the pact of Allah, and do not break the covenant, ²¹and those who join what Allah has ordered to be joined ^c and have awe of their Lord, and fear the evil reckoning. ²²And those who are steadfast seeking the pleasure a (17-1) The word used includes here all kinds of things necessary for the life of man, such as utensils, tools, implements, and instruments of war.

b (17-2) The parable set forth here signifies that the Holy Prophet and his followers will live and prosper, as they work for the good of mankind. On the other hand, evil practices and worthless usages and customs, as well as those who uphold them, will be swept away before the mighty current of Truth, as rubbish is borne away by a torrent.

c (21) While the previous verse deals with people's duty to their Maker, this refers to relations with His creatures. "What Allah has ordered to be joined" includes all those ties of love and relationship which Allah has taught human beings to observe and keep inviolate.

of their Lord, and keep up prayer and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them, secretly and openly, and repel evil with good;^a theirs is the (happy) issue of the abode — ²³Gardens of perpetuity, which they will enter along with those who do good from among their fathers and their spouses^b and their offspring; and the angels will enter in upon them from every gate. ²⁴Peace be on you, because you were constant — how excellent is then the final abode!

25 And those who break the covenant of Allah after its confirmation, and cut apart what Allah has ordered to be joined, and make mischief in the land, for them is the curse, and theirs is the evil end of the abode. ²⁶Allah amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also). And they rejoice in this world's life. And this world's life, compared with the Hereafter, is only a temporary enjoyment.

Section 4: Revolution to be brought about by the Quran

27 And those who disbelieve say: Why is not a sign sent down to him by his Lord?^c Say: Allah leaves in error whom He a (22) Evil is a thing which is by all means to be repelled, and hence good for evil is recommended only in cases when evil would be repelled by that good. Unconditionally requiring evil with good would abolish all safeguards; evildoers who received nothing but good for every evil they committed would most assuredly establish a condition of anarchy by their evil deeds. Elsewhere it is said: whoever forgives and brings about reform (42:40).

b (23) The Quran is full of clear statements that women shall enjoy the bliss of paradise. Azwāj is the plural of zauj, which means either husband or wife, and hence I have rendered it as spouses.

c (27-1) The answer to this question is given at the end of this section: “disaster will not cease to afflict them because of what they do, or it will reach close to their homes, until the promise of Allah come to pass” (v. 31). This promise related to the utter annihilation of the power of the disbelievers. The question, why is not a sign sent down to him, here as elsewhere in the Quran, is a demand for the promised annihilation of their power and their defeat, and the answer is always conveyed in somewhat similar terms, stating first that they should ask for mercy; that the Quran has healing power, the condition of the faithful being a witness to it; that the fate of the former generations affords a lesson; that smaller calamities continue to afflict them, and in these they can see the signs of their pleases, and guides to Himself those who turn (to Him)^a — ²⁸those who believe and whose hearts find rest in the remembrance of Allah. Now surely in Allah's remembrance do hearts find rest. ²⁹Those who believe and do good, a good final state is theirs and a goodly return. ³⁰Thus We have sent you among a nation before which other nations have passed away, that you might recite to them what We have revealed to you, and (still) they deny the Beneficent. Say: He is my Lord, there is no god but He; in Him do I trust and to Him is my return.

31 And if there could be a Quran with which the mountains were made to pass away, or the earth were split apart, or the dead were made to speak — indeed, the commandment is wholly Allah's.^b Do not those who believe know that, if Allah please, He would certainly guide all the people? And as for those who disbelieve, disaster will not cease to afflict them because of what they do, or it will reach close to their homes, until the promise of Allah come to pass. Surely Allah will not fail in (His) promise.

a (27-2) The contrast with those who turn to God makes it clear that Allah's pleasure to leave some in error is exercised only in the case of those who, though invited to God, do not turn to Him but choose to remain in error. The first part may also be translated thus: Allah leaves in error who will (remain in error).

b (31) That the Quran should work such great wonders is not an impossibility but a fact, for we are immediately told that it will be brought about soon by Allah's commandment. At the time when these verses were revealed, difficulties in the spread of Islam appeared like mountains. It is a matter of history that they were made to pass away. The earth splitting apart means that the Quran would go deep down into the hearts of people, which are compared here to the earth. These words may also mean that the earth will be travelled over. There were no facilities at that time for going to distant corners of Arabia, to say nothing of the whole world. Yet not only was the whole of Arabia travelled over by the message-bearers of Islam within ten years after this, but within a hundred years of the Prophet's death Islam had traversed the whole of the known world, from the farthest East in China to the farthest West in Spain. It is again a matter of history that the dead were made to speak. People who were dead spiritually now spoke with such power that the whole earth from end to end responded to their call.

Section 5: Opposition will fail

32 And messengers before you were certainly mocked, but I gave respite to those who disbelieved, then I seized them. How (terrible) was then My retribution! ³³Is, then, He Who watches every soul as to what it earns (like their associate gods)? And yet they ascribe partners to Allah! Say: Name them.^a Would you inform Him of what He does not know in the earth, or of an outward saying?^b Rather, their plan is made to seem good to those who disbelieve, and they are kept back from the path.^c And whom Allah leaves in error, he has no guide. ³⁴For them is punishment in this world's life, and the punishment of the Hereafter is certainly more grievous. And they have no protector against Allah.

35 A parable of the Garden which is promised to those who keep their duty:^d In it flow rivers. Its fruits are perpetual and (so is) its plenty. Such is the end for those who keep their duty; and the end for the disbelievers is the Fire. ³⁶And those to whom We have given the Book rejoice in what has been revealed to you,^e and some sects deny a part of it. Say: I am commanded only to serve Allah and not set up partners with Him. To Him do I invite (you), and to Him is my return. ³⁷And thus have We revealed it, a a (33-1) It is to show the utmost contempt for the alleged partners of the Divine Being that their worshippers are called upon to give them a name, as if it were said that they are not worthy of a name. Or the meaning may be, give them a name expressing any qualification of godhead, such as a sustainer, creator, etc.

b (33-2) He knows both the inner feelings of man and his outward sayings, and He does not stand in need of a mediator.

c (33-3) As stated in 29:38, it is the devil who makes their evil deeds seem good to people and keeps them back from the right path.

d (35) The paradise mentioned here is called a parable, as also in 47:15. A saying of the Holy Prophet makes it clear that the blessings of paradise are such as no eye has seen, nor has ear heard, nor has it entered into the heart of man to conceive of them (Bukhari, 59:8). The description given in the Quran is only a likeness of what it actually is, as it is of a nature entirely different from the things of this world.

e (36) The Book may signify the Quran; or it may refer to the previous revelation, in which case the Jewish and Christian converts to Islam are meant here.

true judgment, in Arabic. And if you follow their low desires after the knowledge that has come to you, you would have against Allah no guardian nor protector.

Section 6: Steady Progress of Truth

38 And certainly We sent messengers before you and appointed for them wives and children. And it is not in the power of a messenger to bring a sign except by Allah's permission. For every term there is an appointment. ³⁹Allah effaces what He pleases and establishes (what He pleases), and with Him is the basis of the Book.^a

40 Whether We show you part of what We promise them, or cause you to die (before it comes about), your duty is only to deliver the message, and Ours to call (them) to account. ⁴¹Do they not see that We are visiting the land, curtailing it of its sides?^b And Allah pronounces a doom — there is no repeller of His decree. And He is Swift in calling to account. ⁴²And those before them planned indeed, but all planning is Allah's.^c He knows what every soul earns. And the disbelievers will come to know for whom is the (good) end of the abode. ⁴³And those who disbelieve say: You are not a messenger. Say: Allah is sufficient for a witness between me and you and whoever has knowledge of the Book.^d a (39) The Divine ordinance to annihilate the power of the opponents of the Holy Prophet and to bring about the establishment of the Truth is called the "basis of the Book" (Umm al-Kitāb), because the final defeat of the powers of evil, which was previously foretold, would be such a clear sign that it would dispel all doubts.

b (41) The reference in curtailing the sides may be either to some of the exalted men having come over to Islam and the opposition being thus weakened, or to the diminution of the number of disbelievers, both high and low, by people daily leaving their ranks and joining the ranks of Islam.

c (42) The meaning is that the plans of the enemy need not be feared, for all their planning is controlled by Allah, or that the requital of their plans is in the hands of Allah.

d (43) Those who have any knowledge of previous revelation will testify to the truth of the revelation of the Quran, because it fulfils all previous prophecies and satisfies the criteria of a true revelation.

Chapter 14

Ibrāhīm

Abraham

This chapter is named after Abraham, whose prayer is mentioned in verses 35–41. It explains that the work of the Quran is to lead people out of darkness into light, but that previous prophets too, such as Moses, had their message rejected at first. However, in all cases the opposition failed and God’s promise to help the prophet was fulfilled. Truth is confirmed and man brings about his own ruin by rejecting it. Then Abraham’s prayer for the right guidance of his descendants is mentioned and we are told that opposition to the truth will always end in failure. This chapter was revealed during the last four years of the period of the Holy Prophet’s life at Makkah.

Section 1: Revelation dispels Darkness

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Seer. A Book which We have revealed to you that you may bring forth people, by their Lord’s permission, from darkness into light, to the way of the Mighty, the Praised One, ²of Allah, Whose is whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And woe to the disbelievers for the severe punishment! ³Those who love this world’s life more than the Hereafter, and turn away from Allah’s path, and would have it crooked. Those are far astray.

4 And We sent no messenger but with the language of his people, so that he might explain to them clearly.^a Then Allah leaves in error whom He pleases and He guides whom He pleases. And He is the Mighty, the Wise.

5 And certainly We sent Moses with Our messages, saying:

^a (4) Nothing is said here about the extent of the mission of the Holy Prophet, which was for all mankind; see 7:158. All that is said here is that every prophet is sent with the language of his people so that he may explain to his people, because it is his people who are the first recipients of his message.

Bring forth your people from darkness into light and remind them of the days of Allah.^a In this are surely signs for every steadfast, grateful one. ⁶And when Moses said to his people: Call to mind Allah's favour to you, when He delivered you from Pharaoh's people, who subjected you to severe torment, and slaughtered your sons and spared your women. And there was a great trial in it from your Lord.

7 And when your Lord made it known: If you are grateful, I will give you more, and if you are ungrateful, My punishment is truly severe. ⁸And Moses said: If you are ungrateful, you and all those on earth, then Allah is surely Self-sufficient, Praised.

9 Has not the account reached you of those before you, of the people of Noah and Ād and Thamūd — and those after them? None knows them but Allah.^b Their messengers came to them with clear arguments, but they thrust their hands into their mouths^c and said: We deny what you are sent with, and surely we are in serious doubt about that to which you invite us.^d ¹⁰Their messengers said: Is there doubt about Allah, the Maker of the heavens and the earth? He invites you to forgive you your faults and to give you respite till an appointed term. They said: You are nothing but mortals like us; you wish to turn us away from what our fathers used to worship, so bring us clear authority.

a (5) "The days of Allah" signify His merciful dealings with the righteous and His punishment of the wicked.

b (9-1) The Quran does not claim to give a history of all the prophets; see 4:164 and 40:78. The statement made here is much wider. It is claimed that no other book mentions them all; they are known only to Allah.

c (9-2) This expression may mean their inability to give an answer, or that they bit their hands by reason of rage, or that they put their hands into the mouths of the messengers to silence them.

d (9-3) The general statements made with regard to the messengers and the treatment of their people, in this and the following section, are particularly made in reference to the mission of the Prophet Muhammad, the opposition and enmity of his people, their turning him out of the city, and their final discomfiture.

11 Their messengers said to them: We are nothing but mortals like yourselves, but Allah bestows (His) favours on whom He pleases of His servants. And it is not for us to bring you an authority, except by Allah's permission. And on Allah let the believers rely. ¹²And why should we not rely on Allah and He has indeed guided us in our ways? And we would certainly bear with patience your persecution of us. And on Allah should the reliant rely.

Section 3: Opposition is at last destroyed

13 And those who disbelieved said to their messengers: We will certainly drive you out of our land, unless you come back into our religion.^a So their Lord revealed to them: We shall certainly destroy the wrongdoers, ¹⁴and We shall certainly settle you in the land after them. This is for him who fears standing in My presence and fears My threat.^b ¹⁵And they sought judgment, and every insolent opposer was disappointed: ¹⁶Hell is before him and he is given to drink boiling water; ¹⁷he drinks it little by little and is not able to swallow it; and death comes to him from every quarter, yet he does not die.^c And before him is vehement punishment.

18 The parable of those who disbelieve in their Lord: Their works are as ashes on which the wind blows hard on a stormy day. They have no power over anything they have earned. That is straying far away. ¹⁹Do you not see that Allah created the heavens and the earth with truth? If He please, He will take you away and bring a new creation, ²⁰and that is not difficult for Allah.^d ²¹And they will all come forth to Allah, then the weak will say to those who were proud: We were your followers, can you then avert from a (13) This is no doubt equally a description of what the Holy Prophet was suffering at the hands of his enemies.

b (14) This verse contains a very clear prophecy of the flight of the Holy Prophet from Makkah and of his re-entry into that city as a conqueror and ruler.

c (17) He experiences, as it were, the pangs of death, but death, which would end all distress, does not come to him.

d (20) V. 18 states that all the exertions of the opponents against the Prophet will be useless, while verses 19 and 20 warn the disbelievers that their power will come to an end and another people will take their place.

us any of the punishment of Allah? They will say: If Allah had guided us, we would have guided you. It is the same to us whether we cry or bear patiently; there is no escape for us.

Section 4: Truth is confirmed

22 And the devil will say,^a when the matter is decided: Surely Allah promised you a promise of truth, and I promised you, then failed you.^b And I had no authority over you, except that I called you and you obeyed me; so do not blame me but blame yourselves. I cannot come to your help, nor can you come to my help. I deny your taking me as partner with Allah before.^c Surely for the unjust is a painful punishment.

23 And those who believe and do good are made to enter Gardens, in which rivers flow, abiding in them by their Lord's permission. Their greeting therein is, Peace! ²⁴Do you not see how Allah sets forth a parable of a good word as a good tree, whose root is firm and whose branches are high,^d ²⁵yielding its fruit in a (22-1) The devil mentioned in this verse is none other than the proud misleader of the preceding one. Compare also 37:30, where the very words we had no authority over you are put into the mouth of the leaders of evil from among mankind.

b (22-2) Whenever a person is misled into an evil deed, he finds in the end that the promise of a good consequence for an evil deed was only a deception. Compare 4:120 and 17:64.

c (22-3) An alternative meaning: is I disbelieved because you took me as partner with Allah. In other words, the leaders disbelieve because their followers make them think by their flattery that they are worthy of being obeyed and followed.

d (24) The parable likening a good word to a good tree follows immediately a description of the final abode of those who do good — Gardens in which rivers flow. A good word is like a good tree which gives its fruit in every season, and therefore the fruits which a man will find in paradise are only the fruits of his own good deeds. The trees of paradise are in fact man's own good deeds, which have grown into trees, bearing a fruit which is an embodiment of the spiritual fruits of the good deeds of this life. As good deeds are likened to fruit-bearing trees, faith is likened to water repeatedly in the Quran, being the source of physical life. It is for this reason that, just as the righteous are always spoken of as being those who believe and do good, paradise is always described as being a Garden in which every season by the permission of its Lord? And Allah sets forth parables for people that they may be mindful. ²⁶And the parable of an evil word is as an evil tree pulled up from the earth's surface; it has no stability.^a ²⁷Allah confirms those who believe with the sure word in this world's life and in the Hereafter; and Allah leaves the wrongdoers in error; and Allah does what He pleases.^b

Section 5: Man's Injustice in rejecting Truth

28 Do you not see those who change Allah's favour for disbelief^c and make their people reach the abode of destruction — ²⁹Hell. They will burn in it. And an evil place it is to settle in! ³⁰And they set up equals with Allah to lead astray from His path. Say: Enjoy yourselves, for surely your return is to the Fire.

31 Tell My servants who believe to keep up prayer and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them, secretly and openly, before the coming of the day in which there is no bartering, nor befriending. ³²Allah is He Who created the heavens and the earth and sent down water from the clouds, then brought forth with it fruits as a sustenance for you, and He has made the ships subservient to you to run their course in the sea by His command, and He has made the rivers subservient to you.^d ³³And He has made subservient to you the sun and the moon, pursuing their courses; and He has made subservient to you the night and the day. ³⁴And He gives you of all that you ask of Him. And if you

a (26) The evil deed is likened to a tree whose roots do not go down into the earth, and in whose case, therefore, the process of nutrition must stop. Therefore an evil deed does not prosper and cannot bear any fruit.

b (27) Allah does what He pleases, but it is the wrongdoers only, whom He leaves in error. The immediate cause of their going astray is their own iniquity.

c (28) They reject Allah's favour, the Revelation, which aims at making them a great and exalted people, and adopt disbelief in its place.

d (32) The whole of creation is here, and in the next verse, declared to be made subservient to man, to show his high place in creation. How much then does man degrade himself by worshipping things which were made to serve him!

count Allah's favours, you will not be able to number them. Surely man is very unjust, very ungrateful.

Section 6: Abraham's Prayer

35 And when Abraham said: My Lord, make this city secure, and save me and my sons from worshipping idols.^a 36My Lord, surely they have led many people astray.^b So whoever follows me, he is surely of me; and whoever disobeys me, You surely are Forgiving, Merciful.^c 37Our Lord, I have settled a part of my offspring in a valley unproductive of fruit near Your Sacred House,^d our Lord, that they may keep up prayer; so make the hearts of some people yearn towards them, and provide them with fruits; perhaps they may be grateful. 38Our Lord, surely You know what we hide and what we proclaim. And nothing is hidden from Allah, either in the earth or in the heaven.

39 Praise be to Allah, Who has given me, in old age, Ishmael and Isaac! Surely my Lord is the Hearer of prayer. 40My Lord, a (35) That idolatry received a death-blow from the hands of one of Abraham's descendants shows that Abraham's prayer was not in vain.

b (36-1) Idols do not actually lead people astray; the meaning is that it is on account of them that people go astray.

c (36-2) The prayer of Abraham is in fact the prayer of the Holy Prophet and illustrates the breadth of his view. Those who follow him are, of course, his own, but he does not reject even those who disobey him, for he prays for Allah's mercy and protection even for them.

d (37) According to a Hadith report (Bukhari, 60:9), Abraham brought Hagar and Ishmael, and settled them near the ruins of the Sacred House, the Ka'bah. This, as the hadith states, was done under a Divine commandment. For when Abraham was going back, on leaving them both in this wilderness, where there was no town at this time, Hagar asked him, Is it by Allah's commandment that you are doing this? Abraham's reply was, Yes. Then said Hagar: "Allah will not leave us to perish". It is further stated that, when no water was left with her, Hagar ran to and fro, between the Safa and the Marwah, to find out if there was any caravan going that way. It was on this occasion that she saw an angel, who pointed to her a place where she could find water. This was the place known now as Zamzam. It was due to this water that some people settled there. Even the Bible accepts that Ishmael's descendants settled in Arabia.

make me keep up prayer and (those) from my offspring (too), our Lord, and accept my prayer. ⁴¹Our Lord, grant me protection and my parents and the believers on the day when the reckoning comes to pass.

Section 7: The End of Opposition

42 And do not think Allah to be heedless of what the unjust do. He only gives them respite to a day when the eyes will stare (in terror), ⁴³hastening forward, their heads upraised, their gaze not returning to them, and their hearts vacant.^a ⁴⁴And warn people of a day when the punishment will come to them, then the wrongdoers will say: Our Lord, grant us respite for a short while, we will respond to Your call and follow the messengers. Did you not swear before, that there will be no passing away for you? ⁴⁵And you dwell in the abodes of those who wronged themselves, and it is clear to you how We dealt with them and We made (them) examples for you. ⁴⁶And they have indeed planned their plan, and their plan is with Allah, though their plan is such that the mountains should be moved by it.^b

47 So do not think that Allah will fail in His promise to His messengers. Surely Allah is Mighty, the Lord of retribution. ⁴⁸On the day when the earth will be changed into a different earth, and the heavens (as well),^c and they will come forth to Allah, the One, a (43) The striking of terror into the hearts of those who opposed the Prophet was witnessed in this very life, when the Prophet advanced on Makkah. The vacancy or blankness of the heart indicates a state of great terror.

b (46) The reference is to the plan of the Quraish to put an end to the Prophet's life, when he was left almost alone in Makkah. The words their plan is with Allah signify that their plan is controlled by Allah, Who will make it ineffective. A wonderful prophecy indeed in the mouth of a man whose only chance of saving himself now lay in escaping from his enemies, while they were taking every precaution not to allow him to escape, having decided to put him to death!

c (48) The transformation wrought by the Holy Prophet no doubt changed the earth into a different earth and the heaven into a new heaven. The Arabia at the birth of the Prophet was not the Arabia at his death. Beliefs, usages, and practices, which had baffled all attempts at reformation for centuries, were swept away, and the ignorant, superstitious, and warring tribes had become a single nation, the Supreme. ⁴⁹And you will see the guilty on that day linked together in chains^a — ⁵⁰their shirts made of pitch, and fire covering their faces, ⁵¹that Allah may repay each soul what it has earned. Surely Allah is Swift in reckoning, ⁵²This is a message for the people and that they may be warned by it, and that they may know that He is One God, and that those who have understanding may be mindful.

holding aloft the torch of knowledge and civilization to the whole world. Idolatry was blotted out of existence so completely that no vestige of it could be found among a people who had remained addicted to it for centuries. And that great change must now come over the whole world. But the spiritual resurrection is only an indication of the great day of Resurrection.

a (49) The powerful opponents of the Prophet were brought before him linked together in chains in this very life, at the battle of Badr. These promises were fulfilled in this life to show that they were equally true as regards the next.

Al-Hijr

The Rock

This chapter is named The Rock after the Dwellers of the Rock mentioned in v. 80, whose fate is a warning to those who sought to kill the Holy Prophet. The chapter begins with the grand promise that the Quran shall forever be guarded against all corruption and all attempts to annihilate it (v. 9). It goes on to declare that evil-doers cannot inflict any injury on the chosen ones of God and that the devil's opposition has always failed. Then it gives examples of how opponents of previous prophets were destroyed. This chapter was revealed at Makkah.

Section 1: The Quran is guarded

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Seer. These are the verses of the Book and (of) a Quran that makes clear.

2 Often will those who disbelieve wish that they were Muslims.^a
3 Leave them to eat and enjoy themselves, and let (false) hope beguile them, for they will soon know. 4 And never did We destroy a town but it had a decree made known. 5 No people can hasten on their doom, nor postpone it.

6 And they say: You, to whom the Reminder is revealed, you are indeed mad. 7 Why do you not bring the angels to us, if you are truthful?^b 8 We do not send angels but with truth, and then they would not be given respite. ⁹Surely We have revealed the Reminder, and surely We are its Guardian.^a

^a (2) The passage does not refer only to life after death. The opponents, who thought Islam would soon be annihilated, must no doubt have felt after in life, when the truth of Islam became manifest, that it would have been much better for them if they had accepted Islam at the first call of the Prophet.

^b (7) The words if you are truthful clearly show that the coming of angels is demanded in relation to the fulfilment of prophecies. In the next verse they are told that the angels will be sent, in accordance with the requirements of truth and justice, when they are required to execute the judgment of the doom of the opponents.

10 And certainly We sent (messengers) before you among the sects of old. ¹¹And never did a messenger come to them but they mocked him. ¹²Thus do We make it enter the hearts of the guilty ^b — ¹³they do not believe in it; and the example of the ancients has gone before. ¹⁴And even if We open to them a gate of heaven, and they keep on ascending into it, ¹⁵they would say: Only our eyes have been covered over, rather we are a people under enchantment.^c

Section 2: Forces of Evil will be destroyed

16 And certainly We have made strongholds in the heaven, and We have made it attractive for the onlookers, ¹⁷and We guard it against every accursed devil, ¹⁸but he who steals a hearing; so there follows him a visible flame.^d a (9) This is one of the most wonderful prophecies, whose fulfilment is, and will ever remain, a standing testimony to the truth of the Holy Quran, that the Quran will for all time be preserved safe against all attempts to destroy it and from every kind of corruption. The fulfilment of this prophecy is so evident a fact that a hostile writer like Sir William Muir admitted that “there is probably in the world no other work which has remained twelve centuries with so pure a text” (The Life of Mahomet, 1861, ch. 1). In the whole length and breadth of the Islamic world there does not exist a single copy with any variation from the recognized text, and thus not only was the Quran preserved from destruction against a powerful enemy, but it has also been preserved from corruption.

b (12) Thus refers to the mockery mentioned in the previous verse. Due to their mockery, it enters their hearts not to believe in the Divine message.

c (15) Verses 14–15 speak of the hardness of their hearts. They were determined to reject the truth and did not pay any attention to the clearest evidence.

d (18) The three verses 16–18 speak of the soothsayers and the diviners, who were among the opponents of the Holy Prophet; they pretended to receive communications from on high. We are here told that they were really driven from the Divine presence, and therefore could not have any access to that source of purity. In speaking of the divinations as being followed by a visible flame, it is indicated that they meet with failure and disappointment. The description of spiritual truths in words relating to physical laws prevailing in the world is of common occurrence in the Quran.

19 And the earth — We have spread it out and made in it firm mountains and caused to grow in it of every suitable thing. ²⁰And We have made in it means of subsistence for you and for those (creatures) for whom you do not provide. ²¹And there is not a thing but with Us are the treasures of it, and We do not send it down but in a known measure. ²²And We send the winds fertilizing, then send down water from the clouds,^a so We give it to you to drink; nor is it you who store it up. ²³And surely it is We, Who give life and cause death, and We are the Inheritors.^b

24 And certainly We know those among you who go forward and We certainly know those who lag behind. ²⁵And surely your Lord will gather them together. He indeed is Wise, Knowing.^c

Section 3: The Devil's Opposition to the Righteous

26 And surely We created man of sounding clay, of black mud fashioned into shape. ²⁷And the jinn, We created before of intensely hot fire.^d ²⁸And when your Lord said to the angels: I am going to a (22) The fertilizing winds represent the signs of the progress of Islam before its final triumph, which is indicated by the rain from the clouds.

b (23) One who inherits is the one who remains after another has perished. The announcement made here is a prophecy that the true worshippers of Allah will be heirs in the land while the others will perish.

c (25) One meaning is that those who are foremost in accepting truth and those who lag behind in accepting it will all be gathered together, i.e., ultimately those who now lag behind will be brought over to the right course.

d (27) See also 7:12 footnote. Man's creation from dust also refers to his low and humble origin and his temperate nature, as opposed to another kind of creation of a fiery nature, which is called the jinn or the devil. The two words, jinn and devil, are frequently applied to men of a fiery temperament or rebellious nature who lead others to evil. These descriptions of the creation of men and jinn are allegorical, referring respectively to the nature of those who are submissive to Divine laws and those who rebel against them, and the allegory is carried on further in what is stated of the rebellion of the devil against Adam. The two descriptions of the origin of man, his being made from clay that gives sound and of mud that is fashioned into shape, refer to the two great characteristics which give man a superiority over other animals, namely, his use of language and the perfection of his make.

create a mortal of sounding clay, of black mud fashioned into shape. ²⁹So when I have made him complete and breathed into him of My spirit,^a fall down making submission to him. ³⁰So the angels submitted, all of them together — ³¹but not Iblīs. He refused to be with those who submitted.

32 He said: O Iblīs, what is the reason that you are not with those who submit? ³³He said: I am not going to submit to a mortal, whom You have created of sounding clay, of black mud fashioned into shape. ³⁴He said: Then go forth, for surely you are driven away, ³⁵and surely on you is a curse till the day of Judgment. ³⁶He said: My Lord, grant me respite till the day when they are raised.^b ³⁷He said: Surely you are granted respite, ³⁸till the day of the time made known.

39 He said: My Lord, as You have judged me to be in error,^c I shall certainly make (evil) seem good to them on earth, and I shall cause them all to deviate, ⁴⁰except Your servants from among them, the purified ones. ⁴¹He said: This is a right way with Me. ⁴²As regards My servants, you have no authority over them except such of the deviators as follow you.^d ⁴³And surely hell is the promised place for them all — ⁴⁴it has seven gates. For each gate is an appointed portion of them.^e a (29) This shows that man is made complete when the Divine spirit is breathed into him. The Divine spirit (Arabic: rūḥ) does not mean here the animal soul in man, but the spirit of Allah that gives him perfection.

b (36) When a man is raised to life spiritually, the suggestions and the promptings of the devil cease to affect him. But until he finds spiritual life, evil suggestions mislead him now and then. This is the “time made known” in v. 38.

c (39) The meaning is clearly “as You have judged me to be in error” and not caused me to be in error.

d (42) In a broad sense all people are servants of Allah. That the devil has no authority over them is clear from 14:22, where the devil says to his followers: “I had no authority over you, except that I called you and you obeyed me.”

e (44) The seven gates mean the seven ways which lead into it, according to which there are seven different names of hell in the Quran. However, the numeral seven in Arabic often stands for a large number, so that the meaning may be that there are many gates or many ways leading to it.

Section 4: Mercy for the Righteous — Abraham

45 Surely those who keep their duty are in Gardens and fountains. 46Enter them in peace, secure. 47And We shall remove whatever of bitterness is in their hearts — as brothers, on thrones, facing each other. 48Toil does not afflict them therein, nor will they be ejected from there.^a 49Inform My servants that I am the Forgiving, the Merciful, 50and that My punishment — that is the painful punishment.

51 And inform them of the guests of Abraham. 52When they came to him, they said, Peace! He said: We are afraid of you. 53They said: Do not be afraid, we give you good news of a boy, possessing knowledge. 54He said: Do you give me good news when old age has come upon me? Of what then do you give me good news? 55They said: We give you good news with truth, so do not be from among the despairing ones. 56He said: And who despairs of the mercy of his Lord except those in error?

57 He said: What is your business, then, messengers? 58They said: We have been sent to a guilty people, 59except Lot's followers. We shall deliver them all, 60except his wife: We ordained that she shall surely be among those who remain behind.

Section 5: Lot and Shuaib

61 So when the messengers came to Lot's followers, 62he said: Surely you are an unknown people. 63They said: Indeed, we have come to you with that about which they disputed. 64And we have come to you with the truth, and we are surely truthful.

a (48) Such is the Muslim paradise. There is absolute peace of mind, perfect security from any inclination to evil or any other danger (v. 46); there is a brotherhood in which no one conceals any rancour in his heart for his brother, nor has anyone a complaint against another (v. 47); and lastly, there is neither toil nor fatigue, nor is one to be ever deprived of that state of perfect bliss (v. 48). This verse further establishes that those who are once made to enter paradise are not sent back to this world; and that therefore the garden in which Adam was at first placed was not the paradise of heavenly life, for in that case he would not have been ejected from it.

⁶⁵So travel with your followers for a part of the night, yourself following behind them; and let not anyone of you turn round, and go where you are commanded. ⁶⁶And We made known to him this decree, that the roots of these should be cut off in the morning.

67 And the people of the town came rejoicing. ⁶⁸He said: These are my guests, so do not disgrace me, ⁶⁹and keep your duty to Allah and do not shame me. ⁷⁰They said: Did we not forbid you from (entertaining) people? ⁷¹He said: These are my daughters, if you are going to do anything.^a ⁷²By your life! they blindly wandered on in their frenzy. ⁷³So the cry overtook them at sunrise; ⁷⁴thus We turned it upside down, and rained upon them stones, as decreed. ⁷⁵Surely in this are signs for those who take a lesson. ⁷⁶And it is on a road that still abides. ⁷⁷Surely in this is a sign for the believers.

78 And the dwellers of the grove were indeed wrongdoers:^b ⁷⁹So We inflicted retribution on them. And they are both on an open high road.^c

Section 6: Dwellers of the Rock and a Warning

80 And the dwellers of the Rock indeed rejected the messengers;^d ⁸¹and We gave them Our messages, but they turned away from them; ⁸²and they carved houses in the mountains, in security. ⁸³So the cry overtook them in the morning; ⁸⁴and what they earned did not avail them.

85 And We did not create the heavens and the earth and all that is between them but with truth. And the Hour is surely coming, so turn away with kindly forgiveness.^e ⁸⁶Surely your Lord —

b (78) The dwellers of the grove were Shuaib's people.

c (79) By both are meant the cities of the people of Lot as well as those of Shuaib's people. The road alluded to is the road followed by caravans from the Hijaz to Syria.

d (80) The dwellers of the Rock are the people of Thamūd; see 7:73 note 1.

e (85) Just one of many instances of the Holy Prophet's forgiveness was at the

He is the Creator, the Knower. ⁸⁷And certainly We have given you seven oft-repeated (verses) and the grand Quran.^a 88 Do not strain your eyes (with desire) at what We have given certain classes of them to enjoy, nor grieve for them, and make yourself gentle to the believers.^b ⁸⁹And say: I am indeed the plain warner. ⁹⁰Like as We sent down on them who took oaths, ⁹¹those who divided the Quran into parts. ⁹²So, by your Lord! We shall question them all, ⁹³as to what they did.

94 Therefore declare openly what you are commanded, and turn away from those who set up partners (with Allah). ⁹⁵Surely We are sufficient for you against the scoffers — ⁹⁶those who set up another god with Allah; so they will come to know. ⁹⁷And We know indeed that your heart is distressed at what they say; ⁹⁸so celebrate the praise of your Lord, and be of those who prostrate (before Him). ⁹⁹And serve your Lord, until there comes to you what is certain.^c conquest of Makkah, when, having captured the city which had most tyrannically driven him out with his followers, and whose people were guilty of shedding the innocent blood of the Muslims, he forgave all.

a (87) The Holy Prophet is reported to have said that the “seven oft-repeated verses” were the seven verses of the Fātiḥah, the first chapter of the Quran. (Bukhari, 65:1). According to the same hadith, the Fātiḥah is called the grand Quran. It is so called because it contains the essence of the whole of the Quran.

b (88) The riches and embellishments of this life had no temptation for the Holy Prophet. The unequalled simplicity of his life from the time that he married a rich widow to the time that he ruled Arabia may be guessed from the last scene of his life, when he ordered the last penny in his house to be given to the poor. The verse, moreover, draws a picture of the utmost kindness and gentleness which he showed to his followers. The straining of the eyes signifies looking desirously.

c (99) What is certain is here generally taken to mean death (Bukhari, 65.15:5), because it is the one thing which is certain to come to every creature.

Chapter 16

Al-Nahl

The Bee

This chapter is so named because the bee, guided by its instinct which is called “revelation” in 16:68, gathers honey from flowers by taking the best of what is in them, producing “a beverage of many colours in which there is healing for human beings” (16:69). Similarly, Divine revelation to the Holy Prophet collected the best in previous revealed teachings and presented it in the Quran, which is also called “a healing” for people (10:57).

This chapter begins by mentioning the benefits which God has conferred upon man in physical nature to show that He also bestows upon him spiritual gifts. Those who reject these gifts will come to disgrace but God is slow to punish. Revelation is necessary, but not every person can receive it directly. The best ones are chosen for it. Revelation teaches the doing of good, and the Quran replaces previous revelation. Those who reject it are then compared to a flourishing town which is made to suffer because of the ingratitude of its people. Lastly, Muslims are given certain golden directions to follow in order to be a great nation. This chapter was revealed in the last period at Makkah.

Section 1: Revelation testified to by Nature

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Allah’s commandment will come, so do not seek to hasten it.^a Glory be to Him, and supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)!²He sends down angels with revelation by His command on whom He pleases of His servants, saying: Give the warning that there is no God but Me, so keep your duty to Me.³He created the heavens and the earth with truth. Supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)!

a (1) The disbelievers are asked not to hasten the punishment, for Allah, Who conferred so many physical benefits on them, and is willing to bestow His spiritual gifts, as mercy has the foremost place in Divine nature. This is stated in the verses that follow. What that punishment was going to be is expressly stated at the end of this chapter (v. 112).

4 He created man from a small life-germ,^a and lo! he is an open contender. 5And the cattle, He has created them for you. You have in them warm clothing and (other) advantages, and of them you eat. 6And therein is beauty for you, when you drive them back (home) and when you send them out (to pasture). 7And they carry your heavy loads to regions which you could not reach but with distress to yourselves. Surely your Lord is Compassionate, Merciful. 8And (He made) horses and mules and asses that you might ride upon them and as an ornament. And He creates what you do not know. 9And upon Allah it rests to show the right way, and there are some deviating (ways). And if He please, He would guide all of you aright.

Section 2: Nature upholds Unity

10 He it is Who sends down water from the clouds for you; it gives drink, and by it (grow) the trees on which you feed. 11He causes to grow for you by it vegetation, and the olives, and the date-palms, and the grapes, and all the fruits. Surely there is a sign in this for a people who reflect. 12And He has made subservient to you the night and the day and the sun and the moon. And the stars are made subservient by His command. Surely there are signs in this for a people who understand. 13And what He has created for you in the earth is of varied colours. Surely there is a sign in this for a people who are mindful. 14And He it is Who has made the sea subservient that you may eat fresh flesh from it and bring forth from it ornaments which you wear. And you see the ships cleaving through it, so that you seek of His bounty and that you may give thanks. 15And He has cast firm mountains in the earth in case it should quake with you,^b and rivers and roads that you may go aright,

b (15) These words seem to point to the great upheavals and the violent agitations which led to the formation of the mountains, before man's existence on earth, and, that having been effected, the convulsions are now comparatively insignificant, making life possible. But these words can also be translated as meaning that they may be a source of benefit to you. In accordance with this we have elsewhere: "And the mountains, He made them firm, a provision for you and for your cattle" (79:32-33).

¹⁶and landmarks. And by the stars they find the right way.

17 Is He then Who creates like him who does not create? Are you not then mindful? ¹⁸And if you would count Allah's favours, you would not be able to number them. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁹And Allah knows what you conceal and what you do openly. ²⁰And those whom they call on besides Allah created nothing, while they are themselves created. ²¹Dead (are they), not living. And they do not know when they will be raised.^a

Section 3: Denial due to Ignorance

22 Your God is one God: so those who do not believe in the Hereafter, their hearts refuse to know and they are proud. ²³Undoubtedly Allah knows what they conceal and what they do openly. Surely He does not love the proud. ²⁴And when it is said to them, What is it that your Lord has revealed, they say, Stories of the ancients! ²⁵That they may bear their burdens in full on the day of Resurrection, and also part of the burdens of those whom they lead astray without knowledge. Ah! evil is what they bear.

Section 4: The Wicked will come to Disgrace

26 Those before them plotted, so Allah demolished their building from the foundations, so the roof fell down on them from above them, and the punishment came to them from where they did not perceive. ²⁷Then on the day of Resurrection He will bring them to disgrace and say: Where are My partners, for whose sake you became hostile? Those who are given the knowledge will say: Surely disgrace this day and evil are upon the disbelievers,^b ²⁸whom the angels cause to die, while they are unjust to themselves. Then would they offer submission: We did not do any evil.

a (21) These two verses show conclusively that neither Jesus Christ nor any other person who is taken for a god ever created anything; and secondly, that Jesus was not alive at the time of the revelation of the Quran: Dead are they, not living. The further statement that they do not even know when they will be raised, shows that the verse speaks of men taken for gods, and at any rate includes them.

b (27) Disgrace is a sort of hell-fire, which they had in this very life, too.

Yes! Surely Allah knows what you did. ²⁹So enter the gates of hell, to abide in it. Evil indeed is the dwelling-place of the proud.

30 And it is said to those who guard against evil: What has your Lord revealed? They say, Good. For those who do good in this world is good. And certainly the abode of the Hereafter is better. And excellent indeed is the abode of those who keep their duty — ³¹Gardens of perpetuity which they enter, in which rivers flow: they have therein what they please. Thus does Allah reward those who keep their duty, ³²whom the angels cause to die in purity, saying: Peace be on you! enter the Garden for what you did.

33 They only wait that the angels should come to them or that your Lord's command should come to pass.^a Thus did those before them. And Allah did not wrong them, but they wronged themselves. ³⁴So the evil of what they did afflicted them, and what they mocked at beset them.^b

Section 5: Prophets are raised to explain

35 And the idolaters say: If Allah pleased we would not have served any but Him, (neither) we nor our fathers, nor would we have prohibited anything without (order from) Him. Thus did those before them. But have the messengers any duty except to deliver the message clearly?^c ³⁶And certainly We raised in every nation a messenger, saying: Serve Allah and shun the devil. Then some of them Allah guided, and for some of them remaining in a (33) The coming of the angels stands for the smaller afflictions, such as overtook them in the form of famine and war, while the coming to pass of the command of the Lord indicates the complete overthrow of their power.

b (34) The past tense is used to express the highest degree of certainty relating to the future.

c (35) They contended that if Allah did not like evil He could have diverted them from evil ways. They are told in reply that Allah's pleasure is not exercised by compelling people to adopt one way or the other, but by sending His messengers in every age and to every nation to point out the right way to the people, and by clear messages through His messengers to warn people to avoid evil.

error was justly due.^a So travel in the land, then see what was the end of the rejectors. ³⁷If you desire their guidance, yet Allah will not guide him who leads (others) astray,^b nor do they have any helpers.

38 And they swear by Allah their most energetic oaths: Allah will not raise up him who dies. Yes indeed! It is a promise binding on Him, quite true, but most people do not know: ³⁹So that He might make clear to them what they differ about, and that those who disbelieve might know that they were liars. ⁴⁰Our word for a thing, when We intend it, is only that We say to it: Be; and it is.

Section 6: Doom of Opponents is coming

41 And those who flee for Allah's sake after they are oppressed, We shall certainly give them a good abode in the world; and the reward of the Hereafter is much greater, if only they knew^c — ⁴²those who are steadfast and on their Lord they rely.

43 And We did not send before you any but men to whom We sent revelation — so ask the followers of the Reminder if you do not know^d — ⁴⁴with clear arguments and Scriptures. And We

a (36) There were some people who did not care for the Prophet's warning and adhered to error. Justice therefore required that they should be left in error. The message was sent by God; the choice was man's own to accept or reject it. The words do not mean that Allah had foredoomed some people, for then the sending to them of messengers would have been absurd.

b (37) Those who not only walk in error themselves, but have grown so hostile to the cause of Truth that they mislead others, cannot find the right way, however much the Prophet may be anxious for them.

c (41) Here is a clear prophecy regarding those Muslims who had to flee their homes on account of the persecutions of the Quraish. They are promised not only a reward of the Hereafter but a good abode in this world, too. Those who fled their homes in utter helplessness, and were in danger of their very lives, were given the clearest promise of a great future in this life, and this promise proved true despite the hard struggle of a powerful nation to exterminate Islam.

d (43) By the followers of the Reminder are generally understood the Jews and the Christians, to whom the disbelievers of the Quraish are referred. But the have revealed to you the Reminder that you may make clear to people what has been revealed to them, and that perhaps they may reflect.

45 Are they, then, who plan evil (plans), secure that Allah will not humble them in the earth, or that punishment will not come upon them from where they do not perceive? ⁴⁶Or that He will not seize them in their going to and fro, then they will not be able to escape? ⁴⁷Or that He will not seize them with a gradual reduction?^a Your Lord is surely Compassionate, Merciful. ⁴⁸Do they not see everything that Allah has created? Its (very) shadows return from right and left, making submission to Allah, while they are in utter humility. ⁴⁹And to Allah submits every living creature that is in the heavens and that is in the earth, and the angels (too) and they are not proud. ⁵⁰They fear their Lord above them and do what they are commanded.

Section 7: Human Nature revolts against Polytheism

51 And Allah has said: Do not take two gods. He is only one God: So Me alone should you fear. ⁵²And whatever is in the heavens and the earth is His, and to Him is obedience due always. Will you then fear other than Allah? ⁵³And whatever good you have, it is from Allah; then, when evil afflicts you, to Him do you cry for aid. ⁵⁴Then when He removes the evil from you, lo! some of you set up partners with their Lord, ⁵⁵so as to deny what We have given them. Then enjoy yourselves, for soon will you know. ⁵⁶And they set apart for what they do not know,^b a portion of what mention in the very next verse of the Reminder being sent to the Holy Prophet shows that the words apply to the Muslims. Some commentators take the words generally as meaning learned men.

a (47) As verses 41–42 speak of a prosperous future for those who accepted the truth and now were suffering the severest persecutions, verses 45–47 speak prophetically of the different forms of punishment to which the persecutors of the righteous were to be subjected, v. 47 stating that they would be reduced gradually. This was their end, as their power went on waning till the whole of Arabia bowed before Islam.

b (56) That is, for the idols or their gods, whom they ignorantly take for intercessors.

We have given them. By Allah! you shall certainly be questioned about what you forged.

57 And they ascribe daughters to Allah. Glory be to Him! And for themselves is what they desire! 58And when the birth of a daughter is announced to one of them, his face becomes dark and he is full of wrath. 59He hides himself from the people because of the evil of what is announced to him. Shall he keep it with disgrace or bury it (alive) in the dust? Now surely evil is what they judge!^a 60For those who do not believe in the Hereafter are evil attributes and Allah's are the sublime attributes. And He is the Mighty, the Wise.

Section 8: Wrongdoing of Deniers

61 And if Allah were to destroy people for their wrongdoing, He would not leave on it a single creature, but He gives them respite till an appointed time. So when their doom comes they cannot postpone it an hour, nor (can they) bring it forward. 62And they ascribe to Allah what they (themselves) hate,^b and their tongues relate the lie that for them is good. Assuredly for them is the Fire, and they will be abandoned (in it). 63By Allah! We certainly sent (messengers) to nations before you, but the devil made their deeds seem good to them. So he is their patron today, and for them is a painful punishment. 64And We have not revealed to you the Book except that you may make clear to them what they differ about, and (as) a guidance and a mercy for a people who believe.^c 65And a (59) The allusion is to the barbarous custom of burying daughters alive, which was prevalent among the Arabs, especially among their chiefs. Its abolition was one of the numerous blessings of Islam. With no physical or administrative power behind it to ensure its enforcement, the word of Allah swept away this deep-rooted custom as if by a magician's wand, so that not a single case of the burial of a living girl ever occurred after the mandate came. Attention is drawn to the inconsistency of their avowed beliefs with their inward convictions in v. 62.

b (62) The reference is to their ascribing daughters to Allah, while they themselves did not like to have a daughter, thus showing how obviously inconsistent with their inward convictions was their professed belief in the Divine Being.

c (64) The previous verse shows that the whole world was in the grip of the Allah sends down water from above, and with it gives life to the earth after its death.^a Surely there is a sign in this for a people who listen.

Section 9: Parables showing Truth of Revelation

66 And surely there is a lesson for you in the cattle: We give you to drink of what is in their bellies — from between the faeces and the blood — pure milk, agreeable to the drinkers. 67 And of the fruits of the palms and the grapes, you obtain from them intoxicants and goodly provision. There is surely a sign in this for a people who ponder.^b

68 And your Lord revealed to the bee: Make hives in the mountains and in the trees and in what they build, 69 then eat of all the fruits and walk in the ways of your Lord submissively. From their devil at the advent of the Prophet. Messengers were sent to all nations before the coming of the Prophet, but as time passed, the followers of the messengers, instead of following their teachings, followed evil ways, which gradually appeared to them so beautiful that the good of this world was all in all for them. This verse shows that the teachings of the previous prophets had been distorted to such an extent that a new Prophet was now needed to lead them aright. Truth could not now be discovered without light from heaven. It also establishes that the new Prophet's message was for the followers of all religions; in other words, for the whole world.

a (65) The water from heaven is the Divine revelation, the death of the earth is its corruption, and the giving of life signifies its spiritual awakening, marvellous signs of which had already appeared in Arabia.

b (67) Verses 66 and 67 compare the Divine laws as manifested in nature with the handiwork of man. Divine law in nature produces such a valuable and agreeable diet as pure milk, separating it from the other elements — blood and dung — to which food is reduced in the belly of an animal, which the hand of man is unable to do. On the other hand, the most agreeable provisions produced by nature in the form of fruits are turned into such a poisonous drug as alcohol by the hand of man. The two illustrations thus point out that just as Divine laws working in the physical world produce the purest and most agreeable diets, separating them from obnoxious elements and useless excrements, so their working in the spiritual world produces the most sublime moral teachings, which afford to man the purest spiritual diet. But the best teachings given by Divine revelation are likely to be corrupted by the hands of man, as the best of fruits is turned into such an obnoxious thing as alcohol.

bellies comes forth a beverage of many colours, in which there is healing for man. Surely in this there is a sign for a people who reflect.^a ⁷⁰And Allah creates you, then He causes you to die; and some of you are brought back to the worst part of life, knowing nothing after having knowledge. Surely Allah is Knowing, Powerful.^b

Section 10: The Recipient of Revelation

71 And Allah has made some of you excel others in the means of subsistence; so those who are made to excel do not give away their sustenance to those whom their right hands possess, so that they may be equal in it. Will they then deny the favour of Allah?^c a (69) This is another illustration to show that Divine revelation brings about an object which cannot be effected by human exertions. The bee gathers the sweet juice of different flowers, making it into honey. What this small creature effects, working instinctively in obedience to Divine laws, cannot be effected by the combined exertions of the whole of humanity. This illustration shows a similar working of the Divine laws in the spiritual world, viz., that the Prophet, working, as it were, instinctively in obedience to the Divine laws prevailing in the spiritual world, collects by Divine revelation all that is best and noblest in any religion, and sums it up in the Quran: a work which could not be effected by human exertion.

It should be noted that five kinds of the wahy (revelation) of Allah are mentioned in the Quran: a revelation to inanimate objects, as the earth (99:5) or the heavens (41:12); a revelation to living creatures other than man, as the bee; a revelation to the angels (8:12); a revelation to men and women other than prophets, as the apostles of Jesus (5:111) or the mother of Moses (28:7); and a revelation to prophets and messengers. All these kinds of wahy are not identical; in the case of the bee, it is its very instinct that is a revelation to it. The revelation to the prophets is the expression of Divine will for the guidance of people.

b (70) As in individuals, so in nations. Those who had been given knowledge of Divine revelation before the Holy Prophet had lost or corrupted it at the time of his advent; hence the necessity for a new Divine revelation.

c (71) This provides an answer to the demand of the disbelievers expressly stated elsewhere: "We will not believe till we are given the like of what Allah's messengers are given" (6:124). It is pointed out that, as there are differences in the physical world, so there are differences in the spiritual world. All persons are not equally fit to receive the gift of Divine revelation. The favour of Allah, which is the Divine revelation, should not be denied simply because all individuals are not equal recipients of it.

⁷²And Allah has made wives for you from among yourselves,^a and has given you sons and daughters from your wives, and has provided you with good things. Will they then believe in falsehood and deny the favour of Allah?^b a (72-1) The statement made here is that for all men wives are created from their anfus (plural of nafs, meaning soul or self). No one ever interprets these words in the erroneous way in which similar words about Adam are misinterpreted, where the rib is made to take the place of soul or self. The words of the Quran do not allow this unnatural interpretation, which is based upon the story of Genesis.

73 And they serve besides Allah that which controls for them no sustenance at all from the heavens and the earth; nor have they any power. ⁷⁴So do not coin likenesses for Allah. Surely Allah knows and you do not know. ⁷⁵Allah sets forth a parable: There is a slave, the property of another, controlling nothing, and there is one to whom We have granted from Ourselves a goodly provision, so he spends from it (on good works) secretly and openly. Are the two alike? Praise be to Allah! But most of them do not know.^c ⁷⁶And Allah sets forth a parable of two men: One of them dumb, controlling nothing, and he is a burden to his master; wherever he sends him, he brings no good. Is he equal with him who enjoins justice, and he is on the right path?^d

b (72-2) They believe in the superstition that the idols, which are inanimate objects, can intercede with Allah, and deny the favour of Allah (i.e. Divine revelation) being granted to a human being. Hence the next verse speaks of the idols.

c (75) By slave is meant the idol-worshipper who, instead of being master of idols, stones, and such-like objects, as Allah has created him to be, chooses to become a slave to them, bows before them, and considers them more powerful than himself. By the master of the goodly provision from Allah is meant the recipient of the Divine revelation, i.e., the Prophet. The comparison is made to show that the idol-worshippers will ultimately find themselves deprived of all power.

d (76) This parable makes the same comparison as the previous one. The purport is here made clearer. The master of the goodly provision from Allah of the previous verse is here plainly called the enjoiner of justice and the one who is on the right path, while the idol-worshipper is the one who is not able to do anything and who remains unsuccessful in whatever he undertakes — a prophetic allusion to the defeats and discomfiture of the idolaters.

Section 11: Punishment withheld

77 And Allah's is the unseen of the heavens and the earth. And the matter of the Hour is but as a twinkling of the eye or it is nearer still.^a Surely Allah is Powerful over all things. 78 And Allah brought you forth from the wombs of your mothers — you knew nothing — and He gave you hearing and sight and hearts that you might give thanks.

79 Do they not see the birds, constrained in the middle of the sky? None withholds them but Allah.^b Surely there are signs in this for a people who believe. 80 And Allah has given you an abode in your houses, and He has given you houses of the skins of cattle, which you find light to carry on the day of your march and on the day of your halting, and of their wool and their fur and their hair, household stuff and a provision for a time. 81 And Allah has made for you, out of what He has created, shelters, and He has given you in the mountains, places of retreat, and He has given you garments to save you from the heat,^c and (protective) garments to save you in your fighting. Thus does He complete His favour to you that you may submit.^d 82 Then if they turn away, your duty is only to deliver the message clearly. 83 They recognize the favour of Allah, yet they deny it, and most of them are ungrateful.

a (77) By the unseen is meant the knowledge of the unseen, or the knowledge of the eventual fulfilment of the prophecies; and by the Hour is meant the hour of the doom of the opponents of the Prophet, the hour when their power was to be utterly destroyed.

b (79) Both Arab proverb and Arab poetry bear witness to birds being spoken of as attending a victorious army to feed upon the corpses of the enemy left on the battlefield. In withholding the birds, therefore, there may be a reference to withholding the punishment which must ultimately overtake the enemy.

c (81-1) The mention of one of two contrary things always involves the other. Hence by the preservation from heat spoken of here, preservation from heat and cold alike is meant.

d (81-2) As He has given you of the good things of this life, the physical blessings, He now completes these blessings by giving you the greatest of His blessings, i.e., Divine revelation, so that, submitting to it, you may prosper.

Section 12: Prophets testify

84 And on the day when We raise up a witness out of every nation,^a then permission (to offer excuse) will not be given to the disbelievers, nor will they be allowed to make amends. 85And when the wrongdoers see the punishment, it will not be lightened for them, nor will they be given respite. 86And when those who set up partners (with Allah) see their associate-gods, they will say: Our Lord, these are our associate-gods on whom we called besides You. But they will throw back at them the word: Surely you are liars. 87And they will tender submission to Allah on that day, and what they used to forge will fail them.

88 Those who disbelieve and hinder (people) from Allah's way, We will add punishment to their punishment because they made mischief. 89And on the day when We raise up in every people a witness against them from among themselves, and bring you as a witness against these.^b And We have revealed the Book to you explaining all things,^c and a guidance and mercy and good news for those who submit.

Section 13: Revelation enjoins Good

90 Surely Allah commands (the doing of) justice and the doing of good (to others) and the giving to the near of kin, and He forbids indecency and evil and rebellion. He instructs you that you may be mindful.^d 91And fulfil the covenant of Allah, when you have a (84) In this verse, as well as in the concluding verse (v. 89) of this section, the broad humanitarian doctrine is taught that a prophet has been raised in every nation. There are religions which claim hundreds of prophets for a single nation, like the house of Israel, but grudge even a single true prophet to other vast countries and nations. Islam rejects all such narrow views of the spiritual providence of Allah, Who is not the "Lord God of Israel", but the Lord of all nations.

b (89-1) By these are meant the Muslim community throughout the world and in all ages.

c (89-2) By everything is meant every basic principle necessary for the spiritual welfare of man. The sunnah, the practice of the Prophet, as illustrating the precepts of the Quran, supplies the details.

d (90) This verse deals with the different degrees of goodness and evil. The

made a covenant, and do not break (your) oaths after making them firm, and you have indeed made Allah your surety. Surely Allah knows what you do.

92 And do not be like her who unravels her yarn, disintegrating it into pieces, after she has spun it strongly.^a You make your oaths to be means of deceit between you because (one) nation is more numerous than (another) nation.^b Allah only tries you by this. And He will certainly make clear to you on the day of Resurrection what you differed about. ⁹³And if Allah please, He would make you a single nation, but He leaves in error whom He pleases and guides whom He pleases. And certainly you will be questioned as to what you did. ⁹⁴And do not make your oaths a means of deceit between you, so that a foot should slip after its stability, and you should taste evil because you hinder (people) from Allah's way and severe punishment be your (lot). ⁹⁵And do not take a small price for Allah's covenant. Surely what is with Allah is better for you, if only you knew! ⁹⁶What is with you passes away and what is with Allah is enduring. And We shall lowest form of goodness is justice or returning good for good, and includes not only justice proper but also the fulfilment of all duties and obligations. A higher degree of goodness is, however, that which is called ihsān, or goodness proper, the doing of good without having received any benefit. The last stage of goodness is that in which a person's nature is so inclined to good that he does good to all people as an ordinary man does good to his own near of kin. In fact, he looks upon the whole of humanity as his kindred.

Similarly, this verse deals with the three degrees of evil: the merest indecency which may not affect the rights of others, evil actions which affect the rights of other individuals, and oppression or rebellion affecting the rights of large numbers, nations or states.

a (92-1) People, after accepting the truth, are united by certain ties, but when this union brings about strength, they destroy it with their own hands. It was unity which made the Muslims rise to great power, but that unity today lies in ruins, and the strong community of Islam is like the unravelled yarn of a crazy spinner.

b (92-2) Faithfulness to covenants is here stressed and, from the covenant with God, the subject is diverted to covenants between people. Attention is drawn in the words, you make your oaths to be means of deceit between you, to the conditions generally prevailing in the world, to the breach of covenants between nations, which is ruining the stability of human society.

certainly give to those who are patient their reward for the best of what they did. ⁹⁷Whoever does good, whether male or female,^a and is a believer, We shall certainly make him live a good life, and We shall certainly give them their reward for the best of what they did.

98 So when you recite the Quran, seek refuge in Allah from the accursed devil. ⁹⁹Surely he has no authority over those who believe and rely on their Lord. ¹⁰⁰His authority is only over those who befriend him and those who set up partners with Him.

Section 14: The Quran is not a Forgery

101 And when We change a message for a message — and Allah knows best what He reveals — they say: You are only a forger. Rather, most of them do not know.^b ¹⁰²Say: The Holy Spirit has revealed it from your Lord with truth,^c that it may establish those who believe, and as a guidance and good news for those who submit. ¹⁰³And indeed We know that they say: Only a mortal teaches him. The tongue of him whom they hint at is foreign, and this is clear Arabic language.^d ¹⁰⁴Those who do not believe in a (97) The doers of good, both men and women, are made to lead a good life in this world and will have a reward in the Hereafter.

b (101) It is not the change of the Quranic verses that is spoken of here; it is the change of the previous messages sent through former prophets for the message of the Holy Quran. This chapter belongs to Makkah, and the upholders of abrogation have never asserted that any verse was abrogated while the Holy Prophet was at Makkah. Moreover, it was the revelation of the Quran itself that was called a forgery, and not an occasional change that any of its commandments could have undergone, with which change the disbelievers had, in fact, no concern. See also 2:106 footnote.

c (102) The Holy Spirit (Rūḥ al-quḍus) is here stated to be the bearer of the revelation to the Holy Prophet; elsewhere the same bearer is called al-Rūḥ al-Amīn, or the Faithful Spirit (26:193), and the same is called Gabriel in 2:97.

d (103) Various names have been suggested as to the person whom the opponents of the Prophet referred to. These are mostly the names of Christian slaves, who were not Arabs. All these slaves were among the early converts to Islam, who were most cruelly persecuted by the Quraish, yet they remained firm under the severest tortures. Is it possible that they, without being in the least

Allah's messages, Allah does not guide them, and for them is a painful punishment. ¹⁰⁵Only they forge lies who do not believe in Allah's messages, and they are the liars.^a

106 Whoever disbelieves in Allah after his belief — not he who is compelled while his heart is content with faith, but he who opens (his) breast for disbelief — they incur Allah's displeasure, and for them is a grievous punishment.^b ¹⁰⁷That is because they love this world's life more than the Hereafter, and because Allah does not guide the disbelieving people. ¹⁰⁸These are they whose hearts and ears and eyes Allah has sealed and these are the heedless ones.^c ¹⁰⁹No doubt that in the Hereafter they are the losers. ¹¹⁰Then surely your Lord, to those who flee after they are persecuted, then struggle hard and are patient, surely your Lord after that is Protecting, Merciful.^d

Section 15: Fate of the Opponents

111 On the day when every soul will come pleading for itself, gainers, should have thus willingly suffered persecutions for a cause which they knew to be false? This is sufficient to show the absurdity of the allegation, and it is to this that v. 105 refers. They certainly cannot be supposed to have been the authors of the sublime themes of the Holy Quran.

a (105) The reference is to v. 103. The allegation was that certain slaves taught the Prophet. How could a forger of lies be a believer, especially when he had to undergo the severest trials for its sake.

b (106) Only very rare instances are met with in the early history of Islam in which converts even under compulsion ever recanted.

c (108) Allah does not seal the hearts of people and thus hinder them from accepting the truth; it is they who reject the truth, turning a deaf ear to the preaching of the Prophet, as the previous verses show. Nor are the hearts sealed forever, for, as v. 110 shows, even after that Allah forgives them, if they repent and show perseverance.

d (110) The struggle (jihād) spoken of here is certainly not in connection with fighting, for the verse was revealed at Makkah. Note also that God is spoken of here as being Ghafūr, translated as Protecting, to those who flee from their homes on account of persecution and then struggle hard to establish Truth. God being Ghafūr here is in relation to His exalting them by protecting them from the commission of sins, not forgiving of sins, for it is their acts of sacrifice that are spoken of here, not their sins.

and every soul will be paid in full what it has done, and they will not be dealt with unjustly. ¹¹²And Allah sets forth a parable: A town safe and secure, to which its means of subsistence came in abundance from every quarter; but it disbelieved in Allah's favours, so Allah made it taste a pall of hunger and fear because of what they did.^a ¹¹³And certainly a Messenger came to them from among them, but they rejected him, so the punishment caught them while they were wrongdoers.

114 So eat of what Allah has given you, lawful and good (things), and give thanks for Allah's favour, if He it is you serve. ¹¹⁵He has forbidden you only what dies of itself and blood and the flesh of swine and that on which any other name than that of Allah has been invoked; but whoever is driven to (it), not desiring nor exceeding the limit, then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^b ¹¹⁶And do not utter the lie which your tongues describe: This is lawful and this unlawful; so that you forge a lie against Allah. Surely those who forge a lie against Allah will not prosper. ¹¹⁷A little enjoyment — and for them is a painful punishment. ¹¹⁸And to those who are Jews We prohibited what We have related to you already, and We did not wrong them, but they wronged themselves. ¹¹⁹And surely your Lord, for those who do evil in ignorance, then turn after that and make amends, surely your Lord after that is Forgiving, Merciful.

a (112) The parable is set forth to depict the state of Makkah as it was before the time of the Holy Prophet and, prophetically, its fate after he was rejected, after it disbelieved in Allah's favours. Its first condition was one of great prosperity and affluence, as referred to in 106:3–4. When the Prophet and his followers were persecuted and tortured, a famine overtook them, which destroyed everything, till they ate skins and dead animals. This was the pall of hunger, spoken of here. But, even then, they did not stop persecution and tried to exterminate Islam by the sword. The result was that all their attacks on Madinah failed, and ultimately Makkah itself lay powerless when attacked by the Prophet. This was the pall of fear, being so called because no blood was shed.

b (115) See 2:173, 6:145 and 5:3, and the footnotes there.

Section 16: The Way to Greatness

120 Surely Abraham was a model (of virtue), obedient to Allah, upright, and he was not from among the idolaters, ¹²¹grateful for His favours. He chose him and guided him on the right path. ¹²²And We gave him good in this world; and in the Hereafter he is surely among the righteous.

123 Then We revealed to you: Follow the faith of Abraham, the upright one; and he was not from among the idolaters. ¹²⁴The Sabbath was ordained only against those who differed about it.^a And surely your Lord will judge between them on the day of Resurrection in that in which they differed.

125 Call to the way of your Lord with wisdom and goodly exhortation, and argue with them in the best manner.^b Surely your Lord knows best him who strays from His path, and He knows best those who go aright. ¹²⁶And if you take your turn, then retaliate with the like of what you were afflicted with.^c But if you show patience, it is certainly best for the patient. ¹²⁷And be patient and your patience is not but by (the help of) Allah, and do not grieve for them, nor be in distress by what they plan. ¹²⁸Surely Allah is with those who keep their duty and those who do good (to others).

a (124) The meaning here seems to be that the Sabbath, the Jewish day of worship which should have made them walk in the footsteps of righteous Abraham, was turned against them because of their violation of it. Or, the statement is made to show that it was not necessary for the Muslims to observe a day of worship, as even Abraham, a model of virtue for both the Jews and the Muslims, did not observe a particular day of worship.

b (125) The principle laid down for preaching and religious controversy by the Quran has yet to be learned by the most advanced people. It shows the breadth of mind of the Holy Prophet, more especially when it is remembered that the injunction was given at a time when Muslims were being most severely persecuted and there was the greatest reason for adopting a harsh attitude.

c (126) Muslims were being persecuted most cruelly, and they were told that the time would come when they would dominate their erstwhile persecutors. In that case they are allowed to punish them for their guilt, but it is twice added, here and in v. 127, that they should show patience when they had the upper hand and do good even to their enemies, for Allah is with those who do good (v. 128).

Banī Isrāʿīl

The Israelites

This chapter opens and ends by referring to the history of the Israelites, who, after attaining to greatness, were twice punished for their misdeeds. It begins with a mention of the Miʿrāj or ascension of the Holy Prophet, indicative of the eminence to which the Muslims would rise. It then warns Muslims of the fate which befell the Israelites, as the same fate was to befall them. Then it goes on to deal with the following subjects: every deed must have a consequence, the moral teachings Muslims must follow to do good deeds, opposition to the truth and to the righteous, and its defeat by the truth — that “truth” being the Holy Prophet himself who is the “spirit of truth” prophesied in the Gospel of John — the Quran being a miracle, and, finally, Moses’ warning to Pharaoh, a warning like it now being given by the Quran to its opponents. This chapter was revealed in the early period at Makkah, around the fifth year of the Holy Prophet’s mission.

Section 1: Israelites punished Twice

Part 15

1 Glory be to Him Who carried His servant by night from the Sacred Mosque to the Remote Mosque, whose precincts We blessed, that We might show him some of Our signs!^a Surely He is the Hearing, the Seeing.

2 And We gave Moses the Book and made it a guidance to the

^a (1) The carrying by night of the Holy Prophet Muhammad from the Sacred Mosque at Makkah to the Remote Mosque at Jerusalem (known as Isrāʿ) is in reference to the Prophet’s reported Ascension (known as Miʿrāj). Isrāʿ was the first stage in Miʿrāj, as before his Ascension to heaven, the Prophet was taken to the Remote Mosque, or the Temple at Jerusalem. The Ascension was not a translation of the body, but the spiritual experience of the Holy Prophet, as is shown in v. 60 where it is expressly called a vision. As the significance of the Ascension was the spiritual eminence of the Holy Prophet and indicated his triumph in the world, his being carried to the Temple at Jerusalem signified that he would also inherit the blessings of the Israelite prophets.

Children of Israel (saying): Take no guardian beside Me ^a — ³(you) the offspring of those whom We bore with Noah. Surely he was a grateful servant. ⁴And We made known to the Children of Israel in the Book: Certainly you will make mischief in the land twice, and behave insolently with mighty arrogance. ^b ⁵So when the first warning of the two came to pass, We raised against you Our servants, of mighty prowess, so they made havoc in (your) houses. And it was an accomplished threat. ⁶Then We gave you back the turn against them, and aided you with wealth and children and made you a numerous band. ^c ⁷If you do good, you do good for your own souls. And if you do evil, it is for them. So when the second warning came, (We raised another people) that they might bring you to grief and that they might enter the Mosque as they entered it the first time, and that they might destroy, whatever they conquered, with utter destruction. ^d ⁸It may be that your Lord will have mercy on you. And if you return (to mischief), We

a (2) The first verse really prophesies a great future for Islam and the Muslims, while this warns them of the pitfalls of greatness, citing the instance of a nation that had been made to rise to eminence before them.

b (4) Jerusalem was destroyed twice as a punishment for the transgressions of the Jews, once by the Babylonians, and again by the Romans. See Jesus' warning in Matthew 23:38 and Luke 21:24 and various other like references. The Psalms are also replete with warnings.

c (6) V. 5 relates the destruction of the Temple at Jerusalem and the murder, imprisonment, and banishment of the Jews by the Babylonians in the year 588 B.C., while v. 6 relates to the return of the Jews and rebuilding of the temple under Zerubbabel, and to their subsequent prosperity.

d (7) This verse describes the destruction of the Temple a second time, which was accomplished by the Romans under Titus. There is a prophetic reference here to the history of the Muslims. The Caliphate of Islam was destroyed twice, first by the Mongols under Hulagu in 656 A.H. (1258 C.E.), and again by the powers of Europe after the First World War. But while in the case of the Israelites their spiritual centre was laid waste on both occasions, the spiritual centre of Islam, the Ka'bah, has remained intact on both occasions under a Divine promise. Following the first great reverse in Muslim history in 1258, Islam gained spiritual conquests in the coming over to Islam en masse of the Mongols and Turks. After the second reverse, the afflictions of Islam are giving birth to a spiritual resuscitation of the world. On both occasions, there has been a revival of its temporal power as well.

will return (to punishment).^a And We have made hell a prison for the disbelievers.

9 Surely this Quran guides to what is most upright, and gives good news to the believers who do good that theirs is a great reward,¹⁰ and that those who do not believe in the Hereafter, We have prepared for them a painful punishment.

Section 2: Every Deed has a Consequence

11 And man prays for evil as he ought to pray for good; and man is ever hasty.¹² And We made the night and the day two signs, then We have made the sign of the night to pass away and We have made the sign of the day manifest,^b so that you may seek grace from your Lord, and that you may know the numbering of years and the reckoning. And We have explained everything distinctly.¹³ And We have made every human being's actions to cling to his neck, and We shall bring forth to him on the day of Resurrection a book which he will find wide open.^c 14 Read your book. Your own soul is sufficient as a reckoner against you this day.^d 15 Whoever goes aright, goes aright only for the good of his own soul; and whoever goes astray, goes astray only to its detriment. And no bearer of a burden can bear the burden a (8) This relates to the advent of the Holy Prophet Muhammad, when the Israelites were again given a chance to reform, but they are told that if they return to mischief they will again be punished.

b (12) The night stands for the darkness of ignorance and unbelief (see 2:257), and the passing away of the night indicates that ignorance will vanish and the light of Islam will take its place. Arabia witnessed this sign in the seventh century C.E., and Islam has since then been gradually advancing in the world.

c (13) This verse reveals the principle that every action produces an effect which is made to cling to a person, and that this very effect will be met with on the day of Resurrection in the form of a wide open book. It is thus by leaving its effect behind that every action is recorded, and this very effect constitutes the book of a person's actions. Clinging to the neck indicates the inseparability of one thing from another, thus establishing the law of cause and effect.

d (14) This verse throws a flood of light on the nature of the reckoning on the day of Resurrection, showing clearly that it is nothing but a complete manifestation of the effects of the deeds done in this life.

of another.^a Nor do We punish until We raise a messenger.^b

16 And when We wish to destroy a town, We send commandments to its people who lead easy lives, but they transgress therein; thus the word proves true against it, so We destroy it with utter destruction.^c 17And how many generations did We destroy after Noah! And your Lord is sufficient as being Aware and Seer of His servants' sins. 18Whoever desires this transitory life, We hasten to him in it what We please for whomsoever We desire, then We assign to him hell; he will enter it despised, driven away. 19And whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with due striving and is a believer — those are they whose striving is amply rewarded. 20All do We aid — these as well as those — out of the bounty of your Lord, and the bounty of your Lord is not limited.

21 See how We have made some of them to excel others. And certainly the Hereafter is greater in degrees and greater in excellence. 22Do not set up any other god with Allah, or you will sit down despised, forsaken.

Section 3: Moral Precepts

23 And your Lord has decreed that you serve none but Him, and do good to parents.^d If either or both of them reach old age a (15-1) This verse strikes at the root of the doctrine of atonement. The burden of the sins of one person cannot be taken away by another, for, as already stated, the effect of each man's actions clings to himself.

b (15-2) Here it is stated that guidance is offered to man through a messenger of God, but if he still persists in error and strays from the path, it is to his own detriment. And then it is added that the punishment of the Hereafter is only after man has been warned through a Divine messenger. The law as to punishment in this world is stated in v. 16, which speaks of the destruction of towns, for such punishment is sent when tyranny and transgression assume extraordinary proportions, and punishment is then inflicted on large numbers.

c (16) Allah does not command people to transgress. The meaning is clear: Allah sends them commandments to do good, pointing out the right way through His prophets, but as they are accustomed to lead easy lives, they transgress those commandments, and are therefore punished.

d (23) Doing good to parents is placed next to submission to Allah, for among fellow-beings none has a greater claim upon a person than his parents.

with you, say no word to them showing annoyance, nor rebuke them, and speak to them a generous word. ²⁴And make yourself gentle to them with humility out of mercy, and say: My Lord, have mercy on them, as they brought me up (when I was) little.

25 Your Lord knows best what is in your minds. If you are righteous, He is surely Forgiving to those who turn (to Him). ²⁶And give to the near of kin his due and (to) the needy and the traveller, and do not squander wastefully. ²⁷Surely the squanderers are the devil's brethren. And the devil is ever ungrateful to his Lord.^a ²⁸And if you (have to) turn away from them (in order) to seek mercy from your Lord that you hope for, then speak to them a gentle word.^b ²⁹And do not make your hand to be chained to your neck, nor stretch it forth to its fullest extension, so that you sit down blamed, stripped off.^c ³⁰Surely your Lord amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also). Surely He is ever Aware, Seer, of His servants.

31 And do not kill your children for fear of poverty — We provide for them and for you. Surely the killing of them is a great wrong.^d ³²And do not go near to fornication: surely it is an a (27) While enjoining charity, the Quran also draws attention to economy, thus indicating the golden mean. Those who waste wealth are called the devil's brethren, because they are ungrateful to God for wasting away what He has given them out of His grace.

b (28) Hoping for mercy from the Lord means standing in need of the bounty of the Lord, i.e., not having anything to give to the needy. In that case one should still speak to the needy gently. A saying of the Holy Prophet declares a gentle word spoken to someone to be a deed of charity (Bukhari, 56:72).

c (29) By the hand being tied to the neck is meant being miserly, and by stretching it forth to its fullest extension is meant being wasteful. The verse teaches that the middle path should be adopted in one's ordinary expenses.

d (31) Infanticide, in the case of daughters, was met with among the Arabs, but this was not for fear of poverty. Since the word children (aulād) includes both males and females, the killing of children here may mean not giving them proper education; ignorance, or intellectual death, being treated as death. (Editor's Note: Abortion without a medical reason may also be included here.)

obscenity. And evil is the way.^a ³³And do not kill the soul which Allah has forbidden except for a just cause. And whoever is killed unjustly, We have indeed given to his heir authority — but let him not exceed the limit in killing. Surely he will be helped.^b

34 And do not draw near to the orphan's property, except in the best way, till he attains his maturity. And fulfil the promise; surely the promise will be enquired into. ³⁵And give full measure when you measure out, and weigh with a true balance. This is fair and better in the end. ³⁶And do not follow that of which you have no knowledge.^c Surely the hearing and the sight and the heart, all of these will be asked about it. ³⁷And do not go about in the land exultingly, for you cannot split the earth, nor reach the mountains in height. ³⁸All this, the evil of it, is hateful in the sight of your Lord.

39 This is from the wisdom which your Lord has revealed to you. And do not set up with Allah any other god, or you would be thrown into hell, blamed, cast away. ⁴⁰Has then your Lord preferred to give you sons, and (for Himself) taken daughters from among the angels? Surely you utter a terrible saying.

Section 5: Disbelievers grow Harder

41 And certainly We have repeated (warnings) in this Quran that they may be mindful. And it only adds to their aversion.^d a (32) The Quran not only forbids all out-of-wedlock sex, but enjoins people not to go near it, thus avoiding all those opportunities which are likely to tempt one to fall into the evil. Hence it is that Islam discourages the too free intermingling of the sexes.

b (33) The words he will be helped indicate that as the state is bound to help him by bringing the murderer within reach of the law, the heir should not take the law into his own hands. This is called exceeding the limits.

c (36) If this injunction were followed, all society gossip would immediately cease, relieving many innocent people of the heart-burning which they suffer on account of evil and unfounded reports. The verse also forbids entering into discussions without accurate knowledge, or putting forward uncertain opinion.

d (41) Allah's purpose in repeating arguments and signs in the Quran is to make people mindful, but the more they are reminded, the greater is their aversion to it.

⁴²Say: If there were with Him gods, as they say, then certainly they would have been able to seek a way to the Lord of the Throne.^a

⁴³Glory be to Him, and He is supremely exalted above what they say! ⁴⁴The seven heavens and the earth and those in them declare His glory. And there is not a single thing but glorifies Him with His praise, but you do not understand their glorification. Surely He is Forbearing, Forgiving.^b

45 And when you recite the Quran, We place between you and those who do not believe in the Hereafter a hidden barrier;^c ⁴⁶and We put coverings on their hearts and a deafness in their ears that they may not understand it; and when you mention your Lord alone in the Quran, they turn their backs in aversion.^d ⁴⁷We know best what they listen to when they listen to you, and when they take counsel secretly, when the wrongdoers say: You follow only a man deprived of reason. ⁴⁸See, what they liken you to! So they have gone astray, and cannot find the way.

49 And they say: When we are bones and decayed particles, shall we then be raised up as a new creation? ⁵⁰Say: Be stones or iron, ⁵¹or some other creature of those which are too hard (to

a (42) The idol-worshippers were sunk deep in vices and immorality, while access to the Divine Being — a way to the Lord of the Throne — which they claimed they got through their idols, should have purified their lives. Or, the meaning is that, if they had access to God, Who holds all power in His hands, they should have received Divine help and been successful in uprooting Islam.

b (44) The whole universe is here mentioned as declaring the glory of Allah, which means declaring God to be free from every imperfection and impurity, or from everything derogatory to His dignity. This declaration need not be with the tongue and in words: in fact, the very dependence of the whole creation on the Creator and its consequent imperfection is a glorification of the Creator.

c (45) This hidden barrier is nothing but that erected by their own aversion, as plainly indicated in v. 41.

d (46) The placing of coverings on the hearts and deafness in the ears of the disbelievers is no doubt attributed to Allah as the prime cause of all things, but this covering and deafness is directly brought about because they do not even listen to the mention of Allah, and flee in aversion from His word. Allah brings it about on account of the condition of their very hearts and ears. See also 7:179.

receive life) in your minds!^a But they will say: Who will return us? Say: He Who created you at first. Still they will shake their heads at you and say: When will it be? Say: Maybe it has drawn near.^b ⁵²On the day when He will call you forth, then will you obey Him, giving Him praise, and you will think that you remained only a little (while).

Section 6: Punishment must follow

53 And say to My servants that they speak what is best. Surely the devil sows dissensions among them. The devil is surely an open enemy to man.^c ⁵⁴Your Lord knows you best. He will have mercy on you, if He please, or He will punish you, if He please.^d And We have not sent you as being in charge of them. ⁵⁵And your Lord best knows those who are in the heavens and the earth. And certainly We made some of the prophets to excel others, and to David We gave the Zabūr.^e a (51-1) They are told that a life after death must follow even if they could change themselves into stones. And the spiritual life with which they were quickened by the Holy Prophet, despite their hard-heartedness — “they were like rocks, rather worse in hardness” (2:74) — was a clear proof of this.

b (51-2) The answer, maybe it has drawn near, refers to the spiritual resuscitation of Arabia, which was now to be accomplished through the Holy Prophet, as an indication of the greater Resurrection. The next verse makes it clear: Then will you obey Him, giving Him praise. Fifteen years after this the whole of Arabia resounded with Divine praises.

c (53) The Muslims — My servants — are here enjoined to be very kind when they speak to the disbelievers. It is related that when the Muslims complained to the Holy Prophet that they were abused by the idolaters, they were told to be kind and not to retaliate. It was the devil that was causing these quarrels. The words evidently imply that these dissensions were only transient, and that the two parties would again become united.

d (54) In this verse, as elsewhere in the Quran, mercy is mentioned first, thus showing that Divine mercy has precedence over Divine retribution.

e (55) By saying that some of the prophets are made to excel others, the excellence of the Holy Prophet over others is implied. David is specially mentioned, because, as stated in the Psalms (called here Zabūr), he prayed for the utter destruction of his enemies, whereas the two previous verses show that the Holy Prophet was enjoined to deal mercifully with his opponents.

56 Say: Call on those whom you assert besides Him; they have no power to remove distress from you nor to change. ⁵⁷Those whom they call upon, themselves seek the means of access to their Lord — whoever of them is nearest — and they hope for His mercy and fear His punishment. Surely the punishment of your Lord is a thing to be cautious of.^a ⁵⁸And there is not a town but We will destroy it before the day of Resurrection or punish it with a severe punishment. That is written in the Book.^b ⁵⁹And nothing hindered Us from sending signs, but the ancients rejected them.^c And We gave to Thamūd the she-camel, a manifest sign, but they did her wrong, and We send signs only to warn.

60 And when We said to you: Surely your Lord encompasses people. And We made the vision which We showed you^d only a a (57) These divinities, it is argued, themselves hoped for Divine mercy and feared His retribution; the nearer a person to the Divine Being, the greater was his hope of mercy and his fear of punishment if he disobeyed.

b (58) There is a prophetic reference here to great disasters which would ruin populous towns. The words “before the day of Resurrection” clearly show that the destruction of the towns does not refer to the end of things. Already we have seen the fulfilment of this prophecy in the destruction of populous towns in almost every country of the world on an unprecedented scale, but it is nothing compared with the havoc which the atomic bomb and other inventions of this modern age are likely to work, if the mad struggle for power is not ended. It should be noted that the prophecy of the ruination of populous towns is here mentioned as a part of the Divine scheme in the ultimate triumph of Islam with which this chapter deals, and hence the reference to the sending of signs in v. 59.

c (59) After speaking of a great sign in the latter days, the destruction of towns on a large scale, this verse speaks of a general law that God has always been sending signs to establish truth, and that nothing ever hindered Him from sending signs, though such signs were rejected by the people to whom they were sent. It is further made clear that signs are sent to warn people of the evil consequences of doing evil.

d (60-1) The reference here is to the vision of Ascension or the Mi'rāj (Bukhari, 63:42), which was really a prophecy of the ultimate triumph of Islam. In a Hadith report the words describing the condition in which the Holy Prophet was at the time of this Ascension are: whilst I was in a state between that of one sleeping and one awake (Bukhari, 59:6). Thus it was not an Ascension of the body. Although he was not asleep he was in a vision. He was actually carried to the Holy Presence, and he was shown great wonders, but it was in spirit that he was trial for people, as also the tree cursed in the Quran.^a And We warn them, but it only adds to their great inordinacy.

Section 7: The Devil's Opposition to the Righteous

61 And when We said to the angels: Be submissive to Adam, they submitted, but not Iblīs.^b He said: Shall I submit to him whom You have created of dust? ⁶²He said: Do You see, this is he whom You have honoured above me! If You grant me respite to the day of Resurrection, I will certainly cause his progeny to perish except a few. ⁶³He said: Go away! Whoever of them follows you surely hell is your recompense, a full recompense. ⁶⁴And incite whoever of them you can with your voice,^c and collect against them your horse(-men) and your foot(-soldiers),^d and share with them in wealth and children,^e and promise them. And the devil promises them only to deceive. ⁶⁵My servants — you have surely no authority carried, and it was with the spiritual eye that he saw those wonders, not in body and with the physical eye, for things spiritual can only be seen with the spiritual eye. This vision had an important significance. He saw it at a time when his condition was one of utmost helplessness, and he was shown that a great future lay before him. His opponents, as usual, disbelieved in such visions, and laughed at him.

a (60-2) As the Holy Prophet's vision signified his future triumph and gave an indication of the greatness to which Islam would rise, the statement made elsewhere that the tree of zaqqūm was the food of sinners (44:43-44) contained a prophecy of the discomfiture of the enemies of Islam, telling them that a deadly food was in store for them. The reason why the vision and the statement about the cursed tree are conjoined is that the triumph of Islam and the discomfiture of the enemy went hand in hand.

c (64-1) The devil is here compared with a coward who comes with great show but little real force, and who, if shown the least resistance, retreats at every step. Every inviter who invites people to the disobedience of Allah is such a devil.

d (64-2) The forces of the devil are no other than the evildoers, those going quickly into evil being likened to horsemen and those who walk slowly in their evil course being likened to infantry.

e (64-3) The sharing of the devil in wealth signifies everything spent or acquired unlawfully and sharing in children is in reference to committing fornication.

over them.^a And your Lord is sufficient as having charge of affairs.

66 Your Lord is He Who speeds the ships for you in the sea that you may seek of His grace. Surely He is ever Merciful to you. ⁶⁷And when distress afflicts you in the sea, away go those whom you call on except He; but when He brings you safe to the land, you turn away. And man is ever ungrateful.^b ⁶⁸Do you then feel secure that He will not bring you low on a tract of land, or send on you a violent wind? ^c Then you will not find a protector for yourselves; ⁶⁹or, do you feel secure that He will not take you back into it another time, then send on you a fierce gale and thus overwhelm you for your ungratefulness? Then you will not find any aider against Us in the matter. ⁷⁰And surely We have honoured the children of Adam, and We carry them in the land and the sea, and We provide them with good things, and We have made them to excel highly most of those whom We have created.

Section 8: Opposition to the Prophet

71 On the day when We shall call every people with their leader:^d then whoever is given his book in his right hand, these will read their book; and they will not be dealt with unjustly in the least.^e ⁷²And whoever is blind in this (world) he will be blind a (65) My servants may include all human beings. The devil will say to the sinners: I had no authority over you (14:22).

b (67) A true picture is drawn here of human nature, which turns to Allah in affliction but forgets Him in ease.

c (68) It was by a violent wind that the combined forces of all the enemies of Islam were brought low in the battle of the Allies, when, besieging Madinah in the year 5 A.H., they had to flee in disorder.

d (71-1) The meaning is that the righteous will follow the righteous leaders and the wicked will follow their wicked leaders. The word imām, or leader, here is interpreted in several other ways, meaning scripture, prophet, law, book of deeds. The last of these significances also suits the context, as the books of deeds are spoken of in the words that follow.

e (71-2) This book is the one mentioned in v. 14, i.e., the effect of one's deeds, which will be brought before everyone in a palpable form on the day in the Hereafter, and further away from the path.^a

73 And surely they had purposed to turn you away from what We have revealed to you,^b that you should forge against Us (some revelation) other than that, and then they would have taken you for a friend. ⁷⁴And if We had not made you firm, you might have indeed inclined to them a little; ⁷⁵then We would have made you taste a double (punishment) in life and a double (punishment) after death, and then you would not have found any helper against Us. ⁷⁶And surely they purposed to unsettle you from the land that they might expel you from it, and then they will not remain after you but a little while.^c ⁷⁷(This is Our) way with Our messengers whom We sent before you, and you will not find a change in Our course.^d

Section 9: Truth will prevail

78 Keep up prayer from the declining of the sun till the darkness of the night, and the recital of the Quran at dawn. Surely of Resurrection. The book of deeds is given in the right hand to those who hold the Book of God in their right hands here, i.e., act upon it. As against them are those spoken of in the next verse; they remain blind to the Book of God, so they will be blind in the Hereafter.

a (72) Those who remain blind to truth in this life remain blind in the life after death, which shows that it is here that a hellish life begins with spiritual blindness, and that the hell of the next life is also a blindness. This is corroborated by what is said in 57:12, that the faithful will have a light on that day.

b (73) This refers to an incident at Makkah when the chief men of the Quraish offered to give the Prophet wealth or to make him their king, if he gave up speaking against their idols and their evil ways. The Prophet's reply was that he wanted neither of these things, but that it was for their welfare that he asked them to give up evil ways.

c (76) When the opponents failed to make the Prophet swerve from the path of Truth, they planned to expel him from the land, though they were told beforehand that in that case they themselves would not retain power but for a short time. It was only eight years after the Hijrah that the Prophet entered Makkah as a conqueror.

d (77) This law is also stated in 14:13–14.

the recital of the Quran at dawn is witnessed.^a 79 And during a part of the night, keep awake by it,^b beyond what is incumbent on you; maybe your Lord will raise you to a position of great glory.^c 80 And say: My Lord, make me enter a truthful entering, and make me go forth a truthful exit, and grant me from Your presence an authority to help (me).^d 81 And say: The Truth has come and falsehood vanished. Surely falsehood is ever bound to vanish.^e a (78) After describing how the opponents wanted to bring the Prophet's mission to failure by various means, the Prophet is told to resort to prayer as a solution of the great difficulties he faced. From the declining of the sun to sunset are zuhr and 'asr, or the early and late afternoon prayers, while from sunset till darkness are maghrib and 'ishā', or the sunset prayer and the prayer at nightfall. The fifth is the morning prayer, which is called here Qur'ān al-fajr, or the recital of the Quran at dawn. Thus this verse, which is one of the very early revelations, mentions all the five prayers.

b (79-1) This refers to the tahajjud prayer, whose name is derived from the words "keep awake" (fa-tahajjad). The time for this prayer is the latter portion of the night in the early hours. It is not an obligatory prayer but, as stated here, it is the means of raising a man to a position of great glory. The time at which it is said is most suited for the concentration of mind and for communion with God.

c (79-2) The man whom the opponents had planned to expel from their city as a helpless man was to be raised to a position of eminent dignity through prayer to God, the tahajjud prayer in the night in particular. As time passes on, the Prophet is ever rising to positions of greater and greater glory. But while the verse speaks in particular of the Prophet and of the great glory to which he was destined to rise, it gives a promise in general as well that whoever is sincere in calling upon God, especially at night, is raised to a position of glory.

d (80) The reference here is a prophecy of the Prophet's Flight, entering Madinah and going forth from Makkah. But the words are also general, man being taught here to pray that his entering into any affair and his exit may be marked by truthfulness, and that he may be granted Divine help in all his undertakings.

e (81) The advent of the Prophet is here spoken of as the advent of the Truth, in reference to the prophecy in John 16:13: "However, when he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will guide you into all truth; for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak; and he will tell you things to come." The vanishing of falsehood is here spoken of in the past tense to indicate the certainty of its occurrence. Falsehood finally disappeared from Makkah when the Prophet entered it as a conqueror, and as the House of the Holy One was cleared of the idols, the Prophet recited this verse, The Truth has come and falsehood vanished (Bukhari, 46:32), thus showing that he understood it to contain the 82 And the Quran that We reveal is a healing and a mercy to the believers, and it only increases the wrongdoers in loss.^a 83And when We bestow favours on man, he turns away and behaves proudly; and when evil afflicts him, he is in despair. 84Say: Everyone acts according to his manner. But your Lord best knows who is best guided on the path.^b

Section 10: The Quran — a Unique Guidance

85 And they ask you about the revelation.^c Say: The revelation is by the commandment of my Lord, and you are not given knowledge but a little. 86And if We please, We could certainly take away what We have revealed to you, then you would find none to plead (your cause) against Us — 87But it is a mercy from your Lord. Surely His bounty to you is abundant.

88 Say: If people and jinn should combine together to bring the like of this Quran, they could not bring the like of it, though they helped one another.^d 89And certainly We have made clear for prophecy of the conquest of Makkah. The statement made here, however, is general and it means that falsehood cannot stand before Truth and that Truth must finally prevail in the whole world.

a (82) The Quran is here called a healing and a mercy for spiritual diseases, and history bears testimony that spiritual diseases were all swept away by the Quran. But, it is added, it is a healing for the believers who follow it, and not for those who reject it, and its rejection brings only greater loss.

b (84) Both the believer and the disbeliever act according to the rules of conduct which they have set before themselves. Who is on the right path is made clear by the consequences which appear later but which are always known to God.

c (85) The word rūḥ means inspiration or revelation as well as spirit. Here, before this verse as well as after it, the Quran is the only topic of discussion, and therefore the context shows clearly that the question of the disbelievers is not about the soul of man, but about the Quran itself.

d (88) See 2:23 and 11:13 footnote. Out of the four places in which the disbelievers are challenged to produce the like of the Quran, this is the only one where the jinn and the people are spoken of together; in 2:23 the shuhadā', meaning helpers, leaders or their great men, take the place of the jinn, while 10:38 and 11:13 refer to calling upon "whom you can besides Allah." This shows that the word jinn is used in the Quran for the leaders of evil.

people in this Quran every kind of description,^a but most people consent only to denying. ⁹⁰And they say: We will by no means believe in you, till you cause a spring to gush forth from the earth for us,^b ⁹¹or you have a garden of palms and grapes in the midst of which you cause rivers to flow forth abundantly, ⁹²or you cause the heaven to come down upon us in pieces, as you think, or bring Allah and the angels face to face (with us), ⁹³or you have a house of gold, or you ascend into heaven. And we will not believe in your ascending till you bring down to us a book we can read. Say: Glory be to my Lord! Am I anything but a mortal messenger?^c

Section 11: Justice of Retribution

94 And nothing prevents people from believing, when the guidance comes to them, except that they say: Has Allah raised up a mortal to be a messenger? ⁹⁵Say: If there had been in the earth angels walking about secure, We would have sent down to them from the heaven an angel as messenger. ⁹⁶Say: Allah is sufficient for a witness between me and you. Surely He is ever Aware of His servants, Seer (of them).

97 And he whom Allah guides, he is on the right way; and he whom He leaves in error, for them you will find no guardians besides Him. And We shall gather them together on the day of Resurrection on their faces, blind and dumb and deaf. Their abode is hell. Whenever it abates, We make them burn the more.

a (89) It is here affirmed that all that contributes to the moral and spiritual welfare of man is made distinct in the Quran.

b (90) The signs demanded in this and the following three verses relate to the promises made for the righteous and the threats of punishment for the wicked, and they were no doubt fulfilled in due time. But the disbelievers wanted to see the spiritual blessings of communion with God in a physical shape. The believers were granted gardens with rivers running in them even in this life, and punishment from heaven overtook the opponents, but this was to come about gradually.

c (93) The answer to all the demands of the disbelievers is that the Prophet was only a mortal messenger, and the prophecies regarding his own great future or the discomfiture of his enemies would be brought to fulfilment gradually, as in the case of messengers before him.

⁹⁸This is their retribution because they disbelieve in Our messages and say: When we are bones and decayed particles, shall we then be raised up into a new creation? ⁹⁹Do they not see that Allah, Who created the heavens and the earth, is Able to create the like of them? And He has appointed for them a term, of which there is no doubt. But the wrongdoers consent only to denying. ¹⁰⁰Say: If you control the treasures of the mercy of my Lord, then you would withhold (them) for fear of spending. And man is ever miserly.

Section 12: Comparison with Moses

101 And certainly We gave Moses nine clear signs; so ask the Children of Israel. When he came to them, Pharaoh said to him: Surely I think you, Moses, to be one bewitched. ¹⁰²He said: Truly you know that none but the Lord of the heavens and the earth has sent these as clear proofs; and surely I believe you, Pharaoh, to be lost. ¹⁰³So he desired to scare them from the land, but We drowned him and those with him, all together; ¹⁰⁴and We said to the Children of Israel after him: Abide in the land. But when the latter promise came, We brought you all rolled up.^a

105 And with truth have We revealed it, and with truth did it come. And We have not sent you but as a giver of good news and as a warner. ¹⁰⁶And it is a Quran We have made distinct, so that you may read it to the people by slow degrees, and We have revealed it in portions.

107 Say: Believe in it or do not believe. Surely those who are given the knowledge before it, fall down prostrate on their faces, when it is recited to them, ¹⁰⁸and they say: Glory be to our Lord! Surely the promise of our Lord was to be fulfilled.^b ¹⁰⁹And they fall a (104) The latter promise here relates to the promise given to Moses for the raising up of another prophet like him. This is corroborated by what is said in the next verse about the revelation of the Quran, which came with truth, i.e., in fulfilment of a true promise. By the rolling up of the Israelites is meant that they would make way for another people, who would inherit the kingdom of God.

b (108) The promise spoken of here is no doubt the promise given to the former prophets regarding the advent of the Holy Prophet; and by knowledge in the previous verse is also meant knowledge of the prophecies.

down on their faces, weeping, and it adds to their humility. ¹¹⁰Say: Call on Allah or call on the Beneficent.^a By whatever (name) you call on Him, He has the best names. And do not be loud in your prayer nor be silent in it, and seek a way between these.^b ¹¹¹And say: Praise be to Allah! Who has not taken to Himself a son, and Who does not have a partner in the kingdom, and Who does not have a helper because of weakness; and proclaim His greatness, magnifying (Him).

a (110-1) The name Raḥmān (Beneficent) seems to have been particularly objectionable to the Arabs, who objected to its use even so late as the truce at Hudaibiyah. The Christians also do not recognize Allah to be Raḥmān, because it means that Allah shows mercy to His creatures without their having done anything to deserve it, while the Christian doctrine of atonement is based on the belief that Allah cannot show mercy to His creatures without receiving some satisfaction.

b (110-2) The two extremes with regard to prayer are its utterance in a very loud voice or not uttering any word at all with the tongue, thinking that God knows what is in the hearts. Muslims are told to take the middle course between the two extremes. Utterance of words makes the prayer go deeper down into the heart of man, and thus makes it more effective.

Al-Kahf

The Cave

This chapter deals with both the early state of Christianity, when it was under persecution and practised renunciation of the world, and prophetically with its latter-day condition when Christian nations have acquired unsurpassed material dominance in the world. It is called The Cave because early Christians sought refuge in such places from persecution and practised monkery in solitude. In the first as well as the last section the doctrine of the Divine sonship of Jesus is denounced (v. 4, v. 102) and the purely material engrossment of these nations is prophesied to lead to material and spiritual failure (v. 7–8, v. 103–104). In between, the chapter treats the following subjects: a story from early Christianity of the dwellers of the cave, containing prophetic allusions to its later history, rejection of the truth by those who possess wealth and power, the guilty being brought to judgment, a story of Moses' search for knowledge and finding a man of God superior to him in knowledge, indicating the coming of Islam, and a story of King Darius I and his efforts to repel the two tribes of Gog and Magog, which again contains a prophetic allusion to the rise and dominance of modern Western nations. This chapter was revealed in the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: A Warning to the Christians

1 Praise be to Allah! Who revealed the Book to His servant, and did not allow in it any crookedness, ²rightly directing, ^a to give warning of severe punishment from Him and to give good news to the believers who do good that theirs is a goodly reward, ³staying in it forever; ⁴and to warn those who say: Allah has taken to Himself a son. ⁵They have no knowledge of it, nor had their fathers. Grievous is the word that comes out of their mouths. They speak a (2) The Quran is here described as possessing two qualifications. The first refers to its own perfection, there is no crookedness in it; and the second speaks of it as a book suited to make others perfect, for it is called qayyim, as meaning one that rightly directs others.

nothing but a lie. ^a 6Then perhaps you will kill yourself with grief, sorrowing after them, if they do not believe in this announcement. ^b

7 Surely We have made whatever is on the earth an embellishment for it, so that We may try which of them is best in works. ⁸And We shall surely make what is on it dust, without vegetation. ^c a (5) The Holy Prophet is reported to have said: He who remembers the first ten verses of the chapter entitled The Cave is protected from the tribulation of Dajjāl (the Antichrist) (Sahih Muslim, 6:42). In another report the last ten verses of The Cave instead of the first ten are mentioned (Abu Dawud, 36:12). Now in the first and the last sections of this chapter the Christian doctrine of the divinity of Jesus is condemned. In the first section a warning is given to those who say Allah has taken to Himself a son (v. 4), in the last two to those who take My servants to be friends besides Me (v. 102), and this doctrine, the doctrine of sonship and of the divinity of a servant of God, is the basic doctrine of the Christian religion. Moreover, in the concluding ten verses, a true description of the occupation of Christian nations is given in the words whose effort goes astray in this world's life (v. 104). The Holy Prophet's saying quoted above plainly shows that the Dajjāl of the Hadith is the same as the upholders of the erroneous Christian doctrine of the sonship and divinity of Jesus Christ. Christianity, in its present form, being opposed to the true teachings of Christ, is thus the only Antichrist known to the Quran.

b (6) The anxiety which the Holy Prophet felt on account of a fallen humanity was so great that he is spoken of here as almost killing himself with grief. His was a life of absolute devotion to the cause of humanity, his only concern being that man should rise to the true dignity for which God had made him. This anxiety was not only for those who were directly addressed by him, but, as the context shows, it was as deep for another people, who attributed a son to the Divine Being, and whom outward finery was to mislead to such an extent as to make them strangers to spiritual truth. Reading the next verse leaves no doubt that the Prophet was shown the earthly embellishments which are so great a trial for Christendom today. The word announcement here refers to the Quran.

c (8) The picture drawn here is of the beautiful cities of the modern age, with all their attractions and luxuries, which so engross people that they neither pay attention to the preaching of truth nor to the pursuit of righteousness. The earth will be first beautified to its utmost, we are told here, and then laid waste, by man's own hands, lofty buildings being reduced to dust and beautiful gardens being turned into bare earth without any vegetation on it. All prophecies made known through the righteous servants of God, the prophets of the Old Testament and Jesus Christ, and then through the Quran and the Hadith, point to world-wide conflicts in the latter days, of nation rising against nation, and of destruction of ⁹Or, do you think that the companions of the Cave and the Inscription were from among Our wonderful signs?^a ¹⁰When the youths sought refuge in the Cave, they said: Our Lord, grant us mercy from Yourself, and provide for us a right course in our affair. ¹¹So We prevented them from hearing in the Cave for a number of years,^b ¹²then We raised them up that We might know which cities on a vast scale. Science first embellished the earth and science is now turning it into a waste, by its atom bombs and other diabolic inventions.

a (9) The Cave stands for the Christian institution of monkery, this being the distinctive characteristic which it assumed soon after its birth. Raḳīm means an inscription or a tablet with a writing upon it. The Inscription contains a prophetic reference to an aspect of the Christian religion quite opposed to its first aspect of growth in the Cave. Inscription (or Advertisement) is, in fact, as prominent a feature of the business activities of the Christian nations of today as the Cave was a feature of their religious activities in the early days. The Quran seems to have chosen the epithets to designate the Christian nations by indicating their most prominent characteristics in their early and their latter days.

The account from here to v. 22 is generally identified with the memorable story of the “seven sleepers”, Christian youths who took refuge in a cave to escape the persecution of the Roman Emperor Decius around the year 250 C.E. According to the story, the Emperor ordered the entrance to the cave to be blocked with stones. It is stated that the youths fell asleep as soon as they were shut up in the cave, and awoke 187 years after this in the reign of Theodosius (some state 375 years), when the stones were removed to supply building material for some edifice. They then sent one of their number to bring food for them from the city, but he was taken to the judge on presenting a coin of the reign of Decius, and thus the youths were discovered. The story as narrated in the Quran does not credit the unnatural incidents of the above account. It only speaks of some men having taken refuge in a dark cave on account of a religious persecution; where and when it does not state. After they had rested for a part of a day, they made arrangements to get their food from outside (v. 19), and remained in this condition for “a number of years” (v. 11), but were subsequently discovered, and an edifice being built at the mouth of the cave caused their death (v. 21). It mentions conjectures as to their number and the number of years they remained in the cave (v. 22), but does not go beyond saying that there were some men who remained in the cave for some years.

However, the story itself is not without a deeper meaning, and more statements than one show that there is a reference to the history of Christianity itself in the story.

b (11) The meaning is that these people remained cut off from the rest of the world for a number of years. The Quran does not support the story that they remained in the cave for hundreds of years or that they were asleep all this time.

of the two parties was best able to calculate the time for which they remained.^a

Section 2: The Dwellers in the Cave

13 We relate to you their story with truth. Surely they were youths who believed in their Lord and We increased them in guidance. ¹⁴And We strengthened their hearts when they stood up and said: Our Lord is the Lord of the heavens and the earth; we call upon no god beside Him, for then indeed we should utter an enormity.^b

15 These our people have taken gods beside Him. Why do they not bring clear authority for them? Who is then more unjust than he who forges a lie against Allah? ¹⁶And when you withdraw from them and what they worship except Allah, take refuge in the Cave; your Lord will spread forth for you some of His mercy, and provide for you a profitable course in your affair.

17 And you might see the sun, when it rose, decline from their Cave to the right, and when it set leave them behind on the left, while they were in a wide space of it.^c This is from among the signs of Allah. He whom Allah guides, he is on the right way; and whom He leaves in error, you will not find for him a friend to guide aright.

18 And you might think them awake while they were asleep, and We turned them about to the right and to the left, with their

a (12) The raising them up might signify raising them up from sleep, as also raising them up into a condition of activity, after their remaining cut off from the world, as stated in the previous verse.

b (14) This is to show that the early followers of Christianity were Unitarians — believers in one God only.

c (17) This describes the position of the cave, which was so situated that it did not admit sunshine. This could easily happen in a cave with its mouth to the north, situated in the northern hemisphere and above the tropic of cancer. With reference to the history of Christianity it may indicate its coming to Europe.

dog outstretching its paws at the entrance. If you looked at them, you would turn back from them in flight, and you would be filled with awe because of them.^a 19 And thus did We rouse them that they might question each other. A speaker from among them said: How long have you stayed? They said: We have stayed for a day or a part of a day. (Others) said: Your Lord knows best how long you have stayed.^b Now send one of you with this silver (coin) of yours to the city, then let him see what food is purest, and bring you provision from it, and let him behave with gentleness, and not make your case known to anyone.^c ²⁰For if they prevail against you, they would stone you to death or force you back to their religion, and then you would never succeed.

a (18) What is related in this section is clearly applicable to the story of the seven sleepers, as also to the later history of Christianity. In the first case, the meaning is that the youths, who fled for fear of persecution and betook themselves to a cave, slept for some time with a dog at the door of the cave. The whole scene was rather awe-inspiring: a dark cave, in some distant and uninhabited part of the country, with some men sleeping in it and a dog at the door. Applied to the history of Christianity the statement is equally true. In this case it should be borne in mind that ruqūd (“asleep”) also means inactive or stagnant. Similarly aiqāz (“awake”) means vigilant or wary. The turning about to the right and to the left, which signifies an uneasy condition while sleeping, may be used as expressing the activities of a man or a nation. Thus there may be a reference here to the lethargy in which the Christian nations remained for a long time, and to their subsequent going about in the world in all directions. It may also be noted that Europeans are generally fond of dogs.

b (19-1) This may refer either to the time for which the youths slept or to the centuries of inactivity of the Christian nations. A day of a thousand years is spoken of in the Quran (see 22:47, etc.), and therefore the word day, applied to the history of a nation, may signify a thousand years.

c (19-2) After having been refreshed with sleep, which might have been brought on by the fatigue of the journey, they thought of procuring food for themselves in that solitary cave and sent one of them to the city, and impressed on him that he should be gentle and should not give an inkling of their whereabouts to anyone. In reference to the history of Christianity, this speaks of the commercial activities of the Christian nations (i.e. in Asia and Africa, by means of which their rule was established. The words “and not make your case known to anyone” apply to their hidden intentions of gaining rule under the pretext of trade. — Editor)

21 And thus did We make (people) to get knowledge of them,^a that they might know that Allah's promise is true and that the Hour — there is no doubt about it.^b When they disputed among themselves about their affair and said: Erect an edifice over them.^c Their Lord knows best about them. Those who prevailed in their affair said: We shall certainly build a place of worship over them.^d ²²(Some) say: (They were) three, the fourth of them their dog; and (others) say: Five, the sixth of them their dog, making conjectures about the unseen. And (others) say: Seven, and the eighth of them their dog. Say: My Lord best knows their number — none knows them but a few. So do not contend in their matter but with a clear argument, and do not question any of them concerning them.^e a (21-1) It was their going out to purchase food that brought them to the knowledge of the outside world. It is not stated how long they continued in this state. Comparing this with v. 11, however, we may say that they passed several years in this condition.

b (21-2) The result of their becoming known is described in words which show that they were put to death, because the promise of Allah as to a future state of life is fully realized only after death.

c (21-3) These words show that their death was brought about by closing the mouth of the cave. This is what is meant by the erection of an edifice over them. The words may also signify the erection of a monument.

d (21-4) The people spoken of here are those who prevailed in their affair. This is a later incident, when Christianity became the dominant religion of the Roman Empire, and the reference here seems to be to the saint-worship which was prevalent in Christianity.

e (22) This verse and v. 25 show that these are only conjectures of the people with regard to them. Their number and the number of years during which they remained in the cave are both matters which are said to be only known to Allah. Ibn Abbas is, however, of the opinion that the words condemning the first two as conjectures show that the last-mentioned number, i.e., seven, is correct. (Editor's Note: In his Urdu commentary, Maulana Muhammad Ali has applied this number to the number of Western powers, whose number varies depending on whether they are counted individually or in groups according to their treaty alliances.)

According to Ibn Jarir's commentary the people referred to in the concluding words, any of them, are the people of the Book, or the Christians. It is clear from this that it is really the history of Christianity that is dealt with in the story of the Companions of the Cave. V. 25, which again speaks of the same people who are spoken of here, makes it clear that it is the history of Christianity that is really aimed at.

25 And they remained in their cave three hundred years, and they add nine.^c ²⁶Say: Allah knows best how long they remained. His is the unseen of the heavens and the earth. How clear His sight and His hearing! There is no guardian for them beside Him, and He takes none as partner in His judgment.

a (24-1) Though the words are general, there seems to be a special prophetic reference to the Prophet's Flight and his taking refuge in a cave. He had entirely to trust in Allah, Who was to bring it about as He thought best for him.

b (24-2) The meaning is that the difficulties which had to be experienced by the dwellers in the cave would be removed from the Prophet's way. He had to pass only three days in the cave, and though a powerful enemy exerted itself to its utmost, his hiding-place at only a distance of three miles from the city, whither food was conveyed to him, could not be discovered. Or, in the nearer course there is a reference to the unprecedented triumph of Islam, which spread over the whole of Arabia within twenty-three years, and spread from Spain in the west to China in the east within a century, whereas Christianity remained in a state of subjection in its birth-place for three hundred years, as stated in the verse that follows.

c (25) The history of Christianity, which runs like an undercurrent in the story of the Companions of the Cave, finds a clear expression now. There is no tradition that the Companions of the Cave remained in the Cave for three hundred years, but Christianity itself remained in a Cave for full three hundred years. It is a fact that Christianity rose to power with the conversion of Constantine, and at the same time it lost its purity with the formulation of the doctrine of the Trinity, which was promulgated in 325 C.E. It is, moreover, now almost agreed that Jesus Christ was born in 6-5 B.C. So if he began his ministry at the age of thirty, the Christian religion may be said to have been born at about 25 C.E., and thus exactly after three hundred years it lost its purity by the promulgation of the Trinitarian doctrine, emerging at the same time as a State religion. Thus it remained in the Cave for three hundred years. As to adding nine years, to convert solar years to lunar years three years have to be added to every hundred years, and to the three centuries another nine years are thus added.

your Lord. There is none who can alter His words.^a And you will find no refuge beside Him. ²⁸And keep yourself with those who call on their Lord morning and evening desiring His goodwill, and let not your eyes pass from them, desiring the beauties of this world's life. And do not follow him whose heart We have made unmindful of Our remembrance, and he follows his low desires and his case exceeds due bounds. ²⁹And say: The Truth is from your Lord; so whoever wishes, let him believe, and whoever wishes, let him disbelieve. Surely We have prepared for the wrongdoers a Fire, an enclosure of which will encompass them. And if they cry for water, they are given water like molten brass, scalding their faces.^b Evil the drink! And ill the resting-place! ³⁰As for those who believe and do good, We do not waste the reward of him who does a good work. ³¹These it is for whom are Gardens of perpetuity in which rivers flow; they are adorned therein with bracelets of gold, and they wear green robes of fine silk and thick brocade, reclining therein on raised couches.^c Excellent the recompense! And goodly the resting-place!

Section 5: A Parable

32 And set forth to them the parable of two men — for one of them We made two gardens of grape-vines, and We surrounded a (27) By “words” are meant here prophecies, because it is the prophecy of the Prophet’s Flight and his final triumph over his enemies that is referred to here. These prophecies, it is claimed, cannot be altered by people, and they must come to pass, however great the opposing forces.

b (29) They refused the water of spiritual life in this life, and so they will have no water to quench their thirst in the life after death.

c (31) It is after these things that people hanker in this life, but the ornaments and robes of this life are transitory. The righteous, who in this life desire and struggle for only spiritual ornaments and moral beauty, find these visible in the after-life. However, these prophecies were in one sense brought to fulfilment in this very life also. The Arabs, whose only wealth consisted of their camels and horses, and whose clothes were made of skins or cloth of rough textures, found the treasures of Rome and Persia laid at their feet, and the bracelets of gold and the silk brocade interwoven with gold, which they had never seen before, were now brought to them in abundance, while the gardens of Mesopotamia and Persia were given to them for a permanent heritage.

them with date-palms, and between them We made corn-fields.^a ³³Both these gardens yielded their fruits, and did not fail in this at all, and We caused a river to gush forth in their midst, ³⁴and he had fruit. So he said to his companion, while arguing with him: I have more wealth than you, and am greater in followers. ³⁵And he went into his garden, while he was unjust to himself. He said: I do not think that this will ever perish, ³⁶and I do not think the Hour will come;^b and even if I am returned to my Lord, I will certainly find a better place of return than this.

³⁷His companion said to him, while arguing with him: Do you disbelieve in Him Who created you of dust, then of a small life-germ, then He made you a perfect man? ³⁸But as for me, He, Allah, is my Lord, and I set up none as partner with my Lord. ³⁹And why did you not say, when you entered your garden: It is as Allah has pleased — there is no power except in Allah? If you consider me as less than you in wealth and children — ⁴⁰then maybe my Lord will give me better than your garden, and will send on (yours) a reckoning from heaven so that it is dust without plant, ⁴¹or its water will sink down into the ground, so that you are unable to find it. ⁴²And his fruit was destroyed; so he began to wring his hands for what he had spent on it, as it lay waste, its roofs fallen down,^c and he said: Ah me! I wish I had not set up any partner with my Lord! ⁴³And he had no forces to help him against Allah, nor could he defend himself. ⁴⁴Thus protection is only Allah's, the True One. He is best to (give) reward and best for (determining) the final end.

a (32) The parable set forth here is undoubtedly to illustrate the condition of the Christian and the Muslim nations. The former received an abundance of the wealth of this life, as is indicated by the gardens of the parable, while the latter, though poorer in worldly possessions, were richer in the heavenly blessings of Allah. The former reject the message of Truth, of which the latter are the bearers, and their vaunt is the same as that of the wealthy man in the parable: I have more wealth than you, and am greater in followers (v. 34).

b (36) By the "Hour" is meant the hour of doom which must overtake every people who reject the Truth.

c (42) Here we have an exact description of the havoc that is being wrought in the world before our eyes by modern wars.

Section 6: The Guilty are brought to Judgment

45 And set forth to them the likeness of the life of this world as water which We send down from the cloud, so the vegetation of the earth becomes luxuriant by it, then it becomes dry, broken into pieces which the winds scatter. And Allah is the Holder of power over all things. 46Wealth and children are an adornment of the life of this world; but the ever-abiding, the good works, are better with your Lord in reward and better in hope. 47And the day when We cause the mountains to pass away, and you see the earth a levelled plain and We gather them together and leave none of them behind.^a 48And they are brought before your Lord in ranks. Now certainly you have come to Us as We created you at first. But you thought that We had not made an appointment for you. 49And the book is placed, and you see the guilty fearing for what is in it, and they say: O woe to us! What a book is this! It leaves out neither a small thing nor a great one, but numbers them (all), and they find what they did confronting them. And your Lord does not wrong anyone.^b

Section 7: Their Helplessness

50 And when We said to the angels: Be submissive to Adam, they submitted, but not Iblīs. He was from among the jinn, so he transgressed the commandment of his Lord.^c Will you then take him and his offspring for friends rather than Me, and they are your enemies? Evil is the exchange for the unjust. 51I did not make them witness the creation of the heavens and the earth, nor their own creation. Nor could I take those who mislead for aiders.

a (47) Making the earth a levelled plain indicates the removal of all those mighty obstacles which stood in the way of the advancement of Truth, and these are the mountains which are made to pass away; see 20:105–107.

b (49) This comprehensive book is the same as is spoken of in 17:13–14. There is not the slightest action, good or bad, which does not leave its effect behind.

c (50) Iblīs is one of the jinn or the evil spirits, so it is an error to take him for an angel or a good spirit. The spirit of evil is always rebellious, and it is against this that man is warned, so that he should resist every evil tendency.

⁵²And one day He will say: Call on those whom you considered to be My partners. So they will call on them, but they will not answer them, and We shall cause a separation between them. ⁵³And the guilty will see the Fire, and know that they are about to fall into it, and they will find no escape from it.

Section 8: Warning is disregarded

54 And certainly We have made distinct in this Quran for mankind every kind of description; and man is in most things contentious. ⁵⁵And nothing prevents people from believing when the guidance comes to them, and from asking forgiveness of their Lord, but that (they wait) for the way of the ancients to catch up with them, or that the punishment should confront them. ⁵⁶And We do not send messengers but as givers of good news and warning, and those who disbelieve contend by means of falsehood to weaken thereby the Truth, and they take My messages and the warning for a mockery. ⁵⁷And who is more unjust than he who is reminded of the messages of his Lord, then he turns away from them and forgets what his hands have already done? Surely We have placed veils over their hearts, so they do not understand it, and a deafness in their ears.^a And if you call them to the guidance, they will even then never follow the right course.

58 And your Lord is Forgiving, full of mercy. If He were to punish them for what they earn, He would certainly hasten the punishment for them. But for them there is an appointed time from which they will find no refuge. ⁵⁹And these towns — We destroyed them when they did wrong. And We have appointed a time for their destruction.^b a (57) It is when man becomes so iniquitous as to turn away from the truth and so callous as not to care for the evil that he does that a veil is placed over his heart.

b (59) The personal pronoun their refers to the opponents of Truth, earlier as well as later.

Section 9: Moses travels in Search of Knowledge

60 And when Moses said to his servant:^a I will not cease until I reach the junction of the two rivers, or I will go on for years.^b ⁶¹So when they reached the junction of the two (rivers), they forgot their fish, and it took its way into the river, being free. ⁶²But when they had gone further, he said to his servant: Bring us our morning meal, we have certainly found this journey of ours tiring. ⁶³He (the servant) said: Did you see when we took refuge on the rock, I forgot the fish, and none but the devil made me forget to speak of it, and it took its way into the river; what a wonder!^c ⁶⁴He said: This is what we sought for. So they returned retracing their footsteps.

a (60-1) Some reports give his name as Joshua, the son of Nun, the man who afterwards appears so prominently in the history of Israel.

The incidents narrated in verses 60–82 may be the actual experience of Moses or this journey may simply be an Ascension of Moses, like the Ascension (Mi'raj) of the Holy Prophet, referred to in the last chapter. What is stated in the next section makes the latter view more probable.

b (60-2) Moses lived in Egypt for forty years, and the junction of the two rivers (Majma' al-Bahrain) is no other than the junction of the two great branches of the Nile at Khartoum. Rabbinical and Hellenistic literature agree that Moses went to Ethiopia. Hence a journey to Khartoum, which was near the southern boundary of Ethiopia, made in search of knowledge, is most probable. Some commentators, however, do not take these words literally, taking the meaning to be the union of the rivers of human and Divine knowledge. I would, however, suggest that if we accept this journey in the light of an Ascension, it would be an indication of the limitation of the Mosaic dispensation. Moses' going on for years until he reached the "the junction of the two rivers" would mean that the Mosaic dispensation would see its termination after a time, being replaced by one which was to be guided by a prophet who is the union of the two seas of human and Divine knowledge, or one in whom the temporal and the spiritual would find their highest manifestation, this being the Holy Prophet Muhammad.

c (63) The loss of the fish was, according to a report, to serve as a sign that the goal had been attained (Bukhari, 3:44). There is nothing either in the Quran or in the Hadith to show that this was a roasted fish. Taking refuge on the rock shows that they were staying at a place which was flooded by the river, and Moses' companion, when hastening for refuge, forgot to take the fish along with him. The wonder is not expressed at the fish having gone down into the river, but because he had forgotten to mention the loss to Moses.

65 Then they found one of Our servants whom We had granted mercy from Us and whom We had taught knowledge from Ourselves.^a 66Moses said to him: May I follow you that you may teach me some of the good you have been taught? 67He said: You will not be able to have patience with me. 68And how can you have patience in matters in which you do not have a comprehensive knowledge? 69He said: If Allah please, you will find me patient, nor shall I disobey you in anything. 70He said: If you would follow me, do not question me about anything until I myself speak to you about it.

71 So they set out, until, when they embarked in a boat, he made a hole in it. (Moses) said: Have you made a hole in it to drown its occupants? You have surely done a terrible thing. 72He said: Did I not say that you will not be able to have patience with me? 73He said: Do not blame me for what I forgot, and do not be hard upon me for what I did.

74 So they went on, until, when they met a boy, he killed him. (Moses) said: Have you killed an innocent person, not guilty of killing another? You have indeed done a horrible thing. 75He said: Did I not say to you that you will not be able to have patience with me? 76He said: If I ask you about anything after this, do not keep company with me. You will then indeed have found an excuse in my case.

77 So they went on, until, when they came to the people of a town, they asked its people for food, but they refused to entertain them as guests. Then they found in it a wall which was on the point of falling, so he put it into a right state. (Moses) said: If you had wished, you could have taken a recompense for it. 78He said: This is the parting between me and you. Now I will inform you of the significance of that about which you could not have patience.

79 As for the boat, it belonged to poor people working on the river, and I intended to damage it, for there was behind them a king who seized every boat by force. ⁸⁰And as for the boy, his parents were believers and we feared that he might involve them in wrongdoing and disbelief.^a ⁸¹So we intended that their Lord might give them in his place one better in purity and nearer to mercy. ⁸²And as for the wall, it belonged to two orphan boys in the city, and there was beneath it a treasure belonging to them, and their father had been a righteous man. So your Lord intended that they should attain their maturity and take out their treasure — a mercy from your Lord — and I did not do it of my own accord. This is the significance of that about which you could not have patience.^b a (80) That the youth himself deserved death is abundantly clear. His inordinacy had now reached an extreme when it was feared that his innocent parents would be involved in the trouble which must befall him as a result of his wrongdoing. The circumstances were known to Khaḍir, though not to Moses.

b (82) The interpretation of the three incidents shows a manifestation of Divine wisdom in what takes place in the everyday life of man. Divine laws, as manifested in nature, are really working towards ultimate good, though sometimes they may appear to the outward eye to be working to the detriment of somebody. The beneficent hand of Allah that works in nature is always directing humanity to the goal of great good, though that goal must necessarily be reached with apparent loss. Sometimes the loss is only apparent, as in the case of making a hole in the boat; there was no real loss, but the apparent loss served a great purpose and brought much benefit to the owner. The second instance is that in which there is real loss to a person, but it is for the good of humanity at large, for life must be sacrificed for the ultimate good of humanity. The third instance shows that, for the good of humanity, deeds must be done which bring no immediate reward, and that good done by one generation is not devoid of benefit to the next.

Moses himself had, in fact, to undergo the experience of his teacher, and the incidents seem no more than prophetic allegories of Moses' own life-work. Moses had to lead his people to a place where they thought they had only been brought to be drowned; but their safe passage through the sea showed that it was for their good. Then he had to order his men to fight against an iniquitous people and to put them to death, but he was not shedding human blood to no purpose, for it was really a step towards the evolution of a better race. And finally, his devoting his own life to the Israelites, descendants of a righteous man, corresponded to his teacher's building the wall for the orphans without claiming recompense. Read in this light, the narration is clearly an Ascension of Moses, foreshadowing the great events which were to befall him.

Section 11: Dhu-l-qarnain and Gog and Magog

83 And they ask you about Dhu-l-qarnain.^a Say: I will recite to you an account of him. 84Truly We established him (with power) in the land and granted him means of access to everything; 85so he followed a course. 86Until, when he reached the setting-place of the sun,^b he found it going down into a black sea,^c and found by it a people. We said: O Dhu-l-qarnain, either punish them or do them a benefit. 87He said: As for him who is unjust, we shall punish him, then he will be returned to his Lord, and He will punish him with an exemplary punishment. 88And as for him who a (83) Dhu-l-qarnain literally means the two-horned one, or one belonging to two generations or two centuries. The reference here seems to be to the two-horned ram of Daniel's vision (Daniel, 8:3), which he interpreted as the Kingdoms of Media and Persia, which were combined into a single kingdom under one ruler, Cyrus, who is erroneously called Darius in the Bible (Encyclopedia Biblica and Jewish Encyclopedia, Art. 'Darius'). The reference in Daniel's vision is, however, not to Cyrus but to Darius I Hystaspes (521-485 B.C.), "who allowed the Jews to rebuild their temple... His liberality towards the Jews is in complete accord with what we know otherwise of his general policy in religious matters towards the subject nations" (Enc. Biblica, 'Darius').

The reference in the Quran in the history of Dhu-l-qarnain is to Darius I: "Darius was the organizer of the Persian Empire. His conquests served to round off the boundaries of his realm in Armenia, the Caucasus, and India, and along the Turanian steppes and the highlands of Central Asia" (Jewish Enc., 'Darius I'). The following remarks in the Encyclopaedia Britannica strengthen this view: "Darius in his inscriptions appears as a fervent believer in the true religion of Zoroaster. But he was also a great statesman and organizer. The time of conquests had come to an end; the wars which Darius undertook, like those of Augustus, only served the purpose of gaining strong natural frontiers for the empire and keeping down the barbarous tribes on its borders. Thus Darius subjugated the wild nations of the Pontic and Armenian mountains, and extended the Persian dominion to the Caucasus; for the same reason he fought against the Sacae and other Turanian tribes". The references to Darius being a fervent believer in the true religion of Zoroaster, to his subduing the barbarous tribes on the borders, to his gaining strong natural frontiers for the empire, and to his fighting against the Sacae clearly point him out as the Dhu-l-qarnain of the Quran.

c (86-2) The place referred to is no other than the Black Sea, as, Armenia being within the Kingdom of Persia, the Black Sea formed the northwestern boundary of the empire.

believes and does good, for him is a good reward, and We shall speak to him an easy word of Our command.^a

89 Then he followed a course. ⁹⁰Until, when he reached (the land of) the rising sun, he found it rising on a people to whom We had given no shelter from it^b — ⁹¹so it was. And We had full knowledge of what he had.

92 Then he followed a course. ⁹³Until, when he reached (a place) between the two mountains, he found on that side of them a people who could hardly understand a word.^c ⁹⁴They said: Dhu-l-qarnain, Gog and Magog do mischief in the land. May we then pay you tribute on condition that you raise a barrier between us and them?^d ⁹⁵He said: The power with which my Lord has

b (90) Darius goes first westward to the Black Sea (v. 85–86). Then he undertakes an eastward journey — the land of the rising sun. The description of the people found here, a people who had no shelter from the sun, is a description of the barbarous aboriginal tribes on the shores of the Caspian.

c (93) The three journeys alluded to seem to have been undertaken with the object of strengthening the frontiers of the empire, the most important of these being that spoken of here, the part of the frontier between the Caspian and the Black Seas, where the Caucasus afforded a natural protection against the attacks of the Scythians. The two mountains are the mountains of Armenia and Azarbaijan. The people settling there spoke a different language and could not understand the Iranian language.

d (94) In the Bible, Ezekiel 38:2 contains the words: “Son of man, set your face against Gog, of the land of Magog, the prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal, and prophesy against him”. North of the Caucasus we find two rivers bearing the names of Tobol and Moskva, on the latter of which is situated the ancient city of Moscow, and on the former the more recent town of Tobolsk. It seems almost certain that these two rivers received their names from the two tribes of Ezekiel 38:2, the Tubal and Meshech, and then gave their names to the two above-mentioned cities. This view is in accordance with the opinion of ancient writers like Josephus, who settle the Magog north of the Caucasus. Thus the name Magog stands for tribes which occupied territories to the north and north-east of the Black Sea, tribes which gave their names directly or indirectly to the towns of Tobolsk and Moscow.

Another point worth considering is the presence of the gigantic effigies of Gog and Magog in Guildhall, London, which can be traced to a very early period established me is better, so if only you help me with strength (of men), I will make a fortified barrier between you and them: ⁹⁶Bring me blocks of iron.^a At length, when he had filled up the space between the two mountain sides, he said, Blow. Till, when he had made it (as) fire, he said: Bring me molten brass to pour over it.

97 So they were not able to scale it, nor could they make a hole in it. ⁹⁸He said: This is a mercy from my Lord, but when the promise of my Lord comes to pass He will crumble it, and the promise of my Lord is ever true.^b ⁹⁹And on that day We shall let in English history. This makes it probable that the Angles or the Saxons had in very ancient times some connection with the Scythians or other tribes living north of the Caucasus or the Black Sea. It may be deduced from this that the ancestors of the present Teutonic and Slav races, the main nations of eastern and western Europe respectively, are the Gog and Magog spoken of in the Quran, both these races originating from the same land.

The next statement, that the tribes found by Darius between Azerbaijan and the Armenian mountains were constantly harassed by their northern neighbours, the Scythians, is also borne out by history. "About 512 Darius undertook a war against the Scythians ... The purpose of this war can only have been to attack the nomadic Turanian tribes in the rear, and thus to secure peace on the northern frontier of the empire" (Encyclopaedia Britannica, Art. 'Darius').

The barrier referred to in this and the following verses is the famous wall at Derbent, on the western shore of the Caspian, which had iron gates and numerous watch-towers for defence. Its name, Alexander's wall, is a misnomer due to the mistake made by Muslim historians in supposing Dhu-l-qarnain to be Alexander.

b (98) From the historical narration of the past, the subject is now changed to the future. Gog and Magog are described as two nations, and after describing the history of these nations, whose depredations on peaceful nations were brought to an end by Darius, we are now told that Gog and Magog will again be let loose in the latter days. In fact, this is clearly foretold in another chapter of the same period: "when Gog and Magog are let loose and they sally forth from every elevated place" (21:96). The crumbling of the wall which withheld Gog and Magog for a time is thus explained by the Quran itself as the letting loose of Gog and Magog. Just as the building of the wall indicated the confinement of Gog and Magog to their own territorial bounds, the crumbling of the wall means that they will at some future time be let loose and will then dominate the whole world. This domination is spoken of in the Hadith in various ways. According to one hadith, "No one will have the power to fight against them" (Sahih Muslim, 52:20).

some of them surge against others and the trumpet will be blown, then We shall gather them all together,^a 100 and We shall bring forth hell, exposed to view, on that day before the disbelievers,^b 101 whose eyes were under a cover from My Reminder, and they could not bear to hear.^c

According to another, “they will drink the water of the whole world” (Kanaz al-Ummāl, vol. 7, p. 2157). As shown earlier, the ancestors of Gog and Magog are the Slav and Teutonic races, and in the world-domination of Gog and Magog is thus clearly hinted the domination of the European nations over the whole world, and the prophecy has thus found fulfilment in our days.

a (99) A mighty conflict of nations is clearly spoken of here, and the words no doubt refer to some catastrophe like that which is predicted in the Gospels in the words: “For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of sorrows” (Matthew, 24:7–8).

The Quran makes it clear that the reference in nation rising against nation is to the great European conflicts of modern times. Gog and Magog, or the European nations, having subdued the whole world, could not agree on the division of the spoils, and they are rushing at one another’s throats, and the whole world being subject to them, their struggle has assumed the form of a world conflict. But if the first part of the verse speaks of the destruction due to these wars, the second part raises a great hope. A mighty Revolution will come about. That is what is meant by the blowing of the trumpet. The revolution would unite them; it would drive them to one common faith. Material benefits having turned man into the enemy of man, a spiritual awakening will, we are told, be brought about which will change the world entirely. Instead of cutting one another’s throats people will learn to love one another, and they will all be but one nation. There is a broad enough hint here at the nation of Islam, for there is but one faith, the faith of Islam, which has been able to weld diverse people into one whole. The day of peace for this world will dawn with the dawning of the idea on the mind of man that there is only a single nation, the human nation, that lives on this earth: “Mankind is a single nation” (2:213).

b (100) These words complete the picture of the great conflict spoken of in the previous verse. It describes the severity of the conflict, which will reduce the world to a veritable hell. There was hell raging on this earth in World War 2. What a World War 3 may bring, no one can say.

c (101) The reason is given in these words why these disasters will be brought on man: These are people whose eyes are under a cover from My Reminder. In fact, they are so estranged from God that they cannot even bear to hear His Reminder. So thoroughly have lust and greed engrossed the civilized world!

Section 12: Christian Nations

102 Do those who disbelieve think that they can take My servants to be protectors besides Me?^a Surely We have prepared hell as an entertainment for the disbelievers. ¹⁰³Say: Shall We inform you who are the greatest losers in respect of deeds? ¹⁰⁴Those whose effort is lost in this world's life, and they think that they are making good manufactures.^b ¹⁰⁵Those are they who disbelieve in the messages of their Lord and meeting with Him, so their deeds are fruitless. Nor shall We set up a balance for them on the day of Resurrection.^c ¹⁰⁶That is their reward — hell, because they disbelieved and held My messages and My messengers in mockery.

107 As for those who believe and do good deeds, for them are Gardens of Paradise, an entertainment, ¹⁰⁸to abide therein; they will not desire removal from there. ¹⁰⁹Say: If the sea were ink for the words of my Lord, the sea would surely be exhausted before the words of my Lord were exhausted, even if We brought as much again to add (to it).^d ¹¹⁰Say: I am only a mortal like you — a (102) The Christians are meant here, because theirs is the most prominent example of having taken a servant of Allah, a prophet, for God. In fact, Jesus Christ is the only person whom the Quran recognizes as a righteous servant of God and who has been taken for God by a large part of the world.

b (104) This is a clear description of the present attitude of the civilized nations to their moral and spiritual needs — their effort is entirely wasted in this world's life, and they cannot give a moment's consideration to the life after death. The portrait of the material civilization, to which Christianity has led, as drawn in this section, attains to its most vivid clearness in these words. Manufacture is the one speciality and pride of the West. But they are so engrossed in the contest of manufactures that they have no thought of God left in their minds.

c (105) Their deeds are fruitless because what they do relates to the vanities of life. They have no vision for the higher values of life, for the ultimate end, which is here spoken of as the meeting with the Lord. Hence we are told that no balance will be set up for them on the day of Resurrection, because all their deeds relate to this life, and end where this life ends.

d (109) In these words there is a refutation of the Christian doctrine that "the word was with God", or that "the word was God" (John 1:1). The words of God are so numerous, we are here told, that the sea would be exhausted, if it were to it is revealed to me that your God is one God. So whoever hopes to meet his Lord, he should do good deeds, and make no one a partner (with God) in the service of his Lord.

serve as ink for writing them. In fact, everything created is a word of God according to the Quran, and things created know no end.

Chapter 19

Mary

The name of this chapter is taken from the story of Mary, mother of Jesus. It begins with an account of the birth of John and of Jesus, the last representatives of prophecy in the house of Israel, and then refutes the doctrine of the Divine sonship of Jesus. It then mentions the missions of some earlier prophets, showing that only human beings are raised to reform the world. At the end the doctrine that Jesus is the son of God is again denounced. This chapter was revealed in the early period at Makkah, about or before the fifth year of the Holy Prophet's mission.

Section 1: Zacharias and John

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Sufficient, Guide, Blessed, Knowing, Truthful God.^a

²A mention of the mercy of your Lord to His servant Zacharias —
³when he called upon his Lord, crying in secret. ⁴He said: My Lord, my bones are weakened, and my head flares with whiteness (of hair), and I have never been unsuccessful in my prayer to You, my Lord. ⁵And I fear my kinsfolk after me, and my wife is barren, so grant me from Yourself an heir ⁶who should inherit me and inherit from the Children of Jacob, and make him, my Lord, acceptable (to You).^b

7 O Zacharias, We give you good news of a boy, whose name is John: We have not made before anyone his equal.^c ⁸He said:

a (1) The original Arabic consists of the letters kāf, hā, yā, 'ain and ṣād. These stand for the words Kāf-in (Sufficient), Hād-in (Guide), Yamīn (Blessed), Alīm (Knowing), and Ṣādiq (Truthful).

b (6) His fear was due to their not leading righteous lives, and he feared there would be none to lead people into the ways of righteousness after him. The inheritance of the Children of Jacob is the inheritance of the Divine blessing of prophethood, which had been promised to Jacob's children.

c (7) It is not, of course, meant that one like John or equal to him was never

My Lord, how shall I have a son, and my wife is barren, and I have reached extreme old age? ⁹He said: So (it will be). Your Lord says: It is easy to Me, and indeed I created you before, when you were nothing. ¹⁰He said: My Lord, give me a sign. He said: Your sign is that you do not speak to people three nights, being in sound health.^a ¹¹So he went forth to his people from the sanctuary and proclaimed to them: Glorify (Allah) morning and evening.

12 O John, take hold of the Book with strength. And We granted him wisdom when a child, ¹³and kind-heartedness from Us and purity. And he was dutiful, ¹⁴and kindly to his parents, and he was not insolent, disobedient.^b ¹⁵And peace on him the day he was born and the day he died, and the day he is raised to life!

Section 2: Mary and Jesus

16 And mention Mary in the Book. When she drew aside from her family to an eastern place; ¹⁷so she screened herself from them. Then We sent to her Our spirit and it appeared to her as a well-made man.^c ¹⁸She said: I seek refuge from you in the Beneficent, before created in the world. According to the Gospels: “among those born of women there has not risen one greater than John the Baptist” (Matthew, 11:11). The meaning is that one like him was not born in Zacharias’ family, because in the previous verse it is his own relatives about whom Zacharias says that he feared, and therefore an assurance was now given to him that the promised son would not be like the other members of his family regarding whom he feared. Or the meaning may be that one like him had not appeared in that age.

a (10) In 3:41 the words are three days, thus showing that three days and three nights are meant. The Quran does not support the idea that Zacharias was struck dumb, because it speaks of him as being in sound health. The object of assuming silence was to be engaged solely in prayer to the Divine Being, and hence Zacharias told his people also to glorify God.

b (14) The various aspects of the character of John deserve to be noted. He was pure and sinless and never disobeyed God. In fact, what is said of one prophet is equally true of all. They are all pure from birth, and never disobey God.

c (17) It was in a vision that the spirit came, and the conversation that follows also took place in a vision. The word tamath thala | (“it appeared”) lends support to this, for it signifies assuming the likeness of another thing, and this happens only in a vision. Further, the spirit or angel of God appears to His chosen ones only in a vision.

if you are one guarding against evil. ¹⁹He said: I am only bearer of a message of your Lord: That I will give you a pure boy.^a ²⁰She said: How can I have a son and man has not yet touched me, nor have I been unchaste? ²¹He said: So (it will be). Your Lord says: It is easy to Me; and that We may make him a sign to people and a mercy from Us.^b And it is a matter decreed.^c

22 Then she conceived him, and withdrew with him to a remote place. ²³And the pains of childbirth drove her to the trunk of a palm-tree.^d She said: Oh, I wish I had died before this, and had been a thing quite forgotten!^e ²⁴So a voice came to her from beneath her: Do not grieve, surely your Lord has provided a stream beneath you. ²⁵And shake towards you the trunk of the palm-tree, it will drop on you fresh ripe dates.^f ²⁶So eat and drink a (19) The words I will give you a pure boy are the words of the message. The Spirit only conveyed the Divine message. Every word of the Quran is the word of God, but every word was delivered to the Holy Prophet by the angel.

b (21-1) Jesus was a sign to people, in the sense that he was made a prophet, and every prophet is a sign, because the Divine revelation granted to him affords a clear proof of the existence of the Divine Being. Or, he was a sign to the Israelites in particular, because with him prophethood came to an end among the Israelites.

c (21-2) She conceived him in the ordinary way in which women conceive children.

d (23-1) This shows that Mary gave birth to Jesus while on a journey; hence the reference to water and food in v. 24 and 25, such as one can only find in a journey. That she was going to a distant place is shown by v. 22. She may have had recourse to the trunk of a palm-tree to find a support in the throes of childbirth.

e (23-2) Mary gave birth to Jesus under the ordinary circumstances which women experience in giving birth to children. The throes of childbirth were too severe for her to bear, and hence she gave utterance to such words. The reference to the pains of childbirth clearly shows that an ordinary human child was coming into the world. Or, there may be a reference to Genesis 3:16, In pain you shall bring forth children.

f (25) The Quran does not accept that Jesus was born on 25th December. It was the time when fresh ripe dates are found on palm-trees. It is now a recognized fact that 25th December was not Jesus' birthday. According to the birth account in Luke 2:8, shepherds were keeping watch over their flocks by night in the fields, which shows that it was not winter. The 25th of December was taken from the birthday of the Persian sun-god Mithra.

and be comforted. Then if you see any mortal, say: Surely I have vowed a fast to the Beneficent, so I will not speak to anyone today.^a

27 Then she came to her people with him, carrying him.^b
 They said: Mary, you have indeed brought a strange thing!^c
 28 Sister of Aaron,^d your father was not a wicked man, nor was your mother an unchaste woman! 29 But she pointed to him. They said: How should we speak to one who is a child in the cradle?^e 30 He said: I am indeed a servant of Allah. He has given me the a (26) It was really a kind of fast. Zacharias, as we have already seen, was told not to speak to people for three days.

b (27-1) The conversation in v. 27–33 is alone sufficient to make it clear that this incident relates to a time when Jesus had grown up sufficiently to have been appointed a prophet and to have received Divine revelation. The Quran does not relate stories in all their details, and often omits a number of incidents which are not needed for its purpose. For instance, v. 7–11 relate only Zacharias' receiving the joyful news of a son, while v. 12 asks that son to take hold of the Book with strength. Jesus could only say that he was made a prophet when he was actually entrusted with the mission of a prophet, and not before. Moreover, it is unreasonable to suppose that, as soon as Mary gave birth to the child, she took it to her people to make a show of it. The word carrying does not show that she was carrying him in her arms; it means that he was being carried on an animal. Compare 9:92, where some of the companions are spoken of as coming to the Prophet that he might carry them, and he is related as replying that he did not have that on which to carry them, i.e. animals. Compare Matthew 21:1–7 where the story is related of Jesus entering Jerusalem riding an ass, or an ass and a colt.

c (27-2) The reference in Mary's bringing a strange thing may be to her having given birth to a son who claimed greater authority than the elders of Israel, with a deeper hint to the calumny against her, for which see 4:156. In his reply Jesus does not make a single reference to the circumstances of his birth. Hence the inference is quite reasonable that the question was directed against the mission of Jesus and not against the circumstances of his birth.

d (28) The fact that Mary was devoted to the Temple from the age of three to twelve years shows that she belonged to the priestly class, being of the Levitical race. Hence she is called sister of Aaron. The word ukht, meaning sister, is by no means limited to the close blood-relationship.

e (29) Old and learned Jews would no doubt speak of a young man who was born and brought up before their eyes as a child in the cradle, as if disdaining to address one so young.

Book and made me a prophet, ³¹and He has made me blessed wherever I may be, and He has enjoined on me prayer and the due charity so long as I live,^a ³²and to be kind to my mother; and He has not made me insolent, unblessed.^b ³³And peace on me the day I was born, and the day I die, and the day I am raised to life.

34 Such is Jesus son of Mary — a statement of truth about which they dispute. ³⁵It does not befit Allah that He should take to Himself a son. Glory be to Him! When He decrees a matter He only says to it, Be, and it is. ³⁶And surely Allah is my Lord and your Lord, so serve Him. This is the right path.^c ³⁷But factions from among them differed; so woe to those who disbelieve, because of their presence on a grievous day! ³⁸How clearly will they hear and see on the day when they come to Us; but the wrongdoers are today in manifest error. ³⁹And warn them of the day of Regret,^d when the matter is decided. And they are (now) in negligence and they do not believe. ⁴⁰Surely We inherit the earth and those on it, and to Us they are returned.

a (31) It is clear that this conversation did not take place when Jesus was an infant in the cradle, but when he had actually been made a prophet. It is absurd to suppose that prayers and charity were enjoined on Jesus while he was only a day old and that he really observed these injunctions at that age. Jesus' answer clearly shows that he was addressing his people after he had been entrusted with the mission of prophethood.

b (32) Here only the mother is spoken of, whereas in a similar case in v. 14 John is spoken of as being kind to both parents. This may be due to the fact that Joseph may not have been living at the time when Jesus spoke these words. Joseph was already an old man when he married Mary, and by the time that the ministry of Jesus begins we find no mention of him even in the Gospels, the mother and brothers being the only relations mentioned. Or, the mother alone is mentioned because the Gospels relate an incident showing that Jesus was rude to his mother (Matthew, 12:48; John, 2:4), and this verse disproves the statement, it being one of the objects of the Quran to clear Jesus of all false charges.

c (36) According to Matthew, when Jesus was tempted of the devil, who asked him to worship him, Jesus' reply was: "For it is written, You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him only you shall serve" (Matthew, 4:10).

d (39) The day of Judgment is here called the day of Regret, because man will then regret that he wasted the opportunity given to him to work for his own good.

Section 3: Abraham

41 And mention Abraham in the Book. Surely he was a truthful man, a prophet. 42When he said to his sire: My sire, why do you worship something which does not hear, nor see, nor can it avail you at all? 43My sire, to me indeed has come the knowledge which has not come to you; so follow me, I will guide you on a right path. 44My sire, do not serve the devil. Surely the devil is disobedient to the Beneficent. 45My sire, surely I fear that a punishment from the Beneficent may afflict you, so that you become a friend of the devil.

46 He said: Do you dislike my gods, Abraham? If you do not stop, I will certainly drive you away. And leave me for a time. 47He said: Peace be on you! I shall pray my Lord to forgive you. Surely He is ever Kind to me. 48And I withdraw from you and what you call on besides Allah, and I call upon my Lord. Maybe I shall not remain unblessed in calling upon my Lord.

49 So when he withdrew from them and what they worshipped besides Allah, We gave him Isaac and Jacob. And each (of them) We made a prophet.^a 50And We gave them of Our mercy, and We granted them a truthful mention of eminence.^b

Section 4: Other Prophets are raised

51 And mention Moses in the Book. Surely he was one purified, and was a messenger, a prophet.^c 52And We called to him a (49) It is elsewhere made clear that Jacob was his grandson (11:71, 21:72). Nor should it be supposed that giving signifies only the giving of a son, for of Moses it is said in v. 53, We gave him his brother Aaron, a prophet, though Aaron was older than Moses.

b (50) However humble a life a prophet may lead, he is granted an eminence among later generations, and the record of eminence of a prophet is a truthful one.

c (51) Rasūl, or messenger, means one who is sent with a message for the regeneration of people, while nabī, or prophet, is one who has the gift of prophecy, i.e., who receives a naba' or information from on high. The elect who are chosen for the regeneration of man are called prophets as receiving knowledge from Allah, and messengers as delivering to humanity the messages they receive.

from the blessed side of the mountain, and We made him draw near to Us in communion. ⁵³And We gave him out of Our mercy his brother Aaron, a prophet. ⁵⁴And mention Ishmael in the Book. Surely he was truthful in promise, and he was a messenger, a prophet.^a ⁵⁵And he enjoined on his people prayer and charity, and was one in whom his Lord was well pleased. ⁵⁶And mention Idrīs in the Book. Surely he was a truthful man, a prophet, ⁵⁷and We raised him to an elevated state.^b 58 These are they on whom Allah bestowed favours, from among the prophets, of the offspring of Adam, and of those whom We carried with Noah, and of the offspring of Abraham and Israel, and of those whom We guided and chose. When the messages of the Beneficent were recited to them, they fell down in submission, weeping. ⁵⁹But after them came an evil generation, who wasted prayers and followed lusts, so they will meet with ruin, ⁶⁰except those who repent and believe and do good — such will enter the Garden, and they will not be wronged in the least: ⁶¹Gardens of perpetuity which the Beneficent has promised to His servants, in the Unseen. Surely His promise ever comes to pass. ⁶²They will hear therein no vain discourse, but only, Peace!^c And they have their sustenance therein, morning and evening. ⁶³This is the Garden which We cause those of Our servants to inherit who keep their duty.

a (54) When Abraham prayed to the Lord “that Ishmael might live before You”, the reply was: “And as for Ishmael, I have heard you” (Genesis, 17:18, 20), which shows that Ishmael was made a prophet. See also 2:124–125, footnotes.

b (57) Idrīs is the same as Enoch of the Bible. The word rafʿ, which is used of Jesus, is also used of Enoch, and some commentators therefore misinterpret it as indicating that Enoch was taken up to heaven alive. But the same mistake is made in both cases, for rafʿ signifies raising to high dignity; see 3:55 footnote 2. The mistake seems to have arisen from what is said of Enoch in the Bible: “And Enoch walked with God, and he was not, for God took him” (Genesis, 5:24).

c (62) This description of the Hereafter shows that the Muslim in this world talks of nothing but peace. Islam is really peace, and it is by making peace here with the Creator and His creatures that one can find peace hereafter. This is the great truth underlying the Islamic idea of paradise. The state of perfect peace spoken of here is called the Garden in v. 63 which the righteous will inherit.

64 And we do not descend but by the command of your Lord. To Him belongs what is before us and what is behind us and what is between these, and your Lord is never forgetful.^a 65 Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, so serve Him and be patient in His service. Do you know anyone equal to Him?

Section 5: How the Opponents were dealt with 66 And says man: When I am dead, shall I truly be brought forth alive? 67 Does not man remember that We created him before, when he was nothing? 68 So by your Lord! We shall certainly gather them together and the devils,^b then shall We bring them around hell on their knees. 69 Then We shall draw forth from every group those most rebellious against the Beneficent. 70 Again, We certainly know best those who deserve most to be burned in it. 71 And there is not one of you but shall come to it.^c This is an unavoidable decree of your Lord.

72 And We shall deliver those who guard against evil,^d and leave the wrongdoers in it on their knees. 73 And when Our clear messages are recited to them, those who disbelieve say to those who believe: Which of the two groups is better in position and better assembled?^e 74 And how many a generation have We

a (64) As the angels brought revelation to previous prophets (indicated in the words we do not descend), so they now bring revelation, by the command of the Lord, to the Holy Prophet Muhammad. The words, your Lord is never forgetful, signify that the promises and prophecies made by God through His prophets could not be forgotten. Thus, after an account of the previous prophets, the subject moves to the revelation of the Holy Prophet for the remainder of the chapter.

b (68) The devils here are clearly those humans who lead others to evil.

c (71) The wicked only are spoken of, as the context shows clearly. That the righteous will not go to hell is made clear further on: "The day when We gather the dutiful to the Beneficent to receive honours, and drive the guilty to hell, as thirsty beasts" (v. 85–86). According to 21:102, the righteous will not hear the faintest sound of hell.

d (72) The word thumma, the first word of this verse, frequently means and, besides its meaning of then. It is wrong to suppose that the righteous will be first cast into hell and then delivered.

e (73) That is, they are proud of their great wealth and numerous forces.

destroyed before them, who had better possessions and appearance! ⁷⁵Say: As for him who is in error, the Beneficent will prolong his length of days; until they see what they were threatened with, either the punishment or the Hour.^a Then they will know who is worse in position and weaker in forces.^b ⁷⁶And Allah increases in guidance those who go aright. And the ever-abiding, the good works, are better with your Lord in reward and yield better return.

⁷⁷ Have you seen him who disbelieves in Our messages and says: I shall certainly be given wealth and children?^c ⁷⁸Has he gained knowledge of the unseen, or received a promise from the Beneficent? ⁷⁹By no means! We write down what he says, and We shall lengthen to him the length of the punishment, ⁸⁰and We shall inherit from him what he says, and he will come to Us alone.^d ⁸¹And they have taken gods besides Allah, that they should be to them a source of strength — ⁸²By no means! They will soon deny their worshipping them, and be their adversaries.

Section 6: False Doctrine of Sonship

⁸³ Do you not see that We send the devils against the disbelievers, inciting them provokingly? ⁸⁴So make no haste against them. We only number out to them a number (of days). ⁸⁵The day when We gather the dutiful to the Beneficent to receive honours, ⁸⁶and drive the guilty to hell, as thirsty beasts. ⁸⁷They have no power of intercession, except him who has made a covenant with the Beneficent.

a (75-1) The Hour signifies the hour of doom, when their power will be utterly destroyed. In comparison with this is the lighter “punishment”.

b (75-2) In these words it is clearly indicated that the time will come when they will find themselves in an evil condition, and their forces weaker than the forces of Truth.

c (77) They have no eye for the higher values of life; all they want is wealth and children or followers.

d (80) The reference is to his saying in v. 77: “I shall certainly be given wealth and children”. God’s inheriting thus means that their wealth and children will be taken away from them and ultimately be a source of strength to Islam.

88 And they say: The Beneficent has taken to Himself a son.
⁸⁹Certainly you make a detestable assertion! ⁹⁰The heavens may almost be torn apart at it, and the earth split, and the mountains crumble down in pieces, ⁹¹that they ascribe a son to the Beneficent!
⁹²And it is not worthy of the Beneficent that He should take to Himself a son.^a ⁹³There is none in the heavens and the earth but comes to the Beneficent as a servant. ⁹⁴Certainly He comprehends them, and has numbered them all. ⁹⁵And everyone of them will come to Him on the day of Resurrection, alone.

96 Those who believe and do good deeds, for them the Beneficent will surely bring about love.^b ⁹⁷So We have made it easy in your tongue, only that you should give good news by it to those who guard against evil, and should warn by it a contentious people. ⁹⁸And how many a generation before them have We destroyed! Can you see anyone of them or hear a sound of them?

a (92) Verses 89–93 contain a most emphatic and clear condemnation of the Christian doctrine of the Godhead of Jesus Christ. As this chapter belongs to about the fifth year of the Holy Prophet’s mission, it shows that Islam had set before itself from the very first the grand object of the reformation of Christianity. The particular point on which stress is laid in this chapter, as against the fundamental errors of the Christian religion, Sonship and Atonement, is that God is Raḥmān (Beneficent), and does not require any compensation to forgive sinners. It is for this reason that the name Raḥmān, in preference to all other names of the Divine Being, is mentioned over and over again in this chapter, and the key to the whole position is contained in v. 92 in the words: It is not worthy of the Beneficent that He should take to Himself a son. In fact, the doctrine of Atonement is contradicted by Christ’s own words in the Lord’s prayer: “And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors” (Matthew, 6:12). A man is said to forgive his debtor when he remits the debt and does not exact any compensation. Even thus does God forgive sinners; He needs no compensation.

b (96) Allah’s bringing about love for the righteous means that He loves them Himself and inspires love for them in the hearts of other people, while they also love Allah as well as their fellow-beings. The righteous servants of God are opposed at first, but gradually their goodness prevails and they are loved and admired. There is a prophetic reference here to the great love with which the hearts of the enemies of the Prophet were to be inspired in the near future, and even today the hearts of people are being inspired with greater and greater love for him as the world witnesses the good which he did to humanity.

Ṭā Hā

The initial letters of this chapter serve as its title. Beginning by declaring that the Quran was revealed to be triumphant in the world, it deals at length with the story of Moses, showing how he was ultimately successful. It follows this by a description of the opposition to the Prophet Muhammad and the consequences of that opposition. This chapter was revealed in the early period at Makkah, about or before the fifth year of the Holy Prophet's mission.

Section 1: Moses is called

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O man,^a 2We have not revealed the Quran to you that you may be unsuccessful;^b 3but it is a reminder to him who fears: 4a revelation from Him Who created the earth and the high heavens.^c 5The Beneficent is established on the Throne of Power. 6To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth and whatever is between them and whatever is beneath the soil. 7And if you utter the saying aloud, surely He knows the secret (that you hide), and what is yet more hidden.^d 8Allah — there is no God but He. His are the most beautiful names.

a (1) Ṭā hā, a combination of the two letters ṭā and hā, is, according to various early commentators, a word meaning O man. It is also considered to be a name of the Holy Prophet.

b (2) That is, it could not be that the Prophet, to whom the Quran was revealed, should remain unsuccessful in bringing about the transformation for which it was revealed. It is a consolation, and a clear prophecy, that a mighty transformation will be brought about, not only in Arabia but in the whole world, for that was the object which the Quran had set out to accomplish from the first.

c (4) The Quran cannot be a failure, because it is a manifestation of the will of Him Who holds sway over all.

d (7) The secret is what a man hides in his heart, and what is yet more hidden is what is in the subconscious mind. Both are known alike to Allah.

9 And has the story of Moses come to you? 10When he saw a fire, he said to his family: Wait, I see a fire; maybe I will bring to you a live coal from it or find guidance at the fire.^a 11So when he came to it, a voice came: O Moses, 12surely I am your Lord, so take off your shoes; surely you are in the sacred valley Tuwā.^b 13And I have chosen you so listen to what is revealed: 14Surely I am Allah, there is no God but I, so serve Me, and keep up prayer for My remembrance. 15Surely the Hour is coming — I am about to make it manifest^c — so that every soul may be rewarded as it strives. 16So do not let him who does not believe in it, and follows his low desire, turn you away from it, so that you perish.

17 And what is this in your right hand, O Moses? 18He said: This is my staff — I lean on it, and I beat leaves with it for my sheep, and I have other uses for it. 19He said: Throw it down, O Moses. 20So he threw it down, and lo! it was a snake, gliding.^d a (10) As the verses that follow show, Moses received a Divine revelation on this occasion, and his seeing the fire was also a part of the revelation; it was with the spiritual eye that he saw it. The Quran has stated elsewhere that revelation is received only in three ways (42:51), and in each of these the recipient is really given particular senses with which to feel and see things.

b (12) The command to take off the shoes is a metaphorical expression for making the heart vacant from care for family and property. According to some, it is a command to stay (as if to say, make yourself at home).

c (15) Ikhfā' is one of the words which convey contrary significances, concealing or removing that which conceals a thing. But that here it does not mean concealing is made clear by the context. It is the coming of the Hour and the meting out of rewards and punishments that the verse deals with, which is clearly removing the veil or making the hour manifest. Note that the Hour does not necessarily signify the Resurrection; on the other hand, it very often indicates the doom of a people, the hour of the departure of their glory and power.

d (20) All this was experienced by Moses in that particular state in which the recipient of a revelation finds himself at the time of the revelation; see 7:108 footnote. What was shown to Moses on this occasion had a deeper significance; see v. 23, where the object of showing these signs is stated to be that We may show you of Our greater signs. Thus the two signs mentioned here were really indications of something greater. The word 'aṣā (staff) stands metaphorically for a community. Hence the sight of his staff becoming a gliding serpent was shown to him as an indication that his community, i.e., the Israelites, who had been reduced to a state of slavery under Pharaoh, would soon become a living nation.

²¹He said: Take hold of it and do not fear. We shall return it to its former state. ²²And press your hand to your side, it will come out white without harm — another sign:^a ²³that We may show you of Our greater signs. ²⁴Go to Pharaoh, surely he has exceeded the limits.

Section 2: Moses and Aaron go to Pharaoh

25 He said: My Lord, expand my breast for me (with knowledge), ²⁶and ease my task for me, ²⁷and loosen the knot from my tongue, ^b ²⁸(that) they may understand my word. ²⁹And give to me a helper from my family, ³⁰Aaron, my brother; ³¹add to my strength by him, ³²and make him share my task — ³³so that we may glorify You much, ³⁴and much remember You. ³⁵Surely, You are ever seeing us.

36 He said: You are indeed granted your petition, O Moses. ³⁷And indeed We bestowed on you a favour at another time, ³⁸when We revealed to your mother what was revealed: ³⁹Put him into a chest, then put it into the river, the river will cast it upon the shore — there an enemy to Me and an enemy to him shall take him up. And I shed on you love from Me; and that you may be brought up before My eyes.^c ⁴⁰When your sister went and said: Shall I direct you to one who will take charge of him? So We brought you back to your mother that she might be comforted and she should not grieve. And you killed a man, then We delivered you from grief, and tried you with (many) trials. Then you stayed for years among the people of Midian. Then you came here as a (22) Bearing in mind what has been said above, this has also a deeper meaning. A white hand signifies an argument made very clear. The deeper significance in this case was that his arguments would prevail.

b (27) By a man who has a knot in his tongue is meant a man unable to speak freely.

c (39) Moses was born at a time when Pharaoh had commanded all male children born to the Israelites to be thrown into the Nile. Moses' mother kept him concealed for three months, and at last, unable to hide him any longer, cast him upon the river in an ark of bulrushes, whence he was picked up by Pharaoh's daughter (Exodus, 2:1–10).

ordained, O Moses. ⁴¹And I have chosen you for Myself.

42 Go you and your brother with My messages and do not be remiss in remembering Me. ⁴³Go both of you to Pharaoh, surely he is inordinate; ⁴⁴then speak to him a gentle word, perhaps he may be mindful or fear. ⁴⁵They said: Our Lord, we fear that he may hasten to do us harm or be inordinate. ⁴⁶He said: Do not fear, surely I am with you — I do hear and see. ⁴⁷So go to him and say: Surely we are two messengers of your Lord,^a so send forth the Children of Israel with us, and do not torment them. Indeed we have brought you a message from your Lord, and peace be on him who follows the guidance. ⁴⁸It has indeed been revealed to us that punishment will overtake him who rejects and turns away.^b

49 (Pharaoh) said: Who is your Lord, Moses? ⁵⁰He said: Our Lord is He Who gives to everything its creation, then guides (it).^c ⁵¹He said: What then is the state of the former generations? ⁵²He said: The knowledge of that is with my Lord in a book; my Lord neither makes error nor forgets — ⁵³Who made the earth for you an expanse and made for you paths in it and sent down water from the clouds. Then with that We bring forth pairs of various herbs. ⁵⁴Eat and pasture your cattle. Surely there are signs in this for those who have understanding.

Section 3: Moses and the Enchanters

55 From it We created you, and into it We shall return you, and from it raise you a second time. ⁵⁶And truly We showed him a (47) Both Moses and Aaron were messengers (sing. rasūl) of God.

b (48) This contains a clear warning to Pharaoh of his end in case of rejection. Moses and Aaron were directed to convey this message. The whole account of their actual going to Pharaoh and the delivery of this message is omitted here, and the next verse gives us Pharaoh's reply to their demand.

c (50) This verse contains an argument for the necessity of Divine revelation. It says that, as Allah has created everything, and then given it the qualities and means by which it can attain to perfection — for this is the true significance of hadā, i.e., guides it (to its goal) — so man also stands in need of spiritual and moral directions for his attainment to perfection.

all Our signs but he rejected and refused. ⁵⁷Said he: Have you come to us to turn us out of our land by your enchantment, Moses? ⁵⁸We too can bring to you enchantment like it, so make an appointment between us and you, which we do not break, neither we nor you, in a central place. ⁵⁹(Moses) said: Your appointment is the day of the Festival, and let the people be gathered in the early forenoon.

60 So Pharaoh went back and settled his plan, then came. ⁶¹Moses said to them: Woe to you! Do not fabricate a lie against Allah or He will destroy you by punishment, and he fails indeed who fabricates (a lie). ⁶²So they disputed among themselves about their affair and kept the talk secret. ⁶³They said: These are surely two enchanters who would drive you out from your land by their enchantment, and destroy your excellent institutions. ⁶⁴So settle your plan, then come (ranged) in ranks, and he will succeed indeed this day who is uppermost.

65 They said: Moses, will you throw, or shall we be the first to throw? ⁶⁶He said: No, you throw down. Then lo! their cords and their rods — it appeared to him by their enchantment as if they ran.^a ⁶⁷So Moses conceived fear in his mind.^b ⁶⁸We said: Do not fear, surely you are the uppermost. ⁶⁹And throw down what is in your right hand — it will eat up what they have produced. What they have produced is only the trick of an enchanter, and the enchanter does not succeed wherever he comes from. ⁷⁰So the enchanters fell down prostrate, saying: We believe in the Lord of Aaron and Moses.

71 (Pharaoh) said: You believe in him before I give you permission! Surely he is your chief who taught you enchantment. So I shall cut off your hands and your feet on opposite sides and I shall crucify you on the trunks of palm-trees, and you shall certainly know which of us can give the severer and the more a (66) The forces of untruth appear to carry the day for a while, but are soon vanquished; see v. 69. Also compare 7:117, where these cords and rods are described as their lies.

b (67) Moses feared that people might be misled.

lasting punishment. ⁷²They said: We cannot prefer you to the clear arguments that have come to us and to Him Who made us, so decide whatever you will decide. You can only decide about this world's life. ⁷³Surely we believe in our Lord that He may forgive us our faults and the magic to which you compelled us. And Allah is Best and Ever-abiding. ⁷⁴Whoever comes guilty to his Lord, for him is surely hell. He will neither die in it, nor live.^a ⁷⁵And whoever comes to Him a believer, having done good deeds, for them are high ranks — ⁷⁶Gardens of perpetuity, in which rivers flow, to abide in them. And such is the reward of him who purifies himself.

Section 4: The Israelites worship the Calf

77 And certainly We revealed to Moses: Travel by night with My servants, then strike for them a dry path in the sea, not fearing to be caught, nor being afraid.^b ⁷⁸So Pharaoh followed them with his armies, then the sea covered them that would cover them. ⁷⁹And Pharaoh led his people astray and he did not guide aright.

80 O Children of Israel, We truly delivered you from your enemy, and made a covenant with you on the blessed side of the mountain, and sent to you the manna and the quails. ⁸¹Eat of the good things We have provided for you, and do not exceed the limits in that respect, so that My wrath comes upon you; and he on whom My wrath comes, he perishes indeed. ⁸²And surely I am Forgiving toward him who repents and believes and does good, then walks aright.

83 And what made you hasten from your people, O Moses? ⁸⁴He said: They are here on my track, and I hastened on to You, my Lord, that You might be pleased. ⁸⁵He said: Surely We have tried your people in your absence, and the Sāmīrī^c has led them astray.

a (74) Those in hell are not alive, because spiritually they are dead, and they are not dead because death would mean the cessation of their torments.

b (77) This shows that there was at that time a dry path in the sea; see 2:50.

c (85) The verse shows that some person other than Aaron was responsible for making the calf. From Rabbinical literature it appears that the Egyptians who had ⁸⁶So Moses returned to his people angry, sorrowing. He said: My people, did not your Lord promise you a goodly promise? Did the promised time, then, seem long to you, or did you wish that displeasure from your Lord should come upon you, so that you broke (your) promise to me? ⁸⁷They said: We did not break the promise to you of our own accord, but we were made to bear the burdens of the ornaments of the people, then we cast them away, and thus did the Sāmīrī suggest.^a ⁸⁸Then he brought forth for them a calf, a (lifeless) body, having a lowing sound,^b so they said: This is your god and the god of Moses; but he forgot. ⁸⁹Could they not see that it returned no reply to them,^c nor controlled any harm or benefit for them?

Section 5: The End of Calf-worship

90 And Aaron indeed had said to them before: My people, you are only tried by it, and surely your Lord is the Beneficent God, so follow me and obey my order.^d ⁹¹They said: We shall not cease to keep to its worship until Moses returns to us. ⁹²(Moses) said: Aaron, what prevented you, when you saw them going astray, ⁹³that you did not follow me? Have you, then, disobeyed my order? ⁹⁴He said: Son of my mother, do not seize me by my beard, nor by come with the Israelites were foremost in demanding the making of the calf.

a (87) The Israelites may have borrowed ornaments from the Egyptians as stated in Exodus 12:35, and the reference may here be to those ornaments, or the significance may simply be that the nomadic tribes of Israel, who were unaccustomed to these things, had imbibed these habits from the Egyptians, and now gave up those ornaments at the suggestion of the Sāmīrī. The reply of the people states clearly they had not done the thing of their own accord, and hence the reference in the concluding words is to the suggestions cast into the minds of the people by the Sāmīrī.

b (88) It had neither a voice nor a soul, but it was only a sound produced by the air passing through the hollow metal of which it was made.

c (89) The argument in this verse shows that God not only listens to prayers but also gives a reply to His true worshippers when they pray to Him.

d (90) From this it is clear that not only had Aaron no part in making the calf, but he even enjoined his people to give up its worship. The Quran here contradicts the Bible.

my head. Surely I was afraid you would say: You have caused division among the Children of Israel and not waited for my word. ⁹⁵(Moses) said: What was your object, Sāmirī? ⁹⁶He said: I perceived what they did not perceive, so I took a handful from the footprints of the messenger then I threw it away. Thus did my soul entice me.^a ⁹⁷He said: Go away then! It is (the punishment) for you in this life to say, Do not touch (me). And surely for you is a promise which shall not fail. And look at your god to whose worship you have kept. We will certainly burn it, then we will scatter it in the sea.^b ⁹⁸Your Lord is only Allah, there is no God but He. He comprehends all things in (His) knowledge.

99 Thus We relate to you some news of what has happened before. And indeed We have given you a Reminder from Ourselves. ¹⁰⁰Whoever turns away from it, he will surely bear a burden on the day of Resurrection, ¹⁰¹abiding in this (state). And evil will be their burden on the day of Resurrection — ¹⁰²the day when the trumpet is blown; and We shall gather the guilty, blind,^c on that day, ¹⁰³consulting together secretly: You stayed only ten (days).^d ¹⁰⁴We know best what they say when the fairest a (96) The stories which many commentators have related under this verse are all baseless. The messenger is evidently Moses himself, and his footprints (athar) signify his sunmah, i.e., his practices and sayings, a significance to which all authorities agree, the word being well known in Muslim religious literature. The taking a handful means a small part of it. The man who made the calf thus asserts that he had a clearer perception of things than the Israelites, that he accepted the teachings of Moses only partially, and confesses that he now threw off even that part and made a calf for worship.

b (97) This shows that the ashes of the calf were thrown into the sea, and the story of the Israelites being made to drink of water mixed with the ashes of the calf is not, therefore, credited by the Quran, which here again contradicts the Bible. The punishment given to the Sāmirī is that of an outcast in society, who is prohibited from having any relations with the Israelite people.

c (102) The word zurq means blue-eyed, but may signify blind, in reference to the guilty being raised up blind in the Resurrection, as in v. 124.

d (103) The object of “ten” is omitted, and what may be indicated here is that they will have enjoyed ten centuries of great prosperity.

of them in course would say: You stayed only a day.^a

Section 6: The Prophet's Opponents

105 And they ask you about the mountains.^b Say: My Lord will scatter them, as scattered dust, ¹⁰⁶then leave it a plain, smooth, level, ¹⁰⁷on which you see no crookedness nor unevenness. ¹⁰⁸On that day they will follow the Inviter, in whom is no crookedness; and the voices are low before the Beneficent God, so that you hear nothing but a soft sound.^c ¹⁰⁹On that day no intercession avails except of him whom the Beneficent allows, and whose word He is pleased with. ¹¹⁰He knows what is before them and what is behind them, while they cannot encompass it in knowledge. ¹¹¹And faces shall be humbled before the Living, the Self-subsistent. And he who bears wrongdoing is indeed undone. ¹¹²And whoever does good works, and is a believer, has no fear of injustice nor of the withholding of what is (his) due.

113 And thus have We sent it down an Arabic Quran, and have distinctly set forth in it some threats that they may guard against evil, or that it may be a reminder for them. ¹¹⁴Supremely exalted then is Allah, the King, the Truth. And do not make haste with the Quran before its revelation is made complete to you, and say: My Lord, increase me in knowledge.^d ¹¹⁵And certainly We

a (104) Because a day is equal to a thousand years; see 22:47. It is the man who reminds them of this Divine promise who is called the fairest of them in course.

b (105) The word jabal means a mountain, as well as the lord or chief of a people. That the latter significance is intended here is shown by the context; see in particular v. 108: "On that day they will follow the Inviter". Verses 106–107 are to be taken in the same sense: they point to the removal of all obstacles that hindered the advance of Truth.

c (108) The Inviter in whom there is no crookedness is no other than the Holy Prophet, as is clearly stated elsewhere: "Praise be to Allah, Who revealed the Book to His servant, and did not allow in it any crookedness" (18:1). The whole verse clearly points to a time when Islam would be completely established, and instead of opposition the voices would be low before the Beneficent. The lowness of the voice indicates submission.

d (114) The Holy Prophet no doubt desired that it should be made clear to gave a commandment to Adam before, but he forgot; and We found in him no resolve (to disobey).^a

Section 7: The Devil's Misleading

116 And when We said to the angels: Be submissive to Adam, they submitted, but not Iblīs; he refused. ¹¹⁷We said: O Adam, this is an enemy to you and to your wife; so do not let him drive you both out of the garden so that you are unhappy. ¹¹⁸Surely it is granted to you that you are not hungry therein, nor naked, ¹¹⁹and that you are not thirsty therein, nor exposed to the sun's heat.^b ¹²⁰But the devil made an evil suggestion to him; he said: O Adam, shall I lead you to the tree of immortality and a kingdom which does not decay? ¹²¹So they both ate of it, then their evil inclinations became manifest to them, and they began to cover themselves with the leaves of the garden. And Adam disobeyed his Lord, and was disappointed.^c him how the great transformation would be brought about and when the severe opposition which he was facing would come to an end. He is here told that he should not make haste with regard to what was promised in the Quran. The process will be gradual and meanwhile he should pray for more and more knowledge, for it was through knowledge that this great transformation was to be brought about. Even today a spiritual transformation can be brought about by spreading knowledge of the Quran, which is the greatest spiritual force that the world has ever seen, and it is only on account of being ignorant of this great spiritual force that the world remains in darkness.

a (115) This makes it clear that there was no intention on Adam's part to disobey God's command, or no resolve to disobey.

b (119) The garden of which a picture is given here is an earthly garden in which all the comforts necessary for man are made available. Allegorically it signifies a state of contentment or rest in which there is no yearning either to good or to evil, being as it were a state of inertia, devoid of exertion or ambition.

c (121) While in the picture of the garden drawn above in v. 118–119 mention is made of four things, the consequence of getting out of that state is only one: their evil inclinations or their shame becoming manifest to them. An explanation of this is found in 7:26, where it is said: "O children of Adam, We have indeed sent down to you clothing to cover your shame and (clothing) for beauty; and clothing that guards against evil — that is the best". Thus it is the clothing that guards against evil that is really spoken of here, and by the manifestation of the shame is meant the consciousness of having done something evil. The allegorical

122 Then his Lord chose him, so He turned to him and guided (him). ¹²³He said: Go forth from this (state) both — all (of you) — some of you are enemies of others. Surely a guidance from Me will come to you; then whoever follows My guidance, he will not go astray nor be unhappy. ¹²⁴And whoever turns away from My Reminder, for him is surely a (spiritually) deprived life, and We shall raise him up blind on the day of Resurrection.^a ¹²⁵He will say: My Lord, why have You raised me up blind, while I used to see? ¹²⁶He will say: Thus did Our messages come to you, but you neglected them. And thus are you forsaken this day. ¹²⁷And thus do We recompense him who is extravagant and does not believe in the messages of his Lord. And certainly the punishment of the Hereafter is severer and more lasting. ¹²⁸Is it not clear to them how many of the generations, in whose dwellings they go about, We destroyed before them? Surely there are signs in this for those who have understanding.

Section 8: Punishment is Certain

129 And if a word had not gone forth from your Lord, and a term been fixed, it would surely have come upon them. ¹³⁰So bear patiently what they say, and celebrate the praise of your Lord before the rising of the sun and before its setting, and glorify (Him) during the hours of the night and parts of the day, that you may be well pleased.^b ¹³¹And do not strain your eyes (with desire) at what We nature of what is so often related as the story of Adam is thus evident. It will be further seen that the remedy pointed out is of a spiritual nature, as here in v. 123–124 and in 2:38. This shows that the spiritual aspect of man’s life and not the physical one is the real theme of Adam’s story.

a (124) The person who shuts his eyes to the Reminder leads a spiritually deprived life because he does not receive spiritual blessings. It is only a contented mind that brings ease and comfort to man, and contentment comes only through faith in God.

b (130) The Holy Prophet, while told to bear persecutions patiently for a time, is also told to seek comfort in prayer. And he did find comfort in prayer under the severest persecutions. “The coolness of my eyes is in prayer,” he is reported to have said (Mishkāt, 25). This verse speaks of the five obligatory prayers and the two optional ones. Before the rising of the sun is the dawn prayer (fajr), before its setting the ‘aṣr prayer. Three prayers, the maghrib, the ‘ishā’ and the tahajjud have provided different classes of them with — the splendour of this world's life — that We may try them by means of it. And the sustenance of your Lord is better and more lasting. ¹³²And enjoin prayer on your people, and steadily adhere to it. We do not ask from you a sustenance. We provide for you. And the (good) end is for guarding against evil.

133 And they say: Why does he not bring us a sign from his Lord? Has not a clear evidence come to them of what is in the previous Books?^a ¹³⁴And if We had destroyed them with punishment before it, they would have said: Our Lord, why did You not send to us a messenger, so that we might have followed Your messages before we met disgrace and shame? ¹³⁵Say: Everyone (of us) is waiting, so wait. Soon you will come to know who is the follower of the even path and who goes aright.

(the last named being optional), occur during the hours of the night, while during parts of the day are the zuhr and the duḥā, the latter again being optional, being a short prayer in the early forenoon.

a (133) The Quran is here called a clear evidence of what is contained in the previous Books, because it fulfils their prophecies and corroborates their truth.

Al-Anbiyā'

The Prophets

This chapter deals with the deliverance of the prophets, hence its title, and the ultimate triumph of their cause. It tells us that judgment on the opponents is approaching and the truth must triumph now as always. Then it draws attention to the truth of revelation, after which it speaks of God's merciful dealing with people as this is how the Holy Prophet's opponents would be dealt with. Next, examples of a number of prophets are cited who were delivered from their enemies. At the end we are told that the righteous will be made to inherit the land. This chapter was revealed in the early period at Makkah, about or before the fifth year of the Holy Prophet's mission.

Section 1: Judgment approaches

Part 17

1 Their reckoning draws near to people, and they turn away in heedlessness. 2No new Reminder comes to them from their Lord but they hear it while they play, 3their hearts trifling. And they — the wrongdoers — counsel in secret: He is nothing but a mortal like yourselves; will you then yield to enchantment while you see? 4He said: My Lord knows (every) utterance in the heaven and the earth, and He is the Hearer, the Knower.

5 Indeed, say they: Confused dreams! Rather, he has forged it! Rather, he is a poet! so let him bring us a sign such as the former (prophets) were sent (with).^a 6Not a town believed before them

^a (5) The Quraish were quite puzzled, and hostile critics of the Quran are still puzzled, what they could liken the Quran to. They first call it sihr, i.e., skilful eloquence, because, despite their opposition to it, it had an attraction for them. But then there are prophecies which mere eloquence cannot produce, so they call it confused dreams or medleys of dreams. Then they think that there is a settled purpose in it, by reason of its asserting the Prophet's triumph and the discomfiture of his powerful enemies, so they call it an intentional forgery; and lastly, as if to devise one word combining all these, they call him a poet. Then they demand a sign like one given to the former prophets, meaning their destruction, because the

which We destroyed: will they then believe?^a ⁷And We did not send before you any but men to whom We sent revelation; so ask the followers of the Reminder if you do not know. ⁸Nor did We give them bodies not eating food, nor did they live forever.^b ⁹Then We made Our promise good to them; so We delivered them and whom We pleased, and We destroyed the extravagant. ¹⁰Certainly We have revealed to you a Book which will give you eminence. Do you not then understand?^c

Section 2: Truth has always Triumphed

11 And how many a town which was unjust did We demolish, and We raised up after it another people! ¹²So when they felt Our might, lo! they began to flee from it. ¹³Do not flee and return to the easy lives which you led, and to your dwellings, that you may be questioned. ¹⁴They said: O woe to us! Surely we were unjust. ¹⁵And this cry of theirs did not cease till We made them cut off, extinct.

16 And We did not create the heaven and the earth and all that is between them for sport.^d ¹⁷If We had wished to take a pastime, We would have taken it from before Ourselves; by no means a (6) They are told in reply that persistence in wickedness and disbelief has always been punished with destruction.

b (8) Thus every prophet had a mortal body needing food for its support, and every one of them tasted of death. Therefore Jesus also must have had a body which stood in need of food and must have tasted of death. The idea that he is alive is clearly opposed to this verse.

c (10) Whenever the opponents demand that the threatened punishment should come, the reply always is that the Quran is a blessing and a mercy for them. The same truth is expressed here. They are told that the Quran has been revealed to make them a great and eminent nation in the world. Dhikr means eminence, fame, renown, honour as well as reminder. Also see 2:152 footnote.

d (16) They were made to witness signs of the truth of the Prophet and they are now told to bear in mind that these signs were not in vain. In nature every cause has an effect and every end is achieved by means. Life must be taken seriously, not as a jest.

would We do (so). ¹⁸Indeed, We hurl the Truth against falsehood, so it knocks out its brains, and lo! it vanishes.^a And woe to you for what you describe! ¹⁹And to Him belongs whoever is in the heavens and the earth. And those who are with Him are not too proud to serve Him, nor are they weary. ²⁰They glorify (Him) night and day — they do not tire.

21 Or have they taken gods from the earth who give life? ²²If there were in them gods besides Allah, they would both have been in disorder. So glory be to Allah, the Lord of the Throne, being above what they describe!^b ²³He cannot be questioned as to what He does, and they will be questioned. ²⁴Or, have they taken gods besides Him? Say: Bring your proof. This is the reminder of those with me and the reminder of those before me.^c But most of them do not know the Truth, so they turn away. ²⁵And We sent no messenger before you but We revealed to him that there is no God but Me, so serve Me.

26 And they say: The Beneficent has taken to Himself a son. Glory be to Him! No, they are honoured servants^d — ²⁷They do not speak before He speaks, and according to His command a (18) Mark the deep conviction of the Prophet as to the ultimate triumph of Truth in the world. Truth had dawned on his mind in full splendence. The forces of darkness and falsehood, which were uppermost in Arabia when these words were uttered, were brought to naught in his lifetime and, however powerful they may appear to be, they cannot even today make a stand before the onward march of Truth.

b (22) There is order in the universe because one law pervades the whole of it, and one law clearly points to one Author and Maintainer of that law. Note that here Allah is spoken of as Rabb al-'Arsh, the nourisher to perfection or Lord of the Throne, so that the Throne itself is sustained by God, and it is not God Who is sustained by the Throne.

c (24) The great and fundamental truth of the Unity of Allah is common to all religions; no prophet ever taught polytheism.

d (26) Refuting the doctrine that Jesus is the son of God, it is added that they are honoured servants. The words draw attention to the fact that others besides Jesus were spoken of as the sons of God, but that the title signified nothing more than that they were honoured servants, and that therefore Jesus was the son of God exactly in the same sense.

they act.^a ²⁸He knows what is before them and what is behind them, and they do not intercede except for him whom He approves, and for fear of Him they tremble. ²⁹And whoever of them should say, I am a god besides Him, such a one We recompense with hell. Thus We reward the unjust.

30 Do not those who disbelieve see that the heavens and the earth were closed up, so We split them apart.^b And We made from water everything living.^c Will they not then believe? ³¹And We made firm mountains in the earth in case it should quake with them, and We made in it wide ways that they might follow a right direction.^d ³²And We have made the heaven a guarded canopy;

a (27) This verse affords a conclusive testimony for the sinlessness of prophets. In the first place they do not speak till Allah has spoken, i.e., they speak according to what He has taught them, not speaking of their own accord. And secondly, when they act, they act according to His commandment. Thus both their words and deeds are in accordance with Divine will, and therefore sin or disobedience of God cannot be attributed to them. The context shows clearly that the verse speaks of prophets, and not of angels.

b (30-1) The heavens and the earth may stand here for the whole universe, or for the solar system in particular, which has developed out of a nebular mass, and the separation may refer to the starry creation or to the throwing off of the planets of the solar system, and the great symmetry of its arrangement and the motions of the various bodies. There is a reference to the orbits of the various planets further on in v. 33. But there may also be a deeper allusion in the closing up of the heavens and the earth to the cessation of Divine revelation for a time before the advent of the Holy Prophet, which was marked by the absence of a prophet in the world for six hundred years and the prevalence of corruption all over the world. The opening up of the heavens and the earth would in this case signify the coming of revelation, which brought life to the world. In physical nature too, rain opens up the earth.

c (30-2) While this statement reveals a remarkable truth in the physical world, a truth which science has established only recently, that water is the source of all life, it draws attention to the equally remarkable spiritual truth that it is only by Divine revelation, which is again and again compared with water in the Quran, that life is given to a world otherwise dead in sin and corruption.

d (31) See 16:15 and footnote. The first part of the verse may also be translated as We made firm mountains in the earth that they might be a source of benefit yet they turn away from its signs.^a ³³And He it is Who created the night and the day and the sun and the moon. All float in orbits.

34 And We did not grant living forever to any mortal before you. If you die, will they live forever? ³⁵Every soul must taste of death. And We test you by evil and good by way of trial. And to Us you are returned.^b ³⁶And when those who disbelieve see you, they treat you only with mockery: Is this he who speaks of your gods? And they deny when the Beneficent God is mentioned.^c ³⁷Man is created of haste.^d Soon will I show you My signs, so ask Me not to hasten them. ³⁸And they say: When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful?^e ³⁹If those who disbelieve only knew the time when they will not be able to ward off the fire from their faces, nor from their backs, and they will not be helped! ⁴⁰Indeed, it will come to them all of a sudden and stun them, so they will not have the power to avert it, nor will they be given respite. ⁴¹And messengers before you were indeed mocked, but that which they mocked at befell those of them who scoffed.^f to you. Compare 79:32–33. In the latter part there may be a deeper reference to the ways pointed out by prophets among every nation.

a (32) Arabia had its spiritualists, astrologers and diviners who pretended to have access to the secrets of heaven; see 67:5. They are told that they cannot have any such access. Or, the meaning is that revelation from God (called here heaven) is guarded against all attacks.

b (35) They were afflicted with small evils, and the removal of these again brought to them a turn of good events. All this was by way of trial; the greater punishment, which was to bring about the final overthrow of their power, was yet in store for them.

c (36) The Arabs would not call Allah by the name al-Raḥmān (see also 17:110 and 25:60); hence the Beneficent God is here spoken of in contrast with the idols.

d (37) So prominent is the characteristic of haste in man that he may be said to have been created, as it were, of haste.

e (38) The particular sign which they again and again demanded was that a destructive punishment like that which overtook former people should overtake them.

f (41) The rejectors of truth have always scoffed at the idea of being punished. This and the two preceding verses assert in the most forcible words that Truth will finally triumph.

Section 4: Allah deals with People Mercifully

42 Say: Who guards you by night and by day from the Beneficent?^a But they turn away at the mention of their Lord. 43Or, have they gods who can defend them against Us? They cannot help themselves, nor can they be defended from Us. 44Indeed, We gave provision to these and their fathers, until life was prolonged to them. Do they not see then that We are visiting the land, curtailing it of its sides? Can they then prevail?

45 Say: I warn you only by revelation; and the deaf do not hear the call when they are warned. 46And if a blast of the punishment of your Lord were to touch them, they would say: O woe to us! Surely we were unjust. 47And We will set up a just balance on the day of Resurrection, so no soul will be wronged in the least. And if there were the weight of a grain of mustard seed, We will bring it. And Sufficient are We to take account.

48 And certainly We gave Moses and Aaron the criterion and a light and a reminder for those who guard against evil,^b 49who fear their Lord in secret and they are fearful of the Hour. 50And this is a blessed Reminder, which We have revealed. Will you then deny it?

Section 5: Abraham is delivered

51 And certainly We gave Abraham his rectitude before, and We knew him well. 52When he said to his sire and his people: What are these images to whose worship you are devoted? 53They said: We found our fathers worshipping them. 54He said: Certainly you have been, you and your fathers, in manifest error. 55They said: Have you brought us the truth, or are you a jester? 56He said:

a (42) That is, if Allah were not Beneficent to you and guarded you, there is none who could guard you. Or if He, despite His beneficence, were to punish you because of your persistence in evil to such a degree as to call for the wrath of even a Beneficent Master, there would be none to guard you against that punishment.

b (48) The criterion given to Moses was that he was delivered from the hands of a most powerful enemy. The last verse of the section predicts that a similar sign would be shown in the case of the Prophet Muhammad.

Indeed, your Lord is the Lord of the heavens and the earth, Who created them; and I am one of the bearers of witness to this. ⁵⁷And, by Allah! I will certainly plan against your idols after you go away, turning your backs.

58 So he broke them into pieces, except the chief of them, that perhaps they might return to it.^a ⁵⁹They said: Who has done this to our gods? Surely he is one of the wrongdoers. ⁶⁰(Some) said: We heard a youth, who is called Abraham, speak of them. ⁶¹They said: Then bring him before the people's eyes, perhaps they may bear witness. ⁶²They said: Have you done this to our gods, Abraham? ⁶³He said: Surely (someone) has done it. The chief of them is this;^b so ask them, if they can speak. ⁶⁴Then they turned to themselves and said: Surely you yourselves are wrongdoers; ⁶⁵then they were made to hang down their heads:^c You know indeed that they do not speak. ⁶⁶He said: Do you then serve besides Allah what does you no good, nor harms you? ⁶⁷Enough of you and what you serve besides Allah! Have you no sense?

68 They said: Burn him, and help your gods, if you are going to do (anything). ⁶⁹We said: O fire, be coolness and peace for

b (63) These words do not mean "No, he has done it, this chief of them". There is a pause after the words "has done it" and the statement "the chief of them is this" is an independent statement. Thus the first words mean some doer has done it. The particle bal occurring before these words often denotes and or surely. The idols were taken as gods yet they were not able to help themselves. They were shattered to pieces, yet they could do no harm to their shatterer. Nor could they even tell their votaries who was responsible for this. It should be further noted that Abraham never tried to conceal what he had done. In fact, before breaking the idols he had warned the people that he would plan against their idols; see v. 57. The object of sparing the chief idol was, as made clear in v. 58, that perhaps they might return to it. The chief was yet safe, they should have argued within themselves, why not pray to him to find out who broke the others. This is hinted at in v. 64, where they are made to confess their own wrongdoing in worshipping things which could do them no good or harm (v. 66).

c (65) They were made to hang down their heads on account of shame, for their deities proved so helpless as to be unable to name even the person who did them injury.

Abraham:^a ⁷⁰And they intended a plan against him, but We made them the greater losers. ⁷¹And We delivered him and Lot (directing them) to the land which We had blessed for the nations. ⁷²And We gave him Isaac; and Jacob, a son's son. And We made (them) all good. ⁷³And We made them leaders who guided (people) by Our command, and We revealed to them the doing of good and the keeping up of prayer and the giving of charity, and Us (alone) they served; ⁷⁴and to Lot We gave wisdom and knowledge, and We delivered him from the town which committed wicked deeds. Surely they were an evil people, transgressors; ⁷⁵and We admitted him to Our mercy; surely he was from among the righteous.

Section 6: Allah always delivers Prophets

76 And Noah, when he cried before (this), so We answered him, and delivered him and his people from the great calamity. ⁷⁷And We helped him against the people who rejected Our messages. Surely they were an evil people, so We drowned them all.

78 And David and Solomon, when they gave judgment concerning the field, when the people's sheep strayed into it by night, and We were bearers of witness to their judgment. ⁷⁹So We made Solomon to understand it. And to each (of them) We gave wisdom and knowledge. And We made the mountains, declaring (Our) glory, and the birds, subservient to David.^b And We were the Doers.

a (69) The fire was turned into coolness and peace for Abraham. The Quran does not state anywhere that Abraham was actually cast into a fire. His opponents had no doubt decided to burn him, as stated here, or to kill him or burn him (29:24). But here in v. 70 as well as in 37:98, we are told in clear words that they intended a plan against him, but We made them the greater losers (v. 70), or We brought them low (37:98). This shows that their plan was ineffective. According to 29:24, Allah delivered him from the fire, before being thrown into or after being thrown into it, it does not say. V. 71 states that the delivery was brought about by means of a journey to another land. It was thus a flight to another place like the Holy Prophet's Flight to Madinah, and in the history of Abraham there is a deeper reference to the history of the Prophet himself.

b (79) Elsewhere it is stated that everything that exists in the heavens or the earth is made subservient to man (45:13); and on various occasions it is mentioned that the rivers, the sea, the sun and the moon, night and day, etc., are made ⁸⁰And We taught him the making of coats of mail for you, to protect you in your wars; will you then be grateful?

81 And to Solomon (We subdued) the wind blowing violent, pursuing its course by His command to the land which We had blessed, and We are ever Knower of all things.^a ⁸²And of the devils there were those who dived for him and did other work besides that, and We kept guard over them;^b ⁸³and Job, when he cried to his Lord: Distress has afflicted me, and You are the most Merciful of those who show mercy! ⁸⁴So We responded to him and removed the distress he had, and We gave him (back) his people and more like them with them, a mercy from Us and a reminder to the worshippers.^c

85 And Ishmael and Idrīs and Dhu-l-Kifl;^d all were from subservient to man (16:12, 16:14, 13:2, etc.). This explains the meaning of making mountains and birds subservient to David. A thing is said to be made subservient to a man when he can use it to his advantage. Note further that everything in the heavens and the earth declares the glory of Allah (17:44). But see 34:10, where a similar statement occurs and may refer to the conquests of David.

a (81) Solomon's fleet did him an important service, and this is what is meant by the wind being made subservient to Solomon. Also compare 14:32: "And He has made the ships subservient to you, to run their course in the sea by His command".

b (82) Elsewhere we have: "And the devils, every builder and diver, and others fettered in chains" (38:37–38). Solomon employed foreigners, whom he had subdued, to do the work of divers and builders. The word shaitān (or devil) signifies one who is excessively proud, rebellious or audacious. See further 38:38.

c (84) Job is again mentioned after Solomon in greater detail in 38:41–44. There also he is spoken of as being given his people (ahl) and more like them with them. There, however, we have clear indications that the distress spoken of here relates to some journey which he undertook in connection with his mission. As a result of this journey he lost, or was separated from, his people. It seems that he had to flee to some place of safety, and he ultimately found not only his own people but others like them, i.e., he had other believers in him in his place of refuge. The story of Job as given in the Quran is really a prophetic statement relating to the Prophet's own Flight from Makkah to Madinah, where he met with not only his Makkan followers but also believers in Madinah in about the same number.

d (85) The commentators differ in identifying Dhu-l-Kifl with one of the Biblical prophets, Zacharias, Elias, or Joshua. A more sound suggestion is that he among the patient ones; ⁸⁶and We admitted them to Our mercy; surely they were from among the good ones. ⁸⁷And Dhu-l-Nūn,^a when he went away in anger,^b and he thought that We would not constrain him,^c so he called out among afflictions:^d There is no God but You, glory be to You! Surely I am a sufferer of loss.^e ⁸⁸So We responded to him and delivered him from grief. And thus do We deliver the believers. ⁸⁹And Zacharias, when he cried to his Lord: My Lord, do not leave me alone and You are the Best is Ezekiel. This prophet is mentioned only once again, as here without any reference to his history, in 38:48. (Editor's Note: Dhu-l-Kifl may stand for Dhu-l-Kipl, as the letter p is represented by f in Arabic, there being no p in the Arabic alphabet. Dhu-l-Kipl would mean he who belongs to Kapila, this being the name of the town in ancient India to which Buddha belonged. According to the clear teachings of the Quran, prophets and messengers of God were sent to every nation: "And there is not a people but a warner has gone among them" — 35:24; see also 10:47, 4:164 and 40:78. Buddha's life and teachings, and his great following, lead us to infer that he was a messenger of God in Quranic terms.)

a (87-1) Dhu-l-Nūn is another name for Jonah, the Arabic equivalent of the latter being Yūnus, by which name the prophet is mentioned in 6:86, 10:98 and 37:139. Nūn means a big fish, and Dhu-l-Nūn therefore means lord of the fish. In a very early revelation, Jonah is spoken of as the companion of the fish (68:48). Both these titles seem to be taken from the incident of the fish; see 37:142.

b (87-2) Evidently what is meant is that he was angry with his people and left them for another place. A prophet's being angry with God is simply unimaginable. Moreover he is spoken of here as going away, while no man could think of going away from the presence of the Omnipresent. He was wroth with his people because of their stubbornness. See also 37:140.

c (87-3) Finding his people stubborn, he went away from them and was wroth with them and thought, or rather knew (ẓanna), that some way would be opened for him to bring people to guidance somewhere. These words may also mean: he thought We would not decree against him.

d (87-4) Literally, darkness. Difficulty is compared to darkness because of the inability of a person to find his way when in difficulty, as when in darkness.

e (87-5) The word ẓulm may mean anything from the slightest falling off from one's duty to the greatest transgression. It is used sometimes in a good sense when a man imposes upon himself a heavy duty to please God. Jonah is here spoken of as being of the ẓālimīn (one of the sufferers of loss) in the sense of making himself suffer a loss by going away from his original place, or of having failed in doing justice to the message with which he was entrusted.

of inheritors!^a ⁹⁰So We responded to him and gave him John and made his wife fit for him.^b Surely they used to hasten in (doing) good deeds and called upon Us, hoping and fearing; and they were humble before Us. ⁹¹And she who guarded her chastity,^c so We breathed into her of Our inspiration, and made her and her son a sign for the nations. ⁹²Surely this your community is a single community, and I am your Lord, so serve Me.^d ⁹³And they split apart their unity: to Us will all return.

Section 7: The Righteous will inherit the Land

94 So whoever does good deeds and is a believer, there is no rejection of his effort, and We surely write (it) down for him. ⁹⁵And it is forbidden to a town which We destroy: they shall not return.^e ⁹⁶Even when Gog and Magog are let loose^f and they sally forth from every elevated place.^g ⁹⁷And the True Promise draws near, then the eyes of those who disbelieve will be fixedly open: O woe to us! Surely we were heedless of this; indeed, we a (89) That is, One Who will remain after all have perished.

b (90) By fitness is meant fitness to bear a child, because she was thought to be barren.

c (91) Mary, the mother of Jesus, is meant here. Nothing is said about immaculate conception here. The guarding of chastity does not preclude the lawful union of husband and wife.

d (92) The basic principle of all religions taught by the prophets has been one and the same in all ages and all countries, that Allah is the Lord of all and He alone must be served. Therefore all prophets are here declared to be one community; they all led people to virtue through service to God. But, as the next verse shows, their followers broke off this unity.

e (95) The verse reveals the great truth that those who are made to taste of death are not sent back into this world.

f (96-1) The previous verse contains a prohibition against the return to life of those who are dead, or the rise of nations that are once destroyed. This one points out that even Gog and Magog, despite their predominance in the whole world, will follow the same law. The word hattā can mean even as well as until.

g (96-2) For Gog and Magog, see 18:94 and footnote. The words they sally forth from every elevated place mean that they will take possession of every point of vantage and convenience, so as to dominate the whole world. See further 18:98 and footnote.

were unjust.^a ⁹⁸Surely you and what you worship besides Allah are fuel of hell; to it you will come.^b ⁹⁹If these had been gods, they would not have come to it. And all will abide in it. ¹⁰⁰For them therein is groaning and in it they do not hear.^c

101 Those for whom the good (end) has already gone forth from Us, they will be kept far off from it^d — ¹⁰²They will not hear the faintest sound of it and they will abide in that which their souls desire.^e ¹⁰³The great Terror will not grieve them, and the angels will meet them: This is your day which you were promised. ¹⁰⁴The day when We roll up heaven like the rolling up of the scroll of writings. As We began the first creation, We shall reproduce it. A promise (binding) on Us. We shall bring it about.^f a (97) The True Promise that draws near with the domination of Gog and Magog is the promise of the ultimate triumph of Truth: “He it is Who has sent His Messenger with guidance and the Religion of Truth that He may make it prevail over all religions” (9:33). This is also referred to in 18:99, after speaking of the great conflict of Gog and Magog, in the words then We shall gather them all together. Thus the time when Gog and Magog overcome the whole world is also the time when Truth will gain ground and prevail over the whole earth. Materialism would first spread over the whole world, but would prove a failure. Then would spiritual Truth shine and people would feel that they had not only been heedless to it, but even unjust in trying to suppress it.

b (98) Compare 18:100: “And We shall bring forth hell, exposed to view, on that day before the disbelievers”.

c (100) Those who turn a deaf ear to the Truth here shall be raised deaf in the life after death, and therefore they do not hear.

d (101) This verse totally refutes the false idea that even the righteous will first go to hell. They will not even hear its faintest sound, as the next verse states.

e (102) It is the bliss of communion with God which the souls of the righteous long for, so it is that bliss in which they shall live in the Hereafter.

f (104) The rolling up of the heaven like a written scroll means that the old order will be swept away altogether, just as when a writing is finished, it is rolled up. This no doubt happened in Arabia at the appearance of the Holy Prophet. But then follows the statement: As We began the first creation, We shall reproduce it. The sweeping away of the old order no doubt meant that a new order would be created. This is the first creation referred to here — the bringing about of a new order at the Prophet’s appearance. And then we are told that the new order will be reproduced again. This reproduction is in reference to what has been earlier stated — that Gog and Magog will dominate the whole world. The spiritual resuscitation

105 And certainly We wrote in the Book after the reminder that My righteous servants will inherit the land.^a 106 Surely in this is a message for a people who serve (Us). 107 And We have not sent you but as a mercy to the nations.^b 108 Say: It is only revealed to me that your God is one God: will you then submit? 109 But if they turn back, say: I have warned you in fairness, and I do not know whether what you are promised is near or far. 110 Surely He knows what is spoken openly and He knows what you hide. 111 And I do not know if this may be a trial for you and a provision till a time. 112 He said: My Lord, judge with truth. And our Lord is the Beneficent, Whose help is sought against what you ascribe (to Him).

to which Islam gave rise would thus receive a set-back by the predominance of a material outlook of the world through the prevalence of Gog and Magog, but this set-back, we are here told, would be only temporary, and a spiritual awakening like the first spiritual awakening would then be brought about in the whole world. This statement is followed by the words: A Promise binding on Us. The promise of the ultimate triumph of Truth in the whole world is of frequent occurrence in the Quran in earlier as well as in later revelation, and the temporary set-back indicated here is also frequently mentioned, and on one occasion at least it is made fully clear that it will be a set-back extending over a thousand years (32:5).

a (105) The Quran had repeatedly warned the disbelievers that Islam would be made triumphant in the land, and the righteous servants who were made to suffer persecution would one day be masters of the land. But as already noted, it is of the whole world that the Quran is speaking and we are here told that Truth will ultimately triumph in the whole world, which would thus be inherited by the righteous. This is made clear in v. 107.

b (107) While the words no doubt contain a reference to the merciful dealing with the Prophet's opponents, the real significance is that the Prophet's advent will prove a mercy not only to the Arabs by making them a foremost nation in the world, but to the whole of humanity. The Prophet's being a mercy to the nations of the world, is to show that ultimately all nations will be received into the Divine mercy which was manifested through him. Already the teachings of the Quran have not only benefited its followers, but even those who still reject its message, for, despite their rejection of it, they have accepted many of its principles.

Al-Hajj

The Pilgrimage

This chapter is called The Pilgrimage because the proclamation of pilgrimage, originally made by Abraham, was now repeated by the Holy Prophet and addressed to the whole world. It opens with the prophecy of a terrible calamity, which is a preliminary to the triumph of truth. Then it asserts the certainty of Divine help for the believers and their consequent triumph. As their triumph would involve the conquest of Makkah, the chapter then deals with the topics of the Sacred House, the pilgrimage and sacrifice. The subject of fighting is then introduced, requiring sacrifices to be made. Then it tells us that, despite opposition, the faithful would be established in the land, but as Allah's dealing with the opponents is merciful their punishment would be withheld for a while. At the end it declares that polytheism would be uprooted. This chapter was revealed in the late period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Judgment

1 O people, keep your duty to your Lord; surely the shock of the Hour is a grievous thing.^a 2The day you see it, every woman giving suck will forget her suckling and every pregnant one will lay down her burden, and you will see people as drunken, yet they will not be drunken, but the punishment of Allah will be severe. 3And some people dispute about Allah without knowledge, and follow every rebellious devil^b — 4For him it is written that whoever takes him for a friend, he will lead him astray and conduct him to the punishment of the burning Fire.

a (1) In the Quran, al-sā'ah or the Hour does not necessarily imply the day of Judgment. It often implies the time of judgment in this life, the time when the threatened doom overtakes a people, and this seems to be the significance here. Some consider that a severe shaking of the earth is meant as a sign of the approach of the great judgment, but even in that case it might imply any terrible calamity, such as a great war.

b (3) The devil here is, as frequently in the Quran, the devil in human form.

5 O people, if you are in doubt about the Resurrection,^a then surely We created you from dust,^b then from a small life-germ, then from a clot, then from a lump of flesh, complete in make and incomplete, that We may make clear to you.^c And We cause what We please to remain in the wombs till an appointed time, then We bring you forth as babies, then that you may attain your maturity. And some of you are caused to die, while some of you are brought back to the worst part of life,^d knowing nothing after having knowledge. And you see the earth barren, but when We send down water upon it, it stirs and swells and brings forth a beautiful (growth) of every kind.^e ⁶That is because Allah, He is the Truth, and He gives life to the dead, and He is Powerful over all things, ⁷and the Hour is coming, there is no doubt about it; and Allah will raise up those who are in the graves.^f

8 And some people dispute about Allah without knowledge, a (5-1) The word ba'th (raising, or as "resurrection" here) is used in three senses in the Quran: (1) the raising of the dead to life according to their good or evil deeds on the Judgment day; (2) the raising of the spiritually dead to life by the prophets; and (3) the raising up of prophets by Allah for the guidance of mankind. The word as used here may include the denial of all these three cases. The argument contained in this and the following verses is equally applicable to all, but it most prominently refers to the spiritual resurrection of the dead.

b (5-2) These words explain the meaning of Adam's or man's creation from dust, which is frequently referred to in the Quran, for all people are here spoken of as being created from dust. Man's creation from dust implies the ultimate springing of all life from earth.

c (5-3) The various stages through which every human child passes are spoken of here, showing how humble is his origin. Or, the reference may be to the various stages through which man has passed in his evolution to the present stage of perfection. Attention is thus drawn to the fact that, just as the physical evolution of man is gradual, so is his spiritual growth and development.

e (5-5) The stirring and swelling of the earth means its stirring and swelling with the growth of herbage. Compare 41:39. The illustration draws attention to the fact that revelation quickens dead hearts as rain quickens dead earth.

f (7) Compare 35:22: "Surely Allah makes whom He pleases hear, and you cannot make those hear who are in the graves". The significance is that even the incorrigible will be raised to a spiritual life.

and without guidance, and without an illuminating Book, ⁹(such a person) turning away haughtily to lead (others) astray from the way of Allah. For him is disgrace in this world, and on the day of Resurrection We shall make him taste the punishment of burning. ¹⁰This is for what your two hands have sent ahead, and Allah is not in the least unjust to the servants.

Section 2: Certainty of Divine Help

11 And some people serve Allah, (standing) on the verge,^a so if good befalls such a one he is satisfied with it, but if a trial afflicts him he turns back headlong. He loses this world and the Hereafter. That is a manifest loss. ¹²He calls besides Allah on something which cannot harm him, nor benefit him; that is straying far. ¹³He calls on him whose harm is nearer than his benefit. Certainly an evil guardian and an evil associate!

14 Surely Allah will make those who believe and do good deeds enter Gardens in which rivers flow. Allah indeed does what He pleases. ¹⁵Whoever thinks that Allah will not assist him in this life and the Hereafter, let him raise (himself) by some means to the heaven, then let him cut (it) off, then let him see if his plan will take away what he is enraged at.^b ¹⁶And thus have We revealed it, clear arguments, and Allah guides whom He will. ¹⁷Those who believe and those who are Jews and the Sabians and the Christians and the Magians and those who set up partners (with Allah) — surely Allah will decide between them on the day a (11) This expression indicates the attitude of a man who wavers, being ready to quit the faith on any pretence.

b (15) The prophecies of the final triumph of the Truth and of the coming of Divine assistance to the Holy Prophet were repeatedly declared in the Quran, and the disbelievers were enraged at this. They are told that the Divine assistance must come, and that they should leave no stone unturned in their struggle against it, insomuch that, if they could, they should rise to heaven and cut off all heavenly or Divine assistance from the Prophet. Or, the meaning may be that they may carry their anger to the greatest possible extreme and be driven to the utmost desperation, yet they will be unable to stop the coming of Divine help to the Prophet.

of Resurrection. Surely Allah is Witness over all things.^a 18 Do you not see that to Allah makes submission whoever is in the heavens and whoever is in the earth, and the sun and the moon and the stars, and the mountains and the trees, and the animals and many of the people? And many there are to whom punishment is due. And he whom Allah disgraces, none can give him honour. Surely Allah does what He pleases.

19 These are two adversaries who dispute about their Lord. So those who disbelieve, for them are cut out garments of fire. Boiling water will be poured out over their heads.²⁰With it will be melted what is in their bellies and (their) skins as well.²¹And for them are whips of iron.²²Whenever they desire to go out from it, from grief,^b they are turned back into it, and (it is said): Taste the punishment of burning.

Section 3: Believers are Triumphant

23 Surely Allah will make those who believe and do good deeds enter Gardens in which rivers flow — they are adorned therein with bracelets of gold and (with) pearls. And their garments therein are of silk.^c²⁴And they are guided to pure words, and they are guided to the path of the Praised One.²⁵Those who disbelieve and hinder (people) from Allah’s way and from the Sacred Mosque, a (17) It is implied that differences in religious beliefs do not call for punishment in this life; these will be decided on the day of Judgment. Punishment in this life is brought upon those who work mischief and transgress all limits in doing evil.

b (22) Min ghamm-in (“from grief”) explains min-hā (“from it”), and thus explains the nature of the punishment in this and the previous verse. It is a grief which will constantly burn their souls so as to melt them.

c (23) The following incident, mentioned by Baihaqi, shows that the companions of the Prophet understood these prophecies in another sense too: “The bracelets of Kisra, the Persian monarch, were brought to Umar, and he made Surāqa ibn Mālik to wear them, on which he praised the Almighty”. The reason for Umar making Surāqa wear the bracelets is also given by the same authority in another report, according to which the Holy Prophet had said to Surāqa: “How will you feel when you wear the bracelets of Kisra?”

which We have made equally for all people, (for) the dweller in it and the visitor.^a And whoever inclines to wrong in it, unjustly, We shall make him taste of painful punishment.

Section 4: Pilgrimage

26 And when We pointed to Abraham the place of the House, saying: Do not set up any partner with Me, and purify My House for those who make circuits and stand to pray and bow and prostrate themselves. ²⁷And proclaim to mankind the Pilgrimage:^b they will come to you on foot and on every lean camel, coming from every remote path,^c ²⁸that they may witness benefits (provided) for them, and mention the name of Allah on appointed days over the cattle quadrupeds that He has given them; then eat of them and feed the distressed one, the needy.^d ²⁹Then let them accomplish their needful acts of cleansing, and let them fulfil their vows and go round the Ancient House.^e a (25) The two may respectively signify the dweller in Makkah and the dweller in the desert, or one who dwells in it constantly and one who comes to it occasionally. The disbelievers, being then in possession of the Sacred Mosque, prevented Muslims from using it. They are told that this state of things will be brought to an end, for it must be open to all visitors, and that could only be brought about by Muslims being made masters of it.

b (27-1) The words are addressed to the Holy Prophet, and contain a mighty prophecy that Makkah will become the centre to which people will come for pilgrimage. It was announced just at the time when the Holy Prophet was being driven away from Makkah by his enemies. Just when Makkah seemed to have lost every chance of becoming a Muslim centre, and when Muslims themselves were in danger of being entirely destroyed, a mighty prophecy is announced in the most forcible words that Islam will spread to all countries of the world, and Makkah will become the universal centre to which pilgrims from all nations will come.

c (27-2) The lean camel is particularly mentioned here to indicate the great distances from which pilgrims would come. The addition of the words from every remote path shows that people will come from the remotest parts of the earth.

d (28) The subject of sacrifice is one that is specially related to the pilgrimage, because every pilgrim must sacrifice an animal. Thus it is the lesson of sacrifice that is taught in pilgrimage. The act of the pilgrim finds an echo throughout the Muslim world, for every Muslim who can afford is required to sacrifice an animal on this occasion, and this subject is discussed in the next section.

e (29) The mention of the Ka'bah as the Ancient House, here and in v. 33, 30 That (shall be so). And whoever respects the sacred ordinances of Allah, it is good for him with his Lord. And the cattle are made lawful for you, except what is recited to you, so shun the filth of the idols and shun false words, ³¹being upright for Allah, not setting up partners with Him. And whoever sets up partners with Allah, it is as if he had fallen from on high, then the birds had snatched him away, or the wind had carried him off to a distant place. ³²That (shall be so). And whoever respects the ordinances of Allah, this is surely from the piety of hearts. ³³In them are benefits for you for a term appointed, then their place of sacrifice is the Ancient House.

Section 5: Sacrifices

34 And for every nation We appointed acts of devotion that they might mention the name of Allah on the cattle quadrupeds that He has given them. So your God is One God, therefore to Him should you submit.^a And give good news to the humble, ³⁵whose hearts tremble when Allah is mentioned, and who are patient in their afflictions, and who keep up prayer, and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them.^b shows that it is so old that it came to be known throughout Arabia by that name, thus pointing to its very remote antiquity; see 2:125.

a (34) The principle of sacrifice is one which is accepted in one form or another by all nations of the world; but it has a deeper meaning in Islam. The outward act is still there but it no more conveys the meaning attached to it in ancient religions, viz., that of appeasing an offended Deity, or that of serving as an atonement for sins. It signifies the sacrifice of the sacrificer himself, and becomes thus an outward symbol of his readiness to lay down his life, if required, and to sacrifice all his interests and desires in the cause of Truth. Hence it is that words introducing the subject of sacrifice are immediately followed by an injunction to submit oneself entirely to Allah, Who is the one God, i.e., the only Being Who deserves to be made the true object of one's love.

b (35) It is by the mention of Allah's name that an animal is sacrificed, and the meaning underlying it is that their own hearts should tremble at the mention of that name. Thus they should bear in mind, when sacrificing an animal over which they hold control, how much more necessary it is that they should lay down their lives in the way of Allah, Who holds control over all. Hence a verse speaking of sacrifices is immediately followed by one which requires the exercise of great patience and endurance under hard trials by the faithful.

36 And the camels, We have made them from among the signs appointed by Allah for you ^a — in them there is much good for you. So mention the name of Allah on them standing in a row. Then when they fall down on their sides, eat of them and feed the contented one and the beggar. ^b Thus have We made them subservient to you that you may be grateful. ³⁷Not their flesh, nor their blood, reaches Allah, but to Him is acceptable the observance of duty on your part. ^c Thus has He made them subservient to you, that you may magnify Allah for guiding you aright. And give good news to those who do good (to others). ³⁸Surely Allah defends those who believe. Surely Allah does not love anyone who is unfaithful, ungrateful. ^d

Section 6: Believers permitted to fight

39 Permission (to fight) is given to those on whom war is made, because they are oppressed. And surely Allah is Able to assist them ^e — ⁴⁰Those who are driven from their homes without a just a (36-1) The camels which are brought for sacrifice to Makkah by the pilgrims are here stated to be only outward signs of the true religion of Allah, that religion being no other than the religion of entire submission to Allah and of laying down all one has, even one's life, in the way of Allah.

b (36-2) The flesh of the animals sacrificed is not to be wasted, but it should serve as food for the poor and the needy.

c (37) It is not the outward act of sacrifice which is acceptable, but the deep meaning of sacrifice which underlies it. The idea of atonement is quite foreign to Islamic sacrifice. It is the righteous whom Islam requires to sacrifice, as hinted at in the words: to Him is acceptable the observance of duty on your part.

d (38) A new subject is now introduced, the subject of fighting in the way of Allah. This sheds light upon the connection which exists between the two subjects. After dealing with the subject of sacrifice theoretically, the Muslim has in fact been prepared to bring into practice the theory of the sacrifice. Hence he is told that the time is near when he will be required to lay down his very life in the defence of Truth, which the opponents were striving to exterminate. Therefore, the subject of fighting in the cause of Truth is a fitting sequel to the subject of sacrifice, as casting further light upon the inner meaning of sacrifice, and also requiring that doctrine to be carried into practice.

e (39) This is the earliest permission given to the Muslims to fight. The words in which the permission is granted show clearly that war was first made on cause except that they say: Our Lord is Allah. And if Allah did not repel some people by others, surely cloisters and churches and synagogues, and mosques in which Allah's name is much remembered, would have been pulled down. And surely Allah will help him who helps Him. Surely Allah is Strong, Mighty.^a ⁴¹Those who, if We establish them in the land, will keep up prayer and give the due charity and enjoin good and forbid evil. And Allah's is the end of (all) affairs.

42 And if they reject you, already before them did the people of Noah and Ād and Thamūd reject (prophets), ⁴³and the people of Abraham and the people of Lot, ⁴⁴and the dwellers of Midian. And Moses (too) was rejected. But I gave respite to the disbelievers, then I seized them; so how (severe) was My disapproval! ⁴⁵How many a town We destroyed while it was unjust, so it is fallen down upon its roofs; and (how many) a deserted well and palace raised high! ⁴⁶Have they not travelled in the land so that they should have hearts with which to understand, or ears with which to hear? For surely it is not the eyes that are blind, but blind are the hearts which are in the breasts.^b ⁴⁷And they ask you to hasten on the punishment, and Allah by no means fails in His promise. And surely a day with your Lord is like a thousand years as you the Muslims by their opponents; and secondly, that the Muslims had already suffered great oppression at the hands of their persecutors. The words of the next verse, those who are driven from their homes, may refer to the emigration to Abyssinia, or to the exodus to Madinah, which commenced soon afterwards.

a (40) The religious freedom established by Islam has not yet been surpassed by the most civilized and tolerant of nations. It deserves to be noted that the lives of Muslims are to be sacrificed not only to stop their own persecution by their opponents and to save their own mosques, but to save churches, synagogues and cloisters as well — in fact, to establish perfect religious freedom. Mosques, though they are the places where the name of Allah is remembered most of all, are mentioned after churches and synagogues. Early Muslims closely followed these directions, and every commander of an army had express orders to respect all houses of worship, and even the cloisters of monks, along with their inmates.

b (46) The Quran very often speaks of the blind, the deaf and the dead, meaning thereby the spiritually blind, deaf and dead, as it has plainly stated here.

count.^a ⁴⁸And how many a town to which I gave respite while it was unjust, then I seized it! And to Me is the return.

Section 7: Opposition to the Prophet

49 Say: O people, I am only a plain warner to you. ⁵⁰So those who believe and do good, for them is forgiveness and an honourable sustenance. ⁵¹And those who strive to oppose Our messages, they are the inmates of the flaming Fire.

52 And We never sent a messenger or a prophet before you but when he desired, the devil made a suggestion in regard to his desire; but Allah annuls what the devil casts, then does Allah establish His messages. And Allah is Knowing, Wise^b — ⁵³that He may make what the devil casts a trial for those in whose hearts is a disease and the hard-hearted.^c And surely the wrongdoers are in severe opposition, ⁵⁴and that those who have been given knowledge may know that it is the Truth from your Lord, so they should believe in it that their hearts may be lowly before Him. And surely Allah is the Guide of those who believe, into a right path.

55 And those who disbelieve will not cease to be in doubt concerning it, until the Hour overtakes them suddenly, or the

a (47) Those spoken of here are undoubtedly the opponents of Truth who were to come later, and who have been allowed to oppose the advance of Islam for a thousand years. The set-back which Islam was to receive for a thousand years is again spoken of in 32:5.

b (52) A false story is mentioned in connection with this verse, according to which the Holy Prophet on one occasion recognized that the idols worshipped by the Arabs could intercede with God on their behalf. See 53:21 footnote. This story has been rejected by all sound and reliable commentators. The words of this verse do not, and cannot, mean that when a prophet recites a revelation, the devil introduces his own words into his recitation. What every prophet desires is the establishing of the Truth that is revealed to him, and it is with this desire of every prophet that the devil interferes, instigating people, making suggestions to them, as stated here, to oppose the Truth. That this is the true meaning is also shown by the context, which deals with the establishing of the Truth and the desire of the opponents of Truth to annihilate it.

c (53) The devil's strivings against the Prophet become a trial for the weak, who are unable to endure the severe persecutions of their enemies.

punishment of a destructive day comes to them. ⁵⁶The kingdom on that day is Allah's. He will judge between them. So those who believe and do good will be in Gardens of bliss. ⁵⁷And those who disbelieve and reject Our messages, for them is a humiliating punishment.

Section 8: The Faithful shall be established

58 And those who flee in Allah's way and are then slain or die, Allah will certainly grant them a goodly sustenance.^a And surely Allah is the Best of providers. ⁵⁹He will certainly make them enter a place which they are pleased with. And surely Allah is Knowing, Forbearing. ⁶⁰That (is so). And whoever retaliates with the like of what he is afflicted with, and he is oppressed, Allah will certainly help him. Surely Allah is Pardoning, Forgiving.^b ⁶¹That is because Allah makes the night to pass into the day and makes the day to pass into the night, and because Allah is Hearing, Seeing.^c ⁶²That is because Allah is the Truth, and what they call upon besides Him — that is the falsehood, and because Allah — He is the High, the Great.

63 Do you not see that Allah sends down water from the cloud, then the earth becomes green? Surely Allah is Knower of a (58) A flight of the faithful to Abyssinia had already taken place, and on the occasion of the flight to Madinah the Holy Prophet, with Abu Bakr and Ali, were the last men to depart from Makkah. A true and generous leader of men, he waited to see his faithful followers depart before he left, so that their safety might be ensured. If he had left his followers behind him, they would have encountered a very hard fate at the hands of an exasperated enemy. The reference to some being slain after their flight is clearly prophetic.

b (60) This verse permits Muslims, who were long persecuted and oppressed, to punish their persecutors, but at the same time recommends pardon and forgiveness by referring to those two attributes of the Divine Being in the concluding words of the verse.

c (61) Apparently the succession of the day and the night refers here to the turn of fortune hinted at in the previous verse, because an oppressed community could not punish its persecutors unless it gained mastery over them. The same is indicated in the two attributes of the Divine Being with which the verse is closed. The verses that follow contain hints to the same effect.

subtleties, Aware. ⁶⁴To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth. And surely Allah — He is the Self-Sufficient, the Praised.

Section 9: Divine Mercy in dealing with People

65 Do you not see that Allah has made subservient to you all that is in the earth, and the ships gliding in the sea by His command? And He withholds the heaven from falling on the earth except with His permission. Surely Allah is Compassionate, Merciful to mankind.^a ⁶⁶And He it is Who brings you to life, then He causes you to die, then He will bring you to life. Surely man is ungrateful.

67 To every nation We appointed acts of devotion, which they observe,^b so do not let them dispute with you in the matter, and call (them) to your Lord. Surely you are on a right guidance. ⁶⁸And if they argue with you, say: Allah best knows what you do. ⁶⁹Allah will judge between you on the day of Resurrection in that in which you differ. ⁷⁰Do you not know that Allah knows what is in the heaven and the earth? Surely this is in a book. That is surely easy to Allah.

71 And they serve besides Allah that for which He has not sent any authority, and of which they have no knowledge. And for the unjust there is no helper. ⁷²And when Our clear messages are recited to them, you will notice a denial on the faces of those who disbelieve — they almost attack those who recite to them Our messages. Say: Shall I inform you of what is worse than this? The Fire. Allah has promised it to those who disbelieve. And evil is the destination.

a (65) The first part of the verse gives a promise of victory to the Muslims, while the latter part warns the opponents that Allah withholds the punishment from them for a time, for He is Compassionate and Merciful to people. The withholding of the heaven means the withholding of the punishment, which the opponents were told would come down upon them from heaven.

b (67) The principle that all nations were given spiritual light is reiterated throughout the Quran.

Section 10: Polytheism will be uprooted

73 O people, a parable is set forth, so listen to it. Surely those whom you call upon besides Allah cannot create a fly, though they should all gather for it. And if the fly carry off anything from them, they cannot take it back from it. Weak are (both) the invoker and the invoked.^a 74They do not estimate Allah with His due estimation. Surely Allah is Strong, Mighty. 75Allah chooses messengers from angels and from mankind. Surely Allah is Hearing, Seeing. 76He knows what is before them and what is behind them. And to Allah are all affairs returned.

77 O you who believe, bow down and prostrate yourselves and serve your Lord, and do good that you may succeed. 78And strive hard for Allah with due striving. He has chosen you and has not laid upon you any hardship in religion — the faith of your father Abraham. He named you Muslims before and in this,^b that the Messenger may be a bearer of witness to you, and you may be bearers of witness to the people;^c so keep up prayer and give the due charity and hold fast to Allah. He is your Protector; excellent the Protector and excellent the Helper!

a (73) The verse, while truly describing the inability of false gods to create the lowest form of life or to exercise the least control over creation, contains a clear prophecy that the false deities will be removed from the Sacred House, and that both the worshippers and the worshipped will be helpless.

b (78-1) The reference in before is to the revelation of Abraham, who prayed that from among his descendants there should arise a nation of Muslims (2:128), and in this to the Quran. The root-word of Islām and Muslim is salm or silm, both signifying peace, and a Muslim is therefore one who leads a life of peace, peace with God, which means complete submission to His will, and peace with man, which means that he causes no injury to any person, as a saying of the Holy Prophet has it (Bukhari, 2:3).

c (78-2) Compare 2:143, where similar words are used. The significance is that the Muslim community is destined to play the role of leader to the whole of humanity.

Chapter 23

Al-Mu'minūn

The Believers

This chapter is so named because it deals with the success of the Believers. Continuing the subject-matter of the last chapter, it first asserts the success of the believers and then refers to similar success in case of the former prophets, whose history, it tells us, will be repeated in the Holy Prophet's case. It ends with a condemnation of polytheism by its own votaries and shows how the wicked will finally regret their evil deeds. This chapter was revealed in the late period at Makkah.

Section 1: Success of the Faithful

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

Part 18

1 Successful indeed are the believers, ²who are humble in their prayers, ³and who shun what is vain, ⁴and who act for the sake of purity, ^a ⁵and who restrain their sexual passions ^b — ⁶except in the presence of their spouses or those whom their right hands possess, for such surely are not to be blamed, ^c ⁷but whoever seeks to go a (4) The words li-l-zakāt mean for the sake of purity or to attain purity. The word zakāt means originally purity, as in 19:13, while zakāt in the sense of due charity is spoken of as being paid or given.

b (5) This expression, lit. guard their private parts, means the restraining of sexual passions.

c (6) The words mā malakat aimānu-hum, literally “those whom their right hands possess”, usually indicate slaves. It should be noted that this chapter was revealed at Makkah, and the conditions under which slave-girls could be taken as wives were given later at Madinah; see 4:25. If the reference here is to sexual relations, the permission regarding those whom their right hands possess must be read subject to the conditions of 4:25. It may, however, be added that the expression used in v. 5 means in a wider sense the covering of parts of the body which it is indecent to expose, and in this connection it must be borne in mind that, according to Islamic rules of decency, the exposure of such parts of the body, as are generally exposed at evening entertainment venues, is disallowed, but a certain degree of freedom is allowed to women in the presence of their husbands and female servants and to men in the presence of their wives and male servants.

beyond that, these are the transgressors — ⁸and those who are faithful to their trusts and their covenant, ⁹and those who keep a guard on their prayers. ¹⁰These are the heirs, ¹¹who inherit Paradise. In it they will abide.

12 And certainly We create man of an extract of clay,^a ¹³then We make him a small life-germ in a firm resting-place, ¹⁴then We make the life-germ a clot, then We make the clot a lump of flesh, then We make (in) the lump of flesh bones, then We clothe the bones with flesh, then We cause it to grow into another creation. So blessed be Allah, the Best of creators!^b ¹⁵Then after that you certainly die. ¹⁶Then on the day of Resurrection you will surely be raised up.

17 And indeed We have made above you seven ways — and never are We heedless of creation.^c ¹⁸And We send down water from the cloud according to a measure, then We cause it to settle in the earth, and We are indeed Able to carry it away. ¹⁹Then with it We cause to grow gardens of palm-trees and grapes for you. You have therein many fruits, of which you eat; ²⁰and a tree that grows out of Mount Sinai, which produces oil and relish for a (12) The creation of man is here traced back to earth, for the life-germ in sperma is an extract of food, which is drawn from earth in whatever form it may be. While the first eleven verses speak of the spiritual growth of man, his physical growth is here spoken of, and thus a comparison may be established between the physical and the spiritual growth. Though described in the past tense, it is a general law of the creation of man that is spoken of here. The addition of the words, then We cause it to grow into another creation (v. 14), is to show that man's creation does not end with the completion of the different stages of physical growth, as in the case of other animals, but he is endowed with certain other faculties — the reference being to the moral and spiritual side of man's growth.

b (14) The several stages in the growth of the human child, as given here, and unknown then, are quite in accordance with scientific investigation. It should be borne in mind that the word fa, meaning then, as used in then We clothe the bones... does not always imply order. This is clear from the context, which states that there is first a lump of flesh, and the nucleus of the bones is generated in this flesh.

c (17) Instead of the seven heavens, here we have the seven ways, which may be the orbits of the seven members of the solar system, excluding the earth, as shown by the words above you.

the eaters.^a ²¹And surely there is a lesson for you in the cattle. We make you to drink of what is in their bellies, and you have in them many advantages and of them you eat, ²²and on them and on the ships you are borne.

Section 2: Noah

23 And certainly We sent Noah to his people, so he said: My people, serve Allah, you have no God other than Him. Will you not guard against evil? ²⁴But the chiefs of those who disbelieved from among his people said: He is only a mortal like you, who desires to have superiority over you. And if Allah had pleased, He could have sent down angels. We have not heard of this among our forefathers. ²⁵He is only a madman, so bear with him for a time.

26 He said: My Lord, help me against their calling me a liar. ²⁷So We revealed to him: Make the ark under Our eyes and according to Our revelation; then when Our command comes, and water gushes forth from the valley, take into it two of all things, a pair,^b and your own people, except those among them against whom the word has gone forth, and do not speak to Me in respect of those who are unjust; surely they will be drowned. ²⁸Then when you are firmly seated, you and those with you, in the ark, say: Praise be to Allah, Who delivered us from the unjust people! ²⁹And say: My Lord, cause me to land a blessed landing and You are the Best of those who bring to land.

30 Surely there are signs in this, and surely We are ever trying (people). ³¹Then We raised after them another generation. ³²So We sent among them a messenger from among them, saying: Serve Allah — you have no God other than Him. Will you not guard against evil?

a (20) In the tree that grows out of Mount Sinai, and which produces oil, there seems to be reference to the blessed olive tree of 24:35, as representing the Muslim nation.

b (27) See 11:40, 11:42.

Section 3: Prophets after Noah

33 And the chiefs of his people who disbelieved and called the meeting of the Hereafter a lie, and whom We had given plenty to enjoy in this world's life, said: He is only a mortal like you, eating what you eat and drinking what you drink.^a 34And if you obey a mortal like yourselves, then surely you are losers. 35Does he promise you that, when you are dead and become dust and bones, you will then be brought forth? 36Far, very far, is what you are promised: 37There is nothing but our life in this world, we die and we live and we shall not be raised again; 38he is only a man who has forged a lie about Allah, and we are not going to believe in him.

39 He said: My Lord, help me against their calling me a liar. 40He said: In a little while they will certainly be repenting. 41So the punishment overtook them in justice, and We made them as rubbish; so away with the unjust people!

42 Then We raised after them other generations. 43No people can hasten on their doom, nor postpone it. 44Then We sent Our messengers one after another. Whenever its messenger came to a people, they called him a liar, so We made them follow one another and We made them stories. So away with a people who do not believe!^b

45 Then We sent Moses and his brother Aaron with Our messages and a clear authority 46to Pharaoh and his chiefs, but they behaved haughtily and they were an insolent people. 47So they

a (33) The prophets are rejected because they are subject to the same laws of nature in their human requirements as other people. And no one can be a model for humans, who is not himself a human being, and who is not subject to the same laws of nature, for only a human being can show people how they can avoid falling a prey to the frailties of human nature. Hence, a Divine incarnation, or God in a human body, cannot serve as a model to human beings. We want a mortal to show us how to avoid the pitfalls with which we, as mortals, are surrounded; if God Himself comes into the world, He cannot serve this purpose.

b (44) The significance of making them stories is that the stories of their evil fate were the only remembrance of them left when they perished.

said: Shall we believe in two mortals like ourselves while their people serve us? ⁴⁸So they rejected them and became of those who were destroyed. ⁴⁹And certainly We gave Moses the Book that they might go aright. ⁵⁰And We made the son of Mary and his mother a sign, and We gave them refuge on a lofty ground having meadows and springs.^a

Section 4: Higher Values of Life

51 O messengers, eat of the good things and do good. Surely I am Knower of what you do. ⁵²And surely this your community is one community, and I am your Lord, so keep your duty to Me. ⁵³But they split apart their unity into sects, each faction rejoicing in what it had. ⁵⁴So leave them in their ignorance till a time. ⁵⁵Do they think that by the wealth and children with which We aid them, ⁵⁶We are hastening to them good things? Rather, they do not perceive.

57 Surely they who live in awe for fear of their Lord, ⁵⁸and those who believe in the messages of their Lord, ⁵⁹and those who set up no partner with their Lord, ⁶⁰and those who give what they give while their hearts are full of fear that to their Lord they must return — ⁶¹These hasten to good things and they are foremost in attaining them.

a (50) This description of the land applies exactly to the valley of Kashmir, and part of the lost ten tribes of Israel is traced to Kashmir, where a large number of places bear the names of places in Palestine. There is also a tomb known as the tomb of Nabī (i.e., the prophet), or ʿĪsā (i.e., Jesus), or a man by the name of Yūz Āsaf, in Srinagar, the capital of Kashmir. The fact that the chapter deals with the final triumph of prophets and their deliverance from the hands of their enemies also gives us a clue to the mystery attending the circumstances of the disappearance of Jesus after the event of the Cross; for, as shown in 4:157 footnote, Jesus did not die on the cross. This verse indicates that, being delivered from the hands of his enemies, he was given shelter at some other place which, from its description here and other evidence, seems to be Kashmir. Traditions about Yūz Āsaf lead us to identify him with Jesus, and to conclude that Jesus went to Kashmir after the event of the crucifixion, and that he preached, lived, died and was buried there. (Editor's Note: Since this footnote was written, much research has been published supporting this theory. For details, Khwaja Nazir Ahmad's work, Jesus in Heaven on Earth, first published in 1952, as well as a number of later publications, some of them by Western authors, should be consulted.)

62 And We do not impose on any soul a duty beyond its ability, and with Us is a book which speaks the truth, and they are not wronged. ⁶³But their hearts are in ignorance about it, and they have besides this other deeds which they do. ⁶⁴Until, when We seize those who lead easy lives among them with punishment, then they cry for help. ⁶⁵Do not cry for help this day. Surely you will not be helped by Us. ⁶⁶My messages were indeed recited to you, but you used to turn back on your heels ⁶⁷haughtily, passing nights in talking nonsense about it. ⁶⁸Do they not then ponder the Word? Or has there come to them something which did not come to their fathers of old? ⁶⁹Or do they not recognize their Messenger, that they deny him? ⁷⁰Or say they: There is madness in him? But he has brought them the Truth, and most of them hate the Truth. ⁷¹And if the Truth follow their desires, the heavens and the earth and all those who are in them would perish. Indeed, We have brought them their reminder, but they turn away from their reminder. ⁷²Or do you ask them a recompense? But the recompense of your Lord is best, and He is the Best of providers. ⁷³And surely you call them to a right way.

74 And surely those who do not believe in the Hereafter are deviating from the way. ⁷⁵And if We show mercy to them and remove the distress they have, they would persist in their inordinacy, blindly wandering on. ⁷⁶And already We seized them with punishment, but they were not submissive to their Lord, nor did they humble themselves.^a ⁷⁷Until, when We open for them a door of severe punishment, then they are in despair at it.^b

Section 5: Polytheism is Self-condemned

78 And He it is Who made for you the ears and the eyes and the hearts. Little thanks you give! ⁷⁹And He it is Who multiplied a (76) The punishment referred to in this verse, and the distress, the removal of which is mentioned in the previous verse, probably refer to the famine which overtook the people of Makkah.

b (77) They do not take a warning from the milder punishment, so a severer punishment must follow. This overtook them in the form of battles, leading to their ultimate defeat. But the promise relates to the future as well.

you in the earth, and to Him you will be gathered. ⁸⁰And He it is Who gives life and causes death, and His is the alternation of the night and the day. Do you not then understand? ⁸¹But they say the like of what the ancients said. ⁸²They say: When we die and become dust and bones, shall we then be raised up? ⁸³We are indeed promised this, and (so were) our fathers before. This is nothing but stories of the ancients!

84 Say: Whose is the earth, and whoever is in it, if you know? ⁸⁵They will say: Allah's. Say: Will you not then be mindful? ⁸⁶Say: Who is the Lord of the seven heavens and the Lord of the mighty Throne of power? ⁸⁷They will say: (This is) Allah's. Say: Will you not then guard against evil? ⁸⁸Say: Who is it in Whose hand is the kingdom of all things and He protects, and none is protected against Him, if you know? ⁸⁹They will say: (This is) Allah's. Say: From what are you then deceived? ⁹⁰Indeed, We have brought them the Truth and surely they are liars. ⁹¹Allah has not taken to Himself a son, nor is there with Him any (other) god — in that case would each god have taken away what he created, and some of them would have overpowered others. Glory be to Allah above what they describe — ⁹²The Knower of the unseen and the seen; so may He be exalted above what they set up as partners (with Him)!

Section 6: Regrets of the Wicked

93 Say: My Lord, if You show me what they are promised — ⁹⁴My Lord, then do not place me with the unjust people. ⁹⁵And surely We are well Able to show you what We promise them.^a ⁹⁶Repel evil with what is best.^b We know better what they describe.

a (95) The promise given to the Holy Prophet in these verses is that the power of his persecutors will be broken in his lifetime.

b (96) The doing of good in return for evil is the common teaching of all prophets. But nowhere is the principle put in such a beautiful and practical form as in the Quran. To return good for evil is only possible under certain circumstances, and the Gospel doctrine — that ye resist not evil — has not been found practicable. The Quran, however, says, repel evil with what is best. If you can repel an evil by doing good for it, it is the course recommended; but if punishment

⁹⁷And say: My Lord, I seek refuge in You from the evil suggestions of the devils,^a ⁹⁸and I seek refuge in You, my Lord, should they come to me. ⁹⁹Until when death catches up with one of them, he says: My Lord, send me back,^b ¹⁰⁰that I may do good in that which I have left. By no means! It is only a word that he speaks. And before them is a barrier, until the day they are raised.^c

101 So when the trumpet is blown, there will be no ties of relationship among them that day, nor will they ask of one another. ¹⁰²Then those whose good deeds are heavy, those are the successful. ¹⁰³And those whose good deeds are light, those are they who have lost their souls, abiding in hell. ¹⁰⁴The Fire will scorch their faces, and in it they will be in severe affliction. ¹⁰⁵Were not My messages recited to you, but you used to reject them? ¹⁰⁶They will say: Our Lord, our misfortune overcame us, and we were a people in error. ¹⁰⁷Our Lord, take us out of it; then if we return (to evil), we shall be unjust. ¹⁰⁸He will say: Go away into it, and do not speak to Me. ¹⁰⁹Surely there was a group of My servants who said: Our Lord, we believe, so forgive us and have mercy on us, and You are the Best of those who show mercy. ¹¹⁰But you ridiculed them, until

a (97) The evil suggestions of the devils were really suggestions of the wicked, who were opposed to the progress of Islam, and the Prophet is here told to look upon Allah as his only support. To seek refuge in the Lord is the height of goodness. Nowhere has a man a better refuge than in the Source of all strength, and no mortal can aspire to a higher honour than having his refuge in the Lord. The command to the Prophet to say this is really an image of the aspiration of his soul. His soul rested in that highest degree of security from all evil suggestions, which is termed refuge in the Lord.

b (99) These words make it quite certain that the devils of the two previous verses are no other than the wicked opponents of the Holy Prophet.

c (100) That the dead do not return to life is a principle which is reaffirmed here; see also 21:95. According to the Quran there are three states of a man's life, viz., his life in this world, his life in barzakh (referred to as "barrier" here) and the great manifestation of all spiritual realities that will take place on the day of Resurrection. Barzakh is the intermediate state in which the soul lives after death till the Resurrection. Here it is stated that no one who has passed into the state of barzakh is allowed to go back into the previous state. See further 39:42.

they made you forget remembrance of Me, and you used to laugh at them.^a ¹¹¹Surely I have rewarded them this day because they were patient, that they are the achievers.

112 He will say: How many years did you remain in the earth? ¹¹³They will say: We remained a day or part of a day, but ask those who keep account. ¹¹⁴He will say: You remained only a little — if only you knew! ¹¹⁵Do you then think that We have created you in vain, and that you will not be returned to Us?^b ¹¹⁶So exalted be Allah, the True King! No God is there but He, the Lord of the Throne of Grace. ¹¹⁷And whoever invokes, besides Allah, another god — he has no proof of this — his reckoning is only with his Lord. Surely the disbelievers will not be successful. ¹¹⁸And say: My Lord, forgive and have mercy, and You are the Best of those who show mercy.

a (110) It was not really the believers who caused them to forget the remembrance of their Lord but, on account of their mocking the believers, the disbelievers forgot their Lord; hence the believers are here spoken of as though they caused the disbelievers to forget their Lord.

b (115) This verse establishes the doctrine of the responsibility of human actions. Man is not created in vain, but he will be returned to his Lord to meet the consequences of what he does in this life.

Chapter 24

Al-Nūr

The Light

In verse 35 of this chapter Islam is shown to be the most perfect manifestation of Divine Light to illumine both East and West, and hence the name of the chapter. As this light was to first illumine the houses in which Muslims live (v. 36), this chapter deals with the purity of home life. It begins by condemning illicit sexual relations and slander against women, and then it prescribes measures to prevent sexual immorality. It goes on to deal with the kindling of Divine light in Muslim hearts and the establishment of the kingdom of Islam. It ends by teaching respect for each other's privacy and for the Holy Prophet's orders as these relate to the welfare of the community. This chapter was revealed at Madinah, largely about 5 A.H.

Section 1: Law relating to Adultery

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 (This is) a chapter We have revealed and made obligatory and in which We have revealed clear messages that you may be mindful. ²The adulteress and the adulterer, flog each of them (with) a hundred strokes,^a and do not let pity for them detain you from

^a (2) Chastity, as a virtue, is not given the first place in modern civilized society. The breach of the greatest trust which can be imposed in a man or a woman, the breach which ruins families, destroys household peace, and deprives innocent children of their loving mothers, is not looked upon even as seriously as the breach of trust of a small sum of money. Hence the Islamic law seems to be too severe to the West.

The punishment for adultery is here stated to be flogging, not stoning to death, which was really prescribed by the Jewish law. The cases of stoning to death for adultery by the Prophet's orders relate actually to a Jew and a Jewess in one case (Bukhari, 23:61), and others apparently occurred before the revelation of this chapter. That stoning to death was never contemplated by Islam as a punishment for adultery is made clear by 4:25, where it is stated expressly that the punishment for adultery in the case of slave-girls, when they are married, is half the punishment which is inflicted on free married women, and stoning to death could not be halved. Besides, the Quran nowhere speaks of stoning as a punish-obedience to Allah, if you believe in Allah and the Last Day, and let a group of believers witness their punishment. ³The adulterer cannot have sexual relations with any but an adulteress or an idolatress, and the adulteress, none can have sexual relations with her but an adulterer or an idolater; and it is forbidden to believers.^a 4 And those who accuse free women and do not bring four witnesses, flog them (with) eighty strokes and never accept their evidence, and these are the transgressors^b — ⁵except those who afterwards repent and act aright; surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

6 And those who accuse their wives and have no witnesses except themselves,^c let one of them testify four times, bearing Allah to witness, that he speaks the truth, ⁷and the fifth time (he shall swear) that the curse of Allah be on him, if he is lying. ⁸And it shall avert the punishment from her, if she testify four times, bearing Allah to witness, that he is lying, ⁹and the fifth time (she shall swear) that the wrath of Allah be on her, if he speaks the truth.^d ¹⁰And if it were not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy — and that Allah is Oft-returning (to mercy) Wise!

ment for adultery. Flogging was aimed more at disgracing the culprit than at torturing him. In the time of the Prophet, and even for some time after him, there was no whip, and flogging was carried out by beating with a stick or with the hand or with shoes. The culprit was not stripped naked, but he was required to take off thick clothes.

a (3) The idolater or the idolatress is mentioned along with the adulterer or the adulteress on account of the low standard of morality among the idolaters.

b (4) This is an effectual restraint against slander and gossip, which so often bring disaster upon the heads of innocent women. Unless there is the clearest evidence of adultery against a woman, the slanderer is himself to be punished.

c (6) The ordinance relates to the case of husbands who accuse their wives of adultery and have no evidence (see a case in Bukhari, 68:30). In such a case divorce is effected, the husband not being punishable for the accusation, though he cannot produce witnesses, and the wife not being punishable for adultery, if she denies the charge in the manner stated. The same procedure would be adopted in a reverse case.

d (9) Editor's Note: In this procedure, the testimony of the husband and of the wife are treated as of equal value and weight.

Section 2: Slanderers of Aishah

11 Surely they who concocted the lie are a group from among you.^a Do not consider it an evil to you; rather, it is good for you. For every one of them is the sin he has earned; and as for him among them who took upon himself the main part of it,^b he shall have a grievous punishment. ¹²Why did not the believing men and the believing women, when you heard it, think well of their own people, and say: This is an evident falsehood?^c ¹³Why did they not bring four witnesses of it? So, as they have not brought witnesses, they are liars in the sight of Allah.^d ¹⁴And if it were not for Allah's grace upon you and His mercy in this world and the Hereafter, a grievous punishment would certainly have touched you for the talk you indulged in.

a (11-1) The incident referred to here took place when the Prophet, accompanied by his wife Aishah, was returning from an expedition in 5 A.H. Aishah had gone out on a private occasion, but, when she returned, she realized that she had lost her necklace, and went back to search for it. In her absence the attendants, supposing her to be in her howdah, started while it was yet dark. When she returned, finding the camel and the men gone, she sat down there and was brought to Madinah by a man who was in the rear of the party. Some mischievous persons from among the hypocrites spread false reports, slandering her, and some of the Muslims also associated themselves with the slander. Aishah's innocence was at length established by this revelation (Bukhari, 52:15). Those who had taken part in the accusation were punished, according to one hadith (Ibn Maja, 20:13).

It may be added here that the tongue of gossip has never spared even the most virtuous women. Another case of a virtuous woman being thus defamed is that of Mary, the mother of Jesus, about whom the Jews talked similar slander. The words — do not consider it an evil to you; rather, it is good for you — aim to bring solace to such aggrieved people.

b (11-2) He who took the main part of it upon himself is said to be Abdullah ibn Ubayy, the chief of the hypocrites (Bukhari, 64:36), because he concocted the lie and circulated the false report.

c (12) There was not a single witness, nor any circumstance that could lend colour to the false story.

d (13) While the Quran takes a very serious view of crimes against chastity, it also makes criminal the circulation of false reports affecting a woman's chastity. Thus even a lighter accusation in connection with the misconduct of women required the evidence of four witnesses; see 4:15.

15 When you received it on your tongues and spoke with your mouths what you had no knowledge of, and you considered it trivial, while with Allah it was serious. ¹⁶And why did you not, when you heard it, say: It is not worthy of us to talk of it. Glory be to You! This is a great slander. ¹⁷Allah instructs you never to return to anything like it again, if you are believers. ¹⁸And Allah makes clear to you the messages; and Allah is Knowing, Wise. ¹⁹Those who love that scandal should circulate with regard to those who believe, for them is a grievous punishment in this world and the Hereafter. And Allah knows, while you do not know. ²⁰And if it were not for Allah's grace on you and His mercy^a — and that Allah is Compassionate, Merciful.

Section 3: Slanderers of Women

21 O you who believe, do not follow the footsteps of the devil. And whoever follows the footsteps of the devil, surely he commands indecency and evil. And if it were not for Allah's grace on you and His mercy, not one of you would ever have been pure, but Allah purifies whom He pleases.^b And Allah is Hearing, Knowing. ²²And the possessors of grace and abundance among you should not swear against giving to the near of kin and the poor and those who have fled in Allah's way; and pardon and overlook. Do you not love that Allah should forgive you? And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^c

^a (20) The same words in the next verse are followed by the statement, not one of you would ever have been pure.

^b (21) This passage shows that the companions of the Holy Prophet were purified from sins by Allah's grace.

^c (22) This verse was revealed in connection with the action of Abu Bakr, Aishah's father, who had sworn not to allow maintenance to one of his relatives named Mistah, who had taken part in spreading the false reports against Aishah. After inflicting the legal punishment on the culprits the Prophet was required to bear them no ill-will and to hide no rancour in his heart even towards the slanderers of his wife. Revelation even required his companions to be kind and forgiving to them. Abu Bakr is spoken of here as one possessing grace and abundance (Bukhari, 65.24:13), the former of these words referring to his moral and spiritual superiority and the latter to abundance in wealth. (Editor's Note: Upon hearing

23 Surely those who accuse chaste believing women, unaware (of the evil), are cursed in this world and the Hereafter, and for them is a grievous punishment,^a 24on the day when their tongues and their hands and their feet bear witness against them as to what they did,^b 25on that day Allah will pay back to them in full their just reward, and they will know that Allah, He is the Evident Truth. 26Unclean things are for unclean ones and unclean ones are for unclean things, and good things are for good ones and good ones are for good things; these are free from what they say. For them is forgiveness and an honourable sustenance.^c

Section 4: Preventive Measures

27 O you who believe, do not enter houses other than your own houses, until you have asked permission and greeted their inhabitants. This is better for you that you may be mindful.^d 28But if you find no one therein, do not enter them, until permission is given to you; and if it is said to you, Go back, then go back; this is purer for you. And Allah is Knower of what you do. 29It is no sin this revelation, Abu Bakr exclaimed: “I certainly love that Allah should forgive me”, and then he resumed providing assistance to Mistah. This verse shows also that it is entirely baseless and false to assert that Islam prescribes the death penalty for those who commit “blasphemy” against its sacred personalities.)

a (23) This refers to those who continue to spread evil reports concerning chaste women, the gossip-mongers in every society.

b (24) The evidence of the members of the body is sometimes witnessed in this very life against the doers of evil, in the consequences of the evil done. On the day of Resurrection the consequences of the evil deeds will assume a palpable form, as is also indicated in the paying back in full of the just rewards in the next verse, and thus bear witness to the evil done. This highly developed idea of the Resurrection did not exist before the Quran.

c (26) The meaning of this whole passage is made clear by the concluding words, i.e., nothing impure can be attributed to the pure ones, and they are free from what the impure ones say.

d (27) The law revealed in this verse lays down the basis of domestic peace and security needed for an advanced society. It is also a preventive measure against slander. (Editor's Note: This verse also supports the principle of having laws to safeguard the privacy of the individual within the home vis-à-vis the powers of the state authorities.)

for you to enter uninhabited houses in which you have your provisions. And Allah knows what you do openly and what you hide.

30 Say to the believing men that they lower their gaze and restrain their sexual passions. That is purer for them. Surely Allah is Aware of what they do.^a ³¹And say to the believing women that they lower their gaze and restrain their sexual passions and do not display their adornment except what appears of it.^b And they should wear their head-coverings over their bosoms.^c And they should not display their adornment except to their husbands or their fathers, or the fathers of their husbands, or their sons, or the sons of their husbands, or their brothers, or their brothers' sons, or their sisters' sons, or their women, or those whom their right hands a (30) Men are told to lower their gaze, just as women are enjoined to do in the next verse. This injunction is given as a preventive against the evil of illicit sexual relations. The Quran does not only forbid an evil, but also points out the way, by walking in which a person may be able to avoid it. Both men and women are required to keep their eyes cast down, so that when they meet each other, neither should men stare at women nor women at men. In a society in which women never appeared in public, the injunction to men to lower their gaze would be meaningless; and the similar injunction to women given in the next verse, if they never left the compounds of their houses, would be absurd.

b (31-1) To guard the relations between males and females and to check a too free intermingling of men and women, the Quran requires women in particular not to display their adornment. But there is a clear exception here — except what appears of it or except that which it is customary and natural to uncover. What is prohibited is really the display of beauty, as elsewhere expressly indicated: “And do not display (your beauty) like the displaying of the earlier (days of) ignorance” (33:33). According to Ibn Jarir, the exception mentioned relates to the face and hands. As an argument corroborating this opinion he says that, when praying, the woman is not required to keep her face and hands covered — hands up to the elbow — while she is required to cover the rest of the body. According to Hadith, the Holy Prophet himself is reported to have told Asma, his wife Aishah's sister, when she appeared before him in thin clothes, through which parts of her body could be seen: “Asma, when a woman attains her puberty it is not proper that any part of her body should be seen except this, and he pointed to his face and hands” (Abu Dawud, 31:30). This settles conclusively that Islam never enjoined the veil or covering of the face.

c (31-2) Before Islam women used to appear in public with their breasts partly uncovered. The khimār (pl. khumr) means a head-covering, and women were thus required to cover their breasts with a part of their head-covering.

possess, or harmless male servants,^a or the children who do not know women's nakedness. And they should not strike their feet so that the adornment that they hide may be known. And turn to Allah all, O believers, so that you may be successful.

32 And marry off those among you who are single (to spouses), and those who are fit among your male slaves and your female slaves. If they are needy, Allah will make them free from want out of His grace. And Allah is Ample-giving, Knowing.^b 33 And those who cannot find a match must keep chaste, until Allah makes them free from want out of His grace.^c And those of a (31-3) By their women are indicated all women who come in contact with them, or women who are on the same social level with them. Those whom their right hands possess include male and female slaves. Next to them are mentioned servants (called here as tābi'in or 'followers' because they follow the master), to which is added a qualifying phrase meaning, literally, not having need (of women) or lacking in cunning. These words mean male servants who take up service only as a means of living and not with the mischievous intention of getting intimacy in the house. It should be noted that women are nowhere forbidden to employ male servants or to appear before them. What this verse prevents is only display of female beauty except to those most nearly related to women, and this is a preventive measure against the spread of loose ideas of morality, and a step to help restraint of sexual passions, which is all that the Quran aims at.

b (32) The Quran looks upon the married state as the normal state, and hence it enjoins that, so far as is possible, those who are single should be married. It also requires both male and female slaves to be kept in a state of marriage. The keeping of concubines is clearly inconsistent with this. Islam is against celibacy, and considers parenthood to be the duty of every human being. The Holy Prophet, too, laid stress on Muslim men and women living in a married state. Thus he said: "He who is able to marry should marry. For it keeps the gaze low and guards chastity; and he who cannot should take to fasting (occasionally), for it will have a castrating effect on him" (Bukhari, 30:10). On another occasion he said, addressing some young men who talked of fasting in the day-time and keeping awake for prayer during the night, and keeping away from marriage: "I keep fast and I break it, and I pray and I sleep, and I am married, so whoever inclines to any other way than my sunnah, he is not of me" (Bukhari, 67:1).

c (33-1) The words translated as those who cannot find a match may also mean those who cannot find the means to marry. Marriage thus becomes an obligatory institution in Islam, only those being excused who cannot find a match or who lack the means to marry. Marriage, in fact, affords the surest guarantee for the betterment of the moral tone of society.

your slaves who ask for a contract (to buy their freedom), give them the contract, if you know any good in them, and give them something out of the wealth of Allah which He has given you.^a And do not compel your slave-girls to prostitution when they desire to keep chaste, in order to seek the frail goods of this world's life. And whoever compels them, then surely after their compulsion Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.³⁴ And certainly We have sent to you clear messages and a description of those who passed away before you, and advice for those who guard against evil.

Section 5: Manifestation of Divine Light

35 Allah is the light of the heavens and the earth. A likeness of His light is as a pillar on which is a lamp — the lamp is in a glass, the glass is as it were a brightly shining star — lit from a blessed olive-tree, neither eastern nor western, whose oil gives light, even though fire does not touch it — light upon light.^b Allah guides a (33-2) The word kitāb, or writing, as used here, stands for a contract between a slave and his master for the former to purchase his freedom. Though the practice of the master making such a contract with the slave prevailed before the advent of Islam, the important reform introduced by Islam was that, when a slave desired such a contract to be made, the master could not refuse it. Twelve centuries before any attempt was made by any individual or community to legislate for the liberty of slaves, a dweller in the Arabian desert had laid down this noble institution, that, if a slave asked for a writing of freedom, he was not only to be given that writing by the master, but he was also to be provided with money to purchase his freedom, the only condition being if you know any good in them, i.e., if he is fit for work and able to earn his livelihood. And, in addition, the duty was imposed upon the State of spending a part of the collection of the obligatory charity (zakāt) for this object, as stated in 9:60.

b (35) Allah is called here the light of the heavens and the earth because He has manifested hidden things and brought them into existence. Mishkāt means a niche, but it also has the meaning of pillar. In this parable, Islam is represented as a likeness of the Divine light, a light placed high on a pillar so as to illuminate the whole world; a light guarded by being placed in a glass, so that no puff of wind can put it out; a light so resplendent that the glass itself in which it is placed is as a brilliant star. It should be noted that the religion of Islam is repeatedly spoken of as Divine light in the Quran: "They desire to put out the light of Allah with their mouths, but Allah will allow nothing except the perfection of His light, though the disbelievers are averse" (9:32, 61:8). Hence it is of Islam that the parable of to His light whom He pleases. And Allah sets forth parables for mankind, and Allah is Knower of all things — ³⁶(that light is) in houses which Allah has permitted to be exalted and His name to be remembered within them.^a Therein do glorify Him, in the mornings and the evenings, ³⁷men whom neither merchandise nor selling diverts from the remembrance of Allah and the keeping up of prayer and the giving of the due charity — they fear a day in which the hearts and the eyes will turn about,^b ³⁸that Allah may give them the best reward for what they did, and give them more out of His grace. And Allah provides without measure for whom He pleases.

39 And those who disbelieve, their deeds are as a mirage in a desert, which the thirsty man thinks to be water, until, when he

Divine light speaks. The blessed olive, from which that light is lit, and which stands here for a symbol of Islam, as the fig stands for a symbol of Judaism (see 95:3), belongs neither to the East nor to the West. Even so is Islam, which must give light to both the East and the West, and which, therefore, does not specially belong to either of them. The reference seems to be to the welding together of the East and the West in Islam, a prophecy which is now approaching its fulfilment in the awakening of the West to the truth of the principles of Islam.

The parable becomes clearer if light is taken to refer to the Holy Prophet. The Prophet was by nature gifted with the highest qualifications. Even before he received Divine revelation, his life was a life of purity and devoted to the service of humanity. Light emanated from him even before the light from on High came to him in the form of Divine revelation, so that when revelation came to him it was light upon light.

a (36) The Divine light spoken of in the last verse is here stated as being met with in certain houses, the distinctive mark of those houses being that the name of Allah is remembered in them, thus showing that these houses are the houses of Muslims, and the light is therefore the light of Islam. These houses, we are further told, though humble now, will be exalted. And the exaltation of the humble huts of the Arab dwellers of the desert to royal palaces is a fact of history.

b (37) In these houses Allah is glorified in the morning and the evening, and therefore these can be the houses of no other than Muslims, because the keeping up of prayer and the giving of the due charity is the distinguishing characteristic of Islam. The opposition to His light, and the end of that opposition, are described in verses 39–40. The turning about of the hearts and the eyes means either that they will be transformed in the new life or that they will be in a state of commotion by reason of fear. The verse that follows lends support to the first meaning.

comes to it, he finds it to be nothing, and he finds Allah with him, so He pays him his due. And Allah is Swift at reckoning — ⁴⁰or like darkness in the deep sea — a wave covers him, above which is another wave, above which is a cloud — (layers of) darkness one above another — when he holds out his hand, he is almost unable to see it. And to whom Allah does not give light, he has no light.^a

Section 6: Manifestation of Divine Power

41 Do you not see that Allah is He Whom do glorify all those who are in the heavens and the earth, and the birds with wings outspread? Each one knows its prayer and its glorification. And Allah is Knower of what they do. ⁴²And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth, and to Allah is the eventual coming. ⁴³Do you not see that Allah drives along the clouds, then gathers them together, then piles them up, so that you see the rain coming forth from their midst? And He sends down from the heaven (clouds like) mountains, in which is hail, afflicting with it whom He pleases and turning it away from whom He pleases. The flash of His lightning almost takes away the sight. ⁴⁴Allah causes the night and the day to succeed one another. Surely there is a lesson in this for those who have sight. ⁴⁵And Allah has created every animal of water.^b So among them is that which crawls on its belly, and among them is that which walks on two feet, and among them is that which walks on four.^c Allah creates what He pleases.

a (40) As the first part of the section gives a picture of the brilliant and dazzling Divine light given to the believers, the last part describes the utter darkness of doubt and ignorance in which the disbelievers are. Their apparent hopes of success are compared with a mirage, and, when they are undeceived of these, they will find themselves in the presence of God and will have their dues paid to them.

b (45-1) Here only animals are spoken of as having been created from water, but in 21:30 we are told that all life, whether animal or plant, has been created from water.

c (45-2) The various kinds of animal life are here divided into three classes: (1) The creeping things, the lowest and the first form in the development of animal life. (2) Those walking upon two legs, such as birds, the second form of the development of animal life. Man, though walking on two legs, is not included

Surely Allah is Powerful over all things.

46 We have indeed revealed clear messages. And Allah guides whom He pleases to the right way. ⁴⁷And they say: We believe in Allah and in the Messenger and we obey; then some of them turn away after this, and they are not believers. ⁴⁸And when they are invited to Allah and His Messenger that he may judge between them, then some of them turn aside. ⁴⁹And if the right is on their side, they hasten to him in submission. ⁵⁰Is there in their hearts a disease, or are they in doubt, or do they fear that Allah and His Messenger will deal with them unjustly? But they themselves are the wrongdoers.

Section 7: Establishment of the Kingdom of Islam

51 The response of the believers, when they are invited to Allah and His Messenger that he may judge between them, is only that they say: We hear and we obey. And these it is that are successful. ⁵²And he who obeys Allah and His Messenger, and fears Allah and keeps duty to Him, these it is that are the achievers. ⁵³And they swear by Allah with their strongest oaths that, if you command them, they would certainly go forth. Say: Do not swear (oaths); reasonable obedience (is desired). Surely Allah is Aware of what you do. ⁵⁴Say: Obey Allah and obey the Messenger. But if you turn away, he is responsible for the duty imposed on him, and you are responsible for the duty imposed on you. And if you obey him, you go aright. And the duty of the Messenger is only to deliver the message clearly.

55 Allah has promised to those of you who believe and do good that He will surely make them rulers in the earth as He made those before them rulers, and that He will surely establish for them their religion, which He has chosen for them, and that He will surely give them security in exchange after their fear. They will serve Me, not setting up any partner with Me. And whoever is in them, because human life is the highest form of the development of animal life, and it is generally mentioned as quite distinct from all animal life. (3) Those which walk on four legs, and to this class belong most of the mammals.

ungrateful after this, they are the transgressors.^a ⁵⁶And keep up prayer and give the due charity and obey the Messenger, so that mercy may be shown to you. ⁵⁷Do not think that those who disbelieve will weaken (the Truth) in the earth; and their abode is the Fire. And it is indeed an evil destination!

Section 8: Respect for Privacy

58 O you who believe, let those whom your right hands possess and those of you who have not attained to puberty ask permission of you three times: Before the morning prayer, and when you put off your clothes for the heat of noon, and after the prayer of night. These are three times of privacy for you; besides these it a (55) This verse not only prophesies the establishment of the kingdom of Islam, but also its permanence, so that successors will be raised to the Holy Prophet and the Muslims made a ruling nation on earth. By those before them are meant in particular the followers of Moses. Islam at the time of the revelation of these verses was still surrounded by enemies on all sides; there was still fear for the believers, as the verse clearly shows, and idol-worship still had the upper hand in Arabia. The triumph of Islam, which is prophesied in the parable of the Divine Light first, and the gradual advent of which is referred to afterwards, is here predicted in the clearest and most emphatic terms: the believers will be made rulers in the earth; their religion will be firmly established; security will be given to them in place of fear; Divine Unity will rule supreme. All these favours will be bestowed upon the Muslims, for which they should be thankful; but, if they are ungrateful after that, they shall be dealt with as transgressors. The word kafara, to be “ungrateful”, also means to disbelieve, and would mean here a denial in practice, or disobedience to Divine commandments.

There is also a reference here to the Divine promise to raise reformers (sing. mujaddid) among the Muslims, as prophets were raised among the Israelites. Such is the clear promise contained in a saying of the Holy Prophet: “Surely Allah will raise up for this people (i.e., the Muslims) in the beginning of every century one who will revive for it its religion” (Abu Dawud, 36:1). The promise given in the verse may therefore refer not only to the temporal successors of the Holy Prophet, but also to his spiritual successors or reformers. The analogy of the Israelites, to which the verse refers, points to the appearance of a Messiah among the Muslims as a Messiah was raised among the Israelites, and it was on this verse that the claim of the late Hazrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad of Qadian, the founder of the Ahmadiyya movement, was based. He claimed to be a reformer (mujaddid) for the fourteenth century of the Hijra and the Messiah whose advent among the Muslims was foretold.

is no sin for you nor for them, (that) you go round about each other. Thus does Allah make clear to you the messages. And Allah is Knowing, Wise.^a 59And when the children among you attain to puberty, they should seek permission as those before them sought permission. Thus does Allah make clear to you His messages. And Allah is Knowing, Wise.

60 And (as for) women past childbearing,^b who do not hope for marriage, it is no sin for them if they put off their (outer) clothes without displaying their adornment. And if they are modest, it is better for them. And Allah is Hearing, Knowing.

61 There is no blame on the blind man, nor any blame on the lame, nor blame on the sick,^c nor on yourselves that you eat in your own houses, or your fathers' houses, or your mothers' houses, or your brothers' houses, or your sisters' houses, or your paternal uncles' houses, or your paternal aunts' houses, or your maternal uncles' houses, or your maternal aunts' houses, or (houses) of which you possess the keys, or your friends' (houses). It is no sin in you that you eat together or separately. So when you enter houses, greet your people with a salutation from Allah, blessed (and) goodly. Thus does Allah make clear to you the messages that you may understand.

a (58) Rules relating to personal and family privacy are of the utmost importance in the betterment of social relations, and their non-observance leads to all kinds of false reports, which scandal-mongers are always ready to lay hold upon, thereby creating dissensions in society.

b (60) The word used signifies a woman who has ceased to bear children and to have the menstrual discharge. The reference in putting off clothes is to the over-garment spoken of in 33:59.

c (61) The Arabs had their scruples in eating with the blind, etc., in which respect they were like the Jews and some other people, including Hindus. Islam lays down a middle rule, and allows the individual a great latitude in this respect. A man may eat alone or with others, he may eat with the maimed, etc., or he may eat in the houses of near relations and friends. The latter part of the verse shows that a certain degree of familiarity with near relatives is recommended, so that one can take food with them, even though he may not have been invited specially.

Section 9: Matters of State to take Precedence

62 Only those are believers who believe in Allah and His Messenger, and when they are with him on an important matter, they do not go away until they have asked permission from him. Surely they who ask permission from you, are they who believe in Allah and His Messenger; so when they ask permission from you for some affair of theirs, give permission to whom you will from among them, and ask forgiveness for them from Allah. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

63 Do not make the Messenger's calling among you as your calling of one another.^a Allah indeed knows those who steal away from among you, concealing themselves. So those who go against his order should beware that a trial may afflict them or there may befall them a painful punishment.

64 Now surely Allah's is whatever is in the heavens and the earth. He knows indeed your condition. And on the day when they are returned to Him, He will inform them of what they did. And Allah is Knower of all things.

^a (63) It does not mean how the Prophet is to be addressed, but in what manner his call is to be responded to. The context makes it clear. The previous verse states that none is to leave without the Prophet's permission, when they are gathered together for some important matter requiring their presence, and the words that follow this passage are to the same effect. What is stated here is that the Prophet's call to the believers is to be respected, and not to be treated as their calling of one another; because the Prophet's call relates to some important affair affecting the welfare of the community, while their mutual calling of one another relates to their own private affairs.

Al-Furqān

The Criterion

The name of this chapter, Al-Furqān, meaning criterion, distinction or discrimination, is one of the names of the Holy Quran because of the distinction it brings about between truth and falsehood. It deals with the great transformation which the Quran brought about in the lives of those who accepted it. At the outset it declares that the Holy Prophet's message is for all nations of the world. It goes on to assert the truth of the warning conveyed by the Holy Prophet and prophecies that a discrimination will be finally made between good and evil. It then draws lessons from the fate of previous peoples as well as from phenomena in nature. It ends with a description of the righteous, showing the transformation in people that the Quran was to effect. This chapter was revealed entirely at Makkah, most probably in the last period.

Section 1: A Warner for all Nations

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Blessed is He Who sent down the Criterion upon His servant that he might be a warner to the nations^a — ²He, Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth, and Who did not take to Himself a son, and Who has no partner in the kingdom, and Who created everything, then ordained for it a measure.^b ³And they take besides Him gods who create nothing, while they are themselves created, and they control for themselves no harm nor benefit, and they do not control death, nor life, nor raising to life.

a (1) As this chapter deals with the mighty transformation which the Quran had brought about in the lives of the people, it is mentioned here by the name Furqān (criterion for distinguishing or discriminating between truth and falsehood). The words "he might be a warner to the nations" show that the transformation which was being brought about in Arabia would ultimately extend over the whole world and all nations would benefit.

b (2) Verses 2 and 3 speak of the different kinds of polytheistic beliefs prevailing in the world, which were all destined to be swept away by the doctrine of Divine Unity as preached by Islam.

4 And those who disbelieve say: This is nothing but a lie, which he has forged, and other people have helped him at it. So indeed they have brought an injustice and a falsehood. ⁵And they say: Stories of the ancients, which he has got written, so they are read out to him morning and evening!^a ⁶Say: He has revealed it, Who knows the secret of the heavens and the earth.^b Surely He is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

7 And they say: What a Messenger is this? He eats food and goes about in the markets. Why has not an angel been sent down to him to be a warner with him?^c ⁸Or a treasure given to him, or a garden from which to eat?^d And the evildoers say: You follow a (5) In the previous verse, their allegation is that the Quran is a forgery; here they allege that the Prophet had caused some stories of the ancients to be written down by some people who helped him and it was these stories which were recited to him and which he gave out as a revelation from on High. How could mere stories bring about the transformation which the Quran was working in the hearts of people? Attention to this is drawn in the next verse.

b (6) The secrets of the heavens and the earth which are known to God alone include the secrets of human nature. Transformation in people's lives has always been brought about by means of Divine revelation, and mortal efforts have ever failed in changing the hearts of people.

c (7) The Holy Prophet's life was one of the utmost simplicity. He did all his work himself. He aided his wives in their household duties, mended his clothes, tied up the goats, and even cobbled his sandals. In fact, his kind and genial nature often led him to do others' work. Once a woman, unable to work for herself, asked him to lead her into a certain street; he accompanied her there, only taking leave when her work was accomplished. He was a mortal, and partook of the ordinary food of a simple Arab. Hence they speak of him as eating food. The answer to this is given in v. 20, viz., that all prophets were mortal and subject to human laws, as was the Holy Prophet.

d (8) Their idea of a messenger of God was that he should be rolling in wealth. In fact, wealth was all in all to them and they paid no consideration to the moral, the higher, values of life for which the Prophet came. They were at the same time told that, though the Muslims had to suffer privations, they would be rewarded for their sacrifices in this very life. Treasures were placed at the feet of the companions of the Holy Prophet, and they were given gardens. But all this happened in accordance with Divine law, which requires the fulfilment of prophecy to be brought about gradually, even as it requires all growth to be gradual in the physical world.

only a man bewitched! ⁹See what parables they set forth for you — they have gone astray, so they cannot find a way.^a

Section 2: Truth of the Warning

10 Blessed is He Who, if He please, will give you what is better than this: Gardens in which rivers flow. And He will give you palaces.^b ¹¹But they deny the Hour, and We have prepared a burning Fire for him who denies the Hour. ¹²When it sees them from a far-off place, they will hear its raging and roaring. ¹³And when they are cast into a narrow place in it, in chains, they will there pray for destruction. ¹⁴Do not pray this day for destruction once but pray for destruction again and again. ¹⁵Say: Is this better or the Garden of Perpetuity, which the dutiful are promised? That is a reward and a destination for them. ¹⁶They shall have in it what they desire, to abide. It is a promise to be prayed for from your Lord.^c

17 And on the day when He will gather them, and what they serve besides Allah, He will say: Was it you who led astray these My servants, or did they themselves stray from the path? ¹⁸They will say: Glory be to You! It was not befitting for us to take for protectors others besides You, but You made them and their fathers to enjoy until they forgot the Reminder, and they became a lost people.^d ¹⁹So they will call you liars in what you say, then a (9) Elsewhere, the disbelievers are quoted as saying: “Why was not this Quran revealed to a man of importance in the two towns?” (43:31). Nothing except rank or wealth had any importance in their eyes. Their very conception of the real values of life was wrong, so they could not find a way.

b (10) These words contain a clear prophecy that the Prophet and his followers will receive the good things of this life too. The gardens of Mesopotamia, the palaces of Persia and of the Caesars, were given to the companions of the Holy Prophet.

c (16) The Garden is promised to the faithful but they should pray to their Lord for its bestowal, because prayer to God is the means by which it can be attained.

d (18) The words it was not befitting for us to take for protectors others besides You show that those who worshipped God alone could not ask their followers to worship others than God. The reference is clearly to Jesus Christ.

you can neither avert (punishment), nor (obtain) help. And whoever among you does wrong, We shall make him taste a great punishment.

20 And We did not send before you any messengers but they surely ate food and went about in the markets. And We make some of you a trial for others. Will you bear patiently? And your Lord is ever Seeing.^a

Section 3: The Day of Discrimination

Part 19

21 And those who do not look for meeting with Us, say: Why have not angels been sent down to us, or (why) do we not see our Lord? Indeed they are too proud of themselves and revolt in great revolt.^b 22On the day when they will see the angels, there will be no good news for the guilty, and they will say: Let there be a strong barrier!^c 23And We shall turn to the work they have done, so We shall render it as scattered dust.^d

24 The owners of the Garden will on that day be in a better abiding-place and a fairer resting-place. 25And on the day when the heaven bursts apart with clouds, and the angels are sent down, as they are sent.^e 26The kingdom on that day rightly belongs to the a (20) This is an injunction to the Muslims to bear the persecutions of their opponents patiently, for these trials will distinguish the bad from the good. The concluding words are a solace to them: your Lord is ever Seeing — He will punish the oppressors.

b (21) The coming of the angels and the Lord signifies the coming of the threatened punishment, and the next verse makes it clear; see 2:210.

c (22) The words “strong barrier” bear different interpretations according to whether they are taken to be spoken by the angels or by the guilty. In the former case, the meaning is that good news will be a forbidden thing to the guilty, which is equivalent to saying that they will be punished. In the latter case, the words are a kind of prayer for the coming of a barrier between them and their punishment.

d (23) All the exertions of the Quraish were brought to naught in the battle of Badr, and all attempts to uproot Truth are dealt with similarly.

e (25) This description of the day of Badr is also given in 8:11–12, where the falling of rain is clearly mentioned, and on the same occasion is also mentioned the coming of the angels. The next verse shows that it will be a day of victory for Beneficent, and it will be a hard day for the disbelievers. ²⁷And on the day when the wrongdoer will bite his hands, saying: If only I had taken a way with the Messenger!^a ²⁸O woe is me! If only I had not taken such a one for a friend! ²⁹Certainly he led me astray from the Reminder after it had come to me. And the devil ever deserts man.

30 And the Messenger will say: My Lord, surely my people treat this Quran as a forsaken thing. ³¹And thus have We made for every prophet an enemy from among the guilty, and sufficient is your Lord as a Guide and a Helper. ³²And those who disbelieve say: Why has not the Quran been revealed to him all at once? It is so that We may strengthen your heart with it and We have arranged it well in arranging.^b ³³And they cannot bring you a question, but We have brought you the truth and the best explanation.^c ³⁴Those who will be gathered to hell on their faces — they are in an evil plight and straying farther away from the path.

the Muslims, the believers in the Beneficent, and a hard day for the disbelievers. In fact, the distress and hardship the Quraish experienced in the battle of Badr were not tasted by them in any of their subsequent encounters with the Muslims.

a (27) Commentators have here mentioned the names of some people who fought with the Prophet at Badr. But the statement is general and the evildoer often regrets the evil he did, when he suffers the consequences of the evil done.

b (32) The Quran was revealed piecemeal so that, under the varying circumstances through which the Prophet passed, the Divine revelation might be a source of strength to his heart; and then, as it were, to refute any suggestion that the revelation might remain a disorderly collection of fragments revealed under different circumstances, it is added that the entire arrangement was also Divinely accomplished. The arrangement of the Quran, according to this verse, was a part of the Divine scheme, brought about in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet.

c (33) This verse lays down the basis of an important principle, namely, that the Quran not only contains answers to all objections against it, but also adduces arguments of the truth of the assertions made. No other religious book of the world satisfies this requirement, which circumstance alone places the Quran above all scriptures, and points to it as a unique revelation capable of satisfying the spiritual requirements of all people in all times.

Section 4: A Lesson in the Fate of Former People

35 And certainly We gave Moses the Book and We appointed with him his brother Aaron, an aider. ³⁶Then We said: Go, both of you, to the people who reject Our messages. So We destroyed them with utter destruction. ³⁷And the people of Noah, when they rejected the messengers, We drowned them, and made them a sign for people. And We have prepared a painful punishment for the wrongdoers — ³⁸And Ād and Thamūd and the dwellers of Rass and many generations in between.^a ³⁹And to each We gave examples and each did We destroy with utter destruction.^b ⁴⁰And indeed they pass by the town on which was rained an evil rain.^c Do they not see it? But they hope not to be raised again.

41 And when they see you, they take you only for a jest: Is this he whom Allah has raised to be a messenger? ⁴²He had almost led us astray from our gods, if we had not adhered to them patiently! And they will know, when they see the punishment, who is more astray from the path. ⁴³Have you seen him who takes his low desire for his god?^d Will you be a guardian over him? ⁴⁴Or do you think that most of them hear or understand? They are only as the cattle; rather, they are farther astray from the path.

Section 5: A Lesson from Nature

45 Do you not see how your Lord extends the shade? And if He pleased, He would have made it stationary. Then We have a (38) According to some, Rass was a country in which a part of the tribe of Thamūd resided; others say that Rass is the name of a town in Yamāmah.

b (39) The meaning is that every one of these generations was warned of its doom by citing examples of those who had previously perished, but, not heeding the warning, was destroyed.

c (40) This town is Sodom, which was situated on the way to Syria.

d (43) This verse shows how broad is the idea of shirk or polytheism according to the Quran. It is not simply worship of idols that is condemned, but blindly following one's desires is equally condemned. Many people who consider themselves the servants of the One God really bow in submission before the greatest of their idols, i.e., their desire. The monotheistic doctrine has here been brought to a perfection not to be met with elsewhere.

made the sun an indication of it, ⁴⁶then We take it to Ourselves, taking little by little.^a ⁴⁷And He it is Who made the night a covering for you, and sleep a rest, and He made the day to rise up again. ⁴⁸And He it is Who sends the winds as good news before His mercy; and We send down pure water from the clouds, ⁴⁹that We may give life with it to a dead land, and give it for drink to cattle and many people that We have created.^b ⁵⁰And certainly We repeat this to them that they may be mindful, but most people only consent to denying.

51 And if We pleased, We could raise a warner in every town.^c ⁵²So do not obey the disbelievers, and strive against them a mighty striving with it.^d a (46) This and the previous verse show that Allah deals mercifully with His servants. He would not destroy them all at once. The sun of righteousness had risen, and there were clear indications that the shadows of darkness would disappear, but, as in physical nature, they would not disappear suddenly, but gradually, diminishing little by little.

b (49) The mercy of Allah, which appears in the form of rain in physical nature, comes spiritually in the form of revelation. As the pure water from the clouds gives life to a dead land, so does the pure water of revelation from Him raise the spiritually dead to life.

c (51) The companions of the Holy Prophet no doubt had this in mind when they spread far and wide, taking his message and warning to every distant town. It should, however, be noted that the verse does not contradict the statement in 35:24, and elsewhere, that a prophet was raised among every nation. The chapter opens with the statement that the Prophet was a warner to all nations. The statement made here shows that, if God had pleased, He would have raised a warner in every town, but the oneness of humanity, which was a grand object following upon the Oneness of God, could not have thus been brought about. Hence the verse that follows requires a hard striving on the part of the Prophet and his followers for this grand achievement.

d (52) This verse affords a clear proof of the significance of the word jihād, as used in the Quran. Every exertion to spread the Truth is, according to this verse, a jihād; in fact, it is called the jihād kabīr ("mighty striving") or the great jihād. Fighting in defence of religion received the name of jihād, because under the circumstances it became necessary for the Truth to live and prosper; if fighting had not been permitted, Truth would surely have been uprooted. The commentators all accept this significance of the word here. It should be noted that the greatest jihād which a Muslim can carry on is one by means of the Quran, to 53 And He it is Who has made the two seas to flow freely, the one sweet, very sweet, and the other saltish, bitter. And between the two He has made a barrier and inviolable obstruction.^a 54 And He it is Who has created man from water, then He has made for him blood-relationship and marriage-relationship.^b And your Lord is ever Powerful.

55 And they serve besides Allah that which can neither benefit them, nor harm them. And the disbeliever is ever an aider against his Lord.^c 56 And We have not sent you but as a giver of good news and as a warner. 57 Say: I ask of you no reward for it except that whoever wishes may take a way to his Lord. 58 And rely on the Ever-Living Who does not die, and celebrate His praise. And sufficient is He as being Aware of His servants' sins, 59 Who created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them in six periods, and He is established on the Throne of Power, the Beneficent. So ask respecting Him one aware.^d 60 And when it is said to them: Be submissive to the Beneficent, they say: And what is the Beneficent? Shall we be submissive to what you order us? And it adds to their aversion.

which the personal pronoun it at the end of the verse unquestionably refers, because such jihād must be carried on by every Muslim under all circumstances.

a (53) Apparently the reference is to the sweet-water rivers flowing on earth or underground and to the saltish sea-water. But there is a deeper reference to the two lives which man leads on earth, a sweet life of faith and goodness, which brings satisfaction and peace to the mind, and a bitter life of faithlessness and wickedness, which ever increases the thirst for material gains and never brings satisfaction to the mind of man. Both existed in the world side by side, and so they would continue.

b (54) The passage seems to hint at the flight to Madinah. The Prophet was related to the Makkans through his father, and to the Madinans through his mother. As his blood-relations had persecuted him and were bent upon killing him, he is now reminded of his relationship through marriage to another people. It was no doubt due to some such hint in the Divine revelation that the Prophet was searching, on the occasion of the pilgrimage, for adherents among the people of Madinah.

c (55) The disbeliever aided the cause of untruth, as against his Lord, while the Prophet aimed at establishing the Truth in the world.

d (59) The one aware is the Prophet, who possessed true knowledge of God.

Section 6: The Transformation brought about

61 Blessed is He Who made the stars in the heavens and made therein a sun and a moon giving light! 62And He it is Who made the night and the day to follow each other, for him who desires to be mindful or desires to be thankful.^a

63 And the servants of the Beneficent are they who walk on the earth in humility, and when the ignorant address them, they say, Peace!^b 64And they who pass the night prostrating themselves before their Lord and standing. 65And they who say: Our Lord, avert from us the punishment of hell; surely its punishment is a lasting evil: 66It is surely an evil abode and resting-place! 67And they who, when they spend, are neither extravagant nor miserly, and the just mean is ever between these. 68And they who do not call upon another god with Allah, nor slay the soul which Allah has forbidden, except in the cause of justice, nor commit a (62) The night is here spoken of as being the more opportune time for being mindful, i.e., for prayers, and the day for being thankful, i.e., for work and livelihood.

b (63) From here to the end of the chapter is described the great transformation which the Prophet had already brought about. The great qualities spoken of as being met with in the servants of the Beneficent present a striking contrast with the evils which reigned supreme in Arabia. They were an arrogant people, who trampled the rights of their fellow-beings under their feet, but the faithful now walked in humility and led lives of lowliness, in which they had the greatest regard for others' rights (v. 63). In the days of ignorance they passed their nights in drunken orgies, but now they kept awake at night in devotion and were instead drunk with the love of God (v. 64). In the days of ignorance they spent money extravagantly, when it was a question of pride, and they did not care for the poor dying of hunger, but now they spent every penny they could on others (v. 67). Formerly idols were worshipped in Arabia, human blood was shed on the slightest pretext, sex-relations were loose to an extreme, but they had now become the torch-bearers of Divine Unity, for whose sake they willingly suffered every privation, homicide was looked upon with abhorrence, the highest value was placed on the chastity of men and women, and righteousness was the one thing in which men and women vied with one another (v. 68–71). Truth and faithfulness were the great qualities that ruled people's minds, in the new dispensation, and a life full of vigour and earnestness was seen in the place of ignorance, superstition and immorality, which were the chief features of pre-Islamic Arabia (v. 72–74).

fornication; and he who does this shall meet a penalty of sin — 69The punishment will be doubled to him on the day of Resurrection, and he will abide in it in humiliation — 70except him who repents and believes and does good deeds; for such Allah changes their evil deeds to good ones.^a And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful. 71And whoever repents and does good, he surely turns to Allah a (goodly) turning.

72 And they who witness no falsehood, and when they pass by what is vain, they pass by nobly.^b 73And they who, when reminded of the messages of their Lord, do not fall down at them deaf and blind. 74And they who say, Our Lord, grant us in our wives and our offspring the joy of our eyes, and make us leaders for those who guard against evil. 75These are rewarded with high places because they are patient, and are met there with greetings and salutation,^c 76abiding there — a goodly abode and resting-place! 77Say: My Lord would not care for you, if it were not for your prayer. Now indeed you have rejected, so the punishment will come.^d a (70) Here we are plainly told that the transformation had already been wrought; the vices in which the people indulged formerly had been changed to good and righteous deeds, and those who found pleasure in evil deeds now found pleasure in the doing of good. It was the soul-force of the Prophet that had wrought this miraculous transformation.

b (72) They not only shunned falsehood but were now above everything that was vain or futile.

c (75) Apparently they were being expelled from their homes but they felt as if they were being rewarded with high places, because their outlook on life was now spiritual and not material. In addition to the greetings and salutations of the angels they were promised greetings and salutations in their new centre of activity, Madinah, to which they were fleeing, because there a similar brotherhood of the righteous was now ready to receive these emigrants.

d (77) The Truth had finally been rejected by the Makkans, so the disgrace and abasement which was promised for the opponents of Truth was now awaiting them. The righteous were finally separated from the wicked, so the punishment must come.

Chapter 26

Al-Shu‘arā’

The Poets

The title of this chapter is taken from a reference to poets in v. 224, where the allegation is refuted that the Quran is the work of a poet. It opens by consoling the Holy Prophet that he need not be anxious because of the rejection of his message by the people or despair of their reform. Then the histories of several prophets are narrated, presenting the fate of their opponents as a warning to the Holy Prophet’s opponents, and finally the subject reverts to their objections against him. This chapter, and the two following it, belong to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Prophet is consoled

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Benignant, Hearing, Knowing God.^a 2These are the verses of the Book that makes manifest.^b 3Perhaps you will kill yourself with grief because they do not believe.^c 4If We please, We could send down on them a sign from heaven, so that their necks would a (1) This verse consists of the letters ṭā, sīn and mīm, which may stand for the names of God: Laṭīf, meaning Benignant, Samī‘, meaning Hearing, and ‘Alīm, meaning Knowing. I may, however, suggest another interpretation. These chapters speak in particular of the calling of Moses at Mount Sinai, so ṭā sīn may stand for Ṭūr Sīna‘, or Mount Sinai, and mīm may stand for Moses; attention is thus called in these letters to the revelation granted to Moses at Mount Sinai, which bears testimony to the truth of the Prophet. This is corroborated by the plain statement made in the last chapter of this group, that the disbelievers called the revelations of Moses and Muhammad two enchantments backing up each other (28:48).

b (2) The Quran makes manifest all that is needed for a right development of the human faculties, and it also makes manifest the whole truth.

c (3) The Prophet was informed by Divine revelation of the doom of an evil generation, but instead of cursing it, he exerted himself heroically to save his people by bringing about a mighty transformation among them, a transformation for which he was so anxious that he is described here as almost killing himself with grief.

bend before it.^a ⁵And no new Reminder from the Beneficent comes to them but they turn away from it. ⁶They indeed reject, so the news will soon come to them of that at which they mock.^b ⁷Do they not see the earth, how many of every noble kind We cause to grow in it? ⁸Surely in this is a sign, yet most of them do not believe. ⁹And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.^c

Section 2: Moses is called and sent to Pharaoh

10 And when your Lord called Moses, saying: Go to the wrongdoing people — ¹¹the people of Pharaoh. Will they not guard against evil? ¹²He said: My Lord, I fear that they will reject me. ¹³And my heart is anxious, and my tongue is not eloquent, so send for Aaron (too). ¹⁴And they have a crime against me, so I fear that they will kill me.^d ¹⁵He said: By no means; so go both of you with Our signs; surely We are with you, Hearing. ¹⁶Then come to Pharaoh, and say: We are bearers of a message of the Lord of the worlds: ¹⁷Send with us the Children of Israel.

18 (Pharaoh) said: Did we not bring you up as a child among us, and you stayed (many) years of your life among us? ¹⁹And you did (that) deed of yours which you did and you are ungrateful.

a (4) Such a sign was sent in the battle of Badr and again in the conquest of Makkah. In the former place their chiefs were laid low, and in the latter they accepted submission.

b (6) It was the prophecies of their own defeat and of the predominance of Islam at which they mocked.

c (9) Seven prophets in all are spoken of in this chapter, and it is related how the enemies of every one of them were exterminated in the final triumph of the Truth. Yet to give an indication of the fate of the Prophet Muhammad's opponents each prophet's mention is ended with the two attributes of the Divine Being mentioned here, the Mighty, the Merciful, the first of these indicating that Truth will, even now, be made to overcome all opposition and the second that the dealing with the opponents of the Prophet would be a merciful dealing. The Prophet's opponents were defeated indeed but they were not destroyed and a reformed people rose again to power.

d (14) The reference is to the killing of the Egyptian, as mentioned in 28:15. It is stated here that the people of Pharaoh charged Moses with a crime, not that he was actually guilty. See v. 20 and 28:15.

²⁰He said: I did it then when I was in error.^a ²¹So I fled from you when I feared you, then my Lord granted me judgment and made me a messenger. ²²And is it a favour, of which you remind me, that you have enslaved the Children of Israel?^b

23 Pharaoh said: And what is the Lord of the worlds? ²⁴He said: The Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, if you would be sure. ²⁵(Pharaoh) said to those around him: Do you not hear? ²⁶He said: Your Lord and the Lord of your fathers of old. ²⁷(Pharaoh) said: Surely your messenger, who is sent to you, is mad. ²⁸He said: The Lord of the East and the West and all that is between them, if you have any sense. ²⁹(Pharaoh) said: If you take a god besides me, I will certainly put you in prison.^c ³⁰He said: Even if I show you something plain? ³¹(Pharaoh) said: Show it, then, if you are truthful. ³²So he threw down his staff, and lo! it was an obvious snake; ³³and he drew forth his hand, and lo! it appeared white to the onlookers.^d

34 (Pharaoh) said to the chiefs around him: Surely this is a skilful enchanter, ³⁵who desires to turn you out of your land with his enchantment. What is it then that you advise? ³⁶They said: Put him off and his brother and send heralds into the cities ³⁷that they bring to you every skilful enchanter. ³⁸So the enchanters were gathered together for the appointment of a well-known day, a (20) The circumstances in which Moses' act of striking an Egyptian with his fist led to the death of the Egyptian are related in 28:15. There was no intention to kill the man, nor did Moses use any weapon with which death could be caused. The words "I was in error" (dāll) indicate one perplexed, being unable to know what was incumbent on him. He used his fist against the oppressor, and death was simply accidental.

b (22) The Israelites were employed only in menial work by Pharaoh and the Egyptians; it is this subjection to hardship which is here called enslavement.

c (29) The gods of the Egyptians were innumerable. There were abstract gods, cosmic gods, human gods and animal gods. Pharaoh's claim to divinity among a people who were willing to deify anything has, therefore, nothing strange about it.

d (33) See 7:108 and 20:20, 20:22, and the footnotes there.

⁴⁰Perhaps we may follow the enchanters, if they are triumphant.

41 So when the enchanters came, they said to Pharaoh: Will there be a reward for us, if we are triumphant? ⁴²He said: Yes, and surely you will then be among those who are nearest (to me). ⁴³Moses said to them: Throw down what you are going to throw. ⁴⁴So they threw down their cords and their rods and said: By Pharaoh's power we shall most surely be victorious. ⁴⁵Then Moses threw down his staff, and lo! it swallowed up their fabrication. ⁴⁶And the enchanters were thrown down prostrate — ⁴⁷They said: We believe in the Lord of the worlds, ⁴⁸the Lord of Moses and Aaron. ⁴⁹(Pharaoh) said: You believe in him before I give you permission; surely he is the chief of you who taught you enchantment, so you will soon come to know. Certainly I will cut off your hands and your feet on opposite sides, and I will crucify you all. ⁵⁰They said: No harm; surely to our Lord we return. ⁵¹We hope that our Lord will forgive us our wrongs because we are the first of the believers.

Section 4: Moses is delivered and Pharaoh drowned

52 And We revealed to Moses, saying: Travel by night with My servants — you will be pursued. ⁵³And Pharaoh sent heralds into the cities (proclaiming): ⁵⁴These are indeed a small band, ⁵⁵and they have surely enraged us, ⁵⁶and we are truly a vigilant multitude. ⁵⁷So We turned them out of gardens and springs, ⁵⁸and treasures and goodly dwellings — ⁵⁹Even so. And We gave them as a heritage to the Children of Israel.^a

60 Then they pursued them at sunrise. ⁶¹So when the two groups saw each other, the companions of Moses cried out: Surely we are overtaken. ⁶²He said: By no means; surely my Lord is with me — He will guide me. ⁶³Then We revealed to Moses: March on to the sea with your staff.^a So it parted, and each side was like a huge mound.^b ⁶⁴And there We brought the others near. ⁶⁵And We saved Moses and those with him, all. ⁶⁶Then We drowned the others. ⁶⁷Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ⁶⁸And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

^a (59) The pronoun them refers to gardens and springs, etc., in general, and not to the particular gardens, etc., from which the Egyptians were turned out. The heritage of gardens and treasures was given to the Israelites in the land of Canaan, the promised land flowing with milk and honey.

Section 5: History of Abraham

69 And recite to them the story of Abraham. ⁷⁰When he said to his sire and his people: What do you worship? ⁷¹They said: We worship idols, so we shall remain devoted to them. ⁷²He said: Do they hear you when you call (on them), ⁷³or do they benefit or harm you? ⁷⁴They said: But we found our fathers doing so.

75 He said: Do you then see what you worship — ⁷⁶you and your ancient sires? ⁷⁷Surely they are an enemy to me, but not (so) the Lord of the worlds, ⁷⁸Who created me, then He shows me the way, ⁷⁹and Who gives me to eat and to drink, ⁸⁰and when I am sick, He heals me, ⁸¹and Who will cause me to die, then give me life, ⁸²and Who, I hope, will forgive me my mistakes on the day of Judgment.^c ⁸³My Lord, grant me wisdom, and join me with the righteous, ⁸⁴and ordain for me a goodly mention in later generations, ⁸⁵and make me from among the heirs of the Garden of bliss, ⁸⁶and forgive my sire, surely he is in error, ⁸⁷and do not disgrace a (63-1) This expression is similar to the one occurring in 2:60: “March on to the rock with your staff”. Elsewhere the same idea is expressed by saying: “Strike for them a dry path in the sea, not fearing to be overtaken, nor being afraid” (20:77); see also 2:50.

b (63-2) The sea had gone back, thus leaving a dry path (20:77) for the Israelites. The meaning may be that each wave, as it receded, was like a huge mound.

c (82) The prophets, being always conscious of their weakness, seek Allah’s protection. Expressions like this invariably indicate human weakness before Divine perfection, and are not evidence of sinfulness. Compare Jesus’ confession of weakness in a similar strain: “Why do you call me good? No one is good but One, that is, God” (Matthew, 19:17).

me on the day when they are raised — ⁸⁸the day when wealth will not avail, nor sons, ⁸⁹except him who comes to Allah with a sound heart.

90 And the Garden is brought near for the dutiful, ⁹¹and hell is made manifest to the deviators,^a ⁹²and it is said to them: Where are those that you worshipped ⁹³besides Allah? Can they help you or help themselves? ⁹⁴So they are hurled into it, they and the deviators, ⁹⁵and the followers of the devil, all. ⁹⁶They will say, while they quarrel in it: ⁹⁷By Allah! We were certainly in manifest error, ⁹⁸when we made you equal with the Lord of the worlds. ⁹⁹And none but the guilty led us astray. ¹⁰⁰So we have no intercessors, ¹⁰¹nor a true friend. ¹⁰²Now, if only we could return once, we would be believers. ¹⁰³Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ¹⁰⁴And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 6: History of Noah

105 The people of Noah rejected the messengers. ¹⁰⁶When their brother Noah said to them: Will you not guard against evil? ¹⁰⁷Surely I am a faithful messenger to you: ¹⁰⁸So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹⁰⁹And I ask of you no reward for it: my reward is only with the Lord of the worlds. ¹¹⁰So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹¹¹They said: Shall we believe in you when the lowest (people) follow you? ¹¹²He said: And what knowledge do I have of what they did? ¹¹³Their reckoning is only with my Lord, if you could perceive. ¹¹⁴And I am not going to drive away the believers; ¹¹⁵I am only a plain warner.

116 They said: If you do not give up, Noah, you will certainly be stoned to death. ¹¹⁷He said: My Lord, my people call me a liar. ¹¹⁸So judge between me and them openly, and deliver me and the believers who are with me. ¹¹⁹So We delivered him and those with a (91) The making manifest of hell shows that it already exists, but is hidden from the human eye, while on the day of Resurrection it will be made plain.

him in the laden ark. ¹²⁰Then We drowned the rest afterwards.^a ¹²¹Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe.
¹²²And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 7: History of Hūd

123 Ād rejected the messengers. ¹²⁴When their brother Hūd said to them: Will you not guard against evil? ¹²⁵Surely I am a faithful messenger to you: ¹²⁶So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹²⁷And I ask of you no reward for it: my reward is only with the Lord of the worlds. ¹²⁸Do you build on every height a monument,^b being vain? ¹²⁹And you make fortresses that you may abide forever. ¹³⁰And when you seize (people), you seize as tyrants. ¹³¹So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹³²And keep your duty to Him Who aids you with what you know — ¹³³He aids you with cattle and children ¹³⁴and gardens and fountains. ¹³⁵Surely I fear for you the punishment of a grievous day.

136 They said: It is the same to us whether you admonish or do not admonish; ¹³⁷this is only a fabrication of the ancients, ¹³⁸and we will not be punished. ¹³⁹So they rejected him, then We destroyed them. Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ¹⁴⁰And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 8: History of Sālih

141 Thamūd rejected the messengers. ¹⁴²When their brother Sālih said to them: Will you not guard against evil? ¹⁴³Surely I am a faithful messenger to you: ¹⁴⁴So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹⁴⁵And I ask of you no reward for it: my reward is only a (120) Wherever Noah is mentioned, only such of his people are spoken of as having been drowned who rejected and persecuted him; see also 11:42 footnote.

b (128) The word āyat, literally a sign, is used here to indicate the lofty building that should acquire renown as a sign of greatness. These lofty buildings were, no doubt, used to terrorize others, as v. 130 shows that acts of cruelty and violence were committed by Ād, while they considered themselves safe in their fortresses.

with the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁴⁶Will you be left secure in what is here, ¹⁴⁷in gardens and fountains, ¹⁴⁸and corn-fields and palm-trees having fine flower-spikes? ¹⁴⁹And you carve houses out of the mountains exultingly. ¹⁵⁰So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹⁵¹And do not obey the bidding of the extravagant, ¹⁵²who make mischief in the land and do not act rightly.

153 They said: You are only a deluded person. ¹⁵⁴You are nothing but a mortal like ourselves — so bring a sign if you are truthful. ¹⁵⁵He said: This is a she-camel; she has her portion of water, and you have your portion of water at an appointed time.^a ¹⁵⁶And do her no harm, or the punishment of a grievous day will befall you. ¹⁵⁷But they hamstrung her, then regretted, ¹⁵⁸so the punishment befell them. Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ¹⁵⁹And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 9: History of Lot

160 The people of Lot rejected the messengers. ¹⁶¹When their brother Lot said to them: Will you not guard against evil? ¹⁶²Surely I am a faithful messenger to you: ¹⁶³So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹⁶⁴And I ask of you no reward for it: my reward is only with the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁶⁵Do you come to the males from among the creation, ¹⁶⁶and leave your wives whom your Lord has created for you? Indeed, you are a people exceeding limits.

167 They said: If you do not give up, Lot, you will surely be a (155) See 7:73 for Thamūd. They are described in v. 149 as carving houses out of the mountains, and, as it appears from here and 54:28, the springs of water seem to have been few, and access to these was probably specially guarded, so that they were open only at particular times. For the she-camel, see 7:73. Sālih seems to have demanded that the she-camel should be allowed to drink at such times. See 54:28, where it is stated that every share of the water will be attended by the she-camel, or that she will have access to water at all times when the others are allowed to drink. A similar demand as regards her pasture is contained in 11:64 in the words “Leave her to pasture on Allah’s earth”, followed by the same words as those following this demand for drink: “And do her no harm”.

banished. ¹⁶⁸He said: Surely I abhor what you do. ¹⁶⁹My Lord, deliver me and my followers from what they do. ¹⁷⁰So We delivered him and his followers all, ¹⁷¹except an old woman, among those who remained behind.^a ¹⁷²Then We destroyed the others. ¹⁷³And We rained on them a rain; and evil was the rain on those who were warned.^b ¹⁷⁴Surely there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ¹⁷⁵And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 10: History of Shuaib

176 The dwellers of the grove rejected the messengers.^c ¹⁷⁷When Shuaib said to them: Will you not guard against evil? ¹⁷⁸Surely I am a faithful messenger to you: ¹⁷⁹So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. ¹⁸⁰And I ask of you no reward for it: my reward is only with the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁸¹Give full measure and do not diminish. ¹⁸²And weigh with a true balance. ¹⁸³And do not wrong people of their dues, nor act corruptly in the earth, making mischief. ¹⁸⁴And keep your duty to Him Who created you and the former generations.

185 They said: You are only a deluded person, ¹⁸⁶and you are nothing but a mortal like ourselves, and we think you are a liar. ¹⁸⁷So cause a portion of the heaven to fall on us, if you are truthful.^d ¹⁸⁸He said: My Lord knows best what you do.^e ¹⁸⁹But they rejected him, so the punishment of the day of Covering befell them. Surely it was the punishment of a grievous day!^f ¹⁹⁰Surely a (171) See 7:80 for Lot. The old woman referred to here was Lot's wife.

b (173) See 7:84. Stones were rained on them as the result of a volcanic eruption.

c (176) They are the same as the people of Midian.

d (187) A portion of the heaven signifies a punishment from heaven.

e (188) The demand for the threatened punishment is always met with expressions signifying that the matter rests in the hands of Allah. Such statements are really equivalent to saying that the thing will certainly come to pass.

f (189) The day of punishment is called the day of Covering because it covered them with punishment.

there is a sign in this, yet most of them do not believe. ¹⁹¹And surely your Lord is the Mighty, the Merciful.

Section 11: Prophet's Opponents warned

192 And surely this is a revelation from the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁹³The Faithful Spirit has brought it, ^a ¹⁹⁴on your heart that you may be a warner, ^b ¹⁹⁵in plain Arabic language. ¹⁹⁶And surely the same is in the Scriptures of the ancients. ^c ¹⁹⁷Is it not a sign to them that the learned ones of the Children of Israel know it? ¹⁹⁸And if We had revealed it to any of the foreigners, ¹⁹⁹and he had read it to them, they would not have believed in it. ^d ²⁰⁰Thus do We make it enter into the hearts of the guilty. ^e a (193) The Faithful Spirit (al-rūḥ al-amīn) is the angel Gabriel, who brought the Divine revelation to the Holy Prophet. The Prophet himself was known in Makkah as al-Amīn or the Faithful one before revelation came to him.

b (194) The words on your heart indicate that the Prophet's heart, being the receptacle of the mighty revelation, was truly responsive to the great truths contained in it. The high morals and the broad humanitarian truths which the Quran contains give us a true picture of the great mind. This is referred to in one of the earliest revelations: "And surely you have sublime morals" (68:4). The pithy but most beautiful statement of Aishah, the Prophet's wife, remains unsurpassed in depicting the character of the Holy Prophet. When asked about it she replied: His character is the Quran, meaning that all those wonderful pictures of moral sublimity drawn in the Quran were pictures of the noble mind to which the Quran was revealed.

c (196) The prophecies relating to the advent of the Prophet Muhammad, as met with in the Jewish and Christian Scriptures, are referred to very often in the Quran. The statement made here is, however, more comprehensive: They are met with in all ancient scriptures. See 3:81, where a covenant is spoken of as being made through all the prophets of the world with regard to the Prophet's advent. There is a reference in the next verse to the learned men of the Children of Israel in particular because the Jews and the Christians had long been in contact with the Arabs.

d (199) Because prophecy plainly showed that the Arabs were to be the recipients of the revelation; see Isaiah 42:11: "Let the wilderness and its cities lift up their voice, the villages that Kedar inhabits." In the Old Testament, Kedar, the son of Ishmael, stands for the Arab nation. Hence earlier prophecy required that the final revelation should be granted to an Arab.

e (200) The meaning is that the Quran was made to enter into their hearts by

201 They will not believe in it till they see the painful punishment: ²⁰²So it will come to them suddenly, while they do not perceive; ²⁰³then they will say: Shall we be given respite? ²⁰⁴Do they still seek to hasten on Our punishment? ²⁰⁵Have you then considered, if We let them enjoy themselves for years, ²⁰⁶then what they are promised comes to them — ²⁰⁷what they were made to enjoy will not avail them? ²⁰⁸And We destroyed no town but it had (its) warners — ²⁰⁹to remind. And We are never unjust. ²¹⁰And the devils have not brought it. ²¹¹And it is not befitting for them, nor have they the power to do (it). ²¹²Surely they are far removed from hearing it.^a

213 So do not call upon another god with Allah or you would be among those punished. ²¹⁴And warn your nearest relations,^b ²¹⁵and be gentle to the believers who follow you. ²¹⁶But if they disobey you, say: I am clear of what you do. ²¹⁷And rely on the Mighty, the Merciful,^c ²¹⁸Who sees you when you stand up, ²¹⁹and

a (212) The argument here is similar to that advanced by Jesus when he said: “And if Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself” (Matthew, 12:26). The evil one cannot be the source of the Quran, for the Quran calls to righteousness. See also verses 221–223.

b (214) When this verse was revealed, the Holy Prophet, standing on Mount Safa, invited every tribe by name, and when the representatives of all the tribes had gathered together — among them being also the Quraish and that inveterate enemy of the Holy Prophet, Abu Lahab — the Holy Prophet thus addressed them: “Tell me, if I were to inform you that a great army in the valley lies in wait to make a raid upon you, would you believe me?” “Yes!” was the reply in one voice, “for we have never found anything but truth emanating from your lips.” “Then,” said the Prophet, “know that I am a warner to you of an approaching punishment.” “May you perish,” cried out the ill-tempered Abu Lahab, “was it for this that you called us together?” (Bukhari, 65.26:2).

c (217) The Prophet is here told to rely on the Mighty, the Merciful, the very words that are repeated at the end of almost every section of this chapter, thus showing that the fate of the opponents of former prophets was spoken of simply to warn his own opponents. The attribute of mightiness is used to indicate the power to punish the wicked, while mercy indicates the deliverance and triumph of the righteous, or a merciful dealing even with the opponents.

your movements among those who prostrate themselves. ²²⁰Surely He is the Hearing, the Knowing.

221 Shall I inform you upon whom the devils descend? ²²²They descend upon every lying, sinful one — ²²³they give ear, and most of them are liars.^a ²²⁴And the poets — the deviators follow them. ²²⁵Do you not see that they wander in every valley,^b ²²⁶and that they say that which they do not do?^c ²²⁷Except those who believe and do good and remember Allah much, and defend themselves after they are oppressed.^d And they who do wrong, will know to what final place of turning they will turn back.

a (223) The subject of v. 212 is reverted to here. The opponents of the Quran would not listen to what is said in the Quran — they are far removed from hearing it, as stated in v. 212 — but they listen to what their leaders in evil say.

b (225) That is, they pursue an aimless course, while the Prophet has a set purpose before him, and it is to make people walk in the ways of righteousness.

c (226) The first suggestion of the disbelievers was that the Quran was the work of the devil. That being shown to be inconsistent with its very nature and with the righteousness it preached, they said that it was the work of a poet. As against this they are told that none of the characteristics of a poet's work are to be met with in the Quran. The poet never leads his followers to a life of righteousness, while the Quran was bringing about a pure transformation in the lives of those who followed it. Again, the poets say things which they do not practise, whereas the Prophet was not only a preacher of righteousness, but also an exemplar who translated into practice what he taught in words. And the weightiest consideration of all is that the poets cannot utter prophecies like those which are met with in the Quran. It is to this that attention is called in the next verse.

d (227) The passage gives a description of the true believers in general, a new statement being introduced with illā (except); or it may refer particularly to the poets from among the believers.

Chapter 27

Al-Naml

The Naml

The title of this chapter is taken from the mention in v. 18 of a tribe known as the Naml in the story of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. It begins by dealing with the histories of Moses and Solomon, indicating the likeness of their lives with that of the Holy Prophet. He was a law-giver like Moses and eventually ruler of a kingdom as Solomon was, yet retained the simplicity of the life of Moses. The chapter then refers to the prophets Sālih and Lot whose opponents were destroyed and goes on to prophesy the triumph of the faithful and to indicate that in the Holy Prophet's case this triumph would be generally through the spiritual resurrection of his opponents rather than their destruction. This chapter belongs to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: A Reference to Moses' History

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Benignant, Hearing God!^a These are the verses of the Quran and the Book that makes manifest: ²A guidance and good news for the believers, ³who keep up prayer and give the due charity, and they are sure of the Hereafter. ⁴Those who do not believe in the Hereafter, We make their deeds seem good to them, but they blindly wander on.^b ⁵These are they for whom is an evil punishment, and in the Hereafter they are the greatest losers. ⁶And you are surely made to receive the Quran from the Wise, the Knowing.

7 When Moses said to his family: Surely I see a fire; I will bring you from it some news, or bring you a burning brand, so that you may warm yourselves. ⁸So when he came to it, a voice issued,

b (4) By their deeds are meant the deeds which they ought to perform. Evil deeds are made to seem good to evildoers by the devil (6:43), while Allah commends good deeds. Elsewhere we have: "But Allah has endeared the faith to you and has made it attractive in your hearts, and He has made hateful to you disbelief and transgression and disobedience" (49:7).

saying: Blessed is he who is in search of fire and those around it.^a And glory be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds! ⁹O Moses, surely I am Allah, the Mighty, the Wise: ¹⁰And throw down your staff. So when he saw it in motion as if it were a snake, he turned back retreating and did not return. O Moses, do not fear. Surely the messengers do not fear in My presence — ¹¹Nor he who does wrong,^b then does good instead after evil; surely I am Forgiving, Merciful, ¹²and put your hand into your bosom, it will come forth white without evil, among nine signs to Pharaoh and his people. Surely they are a transgressing people.

13 So when Our clear signs came to them, they said: This is clear enchantment. ¹⁴And they denied them unjustly and proudly, while their souls were convinced of them. See, then, what was the end of the mischief-makers!

Section 2: History of Solomon

15 And certainly We gave knowledge to David and Solomon.^c And they said: Praise be to Allah, Who has made us excel many of His believing servants! ¹⁶And Solomon was David's heir, and he

a (8) The words man fi-l-nār ("who is in search of fire") have been explained in several ways, the best being that in which the word fi (lit., in) may be rendered as meaning after or in search of. According to another explanation, these words mean that which is in fire and the place where fire was seen by Moses to be burning is meant. The addition of the words those (or whatever is) around it is to show that the whole of this land was blessed, because so many prophets for the guidance of humanity were raised there. That the fire was not a physical fire is suggested by commentators. This is in fact clear. The voice that came to Moses was the voice of God and it came in the manner in which the Divine call comes to all prophets. Moses received a Divine revelation, and what he saw was during a state of transformation.

b (11) The word illā, with which this verse opens, does not here mean except but is equivalent to wāw (and). Being joined to the "not" in the previous passage, the correct translation of illā here is and not, i.e. nor.

c (15) The history of David and Solomon, being the history of the temporal greatness of the Israelites, forms really a part of the history of Moses, and reference to it is in fact prophetic, to show that Islam was also destined to rise to greatness temporally as well as spiritually.

said: O people, we have been taught the speech of birds,^a and we have been granted all sorts of things. Surely this is manifest grace.

17 And his forces of the jinn and the men and the birds were gathered to Solomon,^b and they were formed into groups. 18 Until when they came to the valley of the Naml,^c a Namlite said: O Naml, enter your houses, (so that) Solomon and his forces may not crush you, while they do not know. 19 So he smiled, wondering at her word, and said: My Lord, grant me that I may be grateful for Your favour which You have bestowed on me and on my parents, and that I may do good such as You are pleased with, and admit me, by Your mercy, among Your righteous servants.

20 And he reviewed the birds, then said: How is it I do not see Hudhud, or is it that he is one of the absentees?^d 21 I will certainly a (16) Solomon's understanding the speech of birds may imply the use he made of birds in carrying messages from one place to another, these messages being metaphorically called the speech of birds. The reference here is to the great resources of Solomon's kingdom in his victorious marches against near and distant enemies. Note also that Solomon says: We have been taught. This shows that his people also knew that speech.

b (17) The jinn were men belonging to certain mountain tribes whom Solomon had subjugated. Ṭair may mean either birds or horse, i.e., cavalry, as this word is applied not only to birds but also to swift animals such as horses.

c (18) Many of the fables regarding Solomon have been due to a misconception of the word naml, taken as meaning 'ant'. It should be noted that wādi-l-Naml cannot be properly translated as the valley of the ants, for Naml is a proper noun. According to the classical dictionary Tāj al-'Urūs, the valley of the Naml is situated between Jibrin and Asqalan. And Namlah is the name of a tribe which literally signifies the eggs of the ants. The name Namlah used also to be given to a child in whose hands an ant was placed at its birth, because it was said such a child would be wise and intelligent.

d (20) The opening words may mean either a review of birds or a review of horses; see v. 17. By Hudhud is not to be understood the lapwing, but a person of that name. In every language many of the proper names given to people will be found to be identical with the names of animals. The Arab writers speak of a king of Himyar as Hudad, which is almost identical with Hudhud mentioned in the Quran. The Bible speaks of a king of Syria, named Ben Hadad (1 Kings 15:18, etc.). The Muntaha-l-arab states that Hudhad was the name of the father of Balqis, the queen of Sheba. The verses that follow show clearly that Solomon was speaking of one of his own officers. The infliction of severe punishment on a punish him with a severe punishment, or kill him, unless he brings me a clear excuse. ²²And he did not remain away long, then said: I have encompassed something you do not have comprehensive knowledge of, and I have come to you from Saba' with sure information ^a — ²³I found a woman ruling over them, and she has been given all sorts of things and she has a mighty throne. ²⁴I found her and her people adoring the sun instead of Allah, and the devil has made their deeds seem good to them and turned them from the way, so they do not go aright — ²⁵so that they do not worship Allah, Who brings forth what is hidden in the heavens and the earth and knows what you hide and what you proclaim. ²⁶Allah, there is no God but He, the Lord of the mighty Throne.

27 He said: We shall see whether you speak the truth or whether you are a liar. ²⁸Take this letter of mine and hand it over to them, then turn from them and see what (answer) they return.

29 She said: Chiefs, an honourable letter has been delivered to me. ³⁰It is from Solomon, and it is in the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful, ³¹proclaiming, Do not exalt yourselves against me and come to me in submission.

Section 3: History of Solomon

32 She said: Chiefs, advise me in this affair of mine; I never decide an affair until you are in my presence. ³³They said: We are possessors of strength and possessors of mighty prowess. And the command is yours, so consider what you will command. ³⁴She said: Surely the kings, when they enter a town, ruin it and make the noblest of its people low; and that is what they do. ³⁵And surely I am going to send them a present, and to see what (answer) the messengers bring back.

small bird by such a mighty monarch, as Solomon, and the exposition of the great religious doctrine of the Unity of God by the lapwing, are quite incomprehensible.

a (22) Saba' is the same as the Sheba of the Bible. The story as given here is not met with in the Bible, but it was known to Jewish rabbis. The Bible speaks of the coming of the queen of Sheba to Solomon with large presents to test him. See 1 Kings 10 and 2 Chron. 9. And later on, it speaks of many strange women as Solomon's wives (1 Kings 11).

36 So when (the envoy) came to Solomon, he said: Will you help me with wealth? But what Allah has given me is better than what He has given you. Indeed, you are exultant because of your present.^a ³⁷Go back to them, so we shall certainly come to them with forces which they have no power to oppose, and we shall certainly expel them from there in disgrace, and they shall be humbled.

38 He said: Chiefs, which of you can bring me her throne before they come to me in submission?^b ³⁹One audacious among the jinn said: I will bring it to you before you rise up from your place; and surely I am strong, trustworthy for it.^c ⁴⁰One having knowledge of the Book said: I will bring it to you in the twinkling of an eye.^d Then when he saw it settled beside him,^e he said: This is of the grace of my Lord, that He may try me whether I am a (36) Why was Solomon angry on receiving a present from the queen? Later events, as narrated further on, show that the present sent to Solomon was a throne which was decorated either with nude art or with idolatrous paintings, or was offensive in some other way. Solomon's order in v. 38 to bring her throne to him shows clearly that by it was meant the throne which she had sent to him as a present, and his order in v. 41 to make alterations in this throne shows that the paintings on the throne were abhorrent to a true worshipper of God.

b (38) As usual, the narrative here omits the return of the messengers to the queen, and her willingness to submit to Solomon on receiving the threat mentioned in the last verse, and continues at the point where Solomon makes preparations to receive her. By her throne is meant the throne which she had sent as a present.

c (39) The rising up from the place does not signify his standing up from the sitting posture, but his marching away from the place where he was at the time. The reference to being trustworthy shows that the execution of the work required an honest worker. The audacious jinn is apparently one of the Amalekites, who were men of large stature.

d (40-1) By one having knowledge of the Book is meant an Israelite as against the Amalekite referred to above. The literal meaning of the concluding words of the sentence is, before your gaze returns to you. It is the same as in the twinkling of an eye, the idea conveyed being that he could do it without delay.

e (40-2) Strange and curious legends are introduced by some commentators on the supposition that the events narrated took place in immediate succession. The words so when he saw it settled beside him do not indicate that he saw it settled in the course of the conversation given in the previous passage. It is an altogether different incident.

grateful or ungrateful. And whoever is grateful, he is grateful only for the good of his own soul, and whoever is ungrateful, then surely my Lord is Self-sufficient, Bountiful. ⁴¹He said: Alter her throne for her; we may see whether she follows the right way or is of those who do not go aright.^a 42 So when she came, it was said: Was your throne like this? She said: It is as it were the same; and we were given the knowledge before about it, and we submitted.^b ⁴³And what she worshipped besides Allah prevented her; for she was from a disbelieving people. ⁴⁴It was said to her: Enter the palace. But when she saw it she thought it was a great expanse of water, and prepared herself to meet the difficulty.^c He said: Surely it is a palace made smooth with glass. She said: My Lord, surely I have wronged myself, and I submit with Solomon to Allah, the Lord of the worlds.^d a (41) As pointed out in v. 36 footnote, Solomon was offended by the throne which the queen sent him as a present because of the indecent or idolatrous paintings on it, and therefore before she came to him, he caused certain alterations to be made in the throne. The purpose of the alteration is given here in express words, whether she follows the right way. In fact, she seems to have invited Solomon in the symbolic language of the paintings on the throne to her religion of idolatry, and by making alterations Solomon indicated that he could not make a compromise with idolatry.

b (42) By putting the question, was your throne like this? Solomon wanted to draw her attention pointedly to the alterations made. The queen's answer shows that her envoy had already told her that Solomon was offended by the present which she had sent — we were given the knowledge before about it. The submission referred to in the act of surrendering her kingdom does not mean that she had turned a Muslim. This is made clear in v. 43; she was prevented from becoming a true Muslim owing to her worship of the sun. Hence submission to God comes later; see the concluding words of v. 44.

c (44-1) The use of the word sāq (lit. shank or lower leg) to signify difficulty or distress in many phrases is a recognized idiomatic usage in Arabic. The expression used here means that she prepared herself to meet the difficulty. (Editor's Note: The literal translation, she bared her legs, has been made the basis of many groundless, vulgar stories about this episode.)

d (44-2) It appears that, in order to impress upon the queen that it was the unseen hand of God that worked in nature, Solomon made water to flow under the smooth glass floor of his palace. Thus he conveyed to her the message in symbolic

45 And certainly We sent to Thamūd their brother Sālih, saying: Serve Allah. Then lo! they became two factions, contending. 46He said: My people, why do you hasten on the evil before the good? Why do you not ask forgiveness of Allah so that mercy may be shown to you? 47They said: We consider you and those with you an evil omen. He said: (The cause of) your evil fortune is with Allah; rather, you are a people who are tried.

48 And there were in the city nine persons who made mischief in the land and did not act aright.^a 49They said: Swear to one another by Allah that we shall attack him and his family by night, then we shall say to his heir: We did not witness the destruction of his family, and we are surely truthful.^b 50And they planned a plan, and We planned a plan, while they did not perceive. 51See, then, what was the end of their plan, that We destroyed them and their people, all (of them). 52So those are their houses fallen down because they did wrong. Surely there is a sign in this for a people language that God was the real force behind all, as she had conveyed to him the message of idolatry in the symbolic language of the throne she had sent him as a present. The queen mistook the glass for the water which ran beneath; and when Solomon drew her attention to it, she at once realized her own error in worshipping outward objects, like the sun, while the real force or the source of life was Allah, Whose hand worked in these objects. Perhaps in words, too, he impressed on her the great message of Divine Unity. The result was that the queen accepted the religion of Solomon — I submit with Solomon to Allah, the Lord of the worlds. The Quran here contradicts the Bible which holds that Solomon had gone over to idol-worship on account of his non-Israelite wives, while the Quran states that his wives were converts to his religion and believers in Divine Unity.

a (48) There is no doubt a reference here to the enemies of the Holy Prophet, the chief of them being nine in number, eight of whom were slain at Badr, except Abu Lahab who died at Makkah on hearing the news of the defeat at Badr.

b (49) There seems to be a prophetic reference here to the plot against the Holy Prophet, for the same plan was ultimately agreed upon by the Quraish to do away with him. One man from every tribe of the Quraish was selected and, taking the Prophet unawares, they were to thrust their swords into his body simultaneously so that no particular tribe could be held guilty. This was agreed upon immediately before the Prophet's flight to Madinah, and thus the incident as relating to Sālih is meant as a prophecy.

who know. ⁵³And We delivered those who believed and kept their duty.

54 And Lot, when he said to his people: Do you commit foul deeds, while you see? ⁵⁵Will you come to men lustfully rather than women? Indeed, you are a people who act ignorantly. ⁵⁶But the answer of his people was only that they said: Drive out Lot's followers from your town; surely they are a people who would keep pure! ⁵⁷But We delivered him and his followers except his wife; We ordained her to be of those who remained behind. ⁵⁸And We rained on them a rain; and evil was the rain on those who had been warned.^a

Section 5: The Faithful will be exalted

59 Say: Praise be to Allah and peace on His servants whom He has chosen! Is Allah better, or what they set up as partners (with Him)? ^{*60}Or, Who created the heavens and the earth, and sends down for you water from the cloud? Then with it We cause to grow beautiful gardens — it is not possible for you to make their trees to grow. Is there a god with Allah? Indeed, they are a people who deviate! ⁶¹Or, Who made the earth a resting-place, and made in it rivers, and raised on it mountains, and placed between the two seas a barrier?^b Is there a god with Allah? Indeed, most of them do not know!

62 Or, Who answers the distressed one when he calls upon Him and removes the evil, and will make you successors in the earth?^c Is there a god with Allah? Little mindful are you! ⁶³Or, a (58) Stones were rained on them; see 7:84.

b (61) See 25:53.

c (62) The manifestation of the marvellous power of God in nature, the creation of the heavens and the earth, the sending down of rain, the making of rivers and mountains — all these wonderful signs of the existence of the Great Creator are here followed by another equally wonderful sign of the existence of God, the manifestation of His marvellous power in man. But mark the contrast. This manifestation of the existence of God is not to be sought in the greatness and power of man as the conqueror of the forces of nature, but in his weakness in his great

Who guides you in the darkness of the land and the sea, and Who sends the winds as good news before His mercy? Is there a god with Allah? Exalted be Allah above what they set up as partners (with Him)! ⁶⁴Or, Who originates the creation, then reproduces it, and Who gives you sustenance from the heaven and the earth? Is there a god with Allah? Say: Bring your proof, if you are truthful.

65 Say: No one in the heavens and the earth knows the unseen but Allah; and they do not know when they will be raised. ⁶⁶No, their knowledge does not reach the Hereafter. Indeed, they are in doubt about it. Indeed, they are blind to it.^a

Section 6: The Spiritual Resurrection

67 And those who disbelieve say: When we have become dust and our fathers (too), shall we really be brought forth? ⁶⁸We have certainly been promised this — we and our fathers before; this is nothing but stories of the ancients! ⁶⁹Say: Travel in the earth, then see what was the end of the guilty! ⁷⁰And do not grieve for them, nor be distressed because of what they plan.

71 And they say: When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful? ⁷²Say: Maybe something of what you seek to hasten has drawn near to you. ⁷³And surely your Lord is full of grace to people, but most of them do not give thanks. ⁷⁴And surely your Lord knows what their hearts conceal and what they manifest. ⁷⁵And there is nothing hidden in the heaven and the earth but it is in a clear book.

distress when, unable to find help from any source, he throws himself on the Divine threshold and seeks help from God. But what is more, this manifestation of God's power is beautifully mingled with prophecy — and He will make you successors in the earth. The distressed ones here are no other than the Muslims, who were being cruelly persecuted and tortured, and they are told that the manifestation of God's power in making them rulers of the earth would be as great as it was in His creation of the heavens and the earth. This also shows the purpose underlying the narration of the histories of David and Solomon.

a (66) Human knowledge cannot reach the life after death and God has given this knowledge to man through His revelation. But people are in doubt about it; in fact, they shut their eyes to it.

76 Surely this Quran declares to the Children of Israel most of what they differ about. ⁷⁷And surely it is a guidance and a mercy for the believers. ⁷⁸Truly your Lord will judge between them by His judgment, and He is the Mighty, the Knowing. ⁷⁹So rely on Allah. Surely you are on the plain truth.

80 Certainly you cannot make the dead to hear, nor can you make the deaf to hear the call, when they turn back retreating.^a ⁸¹Nor can you lead the blind out of their error. You can make none to hear except those who believe in Our messages, so they submit. ⁸²And when the word comes to pass against them, We shall bring forth for them a creature from the earth that will speak to them, because people did not believe in Our messages.^b

Section 7: Passing away of Opposition

83 And the day when We gather from every nation a company from among those who rejected Our messages, then they will be formed into groups. ⁸⁴Until, when they come (before Him), He will say: Did you reject My messages without comprehending them by knowledge? Or what was it that you did? ⁸⁵And the word will come to pass against them because they were unjust, so they will not speak. ⁸⁶Do they not see that We have made the night that they may rest in it, and the day to give light? Surely there are signs in this for a people who believe.

87 And the day when the trumpet is blown, then those in the a (80) This verse is a clear testimony to what is meant by the Prophet's raising the dead; for here we are told that, if the dead turn back retreating, the Prophet cannot make them hear. Evidently this verse and the opening words of the next speak of the reprobate who shut their eyes and close their ears to all truth.

b (82) By the creature from the earth that will speak to them are evidently meant people who are bent low upon earth. These people are the materialistic nations of the West who have lost all sense of the higher values of life. The coming forth of this creature, the dābbat al-arḍ, is one of the signs of the approach of the Hour according to the Hadith. But the Hour may mean either the day of Judgment or the doom of a people, and this verse gives us an indication that the Hour in this case stands for the doom of a nation; because here it is spoken of as being a punishment for not believing in the Divine messages.

heavens and those in the earth will be struck with terror, except such as Allah please. And all shall come to Him humbled.^a 88And you see the mountains, you think them firmly fixed — they shall pass away as the passing away of the cloud: the handiwork of Allah, Who has made everything thoroughly. Surely He is Aware of what you do.^b 89Whoever brings good, he will have better than it; and they will be secure from terror that day. 90And whoever brings evil, these will be thrown down on their faces into the Fire. Are you rewarded (anything) except for what you did?

91 I am commanded only to serve the Lord of this city,^c Who has made it sacred, and His are all things, and I am commanded to be of those who submit, 92and to recite the Quran. So whoever goes aright, goes aright only for the good of his own soul, and whoever goes astray — say: I am only a warner. 93And say: Praise be to Allah! He will show you His signs so that you shall recognize them. And your Lord is not heedless of what you do.^d a (87) As a foretaste of what was in store for the rejectors of the Truth, the prophecy was also brought to fulfilment in this life. The whole of Arabia recognized the Holy Prophet as its temporal and spiritual head, and the proud opponents were humbled.

b (88) In the passing away of the mountains there is a clear reference to the removal of the mighty men who opposed the Prophet's preaching. This is also shown by the concluding words of the verse, which clearly speak of the punishment of the evil deeds by One Who is Aware of what they do.

c (91) The statement here that the Prophet is commanded to serve the Lord of the city of Makkah contains an allusion that the servant of the Lord will be the lord of that city.

d (93) Note the firmness of the tone in which the showing of signs is asserted.

Chapter 28

Al-Qaṣaṣ

The Narrative

This chapter is chiefly a narrative of the story of Moses. After relating events of the life of Moses it announces that a prophet like him had now appeared with true revelation like the revelation of Moses, and its opponents will be humbled. In the end it says that their great wealth will not make them successful and prophesies that the Holy Prophet will return to Makkah in triumph. This chapter belongs to the middle period at Makkah, although v. 85 would appear to have been revealed when the Holy Prophet was fleeing from Makkah to Madinah.

Section 1: History of Moses — Infancy

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Benignant, Hearing, Knowing God!^a 2These are the verses of the Book that makes manifest. 3We recite to you the story of Moses and Pharaoh with truth, for a people who believe. 4Surely Pharaoh exalted himself in the land and made its people into parties, weakening one party from among them;^b he slaughtered their sons and let their women live. Surely he was one of the mischief-makers. 5And We desired to bestow a favour upon those who were considered weak in the land, and to make them the leaders, and to make them the heirs,^c 6and to grant them power in the land, and to make Pharaoh and Hāmān and their forces see from them what they feared.^d

b (4) The two parties were the Israelites and the Egyptians, the latter being made the taskmasters of the former. This refers no doubt to the persecutions of the Muslims. The Quraish, the stronger party, wanted to crush the weaker party of the Muslims.

c (5) By making them heirs is not meant that they would be made heirs to Pharaoh's possession, but heirs to a kingdom in the promised land of Canaan. And this refers also to the establishment of the kingdom of Islam and the defeat of its persecutors.

d (6) Hāmān seems to have been a minister of Pharaoh. He is spoken of

7 And We revealed to Moses' mother, saying: Suckle him; then when you fear for him, cast him into the river and do not fear, nor grieve; surely We shall bring him back to you and make him a messenger (of Ours). ⁸So Pharaoh's people took him up — he would be an enemy and a grief for them. Surely Pharaoh and Hāmān and their forces were wrongdoers. ⁹And Pharaoh's wife said: A joy of the eyes to me and to you — do not kill him; maybe he will be useful to us, or we may take him for a son. And they did not perceive.

10 And the heart of Moses' mother was free (from anxiety).^a She would almost have disclosed it, if We had not strengthened her heart, that she might be one of the believers. ¹¹And she said to his sister: Follow him up. So she watched him from a distance, while they did not perceive. ¹²And We did not allow him to be suckled before, so she said: Shall I point out to you the people of a house who will bring him up for you, and they will wish him well? ¹³So We gave him back to his mother that she might be comforted, and not grieve, and that she might know that the promise of Allah is true. But most of them do not know.^b

Section 2: History of Moses — flees Egypt

14 And when he attained his maturity and became full-grown, We granted him wisdom and knowledge. And thus do We reward those who do good (to others). ¹⁵And he went into the city at a time of carelessness on the part of its people, so he found in it two again in v. 8 and 38, and also in 29:39 and 40:24, 36. Pharaoh and his counsellors feared that the Israelites, who were aliens in the land of Egypt, might one day become powerful and supreme in the land. Hence they oppressed and persecuted them in various ways. Yet the Divine intention was to bring about what Pharaoh feared. Such also was the Divine intention with regard to the persecuted Muslims.

a (10) Her heart became free from anxiety on account of the assurance which she had received through Divine revelation; the words that follow show that her heart had been strengthened with patience, so it cannot be said to have become devoid, or free, of patience.

b (13) The reference is clearly to the opponents of the Holy Prophet, who did not know that the promise of Allah, as given to the faithful, would prove true.

men fighting — one being of his community and the other of his enemies; and he who was of his community cried out to him for help against him who was of his enemies, so Moses struck him with his fist and killed him. He said: This is on account of the devil's doing; surely he is an enemy, openly leading astray.^a ¹⁶He said: My Lord, surely I have done harm to myself,^b so protect me; so He protected him. Surely He is the Forgiving, the Merciful. ¹⁷He said: My Lord, because You have bestowed a favour on me, I shall never be a backer of the guilty.

18 And (the next day) he was in the city, fearing, awaiting, when suddenly, he who had asked his assistance the day before was crying out to him for help. Moses said to him: You are surely clearly doing wrong.^c ¹⁹So when he desired to seize him who was an enemy to them both, he said: Moses, do you intend to kill me as you killed a person yesterday? You only desire to be a tyrant in the land, and you do not intend to be of those who act aright.

20 And a man came running from the remotest part of the city. He said: Moses, the chiefs are consulting together to kill you, so depart (at once); surely I am one of your well-wishers. ²¹So he went forth from it, fearing, awaiting. He said: My Lord, deliver me from the unjust people.

a (15) The word “this”, in Moses’ statement, refers to the punishment which he had given to the Egyptian, the meaning being that it was on account of his devilish deed that the Egyptian had been so punished. The Rabbinical explanation of Exodus 2:12 is that the Egyptian merited death “because he had forced an Israelitish woman to commit adultery with him” (Jewish Encyclopedia, vol. ix, p. 48). The Quran does not name the offence, but there is no doubt that it calls his offence a devilish deed. V. 17 shows clearly that Moses did not consider himself as one who had done an unjust deed or helped a guilty person. See also 26:14.

b (16) Moses’ prayer is not evidence of his being guilty, for the word zulm used here indicates making to suffer harm, loss, detriment or failure, and this is the meaning of zulm adopted in 7:160 and 18:33. The meaning here is that he had risked his own life in giving help to another.

c (18) Moses helped the man on the first occasion because he was oppressed, but now this very man was oppressing another. Therefore he refused to help him.

Section 3: History of Moses — In Midian

22 And when he turned his face towards Midian, he said: Maybe my Lord will guide me in the right path. ²³And when he came to the water of Midian, he found there a group of men watering, and he found besides them two women keeping back (their flocks). He said: What is the matter with you two? They said: We cannot water until the shepherds take away (their sheep) from the water; and our father is a very old man. ²⁴So he watered (their sheep) for them, then went back to the shade, and said: My Lord, I stand in need of whatever good You may send to me.

25 Then one of the two women came to him walking bashfully. She said: My father invites you that he may reward you for having watered for us.^a So when he came to him and related to him the story, he said: Do not fear, you are secure from the unjust people. ²⁶One of them said: Father, employ him; surely the best one you can employ is the strong, the faithful one. ²⁷He said: I desire to marry one of these two daughters of mine to you on condition that you serve me for eight years; but, if you complete ten, it will be of your own free will, and I do not wish to be hard on you. If Allah please, you will find me (to be) one of the righteous.^b a (25) The commentators say this man was Shuaib, and Shuaib is mentioned by the name of Jethro in the Bible.

b (27) In Moses' stay at Midian for ten years, there is a prophetic reference to the ten years of the Prophet's life at Madinah. The mention of eight years has another underlying significance, for it was after eight years that the Prophet came back to Makkah as a conqueror, a clear reference to which is contained further on in v. 85: He Who has made the Quran binding on you will surely bring you back to the Place of Return. This occurred exactly eight years after his Flight. That such is the real significance of relating this narrative is made clear in v. 45, where the Prophet is thus addressed: And you were not dwelling among the people of Midian, reciting to them Our messages. It is, as it were, to say that it was Moses who lived among the people of Midian, but his episode really conveys the news of what will happen to you.

It may be added here that Moses was paid his wages, and the condition of his staying in Midian for eight or ten years was as much in his own interest as in the interest of Jethro, for as the Bible narrative shows, Pharaoh had died by the time that Moses' stay in Midian had come to an end.

²⁸He said: That is (agreed) between me and you; whichever of the two terms I fulfil, there will be no injustice to me; and Allah is surety over what we say.

Section 4: History of Moses — Prophethood and Mission

29 Then when Moses had completed the term, and was travelling with his family, he perceived a fire on the side of the mountain. He said to his family: Wait, I see a fire; maybe I will bring you from it some news or a brand of fire, so that you may warm yourselves. ³⁰And when he came to it, he was called from the right side of the valley in the blessed spot of the bush: O Moses, surely I am Allah, the Lord of the worlds: ³¹And throw down your staff. So when he saw it in motion as if it were a snake, he turned away retreating, and did not look back. O Moses, come forward and do not fear; surely you are secure (here). ³²Insert your hand into your bosom, it will come forth white without harm, and remain calm in fear. These two are two arguments from your Lord to Pharaoh and his chiefs. Surely they are a transgressing people.^a 33 He said: My Lord, I killed one of them, so I fear that they may kill me. ³⁴And my brother, Aaron, he is more eloquent in speech than I, so send him with me as a helper to confirm me. Surely I fear that they would reject me. ³⁵He said: We will strengthen your arm with your brother, and We will give you both an authority, so that they shall not reach you.^b With Our signs, you two and those who follow you, will triumph.

36 So when Moses came to them with Our clear signs, they said: This is nothing but fabricated deceit, and we never heard of it among our fathers of old! ³⁷And Moses said: My Lord knows best who comes with guidance from Him, and whose shall be the good end of the abode. Surely the wrongdoers will not be successful.

b (35) The meaning is, so that they will not be able to injure you.

38 And Pharaoh said: Chiefs, I know no god for you besides myself; so kindle a fire for me, Hāmān, on (bricks of) clay, then prepare for me a tower, so that I may reach the God of Moses, and surely I think him a liar.^a 39And he was unjustly proud in the land, he and his armies, and they thought that they would not be brought back to Us. 40So We caught hold of him and his armies, then We cast them into the sea, and see what was the end of the wrongdoers. 41And We made them leaders who call to the Fire, and on the day of Resurrection they will not be helped.^b 42And We made a curse to follow them in this world, and on the day of Resurrection they will be hideous.

Section 5: A Prophet like Moses

43 And certainly We gave Moses the Book after We had destroyed the former generations — clear arguments for people and a guidance and a mercy, that they may be mindful. 44And you were not on the western side when We revealed to Moses the commandment, nor were you among those present;^c 45but We raised up generations, then life became prolonged to them. And you were not dwelling among the people of Midian,^d reciting to them Our messages, but We are the Sender (of messengers).

a (38) Pharaoh mocks at the idea of the Lord of the heavens and the earth, and derisively commands one of his ministers to prepare bricks — such being the significance of kindling a fire on clay — and to erect a tower so that he may look into the heavens to discover the Lord of the heavens and the earth.

b (41) Pharaoh is made a prototype of evil, and the opponents of the Prophet are warned that by walking in Pharaoh's footsteps they will meet a similar fate.

c (44) Moses' prophecy about the advent of the Prophet — of a prophet like him from among the Ishmaelites, the brethren of the Israelites — was so clear that one would think that the Prophet was there at the side of the mountain and Moses saw him with his own eyes. The opening words of the next verse show that a very long time had elapsed between these two prophets. The prophecy of Moses of the advent of a prophet like him was fulfilled after about two thousand years, and yet none of the prophets who followed Moses had ever claimed to be a prophet like Moses, not even Jesus Christ, the last of the line of the Israelite prophets.

d (45) See v. 27. Moses lived in Midian for ten years, just as the Prophet passed ten years of his life at Madinah, yet what a transformation was wrought in the course of these ten years! This very fact was a clear proof of his truth.

46 And you were not at the side of the mountain when We called, but a mercy from your Lord that you may warn a people to whom no warner came before you, that they may be mindful.^a 47 And in case, if a disaster should befall them for what their hands have already done, they should say: Our Lord, why did You not send to us a messenger so that we might have followed Your messages and been from among the believers? 48 But (now) when the Truth has come to them from Us, they say: Why is he not given the like of what was given to Moses? Did they not disbelieve in what was given to Moses before? They say: Two enchantments backing up each other! And they say: Surely we are disbelievers in both.^b 49 Say: Then bring some (other) Book from Allah which is a better guide than these two, I will follow it — if you are truthful.^c 50 But if they do not answer you, know that they only follow their low desires. And who is more in error than he who follows his low desires without any guidance from Allah? Surely Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

Section 6: The Truth of Revelation

51 And certainly We have made the Word to have many a (46) The meaning of v. 44–46 is: You were not there, but it was Divine mercy that put a prophecy into the mouth of Moses regarding you. This is made clear by the words a mercy from your Lord that you may warn.... The people to whom no warner had come before were the Arabs. Compare 32:3, 36:6.

b (48) The disbelievers did not adopt any one firm position against the Holy Prophet, and whenever one objection was shown to be erroneous, they took refuge in another. At the advent of the Prophet they said that he should have received a revelation like the revelation of Moses, but when the likeness was pointed out to them, they said that both Moses and Muhammad were deceivers who enchanted people by their eloquence, the one helping the other, and therefore they believed neither in the one nor in the other.

c (49) The meaning is that, if you do not admit the truth of either revelation, you should show some other revelation existing in the world, which should offer better guidance. This statement only draws attention to the fact that the revelation granted to Moses and that granted to the Holy Prophet both occupy a higher position than any other revelation. And this is in fact true, for among all the sacred books of the world the Bible occupies a position second only to the Quran.

connections for their sake, so that they may be mindful.^a 52Those to whom We gave the Book before it, they are believers in it.^b 53And when it is recited to them they say: We believe in it; surely it is the Truth from our Lord; we were indeed, before this, submitting ones. 54These will be granted their reward twice, because they are steadfast, and they repel evil with good and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them.^c 55And when they hear idle talk, they turn aside from it and say: For us are our deeds and for you your deeds. Peace be on you! We do not desire the ignorant.

56 Surely you cannot guide whom you love, but Allah guides whom He pleases; and He knows best those who walk aright.^d 57And they say: If we follow the guidance with you, we should be a (51) What is implied here is that the word of Allah, as contained in the Quran, is made to have many points of connection with previous revelation, so that it may be the easier for them to be reminded of its truth. Even if they did not believe in previous revelation, the broad points of likeness in the principles of two different prophets appearing at such a distance of time from each other, among entirely different nations, and under totally different circumstances, and the fulfilment of the prophecies uttered by one in the other, afforded conclusive evidence of the truth of them both.

b (52) It is not meant that all those who have previously been given the Scriptures believe in the Quran. The verse only draws attention to the fact that all believe in the truth of revelation from Allah, and they cannot deny the points of connection between the two revelations, the truth of the fundamental principles and the fulfilment of prophecies. But only those would believe who have submitted themselves already to Allah, as the verse that follows shows.

c (54) The reason for a double reward — which only means a greater reward — is given in the words that follow. They had to suffer persecution, and not only did they remain steadfast in these great trials, but they repelled the evil of their persecutors with good, and in addition to all this made great sacrifices by spending in the cause of Truth. For double reward, see also 33:31 and 57:28.

d (56) It is related that when Abu Talib was on his deathbed, the Holy Prophet asked him to believe in Divine Unity. Abu Jahl, being by him at the time, dissuaded him from doing so, saying that he should not desert the religion of his fathers. Abu Talib died an unbeliever, and the words you cannot guide whom you love were a comfort to the Prophet (Bukhari, 65.28:1). But the words are true in a general sense as well. The Prophet wished that all people should accept the Truth and better their lives. But all this was to be brought about gradually.

carried off from our country. Have We not settled them in a safe, sacred territory to which fruits of every kind are drawn? A sustenance from Us — but most of them do not know.^a 58 And how many a town have We destroyed which exulted in its means of subsistence! So those are their abodes: they have not been dwelt in after them except a little. And We are ever the Inheritors.^b 59 And your Lord never destroyed the towns, until He had raised in their metropolis a messenger, reciting to them Our messages, and We never destroyed the towns except when their people were wrongdoers. 60 And whatever things you have been given are only a provision of this world's life and its adornment, and whatever is with Allah is better and more lasting. Do you not then understand?

Section 7: Opponents shall be brought Low

61 Is he to whom We have promised a goodly promise, which he will meet with, like him whom We have provided with the provisions of this world's life, then on the day of Resurrection he will be of those brought up (for punishment)?^c 62 And the day when He will call them and say: Where are those whom you asserted to be My partners? 63 Those against whom the word has proved true will say: Our Lord, these are they whom we caused to deviate — we caused them to deviate as we ourselves deviated. We declare our innocence before You. Us they never worshipped.^d 64 And it will be said: Call your associate-gods. So they will

a (57) The verse speaks first of the unfounded fears of those who thought that the weakness of the Muslims would result in the seizure, death, or expulsion of those who accepted the faith of Islam. In reply they are told that the prophecies which declare Makkah to be a safe and sacred territory, to which people will flock in all ages, must come to fulfilment, and Makkah will ultimately be theirs for whose sake these prophecies were uttered.

b (58) That is, even now the Divine kingdom will be established, and the true believers in God will be made masters of the country.

c (61) There are two parties spoken of here: the Prophet and his followers, who have received a goodly promise from Allah, though weak and oppressed at the time, and the powerful enemy, who has all the provisions of life in his possession, but who will one day be called upon to receive judgment.

d (63) By those against whom the word has proved true are meant the call upon them, but they will not answer them, and they will see the punishment. If only they had followed the right way!

65 And the day He will call them, then say: What was the answer you gave to the messengers? ⁶⁶On that day excuses will become obscure to them, so they will not ask each other. ^a ⁶⁷But as to him who repents and believes and does good, maybe he will be among the successful. ⁶⁸And your Lord creates and chooses whom He pleases. To choose is not theirs. Glory be to Allah and supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)! ⁶⁹And your Lord knows what their hearts conceal and what they proclaim. ⁷⁰And He is Allah, there is no God but He! His is the praise in this (life) and the Hereafter; and His is the judgment, and to Him you will be brought back.

71 Say: Do you see if Allah were to make the night to continue incessantly on you till the day of Resurrection, who is the god besides Allah that could bring you light? Will you not then hear? ⁷²Say: Do you see if Allah were to make the day to continue incessantly on you till the day of Resurrection, who is the god besides Allah that could bring you the night in which you take rest? Do you not then see? ⁷³And out of His mercy He has made for you the night and the day, that you may rest in it, and that you may seek of His grace (in the day), and that you may give thanks.

74 And the day when He will call them and say: Where are those whom you asserted to be My partners? ⁷⁵And We shall draw forth from among every nation a witness and say: Bring your proof. Then shall they know that the Truth is Allah's and what they forged will fail them.

leaders in unbelief. Their saying Us they never worshipped shows that these very leaders are spoken of as the gods whom their followers worship.

a (66) They will not be able to offer an excuse, for the vanity of the false excuses, which satisfied them here, would then become manifest to them. Nor will they ask each other, for each will know the falsity of the excuses of the others.

Section 8: Korah's Wealth leads him to Ruin

76 Korah was surely from among the people of Moses, but he oppressed them, and We gave him treasures, so much so that his hoards of wealth would weigh down a body of strong men.^a When his people said to him: Do not exult; surely Allah does not love the exultant. ⁷⁷And seek the abode of the Hereafter by means of what Allah has given you, and do not neglect your portion of the world, and do good (to others) as Allah has done good to you, and do not seek to make mischief in the land. Surely Allah does not love the mischief-makers. ⁷⁸He said: I have been given this only on account of the knowledge I have. Did he not know that Allah had destroyed before him generations who were mightier in strength than he and greater in assemblage? And the guilty are not questioned about their sins.^b

79 So he went out to his people in his finery. Those who desired this world's life said: If only we had the like of what Korah is given! Surely he is possessed of mighty good fortune! ⁸⁰But those who were given the knowledge said: Woe to you! Allah's reward is better for him who believes and does good, and none is made to receive this except the patient. ⁸¹So We made the earth to swallow him up^c and his abode. He had no army to help him against Allah, nor could he defend himself. ⁸²And those who had yearned for his place the day before began to say: Ah! (know) that Allah amplifies provision for whom He pleases of His servants and restricts (it also); if Allah had not been gracious to us, a (76) The story of Korah, or Qārūn, his revolt against the leadership of Moses and Aaron, and his being swallowed up by the earth, is given in the Bible in the book of Numbers, ch. 16. The only addition of any importance to the story as given in the Quran is the mention of his wealth, a fact noticed in Rabbinical literature. There may be a reference in the mention of Korah's wealth to the modern materialistic tendency of making the accumulation of wealth the great object of life to the utter neglect of the Truth. The hankering after wealth and the amassing of gold leads undoubtedly to ruin, as it is leading the world today.

b (78) They will not be asked to give any explanation for their sins, as Allah is All-Knowing.

c (81) The meaning conveyed is that he perished.

He would have humbled us. Ah! (know) that the ungrateful are never successful.

Section 9: The Prophet will return to Makkah

83 That abode of the Hereafter, We assign it to those who have no desire to exalt themselves in the earth nor to make mischief. And the good end is for those who keep their duty. ⁸⁴Whoever brings good, he will have better than it; and whoever brings evil, those who do evil will be recompensed only for what they did.

85 He Who has made the Quran binding on you will surely bring you back to the Place of Return.^a Say: My Lord knows best him who has brought the guidance and him who is in manifest error. ⁸⁶And you did not expect that the Book would be inspired to you, but it is a mercy from your Lord, so do not be a backer of the disbelievers. ⁸⁷And let them not turn you aside from the messages of Allah after they have been revealed to you, and call (people) to your Lord and do not be of those who set up partners (with Allah). ⁸⁸And do not call with Allah any other god. There is no God but He. Everything will perish but He. His is the judgment, and to Him you will be brought back.

^a (85) The “Place of Return” (ma’ād) here has been taken to mean Makkah in classical interpretations, because the conquest of it was promised to the Prophet, so that it was the place to which he would return. But Makkah is really called the Place of Return because the pilgrims return to it. According to some, this verse was revealed on the Prophet’s departure from Makkah, i.e., on his way to Madinah. It contains a clear promise of the Prophet being brought back to the city from which he was now being expelled.

Al-‘Ankabūt

The Spider

This chapter is entitled The Spider as v. 41 compares false beliefs with a spider’s web, which shall be swept away by the current of truth. It begins by stating that believers must undergo trials and persecutions, even by their parents, before truth can triumph. These sufferings purify them. Then it relates histories of prophets who underwent suffering. It goes on to refer to the purifying effect of the Quran on the believers. Finally, it warns the opponents of their fate and comforts the believers by stating that their sufferings will change to a state of happiness and their exertions and striving in the cause of truth will be fruitful. Chapters 29 to 32 form one group revealed near the close of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Trials purify

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower.^a 2Do people think that they will be left alone on saying, We believe, and will not be tried?^b 3And indeed We tried those before them, so Allah will certainly know those who are true and He will know the liars.^c 4Or do they who work evil think that they will escape Us? Evil is it what they judge! 5Whoever hopes to meet with Allah, the term of Allah is then surely coming. And He is the Hearing, the Knowing. 6And whoever strives hard, strives for himself. Surely Allah is above need of (His) creatures.^d 7And those who believe and do good,

a (1) See 2:1 footnote, for explanation.

b (2) By the trials spoken of in these verses are meant the persecutions of the believers by the disbelievers. This is made clear in v. 10.

c (3) The knowing in this case relates to a knowledge of the event when it takes place, when reward or punishment is meted out to a person for what he does.

d (6) As shown under 25:52, the word jihād occurs in Makkan revelation frequently, and carries its proper significance of striving hard in Allah’s way. The suffering of persecutions and tortures at the hands of their enemies for the sake of

We shall certainly do away with their afflictions ^a and reward them for the best of what they did.

8 And We have enjoined on man goodness to his parents. But if they strive to make you set up partners with Me, of which you have no knowledge, do not obey them. ^b To Me is your return, so I will inform you of what you did. ⁹And those who believe and do good, We shall surely make them enter among the righteous.

10 And among people is he who says: We believe in Allah; but when he is persecuted for the sake of Allah, he thinks the persecution of people to be as the punishment of Allah. ^c And if help comes from your Lord, they will say: Surely we were with you. Is not Allah the Best Knower of what is in the hearts of mankind? ¹¹And certainly Allah will know those who believe, and He will know the hypocrites. ¹²And those who disbelieve say to those who believe: Follow our path and we will bear your wrongs. And they can never bear any of their wrongs at all. Surely they are liars. ¹³And they will certainly bear their own burdens, and other burdens besides their own burdens; and they will certainly be questioned on the day of Resurrection as to what they forged. ^d

a (7) These words may signify either doing away with their afflictions or trials, or doing away with their evil deeds. I prefer the first because it is of the trials and afflictions of the believers that these verses speak. If the second significance is adopted, it would mean that the evil deeds which the believers did before they accepted the Truth would be effaced, because the course of their lives was now changed.

b (8) This verse, while signifying the importance of obedience to parents, warns against attaching over-importance even to filial duty. It shows that when an important duty clashes with a still higher one, the former is to be sacrificed for the latter.

c (10) The meaning is that those who are weak in faith consider the persecution by the disbelievers, which was necessary to strengthen and purify their faith, as if it were a punishment from Allah for their change of faith. The latter part of the verse is a prophecy as to what the weak in faith will say when they see the help of Allah coming to the Muslims.

d (13) The Quran does not anywhere say that the burden of one shall be taken away by another. Each one is responsible for what he does. The "other burdens"

Section 2: Noah and Abraham

14 And We indeed sent Noah to his people, so he remained among them a thousand years save fifty years.^a And the deluge overtook them, and they were wrongdoers. 15 So We delivered him and the inmates of the ark, and made it a sign to the nations.

16 And (We sent) Abraham, when he said to his people: Serve Allah and keep your duty to Him. That is better for you, if you know. 17 You only worship idols besides Allah and you invent a lie. Surely they whom you serve besides Allah control no sustenance for you; so seek sustenance from Allah and serve Him and be grateful to Him. To Him you will be brought back.

18 And if you reject, nations before you did indeed reject (the Truth). And the duty of the Messenger is only to deliver the message clearly. 19 Do they not see how Allah originates the creation, then reproduces it? Surely that is easy to Allah.^b 20 Say: Travel in the earth then see how He makes the first creation, then Allah creates the latter creation. Surely Allah is Powerful over all

a (14) The Bible gives 950 years to be the age of Noah. It is not improbable that the span of man's life may have been greater in his earlier history than at present, and Noah may have attained an extraordinary age among his compatriots. But there are indications that the reference here is to the abiding for 950 years of the law preached by Noah, his place then being taken by Abraham, as the mention of Abraham immediately afterwards shows.

b (19) The law of creation and destruction of things, which is constantly working in nature, finds an expression in the lives of nations: a nation is brought into existence, then it is swept away and a new nation raised in its place. It is to this law that the verse refers as a warning to the idolatrous Makkans that the time had now come when their place would be taken by another nation. This is made clear in the verses that follow. It should be noted that verses 18–23 are parenthetical, being an address to the opponents of the Holy Prophet. The Quran frequently adopts this method of warning in the middle of another narration, for its object is not to relate a story, but to warn those who opposed the spread of Truth as revealed to the Holy Prophet.

things.^a ²¹He punishes whom He pleases and has mercy on whom He pleases, and to Him you will be turned back. ²²And you cannot escape in the earth nor in the heaven, and you have no protector or helper besides Allah.

Section 3: Abraham and Lot

23 And those who disbelieve in the messages of Allah and the meeting with Him, they despair of My mercy, and for them is a painful punishment. ²⁴But the answer of his people was only that they said: Kill him or burn him! But Allah delivered him from the fire. Surely there are signs in this for a people who believe.^b ²⁵And he said: You have only taken idols besides Allah by way of friendship between you in this world's life, then on the day of Resurrection you will deny one another and curse one another; and your abode is the Fire, and you will have no helpers.

26 So Lot believed in him. And he said: I am fleeing to my Lord. Surely He is the Mighty, the Wise.^c ²⁷And We granted him Isaac and Jacob, and ordained prophethood and the Book among his offspring. And We gave him his reward in this world, and in the Hereafter he will surely be among the righteous.

28 And (We sent) Lot, when he said to his people: Surely you commit foul deeds which none of the nations has done before you.

a (20) Elsewhere, the words travel in the earth are always followed by then see what was the end of the rejectors, instead of which we have here how He makes the first creation, then Allah creates the latter creation. This shows that what is meant here is the disappearance of one nation to give place to another. (Editor's Note: There may also be a hint here that by travelling in the earth one can find evidence of evolution, as Charles Darwin discovered by his travels.)

b (24) As in 21:69, so here, it is not stated that Abraham was actually cast into the fire. On the other hand, the plan was either to kill or to burn him, and therefore the fire may only stand for the opposition which these plans involved.

c (26) The words I am fleeing to my Lord indicate his flight to another country to where he was commanded to flee by his Lord. This is more clearly stated in 19:48: "And I withdraw from you," being followed by the statement in 19:49: "So when he withdrew from them". This makes it further clear that his deliverance from the fire was brought about by his flight to another country.

²⁹Do you come to males and commit robbery on the highway, and commit evil deeds in your assemblies?^a But the answer of his people was only that they said: Bring on us Allah's punishment, if you are truthful. ³⁰He said: My Lord, help me against the mischievous people.

Section 4: Opposition to Truth ever a Failure

31 And when Our messengers came to Abraham with good news, they said: We are going to destroy the people of this town, for its people are wrongdoers. ³²He said: Surely in it is Lot. They said: We know well who is in it; we shall certainly deliver him and his followers, except his wife; she is of those who remain behind. ³³And when Our messengers came to Lot, he was grieved on account of them, and he lacked strength to protect them. And they said: Do not fear, nor grieve; surely we will deliver you and your followers, except your wife — she is of those who remain behind. ³⁴Surely We are going to bring down upon the people of this town a punishment from heaven, because they transgressed. ³⁵And certainly We have left a clear sign of it for a people who understand.^b

36 And to Midian (We sent) their brother Shuaib, so he said: My people, serve Allah and fear the Last Day, and do not act corruptly, making mischief, in the land. ³⁷But they rejected him, so a severe earthquake overtook them and they lay prostrate in their abodes. ³⁸And Ād and Thamūd! And some of their dwellings are indeed apparent to you. And the devil made their deeds seem good to them, so he kept them back from the path, and they could see clearly. ³⁹And Korah and Pharaoh and Hāmān! And certainly Moses came to them with clear arguments, but they behaved a (29) Three sins are ascribed to Lot's people — homosexuality, highway robbery, and openly committing evil deeds in their assemblies. Therefore it is a mistake to explain all incidents in connection with Lot's story only with reference to homosexuality as the sole evil of which they were guilty.

b (35) Sodom and Gomorrah, the cities destroyed, are in the neighbourhood of the Dead Sea, on the road from Arabia: "And it is on a road that still abides" (15:76).

haughtily in the land; and they could not outstrip (Us). ⁴⁰So each one We punished for his sin. On some of them We sent a violent storm, and some of them the rumbling overtook, and some of them We caused the earth to swallow, and some of them We drowned.^a And it was not Allah, Who wronged them, but they wronged themselves.

41 The parable of those who take guardians besides Allah is as the parable of the spider that makes for itself a house; and surely the frailest of houses is the spider's house — if only they knew!^b ⁴²Surely Allah knows whatever they call upon besides Him. And He is the Mighty, the Wise. ⁴³And these parables, We set them forth for people, and none understand them but the learned. ⁴⁴Allah created the heavens and the earth with truth. Surely there is a sign in this for the believers.

Section 5: The Quran is a Purifier

45 Recite what has been revealed to you of the Book and keep up prayer. Surely prayer keeps (one) away from indecency and evil; and certainly the remembrance of Allah is the greatest (force). And Allah knows what you do.^c ⁴⁶And do not argue with the a (40) For these punishments, in order, see 7:72, 78, 84; 28:81; 2:50; 7:64.

b (41) A trust in false deities, which stands for all false beliefs, is here compared with a spider's web to express the nature of its extreme frailty. It may prosper for a time, but no sooner is the light of criticism and research brought to bear upon it than it vanishes and leaves no trace behind. This also refers to the plans of the Holy Prophet's opponents, which were destined to be brought to naught by reason of their inability to withstand the overwhelming advance of Truth.

c (45) This verse invites the followers of all religions to accept the Quran on account of its purifying effect upon life, as the previous scriptures had ceased to effect deliverance from the bondage of sin. The verse also lays down the right principle for getting rid of the bondage of sin in the words the remembrance of Allah is the greatest, i.e., the most powerful and effective restraint upon sin. It is a living belief in the Divine power, knowledge, and goodness that restrains people from walking in the ways of His displeasure.

The recitation of the Book, the keeping up of prayer, and the remembrance of Allah are really identical; for the Quran is recited in prayers, and the Quran is the best means of the remembrance of Allah. The Quran is pre-eminently a Book

People of the Book except by what is best,^a save such of them as act unjustly.^b But say: We believe in what has been revealed to us and revealed to you, and our God and your God is One, and to Him we submit. ⁴⁷And thus have We revealed the Book to you.^c So those whom We have given the Book believe in it, and some of these ^d(also) believe in it; and none deny Our messages except the disbelievers. ⁴⁸And you did not recite before it any book, nor did you transcribe one with your right hand, for then could the liars have doubted.^e ⁴⁹Rather, it is clear messages in the hearts of those that manifests the glory, greatness, grandeur, goodness, love, purity, power, and knowledge of the Supreme Being. While, as generally understood, by the remembrance of Allah is meant His glorification and praise in prayer, it is also here meant Allah's remembrance of man or His raising him to a place of eminence. Thus the significance would be that through prayer to God, not only is man freed from the bondage of sin, but (which is greater than this) he is raised to a place of higher eminence.

a (46-1) The Quran here explains that it is the broad principles of religion that should demand paramount consideration. The fundamental principle of religion is that God exists and that He reveals Himself to man, and it is common to all revealed religions. The only difference is that a Muslim's is a purer monotheism, a conception of the Divine Being which gives the most perfect attributes to Him while declaring Him to be free from all imperfections and weaknesses, a conception which cannot reasonably be criticized by anyone who admits a belief in a Supreme Being. A Muslim's conception of Divine revelation is wider than that of the follower of any other religion, recognizing, as it does, that Divine revelation is granted in all ages and to all nations. A Muslim, therefore, admits the truth of all the prophets and revelations, and the follower of any other religion has nothing to lose but everything to gain by accepting Islam.

b (46-2) The words "save such of them as act unjustly" do not mean that controversy is to be carried on with these in a different manner, but that the unjust would not accept this reasonable interpretation of the principles of religion. This is made clear in the verse that follows.

c (47-1) And thus have We revealed the Book; that is, by confirming the truth of all previous revelation.

d (47-2) The word these refers to Arabs, who possessed no sacred scriptures.

e (48) The broad principles of religion and the beautiful moral and spiritual truths which find expression in the Quran could not have been collected, if such a collection by human exertion were possible, except by one who had knowledge of all the previous scriptures; but the Holy Prophet had not read even a single book. He could neither read nor write, and his inability to do either is thus a confir-who are granted knowledge.^a And none deny Our messages except the wrongdoers.

50 And they say: Why are not signs sent down upon him from his Lord? Say: Signs are with Allah only, and I am only a plain warner.^b ⁵¹Is it not enough for them that We have revealed to you the Book which is recited to them? Surely there is mercy in this and a reminder for a people who believe.^c

Section 6: Warning and Consolation

52 Say: Allah is sufficient as a witness between me and you — He knows what is in the heavens and the earth. And those who believe in falsehood and disbelieve in Allah, these it is that are the losers. ⁵³And they ask you to hasten on the punishment. And if a time had not been fixed, the punishment would certainly have come to them. And certainly it will come to them all of a sudden, while they do not perceive. ⁵⁴They ask you to hasten on the punishment, and surely hell encompasses the disbelievers — ⁵⁵The day

mation of his truth. Leaving aside all the principles and truths, if we consider the broad principles that Islam taught with regard to the truth of Divine revelation in all ages and to all nations, a truth never taught or recognized before the Holy Prophet, it is remarkable that such a broad truth should have been preached by one who had never read the scriptures of any religion and who lived in a country which was almost cut off from all communication with other countries. See also 7:157 footnote 1.

a (49) The Quran contains not only truths which are met with in previous scriptures, but also others which are not to be found in any scripture, and which are only in the hearts of the learned ones, or those that may ever be conceived by the learned ones.

b (50) The Prophet is a warner, and gives warning in due time that the signs are with Allah, Whose power to send these signs they deny. Read also in this connection verses 53–55, which uphold the coming of the punishment, leaving no doubt as to the meaning of signs being with Allah.

c (51) This is another reply to those who demanded signs. The Quran is a mercy, if they would only accept it. They could see how the believers had benefited by it; how a wonderful transformation had been wrought in their lives. Indeed, this was direct evidence of the truth of the Holy Word, for to effect a pure transformation in the lives of those who would follow it was its avowed object, while the overthrow of its enemies was only an indirect testimony.

when the punishment will cover them from above them, and from beneath their feet!^a And He will say: Taste what you did.

56 O My servants who believe, surely My earth is vast, so serve Me only.^b 57 Every soul must taste of death; then to Us you will be returned. 58 And those who believe and do good, We shall certainly give them an abode in high places in the Garden in which rivers flow, abiding in it. Excellent the reward of the workers, 59 who are patient, and on their Lord they rely! 60 And how many a living creature does not carry its sustenance! Allah sustains it and yourselves. And He is the Hearing, the Knowing.^c

61 And if you ask them, Who created the heavens and the earth and made the sun and the moon subservient, they would say: Allah. How are they then turned away (from truth)! 62 Allah amplifies provision for whom He pleases of His servants, and restricts (it) for him (also). Surely Allah is Knower of all things. 63 And if you ask them, Who is it that sends down water from the clouds, then gives life with it to the earth after its death, they will say: Allah. Say: Praise be to Allah! But most of them do not understand.^d

Section 7: Triumph of the Faithful

64 And this world's life is but an idle sport and play. And the home of the Hereafter, that surely is the Life, if only they knew! 65 So when they ride in the ships, they call upon Allah, being sincere a (55) The expression used is simply to indicate the all-encompassing nature of the punishment, which will not leave them a way to escape. Compare 6:65.

b (56) This is to comfort the Muslims against the severe persecutions by their enemies. If they are persecuted at Makkah, they will find a refuge elsewhere.

c (60) This is a consolation to the Muslims that the giving up of their concerns and business at Makkah will not lead to their ruin. (Editor's Note: This verse also points out that, as in nature sustenance for all creatures is provided for by God, so it is a duty of man to ensure that all creatures continue to receive their sustenance for their survival.)

d (63) Most of them did not understand that the dead earth was now about to be raised to life.

to Him in obedience; but when He brings them safe to the land, then they set up partners (with Him), ⁶⁶so as to be ungrateful for what We have given them, and that they may enjoy. But they shall soon know. ⁶⁷Do they not see that We have made a sacred territory secure, while people are carried off by force from around them?^a Will they still believe in falsehood and disbelieve in the favour of Allah?

68 And who is more unjust than one who forges a lie about Allah, or calls the Truth a lie when it has come to him? Is there not an abode in hell for the disbelievers? ⁶⁹And those who strive hard for Us, We shall certainly guide them in Our ways. And Allah is surely with the doers of good.

a (67) The ḥaram ("sacred territory") includes the city of Makkah and several miles of territory around it. War is forbidden within these limits. The reference in people are carried off by force is to the great insecurity of life and property in Arabia, while no one dared violate the sacredness of Makkah.

Chapter 30

Al-Rūm

The Romans

This chapter is named after its prophecy of the victory of the Romans over the Persians. Disclosing this news, it also prophesies a great Muslim victory over their oppressors. The respective conditions of the two groups will soon be reversed, it adds. It goes on to say that the same Divine power which controls physical nature will bring about the triumph of Islam, and that as Islam appeals to man's inner nature itself it will be accepted universally. Finally, it states that a great moral transformation will be brought about in Arabia by Islam and the mighty opposition to it will be overthrown. Chapters 29 to 32 form one group revealed near the close of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: A Great Prophecy

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower.^a 2The Romans are defeated³ in a near land, and they, after their defeat, will gain victory^b a (1) See 2:1 footnote, for explanation.

b (3) The struggle between Persia and the Roman Empire had existed for a long time. In 602 C.E., Chosroes II of Persia began war with Rome: "His armies plundered Syria and Asia Minor, and in 608 advanced to Chalcedon. In 613 and 614 Damascus and Jerusalem were taken by the General Shahabraz, and the Holy Cross was carried away in triumph. Soon after, even Egypt was conquered. The Romans could offer but little resistance, as they were torn by internal dissensions and pressed by the Avars and Slavs" (Encyclopaedia Britannica, Art. "Chosroes II"). When the news of this conquest reached Makkah, the Quraish were jubilant, as their sympathies were with the fire-worshipping Persians more than with the Christians, who, being the followers of the scriptures, were classed by them with the Muslims. It was in 615 or 616 C.E. that this revelation came to the Prophet, containing two different prophecies, one about the defeat of the victorious Persians, who had reached the very gates of Constantinople, by the Romans, who were by this time quite exhausted, and the other about the defeat of the powerful Makkans by the handful of persecuted Muslims.

A time limit was also announced along with these two prophecies, during which they would be brought to fulfilment. The word bid' occurring in the ⁴within nine years. Allah's is the command before and after. And on that day the believers will rejoice ⁵in Allah's help.^a He helps whom He pleases, and He is the Mighty, the Merciful — ⁶(it is) Allah's promise! Allah will not fail in His promise, but most people do not know.

⁷ They know the outward of this world's life, but of the Hereafter they are heedless. ⁸Do they not reflect within themselves? Allah did not create the heavens and the earth and all that is between them but with truth, and (for) an appointed term. And surely most of the people are deniers of the meeting with their Lord. ⁹Have they not travelled in the earth and seen what was the end of those before them? They were stronger than these in prowess, and dug up the earth,^b and built on it more than these have built. And their messengers came to them with clear arguments. So it was not Allah, Who wronged them, but they wronged themselves. ¹⁰Then evil was the end of those who did evil, because they rejected the messages of Allah and mocked at them.

beginning of the next verse means from three to nine years, according to the best authorities. It was exactly within nine years, in 624 C.E., that the tables were turned against the powerful Persian Empire, the same being the year in which the mighty Quraish suffered a defeat at the hands of the helpless Muslims at Badr. "In 624 he (Heraclius) advanced into northern Media, where he destroyed the great fire-temple of Goudzak" (ibid). In the same year, 313 Muslims, many of whom were raw, inexperienced youths without any arms, routed a strong force of about a thousand of the Quraish warriors, killing all the leaders and dealing a death-blow to the power of the enemy. The successes of the Muslim army, on the one hand, and of the Romans, on the other, continued until the Quraish were utterly crushed by the conquest of Makkah in 630, while "the Persian Empire, from the apparent greatness which it had reached ten years ago, sank into hopeless anarchy" (ibid).

a (5) The help of Allah is the help that was over and over again promised to the believers against the idolatrous Makkans. Thus we have here a clear prophecy of the victory of the Muslims over the Makkans within nine years from the pronouncement of the prophecy. It was fulfilled in the battle of Badr.

b (9) The digging of the earth includes its ploughing for cultivation, its digging for minerals and the making of aqueducts, as also the laying of the foundations of buildings.

Section 2: The Two Parties

11 Allah originates the creation, then reproduces it, then to Him you will be returned. ¹²And the day when the Hour comes, the guilty will despair. ¹³And they will have no intercessors from among their associate-gods, and they will deny their associate-gods. ¹⁴And the day when the Hour comes, that day they will be separated one from the other. ¹⁵Then as to those who believed and did good, they will be made happy in a garden. ¹⁶And as for those who disbelieved and rejected Our messages and the meeting of the Hereafter, they will be brought to punishment.

17 So glory be to Allah when you enter the evening and when you enter the morning. ¹⁸And to Him be praise in the heavens and the earth, and in the afternoon, and when the sun declines.^a ¹⁹He brings forth the living from the dead and brings forth the dead from the living, and gives life to the earth after its death. And thus will you be brought forth.^b

Section 3: Manifestations of Divine Power in Nature

20 And of His signs is this, that He created you from dust, then lo! you are mortals who disperse. ²¹And of His signs is this, that He created mates for you from yourselves that you might find quiet of mind in them, and He put between you love and compassion.^c Surely there are signs in this for a people who reflect.

a (18) The five times of prayer are clearly indicated in this and the previous verse, the evening prayer comprising both the prayer at sunset and the later evening prayer. The five times of prayer were observed at Makkah, and places at which the Muslims gathered for prayers are mentioned in reports relating to very early days of the Prophet's mission.

b (19) This clearly points to the rising of a great nation from the Arabs, who were spiritually as well as intellectually dead.

c (21) The close relation between the male and the female (i.e., husband and wife) is expressed here. These words do not imply the act of the physical creation of the female from the male. The Quran explains itself when it refers to the ties of love and compassion, and to the quietness of mind which a married person finds in his spouse. The verse gives us the Islamic ideal of marriage which serves the purpose not only of the increase of the human race but also that of the spiritual ²²And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and the diversity of your tongues and colours. Surely there are signs in this for the learned. ²³And of His signs is your sleep by night and by day and your seeking of His bounty. Surely there are signs in this for a people who would hear. ²⁴And of His signs is this, that He shows you the lightning for fear and for hope, and sends down water from the cloud, then gives life with it to the earth after its death. Surely there are signs in this for a people who understand. ²⁵And of His signs is this, that the heaven and the earth subsist by His command. Then when He calls you, from the earth, you come forth.

26 And His is whosoever is in the heavens and the earth. All are obedient to Him. ²⁷And He it is Who originates the creation, then reproduces it, and it is very easy to Him. And His is the most exalted state in the heavens and the earth; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

Section 4: Appeal to Human Nature

28 He sets forth to you a parable about yourselves. Do you have, among those whom your right hands possess, partners in what We have given you, so that you are equal in it, you fearing them as you fear each other?^a Thus do We make the messages clear for a people who understand. ²⁹But those who are unjust follow their low desires without any knowledge; so who can guide him whom Allah leaves in error? And they shall have no helpers.

30 So set yourself for religion, being upright, the nature made by Allah in which He has created mankind. There is no altering Allah's creation. That is the right religion — but most people do not know^b — ³¹turning to Him; and keep your duty to Him, and advancement of both the man and the woman by referring to the quietness of mind which they find in each other.

a (28) The owner and the owned are not equal. So the objects which they worshipped from among God's creation cannot be equal to the Creator, Who is the Intelligent Cause and Controller of all.

b (30) Islam according to this verse is the natural religion of mankind, or a keep up prayer and do not be of those who set up partners (with Allah), ³²of those who split up their religion and become sects; each faction rejoicing in what it has.

33 And when harm afflicts people, they call upon their Lord, turning to Him, then when He makes them taste of mercy from Him, lo! some of them begin to set up partners with their Lord, ³⁴so as to be ungrateful for what We have given them. So enjoy yourselves a while — you will soon come to know. ³⁵Or, have We sent to them an authority so that it speaks of what they set up as partners with Him?^a ³⁶And when We make people taste of mercy they rejoice in it, and if an evil befall them for what their hands have already done, lo! they despair. ³⁷Do they not see that Allah amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also)? Certainly there are signs in this for a people who believe.

38 So give to the near of kin his due, and to the needy and the traveller. This is best for those who desire Allah's pleasure, and these it is who are successful.^b ³⁹And whatever you lay out at usury, so that it may increase through the property of (other) people, it does not increase with Allah; and whatever you give in charity, desiring Allah's pleasure — these will get manifold.^c religion to the truth of which human nature bears testimony. Its fundamental principles, the Unity and all-comprehensive providence of Allah, the universality of Divine revelation, and the accountability for all actions in a life after death, are recognized by all religions and all nations, and their universal acceptance is a clear evidence that it is the very nature of man that bears testimony to their truth. Islam removes all limitations upon these three fundamental doctrines of the religion of humanity, and gives them as wide a significance as humanity itself. The other fundamental principle of the natural religion of man is mentioned in v. 38.

a (35) No prophet can be shown to have received a revelation setting up creatures on an equal or co-operative plane with the Creator. Every such doctrine, besides being against the testimony of human nature and reason, stands condemned because of the absence of any revelation in its support.

b (38) Charity to fellow man is the practical outcome of the doctrine of the brotherhood of humanity, which is one of the two principles of the natural religion of mankind.

c (39) This verse lays stress upon the doctrine of charity to one's fellow-man. It says that some people seek to increase their wealth by means of getting ⁴⁰Allah is He Who created you, then He sustains you, then He causes you to die, then brings you to life. Is there any of your associate-gods who does any of it? Glory be to Him, and supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)!

Section 5: A Transformation

41 Corruption has appeared in the land and the sea on account of what man's hands have earned, that He may make them taste (the consequences of) some of what they have done, so that they may turn back.^a ⁴²Say: Travel in the earth, then see what was the end of those before! Most of them set up partners (with Allah). ⁴³Then set yourself to the right religion before the day comes from Allah which cannot be averted: on that day they will be separated.

interest on money, i.e., they seek an increase of their wealth at the expense of other people's property; but that a Muslim should seek an increase of his wealth by giving it, for the sake of Allah, to help his fellow-man.

a (41) History bears evidence to the truth of these words. Before the advent of the Holy Prophet corruption and darkness prevailed in all countries of the world, affecting the beliefs of people as well as their deeds. Religions had long ceased to have any healthy effect on the lives of their votaries, and their followers had not only ceased to practise virtue, but, worst of all, they had begun to look upon vice as virtue, and many of them attributed indecent and immoral practices to their sages and their gods. Such widespread corruption had never previously existed in the world's history. J.H. Denison writes in Emotion as the Basis of Civilization: "In the fifth and sixth centuries, the civilized world stood on the verge of chaos. The old emotional cultures that had made civilization possible ... had broken down, and nothing had been found adequate to take their place.... It seemed then that the great civilization which it had taken four thousand years to construct was on the verge of disintegration, and that mankind was likely to return to that condition of barbarism where every tribe and sect was against the next and law and order were unknown.... Civilization like a gigantic tree whose foliage had over-reached the world ... stood tottering ... rotting to the core" (pp. 265–268). And then adds, speaking of Arabia: "It was among these people that the man was born who was to unite the whole known world of the east and south" (p. 269).

With the light of Islam, and through the torch of knowledge and civilization lit in Arabia, a new era dawned not only over Arabia, but also over other countries. Europe remained the longest in darkness, and it was only after the torch of knowledge had been lighted in Spain by Muslims that both the Renaissance and the Reformation came.

⁴⁴Whoever disbelieves will be responsible for his disbelief; and whoever does good, such prepare (good) for their own souls, ⁴⁵that He may reward out of His grace those who believe and do good. Surely He does not love the disbelievers.

46 And of His signs is this, that He sends forth the winds bearing good news, and that He may make you taste of His mercy, and that the ships may glide by His command, and that you may seek of His grace, and that you may be grateful.^a ⁴⁷And certainly We sent before you messengers to their people, so they came to them with clear arguments, then We punished those who were guilty. And to help believers is ever incumbent on Us. ⁴⁸Allah is He Who sends forth the winds, so they raise a cloud, then He spreads it forth in the sky as He pleases, and He breaks it, so that you see the rain coming forth from inside it; then when He causes it to fall upon whom He pleases of His servants, lo! they rejoice — ⁴⁹though they were before this, before it was sent down upon them, in sure despair.

50 Look then at the signs of Allah's mercy, how He gives life to the earth after its death. Surely He is the Giver of life to the dead; and He is Powerful over all things. ⁵¹And if We send a wind and they see it yellow, they would after that certainly continue to disbelieve.^b ⁵²So surely you cannot make the dead to hear, nor can you make the deaf to hear the call, when they turn back retreating. ⁵³Nor can you guide the blind out of their error. You can make none to hear but those who believe in Our messages, so they submit.

a (46) The verse calls attention to the change that was already coming over the peninsula; this was a clear indication of the mighty transformation that was ultimately to be brought about.

b (51) It, in this verse, refers to the seed-produce, which is meant by the expression "gives life to the earth" in the previous verse; the meaning is, the seed-produce may be rendered yellow or caused to wither away by a blast of the wind. The allusion is to the disasters which would strike a blow at the disbelievers' plans. It also refers to their persistence in disbelief, in spite of the afflictions which they experience.

Section 6: Overthrow of Opposition

54 Allah is He Who created you from a state of weakness, then He gave strength after weakness, then ordained weakness and grey hair after strength.^a He creates what He pleases, and He is the Knowing, the Powerful. 55And the day when the Hour comes, the guilty will swear: They did not remain but an hour. Thus are they ever turned away (from truth). 56And those who are given knowledge and faith will say: Certainly you remained according to the ordinance of Allah till the day of Resurrection — so this is the day of Resurrection — but you did not know. 57So that day their excuse will not benefit those who were unjust, nor will they be granted goodwill.

58 And certainly We have set forth for people in this Quran every kind of description. And if you bring them a sign, those who disbelieve would certainly say: You are only deceivers. 59Thus does Allah seal the hearts of those who do not know.^b 60So be patient; surely the promise of Allah is true; and let not those disquiet you who have no certainty.

a (54) There is a deeper reference here to the law of the rise, growth and decay of nations.

b (59) Allah's sealing the hearts thus really means their own persistence in disbelief and wickedness, as the preceding verse shows.

Chapter 31

Luqmān

The name of this chapter is taken from that of the Ethiopian sage, Luqmān, to whose story it refers. It deals with the following topics: success to be attained by the Muslims, wise advice of Luqmān to his son, now meant for Muslims, greatness of Divine power, and the doom of the mighty opponents of truth. Chapters 29 to 32 form one group revealed near the close of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Believers will be Successful

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower.^a ²These are the verses of the Book of Wisdom — ³a guidance and a mercy for the doers of good, ⁴who keep up prayer and give the due charity and who are certain of the Hereafter. ⁵These are on a guidance from their Lord, and these are they who are successful.

6 And among people is he who takes, instead, frivolous discourse to lead astray from Allah's path without knowledge, and to make it a mockery.^b For such is a humiliating punishment. ⁷And when Our messages are recited to him, he turns back proudly, as if he had not heard them, as if there were deafness in his ears; so announce to him a painful punishment. ⁸Those who believe and do good, for them are Gardens of bliss, ⁹to abide therein. A promise of Allah in truth! And He is the Mighty, the Wise.

10 He created the heavens without pillars that you can see, and cast mountains on the earth in case it should quake with you,^c a (1) For explanation, see 2:1 footnote.

b (6) It is a mistake to think that a particular person is meant here. The statement is general and applies to all those who take the Quran for a mockery.

c (10) See 16:15 footnote.

and He spread on it animals of every kind. And We send down water from the clouds, then cause to grow in it (vegetation) of every noble kind. ¹¹This is Allah's creation; now show Me what those besides Him have created. No, the unjust are in manifest error.

Section 2: Luqmān's Advice to his Son

12 And certainly We gave Luqmān wisdom,^a saying: Give thanks to Allah. And whoever is thankful, is thankful for the good of his own soul; and whoever denies, then surely Allah is Self-Sufficient, Praised. ¹³And when Luqmān said to his son, while he instructed him: My son, set up no partner with Allah. Surely setting up partners (with Him) is a grievous wrong. ¹⁴And We have enjoined on man concerning his parents — his mother bears him with faintings upon faintings and his weaning takes two years — saying: Give thanks to Me and to your parents. To Me is the eventual coming.^b ¹⁵And if they strive to make you set up partners with Me, of which you have no knowledge, do not obey them,^c and keep kindly company with them in this world, and follow the way of him who turns to Me; then to Me is your return, then I shall inform you of what you did.

16 My son, even if it is the weight of a grain of mustard-seed, even though it were in a rock, or in the heaven or in the earth, Allah will bring it forth. Surely Allah is Knower of subtleties, Aware. ¹⁷My son, keep up prayer and enjoin good and forbid evil, a (12) From what is stated of him, Luqmān seems to have been an Ethiopian. It is very probable that the Greek "Æsop" is a corruption of "Ethiopian" and is identical with Luqmān. The Quran accepts many prophets besides those mentioned in the Bible.

b (14) Verses 14 and 15 are parenthetical, enjoining the duty of obedience to parents, because it is a parent who is advising his son.

c (15) Despite the great stress that the Quran lays on the duty of obedience to parents, it also warns against attaching undue importance to that duty when the same clashes with a still higher duty, namely, duty to one's Maker. In fact any duty, however great, must be sacrificed before a higher duty, and one's duty to one's Maker is the highest of all duties.

and bear patiently whatever befalls you. Surely this is a matter of great resolution. ¹⁸And do not turn your face away from people in contempt, nor go about in the land exultingly. Surely Allah does not love any self-conceited boaster. ¹⁹And pursue the right course in your going about and lower your voice. Surely the most hateful of voices is braying of donkeys.^a

Section 3: Greatness of Divine Power

20 Do you not see that Allah has made subservient to you whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, and granted to you His favours complete outwardly and inwardly? And some people dispute about Allah without knowledge or guidance or a Book giving light.^b ²¹And when it is said to them, Follow what Allah has revealed, they say: No, we follow that (path) upon which we found our fathers. What! Though the devil calls them to the punishment of the burning Fire!

22 And whoever submits himself to Allah and does good (to others), he indeed takes hold of the firmest handle. And Allah's is the end of (all) matters. ²³And whoever disbelieves, do not let his disbelief grieve you. To Us is their return, then We shall inform them of what they did. Surely Allah is Knower of what they did. Surely Allah is Knower of what is in the hearts. ²⁴We give them to enjoy a little, then We shall drive them to a severe punishment. ²⁵And if you ask them who created the heavens and the earth, they will say: Allah. Say: Praise be to Allah! But most of them do not know. ²⁶To Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth. Surely Allah is the Self-Sufficient, the Praised.

27 And if all the trees in the earth were pens, and the sea with seven more seas added to it (were ink), the words of Allah would a (19) Humility and meekness were taught by every prophet. An Ethiopian too preached the meekness and humility which was preached by Jesus.

b (20) The words are meant as well for Muslims. So long as they adhered to the Book giving light they continued to advance in the world, and they will again lead the world when they place the Book giving light in the forefront.

not be exhausted. Surely Allah is Mighty, Wise.^a 28Your creation or your raising is only like a single soul. Surely Allah is Hearing, Seeing. 29Do you not see that Allah makes the night to pass into the day, and He makes the day to pass into the night, and He has made the sun and the moon subservient (to you) — each pursues its course till an appointed time — and that Allah is Aware of what you do? 30This is because Allah is the Truth, and what they call upon besides Him is falsehood, and that Allah is the High, the Great.

Section 4: The Doom comes

31 Do you not see that the ships glide on the sea by Allah's grace, that He may show you of His signs? Surely there are signs in this for every patient, grateful one.^b 32And when a wave like awnings covers them, they call upon Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience. But when He brings them safe to land, some of them follow the middle course. And none denies Our signs but every perfidious, ungrateful one.

33 O people, keep your duty to your Lord and dread the day when no father can avail his son in the least, nor will the child avail his father. Surely the promise of Allah is true, so do not let this world's life deceive you, nor let the arch-deceiver deceive you about Allah.^c 34Surely Allah is He with Whom is the knowledge of the Hour, and He sends down the rain, and He knows what is in the wombs. And no one knows what he will earn tomorrow. And a (27) It is noteworthy that a man who himself could not use the pen and who lived in a country where pen and ink were scarce, expresses such an idea of the abundance of pens and ink. While containing a prophetic allusion to the abundant use of pen and ink in the world, the words are expressive of the unimaginable vastness of the Creation of God, for everything created is a word of God in the sense that it is created by Divine commandment.

b (31) The signs for the patient, grateful one no doubt contain a hint to the suffering but grateful Muslims, and to their being made a great nation.

c (33) Gharūr, which literally means the great deceiver, stands for the devil.

no one knows in what land he will die.^a Surely Allah is Knowing, Aware.

a (34) By the Hour is meant the hour of the fulfilment of prophecy and of the downfall of the opponents, as well as the Resurrection. The wonderful disclosure of knowledge relating to the future could not be made by a mere mortal, who cannot foretell the ordinary events of life happening before his eyes day and night. But there may also be a deeper reference to the transformation that was to be brought about in Arabia: the sending down of rain signifying the quickening of the spiritually dead; those that were in the wombs were ordained to be Muslims; the opponents of today would prove the supporters of tomorrow; and those who turned the Muslims out of their houses would themselves meet death, when away from their habitations, even as they did when they attacked Madinah to crush the Muslims.

Chapter 32

Al-Sajdah

Adoration

The name of this chapter is taken from v. 15 where the faithful are spoken of as falling down in adoration, or prostrating, when the Divine messages are recited to them. The chapter foretells the establishment of Islam, the punishment for the opponents in this very life and the raising of the dead earth to life. Chapters 29 to 32 form one group revealed near the close of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Islam will be established

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 I, Allah, am the Best Knower.^a 2The revelation of the Book, in which there is no doubt, is from the Lord of the worlds. 3Or do they say: He has forged it? No, it is the Truth from your Lord that you may warn a people to whom no warner has come before you that they may walk aright.^b

4 Allah is He Who created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them in six periods, and He is established on the Throne of Power. You have not besides Him a guardian or an intercessor. Will you not then be mindful? 5He orders the Affair from the heaven to the earth; then it will ascend to Him in a day the measure of which is a thousand years as you count.^c 6Such is

b (3) Makkah had not seen a prophet before the advent of the Holy Prophet Muhammad, who was the only Prophet raised among the descendants of Ishmael.

c (5) Al-Amr or the Affair is the Affair of Islam, and its ordering or regulation from heaven to earth means that it comes from heaven and will be established firmly on earth. Then we are told that it will ascend to God in a day, the measure of which is a thousand years according to human reckoning, which means that it will receive a set-back for a thousand years. As regards the period of its firmness, we are told by the Holy Prophet Muhammad that it will retain its purity for three centuries: "The best of the generations is my generation, then those who follow the Knower of the unseen and the seen, the Mighty, the Merciful, 7Who made beautiful everything that He created, and He began the creation of man from dust.^a 8Then He made his progeny of an extract, of worthless seeming water. 9Then He made him complete and breathed into him of His spirit,^b and gave you ears and eyes and hearts; little thanks you give!

10 And they say: When we are lost in the earth, shall we then be in a new creation? Indeed, they are disbelievers in the meeting with their Lord. 11Say: The angel of death, who is given charge of you, will cause you to die, then to your Lord you will be returned.

Section 2: Believers and Disbelievers — a Comparison

12 And if only you could see when the guilty hang their heads before their Lord: Our Lord, we have seen and heard, so send us them, then those who follow them, then after them will come people who will pride themselves in abundance of wealth and love plumpness” (Tirmidhi, 31:39). That there is a prophecy here is shown by the next verse, which says, Such is the Knower of the unseen and the seen. This prophecy was made known at a time when there was not the least indication that Islam would be established in the earth. At that time the Prophet was told that Islam would be firmly established at first. That the cause would go on advancing for three centuries is made clear by the Prophet’s saying. After that the cause of Islam would be chequered and it would have its set-backs, which would continue for a thousand years. The limitation of the period of chequering shows clearly that, after that, the advancement of Islam will again be unhampered.

a (7) See 23:12–14, where the various stages through which man passes in his creation are spoken of in detail. The wonderful beauty of creation from the atom to the most brilliant star in the realm of matter, and from the smallest ant to the most developed form of life in man, could not have been known to an Arabian of the 7th century who could neither read nor write, yet he sees, as stated here, that everything that was created was beautiful. This beauty in creation undoubtedly emanated from the same Source, from the Great Creator Who, according to the Quran, has the “most beautiful names” (17:110, 20:8, 59:24).

b (9) This verse shows that the spirit of God is breathed into every human being. This points to a mystical relation between human nature and Divine nature. It is due to this spirit Divine that he rules the creation and it is due to the same Divine spirit in him that he receives a new life after death — a life in which he lives in God and with God — the meeting with God or liqā Allāh, as it is called in v. 10.

back, we will do good; we are (now) certain. ¹³And if We had pleased, We could have given every soul its guidance, but the word from Me was just: I will certainly fill hell with jinn and people, all together.^a ¹⁴So taste, because you forgot the meeting of this Day of yours; surely We forsake you; and taste the abiding punishment for what you did.

15 Only they believe in Our messages who, when they are reminded of them, fall down prostrate and celebrate the praise of their Lord, and they are not proud. ¹⁶They forsake (their) beds, calling upon their Lord in fear and in hope, and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them.^b ¹⁷So no soul knows what joy of the eyes is hidden for them: a reward for what they did.^c

18 Is he then, who is a believer, like him who is a transgressor? They are not equal. ¹⁹As for those who believe and do good deeds, for them are Gardens, a refuge — an entertainment for what they did. ²⁰And as for those who transgress, their refuge is the Fire. Whenever they desire to go forth from it, they are a (13) God's word, as the Quran says so often, is that the right way has been pointed out to man but he is given the choice to accept or reject it, and that those who rejected that word and did not forsake evil ways would go to hell. The reference in if We had pleased is to the fact that man is not compelled to submit to the Divine law. His superiority lies in the fact that he has been given a choice. If he exercises that choice rightly, he attains to eminence; if he exercises it wrongly, he must taste the evil consequences of his deeds.

b (16) The literal significance of the original words for they forsake is their sides draw away from, showing that they are restless in their beds. These are the foundations of the culture of Islam, passing part of the night in remembering Allah, and passing the day in earning wealth to spend in the way of Allah for the benefit of humanity.

c (17) This is a true description of what the blessings of paradise are: No soul knows what joy of the eyes is hidden for them. These blessings are hidden from the physical eye of man, and therefore their description in words which convey an idea of the blessings of this life is metaphorical. Words cannot reveal to us the real nature of those blessings. The Holy Prophet's own comment on these words shows this, for he is reported to have said: "Allah says, I have prepared for My righteous servants that which no eye has seen and no ear has heard, and which the heart of man cannot conceive" (Bukhari, 59:8).

brought back into it, and it is said to them: Taste the punishment of the Fire, which you called a lie. ²¹And certainly We will make them taste the nearer punishment before the greater punishment, that perhaps they may turn.^a ²²And who is more unjust than he who is reminded of the messages of his Lord, then he turns away from them? Surely We exact retribution from the guilty.

Section 3: Dead Earth will receive Life

23 And We indeed gave Moses the Book — so do not doubt the meeting with Him — and We made it a guide for the Children of Israel.^b ²⁴And We made from among them leaders to guide by Our command when they were patient. And they were certain of Our messages. ²⁵Surely your Lord will judge between them on the day of Resurrection in that in which they differed. ²⁶Is it not clear to them, how many of the generations, in whose abodes they go about, We destroyed before them? Surely there are signs in this. Will they not then hear? ²⁷Do they not see that We drive the water to a land having no vegetation, then We bring forth with it seed-produce, of which their cattle and they themselves eat. Will they not then see?

28 And they say: When will this victory come, if you are truthful?^c ²⁹Say: On the day of victory the faith of those who

a (21) By the nearer punishment is meant the earthly punishment, which might serve as a warning against the greater punishment of the Hereafter. The opponents of Truth are thus told that they must taste a punishment in this life, too, and the description of it given in the previous verse — whenever they desire to go forth from it, they are brought back into it — manifestly applies to modern world conditions, when materialism has taken hold of the minds of people. The wars raging in the world are the fire of this life, and, however much the warring nations may desire to get out of them, they are brought back into them.

b (23) To bring about the meeting with God — to make humans live in God — is the real aim of religion, and here it is pointed out that to make people attain this object a Book was given to Moses for the Israelites, as a Book is now given for the whole world. This object will be attained despite opposition, which will be brought to naught, as made clear in v. 26.

c (28) The question makes it clear that the above verses speak of the triumph of Islam over all opposition, then and now, in metaphorical language; hence they ask, when will the victory come? The driving of the water to a dead land, a land having no vegetation, is a clear hint that the dead earth will receive life.

(now) disbelieve will not benefit them, nor will they be given respite. ³⁰So turn away from them and wait, surely they too are waiting.

Chapter 33

Al-Aḥzāb

The Allies

By the Allies are meant the Quraish, allied with other idolatrous tribes and tribes of the Jews, who besieged Madinah in 4 A.H. That battle is known as the battle of the Allies, and this chapter deals with it. It begins by referring to the spiritual relationship of the Holy Prophet Muhammad with the faithful, and then covers the topic of the attack of the Allies on the Muslims. It goes on to deal with the Holy Prophet's domestic life and shows that, despite becoming a ruler of his people, he and his wives lived in the utmost simplicity and he told his wives that to stay with him they would have to give up worldly comforts. Then it refutes some objections relating to his domestic life and teaches Muslims certain rules of conduct in domestic relations. Finally, it denounces those who spread evil reports against innocent persons and teaches Muslims to avoid such behaviour. Most of this chapter was revealed in 4 A.H. while some verses were revealed later, up to 7 A.H.

Section 1: Spiritual and Physical Relationship

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O Prophet, keep your duty to Allah and do not obey the disbelievers and the hypocrites.^a Surely Allah is ever Knowing, Wise; ²and follow what is revealed to you from your Lord. Surely Allah is ever Aware of what you do; ³and trust in Allah. And Allah is enough as having charge (of affairs).

4 Allah has not made for any man two hearts within him;^b nor a (1) The chapter was revealed at a time when the powerful and combined forces of the Arabian tribes threatened Madinah from without and the hypocrites and the Jews assisted them from within to crush the Muslims. It was necessary at such a critical time that the Muslims, who are really addressed here through the Prophet, should not in any way be compliant to their deadly enemies. Or, the meaning is that the Holy Prophet should not be troubled by his critics, for their object was only to carp, and one course of action was as well calculated to give them occasion for carping as another.

b (4-1) This passage does not relate to what follows but sums up what is said has He made your wives whom you desert by Zihār, your mothers, nor has He made those whom you assert (to be your sons) your sons. These are the words of your mouths. And Allah speaks the truth and He shows the way.^a ⁵Call them by (the names of) their fathers; this is more equitable with Allah; but if you do not know their fathers, then they are your brethren in faith and your friends. And there is no blame on you in that about which you make a mistake, but (you are answerable for) what your hearts intend. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful. ⁶The Prophet is closer to the faithful than their own selves, and his wives are (as) their mothers.^b And the possessors of relationship are closer to one another in the ordinance of Allah than (other) believers, and those who fled (their homes), except that you do some good to your friends.^c This is written in the Book.

in the previous verse. The Prophet is there told not to be compliant to the disbelievers and the hypocrites, but to trust in Allah alone, because the same heart cannot simultaneously entertain love for Allah and love for His enemies.

a (4-2) This passage abolishes two ignorant customs of pre-Islamic times. The first of these was called zihār which consisted in a man saying to his wife you are to me as the back of my mother. No sooner were the words pronounced than the relation between husband and wife ended as by a divorce, but the woman was not at liberty to leave the husband's house and marry elsewhere. She remained in the same house, as a deserted wife. The other custom was that of regarding the adopted son as if he were a real son. This passage abolishes both customs on the same ground; a wife cannot be a real mother, nor a stranger a real son. The subject of zihār is fully discussed in the first section of chapter 58.

b (6-1) The Prophet was indeed much more than a father to the believers. He had raised them to the dignity of manhood from a state of savagery, consequently the tie of love which united them to him was stronger than the ordinary ties of love and friendship. The statement that his wives are their mothers has reference to spiritual relationship, because they were helpful in bringing up the faithful spiritually; see v. 33 and 34.

c (6-2) When the Muslims first came to Madinah, a brotherhood was established between those who fled and the helpers, one of the former becoming a brother of one of the latter, and each of the two thus united was entitled to a share of inheritance on the death of the other, according to an old Arab custom. The passage abolishes this custom, maintaining only the brotherhood of Islam in a wider sense, and allowing inheritance only to actual relatives. But a Muslim could assist his brother in Islam by a gift or by making a will in his favour. This is the significance of the words except that you do some good to your friends.

7 And when We took a covenant from the prophets and from you, and from Noah and Abraham and Moses and Jesus, son of Mary, and We took from them a solemn covenant,^a 8that He may question the truthful of their truth, and He has prepared for the disbelievers a painful punishment.

Section 2: The Allies' Attack on Madinah

9 O you who believe, call to mind the favour of Allah to you when armies came against you,^b so We sent against them a strong wind and forces that you did not see.^c And Allah is ever Seer of what you do. 10When they came upon you from above you and from below you,^d and when the eyes turned dull and the hearts rose up to the throats, and you began to think diverse thoughts about Allah.^e 11There were the believers tried and they were shaken with a severe shaking.

a (7) The covenant referred to here may be in relation to the delivery of the message with which the prophets are entrusted. But see 3:81, which speaks of a covenant with the prophets with regard to the advent of the Holy Prophet. The covenant spoken of as having been made with the Holy Prophet evidently refers to the Prophet's verifying all previous revelation. Noah, Abraham, Moses and Jesus are specially mentioned by name on account of their importance.

b (9-1) The events narrated here relate to the siege of Madinah by the combined forces of the Quraish and their allies, aided by the Jewish tribe of the Bani Nadir and the Bani Quraizah, the latter of whom had made a treaty of alliance with the Muslims — the entire forces numbering from ten to twenty thousand according to different versions, while the Muslims were only about thirteen or fourteen hundred. The Prophet decided to remain within the town and a ditch was dug as a protective measure against the onrush of the powerful force. The battle continued for several days, the enemy eventually taking to flight on a stormy night without being able to inflict any loss upon the Muslims.

c (9-2) A great hurricane caused the enemy to flee. The forces which could not be seen were the angelic hosts which disheartened the enemy. The angelic assistance is promised in 3:125.

d (10-1) One allied tribe pitched on the east side of the town, on the higher part of the valley, and the Quraish on the west side, on the lower part.

e (10-2) The description of the eyes and the hearts indicates the natural Muslim fear. The diverse thoughts signify the fears of the weak-hearted and the hypocrites that Allah's promise would not prove true and that the enemy would destroy them. As regards the thoughts of the faithful, see v. 22.

12 And when the hypocrites and those in whose hearts was a disease began to say: Allah and His Messenger promised us (victory) only to deceive.^a 13And when a group of them said: People of Yathrib,^b you cannot make a stand, so go back.^c And a party of them asked permission of the Prophet, saying, Our houses are exposed. And they were not exposed. They only desired to run away. 14And if an entry were made upon them from the outlying parts of it, then they were asked to wage war (against the Muslims), they would certainly have done it, and they would not have stayed in it but a little while.^d 15And they had indeed made a covenant with Allah before, (that) they would not turn (their) backs. And a covenant with Allah must be answered for.

16 Say: Running away will not benefit you, if you run away from death or slaughter, and then you will not be allowed to enjoy yourselves but a little. 17Say: Who is it that can protect you from Allah, if He intends harm for you or He intends to show you mercy? And they will not find for themselves a guardian or a helper besides Allah. 18Allah indeed knows those among you who hinder others and those who say to their brethren, Come to us. And they do not come to the fight but a little, 19being miserly with regard to you. But when fear comes, you will see them looking to you, their eyes rolling like one fainting because of death. But when fear is gone they strike you with sharp tongues, being greedy for a (12) There was an unmistakable promise of victory, but the circumstances were decidedly against the fulfilment of that promise, and hence the weak-hearted said that the promise of victory was given only to deceive them.

b (13-1) Yathrib was the name by which Madinah was known before the Prophet's flight to that city. On the Prophet's flight there, it received the name of Madīnat al-Nabī or the City of the Prophet, or simply Madinah.

c (13-2) That is, go back to idolatry to save your lives, or make a retreat and return to your houses.

d (14) These verses describe the condition of the hypocrites, who advanced excuses for not fighting against the opponents of the Muslims. If an enemy had entered into the city from another side and invited them to join hands with him to fight against the Muslims, they would have been ready to fight. The concluding words show that they would have even left Madinah to attack the Muslims and would not then have cared for the protection of their houses.

wealth. These have not believed, so Allah makes their deeds fruitless. And that is easy for Allah. ²⁰They think the allies are not gone, and if the allies should come (again), they would wish to be in the deserts with the dwellers of the desert, asking for news about you. And if they were among you, they would not fight but a little.

Section 3: Allies' Flight

21 Certainly you have in the Messenger of Allah an excellent exemplar for him who hopes in Allah and the Last Day, and remembers Allah much.^a ²²And when the believers saw the allies, they said: This is what Allah and His Messenger promised us, and Allah and His Messenger spoke the truth. And it only added to their faith and submission.^b ²³Among the believers are men who are true to the covenant they made with Allah; so some of them have accomplished their vow, and some of them yet wait, and they have not changed in the least — ²⁴that Allah may reward the truthful for their truth, and punish the hypocrites, if He please, or turn to them (mercifully).^c Surely Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

a (21) This verse states that the Holy Prophet Muhammad is the best exemplar and the highest model of virtue for the faithful under all circumstances. He was a general, soldier, lawmaker, judge, husband and father. He punished tyrants for wrongs they had inflicted on innocent persons, forgave his persecuting enemies after overcoming them, and overlooked the faults of his followers. Hence he was an excellent exemplar and a perfect model in all walks of life, and he not only gave practical rules of guidance, but gave by his life a practical illustration of all those rules.

The occasion on which his being an exemplar for the faithful is pointed out is one on which he showed the greatest firmness in utmost danger, confidence in Divine assistance, and steadfastness in the hardest trials, and the believers are told that they must not lose heart, but follow the example of the Holy Prophet.

b (22) The reference here is to the Divine promise that a time would come when the combined forces of Arabia would be put to flight. This promise was given long before, at a time when the Holy Prophet and his few followers were being severely persecuted at Makkah. So when the combined forces attacked Madinah, the words of the prophecy were in the heart of every true Muslim. They rejoiced because they were certain that the combined forces of the enemy would be put to flight. It was only the hypocrites who had misgivings.

c (24) It is clearly stated here, as also in v. 17, that all the hypocrites would

25 And Allah turned back the disbelievers in their rage — they gained no advantage. And Allah was sufficient for the believers in fighting. And Allah is ever Strong, Mighty. ²⁶And He drove down those of the People of the Book who backed them from their fortresses and He cast awe into their hearts; some you killed and you took captive some.^a ²⁷And He made you heirs to their land and their dwellings and their property, and (to) a land which you have not yet trodden. And Allah is ever Powerful over all things.^b

Section 4: Prophet's Domestic Simplicity

28 O Prophet, say to your wives: If you desire this world's life and its adornment, come, I will give you a provision and allow you to depart in a gracious manner.^c ²⁹And if you desire Allah and His

not be punished, but that Allah would be merciful to them, punishing only such as deserved to be punished. Thus it happened that most of them became afterwards sincere converts to Islam.

a (26) The Jewish tribe of Bani Quraizah were in alliance with the Holy Prophet, and when the enemy laid siege to Madinah they should have repelled the attack. Instead of this they sided with the invading army. When the enemy army took to flight and the Quraizah returned to their fortress, it was besieged by the Holy Prophet. They surrendered by stipulating the condition that they would submit to the judgment of Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, formerly their ally. The reference here is to the punishment awarded by him, in accordance with the Jewish law in Deuteronomy, 20:12–14.

b (27) The land which you have not yet trodden refers to the foreign lands which are here promised to the Muslims and which they conquered later.

c (28) Muslims were now growing powerful and wealthier. It was natural, in the circumstances, that the wives of the Prophet should desire to be furnished with better necessities of life than they had previously enjoyed. But just at this time we find a revelation enjoining the strictest simplicity upon them. If the Prophet had allowed his wives to share in the general prosperity of the community, there could not have been the least objection. But he received a revelation which deprived him and those most nearly related to him of those material benefits which others could easily acquire. The splendours of this world were not forbidden to any Muslim, but such transitory vanities were not to be admitted into the household of God's Prophet. As he possessed the means, his wives would be allowed to depart with rich and ample gifts, if such was their desire. This passage also shows that the object of the Prophet's marriages was not sensual enjoyment, for he would not have been ready to sacrifice the ease and comforts attendant upon mere carnal desire, and retain the simplicity enjoined upon his household.

Messenger and the abode of the Hereafter, then surely Allah has prepared for the doers of good among you a mighty reward. ³⁰O wives of the Prophet, whoever of you is guilty of manifestly improper conduct, the punishment will be doubled for her. And this is easy for Allah.^a

31 And whoever of you is obedient to Allah and His Messenger and does good, We shall give her a double reward, and We have prepared for her an honourable sustenance.^b ³²O wives of the Prophet, you are not like any other women. If you would keep your duty, do not be soft in speech, in case he in whose heart is a disease yearn; and speak a word of goodness.^c ³³And stay in your houses and do not display (your beauty) like the displaying of the earlier (days of) ignorance; and keep up prayer, and give the due charity, and obey Allah and His Messenger. Allah only desires to take away uncleanness from you, O people of the household, and to purify you a (thorough) purifying.^d ³⁴And remember what is

a (30) Not only are the Prophet's wives denied the comforts of life which were available to other Muslim women, but any unseemly conduct on their part brought double the ordinary punishment. Could this be the work of an impostor? In their case the punishment is increased because, being in the Prophet's house, they had a better chance to be guided aright and to pass their lives in the greatest purity. It should be noted that there is no actual occurrence of the least indecency on the part of any of the Prophet's wives.

b (31) Double reward means only greater reward, as the words honourable sustenance show. The greater reward is due to their having denied themselves the ordinary comforts of life by remaining in the Prophet's house.

c (32) The wives of the Prophet are here told that they were not like other women, as they had to come in contact with large numbers of people, who would come to them to learn the treasures of wisdom which they received from the Prophet. An allusion to this is contained in the words: and speak a word of goodness. As a safeguard against possible inclination of the heart to evil thoughts, they are told not to indulge in soft and amorous conversation with the opposite sex. It is really a rule of life for all Muslim women, and promotes purity of heart and chastity in the relations between the sexes.

d (33) The means of purification are suggested in the preceding text: to observe the utmost simplicity of life, to avoid every indecency, and not to display their beauty to others. The uncleanness which Allah will thus take away is the recited in your houses of the messages of Allah and the Wisdom.^a Surely Allah is ever Knower of subtleties, Aware.

Section 5: Prophet's Marriage with Zainab

35 Surely the men who submit and the women who submit, and the believing men and the believing women, and the obeying men and the obeying women, and the truthful men and the truthful women, and the patient men and the patient women, and the humble men and the humble women, and the charitable men and the charitable women, and the fasting men and the fasting women, and the men who guard their (own) chastity and the women who guard, and the men who remember Allah much and the women who remember — Allah has prepared for them forgiveness and a mighty reward.^b

36 And it does not befit a believing man or a believing woman, when Allah and His Messenger have decided an affair, to exercise a choice in their matter. And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger, he surely strays off to manifest error.^c ³⁷And when you uncleanness of the desire for worldly riches. As the Prophet himself was an exemplar to the faithful, so was his household to be an example of simplicity and purity to Muslim women; hence they are called mothers of the faithful; see v. 6.

Not only did the wives of the Prophet retain the utmost simplicity of life in his lifetime, but even after his death, when the Muslims grew a very wealthy nation and big stipends were paid to the Prophet's wives, they did not allow wealth to accumulate in their houses but distributed it to deserving people. Of Aishah especially it is related that she was so generous in giving away what came to her that she would sometimes be left without the means for an evening meal.

a (34) The wives of the Prophet were not only to serve as models of virtue to the faithful, men as well as women, but they were also required to teach the precepts of religion to the faithful. Hence they are told that they must remember not only the injunctions of the Quran — the messages of Allah — but also the wisdom which the Prophet taught by his practice and word, i.e., the Sunna.

b (35) This verse repeats ten times that women can attain every good quality to which men can have access and settles it conclusively that according to the Quran women stand on the same spiritual level as men.

c (36) This refers to the marriage of Zainab, first cousin of the Holy Prophet through his paternal aunt, with Zaid, his freed slave and adopted son. Zainab and her relations wished for her marriage to the Holy Prophet. But he insisted that she marry Zaid. In deference to his wishes, she accepted marriage with Zaid.

said to him (Zaid) to whom Allah had shown favour and to whom you had shown a favour: Keep your wife to yourself and keep your duty to Allah;^a and you concealed in your heart what Allah would bring to light, and you feared people, while Allah has a greater right that you should fear Him. So when Zaid dissolved her marriage-tie, We gave her to you as a wife, so that there should be no difficulty for the believers about the wives of their adopted sons, when they have dissolved their (wives') marriage-tie.^b And Allah's command is ever performed.

38 There is no harm for the Prophet in what Allah has ordained for him. Such has been the way of Allah with those who have gone before. And the command of Allah is a decree that is made absolute — ³⁹those who deliver the messages of Allah and fear Him, and fear none but Allah. And Allah is sufficient to take account.

a (37-1) The marriage was not happy and Zaid expressed a desire to the Holy Prophet of divorcing Zainab. The news was grieving for the Prophet, for it was he who had insisted upon the marriage, and he therefore advised Zaid not to divorce her. According to one interpretation, the subsequent words “and you concealed in your heart” to “Allah has a greater right that you should fear Him” are a continuation of the Holy Prophet's advice to Zaid not to divorce Zainab. (Editor's Note: In this interpretation, “you feared people” is also said to refer to Zaid's fear that, as the social standing of Zainab was much higher than his own, people would think he was not giving Zainab sufficient respect.)

b (37-2) After Zainab was divorced the Holy Prophet took her in marriage, that being the wish of the lady and her relatives before her marriage to Zaid, and the Prophet was, now that the marriage arranged by him proved unsuccessful, morally bound to accept their wishes. Moreover, the Quran had declared against an adopted son being regarded as if he were a real son, and now there was an opportunity where the Holy Prophet could deal a death-blow to that custom. This reason is plainly given in the second part of the verse: so that there should be no difficulty for the believers about the wives of their adopted sons. The Quran does not give any other reason for the marriage.

There is a baseless story that the Prophet, having seen Zainab by chance through a half-open door, was fascinated by her beauty, and that Zaid, having come to know of this, divorced her, and then she became the Prophet's wife. That this story is absurd is shown by the admitted facts that the Holy Prophet knew her very well before her marriage to Zaid, that he himself insisted on her marrying Zaid despite she and her relatives being desirous of her marriage with the Holy Prophet, and that he strongly advised Zaid not to divorce her.

⁴⁰Muhammad is not the father of any of your men, but he is the Messenger of Allah and the Seal of the prophets. And Allah is ever Knower of all things.^a

Section 6: The Prophet's Marriages

41 O you who believe, remember Allah with much remembrance, ⁴²and glorify Him morning and evening. ⁴³He it is Who sends blessings on you, and (so do) His angels, that He may bring a (40) The word khātām means a seal or the last part or portion of a thing, the latter being the primary significance of the word khātim. The words khātām al-qaum always means the last of the people — ākhiru-hum. Though the Holy Prophet was admittedly the last of the prophets, and even history shows that no prophet appeared after him in the world, yet the Quran has adopted the word khātām and not khātim, because a deeper significance is carried in the phrase Seal of the prophets than mere finality. It indicates finality combined with perfection of prophethood, along with a continuance among his followers of certain blessings of prophethood. He is the Seal of the prophets because with him the object of prophethood, the manifestation of Divine will in Laws which should guide humanity, was finally accomplished in the revelation of a perfect law in the Holy Quran, and he is also the Seal of the prophets because certain favours bestowed on prophets were forever to continue among his followers. The office of the prophet was only necessary to guide people, either by giving them a law or by removing the imperfections of a previously existing law, or by giving certain new directions to meet the requirements of the time or place. Hence prophets were constantly raised. But through the Holy Prophet a perfect law was given, suiting the requirements of all ages and all countries, and this law was guarded against all corruption, and the office of the prophet was therefore no more required. But this did not mean that the Divine favours bestowed on His chosen servants were to be denied to the chosen ones among the Muslims. The highest of these favours is Divine inspiration, and it is recognized by Islam that the Divine Being speaks to His chosen ones now as He spoke in the past, but such people are not prophets in the real sense of the word. According to a most reliable hadith, the Prophet said “there will be in my community”, i.e., among the Muslims, “men who will be spoken to (by God), though they will not be prophets” (Bukhari, 62:6). According to another version of the same hadith, such people are given the name muhaddath.

There is also a saying of the Holy Prophet: Nothing has remained of prophethood except mubashsharāt, i.e., good news. And being asked what was meant by mubashsharāt, or good news, he said: “True visions” (Bukhari, 91:5). According to another hadith: “The vision of the believer is one of the forty-six parts of prophethood” (Bukhari, 91:4). Prophethood itself has gone, but one of its blessings remains, and will exist forever among the followers of the Holy Prophet.

you forth out of darkness into light. And He is ever Merciful to the believers.^a ⁴⁴Their greeting on the day they meet Him will be, Peace! and He has prepared for them an honourable reward.

45 O Prophet, surely We have sent you as a witness, and a bearer of good news and a warner, ⁴⁶and as an inviter to Allah by His permission, and as a light-giving sun.^b ⁴⁷And give the believers the good news that they will have great grace from Allah. ⁴⁸And do not obey the disbelievers and the hypocrites, and disregard their annoying talk,^c and rely on Allah. And Allah is sufficient as having charge of affairs.

49 O you who believe, when you marry believing women, then divorce them before you touch them, you have in their case no term which you should reckon. But make provision for them and let them go in a gracious manner. ⁵⁰O Prophet, We have made a (43) This section deals with the marriages of the Holy Prophet and fittingly opens with a statement showing how he had made God the greatest force in the lives of a people who had never known God. Again it was by means of the transformation wrought by him that his companions were led out of the darkness of ignorance. How could it be that the man who purified others was himself impure? Could a sensual man, a slave of his passions, turn a nation of idolatrous and ignorant men into a godly people? This argument is then further expanded.

b (46) The words imply that one who could give light to others and raise them from the depth of vice and immorality to the height of purity and perfection could not himself be in the darkness of impurity. The Prophet is here spoken of first as one bearing witness to lost humanity, to people who had lost all idea of God-consciousness, that there is a God. More than that he was a bearer of good news to humanity that God still remembered mankind, and that He had sent His Prophet to make this fallen humanity rise to spiritual eminence, but he was also a warner, and told them that, if they persisted in their evil ways, they would suffer evil consequences; thus he was an Inviter to Allah and the Sun of righteousness.

c (48) In the mention of annoying talk there is a clear reference to the carpings of his petty-minded critics, who try to misrepresent the greatest source of righteousness which the world has ever witnessed, as an evil. The Prophet is told to disregard this annoying talk, as the time would come when the question would be asked: how is it that the Prophet illumined the world and opened the flood-gates of light to a benighted world, if it was darkness that reigned supreme in his own mind? (Editor's Note: "Disregard their annoying talk" also shows that a Muslim must not become inflamed by verbal abuse of his religion, and if his reply has no effect on the abuser then he should simply ignore the hurtful comments.)

lawful to you your wives whom you have given their dowries,^a and those whom your right hand possesses, out of those whom Allah has given you as prisoners of war, and the daughters of your paternal uncle and the daughters of your paternal aunts, and the daughters of your maternal uncle and the daughters of your maternal aunts who migrated with you; and a believing woman, if she gives herself to the Prophet, if the Prophet desires to marry her. (It is) especially for you, not for the believers^b — We know what We have ordained for them concerning their wives and those whom their right hands possess in order that no blame may attach to you. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful. ⁵¹You may put off (by divorce) whom you please of them, and take to yourself whom a (50-1) This revelation came after 4:3, which limits the number of wives a man can take under exceptional circumstances to four. The Prophet was, however, told that he should not divorce the excess number for this reason.

The marriages of the Holy Prophet have furnished his critics with the chief implement of attack on him. Therefore we give some details about them below.

(1) Up to the age of 25, the Holy Prophet lived a celibate life, a life of transcendent purity among a people who prided themselves on loose sexual relations. (2) At the age of 25, he married a widow, Khadijah, who was 40 years old, and passed all the years of his youth and manhood with her as his only wife till she passed away when he reached the age of 50. Then while still at Makkah he married Saudah, a widow of advanced age. He also married Aishah, his only virgin wife, while still at Makkah, but her marriage was consummated five years afterwards in the 2nd year of the Hijra. (3) From the age of 54 to 60, after the emigration to Madinah, he contracted several marriages at the same time. The women he married were mostly widows of his followers who had been killed in battle or otherwise died. Besides these widows whom it fell to his lot to take under his protection, the Prophet took three widows of his enemies in marriage, and in each case this step led to the union and pacification of a whole tribe. The marriage with Zainab has already been mentioned; she was a divorced woman. (4) The last period was when war came to an end; a reference to this is contained in v. 52: "It is not allowed to you to take wives after this". Thus it will be seen that all these marriages of the Prophet were due either to feelings of compassion for the widows of his faithful followers or to put a stop to bloodshed and ensure union with some tribe.

b (50-2) The Prophet was specially allowed to retain all his wives when the number allowed was brought down to four in the case of other believers. This was the only privilege allowed to the Prophet and it is to this that the words, especially for you, refer.

you please. And whom you desire of those whom you had separated provisionally, no blame attaches to you. This is most proper so that they may be comforted and they may not grieve, and that they should be pleased, all of them, with what you give them.^a And Allah knows what is in your hearts. And Allah is ever Knowing, Forbearing. ⁵²It is not allowed to you to take wives after this, nor to change them for other wives,^b though their beauty be pleasing to you, except those whom your right hand (already) possesses.^c And Allah is ever Watchful over all things.

Section 7: Rules of Conduct in Domestic Relations

53 O you who believe, do not enter the houses of the Prophet unless permission is given to you for a meal, not waiting for its cooking to be finished — but when you are invited, enter, and when you have taken food, disperse — not seeking to listen to talk. Surely this gives the Prophet trouble, but he forbears from you, and Allah does not forbear from the truth. And when you ask of them any goods, ask of them from behind a curtain. This is purer for your hearts and their hearts.^d And it is not fitting for you a (51) This verse must be read along with verses 28 and 29, where a choice is given to the Prophet's wives to remain with him or to depart. A similar choice is given here to the Prophet. And when his wives preferred to lead simple lives with him rather than seek worldly goods by leaving him, the Prophet was no less considerate for their feelings; for despite the choice given to him to retain such of his wives as he liked, he did not exercise this choice to the disadvantage of anyone of them, but retained them all, as they had chosen to remain with him. A reference is, indeed, contained to verses 28 and 29 in the words that they should be pleased, all of them, with what you give them, which indicate that this was altogether a new arrangement in which both parties were given free choice and both sacrificed all other considerations to the sanctity of the marriage-tie.

b (52-1) When the Prophet's wives chose to remain with him, the limitation was placed upon the Holy Prophet that he should not take any other wife nor should he divorce anyone of those who had chosen to remain with him.

c (52-2) By those whom your right hand possesses are indicated the wives of the Prophet whom he had lawfully married.

d (53-1) Any rule of conduct to be observed in relation to the Holy Prophet is really a rule that must be observed in all social relations. The Quran teaches not only high morals, but also good manners, for it is meant for everyone. In this to give trouble to the Messenger of Allah, nor to marry his wives after him ever.^a Surely this is grievous in the sight of Allah. ⁵⁴If you do a thing openly or do it in secret, then surely Allah is ever Knower of all things.

55 There is no blame on them in respect of their fathers, nor their sons, nor their brothers, nor their brothers' sons, nor their sisters' sons, nor their own women, nor of what their right hands possess — and (O you women) keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is ever Witness over all things. ⁵⁶Surely Allah and His angels bless the Prophet. O you who believe, call for blessings on him and salute him with a (becoming) salutation.^b ⁵⁷Surely those who malign Allah and His Messenger,^c Allah has cursed them in this world and the Hereafter, and He has prepared for them a humiliating punishment. ⁵⁸And those who malign believing men and believing women undeservedly, they bear the guilt of slander and manifest sin.

verse it disparages the custom of giving trouble to the owner of a house who invites his friends to a dinner by coming before the appointed time or staying after dinner to indulge in idle talk. This is a rule which the Muslims were desired to observe towards one another as well as towards the Holy Prophet.

a (53-2) The respect due to the Prophet is alone a sufficient reason for the injunction, but a little consideration will show that the absence of the injunction would have led to difficulties. One of the objects which the Prophet's marriages served was the faithful communication of incidents that play an important part in the life of a man, but whose knowledge is only limited to a man's family circle. The remarriage of any of the Prophet's widows would have surely impaired this object to a great degree, as it would have had a possible effect upon the independence of opinion of the lady who entered into marital obligations with another man.

b (56) The invocation of Divine blessings on the Holy Prophet is mentioned in connection with the false imputations against him as regards his marital relations, the implication being that all such imputations would be brought to naught by the blessings which Allah would shower on him, showing that he is pure and holds communion with the fountain-head of purity.

c (57) The word translated as "malign" is from the root adhha and it refers here to the false imputations of the disbelievers and the hypocrites against the Holy Prophet. This sense of the word is made clear in the next verse, where the same word is used about the believers, and is explained at the end of the verse as indicating a false accusation against them.

Section 8: Those who spread Evil Reports

59 O Prophet, tell your wives and your daughters and the women of believers to let down upon them their over-garments. This is more proper, so that they may be known, and not be given trouble. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.^a 60If the hypocrites and those in whose hearts is a disease and the agitators in Madinah do not stop, We shall certainly urge you on against them, then they shall not be your neighbours in it but for a little while — 61accursed, wherever they are found they will be seized and killed. 62That was the way of Allah concerning those who have gone before; and you will find no change in the way of Allah.

63 People ask you about the Hour. Say: The knowledge of it is only with Allah. And what will make you comprehend that the Hour may be near?^b 64Surely Allah has cursed the disbelievers and prepared for them a burning Fire, 65to abide in it for a long time; they will find no protector nor helper. 66On the day when their leaders are turned back into the Fire, they say: If only we had obeyed Allah and obeyed the Messenger! 67And they say: Our Lord, we only obeyed our leaders and our great men, so they led us astray from the path. 68Our Lord, give them a double punishment and curse them with a great curse.

Section 9: An Exhortation to the Faithful

69 O you who believe, do not be like those who maligned Moses, but Allah cleared him of what they said. And he was worthy of regard with Allah.^c 70O you who believe, keep your a (59) The injunction to wear an over-garment is here given with the object that women may not be annoyed and followed by men inclined to evil, who would come to know by this mark of distinction that these were pure and chaste women who would not tolerate insult or ill-treatment.

b (63) By the Hour is meant the hour of their doom, as prophesied in the previous verses.

c (69) For a false imputation against Moses by his own people, and even his own sister, see the book of Numbers, ch. 12. As this chapter deals with false imputations, the case of a false imputation against the prophet in whose likeness the duty to Allah and speak straight words: ⁷¹He will put your deeds into a right state for you, and forgive you your sins. And whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, he indeed achieves a mighty success.

72 Surely We offered the trust to the heavens and the earth and the mountains, but they refused to be unfaithful to it and feared from it, and man has turned unfaithful to it.^a Surely he is ever unjust, ignorant — ⁷³that Allah may punish the hypocritical men and the hypocritical women, and the men and the women who set up partners (with Allah), and Allah will turn (mercifully) to the believing men and the believing women. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

Holy Prophet came is cited, and attention is drawn to the fate of those who had taken part in the accusation. The false accusations against the Holy Prophet are all forged by his opponents.

a (72) The words translated as “unfaithful” to the trust literally mean bear the trust. Not bearing the trust signifies paying it back, and bearing the trust means being unfaithful to it. The meaning is that nature is true to its laws which bring about its evolution, but man is not true to the laws on which depends his real happiness.

(Editor’s Note: “Trust” here may be the spirit or soul breathed into the human body by God as stated in 15:29. It is quite different from the animal life which a human shares with all animals, along with his physical body. All experiences, actions and even thoughts of a human being during his life are imprinted on the soul and they make it into an individual personality called nafs by the Quran. This nafs is taken away at death, as stated in 39:42, and appears before its Creator (50:21) to account for the way the trust placed in him by God was discharged. This grave responsibility, if properly discharged, gives it scope wider than the earth, higher than the heavens and stronger than the mountains referred to in this verse. This is proved by 59:21 as the revelation of the Quran came to the Holy Prophet Muhammad without his heart crumbling down.)

Chapter 34

Al-Saba'

Saba

The title of this chapter is the name of a city (v.15), Saba, in Yaman which was destroyed by a flood. The chapter begins by asserting the truth of the judgment, which takes place not only in the life after death but is witnessed in this life as well. Prosperous nations are destroyed when they fall into evil ways, and this judgment will overtake the Quraish as well. It then prophesies a victory for the Muslims in an encounter with their enemies, whose leaders and followers will blame each other and their deities will be unable to help them. In the end it tells us that truth will prosper and falsehood will vanish before it. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: Judgment is Certain

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Praise be to Allah, Whose is whatsoever is in the heavens and whatsoever is in the earth, and to Him be praise in the Hereafter! And He is the Wise, the Aware. ²He knows what goes down into the earth and what comes out of it, and what comes down from heaven and what goes up to it. And He is the Merciful, the Forgiving.

3 And those who disbelieve say: The Hour will never come to us. Say: Indeed, by my Lord, the Knower of the unseen, it will certainly come to you! Not an atom's weight escapes Him in the heavens or in the earth, nor is there less than that nor greater, but (all) is in a clear book,^a ⁴that He may reward those who believe and do good. For them is forgiveness and an honourable sustenance. ⁵And those who strive hard in opposing Our Messages, for them is a painful punishment of an evil kind.

a (3) The verse states the immutable law that every deed is followed by a consequence, and nothing should be looked upon as too small to produce an effect. The two verses that follow are an illustration of this law; good meets with a good reward and evil with an evil punishment.

6 And those who have been given knowledge see that what is revealed to you from your Lord, is the Truth and it guides into the path of the Mighty, the Praised. 7And those who disbelieve say: Shall we show you a man who informs you that, when you are scattered the utmost scattering, you will then be in a new creation? 8Has he forged a lie against Allah or is there madness in him? No, those who do not believe in the Hereafter are in torment and in far error. 9Do they not see what is before them and what is behind them of the heaven and the earth? If We please, We can make them low in the land or bring down upon them a portion of heaven. Surely there is a sign in this for every servant turning (to Allah).^a

Section 2: Favours followed by Retribution

10 And certainly We gave David abundance from Us: O mountains, repeat praises with him,^b and the birds, and We made iron pliant to him,^c 11saying: Make ample (coats of mail), and assign a time to the making of coats of mail and (O people) do good. Surely I am Seer of what you do.^d 12And (We made) the wind a (9) This is the ever-recurring argument of the Quran. The disbelievers deny the last Resurrection, the life after death, the sublime principle of the accountability of human actions, which forms the only basis of high morals, and they are told that, as a proof of the truth of the Resurrection, they will be brought low in this very life for standing in the way of the advancement of Truth. It is compared with the coming of a portion from heaven because they would not be able to avert it.

b (10-1) By the mountains repeating praises of Allah, some understand the praising of Allah in the sense in which all inanimate objects are spoken of in the Quran as glorifying God, while others think that the mountains' echoing of David's loud praises is meant. But the mention of birds, the attendants of a victorious army (see 16:79), and iron along with it shows that the reference is to the conquests of David; and the singing of praises by the mountains therefore carries the significance of those residing on mountains yielding to David.

c (10-2) The making of iron pliant to him signifies the extensive use of iron by him in his battles, and so do the coats of mail in the next verse.

d (11) David is enjoined to prepare himself and his army for severe battles, hence the necessity of coats of mail to save life. Some think that the commandment signifies that David should not take anything from the treasury for his own

(subservient) to Solomon; it made a month's journey in the morning and a month's journey in the evening;^a and We made a fountain of molten brass to flow for him.^b And some of the jinn worked before him by the command of his Lord. And whoever turned aside from Our command from among them, We made him taste of the punishment of burning.^c ¹³They made for him what he pleased, of synagogues and images, and bowls (large) as watering-troughs and fixed cooking-pots.^d Give thanks, O people of David! And very few of My servants are grateful. ¹⁴But when We decreed death for him, nothing showed them his death but a creature of the earth that ate away his staff. So when it fell down, the jinn saw clearly that, if they had known the unseen, they would not have remained in humiliating torment.^e livelihood, and that he should earn his livelihood by an industry, such as the making of coats of mail. According to one interpretation, assigning a time indicates that David is commanded not to employ his whole time in such occupations, for the real object is to do good.

a (12-1) See 21:81. The significance is that Solomon's ships were made to traverse a month's journey in a day by favourable winds. For Solomon's navy, see 1 Kings 9:26. But it should be noted that rīḥ ("wind") means also power or dominance or conquest, and therefore the meaning may be that Solomon's kingdom was so large that it was a month's journey to the East and a month's journey to the West.

c (12-3) These jinn were no other than the strangers whom Solomon subjected to his rule and forced into service. See 2 Chronicles, 2:2–18. Note that the jinn of this verse are the "devils" (shayāṭīn) of 38:37 — "(We subjected to Solomon) the devils, every builder and diver" — where the devils are explained by the Quran itself to be no others than the builders and divers whom Solomon had forced into labour.

d (13) For the graving of cherubims on the walls, see 2 Chronicles, 3:7; for the casting of oxen, 2 Chronicles, 4:3; for the making of lavers, pots, basins, etc., 2 Chronicles, 4:11, 14.

e (14) The reference in the creature of the earth that ate away his staff is to his son's weak rule, under whom the kingdom of Solomon went to pieces. It appears that Solomon's successor, Rehoboam, led a life of luxury and ease, and instead of acting on the advice of the older men, he yielded to the pleasure-seeking wishes of his companions (1 Kings 12:13), and it is to his luxurious habits and easy mode of life that the Quran refers when it calls him a creature of the earth. The eating away of his staff signifies the disruption of the kingdom. The 15 Certainly there was a sign for Saba in their abode — two gardens on the right and the left.^a Eat of the sustenance of your Lord and give thanks to Him. A good land and a Forgiving Lord!

16But they turned aside, so We sent upon them a violent torrent,^b and in place of their two gardens We gave them two gardens yielding bitter fruit and (growing) tamarisk and a few lote-trees.
17With this We recompensed them because they were ungrateful; and We punish none but the ungrateful. 18And We made, between them and the towns which We had blessed, (other) towns within sight,^c and We determined the journey between them (to be easy): Travel through them nights and days, secure. 19But (it was as if) they said: Our Lord, make longer stages between our journeys.^d And they wronged themselves; so We made them stories and scattered them a total scattering. Surely there are signs in this for every patient, grateful one.

20 And the devil indeed found true his conjecture about them, so they follow him, except a group of the believers. 21And he has no authority over them, but that We may know him who believes in the Hereafter from him who is in doubt about it. And your Lord is the Preserver of all things.

jinn, as already remarked, mean the rebellious tribes who had been reduced to subjection by Solomon, and who remained in subjection to the Israelites for a time, until the kingdom was shattered. This instance, as well as the one following, contains a warning for the Muslims as to the result of falling into luxury and ease, by which, however, they benefited little; the ultimate fate of the respective kingdoms of the Umayyads and Abbasides was the same as that of Solomon's kingdom. See also 38:34.

a (15) Saba' was a city in Yaman, about three days' journey from San'a. Note that it is usual to speak of two gardens, for large cultivated areas were bounded by a garden on each side.

b (16) The bursting of the dyke of this city and its destruction by a flood are historically known facts, and took place in about the first or second century C.E.

c (18) The cities were so close to each other that one could be seen from the other, or they were conspicuous from the road. It is an indication of the great prosperity of the country. The blessed towns are the towns of Syria, with which they carried on trade.

d (19) It is not necessary that they should have thus prayed in words. It is a description of their actual condition, i.e., they were not grateful for the blessings and fell into evil ways, which resulted in punishment overtaking them.

Section 3: A Victory for the Muslims

22 Say: Call upon those whom you assert (as gods) besides Allah; they do not control the weight of an atom in the heavens or in the earth, nor have they any partnership in either, nor has He a helper among them.^a ²³And intercession does not avail with Him, except of one whom He permits. Until when fear is removed from their hearts, they say: What is it that your Lord said? They say: The Truth. And He is the Most High, the Great. ²⁴Say: Who gives you sustenance from the heavens and the earth? Say: Allah. And surely we or you are on a right way or in manifest error.^b ²⁵Say: You will not be asked of what we are guilty, nor shall we be asked of what you do. ²⁶Say: Our Lord will gather us together, then He will judge between us with truth. And He is the Best Judge, the Knower.^c ²⁷Say: Show me those whom you join with Him as partners. By no means (can you)! Indeed, He is Allah, the Mighty, the Wise.

28 And We have not sent you but as a bearer of good news and as a warner to all mankind, but most people do not know.^d ²⁹And they say: When will this promise be (fulfilled), if you are truthful? ³⁰Say: You have the appointment of a day which you cannot postpone by an hour, nor bring it forward.^e a (22) It refers to the helplessness of the supposed gods to assist their votaries when distress overtakes them.

b (24) The meaning is that as surely as you are in manifest error, so surely are we on a right way.

c (26) This is a prophecy which was fulfilled in the first decisive battle which clearly decided the issue between the Muslims and their opponents. The question in v. 29 — when will this promise be fulfilled? — makes it quite clear.

d (28) The Prophet is repeatedly spoken of as having been sent as a messenger to all people, in the earliest as well as the later revelations. He is called “A warner to the nations” (25:1), “A mercy to the nations” (21:107), and so on. In one place, his being sent to people is qualified by the word jamīʿ-an (7:158), which means all. Here it is qualified by the word kāffah, which means all without an exception.

e (30) The first encounter between the Muslims and their enemies took place in the battle of Badr, after the first year of the Flight had passed away. Elsewhere the same question is answered by the words: “Maybe somewhat of what you seek to hasten has drawn near to you” (27:72).

Section 4: The Leaders of Evil

31 And those who disbelieve say: We do not believe in this Quran, nor in what is before it. And if you could see when the wrongdoers are made to stand before their Lord, throwing back the blame to one another! Those who were considered weak say to those who were proud: If it were not for you, we would have been believers. ³²Those who were proud say to those who were considered weak: Did we turn you away from the guidance after it had come to you? But you (yourselves) were guilty. ³³And those who were considered weak say to those who were proud: But (it was your) planning by night and day when you told us to disbelieve in Allah and to set up likes with Him. And they will manifest regret when they see the punishment. And We put chains on the necks of those who disbelieve. They will not be recompensed but for what they did.

34 And We never sent a warner to a town but those who led easy lives in it said: We are disbelievers in that with which you are sent. ³⁵And they say: We have more wealth and children, and we cannot be punished. ³⁶Say: Surely my Lord amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also), but most people do not know.^a

Section 5: Wealth does not stand for Greatness

37 And it is not your wealth, nor your children, that bring you near to Us in rank; but whoever believes and does good, for such is a double reward for what they do, and they are secure in the highest places.^b ³⁸And those who strive in opposing Our messages, they will be brought to the punishment. ³⁹Say: Surely my Lord amplifies provision for whom He pleases of His servants, and a (36) This expression is always used to signify that Allah will give ample means of subsistence to the weaker party and strengthen them against the wealthy transgressors.

b (37) Not only in the highest places in paradise, but also in the highest places in this life — a truth which finds abundant illustration in the lives of the early Muslims.

restricts (it) for him (also). And whatsoever you spend, He increases it in reward,^a and He is the Best of providers.

40 And on the day when He will gather them all together, then will He say to the angels: Did these worship you? ⁴¹They will say: Glory be to You! You are our Protecting Friend, not they; rather, they worshipped the jinn; most of them were believers in them.^b ⁴²So on that day you will not control benefit nor harm for one another. And We will say to those who were wrongdoers: Taste the punishment of the Fire, which you called a lie.

43 And when Our clear messages are recited to them, they say: This is only a man who desires to turn you away from what your fathers worshipped. And they say: This is nothing but a forged lie! And those who disbelieve say of the Truth when it comes to them: This is only clear enchantment! ⁴⁴And We have not given them any Books which they read, nor did We send to them before you a warner.^c ⁴⁵And those before them rejected (the truth), and these have not yet attained a tenth of what We gave them,^d but they rejected My messengers. How (terrible) was then My disapproval!

Section 6: Truth will prosper

46 Say: I exhort you only to one thing, that you rise up for Allah's sake by twos and singly; then ponder! There is no madness in your companion. He is only a warner to you before a severe punishment. ⁴⁷Say: Whatever reward I ask of you, that is only for yourselves. My reward is only with Allah, and He is a a (39) The words "increases it" (yukhlifu-hu) signify that Allah gives him such a great reward as to leave behind what he had spent in His way.

b (41) Compare this with the last section, and it will be clear that the very persons mentioned there as the proud ones are spoken of here as the jinn.

c (44) That is, no Book was ever given nor any warner ever raised that taught the worship of others besides the One God; or the meaning may be that, whereas warners appeared all about Arabia, Makkah had not yet seen one.

d (45) That is, in power or in material prosperity the Quraish could not stand comparison with many of the early nations.

Witness over all things. ⁴⁸Say: Surely my Lord casts the Truth, the great Knower of the unseen. ⁴⁹Say: The Truth has come, and falsehood neither originates, nor reproduces.^a ⁵⁰Say: If I go astray, only to my own loss do I go astray; and if I go aright, it is because of what my Lord reveals to me. Surely He is Hearing, Near.

51 And if only you could see when they become terrified, but (then) there will be no escape and they will be seized from a near place;^b ⁵²and they will say: We believe in it. And how can they attain (to faith) from a distant place?^c ⁵³And they indeed disbelieved in it before, and they utter conjectures with regard to the unseen from a distant place.^d ⁵⁴And a barrier is placed between them and what they desire,^e as was done with their partisans before. Surely they are in a disquieting doubt.

a (49) The Truth may stand for Unity and falsehood for polytheism, the significance being that idol-worship will never again find access to Makkah. Compare 17:81: "Say: The Truth has come and falsehood vanished. Surely falsehood is ever bound to vanish".

b (51) In this world, they were seized upon at Badr and again at Makkah.

c (52) For death shall then have removed them into the other world.

d (53) Their conjectures that the Prophet will not be successful have no value, as they have no access to the unseen.

e (54) Indeed, no punishment is greater than failure to attain what a person desires most eagerly. This is the hell of this life.

Chapter 35

Al-Fāṭir

The Originator

The title of this chapter is taken from the Divine attribute the Originator mentioned in the first verse. God, as Originator of the heavens and the earth, sweeps away the old order and generates a new one. The chapter begins by referring to Divine favours upon mankind and asserts the promise that truth will prevail. It then prophesies the rising of a new generation to promote the cause of truth and justice in the world. After this, it promises success to the believers, and at the end it reiterates the law that punishment is due to evil deeds. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: Divine Favours

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Praise be to Allah, the Originator of the heavens and the earth,^a the Maker of the angels, messengers flying on wings, two, and three, and four.^b He increases in creation what He pleases.

a (1-1) God is here mentioned by his name Fāṭir, which means one who splits, and also who originates or brings a thing into existence for the first time. There may be reference to the creation of primeval matter in the original significance of cleaving or splitting. From the same root is the word fiṭrah, which means nature or original quality in which all human beings are said to have been made — “the nature made by Allah in which He has created mankind” (30:30). So there may be reference to this fiṭrah in the use of the word Fāṭir, as the fiṭrah or nature of man has a close relation with the Fāṭir or the Maker of that fiṭrah.

b (1-2) The janāḥ or wing of an angel by no means indicates the fore-limbs of a bird, which fit it for flight. It is a symbol of power enabling these immaterial beings to execute their functions, and in Arabic the word janāḥ stands for power. Angels are here spoken of as having two, three or four wings. There may be a reference here to the rak'ahs of prayer which are two, three or four in number in various prayers. In prayer man holds communion with God and is raised to spiritual eminence; he, as it were, flies to God, is on his wings, and the angels are the agents which make him fly to God, their wings thus standing for the rak'ahs of prayer.

Surely Allah is Powerful over all things.^a ²Whatever Allah grants to people of (His) mercy, there is none to withhold it, and what He withholds, none can grant thereafter. And He is the Mighty, the Wise. ³O people, call to mind the favour of Allah to you. Is there any Creator besides Allah who provides for you from the heaven and the earth? There is no God but He. How are you then turned away (from truth)! ⁴And if they reject you — truly messengers before you were rejected. And to Allah are all affairs returned.

5 O people, surely the promise of Allah is true, so do not let the life of this world deceive you. And do not let the arch-deceiver deceive you about Allah. ⁶Surely the devil is your enemy, so take him for an enemy. He only invites his followers to be companions of the burning Fire. ⁷Those who disbelieve, for them is a severe punishment. And those who believe and do good, for them is forgiveness and a great reward.

Section 2: Truth will prevail

8 Is he whose evil deed is made attractive to him so that he considers it good (able to be guided aright)? Now surely Allah leaves in error whom He pleases and guides aright whom He pleases, so do not let your soul waste in grief for them. Surely Allah is Knower of what they do. ⁹And Allah is He Who sends the winds, so they raise a cloud, then We drive it on to a dead land, and with it We give life to the earth after its death. Even so is the rising.^b ¹⁰Whoever desires might, then to Allah belongs the might wholly. To Him do ascend the goodly words, and the goodly deed — He exalts it. And those who plan evil — for them is a severe punishment. And their plan will perish.^c a (1-3) The increase in creation may refer in a general sense to the new creation which is going on momentarily in this universe, or there may be a reference here to the increase in the number of the elect which was to be brought about through the Prophet. Or still again, the meaning may be that the power of angels is not limited to two, three or four wings, for there are angels of mighty power like Gabriel, who is spoken of as having six hundred wings.

b (9) This is clearly the rising to spiritual life.

c (10) Good words ascend to God, i.e., prosper and bear fruit, and good deeds are exalted, while the evil plans to destroy Truth perish.

11 And Allah created you from dust, then from the life-germ, then He made you pairs. And no female bears, nor gives birth, except with His knowledge. And no one living long is granted long life, nor is his life shortened at all, but it is in a book. Surely this is easy to Allah.^a 12And the two seas are not alike: the one sweet, very sweet, pleasant to drink; and the other saltish, bitter. Yet from both you eat fresh flesh and bring forth ornaments which you wear. And you see the ships cleave through it, that you may seek of His bounty and that you may give thanks. 13He makes the night to pass into the day, and makes the day to pass into the night, and He has made subservient the sun and the moon, each one moves to an appointed time. This is Allah, your Lord; His is the kingdom. And those whom you call upon besides Him own not a straw. 14If you call on them, they do not hear your call; and if they heard, they could not answer you. And on the day of Resurrection they will deny your making them partners (of Allah). And none can inform you like the All-Aware One.

Section 3: A New Generation will be raised

15 O people, it is you that have need of Allah, and Allah is the Self-Sufficient, the Praised. 16If He please, He will remove you and bring a new creation. 17And this is not hard to Allah. 18And no bearer of a burden can bear another's burden. And if one weighed down by a burden calls another to carry his load, nothing of it will be carried, even though he be near of kin. You can only warn those who fear their Lord in secret and keep up prayer. And whoever purifies himself, purifies himself only for his own good. And to Allah is the eventual coming.

19 And the blind and the seeing are not alike, 20nor the darkness and the light, 21nor the shade and the heat. 22Neither are the living and the dead alike. Surely Allah makes whom He pleases hear, and you cannot make those hear who are in the graves.^a ²³You are only a warner. ²⁴Surely We have sent you with the Truth as a bearer of good news and a warner. And there is not a people but a warner has gone among them.^b

25 And if they reject you, those before them also rejected — their messengers came to them with clear arguments, and with scriptures, and with the illuminating Book.^c ²⁶Then I seized those who disbelieved, so how (terrible) was My disapproval!

Section 4: The Elect

27 Do you not see that Allah sends down water from the clouds, then We bring forth with it fruits of various colours? And in the mountains are streaks, white and red, of various colours and (others) intensely black. ²⁸And of mankind and beasts and cattle there are various colours likewise. Those of His servants only who are possessed of knowledge fear Allah. Surely Allah is Mighty, Forgiving.

29 Surely those who recite the Book of Allah and keep up prayer and spend (on good works) out of what We have given them, secretly and openly, hope for a gain which does not perish — ³⁰that He may pay them back fully their rewards and give them more out of His grace. Surely He is Forgiving, Multiplier of reward. ³¹And what We have revealed to you of the Book, that is a (22) Note how spiritual truths are conveyed in words relating to physical life. Those in the graves are the very people who were actively engaged in opposition to the Prophet. The seeing are those who have their eyes opened spiritually, the light is the spiritual light, the living are those alive in spirit, and so on.

b (24) This broad doctrine that a prophet was raised among every nation is taught repeatedly in the Quran and it is met with in the earlier revelation at Makkah as well as the later revelation at Madinah. This great truth, which had remained hidden for thousands of years from the wisest men of the world, had shone upon the mind of an Arabian who could neither read nor write, who did not even know what nations then existed and what scriptures they possessed. This broad doctrine alone could form the basis of the universality of a Divine message to the whole of mankind. Only he who had the breadth of mind to recognize truth in all could unite all mankind.

c (25) See 3:184.

the truth, verifying what is (already) before it.^a Surely Allah is Aware, Seer of His servants. ³²Then We have given the Book as inheritance to those whom We have chosen from among Our servants: so some of them do wrong to themselves, and some of them take a middle course, and some of them are foremost in deeds of goodness by Allah's permission.^b That is the great grace, ³³Gardens of perpetuity, which they enter — they are made to wear therein bracelets of gold and pearls, and their dress therein is silk.^c ³⁴And they say: Praise be to Allah, Who has removed grief from us!^d Surely our Lord is Forgiving, Multiplier of reward, ³⁵Who out of His grace has settled us in a house abiding forever; therein toil does not touch us nor does fatigue afflict us therein.^e

36 And those who disbelieve, for them is Fire of hell; it is not finished with them so that they should die, nor is its punishment lightened to them. Thus do We recompense every ungrateful one. ³⁷And in it they cry for help: Our Lord, take us out! we will do good deeds, not those which we used to do! Did We not give you a (31) Note that as the Quran recognizes that prophets were raised in every nation, so it claims that previous revelation contains prophecies which have been fulfilled in the advent of the Holy Prophet. This is an early Makkan revelation.

b (32) After speaking of the revelation of the Quran to the Prophet, we are told that the Holy Book was now being given as an inheritance to a chosen people, i.e., the Muslim community, who are chosen to carry this great message to the whole world. But the chosen people are not all alike. Among them are some who wrong themselves — they do not fulfil Divine commandments. There are others among them who follow a middle course; they are not wrongdoers but they are not very active in the doing of good. There are others still, who are foremost in the doing of good, those who have attained to nearness to God. It is thus made clear that when a community is spoken of as being a chosen community, all members of it are not alike. It is chosen because of those who are foremost in the doing of good, whose example the others should try to follow.

c (33) The promise refers to this life as well as to the next. See 22:23 footnote.

d (34) Here is drawn a true picture of paradise: Who has removed grief from us. This shows that freedom from grief and anxiety is the real bliss of paradise. The repeated promise to the righteous, that they shall have no fear nor shall they grieve, expresses the same truth, and shows that paradise begins in this life.

e (35) Note this further description of a spiritual paradise: where toil and fatigue no more afflict a man. It is all peace and satisfaction and the highest bliss.

a life long enough, for him to be mindful who would mind? And the warner came to you. So taste; because for the wrongdoers there is no helper.

Section 5: Punishment due to Evil Deeds

38 Surely Allah is the Knower of the unseen in the heavens and the earth. Surely He is Knower of what is in the hearts. ³⁹He it is Who made you successors in the earth. So whoever disbelieves, his disbelief is against himself. And their disbelief increases the disbelievers with their Lord only in hatred; and their disbelief increases the disbelievers in nothing but loss.

40 Say: Have you seen your associate-gods which you call upon besides Allah? Show me what they have created of the earth! Or have they any share in the heavens? Or, have We given them a Book so that they follow a clear argument from it? No, the wrongdoers hold out promises to one another only to deceive. ⁴¹Surely Allah upholds the heavens and the earth or they would come to naught. And if they come to naught, none can uphold them after Him. Surely He is ever Forbearing, Forgiving.

42 And they swore by Allah, their strongest oaths, that, if a warner came to them, they would be better guided than any of the nations. But when a warner came to them, it increased them only in aversion,^a ⁴³behaving proudly in the land and planning evil. And the evil plan engulfs none but the authors of it. So they wait only for the way of the ancients. But you will find no alteration in the course of Allah; and you will find no change in the course of Allah. ⁴⁴Have they not travelled in the land and seen what was the end of those before them — and they were stronger than those in power? And Allah is not such that anything in the heavens or the earth can escape Him. Surely He is ever Knowing, Powerful. ⁴⁵And if Allah were to punish people for what they earn, He would not leave on the back of it any creature,^a but He gives them respite till an appointed term; so when their doom comes, then surely Allah is ever Seer of His servants.

^a (42) There were Jews and Christians in Arabia who were as corrupt as the idolaters of Arabia. The Arabs, therefore, said that, if a prophet came to them as prophets came to other people, they would follow him, and set an example of goodness.

a (45) Similar words occur in 16:61: “And if Allah were to destroy people for their wrongdoing, He would not leave on it a single creature”. Evidently by creature here are meant people bent low on earth, people ignorant of the higher or spiritual values of life, or the wrongdoers; see 27:82 and 34:14.

Yā Sīn

The title of this chapter is taken from the initial letters Yā Sīn which form the first verse, meaning O man or O Perfect man, addressing the Holy Prophet. The chapter declares the truth of the Quran and begins by saying that its revelation will, after initial opposition, give life to a dead humanity. This is illustrated by a parable. Signs in nature are pointed to, indicating that the same law is working in the spiritual world. It goes on to show that acceptors and rejectors of truth will be dealt with distinctly. In the end it draws attention to the Resurrection and life after death, an awareness of which makes a person feel responsible for his actions. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: Truth of the Quran

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O man,^a 2By the Quran, full of wisdom! 3Surely you are one of the messengers, 4on a right way. 5A revelation of the Mighty, the Merciful, 6that you may warn a people whose fathers were not warned,^b so they are heedless. 7The word has indeed proved true of most of them, so they do not believe.^c 8Surely We have placed on their necks chains reaching up to the chins, so they have their heads raised aloft.^d 9And We have set a barrier before a (1) According to the companion Ibn Abbas Yā Sīn means yā insān: “O man”. There is almost a consensus of opinion that the reference in this abbreviation is to the Holy Prophet himself.

b (6) The first warning of the Prophet was for the Makkans, but he was a warner for all nations as well; see 25:1.

c (7) The word which proved true is that Truth is always opposed first but it wins in the end.

d (8) This is a description of the proud attitude of the disbelievers towards the Prophet’s preaching. The chains of pride and stubbornness are really the things which prevent them from listening to and accepting the message of the Prophet.

them and a barrier behind them, thus We have covered them, so that they do not see.^a ¹⁰And it is the same to them whether you warn them or do not warn them — they do not believe. ¹¹You can warn only him who follows the Reminder and fears the Beneficent in secret; so give him good news of forgiveness and a generous reward. ¹²Surely We give life to the dead, and We write down what they send on ahead and their footprints,^b and We record everything in a clear writing.

Section 2: Confirmation of the Truth

13 And set out to them a parable of the people of the town, when messengers came to it. ¹⁴When We sent to them two, they rejected them both; then We strengthened (them) with a third, so they said: Surely we are sent to you.^c ¹⁵They said: You are only mortals like ourselves, nor has the Beneficent revealed anything — you only lie.^d ¹⁶They said: Our Lord knows that we are surely sent to you. ¹⁷And our duty is only to deliver the message clearly. ¹⁸They said: Surely we consider you an evil omen.^e If you do not a (9) These were the barriers of their own stubbornness. The barriers before them prevented them from looking forward to the eminence to which they could rise by following the Truth, and those behind them prevented them from looking back to the history of nations destroyed on account of their rejection of the Truth.

b (12) What they send on ahead are their deeds, and their footprints are the marks they leave behind for others to follow.

c (14) This is called a parable in the previous verse; therefore it is an error to name a particular town and three messengers who went together to it. The parable is set forth only to point out the truth of the Holy Prophet. The two messengers sent before are Moses and Jesus, both of whom clearly prophesied the advent of the Holy Prophet, and the third, with whom they are strengthened, is no other than the Holy Prophet himself, the fulfilment of prophecy in whose person without doubt strengthened the truth of previous revelation. The conversion of Arabia and its reclamation from idolatry had been tried both by the followers of Moses and Jesus, and both had failed, and a third messenger was now sent.

d (15) Note that the people here deny all revelation. The Arabs rejected previous revelation as well as the revelation of the Holy Prophet.

e (18) Distress in one form or other always overtakes a people when a prophet appears among them. See 6:42. It is to this distress that the rejectors of messengers refer.

stop, we will surely stone you, and a painful punishment from us will certainly afflict you. ¹⁹They said: Your evil fortune is with you. What! If you are reminded! Indeed, you are an extravagant people.^a 20 And from the remote part of the city a man came running.^b He said: My people, follow the messengers. ²¹Follow him who asks of you no reward, and they are on the right course. ^{*22}And what reason have I that I should not serve Him Who created me and to Whom you will be brought back. ²³Shall I take besides Him gods whose intercession, if the Beneficent should desire to afflict me with harm, will not avail me in the least, nor can they deliver me? ²⁴Then I shall surely be in clear error. ²⁵Surely I believe in your Lord, so hear me.

26 It was said: Enter the Garden.^c He said: If only my people knew ²⁷how my Lord has forgiven me and made me from among the honoured ones! ²⁸And We did not send down upon his people after him any army from heaven, nor do We ever send.^d ²⁹It was but a single cry,^e and lo! they were still. ³⁰Alas for the servants! Never does a messenger come to them but they mock him. ³¹Do they not see how many generations We destroyed before them, that they do not return to them?^f ³²And all — surely all — will be brought before Us.

a (19) They are told that distress is not due to the Prophet's advent, but is the result of their own evil deeds, and the Prophet does no more than remind them and warn them of the consequences of their evil deeds.

b (20) This man represents the believer in the Truth. Every prophet has testimony borne to his truth by one from among the people themselves. Thus the Quran speaks of a believer from among the people of Pharaoh (40:28), and Joseph of Arimathaea believed in and helped Jesus. The Prophet Muhammad had such a follower in Abu Bakr, who was the first to believe, while the others rejected.

c (26) It is a promise to the believer that he will be successful.

d (28) Armies are not sent down from above to chastise the wicked, but causes are brought into existence on this very earth.

e (29) The single cry signifies only a sudden punishment.

f (31) The words may also mean that many generations were destroyed before them because they did not turn to the messengers.

Section 3: Signs of the Truth

33 And a sign to them is the dead earth: We give life to it and bring forth from it grain so they eat of it.^a 34And We make in it gardens of date-palms and grapes and We make springs to flow forth in it, ³⁵that they may eat of the fruit thereof, and their hands did not make it. Will they not then give thanks? ³⁶Glory be to Him Who created pairs of all things, of what the earth grows, and of their own kind and of what they do not know!^b

37 And a sign to them is the night: We draw forth from it the (light of) day, then lo! they are in darkness;^c ³⁸and the sun moves on to its destination. That is the ordinance of the Mighty, the Knower. ³⁹And the moon, We have ordained for it stages till it becomes again as an old dry palm-branch.^d ⁴⁰Neither is it for the sun to overtake the moon, nor can the night outstrip the day. And all float on in an orbit.^e ⁴¹And a sign to them is that We carry their offspring in the laden ship, ⁴²and We have created for them (other things) the like of it, on which they ride.^f ⁴³And if We please, We

a (33) How dead the earth, and particularly Arabia, was at the advent of the Holy Prophet, it is impossible to describe within a footnote. As the physical world shows the working of the Divine law that life is restored to the earth after its death, the same law would work in the spiritual world.

b (36) This verse establishes a great scientific truth, that pairs exist in all creation, even in the vegetable kingdom and in things which had not yet come to the knowledge of man. The Arabs certainly did not know this, but modern research corroborates this truth.

c (37) The night of ignorance must now pass away; for as in the physical world night follows day and day follows night, so in the spiritual world light is followed by the darkness of ignorance and the latter again gives place to light.

d (39) Even such is the case of truth, which seems at first to be insignificant, but soon shines forth like a full moon.

e (40) Even truth and falsehood have their courses. As night must disappear with the rise of the day, so falsehood must vanish before the light of Truth. The flotation of the heavenly bodies in their orbits is a statement beyond the ken of an Arabian of the 7th century C.E. The Quran is a book for the spiritual guidance of man, but it discloses a large number of scientific truths which were not known to man at the time of the revelation of the Book.

f (42) The ships that bear man on the seas are spoken of in v. 41. These were may drown them, then there is no help for them, nor can they be rescued^a — ⁴⁴but by mercy from Us and for enjoyment till a time.

45 And when it is said to them: Guard against what is before you and what is behind you, that mercy may be shown to you.^b
⁴⁶And no message comes to them of the messages of their Lord but they turn away from it. ⁴⁷And when it is said to them: Spend (on good works) out of what Allah has given you, those who disbelieve say to those who believe: Shall we feed him whom, if Allah please, He could feed? You are in nothing but clear error.^c
⁴⁸And they say: When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful? ⁴⁹They await but a single cry, which will overtake them while they argue. ⁵⁰So they will not be able to make a bequest, nor will they return to their families.^d

Section 4: Reward and Punishment

51 And the trumpet is blown, when lo! from their graves they will hasten on to their Lord. ⁵²They will say: O woe to us! Who has raised us up from our sleeping-place?^e This is what the known to man at the time of the revelation of the Quran. But this verse speaks of other ships, like them. These are the aeroplanes of today. They are spoken of as being created by God, because it is through the knowledge and means that God has given man that he is able to acquire mastery of the air and make these ships.

a (43) This is a warning of the impending punishment. Drowning in the sea signifies their destruction, wherever it may take place. The word chosen to describe the punishment is one which shows the utter helplessness of the sufferers.

b (45) What is before you signifies the punishment which must overtake them in this life, and what is behind you means the consequences of evil which they would witness in the Hereafter.

c (47) So they turned neither to submission to Allah, nor to sympathy for their fellow-beings.

d (50) This is a prophetic description of the battle of Badr. The Quraish attacked Madinah to annihilate Islam but the leaders of evil were themselves finished there, and could neither make a bequest, nor did they return to their families.

e (52) The grave is called a sleeping-place even for the disbelievers, because, as compared with the severer punishment of hell, the grave would be to them a sleeping-place. It should be noted that the grave signifies the condition after life is ended in this world.

Benevolent promised and the messengers told the truth. ⁵³It is but a single cry, when lo! they are all brought before Us. ⁵⁴So this day no soul is wronged in the least and you are only rewarded for what you did.

55 Surely the owners of the Garden are on that day in a happy occupation. ⁵⁶They and their wives are in shades, reclining on raised couches. ⁵⁷In it they have fruits and they have whatever they desire. ⁵⁸Peace! A word from a Merciful Lord.^a

59 And withdraw today, O guilty ones! ⁶⁰Did I not charge you, O children of Adam, not to serve the devil? Surely he is your open enemy. ⁶¹And that you serve Me. This is the right way. ⁶²And certainly he led astray numerous people from among you. Could you not then understand? ⁶³This is the hell which you were promised. ⁶⁴Enter it this day because you disbelieved. ⁶⁵That day We shall seal their mouths, and their hands will speak to Us, and their feet will bear witness as to what they earned. ⁶⁶And if We pleased, We would put out their eyes, then they would struggle to get ahead to (find) the way, but how should they see?^b ⁶⁷And if We pleased, We would transform them in their place so they would be unable to go on or turn back.^c

Section 5: The Resurrection

68 And whomever We grant long life, We cause him to deteriorate in creation.^d Do they not understand? ⁶⁹And We have not taught him poetry,^e nor is it befitting for him. This is nothing a (58) Here we have another picture of the Muslim paradise. After describing the various blessings, it sums them up in a single word, peace.

b (66) These are the reprobate. They shut their eyes to the truth with such persistence that their eyes become blind; they no longer see, even if they would.

c (67) The meaning of transforming them in their place is taking away their power and rendering them weak and turning them into an evil plight.

d (68) It is a general law of nature that every living thing must deteriorate; the application here is to individuals as well as nations.

e (69) Its negation as poetry is meant to convey the seriousness of the subjects that the Quran deals with.

but a Reminder and a plain Quran, ⁷⁰to warn him who would have life, and (that) the word may prove true against the disbelievers.

71 Do they not see that We have created cattle for them, out of what Our hands have made, so they are their masters? ⁷²And We have subjected them to them, so some of them they ride, and some they eat. ⁷³And in them they have (other) advantages and drinks. Will they not then give thanks? ⁷⁴And they take gods besides Allah that they may be helped. ⁷⁵They are not able to help them, and they will be a group brought up (for judgment) before them.^a ⁷⁶So do not let their speech grieve you. Surely We know what they do in secret and what they do openly.

77 Does not man see that We have created him from the small life-germ? Then lo! he is an open contender. ⁷⁸And he strikes out a likeness for Us and forgets his own creation.^b Says he: Who will give life to the bones, when they are rotten? ⁷⁹Say: He will give life to them, Who brought them into existence at first, and He is Knower of all creation, ⁸⁰Who produced fire for you out of the green tree, so that with it you kindle.^c ⁸¹Is not He Who created the heavens and the earth Able to create the like of them?^d Yes! And He is the Creator (of all), the Knower.

a (75) The guilty leaders will be brought up for punishment before their followers and they will not be able to help them. Or, the worshippers of false deities will be brought up for punishment in the presence of those deities and they will not be able to help them.

b (78) Striking out of a likeness signifies the setting up of gods with Allah.

c (80) Editor's Note: This may refer to the process of photosynthesis. The green substance in tree leaves, chlorophyll, absorbs sunlight to produce carbohydrates and oxygen from water and carbon dioxide. This process is the basis of supporting physical life on earth. Similarly, light from the sun of Truth, the Holy Prophet (called Yā Sīn), produces a higher life in those who follow him.

d (81) The personal pronoun them refers to people, not to heaven and earth. In the Resurrection, people will be the like of what they are here, not the same earthly bodies. The body may become dust; but what a person does of good or evil is preserved, and it is according to this good or evil that he receives a new body. The idea of Resurrection is carried to perfection in Islam, and the Resurrection is meant to give a new life to all. Ultimately the spirit of man is returned to the Spirit Divine, and that is again and again called the meeting with God.

82 His command, when He intends anything, is only to say to it, Be, and it is. ⁸³So glory be to Him in Whose hand is the kingdom of all things, and to Him you will be returned.

Chapter 37

Al-Şaffāt Those Ranging in Ranks

The title of this chapter is taken from its opening words which give a description of the faithful. It begins by announcing a clear prophecy of the ultimate victory of the doctrine of Oneness of God and then establishes the truth of the judgment. After this, the preachings of a number of prophets are mentioned, the last of these being Jonah. The chapter concludes with a prediction of the triumph of the Holy Prophet. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: Unity will prevail

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By those ranging in ranks,^a 2and those who restrain holding in restraint, 3and those who recite the Reminder, 4surely your God a (1) The wāw, which means and, is in such places rendered as by, and signifies an oath. In such cases the oath simply draws attention to a certain testimony. The real object in taking an oath is to make an assertion more convincing, but in the Quran, when such a form is adopted, the conviction is produced not by mere allegation, but by some clear argument. Sometimes attention is called in these oaths to obvious laws of nature to infer spiritual laws from them, and on other occasions the oath reveals a kind of prophecy, whose fulfilment makes the truth of the preaching of the Prophet to be obvious. The latter is the case here.

The description given in verses 1–3 applies to the believers. V.1 shows them as ranging themselves in ranks, or praying to God standing in ranks, which Muslims do five times daily in their prayers in congregation, and may prophetically refer to their subsequent ranging themselves in ranks in the field of battle against their enemies. V. 2 describes them as holding in restraint their passions, so that a people who were ruled by their passions or their sensual desires were so entirely changed that they became complete masters of their passions. The words may also contain a prophecy to their holding in restraint a powerful enemy bent upon their extirpation. V. 3 makes it clear that only Muslims are described here: those who recite the Reminder. It is a special characteristic of the Muslims that they recite the Quran in their prayers, so much so that even their armies in the field of battle are regular in their prayers, in which they recite the Quran. And the great Truth that is thus established is Divine Unity — surely your God is One.

is One. ⁵The Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, and the Lord of the eastern lands.^a ⁶Surely We have adorned the lower heaven with an adornment, the stars, ⁷and (there is) a safeguard against every rebellious devil.^b ⁸They cannot listen to the exalted assembly and they are reproached from every side,^c ⁹driven off;^d and for them is a perpetual punishment, ¹⁰except him who snatches away but once, then there follows him a brightly shining flame.^e ¹¹So ask them whether they are stronger a (5) The reference to the eastern lands is a prophecy of the early spread of Islam in the East, while Islam's conquests in the West seem to have been reserved for a later age.

b (7) The Prophet's preaching was confronted by a twofold opposition among the Arabs — the secular classes and the priestly class, i.e., the diviners and the soothsayers, the class known as Kāhin. It is these soothsayers who are called the rebellious devils, because they thought that they could invoke spirits and answer questions put to them relating to the future. This phase of opposition was equally swept away by the forceful tide of Islamic truth, and the profession of the Kāhin disappeared from Arabia as Islam advanced. The mention of heaven and stars in the previous verse refers to the popular superstition that the diviners and soothsayers obtained their knowledge of the future from the stars. The safeguard against every rebellious devil indicates that they have no access to Divine secrets; see further 52:38 and 72:8.

c (8) The reference here is to the conjectures of the soothsayers regarding the future, by which they maintained their ascendancy over the masses. It is pointed out that they have no access whatever to the source of prophecy. The exalted assembly signifies those angels to whom Divine revelation is first made known. Or, the reference may be to the secular opponents of the Prophet, who, it is here foretold, would be thrown at from every side, so that success could not attend any of their efforts.

d (9) This verse and those preceding it describe the state of the soothsayers at the advent of the Prophet. Before the advent of the Holy Prophet, the soothsayers may have been able to mislead the people to a certain extent by their guesses regarding future events, but after his advent they were reproached on every side, and ultimately the profession of the kāhin disappeared from Arabia, as shown in the footnote to v. 7. Or, the reference may be to the overthrow of ordinary opposition.

e (10) The meaning is that, if a soothsayer gets but one opportunity, there soon follows a flame that pierces through the darkness; in other words, dispels the darkness to which the soothsayer leads people.

in creation or those (others) whom We have created. Surely We created them of firm clay.^a 12 But you wonder, while they mock, ¹³and when they are reminded, they are not mindful, ¹⁴and when they see a sign, they seek to scoff, ¹⁵and say: This is nothing but clear enchantment. ¹⁶When we are dead and have become dust and bones, shall we then be raised, ¹⁷or our forefathers? ¹⁸Say: Yes indeed, and you will be humiliated.^b ¹⁹So it will be but one cry, when lo! they will see. ²⁰And they will say: O woe to us! This is the day of Recompense. ²¹This is the day of Judgment, which you called a lie.

Section 2: The Judgment

22 Gather together those who did wrong and their associates, and what they worshipped ^c ²³besides Allah, then lead them to the way to hell. ²⁴And stop them, for they shall be questioned: ²⁵What is the matter with you that you do not help one another? ²⁶But on that day they will be submissive. ²⁷And they will turn to one another, mutually questioning — ²⁸saying: Surely you used to come to us from the right side. ²⁹They will say: No, you (yourselves) were not believers. ³⁰And we had no authority over you, but you were an inordinate people. ³¹So the word of our Lord has proved true against us: we shall surely taste. ³²We led you astray, for we ourselves were in error. ³³So, that day they will be sharers in the punishment. ³⁴Thus do We deal with the guilty.

35 They indeed were arrogant, when it was said to them:

a (11) Those created of firm clay are the spiritually perfect men, the Prophet and his followers. The verse points to the opposition of the soothsayers to the Prophet, and warns the former that the Prophet will be triumphant, because he is made perfect by Allah's hand.

b (18) That is, you will not only be raised after death to taste of your evil deeds, but even here you will be brought low. This is again a prophecy of the defeat of the enemy in this very life.

c (22) Though the description of the helplessness of the wrongdoers given in this and the following verses applies to life after death, it equally describes their condition in this life.

There is no god but Allah; ³⁶and said: Shall we give up our gods for a mad poet? ³⁷No, he has brought the Truth and verifies the messengers. ³⁸Surely you will taste the painful punishment. ³⁹And you are recompensed only for what you did — ⁴⁰except the servants of Allah, the purified ones. ⁴¹For them is a known sustenance: ^a ⁴²fruits. And they are honoured, ⁴³in Gardens of delight, ⁴⁴on thrones, facing each other. ⁴⁵Round about them is made to go a bowl of running water, ⁴⁶white, delicious to those who drink. ⁴⁷It does not deprive of reason, nor are they exhausted by it. ^b ⁴⁸And with them are those modest in gaze, having beautiful eyes, ⁴⁹as if they were eggs, carefully protected. ^c

50 Then they will turn to one another, mutually questioning. ⁵¹A speaker from among them will say: Surely I had a comrade, ⁵²who said: Are you indeed one of those who accept? ⁵³When we are dead and have become dust and bones, shall we then be brought to judgment? ⁵⁴He will say: Will you look? ⁵⁵Then he looked down and saw him in the midst of hell. ⁵⁶He will say:

a (41) The word ma'lūm (“known”) shows that the sustenance mentioned in the verses that follow is one that is already known to those servants of Allah who are purified from every pollution. This description of the blessings of paradise shows that all those blessings were spiritually tasted by the righteous in this life. In fact, their brief but important description as fruits in the next verse clearly shows those blessings to be the fruits of their good deeds.

b (47) The drinks of this life, though a source of pleasure, bring evil in their train. The drinks of the next life cause neither loss of reason, nor exhaustion. The name is common, but the nature of the two is different.

c (49) The description of women given here calls attention to the prominent feature of the character of a good woman. Attention is first called to the fact that the most valuable virtue of woman is that rare chastity which is described here as modest in gaze or freedom of the eye from lust. Then the beauty of their eyes is praised, the suggestion clearly being that the real beauty of the eye consists in its purity. Secondly, they are described as being eggs carefully protected, which alludes to their pure and unsoiled character. It should, however, be noted that what is apparently a description of women is really a description of the fruits of deeds done in this life, the words adopted being applicable to both (see the word hūr in 52:20), and these are in fact spiritual blessings manifested physically. The blessings which it promises, whatever they may be, are as much meant for men as for women; the only thing certain about them is that their nature is different from the nature of the physical blessings of this life. See also 38:52.

By Allah! you had almost caused me to perish; ⁵⁷and if it were not for the favour of my Lord, I should have been among those brought up (for punishment). ⁵⁸Are we not to die, ⁵⁹except our previous death? And are we not to be punished? ⁶⁰Surely this is the mighty achievement. ⁶¹For the like of this, then, let the workers work.

62 Is this the better entertainment or the tree of Zaqqūm?^a ⁶³Surely We have made it a trial for the wrongdoers. ⁶⁴It is a tree that grows in the bottom of hell — ⁶⁵its produce is as it were the heads of serpents. ⁶⁶Then truly they will eat of it and fill (their) bellies with it. ⁶⁷Then surely they shall have after it a drink of boiling water. ⁶⁸Then their return is surely to the flaming Fire.^b ⁶⁹They indeed found their fathers astray, ⁷⁰so in their footsteps they are hastening on. ⁷¹And most of the ancients surely went astray before them, ⁷²and indeed We sent among them warners. ⁷³Then see what was the end of those warned — ⁷⁴except the servants of Allah, the purified ones.

Section 3: Noah and Abraham

75 And Noah certainly called upon Us, and excellent Answerer of prayers are We! ⁷⁶And We delivered him and his people from the great distress; ⁷⁷and made his offspring the survivors, ⁷⁸and granted him among the later generations (the salutation): ⁷⁹peace be on Noah among the nations! ⁸⁰Thus do We reward the doers of good. ⁸¹Surely he was one of Our believing servants. ⁸²Then We drowned the others.

83 And surely of his party was Abraham. ⁸⁴When he came to his Lord with a secure heart. ⁸⁵When he said to his sire and his

a (62) Zaqqūm is “a dust-coloured tree, having small round leaves without thorns. It has a pungent odour and is bitter, and has knots in its stems ... the heads of its leaves are very foul” and it also means any deadly food (Lane’s Lexicon). See also 17:60 and 44:43.

b (68) The words, then their return is surely to the flaming Fire, are very significant, as if the food and drink described above were to be given to them before they went to hell. This is the reason that it is called an entertainment (v. 62). It is in fact a description of their evil plight in this life as well as in the Hereafter.

people: What is it that you worship? ⁸⁶A lie — gods besides Allah do you desire? ⁸⁷What is then your idea about the Lord of the worlds? ⁸⁸Then he glanced a glance at the stars, ⁸⁹and said: Surely I am sick (of your deities).^a ⁹⁰So they turned their backs on him, going away.

⁹¹ Then he turned to their gods and said: Do you not eat? ⁹²What is the matter with you that you do not speak? ⁹³So he turned upon them, striking with the right hand. ⁹⁴Then they came to him, hurrying. ⁹⁵He said: Do you worship that which you carve out? ⁹⁶And Allah has created you and what you make. ⁹⁷They said: Build for him a building, then cast him into the flaming fire. ⁹⁸And they designed a plan against him, but We brought them low.

⁹⁹ And he said: Surely I flee to my Lord — He will guide me. ¹⁰⁰My Lord, grant me a doer of good deeds. ¹⁰¹So We gave him the good news of a forbearing son. ¹⁰²But when he became of age to work with him, he said: My son, I have seen in a dream that I should sacrifice you.^b so consider what you think. He said: My father, do as you are commanded; if Allah please, you will find me patient. ¹⁰³So when they both submitted and he had thrown him down upon his forehead, ¹⁰⁴and We called out to him saying, O Abraham, ¹⁰⁵you have indeed fulfilled the vision.^c Thus do We

a (89) The people with whom Abraham contended were not only worshippers of idols, but also worshippers of stars. Hence Abraham cast a glance at the stars and declared that he could not bear their worshipping others than God. The words here may also be translated as I bear spite to your false gods.

b (102) That the child spoken of here was Ishmael and not Isaac is made clear by v. 112, which states that it was after this incident that Abraham received the news of the birth of Isaac. This, no doubt, contradicts the Bible statement, but the fact that Ishmael's descendants kept a memorial of this sacrifice in the annual pilgrimage to Makkah shows clearly that Ishmael, and not Isaac, was the son whom Abraham was commanded to sacrifice. Moreover, the Bible contradicts itself when it speaks of Isaac as "your only son" (Genesis, 22:2). Only Ishmael could be spoken of as "only son" before the birth of Isaac.

c (105) The words, you have indeed fulfilled the vision, show that the act of slaughtering was not needed for the fulfilment of the vision; the preparedness to do it amounted to its fulfilment. According to the Bible, Abraham cast out his son Ishmael and his mother Hagar in some wilderness when Ishmael was fourteen reward the doers of good. ¹⁰⁶Surely this is a manifest trial. ¹⁰⁷And We ransomed him with a great sacrifice.^a 108 And We granted him among the later generations (the salutation): ¹⁰⁹Peace be on Abraham! ¹¹⁰Thus do We reward the doers of good. ¹¹¹Surely he was one of Our believing servants. ¹¹²And We gave him the good news of Isaac, a prophet, a righteous one. ¹¹³And We blessed him and Isaac.^b And among their offspring some are doers of good, but some are clearly unjust to themselves.

Section 4: Moses, Aaron, Elias and Lot

114 And certainly We conferred a favour on Moses and Aaron. ¹¹⁵And We delivered them and their people from the mighty distress. ¹¹⁶And We helped them, so they were triumphant. ¹¹⁷And We gave them both the clear Book. ¹¹⁸And We guided them on the right way. ¹¹⁹And We granted them among the later generations (the salutation): ¹²⁰Peace be on Moses and Aaron! ¹²¹Thus do We reward the doers of good. ¹²²Surely they were both from among Our believing servants.

123 And Elias was surely one of the messengers. ¹²⁴When he said to his people: Will you not guard against evil? ¹²⁵Do you call years of age (Genesis, 21:9–21). The Quran is silent on this point, but, according to Bukhari, the incident occurred when Ishmael was yet a suckling, and it was not in accordance with the wishes of Sarah but according to a Divine commandment that Abraham left Hagar and Ishmael in the wilderness near the Sacred House, and it was here, when Ishmael was in distress, that the water at Zamzam was discovered (Bukhari, 60:9). The reference in the words you have indeed fulfilled the vision may be to this incident, Abraham being told that the dream had already been fulfilled by casting out Ishmael and leaving him at Makkah.

a (107) To commemorate Ishmael's sacrifice, a great sacrifice was ordered. This was not only the sacrifice of a ram on this particular occasion, but the great institution of sacrifice now connected with the pilgrimage to Makkah. Perhaps there is also a reference here to the abolition of human sacrifice, which was prevalent among most ancient nations, and the significance is that the place of human sacrifice was now forever being taken by the sacrifice of a ram.

b (113) Abraham and Isaac are spoken of distinctly to show that by blessing Abraham is here meant blessing his descendants through Ishmael.

upon Ba'1 and forsake the Best of the creators,^a 126Allah, your Lord and the Lord of your forefathers? 127But they rejected him, so they shall be brought up (for punishment), 128but not the servants of Allah, the purified ones. 129And We granted him among the later generations (the salutation): 130Peace be on Elias!^b 131Thus do We reward the doers of good. 132Surely he was one of Our believing servants.

133 And Lot was surely one of the messengers. 134When We delivered him and his people, all — 135except an old woman among those who remained behind. 136Then We destroyed the others. 137And surely you pass by them in the morning, 138and at night. Do you not then understand?

Section 5: Jonah and Holy Prophet's Triumph

139 And Jonah was surely one of the messengers. 140When he fled to the laden ship,^c 141so he drew lots and was of those cast away. 142So the fish took him into its mouth^d while he was blameable. 143But if he had not been of those who glorify (Us), 144he would have remained in its belly till the day when they are raised.^e 145Then We cast him on the naked shore, while he was sick. 146And We caused a gourd plant to grow up for him. 147And We

a (125) Ba'1 stands for the sun, or the sun-god.

b (130) Ilyāsīn, the word used here, is only another form of the name of Ilyās or Elias. Elias is mentioned as being one of the prophets in 6:85 and is the same as the Elijah of the Bible.

c (140) It is meaningless to say that Jonah fled from God. He was a prophet and knew that no one could flee from God, for God's kingdom is unlimited. Nor does the Quran say that he fled from God. It would appear that he fled from his people or from the king; see also 21:87 and footnotes.

d (142) According to Jonah 1:17, Jonah was devoured by a fish. The word used in the Quran is iltaqama, which does not necessarily signify the act of devouring and means he took into his mouth. According to one explanation, his heel only was drawn by the fish into its mouth.

e (144) The meaning is that the fish would have eaten him, and he would have died. By the day when they are raised is not meant the actual day of Resurrection, because the fish could not live to the day of Resurrection. A person's death is generally called the day of his resurrection in a certain sense.

sent him to a hundred thousand (people) or more.^a ¹⁴⁸And they believed, so We gave them provision till a time.

149 Now ask them whether your Lord has daughters and they have sons? ¹⁵⁰Or did We create the angels females, while they witnessed? ¹⁵¹Now surely it is of their own lie that they say: ¹⁵²Allah has offspring. And truly they are liars. ¹⁵³Has He preferred daughters to sons? ¹⁵⁴What is the matter with you? How do you judge! ¹⁵⁵Will you not then be mindful? ¹⁵⁶Or do you have a clear authority? ¹⁵⁷Then bring your Book, if you are truthful.

158 And they assert a relationship between Him and the jinn.^b And certainly the jinn know that they will be brought up (for judgment) — ¹⁵⁹Glory be to Allah from what they describe! — ¹⁶⁰But not so the servants of Allah, the purified ones.^c ¹⁶¹So surely you and what you serve, ¹⁶²you cannot mislead (anyone) about Him, ¹⁶³except him who will burn in the flaming Fire. ¹⁶⁴And there is none of us but has an assigned place,^d ¹⁶⁵and most surely we are ranged in ranks, ¹⁶⁶and we truly glorify (Him).

167 And surely they used to say: ¹⁶⁸If we had a reminder from the ancients, ¹⁶⁹we would have been sincere servants of Allah. ¹⁷⁰But (now) they disbelieve in it, so they will come to know. ¹⁷¹And certainly Our word has already gone forth to Our servants, the messengers, ¹⁷²that they, surely they, will be helped, ¹⁷³and

a (147) According to the Bible, the gourd gave shelter to Jonah, but the next day a worm damaged the plant so that it withered, and Jonah grieved for it. The lesson drawn from this incident is stated thus: “But the Lord said, You have had pity on the plant for which you have not laboured, nor made it grow, which came up in a night and perished in a night. And should I not pity Nineveh, that great city, in which are more than one hundred and twenty thousand persons who cannot discern between their right hand and their left” (Jonah 4:10–11). These were the hundred thousand or more persons to which Jonah was sent.

b (158) They said that they considered the angels to be daughters of God and worshipped them. In the Quran, however, it is stated that it was really the jinn — their own leaders in evil — that they worshipped, not the angels; see 34:40–41.

c (160) It is the evildoers that will be brought up for judgment (v. 158), not the servants of Allah.

d (164) These words are put into the mouth of the believers.

Our forces, surely they, will be triumphant. ¹⁷⁴So turn away from them till a time, ^a ¹⁷⁵and watch them, they too will see. ¹⁷⁶Would they hasten on Our punishment? ¹⁷⁷So when it descends in their court, evil will be the morning of those who were warned. ¹⁷⁸And turn away from them till a time, ¹⁷⁹and watch, for they too will see.

180 Glory be to your Lord, the Lord of Might, above what they describe! ¹⁸¹And peace be on the messengers! ¹⁸²And praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds!

a (174) That is, the time of victory.

Chapter 38

Şād

The title of this chapter is taken from its initial letter Şād which stands for Şādiq, meaning here Truthful God. It describes the sufferings of prophets at the hands of their enemies but the Truthful God foretold the discomfiture of the enemy and the final triumph of truth. It relates the accounts of David and Solomon, who faced enmity despite being mighty kings, and then describes the tribulations of Job and his deliverance from them. The chapter ends with a mention of the typical opposition of the devil to the prophet-man. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Enemy's Discomfiture

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Truthful God! By the Quran, possessing eminence!^a 2But those who disbelieve are in self-exaltation and opposition. 3How many a generation We destroyed before them, then they cried when there was no longer time for escape!^b 4And they wonder that a warner from among themselves has come to them, and the disbelievers say: This is an enchanter, a liar. 5Does he make the gods a single God? Surely this is a strange thing. 6And the chiefs among them say: Go and steadily adhere to your gods; surely this is a thing intended.^c 7We never heard of this in the former faith, this is nothing but a forgery. 8Has the Reminder been revealed to a (1) Dhikr means eminence here, as in 2:152. The calling to witness of the Quran possessing eminence indicates that the truth of the Quran will become manifest by the eminence to which it will raise those who follow it.

b (3) That is, they did not heed the warning, but cried for help when punishment actually overtook them, and there was no escape from it.

c (6) By a thing intended is meant that it is a thing which the Prophet intends to bring about but which he cannot, or that the appearance of the Prophet is one of the disasters decreed by fate.

him from among us? Indeed, they are in doubt as to My Reminder. Indeed, they have not yet tasted My punishment.

9 Or, do they have the treasures of the mercy of your Lord, the Mighty, the Great Giver? 10Or is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them theirs? Then let them rise higher in means.^a 11What an army of the allies is here put to flight!^b 12The people of Noah, and Ād, and Pharaoh, the lord of armies, rejected (prophets) before them, 13and Thamūd and the people of Lot and the dwellers of the grove. These were the parties (opposing Truth). 14Each one rejected the messengers, so just was My retribution.

Section 2: David's Enemies

15 And these wait but for one cry, in which there is no delay. 16And they say: Our Lord, hasten on for us our portion (of punishment) before the day of Reckoning.^c 17Bear patiently what they say, and remember Our servant David, the possessor of power. He ever turned (to Allah). 18Truly We made the mountains subject to him, glorifying (Allah) at nightfall and sunrise,^d 19and the birds gathered together. All were obedient to him. 20And We strengthened his kingdom and We gave him wisdom and a clear judgment.

a (10) Their rising higher or ascending in means stands for having recourse to all the means they can think of. As they were powerful in the land and masters of it, they should find the best means to retain their power, and prove the warning of the Prophet to be false. They would not be able to do so.

b (11) This is a prophecy relating to the discomfiture and overthrow of the opponents of Islam when they combine all possible forces against it. The Prophet is thus not only enjoined patience under his present sufferings, but he is further told that the opposition against him will assume yet more formidable proportions. He is comforted at the same time with the knowledge that the combined forces of opposition will be utterly routed and overthrown. This happened in the battle known as the battle of the Aḥzāb, or the battle of the Allies; see 33:22.

c (16) It is clearly a demand on the part of disbelievers for punishment in this life; they were again and again told that their doom was coming, and they wanted it to come immediately.

d (18) See 34:10 footnote 1.

21 And has the story of the adversaries come to you? When they made an entry into the private chamber by climbing the wall — ²²when they came upon David so he was afraid of them. They said: Do not fear; (we are) two litigants, one of whom has wronged the other, so decide between us with justice, and do not act unjustly, and guide us to the right way. ²³This is my brother. He has ninety-nine ewes and I have a single ewe. Then he said, Make it over to me, and he has prevailed against me in dispute. ²⁴He said: Surely he has wronged you in demanding your ewe (to add) to his own ewes. And surely many partners wrong one another except those who believe and do good, and very few are they! And David knew that We had tried him, so he asked his Lord for protection, and he fell down bowing and turned (to God).^a ²⁵So We gave him this protection, and surely he had a nearness to Us and an excellent destination.

26 O David, surely We have made you a ruler in the land; so judge between people justly, and do not follow desire that it should lead you astray from the path of Allah. Those who go astray from the path of Allah, for them is surely a severe punishment because they forgot the day of Reckoning.

Section 3: Solomon and his Enemies

27 And We did not create the heaven and the earth and all that is between them in vain. That is the opinion of those who disbelieve.

^a (24) The men who thus attacked David by climbing over the wall were his enemies, as the Quran plainly states. They had thought of taking David unawares and putting him to death. But David, though terrified, was ready to meet them, and the two men, finding their plan thus frustrated, made an excuse for coming to him in such an unusual manner. The story of David committing adultery and two angels having come to him thus to remind him of the sin is a puerile falsehood, wherever it may be found. The word “protection” in this verse and the next by no means indicates that David had committed a sin, as the original word (istighfār, ghafr) really signifies the seeking of protection from sin. David sought Divine protection when he saw that his enemies had grown so bold against him. (Editor's Note: This dispute is also illustrative of the desire of large and powerful organizations to bring small ones under their sway. The Quran here supports the judgment given in favour of the rights of ownership of the weak against the strong.)

So woe to those who disbelieve on account of the Fire!^a ²⁸Shall We treat those who believe and do good like the mischief-makers in the earth? Or shall We make the dutiful like the wicked? ²⁹(This is) a Book that We have revealed to you abounding in good, that they may ponder over its verses, and that those who have understanding may be mindful.

30 And We gave to David Solomon. Most excellent the servant! Surely he ever turned (to Allah). ³¹When well-bred, swift (horses) were brought to him at evening — ³²so he said: I love the good things on account of the remembrance of my Lord — until they were hidden behind the veil. ³³(He said): Bring them back to me. So he began to stroke (their) legs and necks.

34 And certainly We tried Solomon, and We put on his throne a (mere) body,^b so he turned (to Allah). ³⁵He said: My Lord, forgive me and grant me a kingdom which is not fit for anyone after me;^c surely You are the Great Giver. ³⁶So We made the wind subservient to him, running gently by His command wherever he desired, ³⁷and the devils, every builder and diver, ³⁸and others

a (27) The believer is guided by the principle of the accountability of human actions and of a significance underlying everything that exists in heaven or earth. The disbeliever, on the other hand, makes mischief, as he believes that he will not be any the worse for it, and thus ignores the law of cause and effect, which prevails in the universe.

b (34) By the mere body that was put on his throne is meant either his son Rehoboam, who lost the allegiance of all except a single tribe of Israel (1 Kings 12:17), or Jeroboam, who led the revolt against the house of David, and, on becoming king of ten tribes, set up image-worship in Dan and Beth-el, the two calves being supposed to be images of Jehovah (1 Kings 12:28), and also began the worship of molten images (1 Kings 14:9). Thus both Rehoboam and Jeroboam answer the description of a body (without real life) thrown on Solomon's throne. See also 34:14 footnote.

c (35) The previous verse speaks of the imbecile heir-apparent to Solomon's throne. Hence we find Solomon praying here for a spiritual kingdom, for that is the only kingdom which is not in danger of being spoiled by an heir. The glory of Solomon's temporal kingdom was not maintained after his death; nor has a king like Solomon appeared in Israel. By anyone after me is meant anyone in Israel, not the whole world.

fettered in chains.^a ³⁹This is Our free gift, so give freely or withhold, without reckoning. ⁴⁰And surely he had a nearness to Us and an excellent destination.

Section 4: Job — Triumph of the Righteous

41 And remember Our servant Job. When he cried to his Lord: The devil has afflicted me with toil and torment.^b ⁴²Urge with your foot; here is a cool washing-place and a drink.^c ⁴³And We gave him (back) his people and more like them with them,^d a a (38) The description given here of the devils shows clearly that the designation applies to men of foreign tribes subjected to Solomon's rule, because it was the latter who were forced into labour by Solomon. The words every builder and diver and others fettered in chains make it clear that the jinn and devils who are related to have been subjected to Solomon were only human beings. See also 34:12 footnote 3.

b (41) The story of Job is given here as well as in the 21st chapter, being more brief there than here. All that the Quran states about him is that he was a righteous person who suffered some kind of distress, remained patient under trials, and was ultimately delivered from affliction. The toil and torment of which Job complains seem to relate to some journey of his in a desert, where he finds himself in an evil plight, on account of the fatigue of the journey and the thirst which afflicts him. There are many circumstances which point to this conclusion: the use of the word nus̄b, signifying toil or fatigue; his being led to a place where he finds a cool washing-place and a drink; and the mention of the devil (shaiṭān) in connection with his trouble, for shaiṭān al-falā, lit., the devil of the desert, signifies thirst. The mention of this distressing journey of Job contains, no doubt, a hint to the Prophet's long journey from Makkah to Madinah, which was to be undertaken under particularly distressing circumstances. This journey of Job was undoubtedly undertaken in connection with the delivery of the message with which he was entrusted, just as in the case of the Holy Prophet's emigration.

c (42) The meaning is urge your horse to go further, and the result is that there he finds a place where he is able to refresh himself both with drink and washing. He thought that he was in a waterless desert, and in reply to his prayer he is told to urge his horse or the beast he rode upon to trot further on, where he will find rest. It is a lesson not to despair under difficulties.

d (43) The giving of his people or his family to him means that he met them again. The more like them with them are his followers. As I have already stated, there is a prophetic reference to the Prophet's Flight in Job's journey, and the Prophet again met not only his followers who fled from Makkah, but found also more like them at Madinah, i.e., the Anṣār ('helpers') of Madinah.

mercy from Us, and a reminder for those who have understanding. ⁴⁴And take in your hand few worldly goods and earn goodness therewith and do not incline to falsehood.^a Surely We found him patient; most excellent the servant! Surely he (ever) turned (to Us).

45 And remember Our servants Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, possessors of power and insight. ⁴⁶We indeed purified them by a pure quality, the keeping in mind of the (final) abode. ⁴⁷And surely they were with Us, among the elect, the best. ⁴⁸And remember Ishmael and Elisha and Dhu-l-Kifl; and they were all of the best.

49 This is a reminder. And surely there is an excellent destination for the dutiful: ⁵⁰Gardens of perpetuity — the doors are opened for them.^b ⁵¹Reclining therein, calling therein for many fruits and drink. ⁵²And with them are those modest in gaze, equals in age.^c ⁵³This is what you are promised for the day of Reckoning. ⁵⁴Surely this is Our sustenance; it will never come to an end — ⁵⁵This (is for the good)! And surely there is an evil destination for the inordinate — ⁵⁶hell. They will enter it. And evil is the resting-place. ⁵⁷This — so let them taste it, boiling and intensely cold (drink),^d ⁵⁸and other similar (punishment), of various sorts. ⁵⁹This

a (44) Usually these words are translated thus: “Take in your hand a branch and strike with it and do not break the oath”. To explain these words, a story is added about his wife’s impatience and Job’s oath in that connection, but this story has no basis. The word dighth means not only a handful of twigs or shrubs but also a handful of worldly goods. The word darb (strike) carries a number of significances. Job was a rich man and hence he is here told not to be inclined too much to the attainment of worldly riches. They are only needed to the extent of enabling a man to earn goodness thereby.

b (50) That is, the doors of these gardens are opened for them in this very life; or, they are always open to them.

c (52) For the modest in gaze, see 37:49 footnote. Here, in addition, they are called equals in age, as showing that their growth begins with the growth of spiritual life in a human being, thus showing that they are the fruits of good deeds, whether done by males or females, who would all have these fruits equally.

d (57) They will be made to consume intensely hot and intensely cold drink, because they went to the two extremes and did not follow the mean.

is an army rushing headlong with you ^a — no welcome for them! Surely they will burn in fire. ⁶⁰They say: ^b Rather (it is) you — no welcome to you! You prepared it for us. And evil is the resting-place. ⁶¹They say: Our Lord, whoever prepared it for us, give him more, a double, punishment in the Fire. ⁶²And they say: What is the matter with us? — we do not see men whom we used to count among the wicked. ⁶³Did we (only) take them in scorn, or do our eyes miss them? ⁶⁴That surely is the truth — the contending among themselves of the inmates of the Fire.

Section 5: Opposition to Prophets

65 Say: I am only a warner; and there is no god but Allah, the One, the Subduer (of all) — ⁶⁶the Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, the Mighty, the Forgiving. ⁶⁷Say: It is a message of importance, ^c ⁶⁸from which you turn away. ⁶⁹I have no knowledge of the exalted chiefs when they contend. ^d ⁷⁰Only this is revealed to me that I am a plain warner.

71 When your Lord said to the angels: Surely I am going to create a mortal from dust. ^e ⁷²So when I have made him complete and breathed into him of My spirit, fall down submitting to him. ⁷³And the angels submitted, all of them, ⁷⁴but not Iblīs. ^f He was a (59) This is the army of blind followers of falsehood.

b (60) The speakers here are the blind followers, those addressed being the ringleaders.

c (67) The message of importance is the Prophet's message to the whole of humanity, the message which discloses the vast spiritual realm hidden to the ordinary human eye. That those who turn away from it are doomed to perdition is the necessary consequence, and hence the doom of the opponents forms part of this message.

d (69) The exalted chiefs are the heavenly beings who come first to know of the Divine decree relating to the punishment of the opponents of Truth, referred to in v. 68. It is these opponents that are spoken of here as contending; they carried on a contention against Truth.

e (71) The creation of Adam and the submission of the angels typifies the raising of a prophet and the submission to him of the good and the righteous.

f (74) See 2:34.

proud and he was one of the disbelievers. ⁷⁵He said: O Iblīs, what prevented you from submitting to him whom I created with both My hands? Are you proud or are you one of the exalted ones? ⁷⁶He said: I am better than he; You have created me of fire, and him You did create of dust.^a ⁷⁷He said: Go forth from here! surely you are driven away: ⁷⁸and surely My curse is on you to the day of Judgment.

79 He said: My Lord, grant me respite till the day when they are raised.^b ⁸⁰He said: Surely you are granted respite, ⁸¹till the day of the time made known. ⁸²He said: Then, by Your Might! I will surely lead them all astray, ⁸³except Your servants from among them, the purified ones. ⁸⁴He said: The Truth is — and the truth I speak — ⁸⁵that I shall fill hell with you and with all those among them who follow you.

86 Say: I ask you no reward for it; nor am I one of the impostors. ⁸⁷It is nothing but a Reminder for the nations. ⁸⁸And certainly you will come to know about it after a time.

a (76) The creation from fire is an indication of rebelliousness, of a fiery temper, and the creation from dust signifies submissiveness and meekness; see 7:12.

b (79) See 15:36.

Chapter 39

Al-Zumar

The Companies

The title of this chapter refers to two classes, the believers and the disbelievers (v. 71, 73). It begins by emphasizing sincere obedience to Allah and refers to those who obey and those who refuse to obey. Then it shows that the Quran is a perfect guidance whose rejectors will meet with punishment. Although this will not be averted from those who persist in rejection, yet the door of Divine mercy will remain open for even the greatest sinners who need not despair. At the end the chapter speaks of the coming of the judgment when each of the two companies is made to taste what it deserves. Chapters 34 to 39 form one group, belonging most probably to the middle period at Makkah.

Section 1: Obedience to Allah

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 The revelation of the Book is from Allah, the Mighty, the Wise. 2Surely We have revealed to you the Book with truth, so serve Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience. 3Now surely sincere obedience is due to Allah (alone). And those who choose protectors besides Him (say): We serve them only that they may bring us nearer to Allah.^a Surely Allah will judge between them in that in which they differ. Surely Allah does not guide him who is a liar, ungrateful. 4If Allah desired to take a son to Himself, He could have chosen those He pleased out of those whom He has created — Glory be to Him! He is Allah, the One, the Subduer (of all).^a 5 He has created the heavens and the earth with truth; He makes the night cover the day and makes the day overtake the night, and He has made the sun and the moon subservient; each one moves on to an assigned term. Now surely He is the Mighty, the Forgiver. 6He created you from a single being, then made its mate of the same (kind). And He sent down for you eight of the cattle in pairs.^b He creates you in the wombs of your mothers — creation after creation — in triple darkness. That is Allah, your Lord; His is the kingdom. There is no God but He. How are you then turned away (from truth)?

^a (3) All worshippers of false deities claim that such deities are worshipped only to get nearer to God, as if God Himself were unapproachable. The idol-worshippers say that the idols are only symbols for concentration on God, while the Christians, plainly spoken of in the next verse, hold that without the Son they can have no access to God. But undue reverence of created things is a step leading to degradation of human nature. Hence it is that Islam requires sincere obedience to, or worship of, God alone.

7 If you are ungrateful, then surely Allah is above need of you. And He does not like ungratefulness in His servants. And if you are grateful, He likes it for you. And no bearer of a burden will bear another's burden. Then to your Lord is your return, then will He inform you of what you did. Surely He is Knower of what is in the hearts. 8And when distress afflicts a man he calls upon his Lord, turning to Him; then when He grants him a favour from Him, he forgets that for which he called upon Him before, and sets up rivals to Allah that he may cause (others) to stray from His path. Say: Enjoy your ungratefulness for a little, surely you are among the companions of the Fire. 9Is he who is obedient during hours of a (4) We find the Christian doctrine referred to and refuted in very early Makkan revelations, such as the 19th chapter. The Quran refers to the error of attributing a son to the Divine Being almost as frequently as to the setting up of idols. It is pointed out here that no one holds a relation of sonship to Allah, but that it is His chosen servants that are metaphorically called His sons, because in being manifestations of the Divine attributes they stand to Allah in the same relation as a son stands to a father, being images of His attributes as a son is the image of a father.

b (6) The word anzala is not only applied to the actual sending down of a thing, but also to making it accessible to people, just as iron (57:25) and clothing (7:26) are spoken of as having been “sent down”. It is in this sense that the cattle are spoken of here as being sent down for people. The eight of the cattle are the four pairs spoken of in 6:143–144. The four animals are mentioned particularly as being most useful for man.

the night, prostrating himself and standing, taking care of the Hereafter and hoping for the mercy of his Lord (like one who is ungrateful) —? Say: Are those who know and those who do not know alike? Only those who have understanding are mindful.

Section 2: Believers and Disbelievers

10 Say: O My servants who believe, keep your duty to your Lord. For those who do good in this world is good, and Allah's earth is spacious.^a Truly the steadfast will be paid their reward without measure. 11Say: I am commanded to serve Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience, 12and I am commanded to be the first of those who submit. 13Say: I fear, if I disobey my Lord, the punishment of a grievous day. 14Say: Allah I serve, being sincere to Him in my obedience. 15Serve then what you will besides Him. Say: The losers surely are those who lose themselves and their people on the day of Resurrection. Now surely that is the manifest loss! 16They shall have coverings of fire above them and coverings beneath them. With that Allah makes His servants to fear; so keep your duty to Me, O My servants.

17 And those who shun the worship of the idols and turn to Allah, for them is good news. So give good news to My servants, 18who listen to the Word, then follow the best of it. Such are they whom Allah has guided, and such are they who have understanding. 19He against whom the sentence of punishment is due — can you save him who is in the Fire? 20But those who keep their duty to their Lord, for them are high places, above which are yet higher places,^b built (for them), in which rivers flow. (It is) the promise of Allah. Allah does not fail in (His) promise.

21 Do you not see that Allah sends down water from the clouds, a (10) The words are a comfort to the Muslims, who were subjected to sufferings in their own land, and give them the assurance that, if suppressed in one land, Islam will prosper in other lands.

b (20) This shows that in the Hereafter, and in this life as well, there is an unceasing progress, for the high places to which the righteous attain have places still higher above them.

then makes it go down into the earth in springs, then brings forth with it vegetation of various colours; then it withers so that you see it turn yellow, then He makes it chaff?^a Surely there is a reminder in this for those who have understanding.

Section 3: A Perfect Guidance

22 Is he whose heart Allah has opened to Islam so that he follows a light from his Lord (like the hard-hearted) —? So woe to those whose hearts are hardened against the remembrance of Allah! Such are in clear error. ²³Allah has revealed the best announcement, a Book consistent, repeating (its injunctions),^b at which do shudder the skins of those who fear their Lord, then their skins and their hearts soften to Allah's remembrance. This is Allah's guidance — He guides with it whom He pleases. And he whom Allah leaves in error, there is no guide for him.

24 Is then he who has to guard himself with his own person against the evil punishment of the day of Resurrection (like the righteous) —? And it will be said to the wrongdoers: Taste what you earned. ²⁵Those before them denied, so the punishment came to them from where they did not perceive. ²⁶So Allah made them taste disgrace in this world's life; and certainly the punishment of the Hereafter is greater, if only they knew!

a (21) The allusion is to the fate of nations; they are brought into existence, made to rise, then decay and are swept out of existence. Even Muslim nations are subject to the same law, but Islam itself, being a law of life, is not subject to decay. The place of one nation that decays is taken by another. Moreover, nations that decay because of their transgressions may again be raised to life by turning to righteousness.

b (23) The Quran was revealed by portions during a period of twenty-three years, and during this period the circumstances under which the Holy Prophet lived were of such a varied nature that the history of no other man offers a similar combination of varying circumstances. Yet, through all these vicissitudes, the Quran shows a strict uniformity. The consistency of its various parts, however, signifies more than a mere uniformity; it signifies that some parts explain other parts. It is also called repeating here because it repeats over and over again the most important subjects, especially the Unity of the Divine Being and the accountability of human actions. See also 3:7.

27 And certainly We have set forth for people in this Quran examples of every sort that they may be mindful.^a 28An Arabic Quran without any crookedness, that they may guard against evil. 29Allah sets forth a parable: A man belonging to partners differing with one another, and a man (devoted) wholly to one man. Are the two alike in condition? Praise be to Allah! But most of them do not know. 30Surely you will die and they (too) will die; 31then surely on the day of Resurrection you will contend with one another before your Lord.

Section 4: Rejectors will be disgraced

32 Who is, then, more unjust than he who utters a lie against Allah and denies the truth when it comes to him? Is there not in hell an abode for the disbelievers? 33And he who brings the truth and accepts the truth — such are the dutiful. 34They shall have with their Lord what they please. Such is the reward of the doers of good — 35that Allah may ward off from them the worst of what they did, and give them their reward for the best of what they did.^b

36 Is not Allah sufficient for His servant? And they seek to frighten you with those (whom they worship) besides Him.^c And whomsoever Allah leaves in error, there is no guide for him. 37And whom Allah guides, there is none that can lead him astray. Is not Allah Mighty, the Lord of retribution? 38And if you ask them, Who created the heavens and the earth, they will say: Allah. Say: Do you then see that those you call upon besides Allah, would they, if Allah desire to afflict me with harm, remove His

a (27) The Quran repeatedly claims to be a complete collection of the best teachings for the moral and spiritual welfare of mankind. Here it claims to be a perfect book, as not only containing all the necessary teachings, but also answering all the objections of its opponents; see 17:89 and 25:33.

b (35) The Quran brought about an unprecedented revolution in the world. People who took pride in doing evil deeds now aspired to deeds of righteousness. They were thus turned away from the worst deeds to the best. This verse prophetically refers to this great change.

c (36) The superstitious Arabs no doubt believed that their idols could do harm to people who did not admit their authority.

harm? Or if He desire to show me mercy, could they withhold His mercy? Say: Allah is sufficient for me. On Him do the reliant rely. ³⁹Say: My people, work in your place. Surely I am a worker, so you will soon come to know, ⁴⁰who it is to whom a punishment comes, disgracing him, and on whom falls a lasting punishment.^a 41 Surely We have revealed to you the Book with truth for (the good of) people. So whoever goes aright, it is for his own soul, and whoever goes astray, goes astray only to its detriment. And you are not in charge of them.

Section 5: Punishment cannot be averted

42 Allah takes souls (of human beings) at the time of their death, and of those that do not die (He takes) during their sleep. Then He withholds those on whom He has passed the decree of death and sends the others back till an appointed time.^b Surely there are signs in this for a people who reflect. ⁴³Or, do they take intercessors besides Allah? Say: What! Even though they control nothing, nor do they understand. ⁴⁴Say: Allah's is the intercession altogether. His is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. Then to Him you will be returned.

45 And when Allah alone is mentioned, the hearts of those who do not believe in the Hereafter shrink, and when those besides Him are mentioned, lo! they are joyful.^c ⁴⁶Say: O Allah, Originator of the heavens and the earth, Knower of the unseen and the seen, a (40) Two kinds of punishment are plainly spoken of, viz., the punishment that will bring disgrace, which is clearly the punishment of this life, and the lasting punishment that the wicked receive in the life after death. The first of these demonstrates the truth of the other.

b (42) It is clear that it is not the animal soul that is taken away in sleep; it is the soul that stands for human consciousness. In death both are taken away. The statement further makes it clear that the word tawaffā is applied to the taking of the soul and not to the removal of the body from one place to another. See also 21:95 and 23:100.

c (45) Elsewhere the Quran says: "And most of them do not believe in Allah without setting up partners (with Him)" (12:106).

You will judge between Your servants in that in which they differ. ⁴⁷And if those who do wrong had all that is in the earth and as much as it again, they would certainly offer it as ransom from the evil of the punishment on the day of Resurrection. And what they never thought of shall become plain to them from Allah.^a ⁴⁸And the evil (consequences) of what they earned will become plain to them,^b and what they mocked at will beset them.

49 So when harm afflicts man he calls upon Us; then, when We grant him a favour from Us, he says: I have been given it only by means of (my) knowledge. No, it is a trial, but most of them do not know. ⁵⁰Those before them did say it indeed, but what they earned did not avail them. ⁵¹So the evil which they had earned befell them. And those who do wrong from among these, the evil which they earn shall befall them (also), and they shall not escape.^c ⁵²Do they not know that Allah amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also); surely there are signs in this for a people who believe.

Section 6: Divine Mercy

53 Say: O My servants who have been reckless against their own souls, do not despair of the mercy of Allah; surely Allah forgives sins altogether. He is indeed the Forgiving, the Merciful.^d ⁵⁴And turn to your Lord and submit to Him before punishment a (47) What they never thought of signifies the overthrow of their power in this life and the manifestation of the evil results of their deeds in the Hereafter.

b (48) The fact that the heaven and hell of the next life are only manifestations of the spiritual realities of this life is stated here in clear language. The evil consequences of what they do are hidden from the eye in this life, but they shall become plain in the next life.

c (51) Wonderful indeed is the certainty of the tone in which these prophecies are worded, when all around there was not a single ray of hope for Islam, and its enemies were in the ascendant.

d (53) Stress is laid on the mercy and love of Allah in all religions, but these great Divine attributes find their true and final expression in Islam. This verse discloses the all-comprehensive mercy of Allah, before which the sins of people become quite insignificant.

comes to you, then you will not be helped. ⁵⁵And follow the best that has been revealed to you from your Lord^a before punishment comes to you all of a sudden, while you do not perceive — ⁵⁶that a soul should say: O woe is me! that I fell short of my duty to Allah, and surely I was one of those who scoffed; ⁵⁷or it should say: If Allah had guided me, I should have been dutiful, ⁵⁸or it should say, when it sees the punishment: If I had another chance I should be a doer of good. ⁵⁹Yes, My messages did come to you, but you rejected them, and were proud and were among the disbelievers.

60 And on the day of Resurrection you will see those who lied against Allah, their faces will be darkened. Is there not in hell an abode for the proud? ⁶¹And Allah delivers those who keep their duty with their achievement — harm does not touch them, nor do they grieve. ⁶²Allah is the Creator of all things and He has charge over everything. ⁶³His are the treasures of the heavens and the earth. And those who disbelieve in the messages of Allah, such are the losers.

Section 7: The Final Judgment

64 Say: Do you tell me to serve others than Allah, you ignorant ones? ⁶⁵And certainly it has been revealed to you and to those before you: If you set up partners (with Allah), your work would surely come to nothing and you would be a loser. ⁶⁶No, serve Allah alone and be one of the thankful.

67 And they do not honour Allah with the honour due to Him; and the whole earth will be in His grip on the day of Resurrection and the heavens rolled up in His right hand. Glory be to Him, and supremely exalted is He above what they set up as partners (with Him)! ⁶⁸And the trumpet is blown, so all those in the heavens and all those in the earth will swoon, except such as Allah please. Then it will be blown again, when lo! they stand up, awaiting.^b a (55) Best stands for the revelation of the Quran. God has ever been revealing His will to mankind, but the Quran, being the final expression of His will, is the best revelation that has been sent to people.

b (68) See 6:73 footnote 2. Here it is stated that the trumpet is blown twice:

⁶⁹And the earth beams with the light of its Lord, and the Book is laid down, and the prophets and the witnesses are brought up, and judgment is given between them with justice, and they are not wronged.^a ⁷⁰And every soul is paid back fully for what it did, and He knows best what they do.

Section 8: Each Group meets with its Desert

71 And those who disbelieve are driven to hell in companies; until, when they come to it, its doors are opened, and its keepers say to them: Did not messengers come to you from among you reciting to you the messages of your Lord and warning you of the meeting of this day of yours? They say: Yes indeed. But the word of punishment proved true against the disbelievers. ⁷²It is said: Enter the gates of hell to abide in it; and evil is the abode of the proud.

73 And those who keep their duty to their Lord are conveyed to the Garden in companies until, when they come to it, its doors are opened and its keepers say to them: Peace be on you, you led pure lives; so enter it to abide. ⁷⁴And they say: Praise be to Allah! Who has made good to us His promise, and He has made us inherit the land; we abide in the Garden where we please. How excellent is the reward of the workers!^b ⁷⁵And you see the angels at the first blowing all swoon, and at the second blowing they all stand up, awaiting to receive the judgment. A general destruction is thus followed by a resurrection. In the case of the spiritual resurrection, the destruction signifies the destruction of the old order.

a (69) The beaming of the earth with the light of its Lord in the Resurrection is in reference to the clear manifestation of the consequences of the deeds which remain generally hidden in this life. The laying down of the Book refers to the passing of the judgment on the good and the evil according to their deserts. The prophets and the witnesses are brought up, these being the people who sow the seeds of virtue and turn people's minds to God. Prophets were sent to every nation, and the followers of the Prophet Muhammad, who take the place of the previous prophets in turning people's minds to God, are the witnesses spoken of here; they are specially mentioned by this name in 2:143. A deeper reference to the spiritual resurrection is evident throughout.

b (74) Never was prophecy uttered in clearer terms, nor in more adverse going round about the Throne of Power, glorifying their Lord with praise. And they are judged with justice, and it is said: Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds!

circumstances. The day must come, we are here told, when the believers will praise God for making them inherit the land. Within fifteen years of this prophecy they were made masters of Arabia, and within another five they were made to inherit the Holy Land. Note, further, how the prophecies of triumph in this life are combined with the Resurrection in which the righteous are to receive the mighty spiritual blessings in full manifestation.

Chapter 40

Al-Mu'min

The Believer

The title of this chapter is taken from the mention of a believer in Moses from among Pharaoh's people (v. 28) who pleaded for Moses when Pharaoh wanted to kill him. Chapters 40 to 46 form a group all beginning with the letters Hā Mīm, and belong to the middle period at Makkah when persecution of Muslims had begun. These chapters offer solace to Muslims, warn their persecutors and foretell the triumph of truth over opposition. This chapter begins with the mention of the Divine plan for the protection of the faithful and goes on to speak of the eventual failure of the opponents. This warning is illustrated from the history of Moses. The chapter then reiterates that prophets of God and believers in them are always helped against their opponents, it mentions that nothing is impossible before the power of Allah and warns the disbelievers that their opposition to the truth will end in failure.

Section 1: Protection of the Faithful

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God!^a ²The revelation of the Book is from Allah, the Mighty, the Knowing, ³Forgiver of sin and Acceptor of repentance, Severe to punish, Lord of bounty.^b There is no God but He; to Him is the eventual coming.

4 None dispute concerning the messages of Allah but those who disbelieve, so do not let their control in the land deceive you. ⁵Before them the people of Noah and the parties after them rejected (prophets), and every nation purposed against its messenger to destroy him, and disputed by means of falsehood to refute thereby a (1) This verse consists of the two letters hā and mīm. These may stand for the Divine name Al-Rahmān, i.e. the Beneficent. They may also be abbreviations for Hamīd (Praised) and Majīd (Glorious), or for Hayy (the Living) and Qayyūm (the Self-subsisting), or for Rahmān (Beneficent) and Rahīm (Merciful).

b (3) Of the four attributes, the first two and the last refer to Divine forgiveness, mercy and bounty, while only one refers to punishment of evil, and thus the attribute of mercy preponderates even when punishment is spoken of.

the truth, so I seized them; how (terrible) was then My retribution!
 6And thus did the word of your Lord prove true against those who disbelieve, that they are the companions of the Fire.

7 Those who bear the Throne of Power and those around it celebrate the praise of their Lord and believe in Him and ask protection for those who believe:^a Our Lord, You embrace all things in mercy and knowledge,^b so protect those who turn (to You) and follow Your way, and save them from the punishment of hell. 8Our Lord, make them enter the Gardens of perpetuity, which You have promised them and such of their fathers and their wives and their offspring as are good.^c Surely You are the Mighty, the Wise; 9and guard them from evil, and whom You guard from evil this day, You have indeed mercy on him. And that is the mighty achievement.

Section 2: Failure of Opponents

10 Those who disbelieve are told: Certainly Allah's hatred (of you), when you were called upon to the faith and you rejected, was much greater than your hatred (now) of yourselves.^d 11They say: Our Lord, twice have You made us die, and twice have You given us life;^e so we confess our sins. Is there then a way of escape?

a (7-1) Those who bear the 'arsh' or the Throne of Power are not the bearers of any material thing; see 7:54 footnote 2, for 'arsh'. Generally the words are explained as meaning angels, but may refer to bearers of Divine messages, i.e., the prophets, while those around it are the faithful who, walking in the footsteps of the prophets, carry the Divine message to the world. See also 69:17 footnote.

b (7-2) Here we are told that Divine mercy is as comprehensive as Divine knowledge, and they both extend over all things.

c (8) The wives and offspring of the faithful, those of them who do good, are here mentioned as entering paradise along with them.

d (10) The violent hatred referred to is the hatred of the evildoers for themselves, when the evil consequences of their evil deeds become manifest to them. How much greater must have been the hatred of Allah, the Fountain-head of purity, for them when they committed those deeds! How Forbearing and Merciful was He not to visit them with immediate punishment!

e (11) The first state of death is the state of nothingness from which man is brought into existence, the second life being the life after death.

¹²That is because when Allah alone was called upon, you disbelieved, and when partners were set up with Him, you believed. So judgment belongs to Allah, the High, the Great.

13 He it is Who shows you His signs and sends down for you sustenance from heaven,^a and none is mindful but he who turns (to Him). ¹⁴So call upon Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience, though the disbelievers are averse — ¹⁵Exalter of degrees, Lord of the Throne of Power, He casts the spirit by His command upon whom He pleases of His servants, that he may warn (people) of the day of Meeting^b — ¹⁶the day when they come forth. Nothing concerning them remains hidden from Allah.^c To whom belongs the kingdom this day? To Allah, the One, the Subduer (of all). ¹⁷This day every soul is rewarded for what it has earned. No injustice this day! Surely Allah is Swift in Reckoning.

18 And warn them of the day that draws near, when hearts, grieving inwardly, rise up to the throats.^d The wrongdoers will have no friend, nor any intercessor who should be obeyed. ¹⁹He knows the dishonesty of eyes and what the hearts conceal. ²⁰And Allah judges with truth. And those whom they call upon besides Him judge not at all! Surely Allah is the Hearing, the Seeing.

Section 3: A Warning in Moses' History

21 Have they not travelled in the land and seen what was the end of those who were before them? Mightier than these were a (13) The meaning is simply that God provides the means of sustenance; or, the sustenance from heaven means the spiritual sustenance.

b (15) The rūh (spirit) is here spoken of as being granted only to the elect, and the object is to warn people; hence rūh means Divine revelation, not the soul which is given to every human being. By the day of Meeting is meant the day of meeting with God.

c (16) It is implied that the hidden consequences of deeds will be made manifest on that day, for from Allah nothing is hidden.

d (18) In the day that draws near, the nearer punishment of this life is spoken of. The verse depicts the state of the hearts of the disbelievers on the day of their vanquishment.

they in strength and in fortifications in the land, but Allah destroyed them for their sins. And they had none to protect them from Allah. ²²That was because their messengers had come to them with clear arguments, but they disbelieved, so Allah destroyed them. Surely He is Strong, Severe in retribution.

23 And certainly We sent Moses with Our messages and clear authority, ²⁴to Pharaoh and Hāmān and Korah,^a but they said: A lying enchanter! ²⁵So when he brought to them the Truth from Us, they said:^b Kill the sons of those who believe with him and keep their women alive. And the plot of the disbelievers is bound to fail. ²⁶And Pharaoh said: Leave me to kill Moses and let him call upon his Lord. Surely I fear that he will change your religion or that he will make mischief to appear in the land. ²⁷And Moses said: Truly I seek refuge in my Lord and your Lord from every proud one who does not believe in the day of Reckoning.

Section 4: A Believer of Pharaoh's People

28 And a believing man of Pharaoh's people, who hid his faith, said: Will you kill a man because he says, My Lord is Allah, and indeed he has brought you clear arguments from your Lord? And if he is a liar, on him will be his lie, but if he is truthful, some of what he threatens you with will afflict you.^c Surely Allah does not guide one who exceeds all bounds, a liar. ²⁹My people, yours is the kingdom this day, being masters in the land, but who will help us against the punishment of Allah, if it comes to us? Pharaoh said: I only show you what I see and I guide you only to the right way.

a (24) The words do not indicate that the message to Pharaoh and Hāmān and Korah was given at one and the same time. All that is meant is that these three were the chief men who did not accept his message and they were destroyed.

b (25) A perusal of the verses that follow will show that the speaker here is only Pharaoh, as advised by his chiefs, both he and Hāmān being mentioned by name, the latter in v. 36, while no mention is made of Korah.

c (28) Some of what they are threatened with, will afflict them, because the mercy of Allah wards off some of the deserved punishment.

30 And he who believed said: My people, surely I fear for you the like of what befell the parties, ³¹the like of what befell the people of Noah and Ād and Thamūd and those after them.^a And Allah wishes no injustice for (His) servants. ³²And, my people, I fear for you the day of Calling out^b — ³³the day on which you will turn back retreating, having none to save you from Allah; and whomsoever Allah leaves in error there is no guide for him. ³⁴And Joseph indeed came to you before with clear arguments, but you ever remained in doubt as to what he brought you; until, when he died, you said: Allah will never raise a messenger after him. Thus does Allah leave him in error who exceeds all bounds, a doubter — ³⁵those who dispute concerning the messages of Allah without any authority that has come to them. Greatly hated is it by Allah and by those who believe. Thus does Allah seal every heart, of a proud, insolent one.

36 And Pharaoh said: Hāmān, build for me a tower that I may attain the means of access — ³⁷the means of access to the heavens, then reach the God of Moses, and I surely think him to be liar.^c And thus the evil of his deed was made to seem good to Pharaoh, and he was turned aside from the way. And the plot of Pharaoh ended only in ruin.

Section 5: The End of Pharaoh's People

38 And he who believed said: My people, follow me, I will guide you to the right way. ³⁹My people, this life of the world is but a (passing) enjoyment, and the Hereafter, that is the abode to settle. ⁴⁰Whoever does evil, he is recompensed only with its like; and whoever does good, whether male or female, and is a believer, a (31) There is nothing extraordinary in an Egyptian knowing how certain people on the borders of Arabia perished.

b (32) The day of calling out to one another is the day of distress on which one will call out to the other for help, none being able to help himself or another. Every day of distress is the day of calling out, and the description need not be limited to the day of Judgment.

c (37) As Moses spoke of the Lord of the heavens and the earth, Pharaoh mocked at the idea by suggesting that he would build a tower to find Moses' God.

these shall enter the Garden, to be given sustenance in it without measure. ⁴¹And my people, how is it that I call you to salvation and you call me to the Fire? ⁴²You call me to disbelieve in Allah and to set up with Him partners of which I have no knowledge, and I call you to the Mighty, the Forgiving. ⁴³Without doubt, what you call me to has no claim to being invoked in this world, or in the Hereafter, and our return is to Allah, and those who exceed all bounds are companions of the Fire. ⁴⁴So you will remember what I say to you, and I entrust my affair to Allah. Surely Allah is Seer of the servants.

45 So Allah protected him from the evil that they planned; and evil punishment befell Pharaoh's people — ⁴⁶the Fire. They are brought before it (every) morning and evening, and on the day when the Hour comes to pass: Make Pharaoh's people enter the most severe punishment.

47 And when they contend with one another in the Fire, the weak saying to those who were proud: Surely we were your followers; will you then avert from us a portion of the Fire? ⁴⁸Those who were proud say: Now we are all in it, Allah has indeed judged between the servants. ⁴⁹And those in the Fire will say to the keepers of hell: Pray to your Lord to lighten our punishment for a day. ⁵⁰They will say: Did not your messengers come to you with clear arguments? They will say: Yes, indeed. They will say: Then pray. And the prayer of the disbelievers only goes astray.

Section 6: Messengers receive Divine Help

51 We certainly help Our messengers, and those who believe, in this world's life and on the day when the witnesses arise ^a — ⁵²the day on which their excuse will not benefit the unjust, and for them is a curse and for them is the evil abode.

53 And We indeed gave Moses the guidance, and We made

^a (51) The emphatic promise that the Prophet will be helped in this life, too, was made at a time when he was being persecuted, and there was not the least indication that his powerful opponents would be vanquished.

the Children of Israel inherit the Book — ⁵⁴a guidance and a reminder for those who have understanding. ⁵⁵So be patient; surely the promise of Allah is true; and ask protection for your sin^a and celebrate the praise of your Lord in the evening and the morning.

56 Those who dispute about the messages of Allah without any authority having come to them, there is nothing in their hearts but (a desire) to become great, which they will never attain. So seek refuge in Allah. Surely He is the Hearing, the Seeing. ⁵⁷Assuredly the creation of the heavens and the earth is greater than the creation of mankind; but most people do not know.^b ⁵⁸And the blind and the seeing are not alike, nor those who believe and do good and the evildoers. Little mindful are you! ⁵⁹The Hour is surely coming — there is no doubt in it — but most people do not believe. ⁶⁰And your Lord says: Pray to Me, I will answer you. Those who disdain My service will surely enter hell, humiliated.

Section 7: The Power of Allah

61 Allah is He Who made for you the night for resting in and the day for seeing. Surely Allah is full of grace to mankind, but a (55) These words, occurring here and in 47:19, do not negative the claim made repeatedly that the Prophet was sinless. Five times the Holy Prophet is described in the Quran as being one who purified others from sin (2:129, 2:151, 3:164, 9:103, 62:2). How could a sinful man purify others from sins? Again, he is repeatedly spoken of as walking in the way of perfect righteousness and entire submission to Allah. In fact, the Quran does not allow us to attribute sin to any prophet: “They do not speak before He speaks, and according to His command they act” (21:27).

The words used here (istighfār and dhanb) not only signify asking for forgiveness of sins, but also asking for covering of sin, which is really the seeking of protection against sin. What the Prophet is asked to seek is a protection from the imperfections of human nature, which make a person liable to sin unless he is protected by Allah. (Editor’s Note: It may be the reader of the Quran who is primarily addressed in the words of this verse.)

b (57) Man is insignificant as compared with the vast creation of the heavens and the earth, yet he considers himself so great that he would not bow his head before the great Creator of this vast creation.

most people do not give thanks. ⁶²That is Allah, your Lord, the Creator of all things. There is no God but He. How are you then turned away (from truth)! ⁶³Thus are turned away those who deny the messages of Allah.

64 Allah is He Who made the earth a resting-place for you and the heaven a structure, and He formed you, then made goodly your forms, and He provided you with good things. That is Allah, your Lord — so blessed is Allah, the Lord of the worlds. ⁶⁵He is the Living, there is no God but He; so call on Him, being sincere to Him in obedience. Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds!

66 Say: I am forbidden to serve those whom you call upon besides Allah, when clear arguments have come to me from my Lord; and I am commanded to submit to the Lord of the worlds. ⁶⁷He it is Who created you from dust, then from a small life-germ, then from a clot, then He brings you forth as a child, then that you may attain your maturity, then that you may be old; and of you are some who die before and that you may reach an appointed term, and that you may understand. ⁶⁸He it is Who gives life and causes death, so when He decrees an affair, He only says to it, Be, and it is.

Section 8: The End of Opposition

69 Do you not see those who dispute concerning the messages of Allah? How are they turned away (from truth)! — ⁷⁰those who reject the Book and that with which We have sent Our messengers. But they shall soon know. ⁷¹When the fetters are on their necks and the chains. They are dragged ⁷²into hot water; then in the Fire they are burned. ⁷³Then it is said to them: Where are those that you used to set up (as gods) ⁷⁴besides Allah? They will say: They have failed us; rather, we did not call upon anything before. Thus does Allah make the disbelievers perplexed.

75 That is because you exulted in the land unjustly and because you behaved insolently. ⁷⁶Enter the gates of hell to abide in it; and evil is the abode of the proud. ⁷⁷Therefore be patient, surely the promise of Allah is true. But whether We show you part of what We promise them, or cause you to die (before it), to Us shall they be returned.^a ⁷⁸And certainly We sent messengers before you — among them are those We have mentioned to you and among them are those We have not mentioned to you. Nor was it possible for a messenger to bring a sign except with Allah's permission; so when Allah's command comes, judgment is given with truth, and those who treat (it) as a lie are lost.

79 Allah is He Who made the cattle for you that you may ride on some of them, and some of them you eat. ⁸⁰And there are advantages in them for you, and that you may attain through them (many) a need which is in your hearts,^b and on them and on ships you are borne. ⁸¹And He shows you His signs; which then of Allah's signs will you deny?

82 Do they not travel in the land and see what was the end of those before them? They were more numerous than these and greater in strength and in fortifications in the land, but what they earned did not avail them. ⁸³Then when their messengers came to them with clear arguments, they exulted in whatever knowledge they (already) had, and what they used to deride befell them. ⁸⁴So when they saw Our punishment, they said: We believe in Allah alone, and we deny what we used to set up as partners with Him. ⁸⁵But their faith could not benefit them when they saw Our punishment. Such is Allah's law, which ever takes its course in the matter of His servants; and there the disbelievers are lost.

a (77) This only emphasizes that they must suffer the evil consequences of their deeds, whether the Prophet lives to see their punishment or dies before it.

b (80) That is, they are of use to you in carrying your burdens and yourselves from one place to another, and serve other needs.

Chapter 41

Ḥā Mīm

This chapter bears the name of its initial letters Ḥā Mīm and is also known as Ḥā Mīm Sajdah. It is also called Fuṣṣilat, meaning something made plain, from the occurrence of this word in v. 3. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. This chapter opens with an invitation to the truth, followed by a warning against its rejection and a mention of the evidence of man's own faculties against the rejection of truth. Then it shows that believers are strengthened by inspiration and that revelation gives life to those who are spiritually dead. Finally, it is stated that if warnings and arguments are not heeded, the doom is inevitable and the truth will spread gradually.

Section 1: Invitation to the Truth

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God! ²A revelation from the Beneficent, the Merciful. ³A Book of which the verses are made plain, an Arabic Quran for a people who know — ⁴good news and a warning. But most of them turn away, so they do not hear. ⁵And they say: Our hearts are under coverings from that to which you call us, and there is a deafness in our ears, and there is a veil between us and you,^a so act, we too are acting.

6 Say: I am only a mortal like you. It is revealed to me that your God is one God, so keep in the straight path to Him, and ask His protection. And woe to those who set up partners (with Allah), ⁷who do not give the due charity, and who are disbelievers in the Hereafter! ⁸Those who believe and do good, for them is surely a reward never to be cut off.

^a (5) The coverings of the hearts, the deafness of the ears and the hanging of the veils are used simply to indicate their own determined rejection of the Truth. They resolved neither to open their hearts, in case the Truth should enter them, nor to lend their ears so that they might even hear the preaching of the Prophet.

Section 2: The Warning

9 Say: Do you indeed disbelieve in Him Who created the earth in two periods, and do you set up equals with Him? That is the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁰And He made in it mountains above its surface, and He placed blessings in it and ordained in it its foods, in four periods;^a alike for (all) seekers.^b ¹¹Then He directed Himself to the heaven and it was a vapour, so He said to it and to the earth: Come both, willingly or unwillingly. They both said: We come willingly.^c ¹²So He ordained them seven heavens in two periods,^d and revealed in every heaven its affair. And We adorned the lower heaven with lights, and (made it) to guard.^e That is the decree of the Mighty, the Knowing.

13 But if they turn away, then say: I warn you of a scourge like the scourge of Ād and Thamūd. ¹⁴When messengers came to a (10-1) For the creation of the heavens and the earth in six periods of time, see 7:54; the word yaum (period) here does not mean a day of 24 hours but in fact stands for a stage in growth. The making of the earth in two periods and the making on it of the mountains, rivers and of plant and animal life in four periods is really one continuous process, of six stages in all: (1) the throwing off of the cosmic matter called the earth; (2) the cooling of its surface; (3) the making of the mountains; (4) blessing it by waters and making in it rivers; (5-6) the ordaining of foods, being, in the first place, the growth of plant life and, in the second, the growth of animal life, culminating in the creation of man. Even the earlier commentators note that the creation in six yaum does not refer to six days as the time actually taken in making the heavens and the earth, which is still going on.

b (10-2) The meaning is that the foods which are made in the earth are equally accessible to all seekers (human beings as well as animals of all kinds).

c (11) Heaven is here plainly spoken of as being originally dukhān, meaning smoke, vapour or gaseous matter. The command to creation to come willingly or unwillingly is a reference to the Divine laws working in nature. Everything created, whether in the heavens or the earth, is subject to law. The existence of one law throughout the universe is clear evidence of the existence of One God, the Maker of that law.

d (12-1) As in the case of the earth, we are told that the heavenly bodies, too, were created in two stages. The creation of heavenly bodies is thus subject to the same law. For the seven heavens, see 2:29. The words, and revealed in every heaven its affair, show that everything created in nature serves a purpose.

e (12-2) See 37:7.

them from before them and behind them,^a saying, Serve nothing but Allah, they said: If our Lord had pleased, He would have sent down angels. So we are disbelievers in that with which you are sent. ¹⁵Then as to Ād, they were unjustly proud in the land, and said: Who is mightier in power than we? Do they not see that Allah Who created them is mightier in power than they? And they denied Our messages. ¹⁶So We sent on them a furious wind in unlucky days that We might make them taste the punishment of disgrace in this world's life. And the punishment of the Hereafter is truly more disgracing, and they will not be helped. ¹⁷And as for Thamūd, We showed them the right way, but they preferred blindness to guidance, so the scourge of a humiliating punishment overtook them for what they had earned. ¹⁸And We delivered those who believed and kept their duty.

Section 3: Man's Evidence against Himself

19 And the day when the enemies of Allah are gathered to the Fire, they will be formed into groups. ²⁰Until, when they come to it, their ears and their eyes and their skins will bear witness against them as to what they did.^b ²¹And they will say to their skins: Why do you bear witness against us? They will say: Allah Who makes everything speak has made us speak, and He created you at first, and to Him you are returned. ²²And you did not cover yourselves that your ears and your eyes and your skins should not bear witness against you, but you thought that Allah did not know much of what you did. ²³And that, your (evil) thought which you entertained about your Lord, ruined you, so have you become losers.

a (14) The coming of the prophets from before and behind signifies their impressing the truth of their message upon their people in every possible way. Some understand the coming of the prophets from near and from far.

b (20) The bearing of witness by the ears and the eyes and the skin shows the truth of the law that the consequences of evil deeds will become manifest. (Editor's Note: Modern science has shown that, in this very life, parts of a person's body and samples taken from it can disclose information about, or bear witness against, the deeds that he committed.)

24 Then if they are patient, the Fire is their abode. And if they ask for goodwill, they are not among those who are granted goodwill.^a 25And We have appointed for them comrades,^b so they make seem good to them what is before them and what is behind them, and the word proved true against them among the nations of jinn and people that have passed away before them: they are surely losers.

Section 4: Believers strengthened

26 And those who disbelieve say: Do not listen to this Quran but make noise therein, perhaps you may overcome. 27So We shall certainly make those who disbelieve taste a severe punishment, and We shall certainly recompense them for the worst of what they did. 28That is the reward of Allah's enemies — the Fire. They shall have in it the home to abide — a recompense for their denying Our messages. 29And those who disbelieve will say: Our Lord, show us those who led us astray from among jinn and people that we may trample them under our feet, so that they may be among the lowest.

30 Those who say, Our Lord is Allah, then continue in the right way, the angels descend upon them saying: Do not fear, nor grieve, and receive good news of the Garden which you were promised. 31We are your friends in this world's life and in the Hereafter, and you have in it what your souls desire and you have in it what you ask for.^c 32A welcome gift from the Forgiving, the Merciful.

a (24) God's goodwill can be gained in this life, and for those who waste that opportunity here the only way to that goodwill is to go through the ordeal of Fire.

b (25) These comrades are wicked companions.

c (31) Verses 30 and 31 show that it is in this life that the angels descend upon the faithful, giving them the joyful news that they should not have any fear. In fact, it is here, when the faithful are persecuted and oppressed, and when the powers of evil seem to have the upper hand, that such assurances are most needed, and it is here that the angels give them comfort and strength to bear hardships, and thus they ultimately overcome the forces of evil.

Section 5: Effect of the Revelation

33 And who is better in speech than one who calls to Allah and does good, and says: I am surely one of those who submit?³⁴ And not alike are the good and the evil. Repel (evil) with what is best, when lo! he between whom and you is enmity would be as if he were a warm friend.^a ³⁵And none is granted it but those who are patient, and none is granted it but the owner of a mighty good fortune. ³⁶And if a false imputation from the devil afflict you, seek refuge in Allah.^b Surely He is the Hearing, the Knowing.

37 And of His signs are the night and the day and the sun and the moon. Do not adore the sun nor the moon, but adore Allah Who created them, if He it is that you serve. ³⁸But if they are proud, yet those with your Lord glorify Him night and day, and they do not tire. ³⁹And of His signs is this, that you see the earth still, but when We send down water upon it, it stirs and swells. He Who gives it life is surely the Giver of life to the dead.^c Surely He is Powerful over all things.

40 Those who distort Our messages are not hidden from Us. Is he then who is cast into the Fire better or he who comes safe on the day of Resurrection? Do what you like, surely He is Seer of what you do. ⁴¹Those who disbelieve in the Reminder when it comes to them, and surely it is an Invincible Book: ⁴²falsehood a (34) Editor's Note: Verses 33–35 show that Muslims should preach Islam by means of speech and not force, by setting an example themselves of doing good deeds, and by responding to evil with good. This approach requires patience and is a great good fortune (v. 35). Thus do you win over your enemy.

b (36) The previous verses teach the repelling of evil with good. This verse suggests another remedy for evil. The Prophet is here told that, if his work is interfered with by evildoers or if false imputations are made against him, he should seek refuge in Allah, and Divine help, which always comes to the righteous, will make truth triumphant.

c (39) The still earth signifies land dried up and without vegetation; its stirring indicates its moving with life and its swelling the producing of vegetation. This is entirely metaphorical, indicating that when Divine revelation comes it gives a new life to people. The effect of rain upon earth is likened to the effect of the Quran upon the hearts of people. Dead here are the spiritually dead.

cannot come at it from before or behind it — a revelation from the Wise, the Praised One. ⁴³Nothing is said to you but what was said to messengers before you. Surely your Lord is the Lord of forgiveness and the Lord of painful retribution.

44 And if We had made it a Quran in a foreign tongue, they would have said: Why have not its messages been made clear? What! a foreign (tongue) and an Arab!^a Say: It is to those who believe a guidance and a healing,^b and those who do not believe, there is a deafness in their ears and it is obscure to them. These are called to from a place afar.

Section 6: Gradual Spread of Truth

45 And indeed We gave Moses the Book, but differences arose concerning it. And if a word had not already gone forth from your Lord, judgment would have been given between them. And surely they are in a disquieting doubt about it. ⁴⁶Whoever does good, it is for the good of his own soul; and whoever does evil, it is to its detriment. And your Lord is not in the least unjust to the servants.

47 To Him is referred the knowledge of the Hour. And no fruit comes forth from its coverings, nor does a female bear or give birth but with His knowledge. And on the day when He calls out to them: Where are My partners, they will say: We declare to You, not one of us can bear witness. ⁴⁸And those whom they

a (44-1) There seems to be a reference here to the prophecies which spoke of the coming of an Ishmaelite or an Arab prophet. The reference to Moses in the next verse confirms this, because Moses spoke plainly of a prophet like himself appearing from among the brethren of the Israelites, who are the Ishmaelites.

b (44-2) The Quran is here called a healing because it was a remedy for the spiritual diseases which prevailed in the world. It is the book which found a nation affected with the worst possible spiritual and moral diseases, and within less than a quarter of a century cleansed a whole country and a whole nation of all those diseases. Its healing effect, however, has not been limited to Arabia, and today there is no people on earth that does not bear witness to the great healing power of the Quran, which is so far-reaching in its effect that non-Muslims have benefited by it equally with Muslims.

called upon before will fail them, and they will know that they cannot escape.

49 Man does not tire of praying for good, but, if evil touches him, he is despairing, hopeless. ⁵⁰And if We make him taste mercy from Us after distress has touched him, he says: This is due to me,^a and I do not think that the Hour will ever come; and if I am sent back to my Lord, I shall have sure good with Him. So We shall certainly inform those who disbelieve of what they do, and We shall make them taste of hard punishment. ⁵¹And when We show favour to man, he turns away and withdraws himself; but when evil touches him, he is full of lengthy supplications.

52 Say: Do you see, if it is from Allah, then you disbelieve in it, who is in greater error than he who is in opposition far away? ⁵³We will soon show them Our signs in farthest regions and among their own people,^b until it is quite clear to them that it is the Truth. Is it not enough that your Lord is a Witness over all things? ⁵⁴Now surely they are in doubt as to the meeting with their Lord. Now surely He encompasses all things.

a (50) The words indicate man's ungratefulness for Divine blessings. He does not recognize Divine goodness in those gifts, but says "this is due to me", i.e., I have obtained it by my own exertion and I deserve it. And then he denies the Judgment.

b (53) The word āfāq means borders or extremities of the earth, or its remote sides, and the great message conveyed here is that Islam will spread to the most distant regions of the earth, the words their own people denoting the Arabs. What is stated here is that Islam will quickly spread, not only in Arabia but in the remote regions of the earth, and this prophecy is contained in a chapter revealed early at Makkah, when Muslims were being severely persecuted and the message of Islam had apparently little hope of finding acceptance anywhere. If the prophecy is so clear, its fulfilment is clearer still. Within twenty years of its birth, Islam spread through the whole of Arabia, and within a hundred years, it reached the farthest regions of the earth, both in the East and the West. Both the prophecy and its fulfilment are thus two of the most amazing facts of history.

Al-Shūrā

Counsel

This chapter is known as Counsel, from the command in v. 38 to Muslims to decide their affairs by counsel among themselves. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. The subjects discussed in this chapter, in sequence, are that Divine mercy is predominant over all the other attributes of God, so that His warning is an act of mercy, Divine judgment comes to settle differences, God's dealing with people is always just and no nation is destroyed unjustly, so that even the unjust are given respite, and finally that the Quran, being a revelation, guides to the right way.

Section 1: Divine Mercy in giving Warning

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God! ²Knowing, Hearing, Powerful God!^a ³Thus does Allah, the Mighty, the Wise, reveal to you, and (He revealed) to those before you. ⁴To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth; and He is the High, the Great. ⁵The heavens may almost be torn apart above them, while the angels celebrate the praise of their Lord and ask forgiveness for those on earth.^b Now surely Allah is the Forgiving, the Merciful.

6 And those who take protectors besides Him — Allah watches a (2) Verse 1 is the same as 40:1; see the footnote there. Verse 2 consists of three letters: 'Ain, standing for 'Alīm or Knowing, Sīn for Samī' or Hearing, and Qāf for Qādir or Powerful.

b (5) The significance is that the wickedness of man calls for immediate punishment, but the mercy of Allah withholds it. The splitting apart of the heaven is elsewhere used to signify Divine displeasure at the Christian doctrine of the divinity of Jesus (19:90–91). The Divine displeasure at the wickedness of man is very great, but His mercy supercedes all. The angels' prayer for forgiveness for man shows that Allah Himself desires to forgive man. People's deeds do not merit forgiveness, but forgiveness is the attribute of the Divine Being, and that Divine attribute is exercised through the solicitude of the angels.

over them; and you are not in charge of them. ⁷And thus have We revealed to you an Arabic Quran, that you may warn the mother-town and those around it,^a and give warning of the day of Gathering, in which there is no doubt. A group will be in the Garden and (another) group in the burning Fire. ⁸And if Allah had pleased, He would surely have made them a single nation, but He admits whom He pleases to His mercy. And the wrongdoers have no protector nor helper. ⁹Or have they taken protectors besides Him? But Allah is the Protector, and He gives life to the dead, and He is Powerful over all things.

Section 2: Judgment is given

10 And in whatever you differ, its judgment is with Allah. That is Allah, my Lord; on Him I rely, and to Him I turn. ¹¹The Originator of the heavens and the earth, He has made for you pairs from among yourselves, and pairs of the cattle, too, multiplying you thereby. Nothing is like Him;^b and He is the Hearing, the Seeing. ¹²His are the treasures of the heavens and the earth — He amplifies provision for whom He pleases, and restricts (it also). Surely He is Knower of all things.

13 He has made plain to you the religion which He enjoined upon Noah and which We have revealed to you, and which We enjoined on Abraham and Moses and Jesus — to establish religion and not to be divided in (regard to) it.^c Hard it is for those who set up partners (with Allah), what you invite them to. Allah chooses a (7) Umm al-Qurā or the mother of the towns is Makkah, which is so called because it was destined to be the spiritual centre of the whole world; see 6:92.

b (11) So transcendent is the Divine Being, and so far above all material conceptions, that a likeness of Him cannot be conceived, even metaphorically. The words translated like Him literally mean like a likeness of Him. He is not only above all material limitations, but even above the limitation of metaphor.

c (13) Even so early did the Quran announce that the religion preached by the Prophet was not a new religion, but, so far as its basic principles were concerned, it was the same religion as was preached by Noah and Abraham and Moses and Jesus. The basic principle of Islam — entire submission to One God only — is, in fact, the basic principle of the common religion of humanity.

for Himself whom He pleases, and guides to Himself those who turn (to Him). ¹⁴And they were not divided until after knowledge had come to them, out of envy among themselves. And if a word had not gone forth from your Lord for an appointed term, judgment would surely have been given between them. And those who were made to inherit the Book after them are surely in disquieting doubt about it.^a

15 To this then go on inviting, and be steadfast as you are commanded, and do not follow their low desires, and say: I believe in what Allah has revealed of the Book, and I am commanded to do justice between you. Allah is our Lord and your Lord. For us are our deeds, and for you your deeds. There is no contention between us and you. Allah will gather us together, and to Him is the eventual coming.^b ¹⁶And those who dispute about Allah after obedience has been rendered to Him, their plea is null with their Lord, and upon them is wrath, and for them is severe punishment.^c a (14) The pronoun them in those who were made to inherit the Book after them refers to the prophets. The people who were made to inherit the Book after the prophets, rejected the very message with which these prophets came. But they are told that their punishment is postponed till an appointed term. Such was the Divine law — a word gone forth from your Lord — that the struggle against Truth gathers strength at first and seems to have the upper hand for a time, but it ultimately comes to naught, thus showing that an unseen hand works in support of the Truth.

b (15) The argument was so simple and sound. The Prophet told the followers of earlier revelation that he was a believer in what Allah had revealed of the Book, in all revelation that came before him, and the basic principles of his revelation were the same as those of the earlier revelation. The whole thing was so clear that there could not be any dispute. There is a clear ray of hope in the concluding verses — Allah will gather us — that they will ultimately accept the Truth. (Editor's Note: Muslims are here commanded to do justice and follow principles instead of prejudices in judging others. It is added that Allah will judge everyone, Muslim or otherwise, by their deeds, and not claims and labels.)

c (16) The reference in those who dispute about Allah after obedience has been rendered to Him may be to the followers of earlier revelation, because their books required obedience to a Prophet who should appear after them. Or, the meaning may be, after people have begun to enter Islam, and Islam has been established in the land despite the severest opposition.

17 Allah is He Who revealed the Book with truth, and (He revealed) the measure;^a and what will make you know that perhaps the Hour is near. 18Those who do not believe in it would hasten it on, and those who believe are in fear from it, and they know that it is the Truth. Now surely those who dispute concerning the Hour are far astray. 19Allah is Benignant to His servants, He gives sustenance to whom He pleases, and He is the Strong, the Mighty.

Section 3: Allah's Dealing is Just

20 Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We give him increase in his harvest; and whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him of it, and he has no portion in the Hereafter. 21Or do they have partners (of Allah) who have prescribed for them any religion that Allah does not sanction? And if it were not for the word of judgment (of respite), the matter would certainly have been decided between them. And surely for the wrongdoers is a painful punishment.^b 22You see the wrongdoers fearing on account of what they have earned, and it must befall them. And those who believe and do good are in the meadows of the Gardens — they have what they please with their Lord. That is the great grace. 23This is what Allah gives the good news of, to His servants who believe and do good. Say: I ask of you nothing in return for it a (17) For the meaning of mīzān ('measure' or 'balance') in the Quran, see 55:7 footnote. Elsewhere it is said: "Certainly We sent Our messengers with clear arguments, and sent down with them the Book and the measure (mīzān), that people may conduct themselves with equity" (57:25). Thus, the purpose of revealing the balance or measure is that people may conduct themselves with equity; in other words that they may be able to carry out the ordinances contained in the Book justly. This is what the Prophet shows by his example. The ordinances of the Book are given in words, and the Prophet translates them into deeds, so that it is by following his example that people are led aright. The Prophet's example is thus a balance or measure which is as essential for the right guidance of people as the Book. According to some, the mīzān here means the Law by which the rights and obligations of people are weighed.

b (21) The word of judgment indicates a judgment already pronounced, that a respite will be given to the wrongdoers so that they may have an opportunity to reform themselves.

but love for relatives.^a And whoever earns good, We give him more of good in it. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Grateful. ²⁴Or do they say: He has forged a lie against Allah? So, if Allah please, He would seal your heart (against them). And Allah blots out the falsehood and confirms the Truth with His words.^b Surely He is Knower of what is in the hearts.

25 And He it is Who accepts repentance from His servants and pardons evil deeds, and He knows what you do; ²⁶and He answers those who believe and do good deeds, and gives them more out of His grace. And for the disbelievers is a severe punishment. ²⁷And if Allah were to amplify the provision for His servants, they would rebel in the earth; but He sends (it) down by measure, as He pleases. Surely He is Aware, Seer of His servants. ²⁸And He it is Who sends down the rain after they have despaired, and He unfolds His mercy. And He is the Friend, the Praised One. ²⁹And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and all the living beings He has spread forth in both of them. And He is All-powerful to gather them together, when He will.

Section 4: Believers should be Patient

30 And whatever misfortune befalls you, it is on account of what your hands have earned and He pardons much. ³¹And you cannot escape in the earth, and besides Allah you have no protector nor helper. ³²And of His signs are the ships, like mountains on a (23) The statement that the Prophet did not ask for any reward at all is made very often in the Quran. The Arabs, closely related as they were to each other, were in a state of constant warfare. They are told to give up mutual warfare and to love one another. A similar statement is made elsewhere: "I ask of you no reward for it except that whoever wishes may take a way to his Lord" (25:57). In both cases what the Prophet wanted was not a reward for himself, but it was a good for the people themselves, being, in the second case, that they walk in the ways of God or lead godly lives and, in the first, that they love one another.

b (24) The sealing of the Prophet's heart signifies making it secure against the abuse of his opponents, who called him an impostor. By blotting out the falsehood and confirming the Truth, the abuses would be stopped, and thus his heart would be made secure against them. The "words" here imply the prophecies whose fulfilment would firmly establish the Truth.

the sea. ³³If He will, He stills the wind so that they lie motionless on its back. Surely there are signs in this for every patient, grateful one, ³⁴or He causes them to perish for what they have earned, and He pardons much; ^a ³⁵and (that) those who dispute about Our messages may know. There is no refuge for them.

36 So whatever you are given is but a provision of this world's life, and what Allah has is better and more lasting for those who believe and rely on their Lord; ³⁷and those who shun the great sins and indecencies, and whenever they are angry they forgive; ³⁸and those who respond to their Lord and keep up prayer, and whose affairs are (decided) by counsel among themselves, and who spend (on good works) out of what We have given them; ^b ³⁹and those who, when great wrong afflicts them, defend themselves. ⁴⁰And the recompense of evil is punishment like it; but whoever forgives and brings about reform, his reward is with Allah. Surely He does not love the wrongdoers. ^c ⁴¹And whoever defends

a (34) The ship in these two verses is the ship of the affairs of the disbelievers, which was ultimately to be wrecked, yet Allah dealt with them mercifully by pardoning most of the wicked things they did. The next verse makes the significance clear by drawing attention to the fact that the statement is a warning to those who dispute about the messages of Allah, that they will find no refuge when their ship is wrecked.

b (38) Muslims are here enjoined as usual to observe prayer and to spend out of what Allah has given them, yet between these two injunctions, which always go together in the Quran, is placed a third: whose affairs are decided by counsel among themselves. At the early period when this verse was revealed, the Muslims had no important matters to decide for which they might have stood in need of counsel. The injunction is clearly meant to prepare them for transacting the momentous affairs of State and all matters connected with national weal or woe. All affairs of the Islamic state must be transacted by counsel. In this Islam has laid the basis of Government by parliaments, and the idea found a clear practical expression in the early days of the Caliphate, when the Khalifa had to refer every important affair to counsel.

c (40) Punishment must be proportionate to the evil committed, a very just and necessary restriction. Forgiveness here is not neglected, nor preached in such a manner as to make it impracticable. There is in Islam neither the one extreme of an eye for an eye nor the opposite one of turning the other cheek. It teaches the golden and beautiful mean that forgiveness may be exercised, if forgiveness will mend the matter and do good to the wrongdoer himself. The object to be kept in himself after his being oppressed, these it is against whom there is no way (of blame). ⁴²The way (of blame) is only against those who oppress people and revolt in the earth unjustly. For such there is a painful punishment. ⁴³And whoever is patient and forgives — that surely is an affair of great resolution.

Section 5: Revelation guides Aright

44 And he whom Allah leaves in error, has no friend after Him. And you will see the wrongdoers, when they see the punishment, saying: Is there any way of return? ⁴⁵And you will see them brought before it, humbling themselves because of disgrace, looking with a faint glance. And those who believe will say: Surely the losers are they who lose themselves and their followers on the day of Resurrection. Now surely the wrongdoers are in lasting punishment. ⁴⁶And they will have no friends to help them besides Allah. And he whom Allah leaves in error cannot find a way.

47 Respond to your Lord before the day comes from Allah which cannot be averted. You will have no refuge on that day, nor will it be yours to make a denial. ⁴⁸But if they turn away, We have not sent you as a watcher over them. Your duty is only to deliver the message. And surely when We make man taste mercy from Us, he rejoices at it; and if an evil afflicts them on account of what their hands have already done, then surely man is ungrateful. ⁴⁹Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. He creates what He pleases. He grants females to whom He pleases and grants males to whom He pleases, ⁵⁰or He grants them both males and females, and He makes whom He pleases barren. Surely He is Knower, Powerful.^a view is to bring about reform, whether it is attained by giving proportionate punishment or by exercising forgiveness.

51 And it is not granted to a mortal that Allah should speak to

^a (50) The birth of a daughter was looked upon by the Arabs as a calamity (see 16:58–59), this being due to the low position which women held in society. The wonderful change brought about by Islam in the status of woman is clearly foreshadowed in this early revelation, where the daughter has the precedence over the son.

him, except by revelation or from behind a veil, or by sending a messenger and revealing by His permission what He pleases.^a Surely He is High, Wise. ⁵²And thus did We reveal to you an inspired Book by Our command.^b You did not know what the Book was, nor (what) Faith (was), but We made it a light, guiding with it whom We please of Our servants. And surely you guide to the right path — ⁵³the path of Allah, to Whom belongs whatsoever is in the heavens and whatsoever is in the earth. Now surely to Allah do all affairs eventually come.

a (51) According to this verse Allah speaks to a person in three ways: (1) by wahy, meaning the inspired word which enters the hearts of the prophets and of the righteous. It is in this sense that a revelation is spoken of as being granted to the mother of Moses (28:7), and to the disciples of Jesus who were not prophets (5:111). (2) “from behind a veil” — a scene is shown as in a vision carrying a deeper significance, or words are heard by the person spoken to as from behind a veil. (3) The third form of revelation is that in which a messenger — an angel — is chosen by the Almighty to deliver His message to the person to whom He wishes to speak. This is the highest form of revelation, and such is the revelation of the Quran as granted to the Holy Prophet, being recited by the angel Gabriel. This revelation is granted only to prophets, while the other two may also be granted to the righteous who are not prophets. It should, however, be borne in mind that in all these cases the recipient of the revelation is granted certain other senses. He sees what others do not see and he hears words which others do not hear. It is, therefore, with what may be called the spiritual senses that he hears and sees and feels things which others do not hear, see, or feel.

b (52) The words “and thus” refer to the last mode of granting revelation, because the Quran is spoken of as having been brought by the Angel Gabriel (2:97) or the Faithful Spirit (26:193). The word translated as “inspired Book” here is rūh, usually meaning spirit. Its use as meaning inspiration, and not the soul, is conclusive here. The Quran may be called the rūh or the spirit because it gave life to a dead world. It is dead again, and again will life be breathed into it by the Quran.

Zukhruf

Gold

This chapter is named Gold from its mention in v. 35, where it is stated that it is not gold and silver and the like but righteous deeds that are acceptable to God. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. The chapter opens by declaring that the revelation of the Quran has come as a favour from the Merciful God, despite people's wrongdoing. Then, after condemning polytheism, it answers the objection as to why an influential or wealthy man was not chosen as God's messenger instead of the Prophet Muhammad. It goes on to state that those who deny the revelation will, in the end, regret their deeds, and even the powerful Pharaoh was destroyed when he refused to listen to Moses. Then the objection of the idolaters is answered as to why Muslims accept Jesus when he is also taken as god by his followers. Lastly, the chapter contrasts the fate of the believers and the disbelievers.

Section 1: Revelation is a Divine Favour

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God! ²By the Book that makes manifest! ³Surely We have made it an Arabic Quran that you may understand. ⁴And it is in the Original of the Book with Us,^a truly elevated, full of wisdom. ⁵Shall We then turn away the Reminder from you altogether because you are a people committing excesses?^b ⁶And how many a prophet did We send among the ancients! ⁷And no

a (4) The term Umm al-Kitāb literally signifies mother or original of the Book, and the opening chapter of the Quran is also known by this name, because, in its essence, it contains the whole of the Quran. But here it signifies the original source — the knowledge of God — from which the Quran comes, and the meaning is that the Quran cannot be destroyed because it exists in Divine Knowledge. The words, in fact, contain a prophecy, uttered at a time when the Prophet was alone and helpless, that the Quran will be exalted in the world, for that is its position in Divine Knowledge. The same term Umm al-Kitāb in 3:7 and 13:39 signifies the basis of the book.

b (5) Allah would not refrain from admonishing a people who commit excesses.

prophet came to them but they mocked him. ⁸Then We destroyed those stronger than these in prowess, and the example of the ancients has gone before.

9 And if you ask them, Who created the heavens and the earth, they would say: The Mighty, the Knowing One, has created them, ¹⁰Who made the earth a resting-place for you, and made in it ways for you that you might go aright. ¹¹And Who sends down water from the cloud according to a measure, then We raise to life by it a dead land; even so will you be brought forth.^a ¹²And Who created pairs of all things, and made for you ships and cattle on which you ride, ¹³that you may sit firmly on their backs, then remember the favour of your Lord, when you are firmly seated on them, and say: Glory be to Him Who made this subservient to us and we were not able to do it, ¹⁴and surely to our Lord we must return. ¹⁵And they assign to Him some of His servants (as His offspring).^b Man, to be sure, is clearly ungrateful.

Section 2: Polytheism condemned

16 Or has He taken daughters to Himself of what He creates and chosen you to have sons?^c ¹⁷And when one of them is given news (of the birth) of that the like of which he ascribes to the Beneficent, his face becomes black and he is full of rage. ¹⁸Is one decked with ornaments and unable to make plain speech in disputes (a partner with God)?^d ¹⁹And they consider the angels, who are a (11) As rain descending from heaven quickens a dead earth, so Divine revelation would regenerate or raise to life people who, sunk in ignorance and superstitions, were spiritually, morally, and intellectually a dead people.

b (15) This refers to the Christian doctrine of assigning a son to God, and in the next verse to the idolatrous doctrine of ascribing daughters to God.

c (16) This subject is also dealt with in 16:57–58 and 37:149–153. In the latter place there is clear mention of their calling the angels daughters of God. Similar words occur in v. 19. The next verse shows how untrue they were to themselves, as they ascribed daughters to God but disliked daughters for themselves.

d (18) The reference in this verse is to the idols which were bedecked with ornaments. The inability of the idols to speak is adduced by Abraham as an

the servants of the Beneficent, to be females. Did they witness their creation? Their evidence will be recorded and they will be questioned.

20 And they say: If the Beneficent had pleased, we would not have worshipped them. They have no knowledge of this; they only lie. ²¹Or have We given them a Book before it so that they hold fast to it? ²²Rather, they say: We found our fathers on a course, and surely we are guided by their footsteps. ²³And thus, We did not send before you a warner in a town, but its wealthy ones said: Surely we found our fathers following a religion, and we follow their footsteps. ²⁴(The warner) said: And even if I bring to you a better guide than that which you found your fathers following? They said: We surely disbelieve in what you are sent with. ²⁵So We exacted retribution from them, then see what was the end of the rejectors!

Section 3: Allah's Choice of a Prophet

26 And when Abraham said to his sire and his people: I am clear of what you worship, ²⁷except Him Who created me, for surely He will guide me. ²⁸And he made it a word to continue in his posterity that they might return (to it).^a ²⁹But I let these and their fathers enjoy till the Truth came to them and a Messenger making manifest. ³⁰And when the Truth came to them they said: This is enchantment, and surely we are disbelievers in it.

31 And they say: Why was not this Quran revealed to a man of importance in the two towns?^b ³²Do they apportion the mercy argument against their divinity (21:63), and the same inability of the idols to answer the prayers of their devotees is advanced as an argument against the divinity of the golden calf (20:89). It should be borne in mind that the two doctrines, taking the angels as daughters of God and worship of female divinities, were connected with each other in the Arab mind.

a (28) This shows that the Arabs possessed enduring traditions that their great ancestor Abraham was a preacher of Unity.

b (31) The two towns referred to are Makkah and Ta'if. They would not follow any but an important man of the world, a man possessing much wealth or high rank. Moral greatness possessed no value in their eyes.

of your Lord? We portion out among them their livelihood in the life of this world, and We exalt some of them above others in rank, that some of them may take others in service. And the mercy of your Lord is better than what they amass.^a ³³And if it were not that all people would become one (disbelieving) community, We would provide for those who disbelieve in the Beneficent, roofs of silver for their houses and stairs (of silver) by which they ascend, ³⁴and (of silver) the doors of their houses and the couches on which they recline, ³⁵and of gold.^b And all this is only a provision of this world's life; and the Hereafter is, with your Lord, only for the dutiful.

Section 4: Opposition to Truth is punished

36 And whoever turns himself away from the remembrance of the Beneficent, We appoint for him a devil, so he is his associate.^c ³⁷And surely they hinder them from the (right) path, and they think that they are guided aright. ³⁸Until when he comes to Us, he says: If only between me and you there were the distance of the East and the West! And evil is the associate! ³⁹And as you did wrong, it will not benefit you at all this day that you are sharers in the punishment.

40 Can you then make the deaf to hear or guide the blind and a (32) Human society is based on differences in rank. It is only through this difference that society can be organized and developed into a State, whether it be under modern socialism or capitalism. From these differences in the external conditions of people, the conclusion is drawn that differences must exist in the spiritual sphere too, and some people are chosen to guide others. Allah's choice for prophethood does not, however, depend on wealth, but on internal worth.

b (35) Gold and silver have no value in the sight of Allah, and He would grant these things to disbelievers to any extent they desire, if it were not that most people would be misled by these worldly temptations. The verse undoubtedly draws a picture of the modern condition of the world, where man's whole energy is devoted to the acquisition of material gains and more material gains, and people are shutting their eyes altogether to the moral values of life, with the result that the world today stands on the brink of an abyss of utter destruction.

c (36) As v. 37 shows, the devil here is the evil companion who leads man to evil.

him who is in clear error? ⁴¹So if We take you away, still We shall exact retribution from them, ⁴²or We shall show you what We promise them — surely We are Powerful over them.^a ⁴³So hold fast to what has been revealed to you; surely you are on the right path. ⁴⁴And surely it is a reminder for you and your people, and you will be questioned. ⁴⁵And ask those of Our messengers whom We sent before you: Did We ever appoint gods to be worshipped besides the Beneficent?

Section 5: Pharaoh's Opposition to Moses

46 And truly We sent Moses with Our messages to Pharaoh and his chiefs, so he said: I am the messenger of the Lord of the worlds. ⁴⁷But when he brought them Our signs, lo! they laughed at them. ⁴⁸And We did not show them a sign but it was greater than its fellow,^b and We seized them with punishment that they might turn. ⁴⁹And they said: O enchanter, call on your Lord for us, as He has made the covenant with you; we shall surely follow guidance.^c ⁵⁰But when We removed from them the punishment, lo! they broke the pledge.

51 And Pharaoh proclaimed amongst his people, saying: My people, is not the kingdom of Egypt mine and these rivers flowing beneath me? Do you not see? ⁵²Rather I am better than this (fellow) who is contemptible, and can hardly express himself clearly. ⁵³Why, then, have bracelets of gold not been bestowed on him, or angels come along with him in procession?^d ⁵⁴So he incited his people to levity and they obeyed him. Surely they were a (42) V. 41 describes the general law of the punishment of the wicked; even if the Prophet dies, the wicked will meet their doom. But the general statement should not give rise to any misconception, so we are immediately told that the Prophet would see the discomfiture of his enemies with his own eyes.

b (48) Each sign was greater than the one which preceded it.

c (49) Every time a sign was shown, Pharaoh entreated Moses to pray for the removal of the punishment, promising that he would not in that case oppose him.

d (53) Pharaoh's suggestion is that if Moses were true he should have possessed much wealth like a king or he should have come with angels, as a king comes with his armies.

a transgressing people. ⁵⁵Then when they displeased Us, We exacted retribution from them, so We drowned them all together. ⁵⁶And We made them a thing past and an example for later generations.

Section 6: Jesus as Prophet

⁵⁷And when the son of Mary is mentioned as an example, lo! your people raise a clamour at it. ⁵⁸And they say: Are our gods better, or is he? They set it forth to you only by way of disputation. Indeed, they are a contentious people.^a ⁵⁹He was only a servant on whom We bestowed favour and We made him an example for the Children of Israel;^b ⁶⁰and if We pleased, We could appoint among you angels to be (Our) representatives in the land. ⁶¹And this (revelation) is surely knowledge of the Hour,^c so have no doubt about it and follow me. This is the right path. ⁶²And do not let the devil hinder you; surely he is your open enemy.

a (58) The Quran in many places condemns the doctrine of attributing children to the Almighty. But when the case of Jesus was cited, the disbelievers objected to the respect shown to him, while their own idols were condemned: “Are our gods better, or is he?” Why should not the same honour be shown to their national gods as was shown to the god of another nation?

b (59) This verse contains the answer to the above objection. Jesus was not honoured because the Christians took him for God or Son of God, which was in fact their own error, but because he was a righteous servant of Allah on whom He had bestowed favours. He was also an example of virtue for the Israelites to whom he was sent as a prophet. On the other hand, the idols whom the Arabs took for gods were mere stones and could do no good to their worshippers. Moreover, the idol-worshippers represented even their great men as sunk in immorality.

c (61) The Hour signifies here the departure of prophethood from the house of Israel. Such is the clear significance of the parable of the vineyard in Matthew 21:33, Mark 12:1, and Luke 20:9, which ends thus: “Therefore I say to you, The kingdom of God will be taken from you, and given to a nation bearing the fruits of it” (Matthew 21:43). Prophethood had long remained in the house of Israel, and, as history shows, Jesus was the last prophet of the Mosaic dispensation. The Quran is here called the knowledge of the Hour in the sense that its revelation was a clear indication that prophethood was now being taken away from the house of Israel and given to another people, as Jesus himself had said. Some take the pronoun hu as referring to Jesus and translate these words as “he is the knowledge of the Hour”, but even then the meaning would be that Jesus was sent to give people the knowledge that he was the last prophet of the Israelite dispensation.

63 And when Jesus came with clear arguments, he said: I have come to you indeed with wisdom, and to make clear to you some of what you differ about. So keep your duty to Allah and obey me. 64 Surely Allah is my Lord and your Lord, so serve Him. This is the right path. 65 But factions among them differed, so woe to those who did wrong for the punishment of a painful day! 66 Do they wait only for the Hour,^a that it should come on them all of a sudden, while they do not perceive? 67 Friends on that day will be foes to one another, except those who keep their duty.

68 O My servants, there is no fear for you this day, nor will you grieve — 69 those who believed in Our messages and submitted (to Us). 70 Enter the Garden, you and your wives,^b being made happy. 71 Round about them are made to go golden bowls and drinking-cups, and therein is what (their) souls yearn for and the eyes delight in, and in it you will abide. 72 And this is the Garden which you are made to inherit on account of what you did. 73 You shall have in it abundant fruit, of which to eat.

74 Surely the guilty will abide in the punishment of hell. 75 It is not abated for them and in it they will despair. 76 And We did not wrong them but they were themselves the wrongdoers. 77 And they cry: O Mālik,^c let your Lord make an end of us. He will say: You shall stay (here). 78 Certainly We bring the Truth to you, but most of you dislike the Truth. 79 Or have they settled a matter? But it is We Who settle (matters).^d 80 Or do they think that We do not hear their secrets and their private counsels? Yes indeed, and Our messengers with them write down.

b (70) It is with their wives that the faithful are told to enter paradise.

c (77) Mālik means literally master. Here it signifies the angel appointed over those in hell.

d (79) The disbelievers are told that they should not think that they have settled the matter of the Holy Prophet by their plans to kill him, for it is Allah Who really settles all matters.

81 Say: The Beneficent has no son; so I am the foremost of those who serve (God).^a ⁸²Glory be to the Lord of the heavens and the earth, the Lord of the Throne of Power, from what they describe! ⁸³So let them talk and sport until they meet their day which they are promised. ⁸⁴And He it is Who is God in the heavens and God in the earth. And He is the Wise, the Knowing. ⁸⁵And blessed is He Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them; and with Him is the knowledge of the Hour, and to Him you will be returned.

86 And those whom they call upon besides Him do not control intercession, but he who bears witness to the Truth and they know (him).^b ⁸⁷And if you were to ask them who created them, they would say: Allah. How are they then turned away (from truth)! ⁸⁸And his cry — O my Lord, these are a people who do not believe!^c ⁸⁹So turn away from them and say, Peace! They will soon come to know.^d a (81) This verse is commonly translated as meaning that if God had a son, the Prophet would be the foremost of those who serve that son. While the Arabic word in (occurring after “say”) means if, it is also used to indicate negation. See, for instance, 10:68. The word “Beneficent” (Rahmān) itself negatives the very idea on which the doctrine of sonship is based; see 19:88–93. Even if in is taken as meaning if, the verse would mean that when a man serves God he may metaphorically be called a son of God, and therefore the Holy Prophet, being the foremost of those who serve, would be a son in that sense, but he refused to be called son of God because such metaphorical words had given rise to grievous errors.

b (86) The bearer of witness to the Truth is no other than the Holy Prophet, and they knew well that he was the most truthful of people.

c (88) After years of hard work among them and after being subjected to every kind of persecution, the Holy Prophet still prays to Allah not to inflict punishment upon his opponents. He, however, unburdens his mind in the cry: “O my Lord, these are a people who do not believe”. An unparalleled example of heroic fortitude under trials and loving sympathy for fellow-men!

d (89) Turning away from them and saying “Peace!” are clear prophecies of the emigration. The early Makkan revelation contains undeniable prophecies of all the important later events in the life of the Holy Prophet.

Chapter 44

Al-Dukhān

The Drought

The title of this chapter is The Drought from the prophecy of the drought in v. 10. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. It predicts lighter punishment followed by severer if the opponents of truth did not repent, and cites the case of Pharaoh. Then it contrasts the final conditions of the righteous and the wicked.

Section 1: Lighter Punishment followed by Severer

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God! 2By the Book that makes manifest!
3We revealed it on a blessed night — truly We are ever warning.^a 4In which (night) is made clear every matter of wisdom;^b
5a command from Us — truly We are ever sending messengers;
6a mercy from your Lord — truly He is the Hearing, the Knowing, 7the Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, if you would be sure. 8There is no God but He; He gives life and causes death — your Lord and the Lord of your forefathers.

9 But, in doubt, they sport. 10So wait for the day when the heaven brings a clear drought,^c 11enveloping people. This is a a (3) The revelation of the Quran on a blessed night has a deeper meaning beneath it than the mere fact that the revelation began on the blessed night which is elsewhere called Lailat al-Qadr (97:1), one of the last ten nights in the month of Ramadan. The night stands for a time of darkness and ignorance, when true knowledge had disappeared from the world. A prophet's advent is always preceded by such darkness, and when the Holy Prophet made his appearance, such darkness prevailed in all countries of the world. This night is called a blessed night because in it the world received the greatest manifestation of Divine light.

b (4) Divine revelation distinguishes truth from falsehood and reveals the treasures of wisdom to people.

c (10) Dukhān means smoke, mischief, dearth, drought, or hunger. The commentators agree on the basis of highly trustworthy reports that its meaning painful punishment. ¹²Our Lord, remove from us the punishment — surely we are believers. ¹³When will they be reminded? And a Messenger has indeed come, making clear; ¹⁴yet they turned away from him and said: One taught (by others), a madman! ¹⁵We shall remove the punishment a little, (but) you will surely return (to evil). ¹⁶On the day when We seize (them) with the most violent seizing; surely We shall exact retribution.^a

17 And certainly We tried before them Pharaoh's people and a noble messenger came to them, ¹⁸saying: Deliver to me the servants of Allah.^b Surely I am a faithful messenger to you. ¹⁹And do not exalt yourselves against Allah. Surely I bring to you a clear authority. ²⁰And I take refuge with my Lord and your Lord, that you may not stone me to death. ²¹And if you do not believe in me, leave me alone. ²²Then he called upon his Lord: These are a guilty people. ²³So go forth with My servants by night; surely you will be pursued, ²⁴and leave the sea behind calm.^c Surely they are an army to be drowned. ²⁵How many of the gardens and springs they left behind! ²⁶And cornfields and noble places! ²⁷And goodly things in which they rejoiced! ²⁸Thus (it was). And We made other people inherit them. ²⁹So the heaven and the earth did not weep for them, nor were they given respite.^d here is drought. The statements made in these verses are all prophetic. Drought struck Makkah after the Quraish had rejected, opposed and persecuted the Holy Prophet Muhammad. Also prophetic is the statement of v. 15, We shall remove the punishment a little, because the removal of the drought was followed by the “violent seizing” (v. 16), which brought on the conquest of Makkah.

a (16) The prophecy here seems to refer to the constant defeats in battle that were to be suffered by the Quraish, beginning with the battle of Badr, and resulting in the final overthrow of their power by the conquest of Makkah.

b (18) Moses wanted the Israelites to be allowed to leave Egypt.

c (24) There was no storm in the sea when it was left by the Israelites, so that the Egyptians, finding it calm and motionless, followed the Israelites.

d (29) The weeping for a dead man signifies the remembering of his good qualities or actions, which often brings tears to the eyes. The heaven and the earth did not weep for them because they had neither the love of God in their hearts, nor had they done anything for the good of people, so that their good qualities should have been remembered either in heaven or on earth.

Section 2: Good and Evil rewarded

30 And We indeed delivered the Children of Israel from the humiliating punishment, ³¹from Pharaoh. Surely he was high-handed, committing excesses. ³²And certainly We chose them above the nations, in having knowledge. ³³And We gave them signs in which was clear blessing.

34 These do indeed say: ³⁵There is only our first death and we shall not be raised again. ³⁶So bring our fathers (back), if you are truthful. ³⁷Are they better or the people of Tubba,^a and those before them? We destroyed them, for surely they were guilty. ³⁸And We did not create the heavens and the earth and all that is between them in sport. ³⁹We did not create them but with truth, but most of them do not know. ⁴⁰Surely the day of Decision is the term for them all, ⁴¹the day when friend will not avail friend in the least, nor will they be helped — ⁴²except those on whom Allah has mercy. Surely He is the Mighty, the Merciful.

43 Surely the tree of Zaqqūm^b ⁴⁴is the food of the sinful, ⁴⁵like molten brass; it seethes in (their) bellies ⁴⁶like boiling water. ⁴⁷Seize him, then drag him into the midst of hell; ⁴⁸then pour on his head torment of boiling water — ⁴⁹Taste — you are the (so-called) mighty, the honourable!^c ⁵⁰Surely this is what you doubted.

51 Those who keep their duty are indeed in a secure place — ⁵²in gardens and springs, ⁵³wearing fine silk and thick brocade, facing one another — ⁵⁴thus (shall it be). And We shall join them to pure, beautiful ones.^d ⁵⁵They call therein for every fruit in a (37) Generally Tubba' is taken to be the title of the kings of the Himyar in Yaman. The particular Tubba spoken of here is said to have been a prophet.

c (49) Those who considered themselves mighty and honourable in the land and tried their utmost to exterminate the Truth were ultimately brought low in the land in this very life and thus tasted the consequences of their arrogance.

d (54) See 52:20 footnote.

security — ⁵⁶they do not taste death therein, except the first death; and He will save them from the punishment of hell — ^{57a} grace from your Lord. This is the mighty achievement. ⁵⁸So We have made it easy in your tongue that they may be mindful. ⁵⁹Wait then; surely they (too) are waiting.

Chapter 45

Al-Jāthiyah

The Kneeling

The title of this chapter is taken from v. 28, which speaks of every nation ultimately kneeling before God. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. The first half of this chapter relates that there are many signs of the truth of revelation but it is still denied by the disbelievers. The second half tells us that while the coming of the judgment is denied by those whose hearts are hardened, they shall have to face their doom.

Section 1: Denial of Revelation

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Beneficent God! 2The revelation of the Book is from Allah, the Mighty, the Wise. 3Surely in the heavens and the earth are signs for believers. 4And in your creation, and in the animals He spreads all over, are signs for a people who are sure; 5and (in) the alternation of the night and the day and (in) the sustenance which Allah sends down from the heaven, then gives life with it to the earth after its death, and (in) the changing of the winds, are signs for a people who understand. 6These are the messages of Allah, which We recite to you with truth. In what announcement will they then believe after Allah and His signs?^a

7 Woe to every sinful liar! 8who hears the messages of Allah recited to him then persists in arrogance, as though he had not heard them. So announce to him a painful punishment. 9And when he comes to know of any of Our messages, he takes them for a jest. For such is a humiliating punishment. 10In front of them is hell, and what they have earned will not avail them in the least, nor those whom they take for protectors besides Allah, and for them is a grievous punishment. 11This is guidance; and those who disbelieve in the messages of their Lord, for them is a painful punishment of an evil (kind).

Section 2: Truth of the Revelation

12 Allah is He Who made subservient to you the sea that the ships may glide in it by His command, and that you may seek of His grace, and that you may give thanks. ¹³And He has made subservient to you whatsoever is in the heavens and whatsoever is in the earth, all, from Himself. Surely there are signs in this for a people who reflect.

14 Tell those who believe to forgive those who do not fear the days of Allah that He may reward a people for what they earn.^a ¹⁵Whoever does good, it is for the good of his own soul, and whoever does evil, it is to its detriment; then to your Lord you will be brought back.

16 And certainly We gave the Children of Israel the Book and judgment and prophethood and provided them with good things, and made them excel the nations. ¹⁷And We gave them clear arguments in the Affair.^b So they did not differ until after knowledge had come to them, out of envy among themselves. Surely your Lord will judge between them on the day of Resurrection in that in which they differed. ¹⁸Then We made you follow a course in the Affair, so follow it, and do not follow the low desires of those who do not know. ¹⁹Surely they cannot avail you in the least against Allah. And surely the wrongdoers are friends of each other, and Allah is the Friend of the dutiful.

20 These are clear proofs for mankind, and a guidance and a mercy for a people who are sure. ²¹Or do those who commit evil

a (14) By the days of Allah are meant the favours which are bestowed on the righteous; see 14:5. These words make it clear that there is an assurance given to the faithful in the two previous verses that they will be triumphant in this world, and rule the land as well as the sea.

b (17) The Affair or Amr here signifies the prophethood of Muhammad, regarding which the Israelites were given the clearest prophecies. In the next verse the Holy Prophet is plainly addressed as having been given this Affair.

deeds think that We shall make them as those who believe and do good — their life and their death being equal? Evil is what they judge!^a

Section 3: Denial of Judgment

22 And Allah created the heavens and the earth with truth, and that every soul may be rewarded for what it has earned, and they will not be wronged. 23Have you seen him who takes his desire for his god, and Allah leaves him in error knowingly,^b and seals his hearing and his heart and puts a covering on his sight? Who can then guide him after Allah? Will you not be mindful? 24And they say: There is nothing but our life of the world; we die and we live and nothing destroys us but time, and they have no knowledge of that; they only conjecture. 25And when Our clear messages are recited to them, their only argument is that they say: Bring (back) our fathers, if you are truthful. 26Say: Allah gives you life, then makes you die, then will He gather you to the day of Resurrection, of which there is no doubt, but most people do not know.

Section 4: The Doom

27 And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. And on the day when the Hour comes to pass, on that day will the followers of falsehood perish. 28And you will see every nation kneeling down. Every nation will be called to its record.^c This day a (21) The meaning may be that the wicked are not like the righteous, either in life or in death; or, that the wicked will not find themselves in death in a state of ease resembling what they enjoy in this life. Or, the doing of good is here called life, and the doing of evil death, because good deeds give life to man and evil deeds cause his spiritual death.

b (23) The word knowingly implies that Allah knows the heart and mental attitude of the people of low desires, and the consequence of their evil deeds is that they remain in error.

c (28) That every nation shall have a book or a record of its deeds shows that nations are also judged according to their deeds. But nations are judged in this life, therefore the day on which every nation is called to its record is the day of you are recompensed for what you did. ²⁹This is Our record that speaks against you with truth. Surely We wrote what you did.

30 Then as to those who believed and did good, their Lord will admit them to His mercy. That is the manifest achievement. ³¹And as to those who disbelieved — were not My messages recited to you? But you were proud and you were a guilty people. ³²And when it was said, Surely the promise of Allah is true and the Hour — there is no doubt about it, you said: We do not know what the Hour is. We think (it) only a conjecture and we are not at all sure. ³³And the evil of what they did will become plain to them, and that at which they mocked will beset them. ³⁴And it will be said: This day We forsake you as you neglected the meeting of this day of yours, and your abode is the Fire, and you have no helpers. ³⁵That is because you made the messages of Allah a jest and the life of this world deceived you. So on that day they shall not be taken out of it, nor shall they be granted goodwill.

36 So praise be to Allah, the Lord of the heavens and the Lord of the earth, the Lord of the worlds! ³⁷And to Him belongs greatness in the heavens and the earth; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

its doom. The words — you will see every nation kneeling down — hint at a great spiritual awakening being brought about in the world.

Chapter 46

Al-Aḥqāf

The Sandhills

The title of this chapter is taken from the tracts of sand mentioned in v. 21 which contributed to the destruction of the tribe of Ād. Chapters 40 to 46 form one group; see the introductory note to chapter 40. This chapter deals first with the truth of revelation and the witness of truth. Then, referring to the fate of Ād, it contains a warning for those who reject the truth.

Section 1: Truth of Revelation

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

Part 26

1 Beneficent God! ²The revelation of the Book is from Allah, the Mighty, the Wise. ³We did not create the heavens and the earth and all that is between them but with truth and for an appointed term.^a And those who disbelieve turn away from the warning they are given. ⁴Say: Have you considered what you invoke besides Allah? Show me what they have created of the earth, or have they a share in the heavens? Bring me a Book before this or any relics of knowledge, if you are truthful. ⁵And who is in greater error than he who invokes besides Allah such (gods) as do not answer him till the day of Resurrection, and they are heedless of their call? ⁶And when mankind is gathered together, they will be their enemies, and will deny their worshipping (them).

7 And when Our clear messages are recited to them, those who disbelieve say of the Truth when it comes to them: This is clear enchantment. ⁸Or they say: He has forged it. Say: If I have forged it, you control nothing for me from Allah.^b He knows best what you utter concerning it. He is enough as a witness between me a (3) The Universe had a beginning and it will also have an end.

b (8-1) From Allah here means from the punishment of Allah. If the Quran was a lie which the Prophet had forged, none could avert the punishment which must come upon a forger.

and you. And He is the Forgiving, the Merciful.^a ⁹Say: I am not the first of the messengers,^b and I do not know what will be done with me or with you. I follow only what is revealed to me, and I am but a plain warner.^c ¹⁰Say: Have you considered if it is from Allah, and you disbelieve in it, and a witness from among the Children of Israel has borne witness of one like him,^d so he believed, while you are big with pride? Surely Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

Section 2: Witness of Truth

11 And those who disbelieve say of those who believe: If it had been a good, they would not have attained it before us. And as they are not guided by it, they say: It is an old lie. ¹²And before it was the Book of Moses, a guide and a mercy. And this is a Book verifying (it) in the Arabic language,^e that it may warn those who do wrong, and as good news for the doers of good. ¹³Surely those who say, Our Lord is Allah, then continue on the right way, on a (8-2) Whenever the punishment of the opponents is alluded to, as in the statement He is enough as a witness between me and you, the Divine attribute of mercy and forgiveness is also mentioned to indicate that mercy always predominates in the Divine nature.

b (9-1) Prophets had appeared before the Holy Prophet Muhammad in every country and nation throughout the whole world, and God's sending messengers for the reformation of people was the universal experience of humanity.

c (9-2) The Prophet is made to deny any detailed knowledge as to the ultimate end of one or the other party, but the warning is reaffirmed in the concluding words to show that evildoers must suffer the consequences of their deeds.

d (10) The witness from among the Children of Israel, who bore witness of one like him, is Moses: "I will raise up for them a Prophet like you from among their brethren, ... And it shall be that whoever will not hear My words, which He speaks in My name, I will require it of him" (Deut. 18:18-19). It is to the concluding statement in the above quotation that attention is called in the words, Have you considered if it is from Allah, and you disbelieve in it.

e (12) The words refer to the subject-matter of v. 10, which speaks of Moses' prophecy. The Quran is here declared as fulfilling that prophecy, and the reference to its being in the Arabic language signifies the coming of the Prophet from among the Ishmaelites, who spoke that language, and who were the brethren of the Israelites, this fact being clearly mentioned in the prophecy of Deut. 18:18.

them is no fear, nor shall they grieve. ¹⁴These are the owners of the Garden, abiding in it — a reward for what they did.

15 And We have enjoined on man the doing of good to his parents. His mother bears him with trouble and she gives birth to him in pain. And the bearing of him and the weaning of him is thirty months. Till, when he attains his maturity and reaches forty years,^a he says: My Lord, grant me that I may give thanks for Your favour, which You have bestowed on me and on my parents, and that I may do good which pleases You; and be good to me in respect of my offspring. Truly I turn to You, and truly I am among those who submit. ¹⁶These are they from whom We accept the best of what they do and overlook their evil deeds — among the owners of the Garden. A promise of truth, which they were promised.

17 And he who says to his parents: Enough of you! Do you threaten me that I shall be brought forth, when generations have passed away before me? And they both call for Allah's aid: Woe to you! Believe; surely the promise of Allah is true. But he says: This is nothing but stories of the ancients. ¹⁸These are they against whom the word proves true, among nations of jinn and people that have passed away before them. Surely they are losers.

19 And for all are degrees according to what they do, and that He may pay them for their deeds and they will not be wronged. ²⁰And on the day when those who disbelieve are brought before the Fire: You did away with your good things in your life of the world and you enjoyed them; so this day you are rewarded with the punishment of humiliation because you were unjustly proud in the land and because you transgressed.

^a (15) It would appear from this that the spiritual maturity of man usually takes place at the age of forty. Evidence of this is also found in the fact that the Holy Prophet Muhammad received the Divine message for the regeneration of mankind at the age of forty.

Section 3: The Fate of Ād

21 And mention the brother of Ād; when he warned his people in the sandy plains^a — and warners indeed came before him and after him — saying: Serve none but Allah. Surely I fear for you the punishment of a grievous day. ²²They said: Have you come to us to turn us away from our gods? Then bring us that (punishment) with which you threaten us, if you are truthful. ²³He said: The knowledge is only with Allah, and I deliver to you that with which I am sent, but I see you are an ignorant people.

24 So when they saw it — a cloud advancing towards their valleys, they said: This is a cloud bringing us rain. No, it is what you sought to hasten, a wind in which is painful punishment, ²⁵destroying everything by the command of its Lord. So at dawn nothing could be seen except their dwellings. Thus do We reward the guilty people. ²⁶And certainly We had given them power in matters in which We have not empowered you, and We had given them ears and eyes and hearts, but neither their ears, nor their eyes, nor their hearts availed them in the least, since they denied the messages of Allah, and what they mocked at beset them.

Section 4: A Warning

27 And certainly We destroyed the towns round about you,^b and We repeat the messages that they may turn (to the guidance). ²⁸Then why did those whom they took for gods besides Allah to draw (them) near (to Him) not help them? No, they failed them. And this was their lie and what they forged.

29 And when We turned towards you a group of the jinn, who listened to the Quran; so when they were in its presence, they said: Be silent. Then when it was finished, they turned back to their people warning (them).^a ³⁰They said: Our people, we have heard a Book revealed after Moses, verifying what is (already) before it, guiding to the truth and to a right path. ³¹Our people, accept the Inviter to Allah and believe in Him. He will forgive you some of your sins and protect you from a painful punishment. ³²And whoever does not accept the Inviter to Allah, he cannot escape in the earth, nor has he protectors besides Him. These are in clear error.

^a (21) The brother of a people signifies their prophet, Hūd being the prophet sent to Ād. The “sandy plains” where these people lived (al-ahqāf) are located in the region of Hadramaut in Arabia.

^b (27) The cities of Ād, Thamūd and Sheba lay on the borders of Arabia; thus the people living in the metropolis are told how those living around them were destroyed previously, and they should take a lesson from their fate.

33 Do they not see that Allah, Who created the heavens and the earth and was not tired by their creation, is Able to give life to the dead? Indeed, He is surely Powerful over all things. ³⁴And on the day when those who disbelieve are brought before the Fire: Is it not true? They will say: Indeed, by our Lord! He will say: Then taste the punishment, because you disbelieved. ³⁵So have patience (O Prophet), as men of resolution, the messengers, had patience, and do not seek to hasten on for them (their doom). On the day when they see what they are promised, (it will be) as if they had remained only an hour of the day. (Your duty is) to deliver. Shall then any be destroyed except the transgressing people?

a (29) The jinn spoken of here seem to be the leaders of certain Jewish tribes, because they are spoken of in the next verse as believers in Moses. In fact, they are of the same class as those mentioned in 72:1.

Muhammad

This chapter is entitled Muhammad from the mention of the Holy Prophet's name in v. 2, foretelling that the condition of those who believe in him will be improved. The first half of the chapter says that those who prevent people from accepting the truth will be defeated in war and Makkah will be subjugated by the Muslims. The second half refers to the weak-hearted among the Muslims and how a separation will be brought about between them and the truly faithful. This chapter was revealed at Madinah in 1 A.H. when war with the Quraish had not yet begun.

Section 1: Opponents will perish in War

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Those who disbelieve and turn (people) from Allah's way, He will destroy their works.^a 2 And those who believe and do good, and believe in what has been revealed to Muhammad — and it is the Truth from their Lord — He will remove their evil from them and improve their condition.^b 3 That is because those who disbelieve follow falsehood, and those who believe follow the Truth from their Lord. Thus does Allah set forth their descriptions for people.

4 So when you meet in battle those who disbelieve, strike the necks; then, when you have overcome them, make (them) prisoners, and afterwards (set them free) as a favour or for ransom till the a (1) This chapter was revealed at a time when the enemies of Islam were at the height of their power, and had apparently uprooted Islam from Makkah, and were preparing to give it a death-blow at Madinah.

b (2) This is another prophecy, a counterpart of the one in v.1. The Muslims, whose condition, it is announced here, will be bettered, were in a most helpless condition at the time. The majority of them had just fled from their homes, almost penniless, to save their lives and to settle down at Madinah where, however, they were not left alone, the enemy being determined to crush them by force.

war lay down its burdens.^a That (shall be so). And if Allah please, He would certainly exact retribution from them, but that He may try some of you by means of others.^b And those who are killed in the way of Allah, He will never allow their deeds to perish. ⁵He will guide them and improve their condition. ⁶And make them enter the Garden, which He has made known to them.^c

⁷ O you who believe, if you help Allah, He will help you and make firm your feet. ⁸And those who disbelieve, for them is destruction, and He will destroy their works. ⁹That is because they hate what Allah reveals, so He has made their deeds fruitless. ¹⁰Have they not travelled in the land and seen what was the end of those before them? Allah destroyed them. And for the disbelievers is (a fate) similar to it. ¹¹That is because Allah is the Patron of those who believe, and because the disbelievers have no patron.

Section 2: Oppressors shall be brought Low

12 Surely Allah will make those who believe and do good enter Gardens in which rivers flow. And those who disbelieve enjoy themselves and eat as cattle eat, and the Fire is their abode. ¹³And how many a town (there were), more powerful than your town which has driven you out — We destroyed them, so there a (4-1) This passage mentions the only case in which prisoners of war can be taken, and thus condemns the practice of slavery, according to which people could be seized anywhere and sold into slavery. Here we are told that prisoners of war can only be taken after meeting an enemy in regular battle, and even in that case they must be set free, either as a favour or after taking ransom. It was the former alternative that the Holy Prophet adopted in most cases. Only in the case of the seventy prisoners taken at Badr is there mention of redemption having been taken, but this was when Islam was very weak. See also 8:67 footnote.

b (4-2) The meaning is that, if Allah had pleased, He could have punished the enemies of Islam otherwise than by war, but as He means to punish them by the hands of the Muslims, therefore battles must be fought.

c (6) The Garden of the next life is made known to the righteous in this life by making them taste of the spiritual blessings of good deeds in this very life. That a paradise is granted to the righteous in this very life is mentioned frequently in the Quran. However, triumph over those who would annihilate Truth is also spoken of as a garden in this life.

was no helper for them.^a ¹⁴Is then he who has a clear argument from his Lord like him to whom his evil conduct is made to seem good; and they follow their low desires.

15 A parable of the Garden which the dutiful are promised: In it are rivers of water not altering for the worse, and rivers of milk whose taste does not change, and rivers of wine delicious to the drinkers, and rivers of honey clarified;^b and they shall have in it all fruits and protection from their Lord. (Are these) like those who abide in the Fire and who are made to drink boiling water, so it tears their bowels apart?

16 And some of them seek to listen to you, till, when they go forth from you, they say to those who have been given knowledge: What was it that he said just now? These are they whose hearts Allah has sealed and they follow their low desires. ¹⁷And those who follow guidance, He increases them in guidance and grants them their observance of duty.

18 Do they wait only for the Hour, that it should come upon them suddenly? Now tokens of it have already come.^c But how, when it comes upon them, will their reminder benefit them? ¹⁹So know that there is no god but Allah and ask protection for your sin

a (13) The opponents of Islam in Makkah were not destroyed when their final overthrow came, nor did the Holy Prophet punish them for their crimes against the Muslims. They were dealt with very mercifully — so mercifully that history does not present another instance of such merciful treatment of a conquered nation of oppressors. By their destruction was thus meant the overthrow of their power.

b (15) The description given does not mention the actual blessings of paradise, for they are blessings “which no eye has seen, nor has any ear heard, nor has it entered into the heart of man to conceive them” (Bukhari, 59:8). The blessings mentioned here are plainly called a parable, an example which shows what they are like.

c (18) By the Hour is to be understood the hour of their doom, the overthrow of their power, which is clearly spoken of in the previous verses. Tokens of it had already appeared, for they had seen how Islam was daily advancing, and how all their efforts to check its progress had ended in failure.

and for the believing men and the believing women.^a And Allah knows your moving about and your staying (in a place).^b

Section 3: The Weak-hearted Ones

20 And those who believe say: Why is not a chapter revealed?^c But when a decisive chapter is revealed, and fighting is mentioned in it, you see those in whose hearts is a disease look to you with the look of one fainting at death. So woe to them! ²¹Obedience and a gentle word (was proper). Then when the affair is settled, it is better for them if they remain true to Allah. ²²But if you turn away, you are sure to make mischief in the land and cut off the ties of kinship!^d ²³Those it is whom Allah has cursed, so He has made them deaf and blinded their eyes.^e

24 Do they not reflect on the Quran? Or, are there locks on the hearts? ²⁵Surely those who turn back after guidance is quite clear to them, the devil entices them (to do it) and lengthens false hopes for them. ²⁶That is because they say to those who hate what Allah has revealed: We will obey you in some matters. And Allah knows their secrets. ²⁷But how will it be when the angels cause them to die, striking their faces and their backs? ²⁸That is because they follow that which displeases Allah and dislike His pleasure, so He makes their deeds fruitless.

a (19-1) Not only the Prophet but every believer is told here to keep praying to God for being protected from sins, for himself and for all the believers, men as well as women. See also 40:55, 48:2, and footnotes there.

b (19-2) Moving about refers to people's going to and fro for the transaction of their affairs, and staying indicates taking rest.

c (20) Muslims had been severely persecuted; they had been oppressed, slain and turned out of their homes. Hence they naturally desired to be allowed to defend themselves. By a chapter is meant a revelation allowing them to fight.

d (22) It is the hypocrites who are addressed in these words. Tawallai-tum ("turn away") may mean either that you turn your backs on the Divine commandment to fight in defence of Truth or that you are put in authority.

e (23) Note that Allah blinds the eyes of, and makes deaf, those who would not turn to the right way. The next verse makes it clear by saying that they do not reflect on the Quran, as if there were locks on their hearts.

Section 4: An Exhortation

29 Or do those in whose hearts is a disease think that Allah will not bring forth their spite? ³⁰And if We please, We could show them to you so that you should know them by their marks. And certainly you can recognize them by the tone of (their) speech. And Allah knows your deeds. ³¹And certainly We shall try you, till We know those among you who strive hard, and the steadfast, and manifest your news.

32 Surely those who disbelieve and hinder (people) from Allah's way and oppose the Messenger after guidance is quite clear to them, cannot harm Allah in any way, and He will make their deeds fruitless. ³³O you who believe, obey Allah and obey the Messenger and do not make your deeds null. ³⁴Surely those who disbelieve and hinder (people) from Allah's way, then die disbelievers, Allah will not forgive them. ³⁵And do not be weak-hearted so as to cry for peace — and you are the uppermost — and Allah is with you, and He will not bring your deeds to nothing.

36 This world's life is only an idle sport and play, and if you believe and keep your duty He will give you your reward, and He does not ask of you your wealth. ³⁷If He should ask you for it and press you, you will be miserly, and He will bring forth your malice.^a ³⁸Look! you are those who are called to spend in Allah's way, but some of you are miserly; and whoever is miserly, is miserly against his own soul. And Allah is Self-Sufficient and you are needy. And if you turn back He will bring in your place another people, then they will not be like you.

a (37) At the end of v. 36, it is stated that God does not ask of people their wealth, while here they are told that if He should ask them for it, they would be miserly. The two statements do not contradict each other. V. 38 makes it clear that Allah, being Self-Sufficient, does not stand in need of people's wealth, so He does not ask of them their wealth for His needs. Yet great stress is laid on spending wealth, as it is for man's own good. This too is made clear in v. 38 — whoever is miserly, is miserly against his own soul. We are further told: You are needy. Man stands in need of making sacrifices for the good of his own soul and, if he does not make a sacrifice, he will suffer. There is no advancement in this world without a sacrifice, so if man has an urge for advancement, he must spend his wealth.

Al-Fath

The Victory

This chapter is entitled The Victory as it deals with the conquests of Islam, from the great moral victory gained by the truce of Hudaibiyah to the prophesied triumph of Islam over all other religions. The word victory occurs in v. 1 and elsewhere. It is remarkable that although Muslims had been victorious in several battles before, yet it is not those but a truce which is called a victory, indicating that the triumph of Islam lay in its moral conquests. The chapter begins by declaring the Hudaibiyah truce to be a victory, speaking of the success of the faithful and the allegiance they rendered to the Holy Prophet, and the disappointment of the hypocrites and idolators. It then deals with the excuses of the hypocrites and separates them from the faithful. It goes on to predict more victories in battles and ends with the important prophecy that Islam will triumph over all other religions of the world. This chapter was revealed in 6 A.H.

Section 1: Hudaibiyah Truce was a Victory

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Surely We have granted you a clear victory,^a 2that Allah may cover for you your (alleged) shortcomings in the past and those to a (1) The victory referred to is that gained by the truce at Hudaibiyah in 6 A.H. The truce was a victory for the Muslims because it opened the way for the propagation of Islam, and by putting a stop to hostilities gave the opponents an occasion to ponder over the merits of the religion against which they had hitherto struggled on the field of battle. As a result of this truce large numbers came over to Islam, and the words are thus prophetic, and their truth was demonstrated long after their revelation. The conditions of the truce to which Muslims yielded were disadvantageous to them, one being that if anyone from among the people of Makkah came over to the Holy Prophet, he would return him to the Quraish, though he were a Muslim, while the Quraish were not bound to return anyone who deserted the Prophet and joined the Quraish. The Muslims felt it very hard that one of their brethren should be returned to suffer persecution, but as the Quraish refused to make a truce unless this condition was included, the Holy Prophet accepted it. Immediately afterwards Divine revelation dispelled all those misgivings, and declared the truce to be a great victory, as it actually proved to be.

come,^a and complete His favour to you and guide you on a right path,^b ³and that Allah may help you with a mighty help.^c

4 He it is Who sent down tranquillity into the hearts of the believers that they might add faith to their faith. And Allah's are the forces of the heavens and the earth, and Allah is ever Knowing, Wise — ⁵that He may make the believers, men and women, enter Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them, and remove from them their evil. And that is a mighty achievement with Allah, ⁶and (that) He may punish the hypocrites, men and women, and the idolaters, men and women, who entertain evil thoughts about Allah. On them is the evil turn, and Allah is furious with them and a (2-1) The word dhanb means any shortcoming, not necessarily a sin, and dhanbi-ka here does not mean your sin but the sin committed against you or the shortcoming attributed to you. The Prophet never committed a sin and the word ghafr here means covering or protecting against the commission of sins; see 40:55 footnote. These were the shortcomings attributed to the Prophet by his enemies, among his contemporaries and those who were yet to come after him. Despite the fact that the Prophet was respected throughout Arabia for his righteousness and truthfulness before he laid claim to prophethood, the twenty years of opposition to the Truth which he brought had poisoned the minds of the Arabs to such an extent that they now drew a very dark picture of him, heaping all kinds of abuses on him. The battles that were now being fought had, further, made it impossible for the Muslims to present a true picture of Islam to the Arabs. After several years of conflict, the Hudaibiyah truce brought about a change in the relations of the two parties and the truth about the Prophet now began to dawn on their minds. They now saw that the Prophet was not the man of terror as their leaders had pictured to them. They saw the great transformation which he had wrought and the life which he had infused into a dead nation. It was in this sense that God covered the shortcomings and failures which his opponents attributed to him. In the words those to come, there is a reference to the latter-day criticism of the enemies of Islam and a promise here that not only would those misunderstandings which already existed be corrected, but even those that would be spread at a later date by the enemies of Islam would also be dispelled, and Islam would thus shine in its full lustre not only in Arabia but in the whole world.

b (2-2) The completion of favours was accomplished by the spread of Islam, and the guiding on the right path signified the right way to success.

c (3) Large numbers becoming converts to Islam proved a mighty help in its cause. While proceeding to Hudaibiyah the Holy Prophet was accompanied by 1,500 men; two years later, when advancing on Makkah, 10,000 men marched under his banner, which shows how fast Islam spread after the Hudaibiyah truce.

has cursed them and prepared hell for them; and evil is the destination. ⁷And Allah's are the forces of the heavens and the earth; and Allah is ever Mighty, Wise.

8 Surely We have sent you as a witness and as a bearer of good news and as a warner, ⁹that you (people) may believe in Allah and His Messenger and may aid him and revere him. And (that) you may declare His glory, morning and evening. ¹⁰Those who swear allegiance to you only swear allegiance to Allah. The hand of Allah is above their hands. So whoever breaks (his faith), he breaks it only to his soul's detriment. And whoever fulfils his covenant with Allah, He will grant him a mighty reward.^a

Section 2: The Defaulters

11 Those of the dwellers of the desert who lagged behind will say to you: Our property and our families kept us busy, so ask forgiveness for us. They say with their tongues what is not in their hearts. Say: Then who can control anything at all for you from Allah, if He intends to do you harm or if He intends to do you good. Indeed, Allah is ever Aware of what you do. ¹²No, you thought that the Messenger and the believers would never return to their families, and that was made pleasing in your hearts, and you thought an evil thought, and you are a people doomed to perish.^b ¹³And whoever does not believe in Allah and His Messenger — then surely We have prepared burning Fire for the disbelievers. ¹⁴And Allah's is the kingdom of the heavens and a (10) The swearing of allegiance referred to here took place before the truce was concluded. The Holy Prophet had started with his men with the object of performing a pilgrimage, but when he reached Hudaibiyah, the Makkans opposed his entry into Makkah. Thereupon the companions of the Holy Prophet swore allegiance to him (under a tree as stated in v. 18), that they would defend him at all costs and die fighting at his side (Bukhari, 64:37). The necessity for this seems to have arisen from the fact that the Quraish advanced to fight the Muslims, who were unprepared for war.

b (12) Even as late as 6 A.H. Muslims were so weak, as compared with their enemies, that whenever they had to go into the field, the weak-hearted thought that the Muslims were going into the very jaws of death.

the earth. He forgives whom He pleases and punishes whom He pleases. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Merciful.

15 Those who lagged behind will say, when you set forth to acquire gains: Allow us to follow you. They desire to change the word of Allah. Say: You shall not follow us. Thus did Allah say before. But they will say: Indeed, you are jealous of us. No, they do not understand but a little. ¹⁶Say to those of the dwellers of the desert who lagged behind: You will soon be called against a people of mighty prowess to fight against them until they submit. Then if you obey, Allah will grant you a good reward; but, if you turn back as you turned back before, He will punish you with a painful punishment.^a ¹⁷There is no blame on the blind, nor is there blame on the lame, nor is there blame on the sick. And whoever obeys Allah and His Messenger, He will make him enter Gardens in which rivers flow. And whoever turns back, He will punish him with a painful punishment.

Section 3: More Victories for Islam

18 Allah indeed was well pleased with the believers, when they swore allegiance to you under the tree, and He knew what was in their hearts, so He sent down tranquillity on them and rewarded them with a near victory, ¹⁹and many gains which they will acquire.^b And Allah is ever Mighty, Wise. ²⁰Allah promised you many gains which you will acquire, then He hastened this on for you, and held back the hands of people from you; and that it may be a sign for the believers and that He may guide you on a right path,^c ²¹and others which you have not yet been able to achieve a (16) The power of the Makkah enemy was now broken, as was proved by the advance on Makkah two years later. Hence, the defaulters are told that they would be called on to join the forces of Islam against another powerful enemy. This appears to be a reference to the wars against the Roman and Persian empires in the time of the early Caliphs, again referred to in v. 21.

b (19) These many gains predict the later conquests of the Muslims, beginning with the conquest of Makkah which made the Muslims masters of Arabia, and then extending to other countries, both in the East and the West.

c (20) By this truce the hands of people were held back from the Muslims, — Allah has surely encompassed them. And Allah is ever Powerful over all things.^a

22 And if those who disbelieve fight with you, they will certainly turn (their) backs, then they will find no protector nor helper. ²³(Such has been) the course of Allah that has run before, and you will not find a change in Allah's course. ²⁴And He it is Who held back their hands from you and your hands from them in the valley of Makkah after He had given you victory over them. And Allah is ever Seer of what you do.^b

25 It is they who disbelieved and debarred you from the Sacred Mosque — and the offering withheld from reaching its destination. And if it were not for the believing men and the believing women, whom, not knowing them, you might have trodden down so that a harm might have afflicted you on their account unknowingly — that Allah may admit to His mercy whom He pleases. If they had been apart, We would surely have i.e., the Muslims were not persecuted any more. So persecution having ceased, people began to enter Islam in large numbers. This was moreover an indication that the promised conquests of Islam were not only conquests of countries but also conquests of hearts.

a (21) This refers to the great Muslim conquests under the successors of the Holy Prophet. The defeat of the enemy is plainly spoken of in the next verse.

b (24) This is again a reference to the Hudaibiyah truce. Three times already had the disbelievers attacked Madinah with very strong forces to crush Islam, and Muslims had repulsed them every time, inflicting severe loss on them. This is referred to in the words, after He had given you victory over them. Yet they offered terms which were humiliating to the Muslims and the Prophet accepted them to avoid bloodshed, so deeply did he love peace. The chief terms of the agreement were: (1) That the Muslims should return without performing a pilgrimage. (2) That they should be allowed to perform a pilgrimage next year, but should not stay for more than three days. (3) That if a disbeliever, being converted, went over to the Muslims, he should be returned, but if a Muslim went over to the disbelievers he should not be given back to the Muslims (Bukhari, 54:15). The last term of the agreement was specially dissatisfying to the Muslims; but it shows the strong conviction which the Holy Prophet had in the truth of Islam, for he was confident that none of his companions would go over to disbelief and join the Quraish; and also that those who became converts to Islam would not desert it on account of persecution.

punished those who disbelieved from among them with a painful punishment.^a ²⁶When those who disbelieved harboured disdain in their hearts, the disdain of (the days of) Ignorance, but Allah sent down His tranquillity on His Messenger and on the believers and made them keep the word of observance of duty, and they were entitled to it and worthy of it. And Allah is ever Knower of all things.

Section 4: Ultimate Triumph of Islam

27 Allah indeed fulfilled the vision for His Messenger with truth. You shall certainly enter the Sacred Mosque, if Allah please, in security, your heads shaved and hair cut short, not fearing. But He knows what you do not know, so He has ordained a near victory before that.^b ²⁸He it is Who has sent His Messenger with the guidance and the Religion of Truth that He may make it prevail over all religions. And Allah is enough for a witness.^c a (25) One of the reasons given here for the truce is that the welfare of the Muslims demanded it, inasmuch as there were Muslims at Makkah who were unknown even to their brethren at Madinah, and that, if a battle had taken place, they would have suffered along with the enemy. This shows how Islam was making silent progress at Makkah itself, even without the guidance of a preacher, and in spite of persecution.

b (27) The Holy Prophet's journey to Makkah to perform a pilgrimage with 1,500 of his companions was undertaken on the basis of the vision stated here. In a vision, the Prophet had seen himself and his companions performing a pilgrimage. Convinced of the truth of his vision, he set out with about 1,500 of his companions with the object of performing a pilgrimage. The Makkans, however, opposed him at Hudaibiyah, and a truce was there arranged, according to which the Holy Prophet had to return without performing a pilgrimage. The truth of the vision is therefore asserted here. It is made clear that the Prophet's return did not falsify the vision, which had to be, and was, fulfilled next year. The near victory before that, i.e., before the vision was fulfilled during the following year, is the conquest of Khaibar which happened in the month of Safar in 7 A.H.

c (28) This prophecy of the prevalence of Islam over all other religions is a prophecy which extends into the distant future, while Arabia saw its fulfilment in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet. The prevalence of Islam does not, however, mean the political supremacy of its adherents at all times, nor does the prophecy signify that other religions would at any time entirely disappear. It only indicates that the superiority of the religion of Islam over all other religions will at last be established, and Islam will be the religion of the majority of the nations of the earth. See also 9:33; 61:9.

29 Muhammad is the Messenger of Allah, and those with him are firm of heart against the disbelievers,^a compassionate among themselves. You see them bowing down, prostrating themselves, seeking Allah's grace and pleasure. Their marks are on their faces in consequence of prostration. That is their description in the Torah — and their description in the Gospel — like a seed that puts forth its shoot, then strengthens it, so it becomes stout and stands firmly on its stem, delighting the sowers that He may enrage the disbelievers on account of them. Allah has promised such of them as believe and do good, forgiveness and a great reward.

a (29) The word ashiddā' used here means firm, strong, powerful, as well as brave, firm of heart. The translation fierce, vehement, or harsh, adopted in many English translations, is not correct here. The Muslims stood firm against the disbelievers but they were never fierce or hard in their treatment towards them.

Chapter 49

Al-Hujurāt

The Apartments

This chapter takes its title from v. 4 which tells Muslims not to call out to the Holy Prophet from behind the private apartments. It opens by teaching good manners and good morals when large masses of people began to enter Islam. The new converts should appreciate the value of the Holy Prophet's time and have respect for not only his privacy but for each other's privacy. It goes on to teach some social virtues and the avoidance of certain vices which are the curse of a society living in ease and comfort. It also removes all ideas of superiority based on race, tribe or family and declares that with Allah what distinguishes a person is righteousness. This chapter was revealed at Madinah in 9 A.H.

Section 1: Respect for the Prophet

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O you who believe, do not be forward in the presence of Allah and His Messenger,^a and keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Hearing, Knowing. 2O you who believe, do not raise your voices above the Prophet's voice, nor speak loudly to him as you speak loudly to one another, in case your deeds become fruitless, while you do not perceive.^b 3Surely those who lower their voices before Allah's Messenger are they whose hearts Allah has proved for dutifulness. For them is forgiveness and a great reward. 4Those who call out to you from behind the private apartments, most of them have no sense.^c 5And if they had patience till you come out a (1) The presence of Allah means the presence of His commandments. The words imply the utmost obedience.

b (2) The Quran not only inculcates high morals but also regulates social conduct, because its teachings are intended for all grades of people. When large numbers of people began to enter Islam such directions became necessary. A loud voice is expressive of arrogance or resentment.

c (4) When masses of people began to enter Islam many of them were ignorant even of the ordinary social rules, and they called out to the Prophet with loud to them, it would be better for them. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

6 O you who believe, if an unrighteous person brings you news, look carefully into it, in case you harm a people in ignorance, then be sorry for what you did.^a 7 And know that among you is Allah's Messenger. If he were to obey you in many a matter, you would surely fall into distress; but Allah has endeared the faith to you and has made it attractive in your hearts, and He has made hateful to you disbelief and transgression and disobedience. Such are those who are rightly guided — 8 a grace from Allah and a favour. And Allah is Knowing, Wise.

9 And if two groups of the believers quarrel, make peace between them. Then if one of them does wrong to the other, fight the one which does wrong, till it returns to Allah's command. Then, if it returns, make peace between them with justice and act equitably. Surely Allah loves the equitable.^b 10 The believers are brethren so make peace between your brethren, and keep your duty to Allah that mercy may be shown to you.

Section 2: Respect for Muslim Brotherhood

11 O you who believe, do not let a people laugh at (another) people, perhaps they may be better than they; nor let women (laugh) at women, perhaps they may be better than they. Neither find fault voices while he was within his house. The practice is deprecated because it meant disrespect to the Holy Prophet.

a (6) Such a direction was expedient when a condition of war necessitated prompt action to be taken against the enemy. But even the exigencies of war were to be carried out with the utmost carefulness, so that friendly people should not suffer loss.

b (9) This verse requires Muslims not to be indifferent when one group of them quarrels with another. They must bring every kind of pressure to bear upon the party in error. It is the duty of every Muslim to maintain the unity of Islam. An attitude of indifference towards fatwas of kufir (heresy), directed against their own brethren by ignorant Mullas (clerics), has dealt a fatal blow to the union of Muslim brotherhood, and, if Muslims do not raise their voice against these fatwas, they must never hope to make any progress towards real union.

with one another, nor call one another by (offensive) nick-names. Evil is a bad name after faith; and whoever does not repent, these it is that are the wrongdoers.^a ¹²O you who believe, avoid most of suspicion, for surely suspicion in some cases is sin; and do not spy nor let some of you backbite others. Does one of you like to eat the flesh of his dead brother? You abhor it! And keep your duty to Allah, surely Allah is returning (to mercy) again and again, Merciful.

13 O mankind, surely We have created you from a male and a female, and made you tribes and families that you may know each other. Surely the noblest of you with Allah is the most dutiful of you. Surely Allah is Knowing, Aware.^b

14 The dwellers of the desert say: “We believe”. Say: You do not believe, but say, “We submit”; and faith has not yet entered into your hearts. And if you obey Allah and His Messenger, He will not diminish anything of your deeds. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^c ¹⁵The believers are those only who believe in Allah and His Messenger, then they do not doubt, and struggle hard with their wealth and their lives in the way of Allah. Such are the truthful ones.

16 Say: Would you apprise Allah of your religion, and Allah a (11) This verse and those that follow deal with some of the evils which are most rampant in civilized society, and which corrupt a society to its core.

b (13) The principle of the brotherhood of mankind laid down here is on the broadest basis. The address here is not to believers, as in the two previous verses, but to mankind in general, who are told that they are all, as it were, members of one family, and their divisions into nations, tribes and families should not lead to estrangement from, but to a better knowledge of, each other. Superiority of one over another in this vast brotherhood does not depend on nationality, wealth, or rank, but on the careful observance of duty, or moral greatness.

c (14) Here Muslims are enjoined to deal kindly and leniently, even with those who, being novices, were not yet really grounded in the faith, though they were members of the Muslim brotherhood. Faith had not yet entered into their hearts, but they were to be regarded as Muslims. The solidarity of Islam is being shattered today by narrow-minded Mullas (clerics) who, on one pretext or another, issue fatwas of kufri against this or that party of Muslims.

knows what is in the heavens and what is in the earth? And Allah is Knower of all things. ¹⁷They presume to lay you under an obligation by becoming Muslims. Say: Do not lay me under an obligation by your Islam; rather Allah lays you under an obligation by guiding you to the faith, if you are truthful. ¹⁸Surely Allah knows the unseen of the heavens and the earth. And Allah is Seer of what you do.

Qāf

This chapter takes its name from its initial letter Qāf, referring to the great power of God, and deals with the Resurrection, both the spiritual resurrection of this life and the greater Resurrection of the life after death. It begins by drawing attention to the testimony of nature and then to the fate of some former peoples. Then it shows that every action has a consequence and these consequences are made manifest on the day of Judgment. Finally, it states that the good and the bad must receive their due, and refers to the two resurrections. From the 50th to the 56th chapter, there is a group of seven chapters all belonging to the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Resurrection — Signs in Nature

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Almighty (God)!^a By the glorious Quran!^b 2Yet they wonder that a warner has come to them from among themselves; so the disbelievers say: This is a wonderful thing! 3When we die and become dust — that is a far return. 4We know indeed what the earth diminishes of them and with Us is a book that preserves.^c 5But they reject the Truth when it comes to them, so they are in a state of confusion.

6 Do they not look at the sky above them? — how We have made it and adorned it and it has no flaws. 7And the earth, We

a (1-1) The letter Qāf, with which v.1 begins, stands for the name Qādir (or Qadīr) of the Divine Being, meaning Omnipotent or All-Powerful, or for al-Qiyāmat, the Resurrection.

b (1-2) An expression of wonder at the disbelief of people. The whole of the Quran is spoken of as one book even at this early period.

c (4) What the earth diminishes is the body, dust going to dust. The book that preserves is the record of the deeds which a person has done. The consequences of deeds are preserved in their entirety and out of them grows a new life in the Resurrection.

have spread it out, and cast in it mountains, and We have made to grow in it (things) of every beautiful kind — ⁸as an insight and a reminder to every servant who turns (to Allah). ⁹And We send down from the clouds water abounding in good, then We cause to grow with it gardens and the grain that is reaped, ¹⁰and the tall palm-trees having flower spikes piled one above another — ¹¹a sustenance for the servants, and We give life with it to a dead land. Thus is the rising.^a 12 Before them the people of Noah rejected (the Truth) and (so did) the dwellers of Rass and Thamūd ¹³and Ād and Pharaoh and Lot's brethren, ¹⁴and the dwellers of the grove and the people of Tubba.^b They all rejected the messengers, so My threat came to pass. ¹⁵Were We then fatigued with the first creation? Yet they are in doubt about a new creation.^c

Section 2: The Resurrection — Consequences made manifest

16 And certainly We created man, and We know what his mind suggests to him — and We are nearer to him than his life-vein. ¹⁷When the two receivers receive, sitting on the right and on the left, ¹⁸he does not utter a word but there is by him a watcher at hand.^d ¹⁹And the stupor of death comes in truth; that is what you would try to avoid. ²⁰And the trumpet is blown. That is the day of threatening. ²¹And every soul comes, with it a driver and a witness.^e ²²You were indeed heedless of this, but now We have a (11) The rising here includes both the spiritual resurrection of a dead people in this life and also the greater Resurrection in a life after death.

b (14) For the dwellers of Rass, see 25:38 footnote; for dwellers of the grove, 15:78 footnote; for Tubba, 44:37 footnote.

c (15) The meaning is that Allah did not lack power in dealing with the former generations so that they should doubt His power in dealing with a new one. Or, the first creation is the physical creation of man, and the second creation his spiritual regeneration.

d (18) The three verses 16–18 impress upon man that all his deeds and words bear fruit, that nothing is said or done in vain.

e (21) The driver signifies the impeller to evil, and the witness the caller to the truth.

removed from you your veil, so your sight is sharp this day.^a

23 And his companion will say: This is what is ready with me.^b
²⁴Cast into hell every ungrateful, rebellious one, ²⁵forbiddener of good, exceeeder of limits, doubter, ²⁶who sets up another god with Allah, so cast him into severe punishment. ²⁷His companion will say: Our Lord, I did not cause him to rebel but he himself went far in error. ²⁸He will say: Do not dispute in My presence, and indeed I gave you warning beforehand. ²⁹My sentence cannot be changed, nor am I in the least unjust to the servants.

Section 3: The Resurrection

30 On the day when We say to hell: Are you filled up? And it will say: Are there any more?^c ³¹And the Garden is brought near for those who guard against evil — (it is) not distant.^d ³²This is what you are promised — for everyone turning (to Allah), keeping (the limits) — ³³who fears the Beneficent in secret, and comes with a penitent heart: ³⁴Enter it in peace. That is the day of abiding. ³⁵They shall have in it all they wish, and with Us is yet more.^e a (22) This verse shows clearly that the consequences of evil actions which remain hidden from the human eye in this life are made manifest after death. This is the significance of the sight being made sharp, so that man will then see what he is unable to see here. Such is hell, according to the teachings of the Quran, namely, the hidden consequences of evil deeds, when made manifest to a person, become his hell.

b (23) The evil companion or the devil is meant, at whose suggestion a person commits evil deeds. What is ready is the record of man's evil deeds, which will be palpably manifest to him on the day of Resurrection.

c (30) This is metaphorical. One people after another continue to do evil without taking a lesson from the fate of previous people. It is also an expression of man's desire to have more and more of wealth and material comfort.

d (31) If a person used his inner sight, he could see that the keeping away from evil and the doing of good brought him nearer and nearer to true happiness, for which the Garden stands here, in this very life.

e (35) This is to show that the doing of good gives man all that he desires. But as his desires are limited, he is told that God will give him more than he desires. This is explained by some as meaning the sight of the Divine Being, which is the highest blessing of the next life.

36 And how many a generation We destroyed before them who were mightier in prowess than they, so they went about in the lands! Is there a place of refuge? ³⁷Surely there is a reminder in this for him who has a heart or he listens and is a witness.

38 And certainly We created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them in six periods, and no fatigue touched Us.^a ³⁹So bear patiently what they say, and celebrate the praise of your Lord before the rising of the sun and before the setting. ⁴⁰And glorify Him in the night and after prostration.^b

41 And listen on the day when the crier cries from a near place — ⁴²the day when they hear the cry in truth. That is the day of coming forth.^c ⁴³Surely We give life and cause to die, and to Us is the eventual coming — ⁴⁴the day when the earth splits apart from (under) them, they hastening forth. That is a gathering easy to Us. ⁴⁵We know best what they say, and you are not one to compel them. So remind by means of the Quran him who fears My threat.^d a (38) The Bible says: “And He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had made” (Genesis, 2:2). The Quran negatives any such idea in relation to God, Who does not stand in need of rest: No fatigue touched Us. For the creation of the heavens and the earth in six periods or six days, see 7:54.

b (40) Prostration here stands for prayer. The significance is that one should not get tired of glorifying God; prayer is in its entirety a glorification of God, but even after prayer, one should continue the glorification of God.

c (42) The crier (v. 41) is the Prophet; see 3:193: “Our Lord, surely we have heard a Crier calling to the Faith, saying: Believe in your Lord”. This cry was a distant cry at first, but, as we are told in v. 41, it will be a cry from a near place in the end, so that people will listen to it in truth. Note that the spiritual resurrection to be brought about in this life by the Prophet is spoken of in the whole of this chapter, along with the greater Resurrection of the next life.

d (45) The words, you are not one to compel them, refer plainly to the spiritual resurrection, which the Prophet desired to see immediately; he is told that he will see the dead coming to life but he could not compel people to accept the truth. The splitting apart of the earth in v. 44 and their hastening forth to life spiritual and their gathering in Islam were all witnessed in the lifetime of the Prophet, and may be witnessed again in the near future. This spiritual resurrection is treated as an evidence of the greater Resurrection, and that is the reason why both resurrections are spoken of in the same words.

Chapter 51

Al-Dhāriyāt

The Scatterers

The title of this chapter is taken from the mention of The Scatterers of Truth in the first verse. It opens by drawing attention to the gradual advancement of the Truth and the certainty of the judgment of the rejectors. Then it speaks of the news given to Abraham of the birth of a son, standing for the birth of a nation of the righteous, and goes on to relate the fate of some previous nations. It ends by warning the opponents that their good fortune is about to be ended and they shall be judged. This chapter belongs to the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Falsehood is doomed

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By those scattering far and wide! 2And those bearing the load! 3And those running easily! 4And those distributing the Affair! — 5What you are promised is surely true, 6and the Judgment will surely come to pass.^a

7 By the heaven full of paths!^b 8Surely you are of varying opinion — 9he is turned away from it who would (himself) be a (6) In verses 1–4, attention is called to certain facts by means of an oath, for which see 37:1, while verses 5–6 indicate the conclusion to which those facts lead. V. 1 refers to the winds that raise up dust before the coming of a cloud; v. 2 to the clouds that carry rain; v. 3 to the winds that carry the clouds along, and v. 4 to the winds that distribute the rain. This indicates a similar arrangement in the spiritual world by which Truth gradually advances. Attention is drawn here to the scattering of Truth broadcast through the Holy Prophet and his faithful followers, which led to some bearing the load of it as if they had become pregnant with Truth, while others ran easily towards its acceptance. But they were not satisfied with mere acceptance; they went to and fro to deliver to others the Truth and the Light which they had received. In the existence of these workers in the cause of Truth there was a clear sign that the triumph of Islam would soon take place.

b (7) The description of heaven as full of paths is a scientific truth certainly unknown to the world at the time of the revelation of the Quran.

turned away.^a ¹⁰Cursed be the liars, ¹¹who are in an abyss, neglectful; ¹²they ask: When is the day of Judgment? ¹³(It is) the day when they are tried at the Fire. ¹⁴Taste your persecution! This is what you would hasten on.^b

¹⁵Surely the dutiful are amidst Gardens and fountains, ¹⁶taking what their Lord gives them. Surely they were before that the doers of good. ¹⁷They used to sleep but little at night. ¹⁸And in the morning they asked (Divine) protection. ¹⁹And in their wealth there was a due share for the beggar and for one who is deprived (of good).^c

²⁰And in the earth are signs for those who are sure, ²¹and in yourselves — do you not see? ²²And in the heavens is your sustenance and what you are promised.^d ²³So by the Lord of the heavens and the earth! It is surely the truth, just as you speak.^e

Section 2: The Fate of Previous Nations

²⁴Has the story of Abraham's honoured guests reached you?^f ²⁵When they came to him, they said: 'Peace!' 'Peace!' said he. Strangers! ²⁶Then he turned aside to his family and brought a fat calf. ²⁷So he placed it before them. He said: Will you not eat? ²⁸So he conceived a fear of them. They said: Do not fear. And they a (9) Only those are turned away from the Truth who themselves turn away.

b (14) Tasting of persecution signifies receiving punishment for their persecution of the Muslims.

c (19) The word maḥrūm, "deprived", is understood by some to mean a poor man who does not beg, and by others, one who has not the faculty of speech, like the dog and the cat. Note that the poor are here spoken of as having a share in the wealth of the rich. The State is bound to take that share and make it over to the poor. But it is only a share, not the whole.

d (22) What is promised may mean the spiritual sustenance as contrasted with physical sustenance. Or, it may refer to the Judgment, of which they were warned again and again.

e (23) Note the high degree of certainty, the unshakable faith in the ultimate triumph of the Truth at this early period. Just as people's speaking to each other is a reality, even so is God's speaking to man.

f (24) See 11:69 footnote.

gave him the good news of a boy possessing knowledge. ²⁹Then his wife came up in grief, and she struck her face and said: A barren old woman! ³⁰They said: So says your Lord. Surely He is the Wise, the Knowing.

Part 27

31 He said: What is your errand, messengers! ³²They said: We have been sent to a guilty people ³³that we may send upon them stones of clay, ³⁴marked from your Lord for those who commit excesses.^a ³⁵Then We brought forth such believers as were there. ³⁶And We found there only one house of Muslims.^b ³⁷And We left there a sign for those who fear the painful punishment.

38 And in Moses (was another sign), when We sent him to Pharaoh with clear authority. ³⁹But he turned away on account of his might and said: An enchanter or a madman! ⁴⁰So We seized him and his armies and hurled them into the sea, and he was blameable. ⁴¹And in Ād, when We sent upon them the destructive wind. ⁴²It spared nothing that it came against, but it made it like ashes. ⁴³And in Thamūd, when it was said to them: Enjoy yourselves for a while. ⁴⁴But they revolted against the commandment of their Lord, so the punishment overtook them, while they saw.^c ⁴⁵So they were unable to rise up, nor could they defend themselves; ⁴⁶and the people of Noah before. Surely they were a transgressing people.

Section 3: Judgment is Sure

47 And the heaven, We raised it high with power, and We have made the vast extent. ⁴⁸And the earth, We have spread it out. How well We prepared it! ⁴⁹And of everything We have created pairs that you may be mindful.

a (34) For the punishment sent on Lot's people, see 7:84 footnote. The stones were marked, i.e., they were destined for them.

b (36) It is said to be the house of Lot himself. A Muslim is one who submits himself to God, and in this sense all prophets and their righteous followers were Muslims.

c (44) See 7:78.

50 So flee to Allah. Surely I am a plain warner to you from Him. ⁵¹And do not set up with Allah another god. Surely I am a plain warner to you from Him. ⁵²Thus, no messenger came to those before them but they said: An enchanter or a madman! ⁵³Have they charged each other with this? Indeed, they are an inordinate people. ⁵⁴So turn away from them, for you are not to blame;^a ⁵⁵and remind, for reminding benefits the believers.

56 And I have not created the jinn and the people except that they should serve Me. ⁵⁷I desire no sustenance from them, nor do I desire that they should feed Me. ⁵⁸Surely Allah is the Provider of sustenance, the Lord of Power, the Strong. ⁵⁹Surely the lot of the wrongdoers is as was the lot of their companions, so let them not ask Me to hasten (it) on. ⁶⁰Woe, then, to those who disbelieve because of that day of theirs which they are promised!

a (54) Turning away from them means to pay no heed to their abuses and to disregard their reviling. The words that follow make this clear, for the Prophet is enjoined to continue to remind, for there will be some who will believe, and these will profit by the reminder.

Chapter 52

Al-Tūr

The Mountain

The name of this chapter is taken from the first verse where the mention of The Mountain is an indication of a similarity between the Holy Prophet Muhammad and Moses. The chapter tells us that while punishment must befall the Holy Prophet's opponents as it did the opponents of Moses, the faithful will be rewarded with success. It ends with a clear mention of the doom of the opponents in this very life. This chapter belongs to the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Success of the Faithful

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the Mountain! 2And a Book written 3on unfolded vellum! 4And the frequented House, 5and the elevated canopy, 6and the swollen sea! 7The punishment of your Lord will surely come ^a — 8there is none to avert it; 9on the day when the heaven will be in a state of commotion, 10and the mountains will pass away, fleeing.^b a (7) Verses 1–6 draw attention to parallels in the revelations of Moses and the Holy Prophet Muhammad. The mount in the one case is Mt. Sinai, and in the other the mount Hira, the Book stands for the Torah in the one case and the Quran in the other; the House that is frequented and the elevated canopy refer, on the one hand, to the tabernacle raised by Moses for the Israelites as a sacred place, where they worshipped God and offered sacrifices, and on the other to the Sacred House at Makkah, which was to be the centre of the Muslims of all nations, all countries, and all ages, and where they were to offer sacrifices. The swollen sea represents the sea which brought destruction to Pharaoh and his armies, while the Holy Prophet's enemies are told in the next verse that the punishment of their Lord would as surely overtake them on land as it overtook the enemies of Moses in the swollen sea. The whole passage draws attention to the close similarity of the revelations of Moses and the Holy Prophet, and warns the disbelievers that their power will be brought to naught, as it was in the case of Pharaoh.

b (10) The great transformation that was to be brought about by the Holy Prophet Muhammad, the sweeping away of the old order of superstition, ignorance 11 Woe on that day to the deniers, ¹²who amuse themselves by idle talk. ¹³The day when they are driven to hell-fire with violence. ¹⁴This is the Fire, which you used to deny. ¹⁵Is it magic or do you not see? ¹⁶Burn in it; then bear (it) patiently, or do not bear (it), it is the same to you. You are recompensed only for what you did.

17 The dutiful will be surely in Gardens and bliss, ¹⁸rejoicing because of what their Lord has given them; and their Lord saved them from the punishment of the burning Fire. ¹⁹Eat and drink with pleasure for what you did, ²⁰reclining on thrones set in lines, and We shall join them to pure, beautiful ones.^a ²¹And those who believe and whose offspring follow them in faith — We unite with them their offspring and We shall not deprive them of any of their work. Every man is pledged for what he does.^b ²²And We shall and vice, and its replacement by light, learning and righteousness, the overthrow of a wicked generation and the ushering in of a new era, is here represented as the commotion of the heaven and the passing away of the mountains; see 20:105.

a (20) Two points here must be borne in mind. Firstly, paradise is a place for faithful women as well as for faithful men, and hence the Quran often speaks of the faithful as being in paradise with their wives; see 13:23, 36:56, 40:8 and 43:70. Secondly, the blessings of paradise are alike for women and men, there being not the least difference in this respect between the two sexes; see 4:124, 9:72 and 57:12. As to what is meant by “pure, beautiful ones” (in Arabic ḥūr and ʿīn), wherever blessings of paradise are spoken of, these are nothing but physical manifestations of the spiritual blessings which the doers of good enjoy in this life too. The gardens, trees, rivers, milk, honey, fruits and numerous other blessings spoken of as being met with in paradise are not things of this life. See further 32:17 footnote. Thus the “pure, beautiful ones” are not actually the beautiful women of this life but these are heavenly blessings which the righteous women shall have along with the righteous men, for v. 17 plainly says that those who keep their duty will find these blessings.

These blessings are described in words which apply to women because the reward spoken of here is one having special reference to the purity of character and the beautiful deeds of the righteous, and it is womanhood which stands for a symbol of purity and beauty. Moreover, note that in Arabic ṣāliḥāt and ṭayyibāt signify good deeds and pure things as well as good women and pure women.

b (21) Those who have done great deeds of sacrifice are united with their offspring because even their children follow their footsteps and do the deeds their aid them with fruit and flesh, as they desire. ²³They pass therein from one to another a cup, in which there is neither idle talk, nor sin.^a ²⁴And round them go boys of theirs as if they were hidden pearls.^b ²⁵And they will advance to each other, questioning — ²⁶saying: Surely we feared before on account of our families.^c ²⁷But Allah has been gracious to us and He has saved us from the punishment of the hot wind. ²⁸Surely we called upon Him before. Surely He is the Benign, the Merciful.

Section 2: Opponents are doomed

29 So remind for, by the grace of your Lord, you are no soothsayer, nor madman. ³⁰Or say they: A poet — we wait for him the evil accidents of time. ³¹Say: Wait, I too am waiting along with you. ³²Or do their understandings tell them this? Or are they an inordinate people? ³³Or say they: He has forged it. Indeed, they have no faith. ³⁴Then let them bring a saying like it, if they are truthful.^d ³⁵Or were they created without a (creative) agency?^e Or are they the creators? ³⁶Or did they create the heavens and the earth? No, they are sure of nothing. ³⁷Or do they possess the treasures of your Lord with them? Or do they have absolute authority?^f ³⁸Or do they have the means by which they listen? Then let their listener bring a clear authority.^g ³⁹Or does He have fathers did, reaping the benefit of those deeds. Note the clear doctrine of man's responsibility for his actions: "Every man is pledged for what he does".

a (23) This cup is therefore entirely of a different nature from what is known in this life.

b (24) These boys may either be the offspring of the faithful mentioned in v. 21, or heavenly blessings of the nature discussed in v. 20 footnote.

c (26) This clearly shows that righteous women will be in paradise along with righteous men. The difference of sex counts for nothing in the sight of Allah.

d (34) So early did the Quran challenge its opponents to produce the like of it. See 2:23 footnote, as to the uniqueness of the Holy Quran.

e (35) Or without a cause, or without a purpose.

f (37) Their authority or power in the land would soon be brought to naught.

g (38) The Arab astrologers and diviners pretended that they could listen to the secrets of the future, but their conjectures about the future failed to make any impression, as they did not turn out true. See also 15:17, 37:8, 67:5 and 72:8.

daughters and you have sons? ⁴⁰Or do you ask a reward from them so that they are over-burdened by a debt? ⁴¹Or do they possess the unseen, so they write (it) down?^a ⁴²Or do they intend a plot? But those who disbelieve will be the trapped ones in the plot.^b ⁴³Or do they have a god other than Allah? Glory be to Allah from what they set up as partners (with Him)!

44 And if they were to see a portion of the heaven coming down,^c they would say: Piled-up clouds! ⁴⁵Leave them then till they meet that day of theirs in which they are struck with punishment, ⁴⁶the day when their struggle will not avail them at all, nor will they be helped.^d ⁴⁷And surely for those who do wrong there is a punishment besides that, but most of them do not know.^e ⁴⁸And wait patiently for the judgment of your Lord, for surely you are before Our eyes,^f and celebrate the praise of your Lord, when you rise, ⁴⁹and in the night, glorify Him too, and at the setting of the stars.

From what is said further on in v. 41, and elsewhere, challenging them to put down their pretended knowledge of the unseen in writing, a challenge repeatedly given but never accepted, it is clear that the diviners themselves knew that what they said was no more than mere conjecture.

a (41) Here we have a clear proof that from the very beginning the Quran was written down as it was revealed. This chapter is one of the very early revelations, and here we find the opponents challenged to write down prophecies relating to the future, the suggestion clearly being that the prophecies of the Quran relating to the future were handed over to them in a written form.

b (42) Mark the clear language in which their vanquishment and the overthrow of their power is spoken of.

c (44) By a portion of the heaven coming down upon them is meant a punishment from heaven, which they repeatedly demanded. See 17:92 and 26:187.

d (46) Mark the clearness and force with which the prophecy is continued. The reference to war and their vanquishment in it is made clearer here.

e (47) The two kinds of punishment with which the opponents were threatened are spoken of distinctly in this verse, namely, a punishment which was to overtake them in this very life in the form of famines and the wars which were to result in the complete overthrow of their power, and a punishment in the form of spiritual torment in another life.

f (48) The judgment of the Lord signifies the punishment of the wicked. The Prophet is not to have any fear, for he is spoken of as being before Our eyes.

Chapter 53

Al-Najm

The Star

The word Star, which gives its name to this chapter, occurs in the first verse. It states that the Holy Prophet Muhammad will rise to the highest eminence to which man can rise. Then it declares that nothing can avail against the Truth and refers to the power of God as manifested in the destruction of falsehood. The date of its revelation is the fifth year of the Holy Prophet's mission at Makkah.

Section 1: Eminence to be attained by the Prophet

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the star when it sets! ^a 2Your companion is not in error, nor does he deviate.^b 3Nor does he speak out of desire. 4It is nothing but revelation that is revealed ^c — 5One Mighty in power has taught him,^d 6the Lord of strength. So he attained to a (1) The best-known significance of najm is star, and when used as a proper noun it signifies the Pleiades. In the setting of the star the opponents are warned of the calamities which would soon overtake them; their star of fortune was about to set. A less-known significance is that the meaning of the word najm is a portion of the Quran, and the word hawā ("sets") means its revelation. The meaning in this case is that every portion of the Quran when it is revealed is an evidence that the Prophet is not in error — he is in the right.

b (2) By your companion is meant the Prophet, who had led among this very people a life of unblemished purity. There are two statements made here; being in error on his part is denied in the first to show that he had a true knowledge or he did not err in theory, and deviation from the right course is denied in the second to show that he acted according to that knowledge, or his practice accorded with the theory. This verse is a conclusive proof that according to the Holy Quran the Prophet was perfectly sinless.

c (4) The pronoun "it" here refers to the najm or portion of the Quran spoken of in v. 1. The Quran was not his word, for he spoke not out of his own desire; it was the word of God.

d (5) The One Who taught him was God Himself as plainly stated elsewhere: "The Beneficent — He taught the Quran" (55:1–2).

perfection,^a ⁷and he is in the highest part of the horizon.^b ⁸Then he drew near, drew nearer yet,^c ⁹so he was the measure of two bows or closer still.^d ¹⁰So He revealed to His servant what He revealed.^e ¹¹The heart was not untrue in seeing what he saw. ¹²Do you then dispute with him as to what he saw? ¹³And certainly he saw Him in another descent, ¹⁴at the farthest lote-tree.^f ¹⁵Near it is the Garden of Abode. ¹⁶When that which covers covered the lote-tree, ¹⁷the eye did not turn aside, nor did it exceed the limit. ¹⁸Certainly he saw some of the greatest signs of his Lord.

19 Have you then considered Lāt and Uzzā, ²⁰and another, the third, Manāt? ²¹Are the males for you and for Him the females?^g a (6) The Holy Prophet is spoken of here as having attained to perfection because the Almighty Himself was his Teacher.

b (7) The Prophet's being in the highest part of the horizon is in reference to the resplendence of his light, which was to illuminate all corners of the world — a prophecy that he will shine out in the full brilliance of his light as the midday sun.

c (8) The verse points out that the Prophet attained the utmost nearness to God which it is possible for man to attain.

d (9) The expression “measure of two bows” indicates close union. The two bows seem to indicate the Holy Prophet's twofold perfection, i.e., his nearness to the Divine Being and his humility in his relations with people.

e (10) The word mā (“what”) in “what He revealed”, according to all commentators, indicates that a mighty revelation was given to him.

f (14) This indicates a place beyond which human knowledge does not go. The significance conveyed by the words is that the Prophet's knowledge of things Divine was the utmost which could be vouchsafed to man.

g (21) Verses 19–21 are made the basis of a false story that the devil interfered in the revelation at this point, so that instead of v. 21 the Holy Prophet read the words: “These are exalted females whose intercession is to be sought”. But the insertion of these few words in a chapter which is wholly directed against idolatry is quite out of place: v. 23 condemns idols; v. 26 denies their intercession; v. 28 condemns the giving of names of female deities to angels, and so on. It is further asserted that 22:52 was immediately revealed to explain that Allah nullified the devil's interference, but there is a period of at least eight years between the revelation of this verse and that of 22:52. Moreover, if the Prophet had made any such compromise, it could not have been a sudden event, and traces of it would have been met with in other chapters revealed about the same time. But a perusal of these shows clearly that the Quran's condemnation of idolatry was never marked by the slightest change.

²²This indeed is an unjust division! ²³They are nothing but names which you have named, you and your fathers — Allah has sent no authority for them. They follow only conjecture and what (their) souls desire. And certainly the guidance has come to them from their Lord. ²⁴Or shall man have what he wishes? ²⁵But for Allah is the Hereafter and the former (life).

Section 2: Nothing avails against Truth

26 And how many angels are in the heavens, whose intercession does not avail at all except after Allah gives permission to whom He pleases and chooses. ²⁷Surely those who do not believe in the Hereafter name the angels with female names.^a ²⁸And they have no knowledge of it. They follow only conjecture, and surely conjecture does not avail at all against Truth. ²⁹So shun him who turns his back upon Our Reminder, and desires nothing but this world's life. ³⁰That is their goal of knowledge. Surely your Lord knows best him who strays from His path and He knows best him who goes aright.

31 And Allah's is whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth, that He may reward those who do evil for what they do, and reward those who do good with goodness. ³²Those who avoid the great sins and the indecencies, but the passing idea^b — surely your Lord is Liberal in forgiving. He knows you best when He brings you forth from the earth and when you are embryos in the wombs of your mothers; so do not ascribe purity to yourselves. He knows him best who guards against evil.

Section 3: Allah's Power manifested in destroying Falsehood

33 Have you seen him who turns back, ³⁴and gives a little, then withholds? ³⁵Does he have the knowledge of the unseen so that he can see? ³⁶Or has he not been informed of what is in the a (27) The Arabs called the angels daughters of Allah.

b (32) A passing idea which leaves no impression on the mind is forgiven, for a mortal cannot be proof against it. But this by no means amounts to an intention or an attempt to commit a sin.

scriptures of Moses, ³⁷and (of) Abraham who fulfilled (commandments)? ³⁸— that no bearer of burden bears another's burden, ³⁹and that man can have nothing but what he strives for, ⁴⁰and that his striving will soon be seen, ⁴¹then he will be rewarded for it with the fullest reward, ⁴²and that to your Lord is the goal, ⁴³and that He it is Who makes (people) laugh and makes (them) weep, ⁴⁴and that He it is Who causes death and gives life, ⁴⁵and that He creates pairs, the male and the female ⁴⁶from the small life-germ when it is adapted, ⁴⁷and that He has ordained the second bringing forth, ⁴⁸and that He it is Who gives wealth and contentment, ⁴⁹and that He is the Lord of Sirius, ⁵⁰and that He destroyed the first Ād,^a ⁵¹and Thamūd, so He did not spare, ⁵²and the people of Noah before, surely they were most unjust and inordinate, ⁵³and the overthrown cities, He hurled down, ⁵⁴so there covered them that (punishment) which covered. ⁵⁵Which, then, of your Lord's benefits will you dispute?

56 This is a warner like the earlier warners. ⁵⁷The near Event draws nearer.^b ⁵⁸There is none besides Allah to remove it. ⁵⁹Do you wonder then at this announcement? ⁶⁰And do you laugh and not weep, ⁶¹while you sport? ⁶²So bow down in prostration before Allah and serve (Him).

a (50) The tribe of Ād is sometimes referred to as the first Ād, in contrast with Thamūd, who are called the second Ād.

b (57) The near Event is the doom of the Quraish, the overthrow of their power, which was now being utilized against Islam.

Chapter 54

Al-Qamar

The Moon

The Moon, the title of this chapter taken from the occurrence of this word in the first verse, was a symbol of the power of the Arabs. Its “splitting apart” indicated the overthrow of the power of the Quraish. After warning the Holy Prophet’s opponents, the chapter mentions examples of the people of some previous prophets. Towards the end it contains a prophetic reference to the battle of Badr. It is undoubtedly an early revelation at Makkah.

Section 1: Judgment to overtake Opponents

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 The hour drew near and the moon was split apart.^a 2And if they see a sign, they turn away and say: Strong enchantment!^b 3And they deny and follow their low desires; and every affair is settled.^c 4And certainly narratives have come to them, which should deter — 5consummate wisdom — but warnings have not a (1) The “splitting apart of the moon” in the time of the Holy Prophet is an incident related by a number of his companions; and the reports of this incident are classed as well-known, and are accepted as correct by Bukhari and Muslim. In the whole history of miracles, this is the only miracle of which a contemporaneous record exists. It may have been a particular kind of lunar eclipse, the moon appearing as if it were split into two, a part remaining bright and the other part darkening, or some great commotion might have taken place in the moon or some other unusual phenomenon may have occurred, which might have been made apparent to the naked eye through the strong visionary power of the Holy Prophet. Some commentators are, however, of the opinion that this verse refers to the splitting apart of the moon at the approach of the day of Judgment.

b (2) By calling it strong enchantment, they meant that it was a strong magical illusion, not an actual occurrence. But the word mustamirr, translated here as strong, may also mean transient, i.e., a thing which has occurred and passed away, or continuous in the sense that such things have been taking place of old.

c (3) The words may mean that every affair must draw to an end, the reference being to the opposition which was being offered to the Prophet.

availed;^a ⁶so turn away from them. On the day when the Inviter invites them to a hard task — ⁷their eyes cast down, they will go forth from their graves as if they were scattered locusts, ⁸hastening to the Inviter. The disbelievers will say: This is a hard day!^b

9 Before them the people of Noah rejected — they rejected Our servant and called (him) mad, and he was driven away. ¹⁰So he called upon his Lord: I am overcome, so help (me). ¹¹Then We opened the gates of heaven with water pouring down, ¹²and made water to flow forth in the land in springs, so the water gathered together according to a measure already ordained. ¹³And We bore him on (a vessel) made of planks and nails, ¹⁴floating on, before Our eyes — a reward for him who was denied.^c ¹⁵And certainly We left it as a sign, but is there anyone who will be mindful?^d ¹⁶How (terrible) was then My punishment and My warning! ¹⁷And certainly We have made the Quran easy to remember, but is there anyone who will be mindful?

18 Ād denied; how (terrible) was then My punishment and My warning! ¹⁹Surely We sent on them a furious wind in a day of bitter ill-luck, ²⁰tearing people away as if they were trunks of uprooted palm-trees. ²¹How (terrible) was then My punishment and My warning! ²²And certainly We have made the Quran easy to remember, but is there anyone who will be mindful?

a (5) The fate of the ancients, of whom narratives are recited, should have prevented the opponents of Truth from following in their footsteps.

b (8) The commentators make all verses of this kind apply to the life after death, but comparison with the fate of other people, whose stories are narrated by way of illustration, shows clearly that the punishment of this life is also meant. The hard day of trouble overtakes the opponents of Truth in this life as well, and the Hereafter only brings it in a more palpable, and therefore more terrible, form. The Inviter is the Prophet, who invites them to truth, and the graves as applying to this life may signify their homes because they were spiritually dead.

c (14) The boat in which Noah and his companions were saved, spoken of in v. 13 as made of ordinary planks and nails, is here described as floating on before Our eyes, meaning that it was the mercy of God that saved the boat.

d (15) The fate of Noah's people is a sign to the deniers of the Holy Prophet. Compare 51:37–46, where a sign is said to be left in the people of Noah, in Moses' enemies, in Ād and in Thamūd.

Section 2: Thamūd and Lot's People

23 Thamūd rejected the warning. ²⁴So they said: What! One single mortal from among us! Shall we follow him? We shall then be in sure error and distress. ²⁵Has the reminder been sent to him from among us? No, he is an insolent liar! ²⁶Tomorrow they will know who is the liar, the insolent one. ²⁷Surely We are going to send the she-camel as a trial for them; so watch them and have patience. ²⁸And inform them that the water is shared between them; (but) every share of the water shall be attended (by the she-camel).^a ²⁹But they called their companion, so he took (a sword) and hamstrung (her). ³⁰How (terrible) was then My punishment and My warning! ³¹Surely We sent upon them a single cry, so they were like dry fragments of wood that a fence-maker uses.^b ³²And certainly We have made the Quran easy to remember, but is there anyone who will be mindful?

33 The people of Lot rejected the warning. ³⁴Surely We sent upon them a stone-storm,^c except Lot's followers; We saved them a little before daybreak — ³⁵a favour from Us. Thus do We reward him who gives thanks. ³⁶And certainly he warned them of Our violent seizure, but they disputed the warning. ³⁷And certainly they endeavoured to turn him from his guests, but We blinded their eyes;^d so taste My punishment and My warning. ³⁸And certainly a lasting punishment came upon them in the morning. ³⁹So taste My punishment and My warning. ⁴⁰And certainly We have made the Quran easy to remember, but is there anyone who will be mindful?

a (28) Water is here said to be shared between them, i.e., between the people themselves. "Every share of the water shall be attended" by the she-camel, signifies that the water shall not be withheld from her on account of its division.

b (31) The punishment was a severe earthquake which destroyed people and their houses.

c (34) It was a volcanic eruption. Stones mixed with ashes were rained upon them.

d (37) They endeavoured to prevent him taking his guests into his house, but were unable to see their way to it.

Section 3: Pharaoh and the Prophet's Opponents

41 And certainly the warning came to Pharaoh's people. ⁴²They rejected all Our signs, so We caught them with the seizing of the Mighty, the Powerful. ⁴³Are your disbelievers better than these, or have you (been granted) an immunity in the scriptures? ⁴⁴Or do they say: We are an army allied together to help each other? ⁴⁵Soon shall the armies be routed, and they will show (their) backs.^a ⁴⁶Indeed, the Hour is their promised time, and the Hour is most grievous and bitter.^b ⁴⁷Surely the guilty are in error and distress. ⁴⁸On the day when they are dragged into the Fire upon their faces: Taste the touch of hell.^c ⁴⁹Surely We have created everything according to a measure.^d ⁵⁰And Our command is but once, as the twinkling of an eye. ⁵¹And certainly We destroyed your fellows, but is there anyone who will be mindful?

52 And everything they do is in the writings. ⁵³And everything small and great is written down. ⁵⁴Surely the dutiful will be among Gardens and rivers, ⁵⁵in the seat of truth, with a most Powerful King.

a (45) It is related that the Holy Prophet prayed within his tent on the day of Badr, saying: "O Lord, I beseech You according to Your covenant and Your promise; O Lord, if such is Your will (i.e. defeat for the Muslims), You may not be served after this day". Abu Bakr took his hand and said: "Allah is sufficient for you, O Messenger of Allah". So the Holy Prophet went out and he recited the verses 45–46 occurring here (Bukhari, 56:89). This shows how the Holy Prophet and his companions read prophecies of the vanquishment of the opponents in words relating apparently to the Hereafter.

b (46) The report referred to in the last footnote shows that the Holy Prophet understood the Hour to mean the hour or time of the discomfiture of the Quraish, and looked upon the battle of Badr as fulfilling this prophecy.

c (48) The Quraish who were slain at Badr were removed to a pit for burial, and the Holy Prophet is reported as having addressed them thus: "Surely we have found true what our Lord promised us: have you too found true what your Lord promised you?" The punishment of this life is called here a touch of hell.

d (49) So that even nations and people cannot go beyond a certain limit.

Chapter 55

Al-Raḥmān

The Beneficent

This chapter takes its title from the name of God, The Beneficent, with which it begins, and the entire chapter speaks of the beneficence of Allah to human beings both in material and spiritual terms. It opens with the statement that the revelation of the Quran is due to Divine beneficence, and goes on to mention the means for man's physical sustenance created due to the same beneficence. Then it speaks of the judgment to overtake the guilty who reject the spiritual benefits provided for them and the reward of the faithful who avail themselves of those benefits. The chapter belongs to the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Divine Beneficence

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 The Beneficent — 2He taught the Quran.^a 3He created man, 4taught him expression. 5The sun and the moon follow a reckoning, 6and the herbs and the trees adore (Him).^b 7And the heaven, He raised it high, and He set up the measure,^c 8that you may not exceed the measure. 9So maintain the balance with justice, nor fall short in the measure.

a (2) Al-Raḥmān is the Beneficent God Who brought things into existence for the sustenance of man before his creation. Man has not earned them. The same Beneficent God, we are here told, has taught the Quran, which is a necessity for the spiritual life of man. It is a Divine gift for the spiritual sustenance of man, like so many gifts for his physical sustenance.

b (6) Everything created, from those large bodies in the heavens to the smallest herbs that grow on land, follows a law. Is not, then, a law needed for the spiritual perfection of man? Najm means star as well as herb.

c (7) The word mīzān in the Quran does not signify a pair of scales for weighing things, but a measure, as signifying any standard of comparison, estimation, or judgment, and the term is here, as elsewhere, used in this broad sense. See 57:25, where the mīzān is that which enables people to be just in their actions. See also 42:17 footnote.

10 And the earth, He has set it for (His) creatures; ¹¹in it are fruits, and palms having sheathed clusters, ¹²and the grain with (its) husk and fragrance.^a ¹³Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?^b

14 He created man from dry clay like earthen vessels, ¹⁵and He created the jinn of a flame of fire.^c ¹⁶Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

17 Lord of the two Easts, and Lord of the two Wests.^d ¹⁸Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

19 He has made the two seas to flow freely — they meet: ²⁰between them is a barrier which they cannot pass.^e ²¹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ²²From them both, a (12) The husk or the outer covering is generally considered to be a worthless thing. In speaking of it as one of the bounties of God it is hinted that even the husk can be turned into a useful and valuable thing. In contrast with the husk is mentioned the fragrance, which resembles the spirit in the body. Neither should the outer form of the Divine law be considered to be a thing of no use, nor should the spirit of the law be neglected.

b (13) This verse is repeated several times in this chapter. In the original the dual form is used rather than the plural, and thus what is translated here as your Lord is the Lord of you two. The dual form is sometimes used in Arabic to give force to the meaning. If the dual is taken literally, the two classes addressed are the believers and the disbelievers or the strong and the weak, divisions which are of frequent occurrence in the Quran. Believers and disbelievers are specially referred to in the concluding words of the last chapter (54:47–55).

c (15) For the creation of jinn from fire see 7:12, 15:27 and footnotes there, where it is contrasted with the creation of man from earth.

d (17) The two Easts and the two Wests signify the different points of the horizon at which the sun rises and sets at the summer and winter solstice. In modern terminology, the two Easts are the Near or the Middle East and the Far East; the two Wests are Europe and America.

e (20) The two seas are mentioned in 25:53 and 35:12 as the sweet-water sea and the salt-water sea. See footnote on 25:53. In 35:12, as here, it is stated also that from both seas fresh flesh and ornaments are obtained; the significance being that useful men would continue to arise from among both believers and non-believers. Some understand that the Red and the Mediterranean Seas are meant. These seas were separated formerly, but are now united by the Suez Canal, and the verse is considered to contain a prophetic mention of this union.

come forth pearls, large and small. ²³Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ²⁴And His are the ships rising high in the sea like mountains. ²⁵Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

Section 2: Judgment of the Guilty

26 Everyone on it passes away — ²⁷and there endures forever the person of your Lord, the Lord of glory and honour. ²⁸Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ²⁹All those in the heavens and the earth ask of Him. Every moment He is in a state (of glory). ³⁰Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

31 Soon shall We apply Ourselves to you, O you two armies.^a ³²Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ³³O assembly of jinn and people, if you are able to pass through the regions of the heavens and the earth, then pass through. You cannot pass through but with authority.^b ³⁴Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ³⁵Flames of fire and sparks of brass will be sent upon you, then you will not be able to defend yourselves.^c ³⁶Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

37 So when the heaven is split apart, so it becomes red like red hide. ³⁸Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ³⁹So on that day neither man nor jinn will be asked about his sin. ⁴⁰Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

a (31) The two armies here are the believers and the disbelievers, and Allah's applying Himself to them signifies the judging of their case so that each should have its reward or punishment.

b (33) The jinn and the people of this verse are the great and the small opponents of the Holy Prophet or the foreigners and the Arabs. (Editor's Note: The words "You cannot pass through but with authority" may also be rendered as: "You cannot escape from the kingdom (of Allah)". This may be a reference to man's flights into space, the meaning being that man cannot escape the laws and judgment of God whether on the earth or anywhere beyond it.)

c (35) This seems to be a reference to the terrible weapons of modern warfare. See also 73:17–18.

⁴¹The guilty will be known by their marks, so they shall be seized by the forelocks and the feet. ⁴²Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁴³This is the hell which the guilty deny. ⁴⁴Round about shall they go between it and hot, boiling water. ⁴⁵Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

Section 3: Reward of the Righteous

46 And for him who fears to stand before his Lord are two Gardens.^a ⁴⁷Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁴⁸Full of varieties. ⁴⁹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁵⁰In both of them are two fountains flowing. ⁵¹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁵²In both of them are pairs of every fruit. ⁵³Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁵⁴Reclining on beds, whose inner coverings are of silk brocade. And the fruits of the two Gardens are within reach. ⁵⁵Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁵⁶There-in are those restraining their glances, whom no man nor jinn has touched before them. ⁵⁷Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁵⁸As though they were rubies and pearls.^b ⁵⁹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

60 Is the reward of goodness anything but goodness? ⁶¹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny?

62 And besides those two are two (other) Gardens.^c ⁶³Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁶⁴Both of deepest a (46) The reward of the righteous is spoken of here as two Gardens, i.e., a Garden in this life and a Garden in the Hereafter. The Garden of this life is the spiritual bliss which the righteous find here in the doing of good, of which gardens and rivers and fruits are symbols. There may also be a deeper reference here to the worldly conquests which the Muslims were promised.

b (58) So far as there is a description of the spiritual blessings of the Hereafter in these words, see 52:20 footnote. So far as it relates to this life, the chaste and modest wives of the faithful are meant.

c (62) The faithful are spoken of in the next chapter as belonging to two classes: the ordinary believers, or those on the right hand, and the foremost (56:8, 10); hence the two Gardens of this verse as compared with the two Gardens of v. 46; or, by the two Gardens of v. 46, are meant the Gardens of the Hereafter and by the two Gardens of this verse are meant the Gardens of this world.

green. ⁶⁵Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁶⁶In both of them are two springs gushing forth. ⁶⁷Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁶⁸In both of them are fruits and palms and pomegranates. ⁶⁹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁷⁰Therein are goodly beautiful ones.^a ⁷¹Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁷²Pure ones confined to pavilions. ⁷³Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁷⁴No man nor jinn has touched them before them. ⁷⁵Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁷⁶Reclining on green cushions and beautiful carpets. ⁷⁷Which then of the bounties of your Lord will you deny? ⁷⁸Blessed be the name of your Lord, the Lord of Glory and Honour!

^a (70) See v. 58 footnote and 52:20 footnote.

Chapter 56

Al-Wāqī‘ah

The Event

The Event referred to in the first verse, from which the title of this chapter is taken, is the time of the meting out of reward and punishment to the faithful and their opponents respectively. It begins by stating that people will be divided into three classes: the foremost among the faithful, the other believers and the opponents. Then it speaks of the judgment upon them, the three classes each receiving what they deserve. The chapter is an early revelation at Makkah.

Section 1: Three Classes of People

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the Event comes to pass ^a — ²there is no denying its coming to pass — ³degrading (some), exalting (others) — ⁴when the earth is shaken with a (severe) shaking, ⁵and the mountains are crumbled to pieces, ^b ⁶so they are as scattered dust, ⁷and you are three sorts.

8 So those on the right hand; how (happy) are those on the right hand! ⁹And those on the left; how (wretched) are those on the left! ¹⁰And the foremost (in doing good) are the foremost (in reaping reward) — ¹¹these are drawn near (to Allah). ¹²In Gardens of bliss. ¹³A multitude from among the first, ¹⁴and a few from among those of later times, ^c ¹⁵on thrones well-woven, ¹⁶reclining a (1) The Quran speaks of the Hour or the Event not only as signifying the Resurrection, but also very frequently as signifying the doom of its opponents. That doom was, in fact, a foretaste of what they would suffer in the life after death; this is made clear in v. 3.

b (5) The crumbling of the mountains signifies the fall of great opponents; see 20:105 footnote.

c (14) Those who accepted the Holy Prophet in the earlier stages of his mission, and had to make greater sacrifices, had a greater reward; but there were others who waited until Islam was established in the land and made no sacrifices.

on them, facing each other. ¹⁷Round about them will go youths never altering in age,^a ¹⁸with goblets and ewers, and a cup of pure drink — ¹⁹they are not affected with headache by it, nor are they intoxicated, ²⁰and fruits that they choose, ²¹and flesh of fowl that they desire, ²²and pure, beautiful ones, ²³like hidden pearls. ²⁴A reward for what they did. ²⁵They hear therein no idle or sinful talk — ²⁶but only the saying, Peace! Peace!^b

27 And those on the right hand; how (happy) are those on the right hand! ²⁸Amid thornless lote trees, ²⁹and clustered banana trees, ³⁰and extensive shade, ³¹and water gushing, ³²and abundant fruit, ³³neither failing, nor forbidden, ³⁴and exalted couches. ³⁵Surely We have created them as a (new) creation,^c ³⁶so We have made them virgins, ³⁷loving, equals in age,^d ³⁸for those on the right hand. ³⁹A multitude from among the first, ⁴⁰and a multitude from among those of later times.^e

Section 2: The Guilty

41 And those on the left hand; how (wretched) are those on the left hand! ⁴²In hot wind and boiling water, ⁴³and shadow of black smoke, ⁴⁴neither cool nor refreshing. ⁴⁵Surely they lived before that in ease. ⁴⁶And they persisted in the great violation.^f a (17) Because there is no decay in the life after death.

b (26) After various blessings are enumerated, their true nature is depicted in one word, Peace. Peace in this world, and Peace in the Hereafter, such is the message of Islam.

c (35) These words show that the blessings of the next life, whether shades or trees or water or fruits, are all the fruits of deeds which have been created as a new creation.

d (37) As shown in 52:20 footnote, words primarily applicable to women are used to describe some blessings of the next life because womanhood stands as a symbol of purity and beauty. "Equals in age", as already shown in 38:52 footnote, signifies that the growth of those blessings begins with the growth of spiritual life in a person.

e (40) These verses do not contradict verses 13 and 14, as the earlier verses speak only of those who were foremost in accepting the Holy Prophet.

f (46) That is, the violation of Divine commandments.

57 We have created you, why do you not then accept? ⁵⁸Do you see (the semen) which you emit? ⁵⁹Is it you that create it or are We the Creator? ⁶⁰We have ordained death among you and We are not to be overcome, ⁶¹that We may change your state and make you grow into what you do not know.^a ⁶²And certainly you know the first growth, why do you not then be mindful?

63 Do you see what you sow? ⁶⁴Is it you that cause it to grow, or are We the Causer of growth? ⁶⁵If We pleased, We would make it chaff, then would you lament: ⁶⁶Surely we are burdened with debt, ⁶⁷indeed, we are deprived. ⁶⁸Do you see the water which you drink? ⁶⁹Do you bring it down from the clouds, or are We the Bringer? ⁷⁰If We pleased, We could make it saltish; why do you not then give thanks? ⁷¹Do you see the fire which you kindle? ⁷²Is it you that produce the trees for it, or are We the Producer? ⁷³We have made it a reminder and an advantage for the travellers of the desert.^b ⁷⁴So glorify the name of your Lord, the Incomparably Great.

Section 3: Judgment is Inevitable

75 But indeed, I swear by revelation of portions (of the Quran)!^c — ⁷⁶and it is a great oath indeed, if you knew — a (61) In the next life, the present state will be changed, and people will be made to grow into a new creation, which they do not know. It is not the material body of this life, but a new body which grows out of the deeds of a person.

b (73) The fire burned at night points out to the desert traveller a habitation of people, where he will be welcome.

c (75) The meaning adopted suits the context. See 53:1 footnote, where it is

⁷⁷surely it is a bountiful Quran, ⁷⁸in a book that is protected, ⁷⁹which none touches but the purified ones.^a ⁸⁰A revelation from the Lord of the worlds. ⁸¹Is it this announcement that you disdain? ⁸²And make your denial your means of subsistence.^b ⁸³Then why not, when (the soul) comes up to the throat, ⁸⁴and you at that time look on — ⁸⁵and We are nearer to it than you, but you do not see — ⁸⁶then why do you not, if you are not held under authority, ⁸⁷send it back, if you are truthful?^c shown that the word najm meaning star, used here as the plural nujūm, means also a portion of the Quran. The significance of the oath is that every portion of the Quran bears evidence to its own truth.

a (79) The Quran is called karīm (bounteous or bountiful) on account of the benefit which it brought to humanity. V. 78 speaks of it as being protected, by which is meant not only that it will be protected against all attempts to destroy it, but also that it will be protected in all its purity in writing. V. 79 states that it can be touched only by those purified by God. This shows that an understanding of the Quran is granted only to those who are pure in heart. It also shows that the Quran should not be touched by one who is impure. Hence the companions were forbidden to carry the Quran to an enemy's country (Bukhari, 56:129). This further shows that the Quran existed in a written form, as a book, from the first.

b (82) The meaning is that you are bent upon giving the lie to the Quran to such an extent as if to give it the lie were your means of subsistence, without which you could not live.

c (87) The meaning is that if you are your own masters, and not subject to the authority of a Higher Power, why can you not resist death when it comes to you?

Chapter 57

Al-Hadīd

Iron

In reference to the punishment of the opponents who were bent on extirpating Islam with the sword, this chapter is entitled Iron, from the word occurring in v. 25. It opens with a prophecy of the future conquests of Islam, for which Muslims will have to make sacrifices. Then it speaks of the hypocrites and prophesies that, due to the passage of a long time, the hearts of the believers will harden but again they will receive spiritual life after that. It goes on to say that worldly enjoyments are temporary and one should strive for permanent good. The chapter ends with a promise of two kinds of Divine grace which were in store for the believers. Chapters 57–66 constitute the last group of chapters in the Quranic arrangement that were revealed at Madinah. Chapters 57–60, 65 and 66 were revealed in the period 4 A.H. to 7 A.H.

Section 1: Establishment of the Kingdom of God

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Whatever is in the heavens and the earth declares the glory of Allah, and He is the Mighty, the Wise. ²His is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. He gives life and causes death, and He is Powerful over all things. ³He is the First and the Last and the Manifest and the Hidden, and He is Knower of all things.^a

4 He it is Who created the heavens and the earth in six periods, and He is established on the Throne of Power. He knows what goes down into the earth and what comes forth out of it, and what comes down from heaven and what goes up to it. And He is with you wherever you are. And Allah is Seer of what you do.

^a (3) The Holy Prophet has explained the four attributes of the Divine Being mentioned here as follows. He is the First, so that there was nothing before Him, He is the Last, so that there is nothing after Him, He is the Manifest, or the Ascendant over all, so that there is nothing above Him, and He is the Hidden, the Knower of the hidden things, so that there is nothing hidden from Him (Sahih Muslim, 48:13).

⁵His is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth; and to Allah are (all) affairs returned. ⁶He makes the night to pass into the day, and makes the day to pass into the night. And He is Knower of what is in the hearts.

7 Believe in Allah and His Messenger, and spend (on good works) out of that in which He has made you heirs. So those of you who believe and spend — for them is a great reward. ⁸And what reason have you that you do not believe in Allah? And the Messenger invites you to believe in your Lord, and He has indeed accepted your covenant, if you are believers.^a ⁹He it is Who sends down clear messages to His servant, that he may bring you forth from darkness into light. And surely Allah is Kind, Merciful to you. ¹⁰And what reason have you that you do not spend in Allah's way? And Allah's is the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. Those of you who spent before the Victory and fought are not on a level (with others).^b They are greater in rank than those who spent and fought afterwards. But Allah has promised good to all. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

Section 2: Light and Life given by the Prophet

11 Who is it that will offer to Allah a goodly gift, so He will double it for him, and he will have a generous reward. ¹²On that day you will see the believers, men and women, their light gleaming before them and on their right hand.^c Good news for you this day! — Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them! That is the mighty achievement.

13 On the day when the hypocrites, men and women, will say to those who believe: Wait for us, that we may borrow from a (8) The believers, who are addressed, are exhorted to be true to their belief. Belief is thus not mere confession of the Truth but the upholding of it under trials.

b (10) By Victory here is meant the moral victory gained by the Hudaibiyah truce, or the conquest of Makkah, which made Muslims virtually the masters of the whole of Arabia. The sacrifices made earlier had therefore a greater value on account of the trials which Muslims had then to face.

c (12) The light of faith, which was given through the Prophet, will become manifest on the day of Resurrection.

your light. It will be said: Turn back and seek a light. Then a wall, with a door in it, will be raised between them. Within it shall be mercy, and outside of it punishment.^a ¹⁴They will cry out to them: Were we not with you? They will say: Indeed, but you caused yourselves to fall into temptation, and you waited and doubted,^b and vain desires deceived you, till the threatened punishment of Allah came, and the arch-deceiver deceived you about Allah. ¹⁵So this day no ransom will be accepted from you, nor from those who disbelieved. Your abode is the Fire; it is your patron and evil is the destination.^c

16 Has not the time yet come for the believers that their hearts should be humble for the remembrance of Allah and the Truth that is revealed, and (that) they should not be like those who were given the Book before, but time was prolonged for them, so their hearts hardened.^d And most of them are transgressors. ¹⁷Know that Allah gives life to the earth after its death.^e Indeed, We have a (13) Although the hypocrites remained mixed with the believers for a time, yet separation was brought about even in this life towards the close of the Holy Prophet's life. As the Resurrection will bring hidden things to light, the hypocrites will find themselves devoid of light, because they did not possess the light of faith in this life.

b (14) The hypocrites hoped that the Muslims would be annihilated by their powerful opponents.

c (15) The Fire is here called a maulā, or a friend or patron, of the disbelievers, thus showing that it is for their good that they will have to undergo the suffering of fire. Hell is elsewhere also represented to be a place or a state which will ultimately lead to the purification of man, as fire purifies gold of dross. The process of purification, which is in other words hell, is thus a necessary stage in the spiritual perfection of those who do not avail themselves of the opportunity granted to them in this life.

d (16) This verse speaks of Muslims of a later age, for it compares their case to those who were given the scriptures before them and then a long time having passed over them, their hearts hardened. They are reminded that after the passing of a long time, they will fall off from the high standard of the earlier generations, and their hearts will be hardened like the hearts of the earlier people.

e (18) Having spoken of the falling off of the Muslims of a later age, the good news is here announced that, after that, the dead earth will be generated with a new life, the life spiritual. The next verse then goes on to add that it will be made the signs clear for you that you may understand.

18 The men who give in charity and the women who give in charity and set apart for Allah a goodly portion, it will be doubled for them, and theirs is a generous reward. ¹⁹And those who believe in Allah and His messengers, they are the truthful and the faithful ones with their Lord. They have their reward and their light. And those who disbelieve and reject Our messages, they are the inmates of hell.

Section 3: Truth shall be established

20 Know that this world's life is only an idle sport and play and an attraction and boasting among yourselves and a race in the multiplication of wealth and children.^a It is as rain, whose causing the vegetation to grow pleases the tillers, then it withers away so that you see it turning yellow, then it becomes chaff.^b And in the Hereafter is a severe punishment, and (also) forgiveness from Allah and (His) pleasure.^c And this world's life is nothing but a source of vanity.

21 Vie with one another for forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as vast as the vastness of the heaven and the earth ^d — it is through the sacrifices of a part of them that the Muslim nation will again be raised to eminence.

a (20-1) This world's life here means the material side of life. It is entirely a pursuit of unreality. Individuals as well as nations are, as it were, racing for the transitory goods of this life, for means of adorning the outside, for riches and gaiety, utterly neglecting the higher values of life which are pointed out in v. 21.

b (20-2) The material side of life is here likened to the growth of vegetation which flourishes for a time and then decays. Even thus we see individuals and nations rising to prosperity and then falling back on evil days.

c (20-3) Note how Divine forgiveness is constantly mentioned when punishment is spoken of, to show that the attribute of mercy is the predominant attribute of the Divine nature.

d (21) The Garden or the Paradise is here said to be as extensive as the heavens and the earth, and a similar statement occurs in 3:133. It shows clearly that heaven and hell are not the names of two places, but are really two conditions, because if paradise were the name of a particular place, hell could not exist, as paradise would according to these verses extend over the whole of space.

prepared for those who believe in Allah and His messengers. That is the grace of Allah; He gives it to whom He pleases. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace. ²²No disaster befalls in the earth, or in yourselves, but it is in a book before We bring it into existence ^a — surely that is easy to Allah — ²³so that you may not grieve for what has escaped you, nor exult in what He has given you. And Allah does not love any arrogant boaster, ²⁴such as are miserly and enjoin miserliness on people. And whoever turns back, then surely Allah is the Self-Sufficient, the Praised.

25 Certainly We sent Our messengers with clear arguments, and sent down with them the Book and the measure, that people may conduct themselves with equity.^b And We sent down iron, in which is great violence and advantages for people,^c and that Allah may know who helps Him and His messengers, unseen. Surely Allah is Strong, Mighty.

a (22) The book here means Divine knowledge. Disaster is here spoken of as befalling in the earth or in yourselves, i.e., it either affects the people of the world generally or the Muslims in particular. In view of v. 16, relating to the lapse of a long time and the hardening of the hearts of the Muslims, it is easy to see that the disasters which are predicted as befalling the Muslims in the latter days are due to their own falling off from the high standard of life which they were required to follow, and hence the remedy suggested is again the making of sacrifices as pointed out in v. 18.

b (25-1) See 42:17 footnote and 55:7 footnote. Here the measure is spoken of as being sent down with messengers of God along with the Book. Now the Book contains the Divine commandments or the moral code of life, and the measure is therefore clearly the example of the Prophet, who by carrying out the Divine commandments shows how the directions contained in the Book are to be followed.

c (25-2) Iron has proved of great utility to man and has played an all-important part in civilization. It should be noted that the sending down of a thing also means causing it to grow or bringing the means of it into existence. Hence we find this expression used in the Quran with reference to the clothes that man wears (7:26), and to cattle (39:6), etc. The mention of iron undoubtedly refers to the resistance against the enemy, which as a last resort had to be effected with the sword — that Allah may know who helps Him and His messengers, unseen. This help was rendered by the faithful by taking up the sword in defence of the faith.

Section 4: Double Reward for Believers

26 And certainly We sent Noah and Abraham, and We gave prophethood and the Book to their offspring; so some of them go aright, but most of them are transgressors. ²⁷Then We made Our messengers to follow in their footsteps, and We made Jesus son of Mary to follow, and We gave him the Gospel. And We put compassion and mercy in the hearts of those who followed him. And (as for) monkery, they innovated it — We did not prescribe it to them — only to seek Allah’s pleasure, but they did not observe it with its due observance.^a So We gave those of them who believed their reward, but most of them are transgressors.

28 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah and believe in His Messenger — He will give you two portions of His mercy,^b and give you a light in which you shall walk, and forgive you. And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful — ²⁹that the People of the Book may know that they control nothing of the grace of Allah, and that grace is in Allah’s hand. He gives it to whom He pleases. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace.^c a (27) Muslims were now becoming a great nation, and as they were brought up in the utmost simplicity, and were also enjoined to disdain the gaiety of this life, they are told that while retaining their simplicity of life they should not stoop to practices like that of monkery. They are thus required to keep the balance between the material and moral sides of life. Christians innovated monkery but failed to attain the object for which they adopted it.

b (28) By the two portions of mercy are meant their portion in this world and their portion in the Hereafter. A Muslim is thus required to enjoy the worldly benefits but not to the neglect of his moral responsibilities. Christian civilization started with monkery and has ended in engrossment in the world to the utter neglect of the spiritual side. The history of Islam on the other hand shows temporal and spiritual advancement going hand in hand. The only lasting civilization is one which offers a middle course, and chalks out a way, by walking in which man can attain material along with spiritual advancement. Hence the next verse speaks clearly of the People of the Book.

c (29) The People of the Book or the Christians are here told that they do not control Allah’s grace. They wanted first to control His spiritual grace by monkery, but failed. Later, they have tried to control His material grace and bounties by their entire engrossment in worldly pursuits, but even their material advancement is leading to their ruin, because it is not being balanced by spiritual progress.

Al-Mujādilah The Pleading Woman

The title of this chapter is taken from the event narrated at its opening which mentions a woman pleading a complaint about her husband before the Holy Prophet. The husband had, in accordance with an old Arab custom, put her away by calling her as his “mother”, which placed the wife in a state where she neither had marital rights nor was divorced. The chapter begins by abolishing this custom. Then it condemns secret counsels, allowing them only for purposes of discussing good works. It ends by cautioning Muslims not to have friendship with those who opposed and conspired against Islam. This chapter was revealed in about 4 A.H.

Section 1: Safeguarding Women’s Rights

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

Part 28

1 Allah indeed has heard the plea of her who pleads with you about her husband and complains to Allah; and Allah hears the contentions of both of you.^a Surely Allah is Hearing, Seeing.² Those of you who put away their wives by calling them their mothers — they are not their mothers. None are their mothers except those who gave them birth, and they utter indeed a hateful word and a lie. And surely Allah is Pardoning, Forgiving.³ And those who put away their wives by calling them their mothers, then go back on what they said, must free a captive before they touch one another. To this you are exhorted; and Allah is Aware of what you do. ⁴But he who does not have the means should fast for two months successively before they touch one another, and he who is unable to do so should feed sixty needy ones. That is in order that you may have faith in Allah and His Messenger. And these are Allah's limits. And for the disbelievers is a painful punishment.

^a (1) The woman referred to was Khaulah or Khuwailah, wife of Aus ibn Samit, who was separated by her husband in an old Arab form, the husband saying to the wife, You are to me as the back of my mother. See also 33:4 footnote, for this practice of zihār, and its abolition by Islam. The woman complained about it to the Holy Prophet, who said that, as he had no revelation about it, he could not interfere. Then Aus wanted her to have conjugal relations with him, but she refused and came to the Prophet complaining of his bad temper. The Prophet wanted her to be more lenient but she was not willing. It was then that the Prophet received this revelation, according to which it was necessary that the husband should in such cases make an expiation before re-establishing conjugal rights.

5 Surely those who oppose Allah and His Messenger will be humbled as those before them were humbled,^a and indeed We have revealed clear messages. And for the disbelievers is a humiliating punishment. ⁶On the day when Allah will raise them all together, then inform them of what they did. Allah records it, while they forget it. And Allah is Witness over all things.

Section 2: Secret Counsels condemned

7 Do you not see that Allah knows whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth? There is no secret counsel between three but He is the fourth of them, nor between five but He is the sixth of them, nor between less than that nor more but He is with them wherever they are; then He will inform them of what they did on the day of Resurrection. Surely Allah is Knower of all things.^b

8 Do you not see those who are forbidden secret counsels, then they return to what they are forbidden, and hold secret counsels for sin and revolt and disobedience to the Messenger. And when they come to you they greet you with a greeting with which Allah a (5) Those who would not abide by the Divine commandments regarding the treatment of women are here told that this was not a light matter. They were in the ranks of those who opposed the Prophet.

b (7) The hypocrites and the Jews conspired with the enemies of Islam to destroy the Muslim community of Madinah. There is a brief reference to their plots in 4:114: "There is no good in most of their secret counsels". Such plots are mentioned in greater detail here, and they are told that these secret plots are known to Allah, and they cannot succeed in bringing harm to Islam.

does not greet you,^a and say within themselves: Why does not Allah punish us for what we say? Hell is enough for them, they will burn in it, and evil is the destination!

9 O you who believe, when you confer together in private, do not give to each other counsel of sin and revolt and disobedience to the Messenger, but give to each other counsel of goodness and observance of duty.^b And keep your duty to Allah, to Whom you will be gathered together. 10 Secret counsels are only of the devil that he may cause to grieve those who believe, and he cannot hurt them at all except with Allah's permission. And on Allah let the believers rely.^c

11 O you who believe, when it is said to you, Make room in assemblies, make room. Allah will give you ample (room). And when it is said, Rise up, rise up.^d Allah will exalt those of you who believe, and those who are given knowledge, to high ranks. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

12 O you who believe, when you consult the Messenger, offer something in charity before your consultation. That is better for you and purer. But if you do not have (the means), then surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. 13 Do you fear that you will not (be able to) give in charity before your consultation? So when you do not do it, and Allah has turned to you (mercifully), keep up prayer and give the due (obligatory) charity and obey Allah and His Messenger. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

a (8) The meaning is that they invoke death and destruction for you (i.e. for the Prophet), while Allah wishes that you should live and prosper.

b (9) Secret counsels and secret societies are condemned, but private counsels to promote the cause of goodness and service of humanity are quite different from the subversive activities of secret societies.

c (10) Secret societies denounced in the above verses would not be able to achieve their mischievous object against Islam.

d (11) The progress of Islam brought large numbers of people into its fold who stood in need of being taught manners as well as morals. In their assemblies they crowded and pressed upon each other in order to be able to sit nearest to the Prophet. The injunction to make room in assemblies means, either that room should be made for others, or that the people should not sit too close to each other.

Section 3: Internal Enemy to be guarded against 14 Have you not seen those who take for friends a people with whom Allah is displeased? They are neither of you nor of them, and they swear falsely, while they know. ¹⁵Allah has prepared for them a severe punishment. Evil indeed is what they do! ¹⁶They take shelter under their oaths, so they turn (people) from Allah's way; for them is a humiliating punishment. ¹⁷Of no avail against Allah, will be to them their wealth or their children. They are the companions of the Fire; in it they will abide. ¹⁸On the day when Allah will raise them all up, they will swear to Him as they swear to you, and they think that they have some (excuse). Now surely they are the liars. ¹⁹The devil has gained mastery over them, so he has made them forget the remembrance of Allah. They are the devil's party. Now surely the devil's party are the losers.

20 Those who oppose Allah and His Messenger, they shall be among the most degraded. ²¹Allah has written down: I shall certainly prevail, I and My messengers. Surely Allah is Strong, Mighty.^a ²²You will not find a people who believe in Allah and the Last Day^b loving those who oppose Allah and His Messenger, even though they be their fathers, or their sons, or their brothers, or their kinsfolk.^c These are they into whose hearts He has impressed faith, and strengthened them with a Spirit from Himself, and He will make them enter Gardens in which rivers flow, abiding in them. Allah is well-pleased with them and they are well-pleased with Him. These are Allah's party. Now surely it is Allah's party who are the successful!

a (21) Note the certain conviction of the final triumph of Truth, which is expressed here. The next verse concludes with similar words: Surely it is Allah's party who are the successful.

b (22-1) The Muslims are the people who believe in Allah and the Last Day.

c (22-2) In a state of war between the two parties, friendly relations with the hostile tribes were prohibited, and these would have resulted in great harm to the weaker community of the Muslims. As to those who were not actually engaged in hostilities against the Muslims, see the express directions contained in 60:8.

Chapter 59

Al-Hashr

The Banishment

This chapter deals with the banishment of a Jewish tribe, called Bani Nadir, from Madinah. They had made a treaty with the Holy Prophet to remain neutral between him and his enemies from Makkah, but later broke this treaty and made an alliance with them. The chapter deals with their banishment and shows that the hypocrites, after giving them promises of help, failed to fulfil them. It ends with a beautiful exposition of some of the attributes of God. This chapter was revealed in 4 A.H.

Section 1: The Exiled Jews

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies Allah; and He is the Mighty, the Wise. ²He it is Who caused those who disbelieved from among the People of the Book to go forth from their homes at the first banishment. You did not think that they would go forth, while they thought that their fortresses would defend them against Allah. But Allah came to them from a place they did not expect and cast terror into their hearts — they demolished their houses with their own hands and the hands of the believers. So take a lesson, O you who have eyes!^a a (2) The Bani Nadir made a treaty with the Holy Prophet to stand neutral between him and his enemies. When he was victorious at Badr, they said that he was the Prophet promised in the Torah, but when the Muslims suffered a loss at Uhud, they repudiated their vow, broke the agreement and tried to make an alliance with the Makkans. The Holy Prophet told the tribe to leave Madinah. They wanted ten days for preparation, but Abdullah ibn Ubayy (the head of the hypocrites) advised them not to leave Madinah but to fight against the Prophet, promising the help of his own men. So they fortified themselves within their strongholds. After having remained besieged for twenty-one days, and having despaired of help from the hypocrites, they surrendered. The Prophet raised the siege on condition that they should depart from Madinah. With the exception of two families that chose to remain at Khaibar, they all went to Syria. The Bani

3 And if Allah had not decreed for them the exile, He would certainly have punished them in this world; and for them in the Hereafter is the punishment of the Fire. 4That is because they were opposed to Allah and His Messenger, and whoever is opposed to Allah, surely Allah is Severe in retribution. 5Whatever palm-tree you cut down or leave it standing upon its roots, it is by Allah's permission, and that He may disgrace the transgressors.

6 And whatever Allah restored to His Messenger from them, you did not press forward against it any horse or any riding-camel, but Allah gives authority to His messengers against whom He pleases. And Allah is Powerful over all things. 7Whatever Allah restored to His Messenger from the people of the towns, it is for Allah and for the Messenger, and for the near of kin and the orphans and the needy and the traveller, so that it is not taken by turns by the rich among you.^a And whatever the Messenger gives you, accept it, and whatever he forbids you, abstain (from it); and keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Severe in retribution. 8(It is) for the poor who fled, who were driven from their homes and their possessions, seeking grace of Allah and (His) pleasure, and helping Allah and His Messenger. These it is that are the truthful.^b

9 And those who made their abode in the City (of Madinah) and in faith before them love those who have fled to them, and find in their hearts no need of what they are given, and prefer (them) before themselves, though poverty may afflict them. And

Naḍīr, being granted ten days in which to collect and take with them such of their property as they desired, devoted the time at their disposal to the destruction of their houses, lest they should be a source of strength to the Muslims. What remained of them was demolished by the Muslims.

a (7) This verse relates to property acquired in war without fighting, while 8:41 deals with property acquired through fighting. The whole of the property mentioned here was to be distributed in exactly the same manner as the one-fifth of the kind of acquisitions spoken of in 8:41, i.e. for the benefit of the Muslims in general; see footnote under 8:41. The Prophet's share out of this ("for Allah and for the Messenger") was considered part of the public treasury.

b (8) It was only the poor among the refugees, who had lost all their wealth and homes and were still so poor that they could not carry on any business of their own, who received something from what the Bani Nadir left.

whoever is saved from the greediness of his soul, these it is that are the successful.^a ¹⁰And those who come after them say: Our Lord, forgive us and our brethren who preceded us in faith, and leave no spite in our hearts towards those who believe. Our Lord, surely You are Kind, Merciful.^b

Section 2: Hypocrites fail in Promise to the Jews

11 Have you not seen the hypocrites? They say to their brethren who disbelieve from among the People of the Book: If you are expelled, we certainly will go forth with you, and we will never obey anyone concerning you; and if you are fought against, we will certainly help you. And Allah bears witness that they surely are liars.^c ¹²If they are expelled, they will not go forth with them, and if they are fought against, they will not help them; and even if they help them, they will certainly turn (their) backs; then they shall not be helped. ¹³Your fear in their hearts is indeed greater than Allah's. That is because they are a people who do not understand.

14 They will not fight against you unitedly except in fortified towns or from behind walls. Their fighting between them is severe. You would think them united, but their hearts are divided. That is a (9) By those who made their abode in the City and in faith are meant the Anṣār or the Helpers, i.e., the Muslim residents of Madinah. The meaning is that they made an abode in the city of the Prophet and the faith; the faith being likened to a place of abode. Before them signifies before their (i.e., the Muhājirīn or Emigrants) coming to Madinah. When the Muslims emigrated from Makkah, the Helpers received them as if they were their brothers, lodging them in their own houses, and many of them were still living in the houses of their benefactors, when the banishment of the Bani Nadir took place. The Helpers were willing that the refugees alone should have a share, and, despite that, they might continue to lodge in their houses.

b (10) This verse contains two directions for all future Muslim generations, namely, to pray for the forgiveness of earlier generations that have passed away before them and to pray for their hearts to be free from all spite towards their living Muslim brethren.

c (11) The hypocrites deceived the Jews with false promises, and thus encouraged them to fight against the Prophet.

because they are a people who have no sense. ¹⁵Like those before them shortly, they tasted the evil consequences of their conduct, and for them is a painful punishment. ¹⁶Like the devil when he says to man: Disbelieve. But when he disbelieves, he says: I am free of you, surely I fear Allah, the Lord of the worlds. ¹⁷So the end of both of them is that they are both in the Fire, to abide in it. And that is the reward of the wrongdoers.

Section 3: An Exhortation

18 O you who believe, keep your duty to Allah, and let every soul consider what it sends ahead for tomorrow, and keep your duty to Allah. Surely Allah is Aware of what you do. ¹⁹And do not be like those who forget Allah, so He makes them forget their own souls. These are the transgressors. ²⁰Not alike are the companions of the Fire and the owners of the Garden. The owners of the Garden are the achievers.

21 If We had sent down this Quran on a mountain, you would certainly have seen it falling down, splitting apart because of the fear of Allah. And We set forth these parables to people that they may reflect.

22 He is Allah besides Whom there is no God: the Knower of the unseen and the seen; He is the Beneficent, the Merciful.^a ²³He is Allah, besides Whom there is no God: the King, the Holy, the Author of Peace, the Granter of Security, Guardian over all, the Mighty, the Supreme, the Possessor of greatness. Glory be to Allah from what they set up as partners (with Him)! ²⁴He is Allah, the Creator, the Maker, the Fashioner: His are the most beautiful names. Whatever is in the heavens and the earth declares His glory; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

^a (22) From this verse to the end we have a most beautiful collection of the Divine names.

Chapter 60

Al-Mumtahanah

The Woman Tested

This chapter is so named because of the command in v. 10 to test those women of the idolaters who came to the Muslims for the purpose of embracing Islam, to see if they were sincere in their motives, and in that case to offer them refuge. It opens with an instruction to Muslims not to have loving relations with those enemies who had driven them out from their homes and were bent on destroying them. It goes on to add that friendly relations can be had with those who do not fight against the Muslims or expel them from their homes. This chapter was very likely revealed in 7 A.H.

Section 1: Friendly Relations with Enemies

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O you who believe, do not take My enemy and your enemy for friends. Would you offer them love, while they deny the Truth that has come to you, driving out the Messenger and yourselves because you believe in Allah, your Lord?^a If you have come forth to strive in My way and to seek My pleasure, would you love them in secret? And I know what you conceal and what you manifest. And whoever of you does this, he indeed strays from the straight path.

2 If they overcome you, they will be your enemies, and will stretch forth their hands and their tongues towards you with evil,^b and they desire that you may disbelieve. ³Your relationships and your children would not benefit you, on the day of Resurrection — He will decide between you. And Allah is Seer of what you do.

a (1) Note that the reason given for not taking the disbelievers as friends is that they are the enemies of Allah and His Messenger, who drove out the Prophet and the Muslims from their homes. Verses 8–9 give a full explanation.

b (2) That is, they would kill you with their hands and revile you with their tongues.

4 Indeed, there is for you a good example in Abraham and those with him, when they said to their people: We are clear of you and of what you serve besides Allah. We disbelieve in you and there has arisen enmity and hatred between us and you forever until you believe in Allah alone — except Abraham's saying to his sire: I would ask forgiveness for you, and I control nothing at all for you from Allah.^a Our Lord, on You do we rely, and to You do we turn, and to You is the eventual coming. ⁵Our Lord, do not make us a (means of) trial for those who disbelieve, and forgive us, our Lord. Surely You are the Mighty, the Wise. ⁶Certainly there is for you in them a good example, for him who hopes for Allah and the Last Day. And whoever turns away, surely Allah is the Self-Sufficient, the Praised.

Section 2: Friendly Relations with Non-Muslims

7 It may be that Allah will bring about friendship between you and those of them whom you hold as enemies. And Allah is Powerful; and Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^b

8 Allah does not forbid you, with regard to those who do not fight you for religion, nor drive you forth from your homes, that you show them kindness and deal with them justly. Surely Allah loves the doers of justice.^c ⁹Allah forbids you only with regard to a (4) This sire was not Abraham's father; see also 6:74, 9:114 and 19:47. Abraham's example is quoted to show how loving and tender he was towards his people, yet, when it became clear to him that they were bent upon uprooting the Truth, even Abraham could not maintain relations of friendship with them. The Holy Prophet and his companions were in like manner now obliged to renounce all relationships of friendship with a people who were not only the avowed enemies of the Muslims but also in a state of continual war with them.

b (7) This verse makes it clear that the prohibition against friendly relations with the disbelievers was only temporary, to be operative only so long as the war continued. The friendship prophetically referred to here was brought about after the conquest of Makkah.

c (8) This verse and the next, revealed at a time when the relations between Muslims and the disbelievers were most strained on account of a continual state of war between the two parties, settle conclusively that friendly relations between Muslims and non-Muslims, as such, are not prohibited. It is in the light of these verses that all the verses forbidding friendly relations with the disbelievers should those who fight you for religion, and drive you forth from your homes and help (others) in your expulsion, that you make friends of them; and whoever makes friends of them, these are the wrongdoers.

10 O you who believe, when believing women come to you fleeing, test them. Allah knows best their faith. Then if you know them to be believers, do not send them back to the disbelievers.^a Neither are these women lawful for them, nor are those men lawful for them. And give those men what they have spent (as dowries on these women); and there is no blame on you in marrying them, when you give them their dowries. And do not hold to the ties of marriage of disbelieving women, and ask for what you have spent, and let the disbelievers ask for what they have spent. That is Allah's judgment; He judges between you.^b And Allah is Knowing, Wise. ¹¹And if any part (of the dowries) of your wives has passed away from you to the disbelievers, then your turn comes, give to those whose wives have gone away the like of what they have spent, and keep your duty to Allah in Whom you believe.^c be read, because here the true principle is revealed in unmistakable language, allowing friendly relations with one class of disbelievers and prohibiting such relations with those of another class.

a (10-1) People continued to embrace Islam at Makkah, although there was now no preacher of the faith there. Bitter persecution often compelled them to flee from their homes. This verse relates to believing women who fled to Madinah under these circumstances. These women were not taken unconditionally; it was necessary that they should be tested. In accordance with this verse, the Holy Prophet obtained the assurance of such women under oath that they had not left their homes except on account of Islam, and for no other motive.

b (10-2) The state of permanent warfare between the Muslims and the disbelievers did not allow of any social relationship to be established between the two parties. Hence marriage relationship between Muslim men and disbelieving women, as well as those between Muslim women and the disbelieving men, could no longer be maintained.

c (11) It is a case in which a Muslim husband is allowed to recoup the loss sustained of the dowry of a disbelieving wife who has deserted him, from the sum due for the payment of dowry for a Muslim woman who has fled from the disbelievers and joined the Muslims, or from acquisitions gained in war.

12 O Prophet, when believing women come to you giving you a pledge that they will not set up any partner with Allah, and will not steal, nor commit adultery; nor kill their children, nor bring a slander which they have forged of themselves, nor disobey you in what is good, accept their pledge, and ask forgiveness for them from Allah. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^a ¹³O you who believe, do not take for friends a people with whom Allah is displeased^b — they indeed despair of the Hereafter, as the disbelievers despair of those in the graves.

a (12) Most of the commentators think that the pledge spoken of in this verse was only taken by the Holy Prophet after the conquest of Makkah, when large numbers of women as well as men embraced Islam.

b (13) The reference is to the Jews. (Editor's Note: Verses 8 and 9 have already made it clear that friendly relations are only disallowed with those who actually fight against Muslims on account of their religion, and are allowed with all others.)

Chapter 61

Al-Şaff

Ranks

The title of this chapter is taken from the command in v. 4 to fight in defence of the faith in Ranks. It speaks first of Moses and Jesus, and the latter's prophecy regarding the advent of the Holy Prophet Muhammad, and this is followed by a prophecy of the triumph of Islam over all other religions. Then it exhorts Muslims to strive hard in the cause of truth, citing the example of Jesus. The date of revelation is very probably 1 or 2 A.H.

Section 1: Triumph of Islam

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies Allah; and He is the Mighty, the Wise.

2 O you who believe, why do you say things which you do not do? ³It is most hateful in the sight of Allah that you say things which you do not do.^a 4 Surely Allah loves those who fight in His way in ranks, as if they were a solid wall.^b

5 And when Moses said to his people: My people, why do you malign me, when you know that I am Allah's messenger to you?^c But when they deviated, Allah made their hearts deviate. And Allah does not guide the transgressing people. 6 And when Jesus, son of Mary, said: Children of Israel, surely I am the messenger of Allah to you, verifying what is (already) before me of the Torah and giving the good news of a Messenger who will

a (3) It is an exhortation to those who professed belief in the Truth to make their actions correspond with their assertions. The triumph of Truth, which is so definitely foretold in this chapter, could not be brought about by boastful talk but by great deeds of sacrifice, and hence this prelude. Mere words, if not carried into action, are hateful to God. It is deeds that open the way to success.

b (4) They had to fight in self-defence; see 2:190 etc.

c (5) See 33:69 footnote.

come after me, his name being Ahmad.^a But when he came to them with clear arguments, they said: This is clear enchantment.^b

7 And who is more unjust than he who forges a lie against a (6-1) We are here told that Jesus had given the good news of the advent of a Prophet whose name was Ahmad coming after him. That our Prophet was known by two names Muhammad and Ahmad is a well-known fact of history. As regards the sayings of Jesus, we have to depend on a Greek translation, in which we find the word Paraclete, which is translated in English as Comforter. However, the use of the word Paraclete in the Greek version, or that of Comforter in the English version, does not show what the actual word in the language spoken by Jesus was. But all those qualifications which are given in John 14:16 and 16:7 are met with in the person of the Holy Prophet Muhammad. He is stated to be one who shall abide forever, and so is the Prophet's law; for after him comes no prophet to promulgate a new law. He is spoken of as teaching all things, and it was with a perfect law that the Holy Prophet came. And clearest of all are the words of John 16:12-14: "I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. However, when he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will guide you into all truth; for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak; and he will tell you things to come. He will glorify me, ...". Now, this prophecy about the Spirit of Truth, which is the same as the Comforter, clearly stated in John 14:17, establishes the following points: (1) Jesus could not guide into all truth because his teaching was directed only to the reform of the Israelites, and he denounced only their crying evils; but the teaching of the Comforter would be a perfect one, guiding people into all truth, and the Quran is the only book which claims to be a perfect law. (2) That he would not speak of himself, but what he shall hear he shall speak; the words conveying exactly the same idea as those of Deut. 18:18: "And I will put My words in his mouth", a qualification which is met with only in the Holy Prophet Muhammad. (3) That he will glorify Jesus, and the Holy Prophet did glorify Jesus by denouncing as utterly false all those calumnies which were heaped upon Jesus and his mother.

Another point worth mentioning is that the different prophecies about the Holy Prophet really refer to the different phases of his life. The two aspects of the life of the Holy Prophet are jalāl and jamāl, i.e., an aspect of glory and an aspect of beauty, the first finding its manifestation in the name Muhammad and the second in Ahmad. Each of the two great prophets, Moses and Jesus, prophesied about the Holy Prophet in words expressing that aspect of his life which was in consonance with his own nature — glory finding greater expression in Moses, who was prophet, lawgiver and king at the same time, and beauty in Jesus, on account of the beauty of his moral teachings, while both these elements were combined in the person of the Holy Prophet Muhammad.

b (6-2) The Holy Prophet Muhammad is referred to here, as the next verse clearly shows.

Allah and he is invited to Islam. And Allah does not guide the unjust people.^a ⁸They desire to put out the light of Allah with their mouths, but Allah will perfect His light, though the disbelievers may be averse. ⁹He it is Who has sent His Messenger with the guidance and the Religion of Truth that He may make it prevail over all religions, though those who set up partners (with Allah) are averse.^b

Section 2: Establishment of Truth needed Sacrifices

10 O you who believe, shall I lead you to a bargain which will deliver you from a painful punishment? ¹¹You should believe in Allah and His Messenger, and strive hard in Allah's way with your wealth and your lives. That is better for you, if only you knew! ¹²He will forgive you your sins and make you enter Gardens in which rivers flow, and goodly dwellings in Gardens of perpetuity — that is the mighty achievement — ¹³and yet another (blessing) that you love: help from Allah and a victory near at hand; and give good news to the believers.^c

14 O you who believe, be helpers (in the cause) of Allah, as Jesus, son of Mary, said to the disciples: Who are my helpers in a (7) The words, "he who forges a lie against Allah and he is invited to Islam", refer to the rejectors who called the truth an enchantment. It was these people that were invited to Islam, while the Prophet was an inviter, as he is elsewhere called, for instance, 3:193, 20:108. Their polytheistic beliefs are repeatedly called a forgery in the Quran. Or, the Christians are meant who were invited to the Truth, but they forged a lie that Jesus was the son of God and that he took away their sins.

b (9) Verses 8 and 9 contain two different prophecies. The first is that all attempts to annihilate Islam will fail, and they did fail. In the second it is affirmed that Islam will be made the predominant religion, the truth of which was witnessed by Arabia in the lifetime of the Holy Prophet. But both prophecies have a wider significance. Attempts are still being made to annihilate Islam, and the Divine promise is that all these attempts shall be brought to naught; while the predominance of Islam over all the religions of the world would in time be established, as clearly as it was in Arabia.

c (13) The prophecy in the previous verse relates to the Hereafter, while that in this verse relates to the victories of the Muslims over the disbelievers.

the cause of Allah? The disciples said: We are helpers (in the cause) of Allah. So a party of the Children of Israel believed and another party disbelieved; then We aided those who believed against their enemy, and they became predominant.^a a (14) The description applies to the triumph of the teachings of Christ over those who opposed the dissemination of his teachings, and speaks prophetically of the ultimate triumph of Islam over all other religions of the world.

Chapter 62

Al-Jumu'ah

The Congregation

This chapter is named after the exhortation in v. 9 to Muslims to gather together for prayer on the day of Congregation or Friday. It states that the Holy Prophet was a purifier and teacher of his immediate followers as well as those to come in later ages. Then it warns Muslims, by referring to the transgressions of the Jews, against observing only the letter of the law while having no understanding of it and thinking of themselves as God's favourites. Lastly, as the Jews had neglected their Sabbath and suffered as a result, Muslims are exhorted to give special importance to the Friday prayer, which in Islam replaces the Sabbath. The date of revelation of this chapter is very probably 1 A.H.

Section 1: Muslims to receive Divine Favours

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies Allah, the King, the Holy, the Mighty, the Wise.

2 He it is Who raised among the illiterates a Messenger from among themselves, who recites to them His messages and purifies them, and teaches them the Book and the Wisdom — although they were before certainly in manifest error — ³and others from among them who have not yet joined them. And He is the Mighty, the Wise.^a ⁴That is Allah's grace; He grants it to whom He pleases. And Allah is the Lord of mighty grace.

5 The likeness of those who were charged with the Torah, then they did not observe it, is as the likeness of the donkey

^a (3) The significance is that after a time, when the true spirit of Islam would have been lost, a man would be raised who, again receiving the light from the Holy Prophet, would spread the light of Islam in the world. But some commentators understand that non-Arabs, or all Muslims coming after the Prophet, are meant. The Prophet would thus be the teacher forever, through his disciples, and no Israelite prophet would be sent as a teacher to the Muslim community.

carrying books. Evil is the likeness of the people who reject the messages of Allah. And Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

6 Say: O you who are Jews, if you think that you are the favourites of Allah to the exclusion of other people, then invoke death, if you are truthful.^a 7But they will never invoke it because of what their hands have already done. And Allah is Knower of the wrongdoers. 8Say: The death from which you flee, that will surely overtake you; then you will be sent back to the Knower of the unseen and the seen, so He will inform you of what you did.

Section 2: Friday Prayer

9 O you who believe, when the call is sounded for prayer on Friday, hasten to the remembrance of Allah and leave off business. That is better for you, if you know.^b 10But when the prayer is ended, disperse in the land and seek of Allah's grace, and remember Allah much, that you may be successful. 11And when they see trading or entertainment (taking place), they break away to it, and leave you standing.^c Say: What is with Allah is better than entertainment and trading. And Allah is the Best of providers.

a (6) See 2:94.

b (9) The Friday service, just after noon, is preceded by a sermon. Verses 9–10 show that ordinary business may be carried on by a Muslim on Friday before or after the Friday prayer. Hence, unlike the Jewish and the Christian Sabbaths, it is not necessarily a day of rest. But attendance at these prayers is obligatory, and as soon as the call to prayer is sounded, every Muslim is bound to leave business of every kind and immediately hasten to the mosque. Every nation has a Sabbath, or a so-called day of Divine service set apart from the ordinary weekdays, but in practice, the whole day is never given to prayer. In fact, a Muslim, who is allowed to do his ordinary work on Friday, gives more time to his prayers than the majority of those who recognize a seventh day as their Sabbath. The idea underlying the Sabbath is, no doubt, a temporary cessation of material activities, to give place to spiritual exercise. Islam, on the other hand, requires communion with the Divine Being to be observed throughout the entire week, five times daily.

c (11) Those spoken of here are apparently the hypocrites. The fact that the next chapter deals with the hypocrites corroborates this.

Chapter 63

Al-Munāfiqūn

The Hypocrites

This chapter deals with the hypocrites and condemns hypocrisy. It speaks of their false promises and their desire to see Islam wiped out, and concludes with an exhortation to Muslims not to be led away by love of wealth and offspring. This chapter was revealed very probably in 3 A.H.

Section 1: The Hypocrites

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the hypocrites come to you, they say: We bear witness that you are indeed Allah's Messenger. And Allah knows you are indeed His Messenger. And Allah bears witness that the hypocrites are surely liars. ²They take shelter under their oaths, thus turning (people) from Allah's way. Surely evil is what they do. ³That is because they believed, then disbelieved; thus their hearts are sealed, so they do not understand.^a

4 And when you see them, their appearances please you; and if they speak, you listen to their speech. They are like pieces of wood, clad with garments. They think every cry to be against them.^b They are the enemy, so beware of them. May Allah destroy them! How they are turned away (from truth)! ⁵And when it is said to them: Come, the Messenger of Allah will ask forgiveness for you, they turn away their heads and you see them hindering (others), and they are big with pride. ⁶It is the same to them whether you ask forgiveness for them or do not ask forgiveness for them —

a (3) Note how the sealing of hearts is described here. It is a person's own action which is the cause, while the sealing is only the necessary consequence.

b (4) By the cry is here meant the hostile incursion of the enemy. Whenever there was an incursion of the enemy, the hypocrites showed cowardice and thought that the Muslims would be crushed by their adversaries.

Allah will never forgive them. Surely Allah does not guide the transgressing people.

7 They it is who say: Do not spend on those who are with the Messenger of Allah that they may disperse. And Allah's are the treasures of the heavens and the earth, but the hypocrites do not understand. 8They say: If we return to Madinah, the mightier will surely drive out the weaker from it. And might belongs to Allah and His Messenger and the believers, but the hypocrites do not know.^a

Section 2: An Exhortation

9 O you who believe, do not let your wealth nor your children divert you from the remembrance of Allah; and whoever does that, these are the losers. 10And spend (on good works) out of what We have given you before death comes to one of you, and he says: My Lord, why did You not grant me respite for a little while (longer), so that I should have given in charity and been among the doers of good deeds? 11But Allah does not respite a soul, when its term comes. And Allah is Aware of what you do.

^a (8) So late as this revelation, the hypocrites considered themselves, in conjunction with their disbelieving friends, to be the stronger party and the Muslims to be the weaker party, whom they could easily drive out of Madinah. But they are told that they themselves will meet with disgrace. Ultimately their opposition came to naught; see 9:101.

Al-Taghābun Manifestation of Losses

This chapter refers in v. 9 to the day of the Manifestation of Losses. It not only warns the disbelievers of the evil consequences of their deeds but also exhorts the believers to continue their march towards spiritual advancement and not to be led away by worldly attractions. Not only will disbelievers find their losses manifested on a certain day, but believers will also find such losses manifested if they have been remiss in fulfilling their obligations. This chapter was revealed in the early days at Madinah.

Section 1: Disbelievers warned

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Whatever is in the heavens and whatever is in the earth glorifies Allah. His is the kingdom, and His the praise; and He is Powerful over all things. 2He it is Who created you, but one of you is a disbeliever and one of you is a believer. And Allah is Seer of what you do. 3He created the heavens and the earth with truth, and He shaped you, then made goodly your shapes; and to Him is the destination. 4He knows what is in the heavens and the earth, and He knows what you hide and what you manifest. And Allah is Knower of what is in the hearts.

5 Has not the story come to you of those who disbelieved before, then they tasted the evil consequences of their conduct, and they had a painful punishment? 6That is because their messengers came to them with clear arguments, but they said: Shall mortals guide us? So they disbelieved and turned away, and Allah is above all need. And Allah is Self-Sufficient, Praised.

7 Those who disbelieve think that they will not be raised. Say: Indeed, by my Lord! you will certainly be raised; then you will certainly be informed of what you did. And that is easy to Allah. 8So believe in Allah and His Messenger and the Light which We have revealed. And Allah is Aware of what you do. 9The day when He will gather you for the day of Gathering, that is the day of the Manifestation of losses.^a And whoever believes in Allah and does good, He will remove from him his evil and make him enter Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them forever. That is the mighty achievement.^b ¹⁰And those who disbelieve and reject Our messages, they are the companions of the Fire, abiding in it; and evil is the destination.

Section 2: An Exhortation

11 No calamity befalls but by Allah's permission. And whoever believes in Allah, He guides his heart. And Allah is Knower of all things. ¹²And obey Allah and obey the Messenger; but if you turn away, the duty of Our Messenger is only to deliver the message clearly. ¹³Allah, there is no God but He. And on Allah let the believers rely.

14 O you who believe, surely some among your wives and your children are enemies to you, so beware of them.^c And if you pardon and forbear and forgive, surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful. ¹⁵Your wealth and your children are only a trial, and Allah — with Him is a great reward. ¹⁶So keep your duty to Allah as much as you can, and hear and obey and spend (on good works); it is better for your souls. And whoever is saved from the greediness of his soul, these it is that are the successful. ¹⁷If you set apart for Allah a goodly portion, He will double it for you and forgive you. And Allah is the Multiplier (of rewards), Forbearing, ¹⁸the Knower of the unseen and the seen, the Mighty, the Wise.

a (9-1) The day of Resurrection is called the day of Taghābun (Manifestation of losses) because the loss that a person suffers is generally hidden from his eyes in this life, and it will be manifest on the day of Judgment.

b (9-2) Note that he who acts righteously will have his evil removed, because a change comes over his life. There is no doubt that, when a complete transformation takes place in the life of a person, the consequences of the evil which he might have previously done are wiped out.

c (14) It is most often for the sake of one's wife and children that one acts wrongfully towards others. Thus, in some cases, the wife or the children become an enemy to man. Note the use of the word min, which shows that it is only sometimes that wives or offspring lead a man to an evil course.

Chapter 65

Al-Ṭalāq

Divorce

This chapter deals in the first half with certain rules regarding divorce; hence its title. The second half gives a warning to the opponents and shows that the Holy Prophet had brought them light. The date of revelation may be assigned approximately as 6 A.H.

Section 1: Supplementary Divorce Rules

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O Prophet, when you divorce women, divorce them for their prescribed period,^a and calculate the period; and keep your duty to Allah, your Lord. Do not turn them out of their houses — nor should they themselves go forth — unless they commit an open indecency. And these are the limits of Allah. And whoever goes beyond the limits of Allah, he indeed wrongs his own soul. You do not know that Allah may, after that, bring about an event (of reunion).^b

2 So when they have reached their prescribed time, retain them a (1-1) The prescribed time is ordinarily, according to 2:228, three courses. But in the case of pregnant women, and in certain other cases, the prescribed time is laid down in v. 4 of this chapter. It should be noted how every direction in connection with the subject of divorce is followed by the injunction, keep your duty to Allah, throughout this chapter. The utmost carefulness must therefore be exercised in the matter of divorce. Divorce is allowed but the right must be used sparingly and under exceptional circumstances.

It is reported that the directions contained in this chapter were needed to correct a mistake made in connection with the law of divorce by Ibn Umar, who divorced his wife when she had her courses. He was told to take her back, as divorce was ineffective unless pronounced when the wife was not in a menstrual period (Bukhari, 68:1).

b (1-2) The amr or event here means reunion. We are here expressly told that a divorced woman is not to be turned out of the husband's house, because either party may regret the divorce and a reunion may be brought about.

with kindness or part from them with kindness, and call to witness two just ones from among you, and give upright testimony for Allah. With that is instructed he who believes in Allah and the Last Day. And whoever keeps his duty to Allah, He ordains a way out for him, ³and gives him sustenance from where he does not imagine. And whoever trusts in Allah, He is sufficient for him. Surely Allah attains His purpose. Allah indeed has appointed a measure for everything.

4 And those of your women who despair of menstruation, if you have a doubt, their prescribed time is three months, and of those, too, who have not had their courses. And the pregnant women, their prescribed time is that they lay down their burden. And whoever keeps his duty to Allah, He makes his affair easy for him. ⁵That is the command of Allah, which He has revealed to you. And whoever keeps his duty to Allah, He will remove from him his evils and increase (his) reward for him.

6 Lodge them where you live according to your means, and do not injure them in order to impose hardship upon them. And if they are pregnant, spend on them until they lay down their burden. Then if they suckle for you, give them their recompense, and enjoin one another to do good; and if you disagree, another will suckle for him. ⁷Let him who has abundant means spend out of his abundance, and whoever has his means of subsistence restricted for him, let him spend out of what Allah has given him. Allah does not lay on any soul a burden beyond what He has given it. Allah brings about ease after difficulty.^a

Section 2: Makkah warned

8 And how many a town there was which rebelled against the commandment of its Lord and His messengers, so We called it to severe account and We punished it with a stern punishment! ⁹So it

^a (7) The wife should be lodged where a man himself lives, so that, after divorce, the woman has the full status of a wife so long as the prescribed time has not expired. If a man possesses abundant wealth, he must spend on his wife abundantly.

tasted the evil consequences of its conduct, and the end of its affair was ruin. ¹⁰Allah has prepared for them severe punishment, so keep your duty to Allah, you people of understanding, who believe. Allah has indeed sent down to you a Reminder — ^{11a}a Messenger who recites to you the clear messages of Allah, so that he may bring forth those who believe and do good deeds from darkness into light. And whoever believes in Allah and does good deeds, He will make him enter Gardens in which rivers flow, to abide in them forever. Allah has indeed given him a goodly sustenance.

12 Allah is He Who created seven heavens, and of the earth the like of them (in number). The command descends among them, that you may know that Allah is Powerful over all things, and that Allah encompasses all things in (His) knowledge.^a

^a (12) The statement made here, that there are “seven heavens, and of the earth the like of them”, throws light upon what is meant by heavens where the number seven is mentioned. The seven heavens are elsewhere called the seven ways (23:17) and the seven earths may therefore be the seven major planets of the solar system, the earth itself being the eighth, their orbits being spoken of as the seven heavens or seven ways. It should, however, be borne in mind that the heavens are often referred to without a limitation of number, and include the whole of the starry creation. Another point worth noting is that the mention of seven heavens does not preclude the existence of more. For the application of the word seven and for further discussion, see 2:29 footnote 2.

The descending of the command among these is interpreted by some as meaning the existence of life and death in them.

Chapter 66

Al-Tahrīm

The Prohibition

This chapter is called The Prohibition from the statement in v. 1 that the Prophet, as well as those who follow him, should not forbid themselves what Allah has made lawful. It refers to an incident of the Prophet's temporary separation from his wives. The first half speaks of the relations of the Holy Prophet with his wives, while the second refers to the spiritual progress to be made by his faithful followers. The connection between the two is that the spiritual relation between the Prophet and a true follower of his is metaphorically that between husband and wife. In the last two verses both disbelievers and believers are compared to certain women in religious history. The date of revelation may be placed about 7 A.H.

Section 1: Holy Prophet's Domestic Relations

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O Prophet, why do you forbid (yourself) what Allah has made lawful for you? Do you seek to please your wives? And Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.^a 2 Allah indeed has sanctioned for you the expiation of your oaths; and Allah is your Patron, and He is the Knowing, the Wise.^b

3 And when the Prophet confided an information to one of his wives — but when she disclosed it (to others), and Allah informed him of it, he made known part of it and passed over (another) part. So when he told her of it, she said: Who informed you of this? He said: The Knowing, the One Aware, informed me.^c 4 If both of a (1) The reference here is to the well-known temporary separation from his wives which the Prophet resorted to, on account of his wives demanding more of worldly comforts (see 33:28), regarding which the Holy Prophet made a vow.

b (2) The expiation of oaths is sanctioned in 5:89. The custom of īlā', or making a vow not to have conjugal relations with one's wife, is mentioned as an introduction to the subject of divorce in 2:226, but it is actually prohibited here.

c (3) There is no trustworthy report showing what particular incident is you (wives) turn to Allah, then indeed your hearts are inclined (to this already); and if you back up one another against him, then surely Allah is his Patron, and Gabriel and the righteous believers, and the angels after that are the aiders. ⁵Maybe, his Lord, if he divorce you, will give him in your place wives better than you: submitting (to Allah), believing, obedient (to Allah), penitent, serving (Allah), fasting, widows, and virgins.^a 6 O you who believe, save yourselves and your families from a Fire whose fuel is people and stones; over it are angels, stern and strong. They do not disobey Allah in what He commands them, but do as they are commanded. ⁷O you who disbelieve, make no excuses this day. You are rewarded only as you did.

Section 2: Progress of the Faithful

8 O you who believe, turn to Allah with sincere repentance. It may be your Lord will remove from you your evil and make you enter Gardens in which rivers flow, on the day on which Allah will not disgrace the Prophet and those who believe with him. Their light will gleam before them and on their right hands — they will say: Our Lord, make perfect for us our light, and grant us protection; surely You are Powerful over all things.^b ⁹O Prophet, referred to here. But as these verses speak of the temporary separation of the Holy Prophet from his wives, it is likely that this incident was also in connection with that separation. From what is related in connection with this incident, it appears that originally Aishah and Hafsa led this demand and later on the other wives joined. And when the Prophet on receiving Divine revelation gave an option to his wives either to remain in his house without more worldly comforts or to part company with him and have the desired comforts, he told Aishah not to take a decision without consulting her parents (Bukhari, 46:25). Maybe it was this matter which Aishah disclosed to the others, and hence their united decision to remain in the Prophet's house with all the worldly privations.

a (5) This shows that all those qualifications which are mentioned here were met with in the Holy Prophet's wives. He had been given a choice to divorce any of his wives whom he did not desire but, when the wives decided not to leave him despite the extreme austerity of his home life, he did not divorce any of them; see 33:51–52.

b (8) Paradise is not only a place to enjoy the blessings and reap the reward of one's previous good deeds, but it is also the starting-point of a never-ceasing strive against the disbelievers and the hypocrites,^a and remain firm against them, and their abode is hell; and evil is the destination.

10 Allah sets forth an example for those who disbelieve — the wife of Noah and the wife of Lot. They were both under two of Our righteous servants, but they acted treacherously towards them, so they (the husbands) did not avail them at all against (the punishment of) Allah, and it was said: Enter the Fire with those who enter.^b

11 And Allah sets forth an example for those who believe — the wife of Pharaoh, when she said: My Lord, build for me a house with You in the Garden and deliver me from Pharaoh and his work, and deliver me from the wrongdoing people.^c ¹²And Mary, the daughter of Amran, who guarded her chastity, so We breathed into him of Our inspiration, and she accepted the truth of the words of her Lord and His Books, and she was of the obedient ones.^d spiritual advancement. The prayer for the perfection of the light is an unceasing desire for perfection, showing that spiritual progress in that life will be endless.

a (9) The verb translated as strive is jāhid, from which is derived the word jihād, and the context shows that by striving is not meant the carrying on of a war, for war was never proclaimed against the hypocrites, who, in fact, were for all practical purposes treated as Muslims. Therefore, when the Holy Prophet is commanded to carry on a jihad against the disbelievers and the hypocrites, it is clear that jihad is something else than mere fighting.

b (10) This is an instance of the followers of prophets going against the principles of their teachers. Those prophets will not be able to save them.

c (11) This is an example of good men who are not yet made free from the bondage of sin, for which Pharaoh stands here as a typical example; but they ardently desire to be rid of sin, striving hard to free themselves from all trammels.

d (12) The example of the righteous given in this parable illustrates how Divine inspiration is granted to the perfect ones. The words “We breathed into him of Our inspiration” are remarkable. Evidently the word him cannot refer to Mary. It is taken by some commentators to refer to Jesus, and thus the meaning is that Mary gave birth to a son who received Divine inspiration. But the reference in the personal pronoun him might as well be to the believer for whom Mary is set as an example, and the object of the change might be to draw attention to the fact that it is really the granting of inspiration to the believer that is meant here and not the breathing of a soul. (Editor’s Note: Verses 11–12 put before Muslims examples of women to follow for reaching the highest degrees of righteousness.)

Al-Mulk

The Kingdom

From here to the end of the Holy Quran there are 48 chapters all revealed during the Makkah period of the Holy Prophet's life, except ch. 110 which was revealed near the very end of his life. All of these contain prophecies of the greatness to which Islam would rise during the time of the Holy Prophet and later into the distant future, even though these are mostly very early revelations. The title of this chapter is taken from the statement in the first verse that The Kingdom is in Allah's hand, meaning that the prophesied Kingdom of God was now about to be established on earth. The chapter then draws attention to the working of laws in the physical world, from which it is inferred that there is a law relating to good and evil working in the spiritual world. The second half of the chapter speaks of the doom that awaits those who disbelieve due to their ungratefulness to God.

Section 1: The Kingdom of God

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Blessed is He in Whose hand is the Kingdom, and He is Powerful over all things,^a ²Who created death and life that He might try you (as to) which of you is best in deeds.^b And He is the Mighty, the Forgiving, ³Who created the seven heavens alike.^c a (1) The short chapters revealed at Makkah, which are no doubt generally among the earliest revelations of the Holy Prophet, often speak most forcibly of the greatness and glory of Allah. The statement here refers prophetically to the kingdom of Islam, which was really the kingdom of God.

b (2) The law of life and death or growth and decay works throughout nature, but in case of man death does not end his life, but is really the starting-point for a new life of spiritual progress. Life to him below is a trial, i.e., a means of bringing to light his hidden qualifications for the performance of good. There is also the life and death of nations. Nations that work evil are swept away, and others are raised in their place that they may do good.

c (3-1) Alike (tibāq) here means conforming or corresponding to one another. This significance suits the context, for the verse goes on to describe the uniformity prevailing in nature.

You see no anomaly in the creation of the Beneficent. Then look again: Can you see any disorder?^a ⁴Then look again and again — your sight will return to you confused, while it is fatigued.

5 And certainly We have adorned this lower heaven with lamps and We make them means of conjectures for the devils,^b and We have prepared for them the punishment of burning. ⁶And for those who disbelieve in their Lord is the punishment of hell, and evil is the destination. ⁷When they are cast into it, they will hear a loud moaning of it as it heaves, ⁸almost bursting for fury. Whenever a group is cast into it, its keepers ask them: Did not a warner come to you? ⁹They say: Yes, indeed a warner came to us, but we denied and said: Allah has revealed nothing; you are only in great error.

10 And they say: If only we had listened or pondered, we should not have been among the inmates of the burning Fire. ¹¹Thus they will confess their sins; so far (from good) are the inmates of the burning Fire. ¹²Those who fear their Lord in secret, for them is surely forgiveness and a great reward. ¹³And (whether you) conceal your word or speak it openly, truly He is Knower of what is in the hearts. ¹⁴Does He, Who created, not know? And He is the Knower of subtleties, the Aware.

a (3-2) Attention is here called to the regularity and uniformity of the laws working in nature. There is no anomaly, so that things belonging to the same class should be subject to different laws, nor is there a disorder, so that a law should not work uniformly. The verse, while calling attention to the existence of a Supreme Being, as witnessed in the regularity and uniformity of the laws working in creation, draws special attention to spiritual laws, which also work uniformly, and thus evil and good must each bring its special reward.

b (5) The lamps with which the lower heaven is lighted, i.e., the stars, are made the means of conjectures regarding the future by the astrologers. The word rujūm is the plural of rajm which, according to many early authorities, is used to signify conjectures and surmises. Thus the astrologers, who deceived people by telling them many things which they posed as having learned from the stars, are referred to here as the devils making conjectures.

Section 2: The Disbelievers' Doom

15 He it is Who made the earth subservient to you, so go about in its spacious sides, and eat from His sustenance. And to Him is the rising (after death). ¹⁶Do you feel secure that He Who is in the heaven will not make the earth to swallow you up? Then lo! it will shake.^a ¹⁷Or do you feel secure that He Who is in the heaven will not send on you a violent wind?^b Then shall you know how (truthful) was My warning! ¹⁸And certainly those before them denied, then how (terrible) was My disapproval!

19 Do they not see the birds above them spreading and contracting (their wings)? Nothing upholds them except the Beneficent.^c Surely He is Seer of all things. ²⁰Or who is it that will be an army for you to help you against the Beneficent? The disbelievers are only in delusion. ²¹Or who is it that will give you sustenance, if He should withhold His sustenance? But they persist in disdain and aversion.^d ²²Is, then, he who goes along falling upon his face better guided or he who walks upright on a straight path?

23 Say: He it is Who brought you into being and made for you ears and eyes and hearts. Little thanks you give! ²⁴Say: He it a (16) God is spoken of here as being in heaven; elsewhere He is spoken of as being in heaven and earth alike (43:84); and again He is spoken of as being "with you wherever you are" (57:4). The one thing certain is that God is not in one particular place to the exclusion of other places. Punishment sent by God is often described as coming from heaven, and thus He is spoken of here as being in heaven, or above all, so that none can avert the punishment sent by Him.

b (17) In the well-known Battle of the Allies in 4 A.H., when an army of twenty thousand was besieging Madinah and the Muslims were almost helpless against this mighty force, it was a violent wind which put all the armies to flight; see 33:9.

c (19) The withholding of the birds signifies the delay of the punishment, for birds are spoken of as following a victorious army; see 16:79 footnote. The question in the next verse as to who will help them corroborates this significance.

d (21) This is also a prophecy. Their sustenance was withheld in the great famine which prevailed at Makkah, prophecies regarding which are met with in the Quran in early as well as later revelation; see 44:10.

is Who multiplies you in the earth and to Him you will be gathered. ²⁵And they say: When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful? ²⁶Say: The knowledge is with Allah only, and I am only a plain warner. ²⁷But when they see it near at hand, the faces of those who disbelieve will be grieved, and it will be said: This is what you used to call for.

28 Say: Have you considered if Allah should destroy me and those with me — rather He will have mercy on us — yet who will protect the disbelievers from a painful punishment?^a ²⁹Say: He is the Beneficent — we believe in Him and on Him do we rely. So you will come to know who it is that is in clear error. ³⁰Say: Have you considered if your water should subside, who is it then that will bring you flowing water?

a (28) The meaning is that the guilty will by all means be called to account and suffer the evil consequences of what they have done, whether the Prophet and his companions live or die, but the uncertainty as to the reward of the righteous is at once removed by the words rather He will have mercy on us. The particle au (usually meaning 'or') can mean rather as well.

Al-Qalam

The Pen

This chapter begins by presenting the inkstand, the pen and all writings to bear witness that the Holy Prophet's utterances are not those of an insane person, as alleged by his opponents; hence its name The Pen. It goes on to set forth a parable foretelling that the struggles of his opponents will fail and they will regret what they did. It concludes by referring to the example of Jonah, to show the need to wait patiently for the eventual prophesied success. This chapter is undoubtedly one of the earliest revelations, and may be placed third in the chronological order of revelation. It is notable that even such an early revelation declares the Quran to be a reminder for all the nations of the world, as stated in its last verse.

Section 1: Not a Madman's Message

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 (By) the inkstand^a and the pen and what they write! ²By the grace of your Lord you are not mad.^b ³And surely yours is a reward

a (1) Nūn, with which this verse begins, while being a letter of the Arabic alphabet, is also a word meaning inkstand. The context, which mentions pen and writing, favours this interpretation. It is not an abbreviation such as those occurring at the commencement of chapters 2, 3 etc. The Quran, in the earliest abbreviation used in it, gives us a clue to the significance of the abbreviations occurring in it by using nūn, which is also a word.

The verse also has a wider significance, indicating that the Quran will always continue to occupy a unique position among all the books which are ever written. This unique position consists in its completeness and exhaustive dealing with all the truths about religion. See also 25:33 footnote.

b (2) The first allegation of the disbelievers against the Holy Prophet was that he was mad. This allegation is dealt with in this chapter. The first answer to it is contained in verses 1–2. In v. 1, attention is really called to the fact that the Prophet's prophecies about his own future and the fate of the opponents, which were already put down in writing, would prove that the Prophet was not mad, for the ravings of a madman could not bear fruit. It should be noted that the Quran again and again challenges its opponents to write down their prophecies about the Holy Prophet, thus showing that its own were actually written down from the first, as this chapter is one of the earliest revelations. See also v. 47 and 52:41.

never to be cut off.^a ⁴And surely you have sublime morals.^b ⁵So you will see, and they (too) will see, ⁶which of you is mad.
⁷Surely your Lord knows best who strays from His path, and He knows best those who go aright.

a (3) The Prophet is further told that his exertions will be followed by a reward which will never be cut off, i.e., he will be successful in establishing a religion whose blessings will continue forever, while a madman's actions cannot bear any fruit. Thus there is not only a clear prophecy here of the final triumph of the Prophet over his enemies, but there is also a prophecy that what is stated in the Quran rests on such a firm foundation that it will never prove untrue.

b (4) The Prophet's possession of the most sublime morals is a further proof that he cannot be a madman. He had already won from his contemporaries the recognition of his sublime morality, who had given him the title of al-Amīn, the faithful one. By calling him al-Amīn, the people expressed their high appreciation of his sublime morality, as if he were the one, and only one, as indicated by prefixing al, who could be trusted in all matters. His moral greatness was thus testified to by Aishah, than whom none was more intimate with the Prophet, who said: His morals are the Quran; meaning that all the pictures of sublime morality depicted by the Quran are really a glimpse of the moral greatness of the Prophet.

c (9) The first desire of the Quraish was no doubt, owing to their great respect for the Holy Prophet, that he should not condemn their evil deeds in strong language, and thus they too would not be severe in opposition to him.

d (13) The description applies to all leaders of opposition to Truth. As against the sublime morals of the Inviter to Truth, verses 10–13 describe the low state of morality of those who do not care for the moral values of life.

e (16) Branding on the snout is equivalent to bringing a man to disgrace which sticks to him.

f (17) This parable sets forth the ultimate fate of the opponents. It is one of not set aside a portion (for the poor). ¹⁹But a visitation from your Lord came upon it, while they slept. ²⁰So it became as black, barren land — ²¹then they called out to one another in the morning, ²²saying: Go early to your crop, if you are to pluck (the fruit). ²³So they went, saying to one another in low voices: ²⁴no poor man shall enter it today against you.

25 And in the morning they went, having the power to prevent. ²⁶But when they saw it, they said: Surely we are in error; ²⁷indeed, we have been deprived. ²⁸The best of them said: Did I not say to you, Why do you not glorify (Allah)? ²⁹They said: Glory be to our Lord! surely we were wrongdoers. ³⁰Then they turned to one another, blaming each other. ³¹Said they: O woe to us! Surely we were inordinate — ³²maybe, our Lord will give us instead one better than it — surely to our Lord we make petition.^a ³³Such is the punishment. And certainly the punishment of the Hereafter is greater, if only they knew!^b

Section 2: A Reminder for the Nations

34 Surely the dutiful have with their Lord Gardens of bliss. ³⁵Shall We then make those who submit as the guilty? ³⁶What is the matter with you? How do you judge? ³⁷Or do you have a book in which you read ³⁸that you shall surely have in it whatever you choose? ³⁹Or do you have covenants from Us on oath, extending to the day of Resurrection, that you shall surely have whatever you judge? ⁴⁰Ask them which of them will vouch for that. ⁴¹Or do the earliest prophecies, and it foretells the failure of opposition and shows also that the Prophet's heart was full of sympathy for the poor from the very first.

a (32) It shows that while the Quran threatened the opponents with punishment, it foretold at the same time that they would accept the Truth ultimately. This happened about twenty years afterwards. All their exertions came to naught and their power in the land was frustrated, but they then saw their error, came over to Islam, and were made the rulers of vast kingdoms. Thus their Lord gave them instead one better, because they made their petition to Him.

b (33) The separate mention of the punishment of the Hereafter is clear evidence that the punishment spoken of in the previous verses, referred to at the beginning of this verse, was a punishment which was to overtake them in this life, and thus to afford a proof of the truth of the chastisement of the Hereafter.

they have associate-gods? Then let them bring their associate-gods, if they are truthful.

42 On the day when there is a severe affliction, and they are called upon to prostrate themselves, but they are not able — ⁴³their looks cast down, humiliation will cover them. And they were indeed called upon to prostrate themselves, while yet they were safe. ⁴⁴So leave Me alone with him who rejects this announcement. We shall overtake them by degrees, from where they do not know. ⁴⁵And I bear with them, surely My plan is firm. ⁴⁶Or do you ask from them a reward, so that they are burdened with debt? ⁴⁷Or is (the knowledge of) the unseen with them so that they write (it) down?^a 48 So wait patiently for the judgment of your Lord, and do not be like the Companion of the fish,^b when he cried while he was in distress. ⁴⁹If favour from his Lord had not reached him, he would certainly have been cast down on naked ground, while he was blamed. ⁵⁰Then his Lord chose him, and He made him one of the righteous. ⁵¹And those who disbelieve would almost strike you down with their eyes when they hear the Reminder, and they say: Surely he is mad!^c ⁵²And it is nothing but a Reminder for the nations.

a (47) Writing is always mentioned in connection with the knowledge of the unseen, because it is writing alone that makes the truth of a prophecy sure. This is proof that the Quran itself, containing numerous prophecies, was written from the first, otherwise a challenge to the opponents in these early revelations to write down the knowledge of the future which they had through their diviners would be meaningless.

b (48) The Prophet Jonah is here called the Companion of the fish because of the incident mentioned in 37:142.

c (51) The chapter ends with the same allegation by the disbelievers as the one with which it opened. The last verse, and it is nothing but a Reminder for the nations, sums up the arguments against that allegation. Note that even as early as this revelation, the Prophet's message is declared to be meant for all nations.

Chapter 69

Al-Hāqqah

The Sure Truth

The name of this chapter is the word which constitutes its first verse. Al-Hāqqah or The Sure Truth is the hour of the triumph of truth and the doom of the opponents. After mentioning this, the chapter refers to the fate of the earlier nations and says that the Sure Truth is the time of the reward of the faithful and punishment of the evil-doers. At the end the chapter deals with the allegations of the opponents against the Holy Prophet. This chapter is later in revelation than the last chapter as it deals with later allegations that he was a poet or a diviner or an impostor.

Section 1: The Doom

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 The sure Truth! ²What is the sure Truth? ³And what would make you realize what the sure Truth is?^a ⁴Thamūd and Ād called the calamity a lie. ⁵Then as for Thamūd, they were destroyed by the severe punishment.^b ⁶And as for Ād, they were destroyed by a roaring, violent wind, ⁷which He made to prevail against them for seven nights and eight days continuously, so that you could have seen the people in it prostrate as if they were trunks of hollow palm-trees. ⁸So can you see a remnant of them?

9 And Pharaoh and those before him and the overthrown cities^c committed evil. ¹⁰And they disobeyed the messenger of their Lord, so He punished them with a vehement punishment. ¹¹Surely We carried you in the ship, when the water rose high, a (3) The instances given about Ād and Thamūd and Pharaoh and the Sodomites, in verses 4–10, show that the real significance of al-hāqqah, “the sure Truth”, is the hour in which the truth will be triumphant. There is no doubt that a fuller manifestation of the Truth, and of the requital of those who reject it, will take place in the Hereafter, and thus it also means the Resurrection.

b (5) See 7:78. The severe punishment was an earthquake.

c (9) The overthrown cities are the cities of Lot; see 11:82.

¹²that We might make it a reminder for you, and that the retaining ear might retain it.^a

13 So when the trumpet is blown with a single blast, ¹⁴and the earth and the mountains are borne away and crushed with one crash — ¹⁵on that day will the Event come to pass,^b ¹⁶and the heaven will be split apart; so that day it will be frail, ¹⁷and the angels will be on its sides. And above them eight will bear that day your Lord's Throne of Power.^c ¹⁸On that day you will be exposed to view — no secret of yours will remain hidden.^d ¹⁹Then as for him who is given his book in his right hand, he will say: Here, read my book. ²⁰Surely I knew that I should meet my account. ²¹So he will be in a life of bliss, ²²in a lofty Garden, a (12) The reference in verses 11–12 is to Noah.

b (15) The consequences of this Event are described in 56:3; see 56:1 footnote, where it is shown that the Event, al-Wāqī'ah, signifies the doom of the opponents in this life, with a full manifestation in the life after death. The passing away of the earth and the mountains and their being crushed, signifies the fall of the small and great men in connection with that doom.

c (17) The eight bearers of the Throne of Power (or 'arsh') either represent something above the angels, or particular angels above the ordinary angels. However, it should be borne in mind that God Himself is al-Qayyūm, or the Self-Subsisting by Whom all things subsist (2:255), and other things are not a support for the Divine Being. There is a saying of the Holy Prophet, reported by all commentators, that at present such bearers are four. Now there are four attributes of the Divine Being specially connected with the maintenance of the world, and these are mentioned in the opening chapter of the Quran in the Divine names: Rabb, Rahmān, Rahīm, and Mālik. These represent providence, beneficence, mercy and requital, which bring the creation to perfection and from which all other attributes may be inferred. Hence these are the four bearers of the Throne of Power, so far as this world is concerned. Why are they eight on the day of Resurrection? The other world is a complete, but at the same time a new, manifestation of the spiritual realities of this life. Hence, there is a new manifestation of the four attributes of the Divine Being by which the world subsists, and thus these four attributes become eight on the day of Resurrection. Note that, as Divine attributes are brought into action through the agency of angels, the four or eight attributes would also be manifested through angels, and in this sense we may look upon the bearers of the Throne of Power as being four or eight angels.

d (18) This verse speaks clearly of the manifestation of the hidden realities on the day of Resurrection.

²³its fruits are near.^a ²⁴Eat and drink pleasantly for what you sent on ahead in bygone days.

25 And as for him who is given his book in his left hand — he will say: If only my book had not been given to me! ²⁶And I had not known what my account was! ²⁷If only (death) had made an end (of me)! ²⁸My wealth has not availed me. ²⁹My authority has gone from me. ³⁰Seize him, then fetter him, ³¹then cast him into the burning Fire, ³²then insert him in a chain seventy lengths long.^b ³³Surely he did not believe in Allah, the Great, ³⁴nor did he urge the feeding of the poor. ³⁵Therefore he does not have here this day a true friend, ³⁶nor any food except filth, ³⁷which none but the wrongdoers eat.

Section 2: False Allegations refuted

38 But no! I swear by what you see, ³⁹and what you do not see! ⁴⁰Surely, it is the word of an honoured Messenger, ⁴¹and it is a (23) These fruits are the manifestation of the fruits of righteous deeds. They are here spoken of as being near so that they are available in this life too.

b (32) In these verses the spiritual torture of this world is represented as a physical punishment in the next. The chain represents the desires and entanglements of this world, and it is these desires that will assume the shape of a chain. The heart-burnings of this world will likewise be clearly seen as flames of burning fire. The wicked one has in this very world within himself a hell of the passions and inextinguishable desires of this world, and feels the burning of that hell in the failures he encounters. When, therefore, he is cast farther off from his temporal desires and sees an everlasting despair before him, his heart-burnings and bitter sighs for his dear desires assume the shape of burning Fire.

The casting into a chain seventy lengths long is significant. Man's limit of age may as a general rule be fixed at seventy, and he may sometimes even enjoy seventy years excluding the periods of childhood and decrepitude. These seventy years during which he could work with honesty, wisdom and zeal are wasted away by the wicked one only in the entanglements of the world, and in following sensual passions. He does not try to free himself from the chain of desires, and therefore in the next world the desires which he indulged in for seventy years will be embodied into a chain seventy lengths long, every length representing, as it were, a year. (Editor's Note: The word dhirā', used here meaning one length, indicates a distance equal to about the length of the lower arm of a man.)

not the word of a poet. Little do you believe! ⁴²Nor the word of a soothsayer. Little are you mindful!

43 It is a revelation from the Lord of the worlds. ⁴⁴And if he had fabricated against Us certain sayings, ⁴⁵We would certainly have seized him by the right hand, ⁴⁶then cut off his heart's vein. ⁴⁷And not one of you could have withheld Us from him.^a 48 And surely it is a Reminder for the dutiful. ⁴⁹And We certainly know that some of you are rejectors. ⁵⁰And it is indeed a (source of) grief to the disbelievers.^b ⁵¹And surely it is the certain Truth.^c ⁵²So glorify the name of your Lord, the incomparably Great.

a (47) Verses 44–47 show that one who fabricates Divine revelation does not prosper. Compare Deut. 18:20, where the prophecy of the advent of a Prophet like Moses is followed by the words: “But the prophet who presumes to speak a word in My name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die”. Jesus’ words in Matthew 7:19: “Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire”, after comparing a false prophet with a corrupt tree that does not bring forth good fruit, point to a like effect.

b (50) Because the punishment of which it warns them must overtake them.

c (51) The ḥaqq al-yaqīn, true certainty or certain truth of this verse, is the same as al-hāqqah of the opening verse. The ultimate triumph of Truth is a certain truth.

Chapter 70

Al-Ma‘ārij The Ways of Ascent

The title of this chapter is taken from v. 3, where Allah is called the Lord of The Ways of Ascent. While holding out the certainty of the punishment, this chapter points out at first that great ends are achieved in a long period of time. Then we are told that the means of ascent are those by which the faithful attain nearness to God. At the end it prophesies that a new nation will be raised in place of the opponents who will meet with disgrace. This chapter was revealed not later than the close of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Certainty of the Punishment

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 A questioner asks about the punishment to befall ²the disbelievers — there is none to avert it ^a — ³from Allah, Lord of the ways of Ascent. ^b ⁴To Him ascend the angels and the Spirit in a day the length of which is fifty thousand years. ^c ⁵So be patient with a goodly patience.

a (2) No particular questioner is meant. The last chapter speaks in terms of the highest certainty of the final triumph of truth and of the doom of the opponents, and the question, When will it be? was natural. It is repeated very often: “When will this promise come to pass, if you are truthful?” (36:48, 67:25, etc.).

b (3) This indicates that God grants to the faithful the means of Ascent, or of exaltation. Compare 56:3, where the Event is spoken of as degrading, exalting. The means of exaltation of the believers are pointed out in verses 22–35.

c (4) Al-Rūḥ or the Spirit very often stands for Divine revelation or Gabriel, who brings the revelation to the Prophet. But here it seems to be a collective name for the spirits of the faithful, because it is through Divine revelation that a new spirit is awakened in the faithful; see 78:38. The angels are mentioned along with the faithful because it is through an angel that spiritual life is breathed into man, and he starts life as a spiritual wayfarer. A day of the spiritual advancement of man is spoken of as being equal to fifty thousand years to show the immense vastness of that advancement. Or, the day of fifty thousand years may be the day of the final triumph of Truth in the world, from the time when revelation was first granted to man.

6 Surely they see it far off, ⁷and We see it near. ⁸The day when the heaven is as molten brass, ⁹and the mountains are as wool; ¹⁰and no friend will ask of friend, ¹¹(though) they are made to see them. The guilty one will wish he could redeem himself from the punishment of that day by his children, ¹²and his wife and his brother, ¹³and his kin that gave him shelter, ¹⁴and all that are in the earth — (wishing) then (that) this might deliver him — ¹⁵by no means! Surely it is a flaming Fire, ¹⁶plucking out the extremities — ¹⁷it shall claim him who retreats and turns his back, ¹⁸and hoards (wealth) then withholds (it).

19 Surely man is created impatient — ²⁰fretful when evil afflicts him ²¹and miserly when good befalls him — ²²except those who pray, ²³who are constant at their prayer, ²⁴and in whose wealth there is a known right ²⁵for the beggar and the destitute, ²⁶and those who accept the truth of the day of Judgment, ²⁷and those who are fearful of the punishment of their Lord — ²⁸surely the punishment of their Lord is not to be felt secure from — ²⁹and those who restrain their sexual passions, ³⁰except in the presence of their spouses or those whom their right hands possess, for such surely are not to be blamed,^a ³¹but whoever seeks to go beyond that, these are the transgressors. ³²And those who are faithful to their trusts and their covenant, ³³and those who are upright in their testimonies, ³⁴and those who keep a guard on their prayer. ³⁵These are in Gardens, honoured.

Section 2: A New Nation to be raised up

36 But what is the matter with those who disbelieve, that they hasten on to you,^b ³⁷on the right hand and on the left, in assorted groups? ³⁸Does every man of them desire to be admitted to the a (30) See 23:5–6 and footnotes.

b (36) Nearly the same words — hastening to the Inviter — occur in 54:8. Here and in the verses that follow is a description of the time when these very opponents would be hastening on to the Prophet, accepting the truth. V. 38 makes it further clear: Does every man of them desire to be admitted to the Garden of bliss?

Garden of bliss? ³⁹By no means! Surely We have created them for what they know.^a 40 But indeed! I swear by the Lord of the Eastern lands and the Western lands! that We are certainly Powerful ⁴¹to bring in their place (others) better than them, and We shall not be overcome.^b ⁴²So leave them alone to plunge in idle talk and to sport, until they come face to face with that day of theirs which they are promised — ⁴³the day when they come forth from the graves in haste, as if racing to a goal, ⁴⁴their eyes cast down, disgrace covering them. Such is the day which they are promised.^c a (39) What is negated here is the fact that the evildoers can enter the Garden of bliss. “For what” signifies the end for which man has been created. It is to rise above sin, to be able to ascend to God, the Lord of the ways of Ascent; see v. 3. The Garden of bliss stands clearly for the Ascension of man to God which is the real object of his life.

b (41) Note the clear prophecy that an evil generation will be brought to naught and another people, the righteous, shall inherit the land. The old order will be changed and a new order established instead of that.

c (44) Verses 43–44 give us a clear statement as to the final triumph of Truth and the overthrow of opposition or the triumph of righteousness over the powers of evil. Being spiritually dead, their very homes were graves in a metaphorical sense. As in almost all chapters of this period, the final triumph of Truth runs along as an undercurrent in the mention of the Resurrection.

Chapter 71

Nūḥ

Noah

This chapter deals entirely with Noah, providing an example of the certainty of the threatened punishment of evil. It was revealed in the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Noah preaches

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Surely We sent Noah to his people, saying: Warn your people before a painful punishment comes to them. ²He said: My people, surely I am a plain warner to you, ³that you should serve Allah and keep your duty to Him and obey me — ⁴He will forgive you some of your sins and grant you respite to an appointed term. Surely the term of Allah, when it comes, is not postponed. If only you knew!

5 He said: My Lord, I have called my people night and day, ⁶but my call has only made them flee the more.^a ⁷And whenever I call to them that You may forgive them, they thrust their fingers in their ears and cover themselves with their garments,^b and persist (in denial) and are big with pride. ⁸Then surely I have called to them aloud, ⁹then spoken to them in public and spoken to them a (6) The meaning is: the more I call them, the more they flee. The call is not the immediate and effective cause of their flight, which is really due to the stubbornness of their hearts. This is made clear in what follows. Exactly in the same sense a chapter of the Quran is spoken of as “adding uncleanness” to the uncleanness of those in whose hearts is a disease (9:125); and on another occasion, exactly in the same sense, Allah is spoken of as increasing the disease of those in whose hearts is a disease (2:10).

b (7) Covering themselves with garments is explained as covering their ears with their garments, denoting their holding back from giving ear, or as running away. Some take garments (ḥiṣṣāt) as meaning the heart, as in 74:4, the meaning being that they cover their hearts, refusing to ponder over what is said.

in private, ¹⁰so I have said: Ask forgiveness of your Lord; surely He is ever Forgiving, ¹¹He will send down upon you rain, pouring in abundance, ¹²and help you with wealth and sons, and make for you gardens, and make for you rivers.^a 13 What is the matter with you that you do not hope for greatness from Allah?^b ¹⁴And indeed He has created you by various stages.^c ¹⁵Do you not see how Allah has created the seven heavens alike, ¹⁶and made the moon in them (as) a light, and made the sun a lamp? ¹⁷And Allah has caused you to grow out of the earth as a growth,^d ¹⁸then He returns you to it, then will He bring you forth a (new) bringing forth.^e ¹⁹And Allah has made the earth a wide expanse for you, ²⁰that you may go along in it in spacious paths.^f a (12) They are promised various blessings, if they turn to Allah, which really means that their doom shall be averted, for nations are no doubt destroyed when they indulge in evil inordinately, and they prosper so long as their good qualities preponderate.

b (13) This is the Prophet's address to an evil generation. They are told that they can rise to greatness by giving up their evil ways.

c (14) The words undoubtedly speak of the evolution of man. It is clear from v. 17, where the first stage is spoken of as a growth from the earth, that the words here imply that man has been brought to the present state after passing through various conditions.

d (17) Here man is described as having grown out of the earth as a growth, i.e., by a process of development. Thus verses 14 and 17 refer to that great process of development through which man has attained to the present stage of physical perfection.

e (18) The new bringing forth is in reference to the Resurrection. It is called a new growth to show that it is not the same as man's life on this earth but a new life, the life Spiritual. This growth begins in this life, but a complete manifestation of it takes place in the Resurrection.

f (20) The spacious paths made for man's earthly existence are an indication of the spiritual paths wherein a God-fearing man attains to spiritual perfection. But the mention of spacious paths is also to show that the making of spacious roads is necessary for human civilization.

Section 2: Destruction of Transgressors

21 Noah said: My Lord, surely they disobey me and follow him whose wealth and children have increased him in nothing but loss. ²²And they have planned a mighty plan. ²³And they say: Do not abandon your gods; nor abandon Wadd, nor Suwā', nor Yaghūth and Ya'ūq and Nasr.^a ²⁴And indeed they have led many astray. And (my Lord) increase the wrongdoers in nothing but ruin.^b ²⁵Because of their wrongs they were drowned, then made to enter Fire, so they found no helpers besides Allah. ²⁶And Noah said: My Lord, do not leave any of the disbelievers dwelling in the land.^c ²⁷For if You leave them, they will lead astray Your servants, and will not produce any offspring but immoral, ungrateful ones. ²⁸My Lord, forgive me and my parents and him who enters my house believing, and the believing men and the believing women. And increase the wrongdoers in nothing but destruction!

a (23) The names of the idols given here are those which existed in Arabia in the Prophet's time. The Quran, while relating the histories of previous prophets, often introduces the Prophet's own history, as is the case here. Even if these verses are taken as referring to Noah, no difficulty arises because there is reason to believe that the Arabs obtained most of their idols from foreign countries. The commentators say that Wadd was worshipped in the form of a man, Suwā' in that of a woman, Yaghūth in that of a lion, Ya'ūq in that of a horse and Nasr in that of an eagle.

b (24) They only went on adding wrongs to their wrongs, hence the prayer of the messenger to increase them in nothing but ruin. In fact, they were bringing ruin on their heads with their own hands.

c (26) Noah was speaking only of his own people and praying against them only. All his statements and prayers refer to them, and not to the whole world. Hence al-arḍ simply signifies the land in which they lived and does not refer to the whole earth.

Chapter 72

Al-Jinn

The Jinn

The title of this chapter is taken from the mention of certain believers in the Holy Prophet's truth called jinn. This is a prophetic reference to those people accepting Islam who were yet hidden from the eye, belonging to lands beyond Arabia as well as to future times. The chapter was revealed two years before the Hijra when opposition to the Holy Prophet had reached a climax and persecution of Muslims was at its most severe. In such circumstances of seeming hopelessness, a very emphatic assurance of eventual success is given in this chapter. The second half of the chapter speaks of the protection granted to prophets against their enemies.

Section 1: Foreign Believers

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Say: It has been revealed to me that a group of the jinn listened,^a so they said: Surely we have heard a wonderful Quran, ²guiding to the right way — so we believe in it. And we shall not set up anyone as partner with our Lord; ³and He — exalted be the majesty of our Lord! — has not taken a consort, nor a son;^b a (1) The existence of jinn, or ethereal beings like the angels (the former being the spirits of evil and the latter the spirits of good), is a question quite distinct, but it is clear that the jinn spoken of here did not belong to this class; see 6:128 footnote 1, for full explanation of the word. Jinn are also referred to in 46:29–31, where they are made to say: “Our people, we have heard a Book revealed after Moses, verifying what is before it”. This shows that they were Jews. The jinn spoken of here are evidently Christians, as v. 3 shows.

b (3) The words of this verse are a clear indication that the persons spoken of here are Christians. That both Jews and Christians living outside Arabia accepted the message of Truth brought by the Prophet is a fact. But from what is stated further on, it appears that the reference here is to Christian nations of the distant future who will accept the truth of the message brought by the Prophet. At any rate the prophetic in these words, whether relating to the near or distant future, is clearly hinted at in the opening words of the chapter — It has been revealed to me that a group of the jinn listened.

⁴and the foolish among us used to forge extravagant lies against Allah; ⁵and we thought that the people and the jinn did not utter a lie against Allah; ⁶and men from among the people used to seek refuge with men from among the jinn, so they increased them in evil doing;^a ⁷and they thought, as you think, that Allah would not raise anyone; ⁸and we sought to reach heaven, but we found it filled with strong guards and flames;^b ⁹and we used to sit in some of its sitting-places to steal a hearing. But he who tries to listen now finds a flame lying in wait for him; ¹⁰and we do not know whether evil is meant for those on earth or whether their Lord means to direct them aright;^c ¹¹and some of us are good and others of us are below that — we are sects following different ways; ¹²and we know that we cannot escape Allah in the earth, nor can we escape Him by flight; ¹³and when we heard the guidance, we believed in it. So whoever believes in his Lord, he fears neither loss nor injustice; ¹⁴and some of us are those who submit, and others of us are deviators. So whoever submits, these aim at the right way.

15 And as to the deviators, they are fuel of hell; ¹⁶and if they keep to the (right) way, We would certainly give them to drink abundant water,^d ¹⁷so that We may try them by (means of) it. And whoever turns away from the reminder of his Lord, He will make him enter into an afflicting punishment; ¹⁸and the mosques are Allah's, so do not call upon anyone with Allah; ¹⁹and when the Servant of Allah stood up praying to Him, they nearly crowded him (to death).^e a (6) The jinn and the people (Arabic: ins) of this verse are undoubtedly the leaders of evil and the weaker ones in intellect who followed them blindly.

b (8) By reaching heaven is meant learning secrets of the heaven. The reference may be to the diviners and astrologers among them, for which see 37:7–10, but more likely it is a prophetic reference to the great scientific discoveries of the modern age relating to heaven.

c (10) These words seem to refer to the great tribulations which are meant to direct man's attention to spiritual truth.

d (16) Abundance of wealth may be meant by abundance of water.

e (19) The servant of Allah is the Holy Prophet Muhammad.

Section 2: Protection of Revelation

20 Say: I only call upon my Lord, and I do not set up any partner with Him. ²¹Say: I do not control evil nor good for you. ²²Say: None can protect me against Allah, nor can I find any refuge besides Him; ²³(my duty is) but to deliver (the command) of Allah and His messages. And whoever disobeys Allah and His Messenger, surely for him is the Fire of hell, to abide in it for a long time, ²⁴till when they see what they are promised, they will know who is weaker in helpers and smaller in numbers.^a

25 Say: I do not know whether what you are promised is near or if my Lord will appoint for it a distant term. ²⁶The Knower of the unseen, so He makes His secrets known to none, ²⁷except a messenger whom He chooses.^b For surely He makes a guard to go before him and behind him, ²⁸that He may know that they have truly delivered the messages of their Lord; and He encompasses whatever is with them, and He keeps account of all things.^c a (24) As a human being left to himself without a friend, without helper, rejected at home and elsewhere (as he was rejected at Ta'if at this time), the Holy Prophet had thus poured out his heart, in this state of utter helplessness: "O Lord, I make my complaint to You of my helplessness and frailty and of my insignificance before mankind...". Now contrast with it the revelation which he received just then, which speaks of the opponents of Truth who would soon be brought low — "they will know who is weaker in helpers and smaller in numbers". The source of the Holy Prophet's revelation was other than his own heart, for the same heart could not simultaneously vent feelings of utter helplessness and weakness and those of unbounded confidence in his ultimate triumph.

b (27) That the overthrow of opposition to the great message of Truth was certain is stated in v. 24. Then v. 25 states that the Prophet did not know whether this overthrow would come soon or in the distant future, but Truth must triumph. And the law is stated now that God makes known His will, the unseen, the Truth, by His messenger, to convey that Truth to other people. It is God's message and it must be delivered in spite of all opposition. The Divine purpose is accomplished by sending a guard, before and after the messenger, to protect him against all onslaughts, as is made clear in the words that follow.

c (28) Note the firm tone of these revelations under the disheartening circumstances to which attention has been drawn in v. 24 footnote. Such words could not proceed from any but a Divine source — the message must be delivered, Allah encompasses all, nothing is out of His reach.

Chapter 73

Al-Muzzammil

The one covering himself up

This chapter receives its title from the Holy Prophet's description in the first verse as one who had covered himself up, which signifies one who has prepared himself for prayer. The previous chapter promises protection to the Holy Prophet and here he is told to seek that protection through prayer. The chapter begins by telling the Holy Prophet to pass the night in prayer, and it ends with a general command to all believers always to be mindful of prayer. In between, the Holy Prophet is told to bear patiently the ill-treatment by his enemies, who would soon receive their punishment as did Pharaoh when he wanted to destroy Moses. The revelation of this chapter belongs to the early period at Makkah. The reference to fighting in v. 20 does not make that verse a later revelation, as that reference is prophetic.

Section 1: The Prophet enjoined to pray

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O you covering yourself up!^a 2 Rise to pray by night except a little, 3 half of it, or lessen it a little, 4 or add to it, and recite the Quran (distinctly) at a leisurely pace. 5 Surely We shall charge you with a weighty word.^b 6 The rising (to pray) by night is surely the a (1) The ordinary explanation is that, on receiving the Call, his first revelation, the Holy Prophet came back home trembling and said to his wife: Cover me, cover me. But various other explanations are given and some take it as an allusion to his preparation for prayers. The Prophet's own words, as recorded in Bukhari (1:1), make it clear that the reference here is to his covering himself up on receiving the first revelation. He is in fact told that he should not fear or tremble on account of the tremendous responsibility placed on him of reforming humanity, but should seek the help of God, through prayer to Him, the most effective prayer being prayer in the night, when the world is asleep.

b (5) Being burdened with the guidance of the whole world was indeed a weighty word, the weightiest word with which any human being has been charged in the whole history of humanity.

firmest way to tread and most effective in speech.^a ⁷Truly you have by day prolonged occupation.

8 And remember the name of your Lord and devote yourself to Him with (complete) devotion. ⁹The Lord of the East and the West — there is no god but He — so take Him for Protector. ¹⁰And bear patiently what they say and turn away from them with a dignified withdrawal. ¹¹And leave Me and the deniers, possessors of plenty, and give them respite for a little while. ¹²Surely with Us are heavy fetters and a flaming Fire, ¹³and food that chokes and a painful punishment. ¹⁴On the day when the earth and the mountains quake and the mountains become (as) heaps of sand let loose.^b

15 Surely We have sent to you a Messenger, a witness against you, as We sent a messenger to Pharaoh.^c ¹⁶But Pharaoh disobeyed the messenger, so We seized him with a violent grip. ¹⁷How, then, if you disbelieve, will you guard yourselves on the day which will make children grey-headed, ¹⁸the heaven being torn apart thereby? His promise is ever fulfilled.^d ¹⁹Surely this a (6) The praying at night is here described as being, firstly, the firmest way to tread — to tread the way of life, to tread upon all evil inclinations — and, secondly, the most effective in speech — what one says to other people becomes most effective. The speaker, the inviter to Truth, has his heart strengthened with force Divine through his lengthened devotions in the still of the night, and his word therefore carries the Divine force with it and enters the hearts of those who listen to him. Thus was the Prophet fortified doubly, in his deeds as well as in his words, to carry his message to other people, and thus should his true followers try to get strength from the same Divine source in the dead of night. The Divine light in its full brilliance then illumines the heart of man which reflects that light and illumines the world.

b (14) Verses 12–14 speak of the wretched condition in which the present possessors of ease and plenty would find themselves, and how the great obstacles to the spread of truth would be removed before the advance of Truth; see 20:105.

c (15) The Holy Prophet's likeness to Moses is stated in the clearest terms in this, one of the earliest revelations, and thus the Holy Prophet's claim to be the promised prophet of Deuteronomy 18:18, who is expressly stated to be the "like" of Moses, is as old as his revelation.

d (18) The description in verses 17–18 is applicable to both the day of Resurrection and the doom of the opponents in this life. Such phrases as the is a Reminder; so whoever wishes may take a way to his Lord.

Section 2: Prayer enjoined on Muslims

20 Your Lord knows indeed that you pass in prayer nearly two-thirds of the night, and (sometimes) half of it, and (sometimes) a third of it, as do a group of those with you. And Allah measures the night and the day. He knows that (all of) you are not able to do it, so He has turned to you (mercifully); so read of the Quran whatever is easy for you.^a He knows that there are sick among you, and others who travel in the land seeking of Allah's bounty, and others who fight in Allah's way.^b So read as much of it as is easy (for you), and keep up prayer and give the due charity and offer to Allah a goodly gift. And whatever of good you send on beforehand for yourselves, you will find it with Allah — that is best and greatest in reward. And ask forgiveness of Allah. Surely Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

rolling up of heaven (21:104), the heaven being torn apart (as here and in 82:1), the removing of the covering of heaven (81:11), and other similar phrases, all really speak of the sweeping away of the old order of things to give place to a new, attended by the necessary terrors and disasters, and hence the description applies to the doom of a nation in this world as well as to the entirely new order of things which will be ushered in with the Resurrection.

a (20-1) The Holy Prophet and those with him passed sometimes two-thirds, sometimes a half, and sometimes a third of the night in prayer. All Muslims could not follow their example, and hence they are told that they might pray by night so long as it was easy to them and not a burden. By the reading of the Quran is here meant its recital in the night-prayer called tahajjud.

b (20-2) The mention here of fighting is very probably a prophetic statement, as we find in many other places in the Quran; hence the occurrence of the word is no argument that the verse was not revealed at Makkah.

Chapter 74

Al-Muddath

The one wrapping himself up

This chapter is the second in the order of revelation. A period of about six months had elapsed since the first revelation (96:1–5), and this interruption in revelation weighed heavily on the Holy Prophet. When the angel of the Lord appeared to him again, the Holy Prophet sought to wrap himself up in clothes, hence the title of this chapter. He is told not to seek seclusion but to arise and warn a people sunk low in evil.

Section 1: The Prophet enjoined to warn

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 O you who wrap yourself up!^a 2 Arise and warn,^b 3 and your Lord do magnify, 4 and your garments do purify,^c 5 and uncleanness do shun, 6 and do no favour seeking gain,^d 7 and for the sake of your Lord, be patient.

8 For when the trumpet is sounded, 9 that will be — that day — a difficult day, 10 for the disbelievers, anything but easy. 11 Leave Me alone with him whom I created, 12 and gave him vast riches, 13 and sons dwelling in his presence, 14 and made matters a (1) Some take the word muddath metaphorically, the meaning being one clad in the garments of prophethood.

b (2) In the last chapter, the Prophet is commanded to engage himself in devotion so that he should attain to perfection; here he is commanded to convey the message and to warn, to make others perfect.

c (4) Purification of the garments does not relate only to the outward act of purification, but also to the purification of the heart, as is shown in the next verse, which contains a command to shun every kind of uncleanness.

d (6) The reference is in particular to the great favour which the Holy Prophet did to others by warning them and guiding them to the right way. But the words are general; even when conferring a worldly benefit on another, there should be no intention to receive any return for it.

easy for him, ¹⁵and yet he desires that I should give more! ¹⁶By no means! Surely he is hostile to Our messages. ¹⁷I will make a distressing punishment overtake him. ¹⁸Surely he reflected and determined, ¹⁹but may he be destroyed how he determined! ²⁰Again, may he be destroyed how he determined! ²¹Then he looked, ²²then frowned and scowled, ²³then turned back and was big with pride, ²⁴then said: This is nothing but magic from of old, ²⁵this is nothing but the word of a mortal!

26 I will cast him into hell. ²⁷And what will make you realize what hell is? ²⁸It leaves nothing, and spares nothing. ²⁹It scorches the mortal. ³⁰Over it are nineteen.^a ³¹And We have made none but angels (to be) wardens of the Fire, and We have made their number only as a trial for those who disbelieve, that those who have been given the Book may be certain and those who believe may increase in faith, and those who have been given the Book and the believers may not doubt; and that those in whose hearts is a disease and the disbelievers may say: What does Allah mean by this parable? Thus Allah leaves in error whom He pleases, and guides whom He pleases. And none knows the forces of your Lord but He. And this is nothing but a Reminder to mortals.

Section 2: The Warning

32 Indeed, by the moon! ³³And the night when it departs! ³⁴And the dawn when it shines! ³⁵Surely it is one of the gravest (misfortunes), ³⁶a warning to mortals, ³⁷to him among you who will go forward or will remain behind.^b ³⁸Every soul is held in a (30) This is called a parable in the next verse: what does Allah mean by this parable? All that the Quran says is that over it are nineteen. The commentators think that nineteen angels, or nineteen classes, or nineteen ranks may be meant. The particular number is considered to be due to the misuse of nineteen faculties which are enumerated by the commentators.

b (37) The light of Truth would shine forth, we are told in these verses (32–40), but not without a grave misfortune to those who refuse to go forward, and this is a warning. Those who go forward, on the other hand, will not be affected by that, the gravest of misfortunes, for the people of the right hand will be in Gardens, every soul being pledged for what it earns. The prophetic strain adopted here regarding the doom of the opponents is continued to the end of the chapter.

pledge for what it earns, ³⁹except the people of the right hand. ⁴⁰In Gardens, they ask one another, ⁴¹about the guilty: ⁴²What has brought you into hell? ⁴³They will say: We were not from among those who prayed, ⁴⁴nor did we feed the poor,^a ⁴⁵and we indulged in idle talk with idle talkers, ⁴⁶and we called the day of Judgment a lie, ⁴⁷till the inevitable caught up with us. ⁴⁸So the intercession of intercessors will not avail them.

49 What is then the matter with them, that they turn away from the Reminder, ⁵⁰as if they were frightened donkeys, ⁵¹fleeing from a lion? ⁵²No, everyone of them desires that he should be given pages spread out^b — ⁵³By no means! But they do not fear the Hereafter. ⁵⁴Indeed, it is surely a Reminder. ⁵⁵So whoever wishes may be mindful of it. ⁵⁶And they will not be mindful unless Allah please.^c He is Worthy that duty should be kept to Him and Worthy to forgive.^d a (44) Note the reply to v. 42 — What has brought you into hell? It is neglect of two chief duties: we did not pray and we did not feed the poor. These are thus the two pillars of faith, service of God and service of humanity.

b (52) Everyone of them would have a revelation granted to him direct from heaven. This they said repeatedly: Why does not Allah speak to us? (2:118).

c (56-1) In the Quran God does not compel people to adopt one way or another. He points out the right course from the wrong and leaves it to the choice of the individual: So whoever wishes may be mindful of it (v. 55); We have truly shown him the way; he may be thankful or unthankful (76:3). Similar verses abound in the Quran. The statement, and they will not be mindful unless Allah please, means that Allah is pleased to guide those in the right way and to make those mindful who open their hearts to receive it. Note how clearly the verses preceding it depict the condition of those who do not even listen to the Reminder: What is then the matter with them, that they turn away from the Reminder, as if they were frightened donkeys, fleeing from a lion? (verses 49–51). See also 76:30.

d (56-2) God is Worthy that duty of Him should be observed and therefore whoever fails to observe that duty must suffer. But God is not a hard taskmaster; if man fails to observe his duty, God in His unbounded love comes to his help and covers his faults with His vast forgiveness. The epithet here used — Worthy to forgive — indicates that forgiveness is in His nature; even if man does not ask for forgiveness, He forgives.

Al-Qiyāmah

The Resurrection

This chapter is entitled The Resurrection from the occurrence of that word in its first verse, which puts forward the spiritual resurrection as evidence of the great Resurrection. The self-accusing spirit of v. 2 is the first stage in man's spiritual resurrection, the stage at which the inner self of man asserts itself when he does evil. At this stage the human in man becomes stronger than the animal. This chapter, dealing with the subject of the resurrection, is a very early revelation.

Section 1: The Truth of the Resurrection

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 No, I swear by the day of Resurrection!^a 2No, I swear by the self-accusing spirit!^b 3Does man think that We shall not gather his bones?^c 4Indeed, We are Powerful to make complete his whole make.^d 5But man desires to go on doing evil in front of him. 6He asks: When is the day of Resurrection? 7So when the sight is confused,^e 8and the moon becomes dark, 9and the sun and the moon are brought together^f — 10man will say on that day: Where to flee?

a (1) By the resurrection is here meant the spiritual resurrection of the Arabs, to be brought about through the Prophet. The primary significance of qiyāmah is only rising, the rising of a man all at once. Al-qiyāmah is now a term which is synonymous with the great Resurrection, but it has not lost its original significance, and means also the rising to life of those who are spiritually dead. The lā ("no") in the beginning of v. 1 and v. 2 is used to give emphasis to the oath.

c (3) The gathering of the bones stands for a new life.

d (4) God, Who made a complete man out of nothing, we are here told, has also the power to give life to bones or to raise him a second time.

e (7) Some great calamity is implied which would perplex the opponents. Some commentators take these to be the signs of the approach of the death of a person.

f (9) This implies the disappearance of the light of both.

¹¹No! There is no refuge! ¹²With your Lord on that day is the place of rest. ¹³Man will that day be informed of what he sent on ahead and what he put off.^a ¹⁴Indeed, man is evidence against himself, ¹⁵though he put up excuses.

16 (O Prophet) Do not move your tongue therewith to make haste with it.^b ¹⁷Surely on Us rests the collecting of it and the reciting of it.^c ¹⁸So when We recite it, follow its recitation. ¹⁹Again on Us rests the explaining of it.

20 No, but you love the present life, ²¹and neglect the Hereafter. ²²(Some) faces that day will be bright, ²³looking to their Lord.^d ²⁴And (other) faces that day will be gloomy, ²⁵knowing that a (13) What he sent on ahead implies the evil deeds which he did but ought not to have done; what he put off being the good deeds which he failed to do but which he ought to have done.

b (16) The preceding verses speak of the distress which must befall those who do not forsake the wrong course. The Prophet naturally desired to make it clear to them, and therefore, he was anxious that the warning should be given immediately in plainer words. So, he is told not to make haste with it. Hence the statement made in the verses that follow, namely, that the recitation and collection of the whole of the Quran, together with its effective explanation to the opponents, were matters which Allah had decided to bring about, and the Prophet should have no anxiety on that account. Compare 20:113–114.

c (17) There can be no clearer evidence that the collection of the verses into chapters and of the chapters into one whole is here claimed by the Quran to be a matter which, like its revelation, was to be entirely carried out under Divine guidance by the Holy Prophet himself. The Holy Book was thus from the first intended to be arranged and collected into one whole. Note that if the order of revelation were to be followed in the arrangement of its parts, its collection would not have been spoken of as something distinct from its revelation, which is implied in the word recitation.

d (23) As that day represents both the day of the breathing of the life spiritual here and the day of the Resurrection, the words looking to their Lord have also a double significance, indicating looking to the Lord for their reward in the former case, and, the highest bliss of all, the sight of the Lord in the Hereafter. It should be noted that the sight of the Lord does not imply that the Lord will have a body; it is not with the material eye that the Lord will be seen, but by the spiritual eye, which the righteous will possess on the day of Resurrection.

a great disaster will be made to befall them.^a ²⁶Indeed, when (the soul) comes up to the throat, ²⁷and it is said: Who will ascend (with it)?^b ²⁸and he is sure that it is the parting, ²⁹and affliction is combined with affliction — ³⁰to your Lord on that day is the driving.

Section 2: The Dead rise

31 So he did not accept the truth, nor did he pray, ³²but denied and turned back, ³³then he went to his people arrogantly.^c ³⁴Nearer to you and nearer; ³⁵again, nearer to you and nearer (is woe).^d ³⁶Does man think that he will be left aimless?^e ³⁷Was he not a small life-germ in sperm emitted? ³⁸Then he was a clot; so He created (him), then made (him) perfect. ³⁹Then He made of him two kinds, the male and the female. ⁴⁰Is not He Powerful to give life to the dead?^f a (25) Note that this great disaster also befell them in this life, and thus it demonstrated the truth of the Hereafter.

b (27) Will the angels of mercy ascend with it or the angels of punishment?

c (33) The description applies to every opponent.

d (35) The haughty opponent is warned that destruction is very near. The repetition shows that the opponents were threatened with a double punishment, namely, in this life and in the Hereafter. In fact, the double punishment is spoken of throughout the chapter.

e (36) The verse draws attention to the seriousness of life and to man's responsibility for his actions — a doctrine denied as much today as it was by the Arabs.

f (40) The giving of "life to the dead" not only signifies raising after death, but also spiritually raising a dead people to life.

Chapter 76

Al-Insān

Man

This chapter, entitled Man from the occurrence of this word in the first verse, deals with man's attainment to perfection. It shows that in the attainment of this perfection there are two stages: the suppression of all evil tendencies and the gaining of strength to perform great deeds of sacrifice. Towards the end, the chapter says that if those addressed by the Holy Prophet do not accept his message, Allah will cause another people to take their place, for the Quran must accomplish its object of enabling man to attain to perfection. Its revelation belongs to a very early period at Makkah.

Section 1: Attainment of Perfection

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Surely there came over man a time when he was nothing that could be mentioned. 2 Surely We have created man from sperm mixed (with ovum), to try him, so We have made him hearing, seeing. 3 We have truly shown him the way; he may be thankful or unthankful.^a 4 Surely We have prepared for the disbelievers chains and shackles and a burning Fire.^b

5 The righteous truly drink of a cup tempered with camphor^c a (3) The right way is shown clearly; it is for man himself to walk in it and thus be thankful, or away from it and thus be unthankful. Or the meaning may be he may accept or reject.

b (4) See 69:32 footnote.

c (5) The original for camphor is kāfir, which is derived from kafr meaning to cover or to suppress. Medically camphor is a cool and refreshing aromatic, but here it is used in reference to its original significance. The cup of which the righteous drink is the cup of the love of Allah, and its mixture with kāfir is to indicate that by this cup all low desires and sexual passions which lead man away from the path of righteousness are suppressed, in the same manner as poisonous matter is suppressed by camphor. Man needs an intoxication and for it he generally resorts to alcoholic drinks, which bring in their train evil and slavery to sexual passions. The Prophet intoxicated his followers with the love of Allah, and as a result of

— ⁶a fountain from which the servants of Allah drink, making it flow in abundance.^a ⁷They fulfil (their) vows and fear a day, the evil of which is widespread. ⁸And they give food, out of love for Him, to the poor and the orphan and the captive. ⁹We feed you, for Allah's pleasure only — we desire from you neither reward nor thanks.^b ¹⁰Surely we fear from our Lord a stern, distressful day.

11 So Allah will guard them from the evil of that day, and cause them to meet with splendour and happiness; ¹²and reward them, for their steadfastness, with a Garden and with silk, ¹³reclining in it on raised couches; they will see therein neither (excessive heat of) sun nor intense cold. ¹⁴And close down upon them are its shadows, and its fruits are made near (to them), easy to reach. ¹⁵And round about them are made to go vessels of silver and goblets of glass, ¹⁶crystal-clear, made of silver — they have measured them according to a measure.^c ¹⁷And they are made to drink therein a cup tempered with ginger^d — ¹⁸(of) a fountain in it this, their evil tendencies were altogether suppressed. Verses 7 and 8 show clearly that it is of the change brought about in this very life that the Quran is speaking here. In the spiritual advancement of man this is the first stage, because it is not until the evil tendencies of man are completely suppressed that he is able to advance to the higher stages of spiritual perfection.

a (6) The fountain from which the servants of Allah drink is the fountain of the love of God referred to in the previous verse. It is not a cup which may be exhausted with one draught; it is a fountain. The faithful are here spoken of as the servants of Allah — 'ibād Allāh — because an 'abd (singular of 'ibād) is really one who is entirely lost in the love of God. But here we are further told that they not only drink of it themselves but they make it to flow forth in such abundance that others also may partake of it.

b (9) The fulfilment of vows spoken of in v. 7 is in relation to the service of God, or the act of bringing themselves closer and closer to God, while the feeding of the poor spoken of in verses 8 and 9 is in relation to the service of humanity. Thus they combine the service of God with the service of humanity. The words for Allah's pleasure clearly show that it is of the love of God that these verses speak. Man worships Allah for the love of Allah, but the Quran requires him to serve humanity also for the love of Allah.

c (16) That is, everyone will receive them according to the measure of his deeds.

d (17) The Arabic word for ginger is zanjabīl. It is said to have a property that is heating or warming, strengthening and exhilarating. The first cup of the called Salsabīl.^a ¹⁹And round about them will go youths, never altering in age;^b when you see them you will think them to be scattered pearls. ²⁰And when you look there, you see blessings and a great kingdom.^c ²¹On them are garments of fine green silk and thick brocade, and they are adorned with bracelets of silver, and their Lord makes them to drink a pure drink.^d ²²Surely this is a reward for you, and your striving is recompensed.

Section 2: Another Generation will be raised up

23 Surely We have revealed the Quran to you, in portions. ²⁴So wait patiently for the judgment of your Lord,^e and do not obey a sinner or an ungrateful one among them. ²⁵And glorify the name of your Lord morning and evening. ²⁶And during part of the night adore Him, and glorify Him throughout a long night.

27 Surely these (people) love the transitory life and neglect a grievous day before them. ²⁸We created them and made firm their make, and, when We will, We can bring in their place others like love of God is spoken of in v. 5, as being tempered with camphor and bringing about suppression of evil, and this second cup is now spoken of as strengthening and exhilarating, i.e., enabling man to perform great and noble deeds. The love of God thus not only suppresses the evil inclinations of man, but also enables him to attain a still higher stage of spiritual advancement, giving him the strength to perform wonderful deeds of self-sacrifice.

a (18) Salsabīl means easy, sweet, rapid-flowing. According to some it is made up of sal, meaning ask, and sabīl, way, as if it meant, Ask your Lord a way to it.

b (19) Because these are heavenly blessings, and decay cannot overtake them; see 56:17.

c (20) The word thamma meaning there or thither is used here in reference to the spiritual kingdom which is granted to the faithful. They are granted blessings and a great kingdom in this life as well, to which man shuts his eyes on account of his ignorance.

d (21) As they led pure lives here, they were made to drink a pure drink in this very life. They will have a pure drink in the Hereafter, too, the heavenly life being the purest that can be imagined.

e (24) This shows that the blessings mentioned in the previous section will also find a manifestation in this life; the Divine judgment will bring about the fall of one party and the rise of another.

them by change.^a ²⁹Surely this is a Reminder; so whoever wishes, let him take a way to his Lord. ³⁰And you do not (so) wish, unless Allah please.^b Surely Allah is ever Knowing, Wise. ³¹He admits whom He pleases to His mercy; and the wrongdoers — He has prepared for them a painful punishment.

a (28) The mention of the grievous day in the previous verse and the statement here that another people will take the place of these are clear prophecies for this life. Hence it is called a warning in the verse that follows.

b (30) The faithful may be spoken of here; v. 29 states that whoever wishes, let him take a way to his Lord, and v. 31 refers to the faithful in the words, He admits whom He pleases to His mercy. The meaning is that true and sincere believers have so completely submitted themselves to the Divine will and are so completely resigned that all their wishes and desires are in accordance with Allah's pleasure (the words conveying: you do not wish but what Allah pleases).

Taking the words as a general statement, note that the chapter opens with the clear statement in v. 3, We have truly shown him the way; he may be thankful or unthankful; so that man has not been constrained by God to adopt a particular course, whether for good or for evil. The end of the chapter is equally clear: Surely this is a Reminder; so whoever wishes, let him take a way to his Lord. The words — you do not wish, unless Allah please — therefore mean that man's choice would have no effect, if it did not please Allah. There are two things necessary for the guidance of man: firstly, the revelation of the Reminder by Allah, and secondly, the acceptance of that Reminder by man. If Allah had not pleased to reveal the Reminder, man's choice would have been nowhere.

Chapter 77

Al-Mursalāt

Those Sent Forth

This chapter is a supplement to the previous, for while it is shown there how the righteous attain to perfection, here the fate of the rejectors is made clear. Those sent forth are the Divine messengers, the rejection of whose message brings evil consequences, and that word (mursalāt), occurring in the first verse, gives its name to this chapter. The fourth year of the Holy Prophet's mission is regarded as the probable date of the revelation of this chapter.

Section 1: Consequences of Rejection

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By those sent forth to spread goodness! 2Then those driving off the chaff! 3And those spreading (goodness), far and wide! 4Then those making a distinction! 5Then those offering the Reminder, 6to clear or to warn! — 7Surely what you are promised will come to pass.^a

8 So when the stars are made to disappear, 9and when the heaven is torn apart, 10and when the mountains are carried away as dust, 11and when the messengers are made to reach their appointed

^a (7) As stated in 37:1 footnote, attention is drawn in what are called oaths to certain indisputable facts, which lead to a conclusion. The conclusion here is that the opponents are doomed (v. 12). The characteristics described in the first six verses apply to prophets whose opponents were destroyed. This is made clear by the mention of the appointed time of the messengers in v. 11, by which, of course, is meant the appointed time of the destruction of the enemies of Truth. They are told to consider how Truth was spread by former prophets. In v. 1 they are spoken of as being sent with goodness; in v. 2, as driving off the chaff of falsehood before them; in v. 3, as scattering the seed of goodness far and wide or giving life to dead earth; in v. 4, as ultimately bringing about a distinction between truth and falsehood, and in v. 5 and 6 as giving the Reminder that one party may be cleared and the other warned. These considerations about the former prophets should lead the opponents to the certain conclusion that the same Divine law was working in the case of the Holy Prophet, and their doom was also certain.

time,^a ¹²to what day is the doom fixed? ¹³To the day of Decision. ¹⁴And what will make you comprehend what the day of Decision is? ¹⁵Woe on that day to the rejectors! ¹⁶Did We not destroy the former generations? ¹⁷Then We followed them up with later ones. ¹⁸Thus do We deal with the guilty. ¹⁹Woe on that day to the rejectors!^b

20 Did We not create you from a worthless seeming water? ²¹Then We placed it in a secure resting-place, ²²till an appointed term, ²³so We determined — how well are We at determining! ²⁴Woe on that day to the rejectors! ²⁵Have We not made the earth draw to itself ²⁶the living and the dead,^c ²⁷and made in it lofty mountains, and given you to drink sweet water? ²⁸Woe on that day to the rejectors!

29 Walk on to that which you called a lie. ³⁰Walk on to the shadow, having three branches,^d ³¹neither cool, nor availing against the flame. ³²It sends up sparks like palaces, ³³as if they were yellow camels.^e ³⁴Woe on that day to the rejectors! ³⁵This is the day on a (11) The disappearance of the stars (v. 8) was a sign for the Arabs of the befalling of a calamity. The tearing apart of the heaven (v. 9) indicated the same, because the heaven was considered a protection. Compare 21:32: And We have made the heaven a guarded canopy; see 73:18 footnote. The passing away of the mountains (v. 10) signified the disappearance of among them of their great men, whose protection they sought in time of distress. All these things would be brought about when came the appointed time of the messengers, i.e., the time of the destruction of their opponents.

b (19) Note the clear words of verses 16–19. The former generations were destroyed because of their wickedness and others were brought up in their place; such will always be the fate of the guilty — the day of their doom is the day of Decision. A complete manifestation of that day is, however, reserved for the Hereafter.

c (26) This refers to the law of gravitation. It further shows that the belief relating to the ascent of Jesus to the fourth heaven is erroneous.

d (30) The word zill, translated here as “shadow”, is extensively used to carry a number of other significances, such as covering, protection, a plentiful or an easy state of life. The three branches of it are the three characteristics thereof stated in the verses that follow; see the next footnote.

e (33) They reject the Truth and seek comfort and ease in material benefits.

which they do not speak, ³⁶nor are they allowed to offer excuses. ³⁷Woe on that day to the rejectors! ³⁸This is the day of Decision; We have gathered you and the ancients.^a ³⁹So if you have a plan, plan against me (now).^b ⁴⁰Woe on that day to the rejectors!

Section 2: Consequences of Rejection

⁴¹ Surely the dutiful are amid shades and fountains, ⁴²and fruits such as they desire. ⁴³Eat and drink pleasantly for what you did. ⁴⁴Thus do We reward the doers of good. ⁴⁵Woe on that day to the rejectors! ⁴⁶Eat and enjoy yourselves for a little while; surely you are guilty. ⁴⁷Woe on that day to the rejectors! ⁴⁸And when it is said to them, Bow down (before Allah), they do not bow down. ⁴⁹Woe on that day to the rejectors! ⁵⁰In what announcement after this will they then believe?

They are given a shade, but it does not serve the purpose of shade. It is devoid of the coolness of shade — they cannot find solace in it. Nor does it avail them against flames, which stand here for the distresses of life. More than this, what they mistook for ease and plenty is itself a source of distress. Sparks arise therefrom, sparks as big as palaces. In fact, the very palaces which they make for their comfort turn into sparks, which set fire to all around them. Perhaps there is a deeper reference here to the modern implements of destruction on account of their magnitude and extensive destructive effect. These sparks are further compared to yellow camels, which is true not only as regards their colour but also because of the succession with which these big sparks follow one another, like camels walking one after another in a line.

a (38) This gathering together will take place in the Resurrection, but the opponents of Truth, earlier as well as later, are gathered together in punishment in this life, too.

b (39) The opponents are even so early challenged to execute their plans against the Holy Prophet.

Chapter 78

Al-Naba'

The Announcement

This chapter is entitled Al-Naba' or the Announcement, from the mention in v. 2 of the tremendous or very great announcement. It announces to humanity that God will give life to a dead earth through the Holy Prophet. It speaks also of the day of Decision to show that Truth will ultimately triumph over opposition to it. Its revelation belongs to the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Day of Decision

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 About what do they ask one another? 2 About the tremendous announcement 3 concerning which they differ.^a 4 No, they will soon know; 5 no, again, they will soon know. 6 Have We not made the earth an expanse 7 and the mountains as pegs? 8 And We have created you in pairs, 9 and made your sleep for rest, 10 and made the night a covering, 11 and made the day for seeking livelihood. 12 And We have made above you seven strong (bodies), 13 and made a shining lamp,^b 14 and We send down from the clouds water pouring forth in abundance, 15 that We may bring forth with it grain and vegetation, 16 and luxuriant gardens.

a (3) Some commentators take the “tremendous announcement” to signify the Quran, others the prophethood of Muhammad and still others the day of Resurrection. In fact, all three are included. The Quran was revealed as the greatest of the Divine messages hitherto given to humanity, because it was a message for the whole of humanity, compared with the smaller messages to this or that nation. It was, moreover, the most complete message. It gave the great news that the whole of humanity would receive life through it. They differed about it not only in the sense that they rejected it, but also because they put in different suggestions, some saying that the Prophet was a madman, others that he was a dreamer, others still that he was a poet or a fabricator, and so on.

b (13) The seven strong bodies of v. 12 are apparently the seven major planets of the solar system, the words above you clearly showing that the earth itself belongs to the same class, and the sun, the centre of the solar system, is spoken of in the words a shining lamp.

17 Surely the day of Decision is appointed ^a — 18 the day when the trumpet is blown, so you come forth in companies, ¹⁹ and the heaven is opened so it becomes as doors, ²⁰ and the mountains are moved off, so they remain a (mere) semblance. ^b 21 Surely hell lies in wait, ²² a destination for the inordinate, ²³ living in it for long years. ^c 24 They do not taste therein coolness nor drink, ²⁵ but boiling and intensely cold water, ²⁶ a recompense corresponding. ^d 27 Surely they did not fear the reckoning, ²⁸ and rejected Our messages, denying (them). ²⁹ And We have recorded everything in a book, ³⁰ so taste, for We shall add to you nothing but punishment. ^e

Section 2: The Day of Decision

31 Surely for those who keep their duty is achievement, ^f ³² gardens and vineyards, ³³ and youthful (companions), equals in age, ^g ³⁴ and a pure cup. ³⁵ They do not hear therein vain words a (17) That there is a day of Decision in this life too, which is synonymous with the ultimate triumph of Truth and the doom of opposition to its spread, is amply clear from all these early chapters.

b (20) The description contained in verses 18–20 is a prophetic description of the final triumph of Truth. People will come forth in companies to accept the Truth (see ch. 110: “when the help of Allah and victory comes and you see people entering the religion of Allah in companies”); the heaven is opened and the dead earth receives life (v. 19); the mountains — the great opposing forces — melt away, and all that remains of opposition is a mere semblance.

c (23) The use of the word ahqāb (long years), which signifies a limited period, leaves no doubt that the punishment of hell is not eternal. Such words are never used regarding the bliss of heavenly life, which is a clear indication that the latter will never come to an end, while the former shall; see 11:107 footnote.

d (26) The punishment of hell is described here as a recompense corresponding to the sin. Various names are given to hell itself, and various sorts of punishment are spoken of. Thus every sinner has his own hell, corresponding to his sin.

e (30) As they in their inordinacy added evil to evil, they shall have correspondingly punishment added to punishment. The addition in punishment lasts only until the evil is requited.

f (31) The reward of good is achievement — achievement of the object of this life as also of the great goal of the next life. It is this achievement which becomes a Garden.

g (33) It should be noted that neither the word kawā'ib (“youthful”) nor nor lying — ³⁶a reward from your Lord, a gift sufficient; ³⁷the Lord of the heavens and the earth and all that is between them, the Beneficent, they are not able to address Him. ³⁸The day when the Spirit and the angels stand in ranks;^a none shall speak except he whom the Beneficent permits and he speaks aright. ³⁹That is the True Day, so whoever wishes may take refuge with his Lord. ⁴⁰Truly We warn you of a punishment near at hand^b — the day when man will see what (deeds) his hands have sent ahead, and the disbeliever will say: I wish I were dust!

atrāb (“equals in age”) is preceded or followed by any qualifying words. Hence kawā’ib only means showing freshness of youth. For “equals in age” see 38:52 footnote. For further explanation see 52:20 footnote.

a (38) The word al-rūḥ, translated as the Spirit, really signifies Divine inspiration or Divine revelation. See 40:15, 70:4 and footnotes there. Gabriel is called al-rūḥ because he brings the Divine revelation to the Prophet. The human spirit can, in fact, be called al-rūḥ only when it receives light through Divine inspiration. The meaning would thus be that on the day of Judgment the faithful and the angels stand in ranks in the presence of God.

b (40) The punishment of which the disbelievers are warned throughout the chapter is a punishment near at hand, which term, like the nearer punishment of 32:21, indicates the punishment of this life.

Chapter 79

Al-Nāzi‘āt

Those Who Yearn

This chapter is named after the word which occurs in the first verse as a description of the groups or parties of the faithful who were destined to bring about a transformation in the world. Their chief characteristics are mentioned in the first four verses as being those who yearned ardently after God, and who went forth cheerfully braving all opposition, then ran swiftly in the cause of Truth, and went ahead of all such communities who had a similar yearning in the past and regulated affairs. These verses are followed by predicting the great revolution which would be brought about by their exertions. It is a revelation of the early period at Makkah.

Section 1: The Great Commotion

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By those yearning vehemently! 2And those going forth cheerfully! 3And those running swiftly! 4And those that are foremost going ahead! 5And those regulating the Affair!^a 6The day when the quaking one shall quake^b — 7the consequence will

a (5) These verses give a description of the spiritual characteristics of the faithful. There was a vehement yearning in the hearts of the believers for their Maker (v. 1), and it was this ardent desire that made them go forth in the way of God cheerfully in spite of the severest opposition (v. 2); they ran swiftly (v. 3), so that they traversed eastern and western lands in an incredibly short time; they were thus ahead of all those who ever carried the message of Truth to their fellow-man (v. 4); and lastly, they regulated the affair of the spread of Truth in the world (v. 5), so that the farthest east (China) and farthest west (Morocco and Spain) were lit with the light of Islam within a hundred years. Compare 32:5. Taking the words in a general sense, they indicate the various stages through which an affair is brought to a successful issue. The first stage is that of an ardent desire or yearning for it; the second is that of going forth cheerfully to accomplish it; the third is that of running swiftly for its accomplishment; the fourth is that of going ahead of others; and the fifth that of regulating it in the best possible way.

b (6) The quaking of the earth is often spoken of as an indication of a great revolution. What is meant is therefore that the efforts of the faithful spoken of in follow it.^a ⁸Hearts that day will palpitate, ⁹their eyes downcast. ¹⁰They say: Shall we indeed be restored to (our) first state? ¹¹What! After we are rotten bones? ¹²They say: That would then be a return with loss. ¹³It is only a single cry, ¹⁴when lo! they will be awakened.^b ¹⁵Has not the story of Moses come to you, ¹⁶when his Lord called him in the holy valley, Tuwa? ¹⁷Go to Pharaoh, surely he has rebelled. ¹⁸And say: Will you purify yourself? ¹⁹And I will guide you to your Lord so that you fear (Him). ²⁰So he showed him the mighty sign; ²¹but he denied and disobeyed. ²²Then he went back hastily, ²³so he gathered (his people) and called out, ²⁴and said: I am your Lord, the most high. ²⁵So Allah seized him with the punishment of the Hereafter and of this life.^c ²⁶Surely in this there is a lesson for him who fears.

Section 2: The Great Calamity

²⁷Are you the stronger in creation or the heaven? He made it. ²⁸He raised high its height,^d and made it perfect, ²⁹and He made dark its night and brought out its light. ³⁰And the earth, He cast it after that.^e ³¹He brought forth from it its water and its pasture.

the first five verses will bring about a great commotion or a great revolution in the world, indicating the transformation which was to be brought about through them.

a (7) The consequence of great commotions is the ultimate triumph of Truth. But the triumph of Truth is also the destruction of the opponents of Truth; hence the mention of palpitating hearts and downcast eyes in the next two verses.

b (14) The spiritual awakening — the great transformation to be brought about by the Prophet — is spoken of here in clear words. This awakening was first to be brought about in Arabia and then in the whole world.

c (25) The nature of the punishment in store for the opponents is made clear by citing the example of Pharaoh.

d (28) The raising high of the height is an allusion to its extremely great height. There is a reference here to the great distances of the heavenly bodies, which stagger human imagination.

e (30) Two things are made clear in this brief statement. (1) The earth was brought into existence after the heaven, or the starry creation; and (2) it was cast away, as a stone is cast away, from a bigger creation.

³²And the mountains, He made them firm, ³³a provision for you and for your cattle.^a 34 So when the great Calamity comes^b — ³⁵the day when man remembers all that he strove for, ³⁶and hell is made manifest to him who sees. ³⁷Then as for him who is inordinate, ³⁸and prefers the life of this world, ³⁹hell is surely the abode. ⁴⁰And as for him who fears to stand before his Lord and restrains himself from low desires,^c ⁴¹the Garden is surely the abode.

42 They ask you about the Hour, when will that take place, ⁴³about which you remind (them)? ⁴⁴To your Lord is the goal of it.^d ⁴⁵You are only a warner to him who fears it. ⁴⁶On the day when they see it, it will be as if they had remained (in this world) only for an evening or a morning.

a (33) How the earth was made fit for living on is next made clear. Its water, which is the source of all its life, was brought forth from it, and water made possible the growth of vegetation. The mountains were raised so that they might serve as a provision for you and your cattle. The mountains are the sources of rivers and through these all living things on earth are provided with sustenance.

b (34) By the great calamity here is generally understood only the Resurrection, but the words of v. 25 make it clear that the reference is as much to the calamity of this life as to the Resurrection. The making of hell manifest to him who sees in v. 36 is a clear indication of the same; the hell of the next life is spoken of in v. 39.

c (40) Refraining from low desires is the chief source from which grows a paradise. This further shows that the description given in the first five verses is really a description of the spiritual advancement of the faithful.

d (44) The Hour is in itself a manifestation of Divine purpose. The destruction or punishment of the disbelievers is not an end in itself. The great goal of this punishment is the Lord — Rabb — Who brings everything to perfection, and the real goal of human life is thus the Lord or the meeting with the Lord.

'Abasa

He Frowned

Opening with a touching incident as to how a blind man interrupted the Holy Prophet's conversation with some of the chiefs of the Quraish, and how the Prophet frowned at this interruption, this chapter, to which the incident gives its title, really states that the poor and the humble who accepted the Truth would be raised to eminence, and therefore the Prophet should not be anxious if eminent men did not listen to his message. The chapter thus speaks of the greatness to which the Quran would raise its followers, and of its conquests in the far future. It is one of the very early revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 He frowned and turned away, ²because the blind man came to him.^a ³And what would make you know that he might purify himself, ⁴or be mindful, so the Reminder should benefit him?

a (2) A blind man came to the Holy Prophet while he was explaining the doctrines of Islam to an assembly of the leaders of the Quraish and, interrupting, asked to be taught what Allah had revealed to him. The Holy Prophet took this untimely interruption ill — he frowned and did not pay any attention to his question; on which he received this revelation. This incident shows that the source of the Holy Prophet's revelation was other than his own mind. It may be noted that the Prophet's inattention to an intruder, while he had not yet finished his conversation, was quite natural. He did not chide the intruder for his interruption, but only disliked it and gave him no answer. An individual would himself be the last person to give permanence to a reproof for his own act. Hence the source from which the Holy Prophet received his revelation was outside his own heart or his own inclinations.

It may be noted that the chief trait of the Holy Prophet's character was his great regard for the poor. There are numerous incidents on record showing his service of the poor. He not only loved the poor from the time that he was an ordinary citizen to the time that he became the ruler of the whole of Arabia, but he himself chose to be classed among the poor in his life as well as in his death. Even when the wealth of Arabia lay at his feet, and his wives claimed share in that wealth, he showed his readiness to sacrifice every comfort, but not the honour of remaining a poor man.

⁵As for him who considers himself free from need, ⁶to him you do attend. ⁷And no blame is on you, if he does not purify himself.^a ⁸And as to him who comes to you striving hard, ⁹and he fears — ¹⁰to him you pay no regard. ¹¹No! surely it is a Reminder. ¹²So whoever wishes, let him be mindful of it. ¹³In honoured books, ¹⁴exalted, purified, ¹⁵in the hands of scribes, ¹⁶noble, virtuous.^b

17 Woe to man! How ungrateful is he! ¹⁸Of what thing did He create him? ¹⁹Of a small life-germ. He creates him, then proportions him,^c ²⁰then makes the way easy for him, ²¹then He causes him to die, then assigns to him a grave, ²²then, when He will, He raises him to life again. ²³No, but he does not fulfil what He commands him. ²⁴Then let man look at his food — ²⁵how We pour down abundant water, ²⁶then split the earth, splitting (it) apart, ²⁷then cause the grain to grow in it, ²⁸and grapes and clover, ²⁹and the olive and the palm, ³⁰and thick gardens, ³¹and fruits and vegetation — ³²a provision for you and your cattle.

a (7) If the Quraish leaders would not come out of the impurities of sin, the Prophet was not to blame for it, so that on their account he should neglect the poor who came to him earnestly desirous to be delivered from the bondage of sin.

b (16) The six verses from 11 to 16 are really a comfort to the Holy Prophet for the hint contained in the first ten is that the leaders would not heed his warning or accept his message, and that therefore he must apply himself to the poor, who would be raised to eminence by the Quran. These verses tell him that the Quran is a tadhkirah, a reminder, a source of eminence (see also 2:152, 7:2, 38:1). Verses 15 and 16 clearly state that the scribes of the Quran will be virtuous men, who will be honoured in the world. Not only was this true of men like Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman and Ali, who were among the first scribes of the Holy Quran, but even in its later history great rulers of empires earned their livelihood by writing copies of the Quran. Hence the prophecy was given as a comfort to the Holy Prophet that he should not be grieved because the rich and the leaders did not accept him, for the poor who accepted him would be raised to eminence through the Quran.

c (19) The word qaddara ordinarily signifies he made a thing according to a measure, or proportioned it, the significance being that God has allotted to man a certain sphere in which he can make progress. But this word sometimes carries the same significance as aqdara, meaning to empower or enable someone. The meaning in this case would be that Allah has not only created man, but he has also given him power and ability, so that he can make progress, if he likes.

33 But when the deafening cry comes,^a ³⁴the day when a man flees from his brother, ³⁵and his mother and his father, ³⁶and his spouse and his sons. ³⁷Every man of them, that day, will have concern enough to make him indifferent to others. ³⁸Faces on that day will be bright, ³⁹laughing, joyous. ⁴⁰And faces on that day will have dust on them, ⁴¹darkness covering them.^b ⁴²Those are the disbelievers, the wicked.

a (33) The word used signifies a cry that deafens by its vehemence. Hence it is made to apply to the day of Resurrection; but it also means any calamity or misfortune, or a severe calamity.

b (41) The brightness of the faces spoken of here indicates their joy; their being covered by darkness indicates sorrow or gloom.

Al-Takwīr

The Folding Up

This chapter is named after the mention of the folding up of the sun in the first verse, which means that it will lose its light. This may refer to the end of things or metaphorically to the sun of the fortune of the opponents becoming dark. The chapter begins by speaking prophetically of certain events of the distant future fulfilled in the modern age. It concludes by making clear that the Holy Prophet's light will reach the remotest horizon and the Quran will reach all nations. Its revelation belongs to the very early period at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the sun is folded up,^a 2and when the stars are dust-coloured,^b 3and when the mountains are made to pass away,^c 4and when the camels are abandoned,^d 5and when the wild animals

a (1) For the folding up of the sun, see the introductory note above. Verses 1–13 speak of twelve signs, some of which undoubtedly relate to this life and the rest may therefore also be taken as referring metaphorically to this life. The Resurrection of the dead in another life may often contain a deeper reference to the spiritual resurrection which was to be brought about by the Prophet in this very life, and hence the combination of the real with the metaphorical, as here.

b (2) The darkening of the stars indicates complete darkness. Not only would the light of the day disappear, but even the smaller lights would become dark, and so the opponents of Truth would be left in utter darkness.

c (3) The passing away of the mountains signifies the passing away of the greatest obstacles to the spread of Truth; see 20:105 footnote.

d (4) 'Ishār is plural of 'usharā', meaning a she-camel that has been ten months pregnant. It is applied to the she-camel until she has delivered and also after she has delivered, and to a camel that is milked. Such camels are undoubtedly the most precious, and their being abandoned may stand for the abandonment of camels generally. Bearing on this subject is a hadith of the Prophet: "Camels will be abandoned so that they will not be used for going swiftly (from one place to another)" (Mishkāt, 26:5). This clearly refers to a time when swifter modes of going from one place to another will come into existence, so that camels will no more be needed.

are gathered together,^a 6and when the cities are made to swell,^b 7and when people are united,^c 8and when the one buried alive is asked⁹for what sin she was killed,^d 10and when the books are spread,^e 11and when the heaven has its covering removed,^f 12and when hell is kindled,^g 13and when the Garden is brought near^h — a (5) The gathering together (hashr) of wild animals seems also to be a prophecy relating to the distant future, when the wild animals were to be gathered together from all corners of the world into big towns. It may refer metaphorically to the gathering together of barbarous people into towns and cities.

b (6) The word biḥār is the plural of bahr, which means sea or river, as well as of baḥrah which is synonymous with baldah or a town. The swelling of cities is a clear indication that advancing civilization will result in people gathering more and more in cities. The next verse corroborates this significance, as it speaks in clear words of the uniting of people.

c (7) The uniting of people is one of the greatest achievements of modern civilization. The time is not far distant indeed when the whole world will be united and may become as a single nation.

d (9) The reference here is to the burying alive of daughters, a practice common among the pre-Islamic Arabs who, either for fear of hunger or disgrace, buried alive their female children. The questioning refers to the future when, with the predominance of Islam in Arabia, this barbarous practice was to be abolished. But the one buried alive may stand generally for the female sex, and the reference here may, therefore, be to the general tyranny of the male over the female. (Editor's Note: Killing of girls at birth still takes place in some parts of the world. Abortion of foetuses for the reason of being female is a modern extension of the same barbarous practice.)

e (10) This is also a prophetic reference to the distant future, with the circulation of books and papers to an incredible extent. The Muslim world did immense service to the cause of the circulation of literature, and the revival of learning in the West, which has brought about the great spread of books and papers, was a direct result of the impetus which Islam gave to the study of letters.

f (11) The removal of the covering of the heaven signifies the unveiling of the mysteries relating to the heavens, which is one of the great achievements of modern science. Compare 99:2 where the earth is spoken of as yielding her treasures.

g (12) Just as the righteous are promised heaven in this very life, the wicked are told that hell would be kindled for them even here, if they had only the eyes to see it. Compare 79:36. The forces of materialism have already engulfed the world in a burning hell in the form of modern wars.

h (13) God has not doomed this world to utter destruction, but when it has tasted somewhat of the evil consequences of its own doings, Divine mercy will

¹⁴every soul will know what it has prepared.^a

15 Indeed, I call to witness the stars, ¹⁶running their course, (and) setting, ¹⁷and the night when it departs, ¹⁸and the morning when it brightens,^b ¹⁹surely it is the word of a bountiful Messenger, ²⁰the possessor of strength, established in the presence of the Lord of the Throne, ²¹one (to be) obeyed, and faithful.^c ²²And your companion is not mad. ²³And truly he saw himself on the clear horizon.^d ²⁴Nor is he miserly (with knowledge) of the unseen.^e ²⁵Nor is it the word of an accursed devil — ²⁶where then are you going?^f ²⁷It is nothing but a Reminder for the nations,^g ²⁸for whomever among you who wishes to go straight. ²⁹And you do not (so) wish, unless Allah please, the Lord of the worlds.^h take it by the hand and bring the Garden of bliss near to it by bringing about a spiritual awakening. Thus the solace of mind which man can attain to through realization of the Divine in him is here described as the bringing near of the Garden.

a (14) Man will then become conscious that there is a higher life, which is his real goal, and he will know what to do to attain that goal.

b (18) The calling to witness of the stars that run their course and set also draws attention to the disasters that awaited the opponents of the Truth; see 53:1 footnote. The departing of the night and the rise of the bright morning is clearly the disappearance of the darkness of ignorance, giving place to the bright light of the sun of Islam.

c (21) Verses 19–21 refer to the Holy Prophet Muhammad. He is the bountiful Messenger (Rasūl Karīm), the one to be obeyed (see 4:64), and the faithful (al-Amīn). His being possessor of strength prophetically refers to his future career and to his ultimate triumph over his enemies.

d (23) This means that his light would shine in the remotest corners of the world. See also 53:7 and footnote.

e (24) This shows that there are some great prophecies relating to the future in what has gone before.

f (26) Wonder is expressed that despite the clearest evidence of Truth, humanity has been so slow to accept it.

g (27) This, one of the earliest revelations, clearly shows that the foundations of the universality of the message of Islam were laid on the very first day.

h (29) See 76:30 footnote for explanation.

Chapter 82

Al-Infīṭār

The Tearing Apart

This chapter, which receives its title from the mention in the first verse of the heaven becoming torn apart, is a counterpart of the previous chapter since it refers to the final triumph of Islam in its opening verses. It speaks also of the utter helplessness of the opponents at that time. Its revelation belongs to the very early period at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the heaven is torn apart,² and when the stars become dispersed,³ and when the rivers are made to flow forth,⁴ and when the graves are laid open^a —⁵ every soul will know what it has sent ahead and what it has held back.^b

6 O man, what entices you away from your Lord, the Gracious?⁷ Who created you, then made you complete, then made you in a right good state —⁸ into whatever form He pleases He casts you.⁹ No, but you call the Judgment a lie,¹⁰ and surely there are keepers

a (4) Taken metaphorically verses 1–4 tell us how a great spiritual rising would be brought about. The tearing apart of the heaven would mean that the doors of heaven will open and Divine help will come to the Prophet. The dispersing of the stars signifies the spreading abroad of the bearers of the message of Truth, who are likened to stars, as the Prophet said: “My companions are as stars” (Miṣhkāt, 27:13). The indication is that a time would come when the teachers of Truth would disperse themselves in Arabia, and then throughout the world. The flowing forth of the rivers means that rivers of Divine knowledge would be made to reach the dry lands within and without Arabia. The laying open of the graves signifies the spiritual resurrection which was to be brought about by the Holy Prophet, for the reprobate are clearly spoken of as being in the graves (35:22). Thus all these four verses speak of the great change that was to be brought about in the world by the preaching of the Prophet. Taken literally, these verses speak of the Resurrection.

b (5) The knowledge spoken of here will accrue before the day of Resurrection. A greater manifestation of the same will, however, take place in the life after death.

over you, ¹¹honourable recorders, ¹²they know what you do.^a 13 Surely the virtuous are in bliss, ¹⁴and the wicked are truly in burning Fire — ¹⁵they will enter it on the day of Judgment. ¹⁶And will not be absent from it. ¹⁷And what will make you realize what the day of Judgment is? ¹⁸Again, what will make you realize what the day of Judgment is? ¹⁹The day when no soul controls anything for (the benefit of) another soul. And the command on that day is Allah's.

a (12) That every action of man is recorded and bears fruit is one of the principal doctrines of the religion of Islam. Of course, it is not meant that angels are sitting with pens in their hands, at desks, noting down who did a good deed, or who did a bad deed, and at what time. That would be a distortion of the teaching of the Quran. For what that record is, see the next chapter, where both the record of the righteous and the record of the wicked is spoken of. See also 17:13–14.

Chapter 83

Al-Tatfif

Default in Duty

This chapter condemns those who make a default in their duties or cheat others, in particular by giving short measure; hence its name. It teaches the utmost rectitude in one's dealings. The chapter explains the nature of the two records: that of the wicked and that of the virtuous. The guilty suffer because they defraud and cheat others. The virtuous prosper because they fulfil their duties and are true to their obligations. Its revelation belongs to the very early period at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Woe to the cheaters,^a 2who, when they take the measure (of their dues) from people, take it fully, 3but when they measure out to others or weigh out for them, they give less than is due! 4Do they not think that they will be raised again, 5to a mighty day? — 6the day when mankind will stand before the Lord of the worlds.

7 No, surely the record of the wicked is in the prison.^b 8And what will make you know what the prison is? 9It is a written book. 10Woe on that day to the rejectors 11who call the day of Judgment a lie! 12And none calls it a lie but every exceeeder of limits, every sinful one; 13when Our messages are recited to him, he says: Stories of the ancients! 14No, rather, what they earned is rust upon a (1) The cheaters are not only those who cheat others by giving them less than what is their due, but also those who make a default in any of their duties. The taking of the measure and the measuring out, in the next two verses, must also be read in a general sense.

b (7) This prison should not be taken as signifying a jail, for in the verses that follow the Quran itself explains what this prison is. In v. 9, it is spoken of as a written book. This written book or record, which preserves the deeds of the evildoers, is called a prison because it keeps their faculties for the doing of good shut up as within a prison, and the very consequences of their evil deeds hamper their progress. See verses 14 and 15, where the actions of the evildoers are spoken of as being rust on their hearts, and they are further referred to as being debarred from their Lord.

their hearts. ¹⁵No, surely they are that day debarred from their Lord.^a ¹⁶Then they will surely enter the burning Fire. ¹⁷Then it will be said: This is what you called a lie.

18 No, surely the record of the virtuous is in the highest places.^b ¹⁹And what will make you know what the highest places are? ²⁰It is a written book. ²¹Those drawn near (to Allah) witness it. ²²Surely the virtuous are in bliss, ²³on raised couches, gazing — ²⁴you recognize in their faces the brightness of bliss. ²⁵They are given to drink of a pure drink, sealed. ²⁶The sealing of it is (with) musk. And for that let the aspirers aspire. ²⁷And it is tempered with water coming from above^c — ²⁸a fountain from which drink those drawn near (to Allah).

29 Surely they who are guilty used to laugh at those who believe. ³⁰And when they passed by them, they winked at one another, ³¹and when they returned to their people, they returned exulting. ³²And when they saw them, they said: Surely these are in error — ³³and they were not sent as keepers over them. ³⁴So this day those who believe laugh at the disbelievers^d — ³⁵on raised couches, gazing. ³⁶Surely the disbelievers are rewarded as they did.

a (15) The punishment of the wicked is here described as their being debarred from their Lord. They have no consciousness of the Higher Presence and, being thus debarred from their Lord in this life, enter the burning Fire in the next, as plainly stated in the verse that follows.

b (18) Like the prison of v. 7, these are not actual places. The highest places are the records of the best deeds, which enable man to soar high and cut off the chains which bind him to low desires.

c (27) The “water coming from above” (Arabic: tasnīm) signifies spiritually the knowledge of Allah, because it is from this source that those who are drawn near to Allah (v. 28) are made to drink.

d (34) The laughing of the believers is not to be taken literally. It signifies only the brightness of hope in their faces. The laughing in this case simply expresses a condition of joy which should make one laugh. The reversal of the condition of the believers and the disbelievers is all that is meant.

Al-Inshiqāq The Bursting Apart

This chapter receives its title from the bursting apart of the heaven or the cloud mentioned in the first verse. The subject-matter is similar to that of the previous chapter. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the heaven bursts apart,^a 2and listens to its Lord and is made fit;^b 3and when the earth is stretched,^c 4and casts forth what is in it and becomes empty, 5and listens to its Lord and is made fit. 6O man, you must strive a hard striving (to attain) to your Lord, until you meet Him.^d 7Then as to him who is given his book in his right hand, 8his account will be taken by an easy reckoning, 9and he will go back to his people rejoicing. 10And as to him who is given his book behind his back, 11he will call for (his own)

a (1) Verses 1–5 speak of an ordinary phenomenon of nature, namely, the coming down of rain and the growth of vegetation, as a reference to the transformation which was to be brought about by the Divine revelation. The bursting apart of heaven here stands for the coming down of rain; compare 25:25: “And on the day when the heaven bursts apart with clouds”.

b (2) By the cloud or heaven listening to its Lord, and the earth listening to its Lord in v. 5, is meant their obedience to His commandment. In both cases it is added that they are made fit for listening to and obeying the Divine commandments, meaning that it is their very nature to be entirely submissive to the Divine commandments.

c (3) The stretching of the earth signifies the same as its stirring and swelling in 22:5 and 41:39. The meaning is the producing of vegetation, and the expression here, as in those verses, signifies metaphorically that Divine revelation gives spiritual life to man. The meaning of the earth being stretched is explained in the next verse: it casts forth what is in it and becomes empty, i.e., the treasures of life latent within it are brought to light by the coming down of rain.

d (6) This is the conclusion to which a consideration of the first five verses leads. Man must strive hard to attain to his Lord. Those who do this are ultimately joyful (v. 9), but those who give themselves up to the pleasures of this life (v. 13) shall afterwards be in a sad plight (v. 11).

destruction, ¹²and enter into burning Fire. ¹³Surely he was (formerly) joyful among his people. ¹⁴Surely he thought that he would never return (to Allah) — ¹⁵Indeed! surely his Lord is ever Seer of him.

16 But no, I call to witness the sunset redness, ¹⁷and the night and what it drives away, ¹⁸and the moon when it grows full, ^a¹⁹that you shall certainly ascend to one state after another. ^b

20 But what is the matter with them that they do not believe? ²¹And, when the Quran is recited to them, they do not adore (Him)? ²²No, those who disbelieve reject (it) — ²³and Allah knows best what they hide. ²⁴So announce to them a painful punishment, ²⁵except those who believe and do good — for them is a reward never to be cut off.

a (18) Verses 16–18 draw attention to another phenomenon of nature, thereby indicating the departure of the power of the opponents of Truth. The sunset redness stands here for the disappearing sun of the power of the opponents, the night of adversity, which was now to overtake them, driving before it what vestige of light had remained. But they were not to remain submerged in darkness forever, for the moon (the Holy Prophet) had already made its appearance and would soon grow full, when the Arab nation was to march forth to conquer the world, the moon being a symbol of the power of the Arabs. For an alternative significance, see next note.

b (19) This verse can be taken to speak of the advancement of the cause of the Prophet (Bukhari, 65.84:2). The people addressed here are thus the Muslims, who are told that they will go on making progress in the world, but it will be a gradual progress, and there may be set-backs. But the ultimate state would be one of triumph. In this case the night spoken of in the previous verse would mean the adversities which Islam itself will have to face, and the full moon would indicate its final triumph. The commentators also explain this verse as being a prophecy of the ultimate triumph of Islam.

Chapter 85

Al-Burūj

The Stars

This chapter takes its title from the mention in the first verse of the heaven full of stars, which indicates that persons bearing the light of Islam will spread far and wide. The chapter refers to past history to show that those who persecute the believers will meet with destruction, as happened before. It is one of the very early revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the heaven full of stars! 2And the Promised day! 3And the bearer of witness and that to which witness is borne!^a 4Destruction overtake the companions of the trench!^b — 5the fire fed with fuel — 6when they sit by it, 7and they are witnesses of what they do with the believers. 8And they punished them for nothing except a (3) Burūj is the plural of burj which means a tower or fortress or a sign of the Zodiac or a star or constellation. Its root meaning is that of becoming manifest or high, and hence the various significations. As in 82:2 (see 82:4 footnote), the stars stand for the lesser lights, i.e. companions of the Prophet or the bearers of the message of Truth to people, in comparison with the sun to which the Prophet himself is likened (33:46). In the heaven full of stars there is thus a reference to the preachers of Truth, who will scatter far and wide. Hence the mention of the promised day in v. 2, the day of the triumph of Truth. The word shāhid (bearer of witness) here and shāhid elsewhere (see 4:41, etc.) both signify the Prophet. “That to which witness is borne” is the message of Truth, or it means those against whom the Prophet bears witness, i.e., the opponents of Truth.

b (4) The commentators give three different versions of the story supposed to be referred to in this verse, the best-known being that the reference is to the persecution of some Christians by Dhu Nawas, a king of Yaman, who was of the Jewish religion. One opinion holds that the reference may be to Nebuchadnezzar’s casting Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego into the fiery furnace (Daniel 3:19–21). However, there may, as well, be a prophetic reference here to the great Arab army against which the Muslims were compelled to defend themselves by means of a trench, in what is called the battle of the Allies or the battle of the Ditch; see 33:9 footnote 1. The words of v. 7, and particularly of v. 10, clearly show that the reference here is to the enemies of the Holy Prophet, who persecuted the believing men and the believing women.

that they believed in Allah, the Mighty, the Praised, ⁹Whose is the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. And Allah is Witness of all things. ¹⁰Those who persecute believing men and believing women, then do not repent, theirs is the punishment of hell, and theirs the punishment of burning. ¹¹Those who believe and do good, theirs are Gardens in which rivers flow. That is the great achievement.

^a (22) The significance of these words is simply that the Quran is guarded against corruption and against the attacks of its opponents; compare 15:9: “Surely We have revealed the Reminder and surely We are its Guardian”. There is no mention here or anywhere else in the Quran of the “guarded tablet” (lauḥ mahfūz) on which the decrees of God are written; but even if the reference here be to it, the significance is still the same, namely, that the Quran shall be fully guarded.

Chapter 86

Al-Ṭāriq

The Comer By Night

This chapter states how great were the difficulties which the Holy Prophet faced in bringing light to a benighted world, and in the first verse he is called The Comer by Night; hence the title. He is given comfort that a spiritual resurrection will be brought about. This chapter is among the earliest revelations. The reference at the close of the chapter to plans against the Holy Prophet may be prophetic.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the heaven and the Comer by night! ²And what will make you know what the Comer by night is? ³The star of piercing brightness ^a — ⁴there is not a soul but over it is a keeper.^b

5 So let man consider of what he is created. ⁶He is created of water pouring forth, ⁷coming from between the back and the ribs.^c a (3) Ṭāriq (from ṭarq, striking a thing) originally signifies a comer by night, because one who comes by night finds the doors shut, and knocking at the doors becomes necessary. The Comer by night is here the Holy Prophet; the revelation of the Quran is also spoken of as taking place on a blessed night (44:3, 97:1). The reason is that the Holy Prophet appeared when total darkness spread on the earth, and no one ever stood more in need of knocking at the doors which were shut against him and fastened with strong bolts. It is noteworthy that Jesus compares his advent to that of a thief: "...if the master of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched... Therefore you also be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect" (Matthew, 24:43–44). It may be added that Ṭāriq is also the name given to the morning star, because it comes at the end of the night.

The Comer by night is called the star of piercing brightness, indicating that the Comer by night is a star of such resplendent brightness that all darkness will be dispelled before him.

b (4) Though the words are general, and signify that the deeds done by man are guarded so that he cannot escape their consequences, there is also a comfort for the Holy Prophet here that his opponents will not be able to harm him and that in time they will meet their doom. This is made clear at the end of the chapter.

c (7) Water pouring forth refers to sperms. The expression between the back ⁸Surely He is Able to return him (to life). ⁹On the day when hidden things are manifested,^a ¹⁰then he will have no strength nor helper.

11 By the cloud giving rain, ¹²and the earth opening (with vegetation)! ¹³Surely it is a decisive word,^b ¹⁴and it is not a joke.

15 Surely they plan a plan, ¹⁶and I plan a plan. ¹⁷So grant the disbelievers a respite — let them alone for a while.^c and the ribs is a euphemism. A similar expression occurs in a saying of the Holy Prophet: “Whoever gives me a guarantee as to that which is between his two jaws and that which is between his two feet, I guarantee for him paradise” (Mishkāt, 24:10), the significance being the control of the tongue and the control of lust.

a (9) Note this description of the day of Resurrection. The hidden things are the consequences of one’s good or evil deeds, which will be made palpably manifest in the shape of Gardens and fruits or chains and Fire.

b (13) The decisive word is the Quran. Just as when rain comes down, the earth produces vegetation, so the coming of the Divine revelation is bound to raise a dead nation to life, and no efforts against it would hamper its progress. There is also a reference to the doom of the disbelievers in v. 10, in the words he will have no strength nor helper.

c (17) Whatever doubt there may be as to the significance of this chapter, it is dispelled by the last three verses, which speak of the plans of the opponents to exterminate Truth. The plan of God could not be frustrated, and the earth will receive life, but the Prophet is told to wait for a while. The same is true today.

Chapter 87

Al-A'la

The Most High

The title of this chapter is taken from the command to the Holy Prophet in the first verse to glorify his Lord, the word for “Lord” being Rabb meaning “nourisher to perfection”, Who is also described here as The Most High. This indicates that the Holy Prophet himself would be raised to the highest position. The mention of the scriptures of Abraham and Moses in the final verse is to show not only that the Holy Quran agrees with previous scriptures in essential principles but also that those books contain prophecies about the Prophet Muhammad. This chapter is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Glorify the name of your Lord, the Most High!^a 2Who creates, then makes complete, 3and Who measures, then guides,^b 4and Who brings forth vegetation, 5then makes it dried up, dust-coloured.^c a (1) This states that not only would the Holy Prophet be raised to the highest place to which man can rise, but everyone, through the glorification of God, can rise to the highest place to which he is capable of rising. Hence the order to glorify The Most High is immediately followed by the words that He not only creates and makes complete but has also ordained a measure for everyone and He guides everyone to this goal.

b (3) Verses 2 and 3 speak of four Divine acts: creation, completion, measuring, and guiding. Everything in this universe is subject to these four laws, and so is man. He is created from a very humble and low beginning, his first condition being that of a life-germ which cannot be seen. Then it develops gradually to complete human form. This is the subject-matter of v. 2. The third verse then lays down that everything in creation is held under control: it is made according to a measure and its progress lies along a certain line; and that it is God Who guides it or makes it walk along that line. The whole is in special reference to the spiritual advancement of man through Divine glorification.

c (5) Vegetation, too, receives life but there is no higher purpose in its creation beyond the fact that it serves to sustain man; so it dries up. But there is a higher purpose in the creation of man; and it is to fulfil that purpose that God sends His revelation, which is spoken of in the next verse.

6 We shall make you recite so you shall not forget — ⁷except what Allah please.^a Surely He knows the manifest and what is hidden. ⁸And We shall make your way smooth to a state of ease.^b ⁹So remind, reminding indeed benefits.^c ¹⁰He who fears will be mindful, ¹¹and the most unfortunate one will avoid it, ¹²who will burn in the great Fire. ¹³Then he will neither die in it, nor live.^d

14 He indeed is successful who purifies himself, ¹⁵and remembers the name of his Lord, then prays. ¹⁶But you prefer the life of this world, ¹⁷while the Hereafter is better and more lasting. ¹⁸Surely this is in the earlier scriptures, ¹⁹the scriptures of Abraham and Moses.^e a (7) Man is apt to forget, and the Prophet was a human being and he too was apt to forget. But he never forgot a word of the Divine revelation which came to him. He sometimes received long chapters on a single occasion, but the whole was so deeply impressed on his mind that once it was read out to him by the Holy Spirit, he repeated it without forgetting a word of it. Still more difficult was his task when chapters were received piecemeal. The reference in what Allah please is not to Divine revelation which the Prophet never forgot, but to other things which he forgot as a human being.

b (8) The words predict the Holy Prophet's triumph and the removal of the distress in which Islam was.

c (9) The Arabic word in here means indeed and not if. There are numerous instances of this in the Quran as well as in Arabic prose and poetry.

d (13) There is no life in hell, for life is only for the righteous; neither is there death, because death signifies a state of complete rest.

e (19) The preference of the good of the Hereafter to the transitory advantage of this life is the one great truth preached by all prophets. There is also a reference here to the prophecies concerning the Holy Prophet which are to be found in the revelation granted respectively to Abraham and to Moses; see 2:124 footnote and 2:41 footnote. Or, the essential principles of religion are meant, which are common to all the great religions.

Chapter 88

Al-Ghāshiyah The Overwhelming Event

The Overwhelming Event, whose mention in the first verse supplies the name of this chapter, is the doom of the opponents in this life and their punishment in the Hereafter. The date of revelation is placed about the fourth year of the Holy Prophet's mission.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Has the news come to you of the Overwhelming Event?^a 2Faces on that day will be downcast, 3labouring, toiling, 4entering burning Fire, 5made to drink from a boiling spring. 6They will have no food but of thorns, 7neither nourishing nor satisfying hunger. 8Faces on that day will be happy, 9glad for their striving, 10in a lofty Garden, 11in which you will hear no vain talk. 12In it there is a fountain flowing. 13In it there are thrones raised high, 14and drinking-cups ready placed, 15and cushions set in rows, 16and carpets spread out.

17 Do they not see the clouds,^b how they are created? 18And the heaven, how it is raised high? 19And the mountains, how they are fixed? 20And the earth, how it is spread out? 21So remind. You are one to remind only. 22You are not a warder over them — 23but whoever turns back and disbelieves, 24Allah will punish him with the greatest punishment. 25Surely to Us is their return. 26Then it is for Us to call them to account.

a (1) The Overwhelming Event is no doubt the Resurrection, but the overwhelming event of this life is the doom of the opponents of Truth. The description of the two parties that follows applies to an utterly discomfited and disappointed enemy and to the faithful in the hour of their triumph.

b (17) Ibil also means clouds that bear the water for rain. This significance suits the context better than the usual rendering, the camels. The mention of the clouds along with the heavens, where they exist, and with mountains, which cool the vapours so that they pour down water, and the earth, which benefits by that water, is in accordance with what is said in many other places.

Chapter 89

Al-Fajr

The Daybreak

The important Daybreak mentioned in the first verse, after which this chapter is named, is the first morning of the month of Dhu-l-Hijjah, the month of the pilgrimage, because this institution had given Makkah great importance as a trade centre and brought material prosperity to its residents. A warning is given here of the punishment that must overtake the city, as punishment overtook earlier people. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the daybreak! 2And the ten nights! 3And the even and the odd! 4And the night when it departs!^a 5Truly in this is an oath for those who have understanding. 6Have you not considered how your Lord dealt with Ād, 7(of) Iram,^b having lofty buildings, 8whose like were not created in the land; 9and (with) Thamūd, who carved out rocks in the valley (to make houses); 10and Pharaoh, the lord of armies, 11who exceeded limits in the cities, 12and made great mischief in them? 13So your Lord poured on them a portion of punishment.^c a (4) There is a great variety of opinion as to what is meant by the daybreak, the ten nights, and the even and the odd. The reference may be to the importance attached to Makkah (which is mentioned as The City at the commencement of the next chapter), because it was not only the spiritual centre of Arabia, but had also become its trade centre, on account of pilgrims resorting to it from all parts of Arabia. The daybreak would thus signify the daybreak of the first of the month of Dhu-l-Hijjah; the ten nights would stand for the first ten nights of that month, the tenth day being the day of sacrifices. The even may refer to the creation, which consists of pairs (51:49), and the odd to the Creator Who is one. The whole is a warning to the people of Makkah that, if they do not heed the warning, their end will be the same as the end of previous rejectors of truth.

b (7) Iram or Aram may be the name of the grandfather of Ād, from whom the tribe took its name or the name of a city in which it lived.

c (13) The meaning is that they received a portion of the punishment here, greater punishment overtaking them after death.

14 Surely your Lord is Watchful. 15As for man, when his Lord tries him, so (that) He gives him honour and favours him, he says: My Lord honours me. 16But when He tries him, so (that) He restricts for him his (means of) subsistence, he says: My Lord has disgraced me.^a 17No, but you do not honour the orphan, 18nor do you urge one another to feed the poor,^b 19and you devour heritage, devouring all,^c 20and you love wealth with exceeding love.

21 No indeed! When the earth is made to crumble to pieces, 22and your Lord comes with the angels, ranks on ranks; 23and hell is made to appear that day. On that day man will be mindful, and of what use will being mindful be then? 24He will say: I wish I had sent (good deeds) ahead for this life of mine! 25But none can punish as He will punish on that day. 26And none can bind as He will bind on that day.^d

27 O soul that are at rest, 28return to your Lord, well-pleased (with Him), well-pleasing (Him). 29So enter among My servants, 30and enter My Garden!^e a (16) God tries man both by granting him affluence, in which case he is puffed up with pride and says that his wealth is an indication that God honours him, and by poverty, in which case he thinks that God has disgraced him.

b (18) Verses 17–19 show how the Prophet felt for the orphans, the poor and the weak, so much so that he warns his powerful and wealthy opponents that their indifference to the orphans and the poor and their injustice to the weak will bring down upon them the Divine judgment, which will shatter their power. He remained, to the end, a true well-wisher of the weak and the oppressed. When he became the head of a State, he provided for the orphans and the poor out of the public funds; see 9:60.

c (19) Among the Arabs, women and young children were not allowed to have any share in the inheritance, because they could not fight the enemy.

d (26) These words indicate the severity of the punishment.

e (30) Verses 27–30 refer to the highest stage of the spiritual development of man, the stage in which he rests contented with his Lord. At this last stage, the pure and perfect sincerity, truth and righteousness of a person are rewarded by Almighty God by granting him a heaven on this earth. It is at this stage too that a person realizes that the prayers and worship which at first appeared to him as a burden are really a nourishment on which the growth of his soul depends, and that this is the basis of his spiritual development.

Chapter 90

Al-Balad

The City

The City spoken of in the first verse, from which this chapter receives its name, is Makkah, which in the last chapter was warned of punishment overtaking it. But it was to be the spiritual centre of the whole world, when Muslims would be made free from all obligations in it, as stated in the second verse. The second half of the chapter speaks of the importance of attempting the uphill struggle for the service of humanity, which marks a great nation. It is one of the earliest revelations, assigned to the first year of the Holy Prophet's mission.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 No, I call to witness this City!^a 2And you will be made free from obligation in this City^b — 3And the father and the offspring whom he produced!^c 4We have certainly created man to face difficulties.^d 5Does he think that no one has power over him? 6He will say: I have wasted much wealth.^e 7Does he think that no one sees him?

8 Have We not given him two eyes, ⁹and a tongue and two lips, ¹⁰and pointed out to him the two conspicuous ways?^f 11But he does not attempt the uphill road. 12And what will make you comprehend what the uphill road is? 13(It is) to free a slave, ¹⁴or to feed in a day of hunger ¹⁵an orphan near of kin, ¹⁶or the poor man lying in the dust.^g 17Then he is of those who believe and exhort one another to patience, and exhort one another to mercy. 18These are the people of the right hand. 19And those who disbelieve in Our messages, they are the people of the left hand. 20On them is Fire closed over.

a (1) By this City is meant Makkah. Thousands of years before, Abraham had prayed for a city to be raised in that wilderness where he had left one branch of his descendants (14:37), and for a Prophet to be raised among them (2:129).

b (2) The translation here is in accordance with the true significance of the word hill, meaning being free from obligation or responsibility with respect to something. The statement is prophetic, indicating that the Prophet would be made free from obligation in respect to the sacredness of the territory of Makkah, being allowed to enter it by force, as he did at the conquest of Makkah, to which, in fact, the words refer.

c (3) The father is none other than Abraham, the progenitor of the Arabs, and by the offspring whom he produced is meant either Ishmael, who assisted Abraham in raising the foundations of the Sacred House at Makkah, or the Holy Prophet himself, who was the object of Abraham's prayer.

d (4) The advancement of man, even physically, lies along a path of hard struggle. The same is the case in the sphere of the spiritual advancement of man. Abraham suffered great hardships in the cause of Truth; and so must the Prophet now, in order to bring about a spiritual awakening in the world. It is only a long and hard struggle on the part of certain benefactors of humanity that makes man's advancement possible, physically as well as spiritually.

e (6) The opponents, after spending all their wealth for the extermination of Truth, would find that the cause of Truth was triumphant, and would then say that they really wasted their wealth in a wrong cause.

f (10) The two conspicuous ways are the ways of truth and falsehood in word or good and evil in deed. The two eyes (v. 8) enable him to distinguish good from evil, while with the tongue and the lips (v. 9) he can ask, if he cannot see for himself.

g (16) The service of humanity, along with the service of God, is the one topic of these earliest revelations. The doing of good to the oppressed, the poor, and the orphans is called an uphill road or a high mountain because of the difficulty of doing it. The constant reference to the helping of the poor and the orphans and the setting free of slaves brings to light the real character of the Prophet, who is described by one knowing him most intimately as one who earned for those who had no means themselves (Bukhari, 1:1). No religion has laid so much stress on the uplift of the poor and the distressed as Islam, and it is the only religion which enjoins the duty of granting freedom to slaves, and the Holy Prophet Muhammad is the only founder of a religion who showed the noble example of freeing all slaves that he ever had and helping in the freeing of others. The latest revelation in 9:60 contains plain directions to the State itself to spend a part of the public funds in purchasing freedom for slaves.

Al-Shams

The Sun

The Holy Prophet is the Sun of righteousness, the word in the first verse after which this chapter is named. With the rising of this sun, the way to perfection is pointed out to man. But only those who purify themselves are really successful, while those who give themselves over to corruption meet with failure, as illustrated by the case of Thamūd. It is one of the earliest revelations, like the last chapter.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the sun and its brightness!^a 2And the moon when it borrows light from it! 3And the day when it exposes it to view! 4And the night when it draws a veil over it!^b 5And the heaven and its make! 6And the earth and its extension! 7And the soul and its perfection!^c — 8So He reveals to it its way of evil and its way of good;^d 9he is indeed successful who causes it to grow, 10and he indeed fails who buries it.^e

11 Thamūd rejected (the truth) in their inordinacy,^f 12when the most wretched one among them broke forth with mischief — 13so Allah's messenger said to them: (Leave alone) Allah's she-camel, and (give) her (to) drink. 14But they called him a liar and slaughtered her. So their Lord destroyed them for their sin and levelled them (with the ground); 15and He does not fear its consequence.^g a (1) This is to show that the spiritual light of the Prophet will brighten as time passes on.

b (4) In the words "exposes it" (v. 3) and "draws a veil over it" (v. 4), the pronoun it refers to the world.

c (7) The mention of the perfection of the soul of man in this verse is a sequel to what is stated in the first six verses. Man is here spoken of as possessing the highest of qualities which are met with in nature. The sun is a source of light, even so is the perfect man a source of spiritual light. The moon borrows the light of the sun, even so is the perfect man, whose light is really borrowed from the Divine source, which is the real source of all light. The day makes things manifest and thus enables man to carry on his struggle, while the night casts a veil over light and brings rest; the perfect man possesses both these qualities, as he carries on a very hard struggle for the attainment of great ends, and at the same time his mind is at rest and he possesses the quality of contentment. The heaven is raised high, and the earth is spread out for people to walk over, being thus a manifestation of humility; the perfect man possesses both these qualities, having the highest of aspirations and being at the same time humble and lowly. The perfect man thus possesses the opposite qualities of giving light and receiving light, severe exertion and complete rest, greatness and humility. These qualities were possessed by the Holy Prophet, who invited others to make the same the goal of their lives.

d (8) The verse is a fitting sequel to the statement made in the previous verse as regards the perfection of the soul, as it points out the way to perfection. It is through Divine inspiration, or revelation, that the soul is made perfect, because Divine revelation makes clear the two ways, the way of evil and the way of good. It is by avoiding the former and walking in the latter that perfection can be attained.

e (10) The words for “causes it to grow” (zakkā-hā) and “buries it” (dassā-hā) also have the secondary meaning of purifies it and corrupts it respectively. The adoption of these two words really indicates that the faculties necessary for perfection are given to everyone, but there are some who make them thrive by their development and others who corrupt them by allowing them to remain concealed, not displaying them to their advantage.

f (11) The verse gives an instance of those whose end is failure on account of the corrupt manner of their lives, giving at the same time a warning to people that, if they continued in their evil course and did not turn to righteousness, following the call of the Prophet, their end would be the same. If they followed the Prophet, they would attain to perfection, but, if they went against him, they would be given over to destruction as were the former people.

g (15) Allah does not care for the consequences of the punishment to a people when they are found deserving of such punishment, for through their destruction comes life to humanity.

Chapter 92

Al-Lail

The Night

The object of this chapter is to show that The Night of disbelief and ignorance, indicated in the first verse, will give place to the light of the day. It tells us that while people are striving after different ends, those who strive for good and charitable works will have their path eased for them but those who go after evil will find themselves in distress. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the night when it draws a veil! 2And the day when it shines! 3And the creating of the male and the female! — 4Your striving is surely (for) diverse (ends).^a 5Then as for him who gives (charitably) and keeps his duty, 6and accepts what is good — 7We facilitate for him (the way to) ease. 8And as for him who is miserly and considers himself self-sufficient, 9and rejects what is good — 10We facilitate for him (the way to) distress. 11And his wealth will not avail him when he perishes.^b

12 Surely Ours is it to show the way, 13and surely Ours is the Hereafter and the former.^c 14So I warn you of the Fire that flames. 15None will enter it but the most unfortunate, 16who rejects and turns (his) back. 17And away from it shall be kept the most faithful to duty, 18who gives his wealth, purifying himself. 19And none has with him any favour for a reward, 20except the seeking of the pleasure of his Lord, the Most High.^d 21And he will soon be well-pleased.

a (4) Evil is here compared with the darkness of the night and good with the light of day. The creation of the male and the female, which stands for the creation of the whole of animate nature, because all living beings are created either male or female, is also a witness to the same truth, for there we find everyone striving for an end, and everyone reaping according to the manner of his striving.

b (11) The two examples given in these verses represent those who accept and those who reject the Truth, respectively; the one goes on doing good deeds, finding his way quite easy, until he finds himself in ease, and the other goes on doing evil, the doing of which seems easy to him, until he finds himself in distress.

c (13) The wicked one is here told that he will find himself in distress not only in the Hereafter but also in this life, as God has control of both. Or the two words refer to what is coming later, i.e. what is promised, and the present state.

d (20) The pleasure of the Lord is the only favour for which a person should hope, and hence this is the goal of a Muslim's life — his paradise in this as well as the next life. This is in accordance with what is said in 9:72, one of the latest revelations: "And greatest of all is Allah's goodly pleasure. That is the mighty achievement".

Al-Duḥā The Brightness of the Day

This chapter draws attention to the gradual spreading of the light of the sun of Islam, and thus has the title The Brightness of the Day, the word in the first verse. The last two chapters speak of the coming of the Holy Prophet as the rising of the sun. This shows that as sunshine is not fully resplendent immediately after the rising of the sun, so would Truth shine in its full brightness gradually. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the brightness of the day! ²And the night when it is still! — ³Your Lord has not forsaken you, nor is He displeased.^a ⁴And surely the later state is better for you than the earlier. ⁵And soon will your Lord give you so that you will be well pleased.^b

6 Did He not find you an orphan and give (you) shelter?^c ⁷And find you groping, so He showed the way?^d ⁸And find you in want, so He enriched you?^e ⁹Therefore the orphan, do not oppress.^f ¹⁰And him who asks, do not rebuke.^g ¹¹And the favour of your Lord, do proclaim.^h a (3) These words may be taken as words of solace in a general sense, the significance being that God would never forsake the Holy Prophet. But in the light of what follows, the words are prophetic, the indication being that in its later history Islam would have to face set-backs which might give rise to such doubts. The Prophet and his followers are therefore given an assurance that God will never forsake the cause of Islam. Force is lent to this interpretation by the fact that here it is not the night that is followed by the brightness of the day, which was the case at the appearance of the Prophet, but the brightness of the day is followed by the stillness of the night, which seems to be a reference to the inactivity of the Muslim people after the sun had shone, i.e., in later times.

b (5) The words may mean that as time passes, the Prophet's cause would go on gaining strength, and the later state would always be better for him than the earlier. Or, the reference here is to the second rising of Islam, after what is called the stillness of the night in v. 2, a long pause of inactivity of the Muslims. References to a set-back to the cause of Islam for a long period are very frequent in the Quran; see 32:5 footnote. As a matter of fact, it is true that despite various set-backs at different periods of its history, the cause of Islam has gone on gaining ground.

c (6) Abdullah, the Holy Prophet's father, died about three months before the Prophet was born; his mother, Āminah, died when he was six years old. His grandfather, Abdul Muttalib, who took care of him after his mother, died two years later, and from that time he remained in charge of Abu Talib, his uncle, who was alive when the Holy Prophet received the Divine message for the regeneration of mankind.

d (7) The word dāll ("groping") here signifies one who is unable to see the way for himself, and not one who is in error. See also 53:2 footnote. Verses 6, 7 and 8 stand in close relation to verses 9, 10 and 11 respectively. Verse 6 tells the Prophet that he was himself an orphan, and v. 9 draws the conclusion that he should therefore not oppress the orphan; similarly, v. 8 speaks of the Divine favour to him in making him free from want, and v. 11 draws the conclusion that he should therefore proclaim the Divine favour to him. The same applies between v. 7 and v. 10. The latter plainly speaks of one who asks to be guided to the Truth. The Holy Prophet was no doubt "one who asks" (sā'il) in this sense. He did not worship idols, but neither could he, without the help of Allah, find out the way for the regeneration of his people, for which his soul yearned so eagerly. The word dāll also signifies one who becomes lost, and the meaning may be that the Holy Prophet had so devoted himself to the quest of the right way for the world that he had lost himself in that quest. See also the introductory note to ch. 94.

e (8) Finding the Holy Prophet in want, and enriching him, do not refer to his temporal or financial circumstances only, if they refer to them at all, but rather to his spiritual needs and the spiritual wealth with which he was enriched.

f (9) Not taking care of the orphans is really their oppression.

g (10) The reference is to one who asks about knowledge. This interpretation is corroborated by the incident related in the opening verses of ch. 80.

h (11) The favour is no other than revelation, the greatest of all Divine favours, as it is recognized to be throughout the Quran. This was the favour which the Holy Prophet continued to announce throughout his life.

Chapter 94

Al-Inshirāh

The Expansion

This chapter, like the ones before, comforts the Holy Prophet. His difficulties would soon be followed by ease, as his breast was opened or expanded to receive the Truth; hence the title. The great burden, which almost broke his back, meaning his deep anxiety for humanity, was removed by Divine revelation. This chapter is as a supplement to the preceding one. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Have We not expanded for you your breast (with Divine light),^a 2and removed from you your burden, 3which weighed down your back,^b 4and exalted for you your mention?^c 5Surely with difficulty is ease, 6with difficulty is surely ease.^d 7So when you are free (from anxiety), work hard,^e 8and make your Lord your exclusive object.

a (1) The expanding of the breast is also mentioned in Moses' prayer in 20:25: "My Lord, expand my breast for me". In 6:125 it is stated: "So whomever Allah intends to guide, He expands his breast for Islam". The expanding of the breast signifies its illumination with wisdom and Divine light, and filling with tranquillity. It stands for the greatness of the heart of the Holy Prophet.

b (3) The burden which weighed down his back signifies anxiety for raising humanity from the ignorance and superstition in which it was involved. Compare 26:3: "Perhaps you will kill yourself with grief because they do not believe". The removal of the burden signifies giving relief from anxiety.

c (4) This is a clear prophecy of the glorious eminence to which the Holy Prophet was to be raised, uttered at a time when he was alone and unknown.

d (6) The ease refers to the ultimate triumph, and the difficulty to the trials which the Holy Prophet was then undergoing. But the passage as well reveals a general law of nature that difficulty is followed by ease.

e (7) The Prophet's being free signifies his freedom from anxiety, in reference to what is said in the previous verse. Being now free from all anxiety, he was to work hard for the regeneration of a fallen humanity, and make his Lord his exclusive object, i.e., apply himself wholly to establish the greatness of God.

Al-Tin

The Fig

This chapter draws a comparison between the Mosaic system — of which the fig is a symbol, providing the name of this chapter — and the Islamic system to show that man can rise to the highest degree of eminence by following and acting on the right principles, and he degrades himself to the lowest if he is not guided by the right principles, or being so guided, he fails to act upon them. The chapter belongs to the same early period as those preceding it.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the fig and the olive! 2And mount Sinai! 3And this city made secure!^a— 4Certainly We created man in the best make. 5Then We reduce him to the lowest of the low, 6except those who believe and do good; so theirs is a reward never to be cut off.^b 7So who can belie you after (this) about the Judgment? 8Is not Allah the Best of the judges?^c a (3) The fig and the olive stand respectively for the law given on Mount Sinai and that revealed in the sacred city of Makkah. A comparison between Moses and the Holy Prophet Muhammad is introduced in very early revelations, as here and in 52:1–6 and 73:15. The incident of Jesus approaching a fig tree, and, upon finding no fruit on it, cursing it and the tree withering away (Matthew, 21:18–19), symbolised the passing away of the law given on Mount Sinai. The olive is compared here with the law of the Holy Prophet Muhammad. This is explained by a later revelation according to which the light of Islam is “lit from a blessed olive tree, neither eastern nor western” (24:35). The comparison shows that, whereas the law given on Mount Sinai passed away like the fig tree in Jesus’ parable, the new light, lit from the blessed olive tree, was never to be extinguished, because it belonged neither to the East nor to the West, but was meant for all mankind in all ages.

b (6) By man’s being created in the best make is meant his enormous capability for advancement. When he does not take advantage of the opportunity offered to him, he is reduced to the lowest of the low. With unthought of advancement in science, people are even today flying at each other’s throats like the beasts of the jungle, because they are not guided by Divine revelation.

c (8) The Judgment is as well a judgment of the guilty in this life as in the next.

Chapter 96

Al-‘Alaq

The Clot

The first five verses of this chapter are by universal admission the first revelation which the Holy Prophet received. The chapter is entitled The Clot as the second verse states that God created man from a clot of blood, which contains a hint that, as a beautiful human form is developed out of such a humble origin, even so the Holy Prophet would raise humanity to the greatest eminence morally and spiritually.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Read in the name of your Lord Who creates ^a — 2creates man from a clot (of blood)^b — 3read and your Lord is most Generous,^c 4Who taught by the pen,^d 5taught man what he did not know.

6 No! Man is surely inordinate, 7because he looks upon himself as self-sufficient.^e 8Surely to your Lord is the return.

9 Have you seen him who forbids 10a servant when he prays?^f 11Do you see if he is on the right way, 12or enjoins observance of duty? 13Do you see if he denies and turns away? 14Does he not know that Allah sees? 15No! If he does not stop, We will seize him by the forelock ^g — 16a lying, sinful forelock! 17Then let him summon his council, 18We will summon the braves of the army.^h 19No! Do not obey him, but prostrate yourself, and draw near (to Allah).

a (1) The Arabs were a people who rarely made use of reading and writing, and the Prophet himself did not know reading or writing, yet the very first revelation which he received was a command to read. The significance of this order is expressed in v. 3, v. 2 being parenthetical as referring to the origin of man. The order to read is repeated in v. 3, adding that your Lord is most Generous, to show that it is through reading and writing that man can attain to a position of glory, while v. 4 says that it is by the use of the pen that knowledge can be acquired. The words in the name of your Lord signify by the help of your Lord. The use of the word Rabb (Nourisher to perfection), translated as Lord, shows that revelation was being granted to the Prophet, to bring him, and through him the whole of humanity, to perfection.

b (2) 'Alaq signifies a clot of blood as well as attachment and love. The former significance is the one generally adopted, because of the mention of 'alaqah in the process of the creation of man in other places in the Quran, and it indicates the insignificance of man's origin. Having regard to the other significance of 'alaq, the words may, however, also be translated as meaning created man out of love. The Prophet is reported to have said: I (God) loved that I should be known, so I created man.

c (3) The word Akram means Generous as well as Honourable. It has been used here in reference to the great goal of honour and glory which the Prophet was destined to attain.

d (4) The mention of the pen in this, the very first, revelation of the Holy Prophet, is significant, and it not only indicates the help for propagating knowledge of Islam which the Holy Prophet was to find in the pen, but signifies as well that the pen should be specially used in guarding the revelation which was to be granted to the Holy Prophet. It is a fact that the pen has played an important part in the propagation of Islam as well as in the protection of the Quran against corruption of every sort. The frequent mention of writing and the pen in the Quran, and particularly in connection with the revelation of the Holy Prophet, is rather striking when it is borne in mind that not only was the use of writing a rare novelty in the Arabian peninsula, but the Prophet was himself unacquainted with writing and reading.

e (7) Man becomes inordinate or rebellious because he thinks himself to be self-sufficient, and free from all need of God Who breathed into him of His Spirit. The soul of man has in fact a mystic relation with the invisible Divine Spirit, which the materialist fails to realize.

f (10) So great was the opposition that the Prophet and his companions could not say their prayers in a public place.

g (15) Seizing by the forelock signifies abasement.

h (18) The significance of verses 17–18 is that they should take their decision unitedly and do their utmost against the Prophet and his message. The two verses thus clearly speak prophetically of the battles in which the mighty men of both sides were to be brought into conflict.

Chapter 97

Al-Qadr

The Majesty

The very first revelation of the Holy Quran in ch. 96 is suitably followed in arrangement by this chapter which relates when the revelation began. It was on the Night of Majesty, one of the last ten nights of the month of Ramadan, after which this chapter is named. Its coming on that night indicated that the most majestic of all revelations was now being granted to the world and that the majesty of this revelation, as well as of its recipient, would be established in the world. The chapter is unquestionably one of the very earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Surely We revealed it on the Night of Majesty^a — ²And what will make you comprehend what the Night of Majesty is?
³The Night of Majesty is better than a thousand months.^b ⁴The angels and the Spirit descend in it by the permission of their Lord — for every affair^c — ⁵Peace! it is till the rising of the morning.^d a (1) Lailat al-Qadr, literally the Night of Majesty or Grandeur or Greatness, is a well-known night in the last ten days of the month of Ramadan, being more probably the 25th or 27th or 29th night of the month. See 44:3 where it is called the blessed night. From 2:185, it appears that the Quran was revealed in the month of Ramadan, and from the above it appears to have been revealed on the Lailat al-Qadr; by revelation of course being meant the commencement of its revelation, because the whole was revealed in portions during twenty-three years; and the word “Quran” is applicable as well to a portion as to the whole. That the reference is here to the commencement of the revelation is also clear from the arrangement of the chapters, the opening verses of the last chapter being admittedly the first revelation to the Prophet. In fact, Lailat al-Qadr owes its importance to the fact that it was on this night that the most blessed and perfect of all revelations was given to the world. Moses’ fasting for forty days before receiving revelation (Exodus, 34:28), and Jesus’ keeping fast for the same number of days before he began preaching (Matthew, 4:2), show that Divine blessings are associated with fasting. Hence Muslims are required to fast every year for thirty days, and special Divine blessings are promised to them in the last days of the fasts.

b (3) A thousand months may be taken as the equivalent of a very long time. Numerically they are equal to about 83 years, leaving 17 years to complete a century. There is a saying of the Holy Prophet according to which a mujaddid, or a reformer, will appear among the Muslims at the commencement of every century.

The Lailat al-Qadr being a time of great spiritual blessing may also signify the time during which the Prophet worked in person, being actually a period of twenty-three years, or the time during which a mujaddid would ordinarily work, which period is more blessed spiritually than the rest of the century. (Editor's Note: A thousand months may represent the period of a person's lifetime. In an entire lifetime, but spent without Divine light, he cannot find the deep Divine truths, nor make the moral and spiritual progress, that he can by even a short contact with the spiritual blessings that descend with a man appointed by Allah.)

c (4) The Spirit here may signify the Divine Spirit, which is really the force through which the regeneration of humanity is brought about, or it may mean Divine inspiration. The descent of the angels and the Spirit also shows that Lailat al-Qadr, as hinted at in the last note, has a deeper significance, for though a particular night in the month of Ramadan may be characterized by great Divine blessings, it is more especially in connection with the mission of one appointed by Allah for the regeneration of the world that "the angels and the Spirit" come down from heaven, turning people's minds to the spiritual values of life. See also 44:3 footnote.

d (5) "Peace" is the distinctive mark of Lailat al-Qadr. This peace comes to the hearts of the true devotees in the form of a tranquillity of mind which makes them fit to receive Divine blessings. But it is also through one commissioned by God that the basis of peace among people is laid.

Chapter 98

Al-Bayyinah The Clear Evidence

The Holy Prophet, who received the mightiest of revelations, or that revelation itself, is here called The Clear Evidence. This revelation contained all the pure and essential teachings of previous scriptures, as stated in v. 3. It may not be a very early revelation but there seems no doubt that it belongs to the Makkah period.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Those who disbelieve from among the People of the Book and the idolaters could not have been freed till clear evidence came to them^a — ²a Messenger from Allah, reciting pure pages,^b ³in which are (all) right books.^c ⁴Nor did those to whom the Book was given become divided till clear evidence came to them.^d ⁵And they are enjoined nothing but to serve Allah, being sincere to Him in obedience, upright, and to keep up prayer and give the due charity, and that is the right religion.

6 Those who disbelieve from among the People of the Book and the idolaters will be in the Fire of hell, abiding in it. They are the worst of creatures. ⁷Those who believe and do good, they are the best of creatures. ⁸Their reward is with their Lord: Gardens of perpetuity in which rivers flow, abiding in them forever. Allah is well pleased with them and they are well pleased with Him. That is for him who fears his Lord.^e a (1) Both the People of the Book, people to whom revelation had been granted at some previous time, and the idolaters of Arabia, among whom no prophet had ever appeared, were sunk so deep in immorality and sin that only a Divine Messenger could now free them from this bondage. The Jews and the Christians, one after another, had exerted themselves to their utmost to reform Arabia, but both had failed. In fact they were themselves demoralized like the Arabs. That by the clear evidence is meant the Prophet is made clear in the next verse, where this clear evidence is spoken of as being a Messenger from Allah.

b (2) It should be noted that the Messenger is here described as reciting pure pages, thus showing clearly that the Quran existed in a written form at the time of the revelation of this chapter. Their designation as pure is to show that the Quran brought them out of all impurities.

c (3) Kitāb (occurring here in the plural, kutub) means a book or an ordinance. Whichever significance may be adopted, the meaning of the passage is that all those right directions necessary for the guidance of people, whether previously revealed or not, are to be met with in the Quran. The Quran thus claims to contain all the good points of other sacred books, and, in addition, to supply their deficiencies.

d (4) The division mentioned here is the division into believers and disbelievers, some accepting the Messenger and others rejecting him.

e (8) The companions of the Holy Prophet are here spoken of as having attained to the highest spiritual stage; compare 89:27–30, where the same words occur regarding spiritual perfection; see 89:30 footnote. This shows clearly that they were above all worldly motives, and not only joined Islam with the single object of pleasing God but also that their sincerity was above all reproach to the end, so that God was pleased with them and made them enter His Garden.

Chapter 99

Al-Zilzāl

The Shaking

The title of this chapter, Shaking, occurs in the first verse which hints at the severe shaking destined to bring about a transformation first in Arabia and later on in the whole world. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When the earth is shaken with her shaking, ²and the earth brings forth her burdens, ³and man says: What has happened to her? ⁴On that day she will tell her news, ⁵as if your Lord had revealed to her.^a ⁶On that day people will come forth, in diverse bodies, that they may be shown their works. ⁷So whoever does an atom's weight of good will see it. ⁸And whoever does an atom's weight of evil will see it.^b a (5) The first verse speaks of a violent shaking of the earth. That such a shaking would take place at the Resurrection cannot be denied. That it took place in the Holy Prophet's lifetime is a fact. This was the shaking which brought about that wonderful transformation in Arabia, and then in the whole world, which is spoken of in the last chapter. The second verse speaks of the earth as bringing forth her burdens. This has been taken as signifying both the bringing forth of the dead and the yielding of her hidden treasures. How the earth is bringing forth her hidden treasures of mineral wealth shows the wonderful knowledge of the future disclosed in the Quran. That these are the preliminaries of a great transformation is the one theme of these early revelations. The transformation brought about in the Prophet's lifetime was in fact the first stage in the greater transformation to be brought about in the whole world later on.

Verses 3–5 indicate that, at the happenings referred to in the first two verses, man will wonder and cry out, what has happened to the earth? This shows that extraordinary happenings will be witnessed by man in this very life. The earth will tell her news, that is to say, great secrets hitherto unknown will be revealed. This is further stressed in v. 5, as if your Lord had revealed to her. In other words, as revelation discloses things which are unknown to man, so will great secrets hitherto unknown be revealed. Maybe there is a deeper reference here that in the wake of these extraordinary happenings will come a general spiritual awakening, as if God had revealed to the earth itself.

b (8) People will be shown their works in the Resurrection by being made to taste of their fruits, but they can also see the good or evil of their works in this life. Good and evil, when practised on a large scale, bring their reward or requital in this life as well. Note that the words here are whoever does, and thus include both the Muslim and the non-Muslim. Even a non-Muslim who does an atom's weight of good will have its reward, and a Muslim who does an atom's weight of evil will be requited for it.

Chapter 100

Al-‘Ādiyāt

The Assaulters

This chapter receives its title from the prophetic mention of The Assaulters in the first verse, showing that some of the great disasters spoken of in the last chapter were to be brought about by means of war. This proved true not only in the time of the Holy Prophet but in modern times too the unprecedented wars may be a precursor of a great spiritual awakening, as they were in Arabia of his time. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By those running and uttering cries! 2And those producing fire, striking! 3And those suddenly attacking at dawn! 4Then thereby they raise dust, 5then penetrate thereby gatherings — 6Surely man is ungrateful to his Lord.^a 7And surely he is a witness of that. 8And truly on account of the love of wealth he is miserly. 9Does he not know (that) when those in the graves are raised, 10and what is in the hearts is made manifest, 11surely their Lord this day is Aware of them?^b a (6) The majority of the commentators interpret verses 1–5 as applying to horses, in reference to the part they play in war. In this case it would be a prophetic description of the wars through which the opponents, who wanted to destroy Truth by the sword, were ultimately to be brought low. The words are so wide that they may also apply to modern means of warfare, particularly air attacks. Others understand that these are groups of spiritual wayfarers, who run fast in the way of God. Man’s ungratefulness to his Lord and his excessive love of wealth is the real theme in all cases. He sees only the material side of life and does not pay heed to its spiritual values. The balance of life is thus upset. Disasters come and he is violently shaken so that his eyes may be opened to the real values of life.

b (11) A day will come, we are told, when those in the graves — the dead — will be raised to life and what is hidden in the hearts — the deeds which man did, hiding them from the eyes of others — will be made manifest. God is Aware even now, but as in nature, the consequences are made manifest in due time. They may not be as clear here as they will be at the Resurrection, when the sight will be sharpened (50:22), but sometimes they are made manifest here, too.

Al-Qāri‘ah

The Calamity

The repelling Calamity of this chapter, which gives it its title, is the same as the shaking of ch. 99. The date of revelation is also about the same.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 The calamity! 2What is the calamity? 3And what will make you know how terrible is the calamity?^a 4The day when people will be as scattered moths, 5and the mountains will be as flakes of wool.^b 6Then as for him whose good deeds are heavy, 7he will live a pleasant life. 8And as for him whose good deeds are light, 9the abyss is a mother to him.^c 10And what will make you know what that is? 11A burning Fire.

a (3) Al-Qāri‘ah signifies a very great calamity, and the word occurs without al (“the”) in 13:31: “And as for those who disbelieve, disaster (qāri‘ah) will not cease to afflict them ... until the promise of Allah come to pass”. This shows that the word signifies one of those great calamities which befell the Quraish from time to time, and al is added to indicate that it is the promised calamity. In 69:4, al-qāri‘ah signifies the great calamity which destroys a nation, i.e., their doom. Al-qāri‘ah is also a name of the day of Resurrection or of the great Calamity which will destroy this earth, after which comes the Resurrection.

b (5) This description may also apply to the doom of the opponents of Truth.

c (9) A place of habitation or abode is also called umm (“mother”), because it grants protection to a person, as does the mother to a babe. The abyss, or hell, is here called a mother to indicate that man’s connection with hell is similar to that of a baby with its mother, namely, that his abode there fits him for progress in the spiritual world — he being brought up, as it were, in the bosom of hell, as a child is brought up in the bosom of its mother, and that his stay in hell is only for a time, as the child draws nourishment from his mother only for a time.

Chapter 102

Al-Takāthur The Abundance of Wealth

This chapter, which takes its title from the word Abundance in the first verse, stresses that vying with one another for wealth keeps people away from the real aim of life, and to make them realize that disasters are brought upon them to divest them of material comforts. Thus the subject-matter is connected with the previous chapters. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Abundance diverts you, ²until you come to the graves.^a ³No indeed, you will soon know; ⁴again, no indeed, you will soon know! ⁵No indeed, if only you knew with a certain knowledge!^b ⁶You will certainly see hell; ⁷then you will see it with certainty of sight; ⁸then on that day you shall certainly be questioned about the blessings (that you wasted).^c a (2) Coming to the graves stands for death. The significance therefore is that vying with one another in increase of wealth diverts a man from the real object of life until he meets death.

b (5) When a person dies, he then comes to know that the acquisition of wealth was in no way the real object of his life. But if he had proceeded on the basis of certain knowledge, he could have seen this in this very life.

c (8) Verses 5–8 are considered as disclosing three degrees of certainty — certainty by inference, certainty by sight and certainty by realization. A person can by inference attain to a certainty of the existence of hell in this very life (verses 5 and 6); after his death he will see hell with his own eyes (v. 7); but a perfect manifestation of it will be realized by him on the day of Resurrection (v. 8). Being questioned about the blessings implies tasting of the punishment for failing to make right use of what was granted to man. But the words may also be taken as applying to this life. By pondering on the very nature of evil a man can become certain of hell, this being the certainty by inference. Then he can acquire a certain knowledge by sight, by seeing the fate of others. Lastly, he is made to realize it by disasters being brought upon himself.

Al-‘Aşr

Time

As compared to those spoken of in the last chapter, this chapter draws attention to the testimony of Time in showing that those alone prosper who accept the Truth and exhort others to it. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 By the time! — 2Surely man is in loss, 3except those who believe and do good, and exhort one another to Truth, and exhort one another to patience.^a a (3) The testimony of time is threefold: the flight of time affords the testimony that it is only those who do not waste the opportunity of doing good that reap the benefit; the light which shines along the path of bygone ages shows us that those who did good and enjoined good on others prospered, while the evildoers were brought to naught; lastly, the time of the Holy Prophet afforded the clearest and most conclusive evidence that the believers and doers of good were successful, while their opponents sustained evident loss.

‘Aşr signifies time or succession of ages. Some, however, understand by al-‘aşr the time of the Holy Prophet. In fact, both significances hold good. While taking time in a general sense, it is true that every person who is not engaged in doing some permanent and lasting good is really losing every minute that passes away; the time of the Holy Prophet in which a great spiritual resurrection was brought about affords the clearest evidence that those who did not respond to the Prophet’s call were the losers, while the faithful brought about a revolution in the whole world by exhorting goodness and patience on others. The enjoining of patience on each other follows the direction to enjoin Truth, because the preaching of Truth brings man face to face with difficulties, and unless he is patient and forbearing under hardships, he cannot adhere to the Truth.

Al-Humazah

The Slanderer

As opposed to those spoken of in the last chapter, we have here a description of those whose aim is to amass wealth instead of doing good and who slander others instead of enjoining truth; hence the title The Slanderer from the first verse. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Woe to every slanderer, defamer,^a 2who amasses wealth and counts it^b — 3he thinks that his wealth will make him abide forever.^c 4No indeed! He will certainly be hurled into the crushing disaster;^d 5and what will make you realize what the crushing disaster is? 6It is the Fire kindled by Allah, 7which rises over the hearts.^e 8Surely it is closed in on them, 9in extended columns.^f a (1) The slanderers and defamers are condemned here generally, with particular reference to the opponents who started their persecution of the Holy Prophet by bitterly slandering and defaming him, so that the pilgrims coming to Makkah from afar should not listen to his teachings. Just as goodness and patience are combined in the previous chapter as the two qualities which are the foundations on which human character should be built, the amassing of wealth and defaming are combined here as the two evils which lead ultimately to disaster.

b (2) It is a succinct but exact picture of the material civilization of our day.

c (3) By abiding is meant abiding in prosperity, or lasting forever.

d (4) The name Al-huṭamah (“crushing disaster”) is applied to hell, because it crushes everything that is cast into it. It includes both hell and other disasters which, it is prophesied, would crush the wealthy defamers of the Truth, their punishment being called by this name because they wanted to crush the Truth.

e (7) The Fire of hell is described as rising over the hearts, showing that it is within the heart of man that the origin of hell-fire lies. A man’s hell is thus within his own heart in this life.

f (9) It is inordinate desires extending beyond all limits that give rise to extended columns of fire. Spiritually they may be witnessed in this life, but they assume a palpable shape in the next.

Chapter 105

Al-Fīl

The Elephant

This chapter is entitled The Elephant due to the presence of one or more elephants in the army of the King of Yaman which invaded Makkah, in the year of the birth of the Holy Prophet, with the object of destroying the Ka‘bah. The army met with a crushing disaster, of the kind mentioned in the last chapter. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Have you not seen how your Lord dealt with the possessors of the elephant?^a 2Did He not cause their war to end in confusion? 3And send against them birds in flocks, 4casting at them decreed stones, 5so He rendered them like straw eaten up?^b a (1) The reference is to the memorable invasion of Makkah by Abrahah, the Christian governor in Yaman of the King of Abyssinia. Abrahah’s object was to destroy the Ka‘bah so as to divert Arab religious enthusiasm and Arab trade to Sana, where he had built a magnificent cathedral for the purpose. This army is known in Arabia as the aṣḥāb al-Fīl, or the possessors of the Elephant, because of the presence in it of one or more elephants. The year in which the invasion took place is known as the year of the Elephant, being 570 C.E., the year also of the Holy Prophet’s birth. Unable to defend the Holy House against the huge army, Abdul Muttalib, the Holy Prophet’s grandfather, thus prayed aloud, leaning upon the door of the Ka‘bah: “Defend, O Lord, Your own House! and let not the Cross to triumph over the Ka‘bah”. Then the whole population of Makkah took to the hills around the Holy City. Meanwhile a virulent form of small-pox, or some other pestilence, broke out in Abrahah’s army with such severity that the army retreated in confusion and dismay, many of them, being unable to find their way back, perishing in the valleys, while a part was swept away by floods.

There seems to be also an allusion to the circumstance that, in protecting the Ka‘bah against an enemy, though idols were worshipped there at the time, Almighty God had shown a purpose in its preservation. The coincidence of this year with the year of the Holy Prophet’s birth no doubt furnishes the key to that purpose, because the Arabs not only knew that the Sacred House had Abraham’s blessing, but also that Abraham had prayed for the appearance of a prophet from among them who should purify the House. The mention of the incident thus conveyed a warning to the Quraish that, if the Lord had destroyed an army on account of its intention to demolish His Sacred House, would He leave those alone who wanted to destroy His Prophet?

b (5) There is no authentic hadith as to how Abrahah's army was destroyed. There are reports that everyone at whom a stone was flung was affected with smallpox. Thus it was a virulent smallpox that broke out in the invading army while yet a little distance from Makkah, and the result was that Abrahah himself being affected with the pestilence, the whole army fled in a state of confusion, leaving the corpses of the dead for the birds to feast on. The words of v. 4 may mean the birds cast at them stones or flung them against stones, the reference in the latter case being to the birds tearing off flesh from their bodies. For birds as indicating the destruction of an enemy, see 16:79 footnote.

Al-Quraish

The Quraish

This chapter continues the subject-matter of the last, reminding the Quraish of the great benefits conferred on them because of their guardianship of the Ka‘bah. The date of revelation is also the same.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 For the protection of the Quraish ^a — ²their protection during their journey in the winter and the summer.^b ³So let them serve the Lord of this House, ⁴Who feeds them against hunger, and gives them security against fear.^c a (1) The Quraish, the tribe to which the Prophet Muhammad belonged, were settled at Makkah and had charge of the Sacred House, to which pilgrims resorted from all parts of Arabia, and therefore, being guardians of the Holy House, they enjoyed special honour among the tribes of Arabia. Moreover Makkah had thus become the centre of Arabia, bringing prosperity to the Quraish.

Verse 1 is connected with the last chapter, the significance being that the Divine protection of the Ka‘bah and the destruction of its enemies was a special favour granted to the Quraish, for it led to their protection. Being guardians of the Ka‘bah, they were respected when they set out on their journeys, while within the sacred territory they enjoyed an unparalleled security.

b (2) The protection mentioned in the last note was of special use to them in their journeys northward to Syria and southward to Yaman, the former of which was undertaken in the summer and the latter in winter, to carry on their trade.

c (4) Feeding against hunger and granting security against fear were the two special favours conferred on the Quraish through the sacredness of the Ka‘bah, because the pilgrimage gave a special impetus to their trade and the necessities of life were brought to their very doors, while they were totally secure from all fear of attack, to which the other Arab tribes were constantly exposed.

Chapter 107

Al-Mā'ūn

Acts of Kindness

This chapter gives expression to the prominence which Islam accords to helping the needy and the poor. Those who neglect this are described as denying religion. Prayer is a mere show if it does not generate feelings of love and sympathy for humanity. Hence its title Acts of Kindness occurring in the last verse. It is one of the very early revelations at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Have you seen him who denies religion? ²That is the one who is rough to the orphan, ³and does not urge the feeding of the needy.^a

4 So woe to the praying ones, ⁵who are unmindful of their prayer,^b ⁶who do (good) to be seen, ⁷and refrain from acts of kindness!^c a (3) The word dīn in v. 1 is generally taken here as meaning judgment, but its more well-known significance, religion, is preferable. Not taking care of orphans and helping the needy is really a denial of religion. Verses 4–7 make it clear that praying to God is useless, a mere show, unless one is kind to orphans and helps the needy.

b (5) Being unmindful of prayer means not paying heed to the spirit of prayer, which is described in verses 2 and 3 as being the help of the orphan and the needy.

c (7) Al-Mā'ūn is explained by Bukhari as meaning every good or kind deed. And it is added that its highest form is the obligatory zakāt and the lowest is the lending of a thing or giving any useful thing to another (Bukhari, 65.107). It includes all acts of kindness done to others.

Chapter 108

Al-Kauthar The Abundance of Good

The abundance of wealth spoken of in ch. 102 leads man astray from the real purpose of life. This chapter deals with the Abundance of Good and the means to attain it. Those means are: prayer to God, which fills one with the noblest aspirations, and sacrifice, which means devoting one's life to the service of humanity. It is one of the earliest revelations at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Surely We have given you abundance of good.^a 2So pray to your Lord and sacrifice.^b 3Surely your enemy is cut off (from good).^c a (1) Al-kauthar means the abundance or the abundance of good. Here it means the abundance of good which God gave the Holy Prophet — he was promised the triumph of Islam over all religions, and granted help against his enemies and intercession for his community. In fact, he was granted so much of goodness of all kinds that it cannot be counted. From what is stated further on, it is clear that it is not the Holy Prophet alone who is promised this abundance of good but also every true follower of his who makes use of the means for the attainment of it, as described in the next verse.

b (2) Two ways to attain the abundance of good promised in v. 1 are: praying to God, and nahr or sacrifice, which means the devoting of one's life to the good of humanity. Prayer is communion with God which raises in a person's heart the highest aspirations and makes him drink deep at the fountain of Divine morals. If there is no aspiration for good, it is simply impossible to do good; hence prayer is mentioned first. And when these noble aspirations arise, man is told, if need be, to lay down his very life for the service of humanity, not of one group or one nation or one community. Although nahr stands for sacrificing an animal, the sacrifice of an animal itself stands for sacrifice of self (see 22:34).

c (3) The word abtar (cut off) conveys several significances. For instance, in want or poor, suffering loss, one from whom all good is cut off, having no offspring or progeny. All good is cut off from him because he walks contrary to the ways in which good can be attained. (Editor's Note: This verse also refuted the allegation of the opponents that, as the Holy Prophet had no male offspring, his name and mission would come to an end after him. This verse contains a prophecy that it is his enemies who would be cut off and leave no successors to continue their name or work.)

Al-Kāfirūn

The Disbelievers

The Disbelievers — hence the title — are told in this chapter that they shall be recompensed for their misdeeds, while the Holy Prophet and the faithful will reap the reward of their deeds. It belongs to the early period at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Say: O disbelievers, ²I do not serve what you serve, ³nor do you serve Him Whom I serve, ⁴nor shall I serve what you serve, ⁵nor do you serve Him Whom I serve. ⁶For you is your recompense and for me my recompense.^a a (6) Among the various significances of the word dīn is recompense or reward, and this is what is meant here, rather than religion. It is a prophecy that those who serve Allah will have a goodly reward from Him, while those who serve idols will not obtain any help from their false gods. The next chapter refers to the reward of the truthful, Divine help and victory, and people entering into Islam in companies, while the one following it shows that the recompense of the idol-worshippers is that their wealth and all their efforts will be entirely unavailing.

Those who think that these words indicate that the Holy Prophet had despaired of the disbelievers are mistaken. Not for a single moment did he cease to invite the disbelievers to accept Islam and to forsake the worship of idols.

Chapter 110

Al-Naşr

The Help

This chapter speaks of the great Divine Help and victory, mentioned in the first verse, which the Holy Prophet received in the cause of Truth. It is reported that this chapter was revealed during the last pilgrimage of the Holy Prophet and that he lived only eighty days after its revelation. Being revealed at Makkah during the Madinah period, it showed how those wonderful prophecies announced when the Holy Prophet was alone and helpless were now fulfilled by his visiting Makkah with the whole of Arabia accepting him.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 When Allah's help and victory comes,^a 2and you see people entering the religion of Allah in companies, 3celebrate the praise of your Lord and ask His protection.^b Surely He is ever Returning (to mercy).

a (1) The great victory which had come was the triumph of the religion of Islam in the whole of Arabia. Deputation after deputation from all parts of Arabia came to Madinah and accepted Islam. History does not present another example of the wonderful transformation wrought by the Holy Prophet within the short space of twenty years.

b (3) On witnessing the greatest triumph known to history, the Holy Prophet is told to celebrate the praise of his Lord, and to ask protection. For whom was protection to be asked? If it was for himself, it was a protection against elation at an unprecedented victory, because elation ill befitted a Teacher of righteousness. But more likely, he was required to ask protection for the masses which were now accepting Islam in companies. In fact he was required to ask Divine forgiveness or protection for his erstwhile oppressors, forgiveness for his deadly enemies, who were guilty of the gravest crimes.

Al-Lahab

The Flame

This chapter is entitled Lahab in reference to the fact that it shows that the opponents of Truth led their lives in heart-burning, or it may refer to the name of the Holy Prophet's uncle, Abdul Uzza, who was bitterly opposed to him, Abu Lahab being a title given to him, which occurs in the first verse. The chapter thus deals with the end of opposition to Truth. It is a revelation of the early period at Makkah.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Abu Lahab's hands will perish and he will perish.^a 2His wealth and what he earns will not avail him. 3He will burn in fire giving rise to flames^b — 4and his wife — the bearer of slander;^c 5upon her neck a halter of twisted rope!^d a (1) A man of a fiery temper may be called abū-lahab or father of flame. Abdul Uzza, a paternal uncle of the Holy Prophet, was known by this name, because of his ruddy complexion or his fiery temper. It is related that he followed the Prophet when he went out to preach, saying to people that the Prophet was a mad relative of his. His hands will perish means that all that he did in opposition to the Prophet will end in naught. It is said that he himself will perish. He is reported to have died seven days after hearing of the defeat of the Quraish at Badr.

b (3) He burned in fire in this very life because his life was a life of heart-burning, on account of his failure to check the advance of Truth. This fire gave rise to flames which burned others as well, including his own wife, who is spoken of in v. 4. There is also a reference to the palpable shape which this fire will take in the Hereafter.

c (4) The flames that sprang from the fire in which Abu Lahab lived enveloped his own wife, so that she also took part in the opposition to the Prophet. Her part in opposition is here described as being ḥammālat al-ḥaṭab, generally translated as bearer of fuel. It is thought that this refers to the thorny bushes which she brought from the wood to spread in the Prophet's way. But the words also mean bearer of slander, as she used to spread false reports against the Prophet (Bukhari, 65.111: 3).

d (5) She is said to have died by being strangled by the very rope in which she used to bring thorns. It is related that she was a wealthy woman who possessed a necklace of jewellery. Maybe the twisted rope is a reference to her jewellery, as a jewelled necklace is as worthless in the eye of God as a rope.

Chapter 112

Al-Ikhlās

The Unity

This is really the concluding chapter of the Holy Quran, the two following chapters only showing how the protection of the Lord is to be sought. It gives the sum and substance of the teachings of the Quran, which is the declaration of the Unity of God. Ikhlās means purification from dross and this chapter is so-called because it purifies the Unity of God of all dross of polytheism. It is one of the earliest revelations.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Say: He, Allah, is One. ²Allah is He on Whom all depend. ³He has no offspring, nor is He born (of anyone); ⁴and none is like Him.^a a (4) This, a very early revelation, points out the fundamental errors of many religions, including Christianity, in its four short sentences. The first verse proclaims the absolute Unity of the Divine Being, and deals a death-blow to all forms of polytheism, including the doctrine of the Trinity.

In v. 2 Allah is said to be Ṣamad, which the Holy Prophet is reported to have explained as meaning the Lord to Whom recourse is had in every need, so that all have need of Him and He has need of none. This statement negatives the doctrine according to which soul and matter are co-eternal with God and God stands in need of them to bring about creation. The doctrine prevails in India, and could not have been known to the Holy Prophet.

V. 3 points out the error of those religions which describe God as being father or son, such as the Christian religion.

V. 4 negatives such doctrines as the doctrine of incarnation, according to which a mere human being is likened to God.

Thus four kinds of corruption of the belief in the oneness of God are rejected here: a belief in the plurality of gods (v. 1), a belief that other things possess the perfect attributes of the Divine Being (v. 2), a belief that God is either a father or a son (v. 3), and a belief that others can do that which is ascribable only to God (v. 4).

Chapter 113

Al-Falaq

The Dawn

This chapter and the following one teach how to seek refuge in God and ask for His protection. Both these chapters were revealed most probably in the early period at Makkah. It is called The Dawn from the word occurring in the first verse, showing that Truth would ultimately dispel all darkness.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Say: I seek refuge in the Lord of the dawn,^a 2from the evil of what He has created,^b 3and from the evil of intense darkness,^c when it comes, 4and from the evil of those who cast (evil suggestions) in firm resolutions,^d 5and from the evil of the envier when he envies.^e a (1) The reference in the Lord of the dawn is to the gradual manifestation of the Truth and its ultimate triumph.

b (2) Editor's Note: Anything which God has created can cause harm if it is used in an incorrect way, without the light of knowledge.

c (3) This signifies darkness in which there is no ray of light, and stands for the dark difficulties with which an affair is sometimes attended — difficulties through which a person is unable to see his way. Man is, therefore, here taught to pray that his affairs may not be enveloped in utter darkness.

d (4) These words indicate those who put evil suggestions into the resolution of people or into the management of their affairs. This verse deals with the second difficulty in the management of an affair. The first difficulty is its being enveloped in utter gloom (v. 3); the second is that darkness is dispelled, but the resolution to accomplish the affair is yet weak. (Editor's Note: The view that this verse refers to witches, who had once cast a spell on the Holy Prophet by “blowing on knots”, is entirely baseless and contrary to the teachings of the Quran.)

e (5) This is the third difficulty. Success is now in sight, but there are those who envy that success. Therefore, Divine protection has still to be sought when a person is successful in accomplishing an affair.

Note that the Prophet, who was charged with the heavy task of establishing truth in the world and making it triumphant over falsehood, had to face all these difficulties, and his faithful followers, whose goal of life is the same as that of the Prophet, stand most in need of resorting to this prayer with which the Quran draws to a close.

Chapter 114

Al-Nās

Mankind

See the introductory note on the last chapter. The name of this chapter is taken from the word occurring in it describing God as the Lord, King and God of mankind, meaning that He is their Nourisher to perfection, Controller of their affairs and Controller of their hearts.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.

1 Say: I seek refuge in the Lord of mankind, 2the King of mankind, 3the God of mankind, 4from the evil of the whisperings of the sneaking (devil), 5who whispers into the hearts of people, 6(and is) from among the jinn and mankind.^a a (6) These verses are a complement to the previous chapter. Three kinds of mischief are pointed out there which may be done to the cause of Truth. Here a fourth, but the gravest mischief of all, is pointed out, that of the sneaking devil, who comes stealthily and casts evil suggestions into the hearts of people. The whispering of the evil one is the greatest mischief because its source is in the hearts of people (v. 5). Al-khannās (v. 4) is the devil because he retires or shrinks or hides himself.

Man is here taught to seek refuge in God Who is, in the first place, the Rabb of mankind, i.e., its Nourisher by degrees to Perfection; secondly, He is the Malik or King of mankind, i.e., holds control over them, so far as the physical laws of nature are concerned; thirdly, He is the Ilāh of mankind, Who alone deserves to be worshipped and before Whom the whole of mankind must ultimately bow. In other words, the protection of God is sought because He is the Nourisher Who brings to perfection, and He holds control over Matter as well as Mind. The Divine purpose is thus again disclosed at the end, as it is disclosed in the very beginning (1:1) of the Holy Quran. It is to bring mankind to perfection. Nothing in this world can frustrate this purpose, as God holds control over matter as well as mind.

Index

Explanation: In references to verses, the number before a colon is the chapter number and the number following the colon is the verse number in that chapter. A footnote to a verse is referred to by placing n after the verse number; thus 2:51*n* refers to the footnote under 2:51. If a verse has more than one footnote, a figure is added after n, for example, n-1 or n-2, to identify the specific footnote. A slash before n (as in 2:260/n) indicates that both the verse (2:260) and the footnote (2:260*n*) should be consulted. A chapter number and colon may be followed by references to several verses and footnotes in that chapter; for example, 20:85*n*, 90*n*, 95 refers to footnotes and verses in chapter 20. The introductory note to a chapter is indicated by a reference such as “ch. 19 intro.” To refer to a page number, p. is inserted before the number, as in: p. 1-21. The reader’s attention is drawn to the following headings of this Index in which reference is made to certain important subjects as dealt with in the Holy Quran: Allah, Civic Life, Human Soul, Intellectual Development, Knowledge, Man, Morals, Muhammad, Muslims, Nature, Prayer, Quran, Revelation, Science, State Polity and Women.

Maulana Muhammad Ali (d. 1951, Pakistan) is the world-famous author of several highly-acclaimed books on Islam, including his English translation of the Holy Quran with detailed commentary.

Born in 1874 in the Punjab (India), Maulana Muhammad Ali had a distinguished educational record, obtaining excellent degrees in English and Law by the year 1899. Through his interest in religion, he joined the Ahmadiyya Movement in 1897. As he was about to embark on a lucrative career in law, he was called upon by the Founder of the Ahmadiyya Movement, Hazrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad (d. 1908), to devote his life for the service of Islam. He forthwith went to join the Founder in Qadian and began his literary work under the Founder's guidance. He was appointed the first editor of the Review of Religions, an English monthly, which was started by the Founder to present the true picture of Islam to the English-reading public all over the world. During this period, in 1909, he began work on his translation of the Quran, which was published in 1917.

In 1914, when an internal danger arose within the Ahmadiyya Movement attempting to alter its true character, Maulana Muhammad Ali left Qadian and, along with other leading figures in the Movement, founded the Ahmadiyya Anjuman Isha'at Islam in Lahore, a Muslim missionary and literary organisation, to preserve the real mission, beliefs and ideals of the Founder of the Movement.

From then till his death in 1951, Maulana Muhammad Ali led this Association, directed its missionary activities, and produced a vast amount of invaluable, scholarly literature on Islam. His books have influenced millions of people all over the world towards a favourable view of Islam, and have earned the highest tributes. (See a list of his major books given opposite the title page of this book.) His last work was a thorough revision of his translation and commentary of the Quran in the late 1940s, the revised edition being first published in 1951.
